GENERAL PREFACE TO THE NEW TRANSLATION.

THIS WORK, in its present form, is not to be considered as intended to come into competition with the ordinary use of the commonly received English Version of the Holy Scriptures, but simply as a strictly "literal and idiomatic" rendering of the Original Hebrew and Greek Texts. For about twenty years—fully half his life-time—the Translator has had a desire to execute such a work, and has been engaged in Biblical pursuits tending to this end more or less exclusively; and now, at last, in the good providence of God, the desire has been accomplished. How far he has been able to carry out the just principles of Biblical Translation, founded on a solid and immovable foundation, time alone will tell, and for this he confidently waits. As these principles are to some extent new, and adhered to with a severity never hitherto attempted, and as the Translator has perfect confidence in their accuracy and simplicity, he proceeds at once to state them distinctly and broadly, that not merely the "learned," but the "wayfaring man" need not err in appreciating their value.

There are two modes of translation which may be adopted in rendering into our own language the writings of an ancient author: the one is, to bring him before us in such a manner as that we may regard him as our own; the other, to transport ourselves, on the contrary, over to him, adopting his situation, modes of speaking, thinking, acting—peculiarities of age and race, air, gesture, voice, &c. Each of these plans has its advantages, but the latter is incomparably the better of the two, being suited—not for the ever-varying modes of thinking and acting of the men of the fifth, or the tenth, or the fifteenth, or some other century, but—for all ages alike. All attempts to make Moses or Paul act, or speak, or reason, as if they were Englishmen of the nineteenth century, must inevitably tend to change the translator into a paraphrast or a commentator, characters which, however useful, stand altogether apart from that of him, who, with a work before him in one language, seeks only to transfer it into another.

In prosecuting the plan thus adopted, a literal translation was indispensable. No other kind of rendering could place the reader in the position contemplated, side by side with the writer: prepared to think as he does, to see as he sees, to reason, to feel, to weep, and to exult along with him. His very conception of time, even in the minor accidents of the grammatical past, present, future, are to become our own. If he speaks of an event as now passing, we are not, on the logical ground of its having in reality already transpired, to translate his present as if it were a past; or if, on the other hand, his imagination pictures the future as if even at this moment present, we are not translators but expounders, and that of a tame description, if we take the liberty to convert his time, and tense—the grammatical expression of his time—into our own. King James' translators were almost entirely unacquainted with the two distinctive peculiarities of the Hebrew mode of thinking and speaking, admitted by the most profound Hebrew scholars in theory, though, from undue timidity, never carried out in practice, viz. :—

I. That the Hebrews were in the habit of using the past tense to express the certainty of an action taking place, even though the action might not really be performed for some time. And

II. That the Hebrews, in referring to events which might be either past or future, were accustomed to act on the principle of transferring themselves mentally to the period and place of the events themselves, and were not content with coldly viewing them as those of a bygone or still coming time: hence the very frequent use of the present tense.

These two great principles of the Hebrew language are substantially to be found in the works of Lee, Gesenius, Ewald, &c.; but the present writer has carried them out in translation much beyond what any of these ever contemplated, on the simple ground that, if they are true, they ought to be gone through with. While they affect very considerably the outward form of the translation, it is a matter of thankfulness that they do not touch the truth of a single Scripture doctrine—NOT EVEN ONE.

Every effort has been made to secure a comparative degree of uniformity in rendering the original words and phrases. Thus, for example, the Hebrew verb נָתַן, nathan, which is rendered by King James' translators in sixty-seven different ways (see in the subsequent page, entitled 'Lax Renderings,') has been restricted and reduced to ten, and so with many others. It is the Translator's ever-growing conviction, that even this smaller number may be reduced still further.

It has been no part of the Translator's plan to attempt to form a New Hebrew or Greek Text—he has therefore somewhat rigidly adhered to the received ones. Where he has differed, it is generally in reference to the punctuation and accentuation, the division of words and sentences, which, being merely traditional, are, of course, often imperfect. For an explanation and vindication of these differences, the reader is referred to the "Pocket Commentary," which is designed to supplement the present volume.

The Translator has often had occasion to regret the want of a marginal column to insert the various renderings of passages where he has been unable to satisfy his own mind—he has, however, cast the chief of these into an appendix, under the title, "Additions and Corrections," and still more elaborately in the supplementary volume.

EDINBURGH, 10th Sept. 1862.

STYLE OF THE SACRED WRITERS, AND OF THIS TRANSLATION.

ONE of the first things which is likely to attract the attention of the Readers of this New Translation is its lively, picturesque, dramatic style, by which the inimitable beauty of the Original Text is more vividly brought out than by any previous Translation. It is true that the Revisers appointed by King James have occasionally imitated it, but only in a few familiar phrases and colloquialisms, chiefly in the Gospel Narrative, and without having any settled principles of translation to guide them on the point. The exact force of the Hebrew tenses has long been a vexed question with critics; but the time cannot be far distant when the general principles of the late learned Professor Samuel Lee of Cambridge, with some modification, will be generally adopted in substance, if not in theory. It would be entirely out of place here to enter into details on this important subject, but a very few remarks appear necessary, and may not be unacceptable to the student.

I. It would appear that the Hebrew writers, when narrating or describing events which might be either past or future (such as the case of Moses in reference to the Creation or the Deluge, on the one hand, and to the Coming of the Messiah or the Calamities which were to befall Israel, on the other), uniformly wrote as if they were alive at the time of the occurrence of the events mentioned, and as eye-witnesses of what they are narrating.

It would be needless to refer to special passages in elucidation or vindication of this principle essential to the proper understanding of the Sacred Text, as every page of this Translation affords abundant examples. It is only what common country people do in this land at the present day, and what not a few of the most popular writers in England aim at and accomplish—placing themselves and their readers in the times and places of the circumstances related.

This principle of translation has long been admitted by the best Biblical expositors in reference to the Prophetic Delineation of Gospel times, but it is equally applicable and necessary to the historical narratives of Genesis, Ruth, &c.

II. The Hebrew writers often express the certainty of a thing taking place by putting it in the past tense, though the actual fulfilment may not take place for ages. This is easily understood and appreciated when the language is used by God, as when He says, in Gen. xv. 18, "Unto thy seed have I given this land;" and in xvii. 4, "I, lo, My covenant is with thee, and thou hast become a father of a multitude of nations."

The same thing is found in Gen. xlii. 11, where Ephron answers Abraham: "Nay, my lord, hear me; the field I have given to thee, and the cave which is in it; to thee have I given it; before the eyes of the children of my people have I given it to thee; bury thy dead." And again in Abraham's answer to Ephron: "Only—if thou wouldst hear me—I have given the money of the field; accept from me, and I bury my dead there." Again in 2 Kings v. 8, the king of Syria, writing to the king of Israel, says: "Lo, I have sent unto thee Naaman, my servant, and thou hast recovered him from his leprosy,"—considering the king of Israel as his servant, a mere expression of the master's purpose is sufficient. In Jud. 8. 19, Gideon says to Zebah and Zalmunnah, "If ye had kept them alive, I had not slain you." So in Deu. 31. 18, "For all the evils which they have done"—shall have done.

It would be easy to multiply examples, but the above may suffice for the present. Some of these forms of expression are preceded by the conjunction "and" (waw in the Hebrew), and a very common opinion has been that the conjunction in these cases has a concessive power, and that the verb is not to be translated past (though so in grammatical form), but future. This is, of course, only an evasion of the supposed difficulty, not a solution, and requires to be supported by the equally untenable hypothesis that a (so-called) future tense, when preceded by the same conjunction waw ("and"), often becomes a past. Notwithstanding these two converting hypotheses, there are numerous passages which have no conjunction before them, which can only be explained by the principle stated above.

III. The Hebrew writers are accustomed to express laws, commands, &c., in four ways:

1st, By the regular imperative form, e.g., "Speak unto the people."

2d, By the infinitive, "Every male of you is to be circumcised."

3d, By the (so-called) future, "Let there be light;" "Thou shalt do no murder;" "Six days is work done."

4th, By the past tense, "Speak unto the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them."

There can be no good reason why these several peculiarities should not be exhibited in the translation of the Bible, or that they should be confounded, as they often are, in the Common Version. In common life among ourselves, these forms of expression are frequently used for imperatives, e.g., "Go and do this,"—"This is to be done first,"—"You shall go,"—"You go and finish it." There are few languages which afford such opportunities of a literal and idiomatic rendering of the Sacred Scriptures as the English tongue, and the present attempt will be found, it is believed, to exhibit this more than any other Translation.

The three preceding particulars embrace all that appears necessary for the Reader to bear in mind in reference to the Style of the New Translation. In the Supplementary "Pocket Commentary," which (D.V.) it is intended to issue in due course of time, abundant proofs and illustrations will be found adduced at length.

THE BATTLE OF THE TENSES.

THE uncertain state of Hebrew criticism in reference to the Tenses is so fully exhibited in the following extracts from one of the latest and, in some respects, one of the best grammatical Commentaries (by the Rev. J. A. Alexander, of Princeton, New Jersey), on the Book of Isaiah, that the reader's attention to them is specially requested.

On Isa. 5. 13, Prof. A. remarks: 'Luther, Gesenius, and Hendewerk take [the verb] as a future, which is not to be assumed without necessity. Most recent writers evade the difficulty by rendering it in the present tense. The only natural construction is the old one (Septuagint, Vulgate, Vitranga, Barnes), which gives the preterite its proper meaning, and either supposes the future to be here, AS OFTEN ELSEWHERE, spoken of as already past,' &c. [This principle, though admitted and maintained by Gesenius, Lee, &c., has never been acted upon, to any extent, by any translator till the present. It is the only principle, however, which can carry us through every difficulty.]

On chap. 6. 25, 'The future form given to the verbs by Clericus is altogether arbitrary. Most of the later writers follow Luther in translating them as *present*s. But, if this verse is not descriptive of the past, as distinguished from the present and the future, the Hebrew language is incapable of making any such distinction.' [Let this principle be carried out, as it ought to be, and nine-tenths of the common critical works on the Bible are rendered perfectly useless, and positively injurious.]

On chap. 5. 26, 'Hiero. as in v. 25, the older writers understand the verbs as future, but the later ones as present. The verbs in the last clause have Waw prefixed, but its conversive power commonly depends upon a future verb preceding, which is wanting here,' [and so it is in dozens of places where Prof. A. follows in the usual wake of critics.]

On chap. 6. 27, 'The English Version follows Calvin in translating all the verbs as future. The Vulgate supplies the present in the first clause, and makes the others future. But, as the whole is evidently one description, the translation should be uniform, and as the preterite and future forms are intermingled, both SEEM to be here used for the present, which is given by Luther, and most of the late writers.' [Here, leaving all certainty and settled principles behind him, Prof. A. tells us how he thinks the inspired writer ought to have written, not what he did write.]

On chap. 8. 2, 'The Vulgate takes the verb as a preterite, and Gesenius, Maurer, Knobel read accordingly with Waw conversive. The Septuagint, Targum, and Peshito make it imperative, and Hitzig accordingly. Gesenius formerly preferred an indirect or subjunctive construction, which is still retained by Henderson.' [Here are four ancient versions and five modern critics at five and sixes regarding what is as simple as can well be imagined.]

On chap. 9. 7, 'Another false antithesis is that between the verbs, referring one to past time, and the other to the future. This is adopted even by Ewald, but according to the usage of the language [rather of modern Hebrew grammar], Waw is conversive of the preterite only when preceded by a future, expressed or implied (!) [By this very extraordinary rule the critic can never have any difficulty, for it is very easy to consider a verbal form implied when it suits his convenience! Yet this egregious absurdity is very commonly adopted in all existing translations, including the Common English Version; e.g., Gen. 9. 12-14, where the Hebrew text has four verbs all in the past tense, yet the first is translated as a present ('I do set'), and the remaining three as futures! The first verb is undoubtedly in the past, 'I have set,' the other three as undoubtedly, seeing the Waw by which they are preceded cannot be conversive, except when preceded by a future or an imperative, neither of which occur in this place. The solution of the supposed difficulty is only to be found in the principle stated above by Prof. A., and which is the basis of the New Translation, and maintained by Gesenius and Lee, that the Hebrews were in the habit of using the past to denote the certainty of an event taking place.]

On chap. 9. 19, 'Ewald refers the first clause to the past, and the second to the present. Unbreit refers the first to the present, and the second to the future. But the very intermingling of the past and the future forms shows that the whole was meant to be descriptive.' [Would they not be descriptive had they been all past, or all present, or all future?]

On chap. 10. 14, 'The present form, which Hendewerk adopts throughout the verses, is equally grammatical'—[though the first verb is a present, and the second a perfect!]

On chap. 14. 24, 'Kimchi explains [the verb] to be a preterite used for a future, and this construction is adopted in most versions, ancient and modern. It is, however, altogether arbitrary, and in violation of the only safe rule as to the use of the tenses, viz., that they should have their proper and distinctive force, unless forbidden by the context or the nature of the subject, which is very far from being the case here, as we shall see below. Gesenius and De Wette evade the difficulty by rendering both the verbs as *present*s, a construction which is often admissible, and even necessary (!) in a descriptive context, but when used indiscriminately or inappropriately, tends both to weaken and obscure the sense. Ewald and Unbreit make the first verb present, and the second future, which is scarcely, if at all, less objectionable.'

The above extracts are surely sufficient to show that Hebrew criticism, as hitherto taught, is capable of being used to any purpose, or moulded to any form the Critic may wish. Such a state of things surely cannot continue any longer, or be adopted by any one who regards simplicity more than ingenious guesses, truth more than tradition.

IS "WAW CONVERSIVE" A FACT OR A FICTION?

THE doctrine of "Waw Conversive," according to the common Hebrew Grammar, is:—
 "The past tense, with the prefix Waw, expresses future time when preceded by a verb in the future or by an imperative." And again:—
 "The future tense, with the prefix Waw, and Dagesh in the following letter, is used to express the past."

The objections to this doctrine may be summed up in four particulars:—

I. It is insufficient to explain the many thousands of passages in the Hebrew Bible where a past tense is preceded neither by a future nor by an imperative, yet where it is "converted" in the Common English Bible, and with as much propriety as in any of those instances which are supposed to be indisputable: e.g.—

Gen. 9. 12, "This (is) the token of the covenant which I am making between Me and you . . . my bow I have set in the cloud, and it hath become the token of the covenant . . . and it hath come to pass . . . that it hath been seen . . . and I have remembered . . . and the waters do no more," &c.

Gen. 17. 4, "Lo, My covenant (is) with thee, and thou hast become the father of a multitude of nations."

The true solution of the principle involved in these passages is: That the Hebrews were in the habit of expressing the certainty of an action taking place by putting it in the past tense (see particularly Gen. 23. 11, "I have given . . . I have given . . . I have given"; also in verse 13, "I have given"), taking its fulfilment for granted.

II. It leads to results rather startling: viz., that most, if not all, of the Hebrew particles are conversive. Grammarians have already been driven to admit, or rather assert, that az, then, and terem, not yet, are conversive as well as waw.

But the list might be enlarged with such as the following:—

- 1 Kings 10. 22—ahath, once . . . "once in three years cometh."
- Num. 3. 23—ahari, behind . . . "behind they do encamp westward."
- Gen. 6. 4—asher, when . . . "when they come in."
- Deut. 12. 30—aicah, how? . . . "how do they serve?"
- Eze. 21. 32—gam, also . . . "this also hath not been."
- 1 Sa. 21. 14—hinneh, lo . . . "lo, you see the man is mad."
- Exod. 1. 12—ken, so . . . "so they multiply."
- Gen. 32. 26—ki im, except . . . "except thou hast blessed me."
- 1 Sa. 21. 14—lamah, why? . . . "why do ye bring him unto me?"
- 19. 24—al ken, therefore . . . "therefore they say."
- Gen. 37. 12—ma, what? . . . "what dost thou seek?"
- 21. 7—mi, who? . . . "who hath said?"

This is only a small specimen of what might be adduced. It is not too much to say that the above twelve particles might be doubled, if not tripled, in number.

III. It requires us to admit that the form yiktol is essentially a future tense, while, from the analogy of the Modern and Ancient Arabic, as well as from its use in the following passages (which might easily be multiplied), it is evidently an indefinite present, expressive of habitual action, which may very naturally be viewed as being or continuing in operation at some period afterwards as well as at present.

Gen. 2. 10—yippared, it is parted.

19—yikra, he calleth.

6. 4—yavou, they come in.

10. 9—yeannar, it is said.

31. 30—ahattenah, I repay it.

" —evakshenah, thou dost seek it.

1 Sa. 13. 17—yiphneh, he turneth.

14. 47—yiphneh, he turneth; yarshia, he vexeth.

21. 14—taviu, do ye bring; tiru, you see.

Isa. 1. 11—yomar, he saith.

Job 3. 11—amuth, do I die.

3—ivaled, I am born.

None of these passages can with any propriety be regarded as expressive of future action; and there seems no rational way of solving the problem but by regarding the tense as is done above.

IV. It is not found in any other language: and in particular, it is unknown in all the cognate Semitic languages, viz., the Samaritan, Chaldean, Syriac, Arabic, and Ethiopic. Attempts have been made to find something like it in the use of the Arabic particle pha, but, as Professor Samuel Lee has well remarked (in his Hebrew Grammar and Lexicon), the same thing might be alleged of most other Arabic particles, such as la, no, lam, not, lamna, why, summa, then, &c., which no one has ever as yet thought of doing.

The Arabs, in order to lessen the occasional ambiguity arising from the same form of the verb being used indifferently for the present and the future, sometimes prefix to it the particle sa (a contraction of soufa, at last, hereafter), which makes it strictly future, and sometimes the word ammal (an agent), which makes it strictly present.

אברם, והיה שמך אברהם, כי אב המון נשים נתתיך:

Common Version: "As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou SHALT be a father of many nations; neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be Abraham, for a father of many nations HAVE I made thee."

New Version: "I—lo, My covenant is with thee, and thou HAST become a father of a multitude of nations, and thy name is no more called Abram, but thy name hath been Abraham, for a father of a multitude of nations HAVE I made thee."—Gen. 17. 4, 5.

It is the first and the last of the verbs in the above verses to which the reader's attention is specially requested, viz., those translated in the Common Version, "Thou SHALT be," and "I HAVE made," and in the New Version, "Thou HAST become," and "I HAVE made."

Both versions agree in translating the last verb as a preterite, "I have made;" as the form of the verb is admitted on all hands to be that of a preterite.

The versions differ, however, in the translation of the first verb, the one rendering it by the future "shall," the other by the preterite "hast."

The question at issue is: Which of the two is right? both cannot be right—one must be wrong.

It is undoubtedly in the preterite form, precisely like the last verb in the sentence, admitted on all hands to be a preterite. Why then should this not be translated as a preterite likewise?

If it be said, that the sense requires it to be translated as a future, seeing it is not literally true that Abraham was a father of many nations at the moment that God addressed these words to him, then, on precisely the same principle, the last verb ought to be translated as a future, "I WILL make thee," (not "I HAVE made thee," as both versions agree in doing), as it is not literally true, that, at the moment when God thus addressed him, He had made him a father of many nations.

If no one will venture to translate the last verb as a future, why should the first be so rendered?

If it be said, that the first verb has a conjunction before it, called Waw, signifying "and," and that Hebrew Grammarians have laid it down as an idiom of the language, that, in certain circumstances, Waw before a preterite indicates that the preterite is to be reckoned as a future, the answer is: These circumstances do not exist in the present case.

The fundamental Rule laid down by all Hebrew Grammarians to regulate Waw Conversive, is: that the first verb to be converted must be preceded by one of a different tense, e.g., a preterite must be preceded by a future, and a future by a preterite.

But, in the passage before us, there is, in the Hebrew, NO VERB AT ALL preceding the one supposed to be converted, and consequently the Rule cannot operate.

ON NO PRINCIPLE OF HEBREW GRAMMAR, AS COMMONLY TAUGHT, can the Conversive Principle come into operation in this passage; and it is only one out of HUNDREDS OF SIMILAR INSTANCES.

The solution of the matter is found in the principle: That the Hebrews were in the habit of using the preterite form of the verb to denote a fixed determination that the things mentioned SHALL and MUST take place; this principle is common to all the Semitic languages; it is distinctly admitted by the best Hebrew Grammarians; it is common to the New Testament Writers, and to the whole series of Greek and Latin Classics, (see Winer, Stuart, Kühner, &c.) and it is the only one that meets all cases.

The Waw Conversive, on the contrary, is unknown in EVERY other Hebrew composition—in EVERY other Semitic dialect—in EVERY other language on earth.

VIEW OF HEBREW TENSES AS SEEN IN THE NEW TRANSLATION.

THE HEBREW has only two tenses, which, for want of better terms, may be called Past and Present.

The PAST is either perfect or imperfect, e.g., 'I lived in this house five years,' or 'I have lived in this house five years;' this distinction may and can only be known by the context, which must in all cases be viewed from the writer's standing-point.

In EVERY other instance of its occurrence, it points out either—

1) A GENTLE IMPERATIVE, e.g., 'Lo, I have sent unto thee Naaman my servant, and thou hast recovered him from his leprosy;' see also Zech. 1. 8, &c.; or

2) A FIXED DETERMINATION that a certain thing shall be done, e.g., 'Nay, my lord, hear me, the field I have given to thee, and the cave which is in it: to thee I have given it; before the eyes of the children of my people I have given it to thee: bury thy dead:' and in the answer, "Only—if thou wouldst hear me—I have given the money of the field."

The PRESENT tense, (as in the Modern Arabic, Syriac, and Amharic, the only living remains of the Semitic languages,) besides its proper use, is used rhetorically for the future, there being no grammatical form to distinguish them; this, however, causes no more difficulty than it does in English, Turkish, Greek, Sanscrit, &c., the usages of which may be seen in the accompanying extracts from the principal grammarians.

In EVERY other instance of its occurrence, it points out AN IMPERATIVE, not so gentle as when a preterite is used for this purpose, nor so stern as when the regular imperative form is employed, but more like the infinitive, Thou art to write no more; thou mayest write no more.

The present participle differs from the present tense just in the same manner and to the same extent as "I am writing, or I am a writer," does from, "I write, or I do write."

THE ABOVE VIEW of the Hebrew tenses is equally applicable to all the Semitic languages, including the Ancient and Modern Arabic, the Ancient and Modern Syriac, the Ancient and Modern Ethiopic, the Samaritan, the Chaldee, and the Rabbinical Hebrew—not one of which is admitted to have the Waw Conversive.

It may be added, that all the TEUTONIC languages—fourteen in number—agree with the SEMITIC in rejecting a future tense; the futurity of an event being indicated either by auxiliary verbs, adverbs, and other particles, or by the context.

Analysis of the Verbs in Genesis ix. 12-15.

12 "And God saith, 'This is the token of the covenant which I AM MAKING between Me and you, and every living creature which is with you, for everlasting generations; 13 My bow I HAVE given in the cloud, and it HATH become the token of a covenant between Me and the earth: 14 and it HATH come to pass, in MY SENDING a cloud over the earth, that the bow HATH been seen in the cloud, 15 and I HAVE remembered My covenant, which is between Me and you, and every living creature of all flesh; and the waters BECOME no more a deluge to destroy all flesh.'"

VERSE 12. And God saith. The present tense is used, according to the almost universal custom of the Hebrews, &c., to bring up the narrative to the present time. The conjunction and has no special or logical significance, but is used simply to break the abruptness of the opening sentence, as the Hebrews scarcely ever allow a verb in the present or past tense to commence a sentence, especially in prose, without some other word preceding it; the only other way would have been to put the nominative before the verb, but this, though occasionally used, is not agreeable to Hebrew taste.

This (is) the token. The Hebrew substantive verb is, in the present tense, very frequently omitted: in the past tense, it is very rarely, if ever, omitted.

Which I am making, lit. giving. The participle is more strikingly expressive of present action than if the present tense had been employed.

Which (is) with you. The present tense of the substantive verb is understood as above, according to the usus loquendi.

v. 13. My bow I have given in the cloud. The past tense here is used to express a fixed determination that the circumstance mentioned is undoubtedly to take place; most unwarrantably does the Common Version translate as a present, 'I do set;' while the theory of the Waw Conversive has no place here, since there is no Waw to work on.

And it hath become. The fixed determination is here continued from the preceding clause; on no grammatical principle can it be rendered present, much less future, as it is in the Common Version; the Waw here can have no converting power, there being no future preceding it to rest on, as the rules of Waw Conversive imperatively demand.

v. 14. It hath come to pass—the bow hath been seen—I have remembered—though rendered future in the Common Version, are all past, being preceded by pasts, and are to be explained by the same principle—of expressing the certainty of a future action by putting it in the past, owing to the determination of the speaker that it must be.

The only remaining verb in the 15th verse is correctly put in the present tense: the speaker, going forward in thought to the period when the events alluded to take place, declares graphically that 'the waters become no more a deluge to destroy all flesh.'

SUMMARY OF THE NEW VIEW OF THE HEBREW VERB.

From these pages the scholar can scarcely fail to infer that:—

I. The form of the Hebrew verb yiqtol, denotes a real present, and not a future:

- 1) Because it is admitted by Ewald, Gesenius, Lee, Rüdiger, and every other Hebrew Grammarian of name, that it is so in numberless places; and because there are thousands of instances where the Common English Version, and all other versions, ancient and modern, do rightly translate it as a present.
- 2) Because there are numerous passages where it cannot possibly be a future; and as it is impossible, in the very nature of things, for a real future to express present time, (whereas it is very common, in almost all languages, rhetorically to express futurity by a present), it must be a present, and not a future.
- 3) Because in all the Cognate Semitic languages it is regarded as a present.

II. The form of the Hebrew verb qatal, denotes a past (perfect or imperfect).

It is also used idiomatically:—

- 1) To express a gentle imperative; this is universally agreed by all Hebrew Grammarians to be the case when it is preceded by a regular imperative, e.g., "Speak and say," lit., Speak, and thou hast said; but this limitation of theirs arises from imperfect acquaintance with the facts of the case, as there are many passages where there is no imperative preceding, yet where the past tense is used to express a command, e.g., Zech. 1. 3, "And thou hast said," i.e., "Say thou." This idiom is also admitted to be common in all the Cognate Semitic languages.
- 2) To express a fixed determination that a certain thing must and shall be. This idiom is distinctly admitted by the above-mentioned Hebrew Grammarians, and is common, not only in the Cognate Semitic languages, but in the Greek New Testament, and also in the Greek and Latin Classics, as shown by Stuart, Wiener, Macknight, Kühner, and others.

III. The above facts being admitted, the Waw Conversive is consequently Unnecessary. It is based also upon superficial data, for:—

- 1) It supposes yiqtol to be an exclusively future form, which is not the case.
- 2) It ignores the idiomatic use of the past tense to express a "fixed determination," which is admitted by the Grammarians.
- 3) It casts the utmost uncertainty over the language, as, on the very same principles by which Waw is supposed to be conversive, the particles once, behind, when, how, also, to, so, except, why, therefore, what, and who, must be held to be conversive likewise,—which no sane man will venture to maintain.
- 4) It does not explain all the phenomena of the case, for there are numberless passages "where a past tense is preceded neither by a future nor by an imperative (as the rules of Waw Conversive imperatively require), yet, when it is converted in the Common English Version, and with as much propriety as in any of those instances which are supposed to be indisputable."
- 5) It is unparalleled among all the other languages of the world—ancient and modern, eastern and western.

It is found in no other composition in the Hebrew Language; in all the most ancient, and valued, and voluminous Hebrew writings it is wanting;—the Talmudim, the Perushim, the Midrashim, have it not. If the Hebrew language ever had a Waw Conversive, is it at all likely that it should suddenly, totally, and unobservedly drop out of existence?

THE RESULT OF THE WHOLE IS: That the Waw Conversive does not exist in the Hebrew Bible, and is Unnecessary, Imperfect, and Unexampled.

It has only a traditional existence, being the too hasty generalization of some ancient grammarians, who observed that the Septuagint Translators had, (with the freedom which characterizes their whole work both in style and sentiments), deemed the Hebrew idioms too colloquial for the fastidious Greeks, and too simple for the dignity of literary composition; and as all succeeding translators, without an exception, were under the spell of the sacred character of that Version, it is no wonder, though much to be regretted, that their example was followed. Of late years there has been a very strong tendency in translators and expositors to adhere more than ever to the exact form of the Hebrew and Greek Tenses, but the present Translation is the first and only one in which it is carried out systematically.

LAX RENDERINGS OF KING JAMES' REVISERS.

NATHAN, 'to give,' is rendered (in the Kal conjugation) by such words as: to add, apply, appoint, ascribe, assign, bestow, bring, bring forth, cast, cause, charge, come, commit, consider, count, deliver, deliver up, direct, distribute, fasten, frame, give, give forth, give over, give up, grant, hang, hang up, lay, lay to charge, lay up, leave, lend, let, let out, lift up, make, O that, occupy, offer, ordain, pay, perform, place, pour, print, put, put forth, recompense, render, requite, restore, send, send out, set, set forth, shew, shoot forth, shoot up, strike, suffer, thrust, trade, turn, utter, would God, yield; besides seventeen varieties in idiomatic renderings=84!

It would be easy to multiply examples of lax renderings did space permit. The following are some that have been marked; e.g. :—
Ahar by 23, Ahar 23, Ish 31, Al 36, Im 23, Amar 37, Aphas 23, Asher 27, Bo 32, Bin 20, Ben 20, Gam 20, Hahak 36, Ze 21, Hul 27, Hazak 23, Hal 22, Hayil 26, Tob 37, Jad 36, Jada 36, Yom 32, Hatib 28, Yaluk 24, Jatz 37, Ysh 31, Yashab 20, Ki 36, Kol 20, Kalah 21, Lakh 20, Meod 21, Meod 20, Matza 22, Maneh 20, Mishpat 27, Natak 21, Naphal 20, Nephesh 35, Sabab 20, Ad 22, Oud 26, Oulam 24, Al 34, Alah 37, Im 21, Amad 23, Anah 20, Arak 20, Pe 29, Panah 20, Pagod 25, Qum 27, Qarah 24, Raah 32, Rosh 21, Hirbah 30, Ra 37, Shab 35, Shalom 25, Shilleh 27, Shilleh 20, Shama 20.

The English verb 'destroy' is, in the Common Version, the representative of not less than FOURTY-NINE different Hebrew words (as may be seen in the 'Englishman's Hebrew Concordance,' p. 1510 of second edition);—the verb 'to set,' of FOURTY, and 'to bring,' of THIRTY-NINE, &c. It is evident, therefore, that the use of 'Cruden's Concordance,' and all others based on the Common Version, can only mislead the mere English reader.

The following list of words, with the number of their Hebrew representatives (according to the Common Version) expressed in numerals, will surprise all who have not hitherto attended to this subject; viz. :—

To abhor 12, abide 13, abundance 11, affliction 12, to be afraid 22, after 13, against 13, among 11, to be angry 10, another 11, to appoint 24, appointed 10, army 10, at 13, to bear 13, beauty 15, before 22, beside 14, to bind 15, body 12, border 13, bough 13, branch 20, to break 33, bright 10, to bring 39, to bring forth 21, broken 12, to be broken 16, to burn 19, burning 12, but 15, by 14, captain 16, captivity 10, to carry away 10, to carry 12, to cast 19, to cast down, 19, to cast out 15, to catch 12, to cease 21, chain 10, chamber 10, change 16, to be changed 10, chief 10, to cleave 15, coast 10, to come 32, commandment 12, companion 10, company 22, to consider 18, to consume 21, consumed 10, to continue 11, corner 10, country 10, to cover 21, covering 13, to cry 17, to cut down 10, to be cut down 13, to cut off 18, to be cut off 14, dark 11, darkness 10, to declare 11, decree 11, to be defiled 10, to deliver 26, to depart 18, desire 13, to desire 13, desolate 16, to be desolate 11, desolation 12, to despise 10, to destroy 49, to be destroyed 17, destruction 35, to divide 19, to draw out 10, dung 10, to dwell 14, dwelling 11, east 10, end 26, to establish 13, to be exalted 11, excellent 10, to fail 30, to faint 18, to fall 14, fear 16, to fear 10, flood 10, for 21, foundation 11, from 17, fruit 12, garment 14, to gather 23, to gather together 16, to be gathered 10, to be gathered together 14, to get 16, gift 12, to give 15, glorious 12, glory 10, to go 22, goodly 15, governor 12, great 24, grief 10, to be grieved 17, grievous 10, to grow 13, habitation 17, to harden 10, haste 11, to make haste 10, height 11, to hide 14, to hide self 12, high 18, to hold 12, hurt 11, idol 11, if 10, in 13, to increase 17, iniquity 11, to be joined 10, judgment 10, to keep 11, to kindle 15, knowledge 12, labour 10, to be laid 10, to lay 24, to lead 12, to leave 15, to be left 11, to lift up 15, light 13, to long 10, to look 16, to be made 11, majesty 10, to make 23, man 12, to mark 10, measure 13, meat 14, to meet 10, midst 10, might 12, mighty 26, to mourn 12, to move 15, to be moved 13, much 10, multitude 14, net 10, not 14, now 13, of 10, to offer 22, offering 10, old 13, only 11, to oppress 10, to ordain 12, over 10, to overthrow 11, palace 10, part 14, people 10, to perceive 10, to perish 13, place 12, place 13, pleasant 17, pleasure 10, poor 10, portion

The above are taken from a most useful book, entitled 'The Englishman's Hebrew Concordance,' which only requires the insertion of the Hebrew Articles to make it a complete work.

"THE BIBLE STUDENTS' GUIDE," by the Rev. W. Wilson, D.D., cannot be sufficiently commended as an accurate and elaborate Key to the mixed renderings of King James' Revisers.

THE HEBREW AND GREEK TENSES—IMPORTANT ADMISSIONS.

Dr SAMUEL LEE writes: "As it is now placed beyond doubt that the Hebrew tense formerly termed future is an indefinite or unlimited present, i.e. expresses the action, &c., of the verb, as present with any time intimated by the context; and as the preterite does, according to Oriental usage, even now, imply futurity in prophetic and other similar announcements, no possible difficulty can remain in discovering—as it is the case with the Arabic, &c.—how the tenses ought to be taken, or how this particle (waw) is to be applied. And if our indefinite present should happen to be connected by it with a preceding preterite, and so make its action, &c., contemporaneous with that of this preterite; then, indeed, and in that acceptance, it might fairly be called conversive of such present tense, to that of such preterite, but even then, restrictive would be a better term. Ewald prefers relative."—Heb. Lex. p. 164.

GESENIUS writes: "The Preterite serves to express what is finished and past, whether it actually belongs to the past, or properly lies in the present, or even in the future, and is only represented as past, that it may thus appear as certain as if it had already happened, or that it may stand, as relatively earlier, in comparison with a subsequent event."—Heb. Gr. p. 203.

The Preterite is used, "even for the future, in protestations and assurances, in which the mind of the speaker views the action as already accomplished; being as good as done. In German [and English] the present is sometimes used in this case for the future. So in stipulations or promises in the way of a compact. Gen. 23. 11, 'I give (lit. have given) to thee the field,' v. 13, 'I give (lit. have given) money for the field,' particularly in promises made by God, Gen. 1. 29, 15. 18, 17. 20. Also in confident discourse, especially when God is said to be about to do something; e.g. 'Thou deliverest (lit. hast delivered) me, O Jehovah,' Ps. 31. 6; hence frequently used in lively representations of the future, and in prophecies, e.g. Isa. 9. 1, 'the people who walk in darkness see (lit. have seen) a great light,' v. 13, 'therefore my people goes (lit. hath gone) into captivity,' 14. 17, 25, 26; 11. 1, 2, 4, 6, 10.

"In Arabic . . . they say, 'I have already given it to thee,' meaning, it is as good as done . . . In Arabic, also, the preterite is employed in wishes and obtestations."—Ibid., p. 205.

MOSES STUART writes: "In the Revelation, the present tense is put for the praeter. This is indeed very frequent; but then this belongs to all the New Testament, and to all the Classic Greek writers. The historic-present (as grammarians call it) belongs of course to all animated narration.

"The present is put for the future. It is so. . . nothing is more usual (Matt. 26. 2). . . there is no enallage of the tenses, as grammarians are wont to call it, i.e., the use of one tense for another by a sort of mistake or heedlessness, but a designed tropical use of the present, in order to give vivacity and energy to the expression. In perfect accordance with this idiom are our English expressions, 'I am going abroad, I am going to journey, I am coming to see you speedily.' In the Greek and Latin Classics, the same idiom is altogether common, see Winer Gram. § 41, 2, for examples and references. Such a use of tenses needs no apology and no defence. The Gospel of John presents us with the like phenomena, e.g., 14. 3, 13, 19, 30; 16. 16, 22, 25, . . . all this shows how easy and familiar such a construction is.

"Nor is this use of the aorist [for the future] strange. Homer, Plato, Euripides, Demosthenes, and others, employ the aorist (and also the perfect) to designate with intensity the certainty of future events. Kühner has given abundance of examples to illustrate this, § 443, 2. The aorist is even more intensive than the perfect for this purpose, inasmuch as it denotes completed action in distinction from continuance. . . Virtually do we find the same use of the aorist in John 13. 31, 15. 6, 8. . . Whatever difficulties may have existed among critics in times past with respect to such a usage, it would seem that there is no more occasion for them."—Comm. on Revelation, p. 197-8.

MACKNIGHT writes:—"The praeterite tenses, especially in the prophetic writings, are used for the future, to shew the absolute certainty of the things spoken of. Thus Rom. 8. 30, the called [rather predestinated] are represented as already justified and even glorified. Eph. 2. 6, Believers are said to be already raised from the dead. Heb. 2. 7 (Thou hast made), 'Thou wilt make him for a little while less than angels;' for this was spoken long before the Son of God was made man. Heb. 3. 14 (We have been made), 'We shall be made partakers of Christ, if we hold,' &c. Wherefore Heb. 12. 22 may be translated, 'But ye shall come unto Mount Zion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem.'

"The present tense is sometimes put for the preterite, Acts. 9. 36, 'They were all afraid of him, not believing that (he is) he was a disciple,' Phil. 1. 20, Heb. 8. 3, 8.

"The present tense is sometimes put for the future, to show that the thing spoken of shall as certainly happen as if it were already present."—Matt. 3. 10, Mark 9. 31, 1 Cor. 15. 2, 12, James 5. 3, 2 Pet. 3. 11, 12.—Essay iv. § 10, 11, 12.

DODDRIDGE writes: "In Scripture language, that which is very sure and very near, is spoken of as if it was already done. Thus Christ speaks of himself as if he was already in possession of his glory, while he was here on earth, John 18. 24; and sinners, too, are represented as condemned already, John 3. 18; and saints are spoken of as already glorified, Eph. 2. 6, and Heb. 12. 22, 23."—Family Expositor, Matt. 3. 10.

GENESIS.

CHAPTER I. ¹IN the beginning of God's framing the heavens and the earth—²the earth has existed utterly void, and darkness is on the face of the deep, and the Spirit of God is fluttering on the face of the waters; ³and God saith, 'Let light be;' and light is.

⁴And God seeth the light that it is good, and God separateth between the light and the darkness; and God calleth the light Day, and the darkness He hath called Night; and there is an evening, and there is a morning—one day.

⁵And God saith, 'Let an expanse be in the midst of the waters, and let it separate between the waters and the waters.' ⁷And God prepareth the expanse, and it separateth between the waters which are under the expanse, and the waters which are above the expanse; and it is so. ⁸And God calleth the expanse Heaven; and there is an evening, and there is a morning—a second day.

⁹And God saith, 'Let the waters under the heavens be collected unto one place, and let the dry land be seen;' and it is so. ¹⁰And God calleth the dry land Earth, and the collection of the waters He hath called Seas; and God seeth that it is good.

¹¹And God saith, 'Let the earth yield tender grass, the herb sowing seed, the fruit-tree (whose seed is in itself) yielding fruit after its kind, on the earth;' and it is so. ¹²And the earth bringeth forth tender grass, the herb sowing seed after its kind, and the fruit-yielding tree (whose seed is in itself) after its kind; and God seeth that it is good; ¹³and there is an evening, and there is a morning—a third day.

¹⁴And God saith, 'Let luminaries be in the expanse of the heavens, to make a separation between the day and the night, ¹⁵and they have been for signs, and for seasons, and for days and years when they have become luminaries in the expanse of the heavens to give light upon the earth;' and it is so. ¹⁶And God prepareth the two great luminaries, the great luminary for the rule of the day, and the small luminary, with the stars, for the rule of the night; ¹⁷and God appointeth them in the expanse of the heavens to give light upon the earth, ¹⁸and to rule over the day and over the night, and to make a separation between the light and the darkness; and God seeth that it is good; ¹⁹and there is an evening, and there is a morning—a fourth day.

²⁰And God saith, 'Let the waters teem with teeming living creatures, and let fowl fly above the earth on the face of the expanse of the heavens.' ²¹And God formeth the great monsters, and every living creature that creepeth, which the waters have teemed with after their kind, and every winged fowl after its kind, and God seeth that it is good. ²²And God blesseth them, saying, 'Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let the fowl multiply in the earth;' ²³and there is an evening, and there is a morning—a fifth day.

²⁴And God saith, 'Let the earth bring forth the living creature after its kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after its kind;' and it is so. ²⁵And God prepareth the beast of the earth after its kind, and the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing of the ground after its kind, and God seeth that it is good.

²⁶And God saith, 'Let Us prepare man in Our image, according to Our likeness, and let them rule over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the heavens, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing which creepeth on the earth.'

²⁷And God formeth man in His own image, in the image of God He hath formed him, male and female He hath formed them.

²⁸And God blesseth them, and God saith to them, 'Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it, and rule over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the heavens, and over every living thing that creepeth upon the earth.' ²⁹And God saith, 'Lo, I have given to you every herb sowing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree in which is the fruit of a tree sowing seed, to you it is for food; ³⁰and to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the heavens, and to every creeping thing on the earth, in which is the breath of life, every green herb is for food;' and it is so.

³¹And God seeth all that He hath done, and lo, it is very good; and there is an evening, and there is a morning—a sixth day.

II. ¹And the heavens and the earth are completed, and all their host. ²And God completeth by the seventh day His work which He hath made, and ceaseth by the seventh day from all His work which He hath made.

³And God blesseth the seventh day, and sanctifieth it, for in it He hath ceased from all His work which God prepared for making.

⁴THESE are the genealogies of the heavens and of the earth in their being framed, in the day of the LORD God's making the earth and the heavens. ⁵And no shrub of the field is yet in the earth, and no herb of the field yet sprouteth, for the LORD God hath not rained upon the earth, and there is not a man to till the ground; ⁶but a mist goeth up from the earth, and hath watered the whole face of the ground.

⁷And the LORD God formeth man of dust from the ground, and breatheth into his nostrils the breath of life, and man becometh a living creature.

⁸And the LORD God planteth a garden in Eden, eastward, and He putteth there the man whom He hath formed. ⁹And the LORD God causeth to spring up from the ground every tree desirable for appearance, and good for food, and the tree of life in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

¹⁰And a river goeth out from Eden to water the garden, and from thence it is parted, and hath become four chief rivers; ¹¹the name of the one is Pison, it is that which surroundeth the whole land of the Havilah where gold is. ¹²And the gold of that land is good, there is the bdolah and the shoham stone. ¹³And the name of the second river is Gihon, it is that which surroundeth the whole land of Cush. ¹⁴And the name of the third river is Hiddekel, it is that which goeth to the east of Asshur. And the fourth river is Euphrates.

¹⁶And the LORD God layeth a charge on the man, saying, 'Of every tree of the garden thou mayest surely eat; ¹⁷as to the tree of knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it, for in the day of thine eating of it thou dost surely die.'

¹⁸And the LORD God saith, 'It is not good for the man to be alone, I will make an helper for him, as his counterpart.'

²¹And the LORD God causeth a deep sleep to fall upon the man, and he sleepeth; and He taketh out one of his ribs, and closeth up the flesh in its stead.

²²And the LORD God buildeth up the rib which He hath taken out of the man into a woman, and bringeth her in unto the man; ²³and the man saith, 'This is the step! bone of my bone, and flesh of my flesh; on this account it is called Woman, for from man this one hath been taken; ²⁴therefore doth a man leave his father and his mother, and hath cleaved unto his wife, and they have become one flesh. ²⁵And they are both of them naked, the man and his wife, and are not ashamed of themselves.

III. ¹AND the serpent has been more sul-tile than any beast of the field which the LORD God hath made, and he saith unto the woman, 'Is it true that God hath said, "Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?"'

²And the woman saith to the serpent, 'Of the fruit of the trees of the garden we may eat, ³but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden God hath said, "Ye shall not eat of it, nor touch it, lest ye die."

⁴And the serpent saith unto the woman, 'Ye do not surely die, ⁵for God doth know that in the day of your eating thereof—your eyes have been opened, and ye have been as God, knowing good and evil.'

⁶And the woman seeth that the tree is good for food, and that it is pleasant to the eyes, and that the tree is desirable to make one wise, and she taketh of its fruit and eateth, and giveth also to her husband with her, and he doth eat. ⁷And the eyes of them both are opened, and they know that they are naked, and they sew fig-leaves, and make for themselves girdles.

⁸And they hear the sound of the LORD God walking up and down in the garden at the breeze of the day, and the man and his wife hide themselves from the presence of the LORD God in the midst of the trees of the garden.

⁹And the LORD God calleth unto the man, and saith to him, 'Where art thou?' ¹⁰And he saith, 'I have heard Thy sound in the garden, and I am afraid, for I am naked, and I hide myself.'

¹¹And He saith, 'Who hath declared to thee that thou art naked? hast thou eaten of the tree of which I have commanded thee not to eat?' ¹²And the man saith, 'The woman whom Thou placed with me—she hath given to me of the tree—and I do eat.'

¹³And the LORD God saith to the woman, 'What is this thou hast done?' and the woman saith, 'The serpent hath caused me to forget, and I do eat.'

¹⁴And the LORD God saith unto the serpent, 'Because thou hast done this, cursed art thou above all the cattle, and above every beast of the field; on thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat, all the days of thy life. ¹⁵And I put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; he shall bruise thee on the head, and thou shalt bruise him on the heel.'

¹⁶Unto the woman He hath said, 'I surely multiply thy sorrow and thy conception, in sorrow dost thou bear children, and towards thy husband is thy desire, and he doth rule over thee.'

¹⁷And to the man He hath said, 'Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife, and dost eat of the tree concerning which I have charged thee, saying, "Thou shalt not eat of it," cursed is the ground on thine account; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life. ¹⁸Thorns also and brambles it doth bring forth to thee, and thou hast eaten the herb of the field. ¹⁹By the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread till thy return unto the ground, for out of it hast thou been taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust thou turnest back.'

²⁰And Adam calleth his wife's name Eve: surely she hath been mother of all living.

²¹And the LORD God maketh to Adam and to his wife coats of skin, and clotheh them.

²²And the LORD God saith, 'Lo, the man was as one of us, as to the knowledge of good and evil: but now lest he stretch out his hand—when he hath taken also of the tree of life, then hath he eaten and lived for ever.'—²³the LORD God also sendeth him out from the garden of Eden to till the ground from which he hath been taken: ²⁴yea, he casteth out the man, and causeth to dwell at the east of the garden of Eden the cherubs and the flame of the sword which turneth itself round to guard the way of the tree of life.

IV. ¹AND the man hath known Eve his wife, and she conceiveth and beareth Cain, and saith, 'I have gotten a man by the LORD.' ²And she addeth to bear his brother, even Abel. And Abel feedeth a flock, and Cain hath been a tiller of the ground.

³And it cometh to pass at the end of a week that Cain bringeth from the fruit of the ground an offering to the LORD. ⁴As to Abel, he hath also brought from the female firstlings of his flock, even from their fat ones: and the LORD hath looked unto Abel and unto his offering, ⁵and unto Cain and unto his offering He hath not looked; and Cain is very wroth, and his countenance is fullon.

⁶And the LORD saith unto Cain, 'Why hast thou been wroth? and why hath thy countenance fallen? ⁷If thou dost well, is there not acceptance? and if thou dost not well, at the opening a sin-offering croucheth, and unto thee is its desire, and thou rulest over it.'

⁸And Cain saith unto Abel his brother, 'Let us go into the field;' and it cometh to pass in their being in the field, that Cain riseth up against Abel his brother, and slayeth him.

¹⁰And He saith, 'What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto Me from the ground. ¹¹And now, cursed art thou from the ground, which hath opened her mouth to receive the blood of thy brother from thy hand; ¹²though thou till the ground, it doth not continue to give its strength to thee: a wanderer, even a trembling one, thou art on the earth.'

¹³And Cain saith unto the LORD, 'My punishment is greater than to be borne. ¹⁴Lo, Thou hast driven me to-day from off the face of the ground, and from Thy face I am hid: when I have been a wanderer, even a trembling one, in the earth, then hath it been, every one finding me doth slay me.'

¹⁵And the LORD saith to him, 'Therefore—of any slayer of Cain sevenfold it is required;' and the LORD giveth a token to Cain that none slaying him will slay him.

¹⁶And Cain goeth out from before the LORD, and dwelleth in the land, moving about eastward of Eden. ¹⁷And Cain knoweth his wife, and she conceiveth, and beareth Enoch; and he is building a city, and he calleth the name of the city, according to the name of his son, Enoch.

¹⁸And to Enoch is born Irad; and Irad hath begotten Methusael; and Methusael hath begotten Methusael; and Methusael hath begotten Lamech.

²⁰And Adah beareth Jabal, he hath been the father of those who inhabit tents and purchased possessions. ²¹And the name of his brother is Jubal, he hath been father of every handler of harp and organ.

²²As to Zillah, she also bare Tubal-Cain, an instructor of every artificer in brass and iron; and the sister of Tubal-Cain is Naamah.

²³And Lamech saith to his wives:—

'Adah and Zillah, hear my voice;

Wives of Lamech, give ear to my saying;

For a man I have slain for my wound,

Even a young man for my hurt;

²⁴If sevenfold is required for Cain,

Then for Lamech seventy and seven fold.'

²⁵And Adam again knoweth Eve his wife, and she beareth a son, and calleth his name Seth, 'for God hath appointed for me another seed instead of Abel:' for Cain had slain him.

²⁶And to Seth, to him also a son hath been born, and he calleth his name Enos. Then men began to preach in the name of the LORD.

V. ¹THIS is a list of the genealogies of Adam: In the day of God's forming man, in the likeness of God He hath made him.

²Male and female He hath formed them, and He blesseth them, and callh their name Man, in the day of their being formed.

³And Adam liveth an hundred and thirty years, and begetteth a son in his own likeness, according to his own image, and calleth his name Seth. And the days of Adam after his begetting Seth are eight hundred years, and he begetteth sons and daughters. ⁴And all the days which Adam hath lived are nine hundred and thirty years, and he dieth.

¹⁴And Mahalaleel liveth sixty and five years, and begetteth Jared. ¹⁵And Mahalaleel liveth after his begetting Jared eight hundred and thirty years, and begetteth sons and daughters. ¹⁷ And all the days of Mahalaleel are eight hundred and ninety and five years, and he dieth.

²¹ And Enoch liveth sixty and five years, and begetteth Methuselah. ²² And Enoch walketh habitually with God after his begetting Methuselah three hundred years, and begetteth sons and daughters. ²³ And all the days of Enoch are three hundred and sixty and five years. ²⁴ And Enoch walketh habitually with God, and he is not, for God hath taken him.

²⁵ And Methuselah liveth an hundred and eighty and seven years, and begetteth Lamech. ²⁶ And Methuselah liveth after his begetting Lamech seven hundred and eighty and two years, and begetteth sons and daughters. ²⁷ And all the days of Methuselah are nine hundred and sixty and nine years, and he dieth.

VI. ¹ AND it cometh to pass that mankind have begun to multiply on the face of the ground, and daughters have been born to them. ² And the sons of God see the daughters of men, that they are fair, and they take to themselves wives of all whom they choose.

⁴ The Nephilim were in the earth in those days, and even afterwards when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they have borne to them; these are the heroes, who, from of old, are men of renown.

among his generations; with God Noah hath walked habitually. ¹⁰ And Noah begetteth three sons, Shem, Ham, and Japhet.

¹¹ And the earth is corrupt before God, and the earth is filled with violence. ¹² And God seeth the earth, and lo, it hath been corrupted, for all flesh hath corrupted its way on the earth. ¹³ And God said to Noah, 'The end of all flesh hath come before Me, for the earth hath been full of violence by their presence; and lo, I destroy them with the earth.'

¹⁸ 'And I have established My covenant with thee, and thou hast entered into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee. ¹⁹ And of all which liveth, of all flesh, two of every sort thou dost bring in unto the ark, to keep alive with thee: male and female let them be. ²⁰ Of fowl after its kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the ground after its kind, two of every sort let come in unto thee, to keep them alive.

VII. ¹ AND the LORD saith to Noah, 'Come in, thou and all thy house, into the ark, for thee have I seen righteous before Me in this generation. ² Of all the clean beasts thou dost take to thee seven pairs, a male and its female; and of beasts which are not clean two, a male and its female; ³ also, of all fowl of the heavens seven pairs, a male and a female; to keep alive seed on the face of all the earth; ⁴ for after other seven days I send rain on the earth forty days and forty nights, and have wiped away all the substance which I have made from off the face of the ground.'

⁷ And Noah entereth (his sons also, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him) into the ark, from the presence of the waters of the deluge. ⁸ Of the clean beasts and of the beasts which are not clean, and of the fowl, and of every thing which creepeth upon the ground, ⁹ two by two they have come in unto Noah, unto the ark, male and female.

as God hath commanded Noah. ¹⁰ And it cometh to pass, after the seventh day, that the waters of the deluge were on the earth.

¹⁷ And the deluge is forty days on the earth, and the waters multiply, and lift up the ark, and it is raised up from off the earth; ¹⁸ and the waters are mighty, and multiply exceedingly upon the earth; and the ark goeth on the face of the waters. ¹⁹ And the waters have been exceedingly mighty on the earth, and all the high mountains which are under the whole heavens are covered. ²⁰ Fifteen cubits upwards have the waters become mighty, even the mountains are covered. ²¹ And all flesh which moveth on the earth, among fowl, and among cattle, and among beasts, and among all the teeming things which teem on the earth, and all mankind, expire; ²² all in whose nostrils is the breath of a living spirit—of all that is in the dry land—hath died. ²³ And all the substance which is on the face of the ground, from man unto beast, unto creeping thing, and unto fowl of the heavens, is wiped away; yea, they are wiped away from the earth, and only Noah is left, and those who are with him in the ark. ²⁴ And the waters become mighty on the earth an hundred and fifty days.

VIII. ¹ AND GOD remembereth Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle which are with him in the ark, and God causeth a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters subside. ² And the fountains of the deep and the net-work of heaven are closed, and the shower from the heavens is restrained.

sendeth forth the raven, and it goeth out, going out and turning back till the drying of the waters from off the earth. ⁸ He also sendeth forth the dove from him to see whether the waters have been lightened from off the face of the ground. ⁹ And the dove hath not found rest for the sole of her foot, and she turneth back unto him, unto the ark, for the waters are on the face of all the earth; and he putteth out his hand, and taketh her, and bringeth her in unto himself, unto the ark.

¹⁰ And he stayeth yet other seven days, and addeth to send forth the dove from the ark. ¹¹ And the dove cometh in unto him at eventime, and lo, an olive leaf torn off is in her mouth; and Noah knoweth that the waters have been lightened from off the earth. ¹² And he stayeth yet other seven days, and sendeth forth the dove, but it continued not to return unto him any more.

¹³ And it cometh to pass, in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, in the first of the month, the waters have been dried from off the earth; and Noah turneth aside the covering of the ark, and looketh, and lo, the face of the ground has been dried up. ¹⁴ And in the second month, on the seven and twentieth day of the month, the earth hath become dry.

IX. ¹ AND GOD blesseth Noah, and his sons, and saith to them, 'Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the earth; ² and let your fear and your dread be on every beast of the earth, and on every fowl of the heavens, on all that creepeth on the ground, and on all the fishes of the sea: into your hand they have been given. ³ Every creeping thing which liveth, to you it is for food; as the green herb I have given the whole to you. ⁴ Only flesh in its life—its blood—ye eat not.

require; from the hand of every living thing I require it, even from the hand of man, from the hand of every man's brother I require the life of man. ⁶Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man his blood is shed: for in the image of God hath He made man. ⁷And ye, be fruitful, and multiply, teem in the earth; yea, multiply in it.

⁸And God speaketh unto Noah, and unto his sons with him, saying, ⁹'I also, lo, I am establishing My covenant with you, and with your seed after you, ¹⁰and with every living creature which is with you, among fowl, among cattle, and among every beast of the earth with you, from all who go out of the ark—to every beast of the earth. ¹¹When I have established My covenant with you, then all flesh is not any more cut off by the waters of a deluge, and there is no more a deluge to destroy the earth.'

¹²And God saith, 'This is the token of the covenant which I am making between Me and you, and every living creature which is with you, for everlasting generations. ¹³My bow I have given out in the cloud, and it hath become the token of a covenant between Me and the earth. ¹⁴And it hath come to pass (in My sending a cloud over the earth) that the bow hath been seen in the cloud, ¹⁵and I have remembered My covenant which is between Me and you, and every living creature of all flesh, and the waters become no more a deluge to destroy all flesh. ¹⁶When the bow hath been in the cloud, then have I seen it so as to remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature among all flesh which is on the earth.'

¹⁷And God saith unto Noah, 'This is the token of the covenant which I have established between Me and all flesh which is upon the earth.'

¹⁸And the sons of Noah who go out of the ark are Shem, and Ham, and Japhet; and Ham is father of Canaan. ¹⁹These three are the sons of Noah, and from these hath all the earth been overspread.

²⁴And Noah awaketh from his wine, and knoweth that which his young son hath done to him, ²⁵and saith:

'Cursed is Canaan,
A servant of servants he is to his brethren.'

²⁶And he saith:

'Blessed of the LORD my God is Shem,
And Canaan is a servant to him.

²⁷God doth give beauty to Japhet,

And he dwelleth in the tents of Shem,
And Canaan is a servant to him.'

²⁸And Noah liveth after the deluge three hundred and fifty years. ²⁹And all the days of Noah are nine hundred and fifty years, and he dieth.

X. ¹AND these are the genealogies of the sons of Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japhet: and sons are born to them after the deluge.

²The sons of Japhet are Gomar, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meshech, and Tiras. ³And the sons of Gomar are Ashkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah. ⁴And the sons of Javan are Elisha, and Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim. ⁵By these have the isles of the nations been parted in their lands; each by his tongue, by their families, in their nations.

⁶And the sons of Ham are Cush, and Mizraim, and Phut, and Canaan. ⁷And the sons of Cush are Seba, and Havilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtecha; and the sons of Raamah are Sheba and Dedan.

⁸And Cush hath begotten Nimrod: ⁹he hath begun to be a hero in the land; he hath been a hero in hunting before the LORD; therefore it is said, 'As Nimrod the hero in hunting before the LORD.' ¹⁰And the first part of his kingdom is Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. ¹¹From that land he hath gone out to Asshur, and buildeth Nineveh, even the broad places of the city, and Calah, ¹²and Resen, between Nineveh and Calah: it is the great city.

¹³And Mizraim hath begotten the Lucim, and the Ananims, and the Lehabims, and the Naphtulim, ¹⁴and the Pathrusim, and the Casluhim, whence have come out the Philistim, and the Caphtorim.

¹⁵And Canaan hath begotten Sidon his first-born, and Heth, ¹⁶and the Jebusite, and the Amorite, and the Girgassite, ¹⁷and the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite, ¹⁸and the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite; and afterwards have the families of the Canaanites been scattered.

¹⁹And the border of the Canaanite is from Sidon, in thy coming towards Gerar, unto Gaza; in thy coming towards Sodom, and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboim, unto Lashah. ²⁰These are the sons of Ham, by their families, by their tongues, in their lands, in their nations.

²¹As to Shem, father of all the children of Eber, brother of Japhet the elder, he hath also begotten:

²²The sons of Shem are Elam, and Asshur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram. ²³And the children of Aram are Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and Mash. ²⁴And Arphaxad hath begotten Salah, and Salah hath begotten Eber. ²⁵And to Eber have two sons been born, the name of the one is Peleg for in his days hath the earth been divided, and his brother's name is Joktan. ²⁶And Joktan hath begotten Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah, ²⁷and Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah, ²⁸and Obal, and Abimael, and Sheba, ²⁹and Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab: all these are sons of Joktan. ³⁰And their dwelling is from Mesha, in thy coming towards Sephar, a mount of the east. ³¹These are the sons of Shem, by their families, by their tongues, in their lands, by their nations.

²³These are the families of the sons of Noah, by their genealogies, in their nations, and by these have the nations been parted in the earth after the deluge.

XI. ¹AND the whole earth is of one pronunciation, and of the same words. ²And it cometh to pass, in their journeying from the east, that they find a valley in the land of Shinar, and dwell there; ³and they say each unto his neighbour, 'Give help, let us make bricks, and let us burn them thoroughly;' and the bricks are to them for stone, and the bitumen hath been to them for mortar. ⁴They say also, 'Give help, let us build for ourselves a city and a tower, and its head in heaven, and let us make for ourselves a name, lest we be scattered over the face of all the earth.'

⁵And the LORD cometh down to see the city and the tower which the children of men have builded; ⁶and the LORD saith, 'Lo, the people is one, and one pronunciation have they all, and this it hath dreamed of doing; and now, none of that which they have purposed to do is restrained from them. ⁷Give help, let us go down, and there mingle their pronunciation, so that a man doth not understand the pronunciation of his companion.'

¹⁰These are the genealogies of Shem: Shem is an hundred years old, and begetteth Arphaxad two years after the deluge.

¹¹And Shem liveth after his begetting Arphaxad five hundred years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

¹²And Arphaxad liveth five and thirty years, and begetteth Salah. ¹³And Arphaxad liveth after his begetting Salah four hundred and three years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

¹⁴And Salah liveth thirty years, and begetteth Eber. ¹⁵And Salah liveth after his begetting Eber four hundred and three years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

¹⁶And Eber liveth four and thirty years, and begetteth Peleg. ¹⁷And Eber liveth after his begetting Peleg four hundred and thirty years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

¹⁸And Peleg liveth thirty years, and begetteth Reu. ¹⁹And Peleg liveth after his begetting Reu two hundred and nine years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

²⁰And Reu liveth two and thirty years, and begetteth Serug. ²¹And Reu liveth after his begetting Serug two hundred and seven years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

²²And Serug liveth thirty years, and begetteth Nahor. ²³And Serug liveth after his begetting Nahor two hundred years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

²⁴And Nahor liveth nine and twenty years, and begetteth Terah. ²⁵And Nahor liveth after his begetting Terah an hundred and nineteen years, and begetteth sons and daughters.

²⁶And Terah liveth seventy years, and begetteth Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

²⁷And these are the genealogies of Terah: Terah hath begotten Abram, Nahor, and Haran; and Haran hath begotten Lot. ²⁸And Haran dieth in the presence of Terah his father, in the land of his birth, in Ur of the Chaldees.

²⁹And Abram and Nahor take to themselves wives; the name of Abram's wife is Sarai; and the name of Nahor's wife is Milcah, daughter of Haran, father of Milcah, and father of Iscah. ³⁰And Sarai is barren, she hath no child.

³¹And Terah taketh Abram his son, and Lot, son of Haran, his son's son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, wife of Abram his son, and they go out with them from Ur of the Chaldees, to go towards the land of Canaan; and they come unto Haran, and dwell there.

³²And the days of Terah are two hundred and five years, and Terah dieth in Haran.

XII. ¹AND the LORD saith unto Abram, 'Go for thyself, from thy land, and from thy kindred, and from the house of thy father, unto the land which I shew thee. ²And I make thee become a great nation, and bless thee, and make thy name great; and be thou a blessing. ³And I bless those who bless thee, and curse him who disesteemeth thee; yea, blessed in thee have been all the families of the ground.'

⁴And Abram goeth on, as the LORD hath spoken unto him, and Lot goeth with him, and Abram is five and seventy years old in his going out from Haran. ⁵And Abram taketh Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they have gained, and the persons that they have obtained in Haran; and they go out to go towards the land of Canaan; and they come into the land of Canaan. ⁶And Abram passeth over into the land, unto the place Sichem, unto the oak of Moreh; and the Canaanite is then in the land.

⁷And the LORD appeareth unto Abram, and saith, 'To thy seed I give this land;' and he buildeth there an altar to the LORD, who hath appeared unto him. ⁸And he removeth from thence towards a mountain at the east of Bethel, and he stretcheth out his tent (Bethel at the west, and Hai at the east), and he buildeth there an altar to the LORD, and preacheth in the name of the LORD.

⁹And Abram journeyeth, going on and journeying towards the south.

¹⁰And there is a famine in the land; and Abram goeth down towards Egypt to sojourn there, for the famine is grievous in the land. ¹¹And it cometh to pass as he hath drawn near to enter Egypt, that he saith unto Sarai his wife, 'Lo, I pray thee, I have known that thou art a woman of beautiful appearance; ¹²when it hath come to pass that the Egyptians see thee, then have they said, "This is his wife," and they have slain me, but thee they keep alive: ¹³Say, I pray thee, thou art my sister, so that it is well with me because of thee, and my soul hath lived for thy sake.

¹⁴And it cometh to pass, at the entering of Abram into Egypt, that the Egyptians see the woman that she is exceeding fair. ¹⁵The princes of Pharaoh also see her, and praise her unto Pharaoh, and the woman is taken into Pharaoh's house. ¹⁶And to Abram he hath done good because of her, so that he hath sheep and oxen, and he-asses, and men-servants, and handmaids, and she-asses, and camels.

¹⁷And the LORD hath plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues for the matter of Sarai, Abram's wife. ¹⁸And Pharaoh calleth for Abram, and saith, 'What is this thou hast done to me? why hast thou not declared to me that she is thy wife?' ¹⁹Why hast thou said "She is my sister," so that I take her to myself for a wife? yet, now, behold thy wife, take and go.' ²⁰And Pharaoh chargeth men concerning him, and they send him away, and his wife, and all which he hath.

XIII. ¹AND Abram goeth up from Egypt (he and his wife, and all which he hath, and Lot with him) towards the south. ²And Abram is exceedingly wealthy in cattle, in silver and in gold. ³And he goeth on his journeyings from the south, even unto Bethel, unto the place where his tent had been at the commencement, between Bethel and Hai,—unto the place of the altar which he had made there at the first, and there doth Abram preach in the name of the LORD.

⁴And Lot also, who goeth with Abram, hath had sheep and oxen and tents. ⁵And the land hath not suffered them to dwell together, for their substance hath been great, and they have not been able to dwell together. ⁶And there is a strife between those who feed Abram's cattle and those who feed Lot's cattle; and the Canaanite and the Perezite then dwell in the land.

⁷And Abram saith unto Lot, 'Let there not be strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my shepherds and thy shepherds, for we are men—brethren. ⁸Is not all the land before thee? be parted, I pray thee from me: if to the left, then I to the right; and if to the right, then I to the left.'

⁹And Lot lifteth up his eyes, and seeth the whole circuit of the Jordan that it is all a watered country (before the LORD'S destroying Sodom and Gomorrah as the LORD'S garden, as the land of Egypt), in thy coming toward Zoar. ¹⁰And Lot chooseth for himself the whole circuit of the Jordan; and Lot journeyeth from the east, and they are parted one from another. ¹¹Abram hath dwelt in the land of Canaan; and Lot hath dwelt in the cities of the circuit, and tenteth unto Sodom. ¹²And the men of Sodom are evil, and sinners before the LORD exceedingly.

¹³And the LORD said unto Abram, after Lot's being parted from him, 'Lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward; ¹⁴for

the whole of the land which thou seest, to thee I give it, and to thy seed for ever. ¹⁵And I have made thy seed as the dust of the earth,—that, if one is able to number the dust of the earth, even thy seed is numbered; ¹⁶rise, go up and down through the land, at its length, and at its breadth, for to thee I give it.' ¹⁷And Abram tenteth, and cometh, and dwelleth among the oaks of Mamre, which is in Hebron, and he buildeth there an altar to the LORD.

XIV. ¹AND it cometh to pass in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goyim, ²that they have made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, and Shemeber king of Zebolim, and the king of Bela, which is Zoar. ³All these have been joined together unto the valley of Siddim, which is the Salt Sea. ⁴Twelve years they have served Chedorlaomer, and the thirteenth year they have rebelled.

⁵And in the fourteenth year cometh Chedorlaomer, and the kings who are with him, and they smite the Rephaim in Ashteroth Karnaim, and the Zuzim in Ham, and the Emim in Shaveth Kiriathaim, ⁶and the Horites in their mount Scir, unto El-paran, which is by the wilderness. ⁷And they turn back and come in unto En-mishpat, which is Kadesh, and smite the whole country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites who dwell in Hazezon-tamar.

¹⁷And the king of Sodom goeth out to meet him (after his turning back from the smiting of Chedorlaomer, and of the kings who are with him; unto the valley of Shaveh, which is the king's valley. ¹⁸And Melchizedek king of Salem hath brought out bread and wine, and he is a priest of God Most High. ¹⁹And he blesseth him, and saith, 'Blessed is Abram of God Most High, possessor of heaven and earth; ²⁰and blessed is God Most High, who hath delivered thine adversaries into thine hand.' And he giveth to him a tenth of all.

²¹And the king of Sodom saith unto Abram, 'Give to me, I pray thee, the persons, and the substance take to thyself.' ²²And Abram saith unto the king of Sodom, 'I have lifted up my hand unto Jehovah, God Most High, possessor of heaven and earth, ²³from a thread even unto a shoe-latchet I take not of anything which thou hast, that thou say not, "I have made Abram rich." ²⁴Save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men who have gone with me—Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre—let them take their portion.'

XV. ¹AFTER these things the Word of the Lord hath been with Abram in a vision, saying, 'Fear not, Abram, I am a shield to thee, thy reward is exceeding great.' ²And Abram saith, 'Lord Jehovah, what dost Thou give to me, when I go barren? and an acquired son in my house is Damascus Eliezer.' ³Abram also saith, 'Lo, to me Thou hast not given seed, and lo, a domestic doth heir me.'

⁴And lo, the Word of the Lord is with him, saying, 'This one doth not heir thee; but he who cometh out from thy loins, he doth heir thee.' ⁵And He bringeth him out without, and saith, 'Look attentively, I pray thee, towards heaven, and count the stars, if thou art able to count them.' and He saith to him, 'So is thy seed.' ⁶And he hath believed in the Lord, and He reckoneth it righteousness to him.

⁷And He saith unto him, 'I am the Lord who hath brought thee out from Ur of the Chaldees, to give to thee this land to possess it.' ⁸And he saith, 'Lord Jehovah, whereby do I know that I shall possess it?'

⁹And He saith unto him, 'Take for Me a heifer of three years old, and a she-goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young bird.' ¹⁰And he taketh to him all these, and separateth them in the midst, and putteth each piece over against its fellow, but the birds he hath not divided. ¹¹And the ravenous birds come down upon the carcases, and Abram causeth them to turn back.

¹²And the sun is about to go in, and a deep sleep hath fallen upon Abram, and lo, a terror of great darkness falleth upon him.

¹³And He saith to Abram, 'Know certainly that thy seed is a sojourner in a land not theirs, and they have served them, and they have afflicted them four hundred years. ¹⁴And that nation also whom they serve I judge, and after this they go out with great substance. ¹⁵But thou comest in unto thy fathers in peace; thou art buried in a good old age. ¹⁶And the fourth generation doth turn back hither, for the iniquity of the Amorite is not yet complete.'

¹⁷And it cometh to pass—(the sun hath gone in, and it hath been thick darkness)—that lo, a furnace of smoke, and a lamp of fire which hath passed over between these parts.

¹⁸In that day hath the Lord made a covenant with Abram, saying, 'To thy seed I have given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates, ¹⁹with the Kenite, and the Kenizzite, and the Kadmonite, ²⁰and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Rephaim, ²¹and the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Girgashite, and the Jebusite.'

XVI. ¹AND Sarai, Abram's wife, hath not borne to him; and she hath an handmaid, an Egyptian, and her name is Hagar. ²And Sarai saith unto Abram, 'Lo, I pray thee, the Lord hath restrained me from bearing, go in, I pray thee, unto my handmaid; perhaps I am built up by her.' and Abram hearkeneth to the voice of Sarai.

⁵And Sarai saith unto Abram, 'My violence is for thee; I have given mine handmaid into thy bosom, and she seeth that she hath conceived, and I am lightly esteemed in her eyes. The Lord judge between me and thee.' ⁶And Abram saith unto Sarai, 'Lo, thine handmaid is in thine hand, do to her that which is good in thine eyes.' and Sarai afflicted her, and she fleeth from her presence.

⁹And the Messenger of Jehovah saith to her, 'Turn back unto thy mistress, and humble thyself under her hands.' ¹⁰And the Messenger of Jehovah saith to her, 'I abundantly multiply thy seed, and it is not numbered because of the multitude.' ¹¹And the Messenger of Jehovah saith to her, 'Behold, thou art pregnant, and bearing a son, and hast called his name Ishmael, for the Lord hath hearkened to thine affliction. ¹²And he is a wild-ass man, his hand against every one, and every one's hand against him; and before the face of all his brethren he dwelleth.'

¹³And she calleth the name of the Lord who speaketh unto her, 'Thou, O God, art my beholder.' for she hath said, 'Even here have I looked behind my beholder.' ¹⁴Therefore the well hath been called, 'The well of the Living One, my beholder.' lo, it is between Kadesh and Bered. ¹⁵And Hagar beareth to Abram a son; and Abram calleth the name of his son, whom Hagar hath borne, Ishmael. ¹⁶And Abram is eighty and six years old in Hagar's bearing Ishmael to Abram.

XVII. ¹AND Abram is ninety and nine years old, and the LORD appeareth unto Abram, and saith unto him, 'I am God Almighty, walk habitually before Me, and be thou perfect; ²and I make My covenant between Me and thee, and multiply thee very exceedingly.

³And Abram falleth upon his face, and God speaketh with him, saying, ⁴'I—lo, My covenant is with thee, and thou hast become a father of a multitude of nations; ⁵and thy name is no more called Abram, but thy name hath been ABRAHAM, for the father of a multitude of nations have I made thee; ⁶and I have made thee exceeding fruitful, and have made thee become nations, and kings go out from thee. ⁷And I have established My covenant between Me and thee, and thy seed after thee, for their generations, for an everlasting covenant, to become a God to thee, and to thy seed after thee. ⁸And I have given to thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land of thy sojournings, the whole land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession, and I have become their God.'

⁹And God saith unto Abraham, 'Thou also shalt keep My covenant, thou and thy seed after thee, for their generations. ¹⁰This is My covenant which ye keep between Me and you, and thy seed after thee: Every male of you is to be circumcised. ¹¹When ye have circumcised the flesh of your foreskin, then hath it become a token of the covenant between Me and you. ¹²And he who is eight days old is circumcised by you: every male in your generations, born in the house or bought with money, from any son of a stranger, who is not of thy seed; ¹³he is certainly circumcised who is born in thine house, or bought with thy money; and My covenant hath become in your flesh an everlasting covenant. ¹⁴And an uncircumcised one, a male, the flesh of whose foreskin is not circumcised, even that person hath been cut off from his people; My covenant he hath broken.'

¹⁸And Abraham saith unto God, 'O that Ishmael may live before Thee.' ¹⁹And God saith, 'Sarah thy wife doth certainly bear a son to thee, and thou hast called his name Isaac, and I have established My covenant with him, for an everlasting covenant, for his seed after him. ²⁰As to Ishmael, I have heard thee; lo, I have blessed him, and made him fruitful, and multiplied him exceedingly; twelve princes doth he beget, and I have made him become a great nation. ²¹But My covenant I establish with Isaac, whom Sarah doth bear to thee at this appointed time in the next year.' ²²And He finisheth speaking with him, and God goeth up from Abraham.

²³And Abraham taketh Ishmael his son, and all who are born in his house, and all who are bought with his money—every male among the men of Abraham's house—and circumciseth the flesh of their foreskin, in this self-same day as God hath spoken with him.

²⁴And Abraham is ninety and nine years old in the flesh of his foreskin being circumcised; ²⁵and Ishmael his son is thirteen years old in the flesh of his foreskin being circumcised; ²⁶in this self-same day hath Abraham been circumcised, and Ishmael his son; ²⁷and all the men of his house—born in the house, and bought with money from the son of a stranger—have been circumcised with him.

XVIII. ¹AND the LORD appeareth unto him among the oaks of Mamre, and he is sitting at the opening of the tent, about the heat of the day. ²And he lifteth up his eyes, and looketh, and lo, three men standing by him, and he seeth, and runneth to meet them, from the opening of the tent, and boweth himself towards the earth. ³And saith, 'My Lord, if I pray thee, I have found grace in thine eyes, do not, I pray thee, pass on from thy servant: ⁴let, I pray thee, a little water be accepted, and wash your feet, and recline under the tree; ⁵and let me bring a piece of bread, and support your heart: afterwards pass on, for therefore have ye passed over unto your servant.' And they say, 'So do as thou hast spoken.'

⁶And Abraham hasteth towards the tent, unto Sarah, and saith, 'Hasten three measures of flour-meal, knead, and make cakes.' ⁷And Abraham runneth unto the herd, and taketh a young bullock, tender and good, and giveth it unto the young man, and he hasteth to prepare it. ⁸And he taketh butter and milk, and the young bullock which he hath prepared, and setteth before them, and standeth by them under the tree, and they do eat.

⁹And they say unto him, 'Where is Sarah thy wife?' and he saith, 'Lo—in the tent.' ¹⁰And he saith, 'I certainly return unto thee, about the time of life, when lo, Sarah thy wife hath a son.'

¹¹And Sarah is hearkening at the opening of the tent, which is behind him. ¹²And Abraham and Sarah are aged, entering into days: the habit of women hath ceased to be to Sarah. ¹³And Sarah laugheth in her heart, saying, 'After I am waxed old I have had pleasure!—my lord also is old!'

¹⁴And the LORD saith unto Abraham, 'Why is this? Sarah hath laughed, saying, "Is it true really—I bear—and I am aged?" Is the thing too wonderful for the LORD at the appointed time I return unto thee, about the time of life, and Sarah hath a son.'

¹⁵And Sarah denieth, saying, 'I have not laughed;' for she hath been afraid. And He saith, 'Nay, but thou hast laughed.'

¹⁶ And the men rise from thence, and look on the face of Sodom: and Abraham goeth with them to send them away. ¹⁷ And the LORD hath said, 'Am I concealing from Abraham that which I do, seeing Abraham certainly becometh a great and mighty nation, and all nations of the earth have been blessed in him? ¹⁸ For I have known him, so that he commandeth his children, and his house after him (and they have kept the way of the LORD), to do righteousness and judgment, so that the LORD hath brought on Abraham that which He hath spoken concerning him.'

²³ And Abraham draweth nigh and saith, 'Dost Thou also consume the righteous with the wicked. ²⁴ Peradventure there are fifty righteous in the midst of the city, dost Thou also consume, and not bear with the place for the sake of the fifty righteous who are in its midst? ²⁵ Far be it from Thee to do according to this thing, to put to death the righteous with the wicked; that it hath been—as is the righteous so is the wicked—far be it from Thee. Dost not the Judge of all the earth do justice?' ²⁶ And the LORD saith, 'If I find in Sodom fifty righteous in the midst of the city, then have I borne with all the place for their sake.'

²⁷ And Abraham answereth and saith, 'Behold, I pray thee, I have willed to speak unto the Lord, yet I am dust and ashes. ²⁸ Peradventure there is lacking five of the fifty righteous—dost Thou destroy the whole of the city for five?' And He saith, 'I destroy it not, if I find there forty and five.'

²⁹ And he continueth again to speak unto Him and saith, 'Peradventure there be found there forty?' And He saith, 'I do it not, because of the forty.'

³⁰ And he saith, 'Let there not be, I pray thee, displeasure to the Lord, and let me speak: Peradventure there be found there thirty?' And He saith, 'I do it not, if I find there thirty.'

³¹ And he saith, 'Behold, I pray thee, I have willed to speak unto the Lord: Peradventure there be found there twenty?' And He saith, 'I do not destroy it, because of the twenty.'

³² And he saith, 'Let there not be, I pray Thee, displeasure to the Lord, and let me speak only this time: Peradventure there be found there ten?' And He saith, 'I do not destroy it, because of the ten.'

XIX. ¹ AND two of the messengers come towards Sodom at even, and Lot is sitting at the gate of Sodom; and Lot seeth, and riseth to meet them, and boweth himself, face to the earth, ² and he saith, 'Lo, I pray you, my lords, turn aside, I pray you, unto your servant's house, and lodge, and wash your feet—then have ye risen early and gone on your way.' And they say, 'Nay, but in the broad place we do lodge.'

⁴ Before they lie down, the men of the city—the men of Sodom—have come round about against the house, from young even unto aged, all the people from the extremity. ⁵ And they call unto Lot and say to him, 'Where are the men that have come unto thee to-night? bring them out unto us, and let us know them.'

⁶ And Lot goeth out unto them to the opening, and hath shut the door behind him, ⁷ and saith, 'Do not, I pray you, my brethren, do evil; ⁸ lo, I pray you, I have two daughters, who have not known any one; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do to them as is good in your eyes; only to those men do not anything, for therefore have they come in under the shadow of my roof.'

⁹ And they say, 'Come nigh hither;' they say also, 'This one hath come in to sojourn, and now doth he certainly judge! we do more evil to thee than to them;' and they press greatly against the man, against Lot, and come nigh to break the door.

¹⁵ And Lot saith unto them, 'Not so, I pray thee, my Lord: ¹⁶ I, I pray thee, thy servant hath found grace in thine eyes, and thou hast made great thy kindness which thou hast done with me by saving my life, but I am unable to escape to the mountain, lest the evil cleave to me, and I die. ¹⁷ Lo, I pray thee, this city is near to flee thither, and it is little: let me escape, I pray thee, thither (is it not little?) and my soul doth live.'

¹⁸ And he saith unto him, 'Lo, I have accepted thy face even for this thing, without overthrowing this city for which thou hast spoken. ¹⁹ Haste, escape thither, for I am unable to do anything till thine entering thither: ²⁰ therefore hath he called the name of the city Zor.'

²¹ The sun hath gone out on the earth, and Lot hath entered into Zor: ²² and the LORD hath rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the LORD, from the heavens. ²³ And He overthroweth these cities, and all the circuit, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which is shooting up from the ground. ²⁴ And his wife looketh expectingly from behind him, and she is a pillar of salt.

²⁵ And Abraham riseth early in the morning, unto the place where he hath stood before the face of the LORD. ²⁶ And he looketh on the face of Sodom and Gomorrah, and on all the face of the land of the circuit, and seeth, and lo, the smoke of the land went up as the smoke of a furnace.

²⁹ And the first-born saith to the younger, 'Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us, as is the manner of all the earth. ³⁰ Come, let us cause our father to drink wine, and let us lie with him, and let us preserve seed from our father.'

³² And it cometh to pass, on the morrow, that the first-born saith unto the younger, 'Lo, I have lain yesterday-night with my father: let us cause him to drink wine to-night also, and go thou in, lie with him, and let us preserve seed from our father.'

³³ And they cause their father to drink wine on that night also; and the younger riseth and lieth with him, and he hath not known in her lying down, or in her rising up.

³⁴ And the two daughters of Lot conceive by their father. ³⁵ And the first-born beareth a son, and calleth his name Moab: he is father of the Moabites unto this day. ³⁶ As to the younger, she hath also born a son, and calleth his name Ben-ammi: he is father of the Beni-ammi unto this day.

XX. ¹ AND Abraham journeyeth from thence toward the land of the south, and dwelleth between Kadesh and Shur, and sojourneth in Gerar. ² And Abraham saith concerning Sarah his wife, 'She is my sister;' and Abimelech king of Gerar sendeth and taketh Sarah.

⁴ And Abimelech hath not drawn near unto her; and he saith, 'Lord, dost thou slay also a righteous nation? ⁵ Hath not he himself said to me, "She is my sister;" and she, even she herself, said, "He is my brother;" in the integrity of my heart, and in the innocency of my hands, have I done this.'

⁸ And Abimelech riseth early in the morning, and calleth for all his servants, and speaketh all these words in their ears; and the men fear exceedingly. ⁹ And Abimelech calleth for Abraham, and saith to him, 'What hast thou done to us? and what have I sinned against thee, that thou hast brought upon me, and upon my kingdom, a great sin? works which are not done thou hast done with me.' ¹⁰ Abimelech also saith unto Abraham, 'What hast thou seen that thou hast done this thing?'

¹¹ And Abraham saith, 'Because I said, "Surely the fear of God is not in this place, and they have slain me for the sake of my wife." ¹² And also, she is truly my sister, daughter of my father, only not the daughter of my mother, and she becometh my wife.'

¹³ And it cometh to pass, when God hath caused me to wander from my father's house, that I say to her, "This is thy kindness which thou dost with me: at every place whither we come, say of me, 'He is my brother.'"

¹⁴ And Abimelech taketh sheep and oxen, and servants and handmaids, and giveth them to Abraham, and sendeth back to him Sarah his wife. ¹⁵ And Abimelech saith, 'Lo, my land is before thee, dwell where it is good in thine eyes.' ¹⁶ And unto Sarah he hath said, 'Lo, I have given a thousand silverlings to thy brother: lo, it is to thee a covering of the eyes, to all who are with thee;' and by all this she is reasoned with.

XXI. ¹AND the LORD hath inspected Sarah as He hath said, and the LORD doth to Sarah as He hath spoken. ²And Sarah conceiveth, and beareth a son to Abraham, in his old age, at the appointed time which God hath spoken of with him. ³And Abraham calleth the name of his son who hath been born to him, whom Sarah hath born to him, Isaac. ⁴And Abraham circumciseeth Isaac his son, being eight days old, as God hath commanded him.

⁵And Abraham is a hundred years old in Isaac his son being born to him. ⁶And Sarah saith, 'God hath made laughter for me: all who heareth laugheth for me.' ⁷She saith also, 'Who hath said to Abraham, "Sarah hath suckled children," that I have born a son in his old age?'

⁸And the lad hath grown, and is weaned: and Abraham maketh a great banquet in the day of Isaac's being weaned. ⁹And Sarah seeth the son of Hagar the Egyptian, whom she hath born to Abraham, mocking. ¹⁰And she saith to Abraham, 'Cast out this handmaid and her son: for the son of this handmaid hath no possession with my son, with Isaac.'

¹¹And the thing is very wrong in the eyes of Abraham, for his son's sake. ¹²And God saith unto Abraham, 'Let it not be wrong in thine eyes because of the youth, and because of thy handmaid, in all which Sarah saith unto thee—hearken to her voice, for in Isaac is thy seed called. ¹³As to the son of the handmaid also, I make him become a nation, because he is thy seed.'

¹⁴And Abraham riseth early in the morning, and taketh bread, and a bottle of water, and giveth it unto Hagar (placing it on her shoulder), also the lad, and sendeth her out; and she goeth on, and goeth astray in the wilderness of Beer-Sheba. ¹⁵And the water is consumed from the bottle; and she placeth the lad under one of the shrubs.

¹⁶And she goeth and sitteth by herself over-against, afar off, about a bow-shot, for she hath said, 'Let me not look on the death of the lad; and she sitteth over-against, and lifteth up her voice and weepeth.'

¹⁷And God heareth the voice of the youth; and the Messenger of God calleth unto Hagar from the heavens, and saith to her, 'What to thee, O Hagar? fear not; for God hath hearkened unto the voice of the youth where he is. ¹⁸Rise, lift up the youth, and lay hold on him with thy hand, for I make him become a great nation.'

¹⁹And God openeth her eyes, and she seeth a well of water; and she goeth and filleth the bottle with water, and causeth the youth to drink. ²⁰And God is with the youth; and he groweth, and dwelleth in the wilderness, and is an archer. ²¹And he dwelleth in the wilderness of Paran; and his mother taketh for him a wife from the land of Egypt.

²²And it cometh to pass at that time that Abimelech speaketh—Phicol also, head of his host—unto Abraham, saying, 'God is with thee in all that thou doest. ²³And now, swear to me here by God that thou dost not lie to me or to my continuator, or to my successor; according to the kindness which I have done with thee do with me, and with the land in which thou hast sojourned.' ²⁴And Abraham saith, 'I swear.' ²⁵And Abraham hath reasoned with Abimelech concerning the circumstance of a well of water which Abimelech's servants have taken violently away. ²⁶And Abimelech saith, 'I have not known who hath done this thing, and even thou hast not declared to me, and I also have not heard save to-day.'

²⁷And Abraham taketh sheep and oxen, and giveth them to Abimelech, and they make, both of them, a covenant. ²⁸And Abraham setteth seven lambs of the flock by themselves. ²⁹And Abimelech saith unto Abraham, 'What are these seven lambs which thou hast set by themselves?' ³⁰And he saith, 'For—these seven lambs thou dost accept from my hand, so that it become a witness for me that I have digged this well.' ³¹Therefore hath he called that place Beer-Sheba, for there both of them have sworn.

³²And they make a covenant in Beer-Sheba; and Abimelech riseth—Phicol also, the head of his host—and they turn back unto the land of the Philistines. ³³As to Abraham, he planteth a tamarisk in Beer-Sheba, and preacheth there in the name of Jehovah; the everlasting God. ³⁴And Abraham sojourneth in the land of the Philistines many days.

XXII. ¹AND it cometh to pass after these things that God hath tried Abraham, and saith unto him, 'Abraham.' And he saith, 'Here am I.' ²And He saith, 'Take, I pray thee, thy son, thine only one, whom thou hast loved, even Isaac, and go for thyself unto the land of Moriah, and cause him to ascend there for a burnt-offering on one of the mountains concerning which I speak unto thee.'

³And Abraham riseth early in the morning, and saddlETH his ass, and taketh two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son, and he cleaveth the wood of the burnt-offering, and riseth up, and goeth unto the place concerning which God hath spoken to him.

⁴On the third day—Abraham lifteth up his eyes, and seeth the place from afar; ⁵and Abraham saith unto his young men, 'Remain by yourselves here with the ass, and I and the youth go yonder and worship, then do we turn back unto you.'

⁶And Abraham taketh the wood of the burnt-offering, and placeth it on Isaac his son, and he taketh in his own hand the fire, and the knife; and they go both of them together. ⁷And Isaac speaketh unto Abraham his father, and saith, 'My father: and he saith, 'Here am I, my son.' And he saith, 'Behold the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering?' ⁸And Abraham saith, 'God doth provide for Himself the lamb for a burnt-offering, my son; and they go on both of them together.'

⁹ And they come in unto the place concerning which God hath spoken to him; and there Abraham buildeth the altar, and arrangereth the wood, and bindeth Isaac his son, and placeth him upon the altar above the wood. ¹⁰ And Abraham putteth forth his hand, and taketh the knife to slay his son.

¹¹ And the Messenger of Jehovah calleth unto him from the heavens, and saith, 'Abraham, Abraham;' and he saith, 'Here am I.' ¹² And He saith, 'Put not forth thine hand unto the lad, nor do anything to him, for now have I known that thou fearest God, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only one, from Me.'

¹³ And Abraham lifteth up his eyes, and looketh, and lo, a certain ram seized in a thicket by its horns; and Abraham goeth, and taketh the ram, and causeth it to ascend for a burnt-offering instead of his son. ¹⁴ And Abraham calleth the name of that place Jehovah-Jireh, because it is said this day in the mount, 'The Lord doth provide.'

¹⁵ And the Messenger of Jehovah calleth unto Abraham a second time from the heavens, ¹⁶ and saith, 'By Myself have I sworn, affirmeth the LORD, that because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only one—¹⁷ that blessing I bless thee, and multiplying I multiply thy seed as the stars of the heavens, and as the sand which is on the sea-shore; and thy seed doth possess the gate of his enemies; ¹⁸ and blessed themselves in thy seed have all nations of the earth, because thou hast hearkened to My voice.'

¹⁹ And Abraham turneth back unto his young men, and they rise and go together unto Beer-Sheba; and Abraham dwelleth in Beer-Sheba.

XXIII. ¹ AND the life-time of Sarah is a hundred and twenty and seven years—years of the life of Sarah. ² And Sarah dieth in Kirjath-Arba, which is Hebron, in the land of Canaan; and Abraham goeth in to mourn for Sarah, and to bewail her.

⁷ And Abraham riseth up and boweth himself to the people of the land, to the Children of Heth. ⁸ And he speaketh with them, saying, 'If it be your desire to bury my dead from before me, hear me, and meet for me with Ephron, son of Zoar; and let him give to me the cave of Machpelah, which he hath, which is in the extremity of his field: for full money let him give it to me, in your midst, for a possession of a burying-place.'

¹² And Abraham boweth himself before the people of the land, ¹³ and speaketh unto Ephron in the ears of the people of the land, saying, 'Only—if thou wouldst hear me—I have given the money of the field—accept from me, and I bury my dead there.'

XXIV. ¹ AND Abraham is old, entering into years; and the LORD hath blessed Abraham in all things. ² And Abraham saith unto his servant, the oldest one of his house, who ruleth over all which he hath, 'Put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh, ³ and I cause thee to swear by Jehovah, God of heaven, and God of earth, that thou dost not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in the midst of whom I dwell: ⁴ but unto my land and unto my kindred dost thou go, and hast taken a wife for my son, for Isaac.'

⁵ And the servant saith unto him, 'It may be the woman is not willing to come after me unto this land; do I at all cause thy son to turn back unto the land from which thou camest out?'

⁶ And Abraham saith unto him, 'Take heed to thyself, lest thou cause my son to turn back thither. ⁷The LORD God of heaven, who hath taken me from the house of my father, and from the land of my kindred, and who hath spoken to me, and who hath sworn to me, saying, "To thy seed I give this land," He sendeth His messenger before thee, and thou hast taken a wife for my son from thence. ⁸And if the woman be not willing to come after thee, then hast thou been acquitted from this mine oath; only my son thou dost not cause to turn back thither."

⁹And the servant putteth his hand under the thigh of Abraham his lord, and sweareth to him concerning this matter.

¹²And he hath said, "O LORD God of my lord Abraham, cause to meet, I pray Thee, before me this day—(and deal kindly with my lord Abraham; ¹³lo, I am standing here by the fountain of water, and the daughters of the men of the city are coming out to draw water; ¹⁴and it hath been, the young person unto whom I say, "Incline, I pray thee, thy pitcher, and let me drink," and she hath said, "Drink, and I water thy camels also")—her Thou hast decided for Thy servant, for Isaac: and by it I know that Thou hast dealt kindly with my lord."

¹⁷And the servant runneth to meet her, and saith, "Let me swallow, I pray thee, a little water from thy pitcher." ¹⁸And she saith, "Drink, my lord;" and she hasteth, and letteth down her pitcher upon her hand, and giveth him drink. ¹⁹And she finisheth giving him drink, and saith, "For thy camels also I draw till they have finished drinking." ²⁰And she hasteth, and emptieth her pitcher into the drinking-troughs, and runneth again unto the well to draw, and draweth for all his camels.

²¹And the man, wondering at her, remaineth silent, to know whether the LORD hath made his way prosperous or not.

²²And it cometh to pass when the camels have finished drinking, that the man taketh a golden ring (whose weight is a beka), and two bracelets for her hands (whose weight is ten bekas of gold), ²³and saith, "Whose daughter art thou? declare to me, I pray thee, is the house of thy father a place for us to lodge in?" ²⁴And she saith unto him, "I am daughter of Bethuel, son of Milcah, whom she hath born to Nahor." ²⁵She saith also unto him, "Both straw and provender are abundant with us, also a place to lodge in."

²⁶And the man boweth, and doth obeisance to the LORD, ²⁷and saith, "Blessed is the LORD God of my lord Abraham, who hath not left off His kindness and His truth with my lord;"—"I being in the way, the LORD hath led me to the house of my lord's brethren."

²⁸And the young person runneth, and declareth to the house of her mother according to these words. ²⁹And Rebekah hath a brother, and his name is Laban; and Laban runneth unto the man who is without, unto the fountain; ³⁰yea, it cometh to pass, when he seeth the ring and the bracelets on the hands of his sister, and when he heareth the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, "Thus hath the man spoken unto me," that he cometh in unto the man, and lo, he is standing by the camels at the fountain. ³¹And he saith, "Come in, O blessed one of the LORD, why standest thou without, seeing I have prepared the house and a place for the camels?"

³²And he bringeth in the man into the house, and looseth the camels, and giveth him straw and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet, and the feet of the men who are with him; ³³and setteth before him to eat; but he saith, "I do not eat till I have spoken my word;" and he saith, "Speak."

³⁴And he saith, "I am Abraham's servant; ³⁵and the LORD hath blessed my lord exceedingly, and he is great; and He giveth to him flocks, and herds, and silver, and gold, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and camels, and asses; ³⁶and Sarah, my lord's wife, beareth a son to my lord, after she hath been aged, and he giveth to him all which he hath."

³⁷And my lord causeth me to swear, saying, "Thou shalt not take a wife to my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I am dwelling. ³⁸If not—unto my father's house, dost thou go, and unto my family, then hast thou taken a wife for my son." ³⁹And I say unto my lord, "It may be the woman doth not come after me." ⁴⁰And he saith unto me, "The LORD, before whom I have walked habitually, doth send His messenger with thee, and hath prospered thy way, and thou hast taken a wife for my son from my family, and from my father's house. ⁴¹Then art thou acquitted from my oath, when thou comest unto my family, and if they give not one to thee; then hast thou been acquitted from my oath."

⁴²And I come to-day unto the fountain, and I say, "O LORD God of my lord Abraham, I pray Thee, if Thou art making prosperous my way in which I go,—⁴³lo, I am standing by the fountain of water, and the virgin who cometh out to draw, and I have said unto her, 'Let me drink, I pray thee, a little water from thy pitcher,' ⁴⁴and she hath said unto me, 'Both drink thou, and

I draw also for thy camels,' let her be the woman whom the LORD hath decided for my lord's son."

⁴⁵ 'And I ask her, and say, "Whose daughter art thou?" and she saith, "Daughter of Bethuel, son of Nahor, whom Milcah hath born to him." And I put the ring on her face, and the bracelets on her hands. ⁴⁶ And I bow, and do obeisance before the LORD; and I bless the LORD God of my lord Abraham, who hath led me in the true way to receive the daughter of my lord's brother for his son.

⁵² And they eat and drink, he and the men who are with him, and lodge all night; and they rise in the morning, and he saith, 'Send me to my lord.' ⁵³ And her brother and her mother say, 'Let the young person abide with us a week or ten days; afterwards let her go.' ⁵⁴ And he saith unto them, 'Delay me not, seeing the LORD hath prospered my way: send me away, and I go to my lord.' ⁵⁵ And they say, 'Let us call for the young person, and ask at her mouth.'

⁵⁶ And they call for Rebekah, and say unto her, 'Dost thou go with this man?' and she saith, 'I go.'

⁶² And Rebekah lifteth up her eyes, and seeth Isaac, and alighteth from off the camel. ⁶³ And she saith unto the servant, 'Who is this man who walketh in the field to meet us?' And the servant saith, 'It is my lord;' and she taketh the veil, and covereth herself.

XXV. ¹ AND Abraham addeth and taketh a wife, and her name is Keturah. ² And she beareth to him Zimran, and Jokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishhak, and Shuah. ³ And Jokshan hath begotten Sheba and Dedan; and the children of Dedan were the Asshurim, and Letushim, and Leummim. ⁴ And the children of Midian are Ephah, and Ephher, and Hanoah, and Abidah, and Eldaah: all these are the children of Keturah.

¹² And these are the genealogies of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's handmaid, hath born to Abraham. ¹³ And these are the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, according to their genealogies: The first-born of Ishmael, Nebajoth; and Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibsam, ¹⁴ and Mishma, and Dumah, and Massa, ¹⁵ Hadar, and Tena, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah: ¹⁶ these are the sons of Ishmael, and these their names, by their villages, and by their towers; twelve princes according to their peoples.

Syrian, from Padan-Aram, sister of Laban the Syrian, to him for a wife.

³² And Esau saith, 'Lo, I am going to die, and what is this—my birthright?' ³³ And Jacob saith, 'Swear to me to-day;' and he sweareth to him, and selleth his birthright to Jacob. ³⁴ And Jacob hath given to Esau bread and pottage of lentiles, and he eateth and drinketh, and riseth, and goeth; and Esau despiseth the birthright.

XXVI. ¹ AND there is a famine in the land, besides the first famine which hath been in the days of Abraham; and Isaac goeth unto Abimelech king of the Philistines, to Gerar.

² And the LORD hath appeared unto him, and saith, 'Go not down towards Egypt; tabernacle in the land concerning which I speak unto thee; ³ sojourn in this land, and I am with thee, and bless thee; for to thee and to thy seed I give all these lands, and I have established the oath which I have sworn to Abraham thy father: ⁴ and I have multiplied thy seed as the stars of the heavens, and I have given to thy seed all these lands; and blessed themselves in thy seed have all nations of the earth: ⁵ because that Abraham hath hearkened to My voice, when he keepeth My charge, My commands, My statutes, and My laws.'

Abimelech king of the Philistines looketh through the window, and seeth, and lo, Isaac is playing with Rebekah his wife.

⁹ And Abimelech calleth for Isaac, and saith, 'Lo, she is surely thy wife; and how hast thou said, "She is my sister?"' ¹⁰ And Isaac saith unto him, 'Because I said, "Lest I die for her."'

¹³ And Isaac soweth in that land, and budeth in that year a hundred-fold; and the LORD blesseth him. ¹⁴ And the man is great, and goeth on, going and becoming great, till that he hath been very great. ¹⁵ And he hath possessions of flocks, and possessions of herds, and an abundant service; and the Philistines envy him. ¹⁶ As to all the wells which his father's servants digged in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines have stopped them, and fill them with dust.

²⁰ And Isaac's servants dig in the valley, and find there a well of running water. ²¹ And the shepherds of Gerar strive with the shepherds of Isaac, saying, 'The water is ours;' and he calleth the name of the well Esek, because they have striven habitually with him. ²² And they dig another well, and they strive also for it; and he calleth its name Sitnah. ²³ And he removeth from thence, and diggeth another well, and they have not striven for it; and he calleth its name Rehoboth, and saith, 'For—now hath the LORD given enlargement to us, and we have been fruitful in the land.'

say, "Let there be, we pray thee, an oath between us, between us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee." ²⁰Do no evil with us, as we have not touched thee, and as we have only done good with thee, and send thee away in peace; thou art now blessed of the LORD."

²¹And he maketh a banquet for them, and they eat and drink, ²²and rise early in the morning, and swear one to another; and Isaac sendeth them away, and they go from him in peace. ²³And it cometh to pass during that day that Isaac's servants come and declare to him concerning the circumstances of the well which they have digged; and they say to him, 'We have found water.' ²⁴And he calleth it Shebah: therefore the name of the city is Beer-Sheba unto this day.

XXVII. ¹AND it cometh to pass that Isaac is aged, and his eyes are too dim for seeing; and he calleth Esau his elder son, and saith unto him, 'My son;' and he saith unto him, 'Here am I.' ²And he saith, 'Lo, I pray thee, I have become aged, I have not known the day of my death.' ³And now, take up, I pray thee, thy instruments, thy quiver, and thy bow, and go out to the field, and hunt provision for me; ⁴and make tasteful things for me, such as I have loved, and bring them in unto me, and let me eat, so that my soul doth bless thee before I die.'

⁵And Rebekah is hearkening while Isaac is speaking unto Esau his son; and Esau goeth to the field to hunt provision—to bring in. ⁶And Rebekah hath spoken unto Jacob her son, saying, 'Lo, I have heard thy father speaking unto Esau thy brother, saying, ⁷"Bring provision to me, and make for me tasteful things, and let me eat, and bless thee before the LORD before my death." ⁸And now, my son, hearken to my voice, according to that which I command thee: ⁹Go, I pray thee, unto the flock, and take for me from thence two good kids of the goats, and let me make them tasteful things for thy father, such as he hath loved. ¹⁰And take it in to thy father, then hath he eaten, so that his soul doth bless thee before his death.'

¹¹And Jacob saith unto Rebekah his mother, 'Lo, Esau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a smooth man: ¹²it may be my father doth feel me, then have I been in his eyes as a deceiver, and have brought upon me disesteem, and not a blessing.' ¹³And his mother saith unto him, 'On me be thy disesteem, my son; only hearken to my voice, and go, take for me.'

¹⁴And he goeth, and taketh, and bringeth to his mother; and his mother maketh tasteful things, such as his father hath loved. ¹⁵And Rebekah taketh the desirable garments of Esau her elder son, which are with her in the house, and clotheh Jacob her younger son. ¹⁶And the skins of the kids of the goats she hath put on his hands, and on the smooth of his neck. ¹⁷And she giveth the tasteful things, and the bread which she hath made, into the hand of Jacob her son.

¹⁸And he cometh in unto his father, and saith, 'My father;' and he saith, 'Here am I; who art thou, my son?' ¹⁹And Jacob saith unto his father, 'I am Esau thy first-born; I have done as thou hast spoken unto me; rise, I pray thee, sit, and eat of my provision, so that thy soul doth bless me.'

²⁰And Isaac saith unto his son, 'What is this thou hast hasted to find, my son?' and he saith, 'That which the LORD thy God hath caused to come before me.'

²¹And Isaac saith unto Jacob, 'Come nigh, I pray thee, and let me feel thee, my son, whether thou art he, my son Esau, or not?'

²⁶And Isaac his father saith to him, 'Come nigh, I pray thee, and kiss me, my son.' ²⁷And he cometh nigh, and kisseth him, and he smelleth the fragrance of his garments, and blesseth him, and saith, 'See, the fragrance of my son is as the fragrance of a field which the LORD hath blessed: ²⁸let God also give to thee of the dew of heaven, and of the fatness of the earth, and abundance of corn and wine; ²⁹let peoples serve thee, and nations bow themselves to thee; be mighty over thy brethren, and let the children of thy mother bow themselves to thee; those who curse thee are cursed, and those who bless thee are blessed.'

³⁰And it cometh to pass, as Isaac hath finished blessing Jacob, and Jacob is only just going out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother cometh in from his hunting. ³¹And he also maketh tasty things, and bringeth to his father; and saith to his father, 'Let my father arise, and eat of his son's provision, so that thy soul doth bless me.'

³²And Isaac his father saith to him, 'Who art thou?' and he saith, 'I am thy son, thy first-born, Esau.' ³³And Isaac trembleth with a very great trembling, and saith, 'Who, now, is he who hath provided provision, and bringeth in to me, and I eat of all before thou comest in, and I bless him?—yea, blessed is he.'

³⁴When Esau heareth the words of his father, then he crieth with a very great and bitter cry, and saith to his father, 'Bless me, also, O my father.' ³⁵And he saith, 'Thy brother cometh with subtilty, and taketh thy blessing.'

³⁷ And Isaac answereth and saith to Esau, 'Lo, a mighty one have I set him over thee; and all his brethren have I given to him for servants; and with corn and wine have I sustained him; and now, for thee, what shall I do, my son?'

⁴¹ And Esau hateth Jacob, because of the blessing with which his father hath blessed him; and Esau saith in his heart, 'The days of mourning for my father draw near, then do I slay Jacob my brother.'

⁴² And the words of Esau her elder son are declared to Rebekah; and she sendeth and calleth for Jacob her younger son, and saith unto him, 'Lo, Esau thy brother doth comfort himself in reference to thee, to slay thee; ⁴³ and now, my son, hearken to my voice, and rise, flee for thyself unto Laban my brother, to Haran; ⁴⁴ when thou hast dwelt with him some days, till thy brother's fury turn back; ⁴⁵ till thy brother's anger turn back from thee, and he hath forgotten that which thou hast done to him, then have I sent and taken you from thence; why shall I be bereaved even of you both the same day?'

XXVIII. ¹ AND Isaac calleth unto Jacob, and blesseth him, and commandeth him, and saith to him, 'Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan; ² rise, go to Padan-Aram, to the house of Bethuel, thy mother's father, and take for thyself from thence a wife, of the daughters of Laban, thy mother's brother; ³ and God Almighty doth bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiplieth thee, and thou shalt become a congregation of peoples; ⁴ and He doth give to thee the blessing of Abraham, to thee and to thy seed with thee, by causing thee to possess the land of thy sojournings, which God hath given to Abraham.'

⁶ And Esau seeth that Isaac hath blessed Jacob, and hath sent him to Padan-Aram to take to himself a wife from thence—that in his blessing him he layeth a charge upon him, saying, 'Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan'—that Jacob hearkeneth unto his father and unto his mother, and goeth to Padan-Aram; ⁷ Esau also seeth that the daughters of Canaan are evil in the eyes of Isaac his father, ⁸ and Esau goeth unto Ishmael, and taketh unto his wives which he hath Mahalath, daughter of Ishmael, Abraham's son, sister of Nebajoth, for a wife.

¹² And he dreameth, and lo, a ladder set up on the earth, and its head toucheth the heavens; and lo, messengers of God are going up and coming down by it. ¹³ And lo, the LORD is standing upon it; and He saith, 'I am the LORD God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac; the land on which thou liest, to thee I give it, and to thy seed; ¹⁴ then thy seed hath been as the dust of the land, and thou hast broken forth westward, and eastward, and northward, and southward; and all families of the ground have been blessed in thee and in thy seed. ¹⁵ And lo, I am with thee, and have kept thee whithersoever thou goest, and have caused thee to turn back unto this ground; for I leave thee not till that I have surely done that which I have spoken to thee.'

¹⁸ And Jacob riseth early in the morning, and taketh the stone which he hath made his pillow, and maketh it a standing pillar, and poureth oil upon its top. ¹⁹ And he calleth the name of that place Bethel; and yet, Luz is the name of the city at the first.

²⁰ And Jacob voweth a vow, saying, 'Seeing God is with me, and hath kept me in this way which I go, and hath given to me bread to eat, and a garment to put on—²¹ when I have turned back in peace unto the house of my father, and the LORD hath become my God, ²² then this stone which I have made a standing pillar is the house of God, and all which Thou dost give to me I do certainly tithe to Thee.'

XXIX. ¹ AND Jacob lifteth up his feet, and goeth towards the land of the children of the east. ² And he looketh, and lo, a well in the field, and lo, there are three droves of a flock crouching by it: for from that well they water the droves, and the great stone is on the mouth of the well. ³ (When thither have all the droves been gathered: and they have rolled the stone from off the mouth of the well, and have watered the flock, then they have turned back the stone at the mouth of the well to its place.)

4 And Jacob saith to them, 'My brethren, from whence are ye?' And they say, 'We are from Haran.' 5 And he saith to them, 'Have ye known Laban, son of Nahor?' And they say, 'We have known.' 6 And he saith to them, 'Hath he peace?' And they say, 'Peace: and lo, Rachel his daughter is coming with the flock.'

7 And he saith, 'Lo, the day is still great, it is not time for the cattle to be gathered; water ye the flock, and go, delight yourselves.' 8 And they say, 'We are unable, till all the droves be gathered together: then have they rolled away the stone from the mouth of the well, and we have watered the flock.'

9 He is yet speaking with them, and Rachel cometh with the flock which her father hath: for she is a shepherdess. 10 And it cometh to pass when Jacob hath seen Rachel, daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the flock of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob cometh nigh and rolleth the stone from off the mouth of the well, and watereth the flock of Laban his mother's brother. 11 And Jacob kisseth Rachel, and lifteth up his voice, and weepeth. 12 And Jacob declareth to Rachel that he is her father's brother, and that he is Rebekah's son; and she runneth and declareth it to her father.

13 And it cometh to pass, when Laban heareth the report of Jacob his sister's son, that he runneth to meet him, and embraceth him, and kisseth him, and bringeth him in unto his house; and he recounteth to Laban all these things. 14 And Laban saith to him, 'Only my bone and my flesh art thou;' and he dwelleth with him a full month.

15 And Laban saith to Jacob, 'Is it because thou art my brother that thou hast served me for nought? declare to me what is thy hire?' 16 And Laban hath two daughters: the name of the elder is Leah, and the name of the younger is Rachel. 17 And the eyes of Leah are tender: and Rachel hath been fair of form and fair of appearance. 18 And Jacob loveth Rachel, and saith, 'I serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter.' 19 And Laban saith, 'It is better for me to give her to thee than to give her to another man; dwell with me.' 20 And Jacob serveth for Rachel seven years: and they are in his eyes as some days, because of his loving her.

21 And Jacob saith unto Laban, 'Give up my wife, for my days have been fulfilled, and let me go in unto her.' 22 And Laban gathereth all the men of the place, and maketh a banquet. 23 And it cometh to pass in the evening, that he taketh Leah, his daughter, and bringeth her in unto him, and he goeth in unto her. 24 And Laban giveth to her Zilpah, his maid-servant, to Leah his daughter, a maid-servant to her.

25 And it cometh to pass in the morning, that lo, it is Leah: and he saith unto Laban, 'What is this thou hast done unto me? have I not served with thee for Rachel? and why hast thou deceived me?' 26 And Laban saith, 'It is not so done in our place, to give the younger before the first-born: 27 fulfil the week of this one, and we give to thee this other also, for the service which thou dost serve with me yet seven other years.'

28 And Jacob doth so, and fulfilleth the week of this one; and he giveth to him Rachel his daughter, for a wife to him. 29 And Laban giveth to Rachel his daughter, Bilhah his maid-servant, for a maid-servant to her. 30 And he goeth in also unto Rachel; and he also loveth Rachel more than Leah; and he serveth with him yet seven other years.

31 And the LORD seeth that Leah is the hated one, and He openeth her womb; but Rachel is barren. 32 And Leah conceiveth, and beareth a son, and calleth his name Reuben: for she hath said, 'Because the LORD hath looked on mine affliction; because now doth my husband love me.'

33 And she conceiveth again, and beareth a son, and saith, 'Because the LORD hath heard that I am the hated one, He also giveth to me even this one;' and she calleth his name Simeon.

34 And she conceiveth again, and beareth a son, and saith, 'Now is the time, my husband is joined unto me, because I have born to him three sons;' therefore hath one called his name Levi.

35 And she conceiveth again, and beareth a son, and saith this time, 'I praise the LORD;' therefore hath she called his name Judah; and she ceaseth from bearing.

XXX. 1 AND Rachel seeth that she hath not born to Jacob; and Rachel is envious of her sister, and saith unto Jacob, 'Give me children, and if there is none—I die.' 2 And Jacob's anger burneth against Rachel, and he saith, 'Am I in God's stead, who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?' 3 And she saith, 'Lo, my handmaid Bilhah, go in unto her, and let her bear on my knees, and let me be built up, even I, by her.'

4 And she giveth to him Bilhah her maid-servant for a wife, and Jacob goeth in unto her; and Bilhah conceiveth, and beareth a son to Jacob. 5 And Rachel saith, 'God hath decided for me, and hath also harkened to my voice, and giveth to me a son;' therefore hath she called his name Dan.

7 And Bilhah, Rachel's maid-servant, conceiveth again, and beareth a second son to Jacob. 6 And Rachel saith, 'With wrestlings of God I have wrestled with my sister, yea, I have prevailed;' and she calleth his name Naphtali.

9 And Leah seeth that she hath ceased from bearing, and she taketh Zilpah her maid-servant, and giveth her to Jacob for a wife. 10 And Zilpah, Leah's maid-servant, beareth a son to Jacob. 11 And Leah saith, 'A troop cometh;' and she calleth his name Gad.

12 And Zilpah, Leah's maid-servant, beareth a second son to Jacob; 13 and Leah saith, 'Because of my happiness, surely the daughters have pronounced me happy;' and she calleth his name Asher.

¹⁷ And God hearkeneth unto Leah, and she conceiveth, and beareth to Jacob a fifth son. ¹⁸ And Leah saith, 'God hath given my hire, because I have given my maid-servant to my husband;' and she calleth his name Issachar.

¹⁹ And Leah conceiveth again, and beareth a sixth son to Jacob. ²⁰ And Leah saith, 'God hath endowed me with a good dowry; this time doth my husband dwell with me, for I have born to him six sons;' and she calleth his name Zebulun. ²¹ And afterwards she hath born a daughter, and calleth her name Dinah.

²² And God remembereth Rachel, and God hearkeneth unto her, and openeth her womb. ²³ And she conceiveth, and beareth a son, and saith, 'God hath gathered up my reproach.' ²⁴ And she calleth his name Joseph, saying, 'The Lord add to me another son.'

²⁵ And it cometh to pass, when Rachel hath born Joseph, that Jacob saith unto Laban, 'Send me away, and I go unto my place, and to my land; ²⁶ give up my wives and my children, for whom I have served thee, and I go; for thou hast known my service which I have served thee.'

²⁷ And Laban saith unto him, 'If, I pray thee, I have found grace in thine eyes—I have observed diligently that the Lord doth bless me for thy sake.' ²⁸ He saith also, 'Define thy hire to me, and I give it.'

²⁹ And he saith unto him, 'Thou hast known that which I have served thee in, and that which thy substance was with me. ³⁰ For it is little which thou hast had before my coming, but it breaketh forth into a multitude, and the Lord blesseth thee at my coming; and now, when do I prepare, I also, for mine own house?'

³¹ And he saith, 'What shall I give to thee?' And Jacob saith, 'Thou shalt not give me anything; if thou do this thing for me, I turn back; I have delight; thy flock I watch; ³² I pass through all thy flock to-day to turn aside from thence every speckled and spotted sheep, and every brown sheep among the lambs, and the speckled and spotted among the goats—and it hath been my hire. ³³ And my righteousness hath answered for me in the day to come, when it cometh in for my hire before thy face;—every one which is not speckled and spotted among my goats, and brown among my lambs—it is stolen with me.'

³⁴ And Laban saith, 'Lo, O that it may be according to thy word.' ³⁵ And he turneth aside during that day the ring-straked and spotted he-goats, and all the speckled and spotted she-goats, every one that hath white in it, and every brown one among the lambs, and he giveth them into the hand of his sons. ³⁶ And he setteth a journey of three days between himself and Jacob; and Jacob feedeth the rest of the flock of Laban.

XXXI. 1 AND he heareth the words of Laban's sons, saying, 'Jacob hath taken all which our father hath; yea, from that which our father hath, he hath made all this honour.' ² And Jacob seeth the face of Laban, and lo, it is not with him as heretofore.

⁴ And Jacob sendeth and calleth for Rachel and for Leah to the field unto his flock; ⁵ and saith to them, 'I see your father's face that it is not towards me as heretofore; but the God of my father hath been with me. ⁶ And ye have known that with all my power I have served your father. ⁷ And your father hath played upon me, and hath changed my hire ten times: but God hath not suffered him to do evil with me.'

speckled, and grised. ¹¹ And the Messenger of God saith unto me in the dream, "Jacob;" and I say, "Here am I." ¹² And He saith, "Lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes, and see—all the he-goats which go up on the flock are ring-straked, speckled, and grised, for I have seen all that Laban is doing to thee. ¹³ I am the God of Bethel, where thou hast anointed the standing pillar, where thou hast vowed a vow to me; now, arise, go out from this land, and turn back unto the land of thy kindred."

¹⁴ And Rachel—Leah also—answereth and saith to him, "Have we yet a portion or inheritance in the house of our father? ¹⁵ Have we not been reckoned strangers to him? for he hath sold us, and he also utterly consumeth our money. ¹⁶ Surely all the wealth which God hath taken away from our father, it is ours, and our children's; and now, all which God hath said unto thee do."

²² And it is told to Laban on the third day that Jacob hath fled. ²³ And he taketh his brethren with him, and pursueth after him a journey of seven days, and overtaketh him in mount Gilead.

²⁶ And Laban saith to Jacob, "What hast thou done that thou dost deceive my heart, and leadest away my daughters as captives of the sword? ²⁷ Why hast thou hidden thyself to flee, and deceivest me, and hast not declared to me, or let me send thee away with joy and with songs, with tabret and with harp? ²⁸ And hast not suffered me to kiss my sons and my daughters—now thou hast acted foolishly in doing so. ²⁹ My hand is to God to do evil with you; but the God of your father yesternight hath spoken unto me, saying, "Take heed to thyself from speaking with Jacob from good unto evil."

me." ³² With whomsoever thou findest thy gods, let him not live; before our brethren discern for thyself what is with me, and take it to thyself;" and Jacob has not known that Rachel hath stolen them.

³⁶ And it is displeasing to Jacob, and he striveth with Laban; and Jacob answereth and saith to Laban, "What is my transgression? what my sin, that thou hast burned after me? ³⁷ For thou hast felt all my vessels: what hast thou found of all the vessels of thy house? set it here before my brethren, and thy brethren, and let them decide between us both."

³⁸ These twenty years I am with thee: thy ewes and thy she-goats have not miscarried, and the rams of thy flock I have not eaten; ³⁹ the torn I have not brought in unto thee—I repay it—from my hand thou dost seek it; I have been deceived by day, and I have been deceived by night; ⁴⁰ I have been thus: in the day drought hath consumed me, and the frost at night, and my sleep wandereth from mine eyes.

⁴¹ This is to me twenty years in thy house; I have served thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and six years for thy flock; and thou changest my hire ten times; ⁴² unless the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the Fear of Isaac, had been for me, surely now empty hadst thou sent me away; mine affliction and the labour of my hands God hath seen, and reproveth yesternight."

⁴³ And Laban answereth and saith unto Jacob, "The daughters are my daughters, and the children are my children, and the flock is my flock, and all that thou seest is mine; and to my daughters what shall I do to these to-day, or to their children whom they have born? ⁴⁴ And now, come, let us make a covenant, I and thou, then hath it been for a witness between me and thee."

⁴⁸ And Laban saith, "This heap is witness between me and thee to-day;" therefore hath he called it name Galed; ⁴⁹ Mizpah also, because he hath said, "The Lord watch between me and thee, when we are hidden one from another. ⁵⁰ Thou shalt not afflict my daughters, or take other wives beside my daughters—there is no man with us—see, God is witness between me and thee."

⁵¹And Laban saith to Jacob, "Behold this heap, and behold the standing pillar which I have cast between me and thee. ⁵²This heap is witness, and the standing pillar is witness, that I do not pass over this heap unto thee, and that thou dost not pass over this heap and this standing pillar unto me, for evil. ⁵³The God of Abraham and the God of Nahor, the God of their father, judge between us;" and Jacob sweareth by the Fear of his father Isaac.

⁵⁴And Jacob sacrificeth a sacrifice on the mount, and calleth to his brethren to eat bread; and they eat bread, and lodge in the mount. ⁵⁵And Laban riseth early in the morning, and kisseth his sons and his daughters, and blesseth them; and Laban goeth on, and turneth back to his own place.

XXXII. ¹And Jacob hath gone on his way; and the messengers of God come upon him. ²And Jacob saith, when he hath seen them, "This is the camp of God;" and he calleth the name of that place Mahanaim.

³And Jacob sendeth messengers before him unto Esau his brother, towards the land of Seir, the country of Edom, and commandeth them, saying, "Thus shall ye say to my lord, to Esau: 'Thus hath thy servant Jacob said, 'With Laban I have sojourned, and I tarry until now; and I have oxen and asses, flocks, and men-servants and maid-servants, and I send to declare it to my lord, to find grace in his eyes.'"

⁴And the messengers turn back unto Jacob, saying, "We came in unto thy brother, unto Esau, and he also cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him." ⁵And Jacob feareth exceedingly, and is distressed; and he divideth the people who are with him, and the flock, and the herd, and the camels, into two camps, and saith, "If Esau come in unto the one camp, and have smitten it—then the camp which hath been left hath been for an escape."

⁶And Jacob saith, "O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac, the Lord who saith unto me, 'Turn back to thy land, and to thy kindred, and I do good with thee.'" ¹⁰I am unworthy of all the kindnesses and of all the truth which Thou hast done with thy servant—for, with my staff I passed over this Jordan, and now I have become two camps. ¹¹Deliver me, I pray Thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau: for I fear him, lest he come and have smitten me—the mother beside the children. ¹²Thou—Thou also hast said, 'I certainly do good with thee, and have made thy seed as the sand of the sea, which is not numbered because of the multitude.'"

ling camels and their young ones thirty, cows forty, and bullocks ten, she-asses twenty, and foals ten; ¹⁶and he giveth them into the hand of his servants, every drove by itself; and he saith unto his servants, "Pass over before me, and put a space between every drove." ¹⁷And he commandeth the first, saying, "When Esau my brother meeteth thee, and hath asked thee, saying, 'Whose art thou? and whither goest thou? and whose are these before thee?' ¹⁸Then hast thou said, 'Thy servant Jacob's: it is a present sent to my lord, to Esau; and lo, he also is behind us.'"

¹⁹And he commandeth also the second, also the third, also all who go after the droves, saying, "According to this manner do ye speak unto Esau in your finding him, ²⁰and have said, 'Lo, also, thy servant Jacob is behind us;" for he hath said, 'I pacify his face with the present which goeth before me, and afterwards I see his face; it may be he lifteth up my face.' ²¹And the present passeth over before his face; and he hath lodged during that night in the camp."

²²And he riseth in that night, and taketh his two wives, and his two maid-servants, and his eleven children, and passeth over the ford of Jabbok. ²³And he taketh them, and causeth them to pass over the brook, and he causeth all that he hath to pass over.

²⁴And Jacob is left alone; and One wrestleth with him till the ascending of the dawn. ²⁵And He seeth that He is not able for him; and He cometh against the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh is disjoined in his wrestling with Him. ²⁶And He saith, "Send Me away, for the dawn hath ascended." And he saith, "I send Thee not away, except Thou bless me."

²⁷And He saith unto him, "What is thy name?" And he saith, Jacob. ²⁸And He saith, "Thy name is no more called Jacob, but Israel; for thou hast been a prince with God and with men, and dost prevail." ²⁹And Jacob asketh, and saith, "Declare, I pray thee, Thy name." And He saith, "Why is this, thou askest for My name?" and He blesseth him there.

XXXIII. ¹And Jacob lifteth up his eyes, and looketh, and lo, Esau is coming, and with him four hundred men; and he divideth the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two maid-servants. ²And he setteth the maid-servants and their children first, and Leah and her children behind, and Rachel and Joseph last.

³And he himself hath passed over before them, and boweth himself to the earth seven times, until his drawing nigh unto his brother. ⁴And Esau runneth to meet him, and embraceth him, and falleth on his neck, and kisseth him, and weepeth; ⁶ and he lifteth up his eyes, and seeth the women and the children, and saith, 'What are these to thee?' And he saith, 'The children whom God hath graciously given thy servant.'

⁸ And he saith, 'What to thee is all this camp which I have met?' and he saith, 'To find grace in the eyes of my lord.' ⁹ And Esau saith, 'I have abundance, my brother; let it be to thyself that which thou hast.'

¹⁰ And Jacob saith, 'Nay, I pray thee, if I pray thee, I have found grace in thine eyes, then hast thou received my present from my hand; because that I have seen thy face, as the seeing of the face of God, and thou art pleased with me. ¹¹ Receive, I pray thee, my blessing, which is brought to thee; because God hath favoured me, and because I have all things,' and he presseth on him, and he receiveth it. ¹² And saith, 'Let us journey, yea, let us go on, and let me go on before thee.'

¹³ And he saith unto him, 'My lord knoweth that the children are tender, and the suckling flocks and herds are with me; when they have beaten them one day, then have all the flock died. ¹⁴ Let my lord, I pray thee, pass over before his servant, and I lead on gently, according to the foot of the work which is before me, and according to the foot of the children, until that I come unto my lord, to Seir.'

¹⁵ And Esau saith, 'Let me, I pray thee, place with thee some of the people who are with me.' And he said, 'Why is this? let me find grace in the eyes of my lord.'

¹⁶ And Esau turneth back on that day on his way to Seir. ¹⁷ And Jacob hath journeyed to Succoth, and buildeth to himself a house, and for his cattle he hath made booths; therefore hath he called the name of the place Succoth.

XXXIV. ¹ AND Dinah, daughter of Leah, whom she hath born to Jacob, goeth out to look on the daughters of the land. ² And Shechem, son of Hamor the Hivite, a prince of the land, seeth her, and taketh her, and lieth with her, and humbleth her. ³ And his soul cleaveth to Dinah, daughter of Jacob, and he loveth the young person, and speaketh unto the heart of the young person.

⁴ And Shechem speaketh unto Hamor his father, saying, 'Take for me this damsel for a wife.' ⁵ And Jacob heard he hath defiled Dinah his daughter, but his sons were with his cattle in the field, and Jacob kept silent till their coming.

⁶ And Hamor, father of Shechem, goeth out unto Jacob, to speak with him; ⁷ and the sons of Jacob have come in from the field when they have heard it, and the men grieve themselves, and it is very displeasing to them; for folly he had done against Israel, to lie with the daughter of Jacob, and so it is not done.

⁸ And Hamor speaketh with them, saying, 'Shechem, my son, his soul hath cleaved to your daughter; give her, I pray you, to him for a wife; ⁹ and join ye in marriage with us; your daughters give to us, and our daughters take to yourselves; ¹⁰ and dwell with us, and let the land be before you; dwell ye and trade in it, and have possessions in it.'

¹¹ And Shechem saith unto her father, and unto her brethren, 'Let me find grace in your eyes, and that which ye say unto me, I give. ¹² Multiply on me exceedingly dowry and gift, and I give as ye say unto me; and give to me the young person for a wife.'

¹⁵ 'Only for this we consent to you; if ye be as we, to have every male of you circumcised, ¹⁶ then have we given our daughters to you, and your daughters we take to ourselves, and we have dwelt with you, and we have become one people; ¹⁷ and if ye hearken not unto us to be circumcised, then have we taken our daughter, and have gone.'

²² 'Only for this do the men consent to us, to dwell with us, to become one people, in every male of us being circumcised, as they are circumcised. ²³ Their cattle, and their substance, and all their beasts—are they not ours? only let us consent to them, and let them dwell with us.' ²⁴ And unto Hamor, and unto Shechem his son, hearken do all who go out of the gate of his city, and every male is circumcised; every one who goeth out of the gate of his city.

the city confidently, and slay every male. ²And Hamor, and Shechem his son, have they slain by the edge of the sword; and they take Dinah out of Shechem's house, and go out. ³Jacob's sons have come in upon the wounded, and they spoil the city, because they have defiled their sister; ⁴their flock and their herd, and their asses, and that which is in the city, and that which is in the field, have they taken; ⁵and all their wealth, and all their infants, and their wives have they taken captive; and they spoil also all that is in the house.

⁶And Jacob saith unto Simeon and unto Levi, 'Ye have troubled me, by causing me to sink among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanite, and among the Perizzite: and I am few in number; when they have been gathered against me, and have smitten me, then have I been destroyed, I and my house.' ⁷And they say, 'As a harlot shall he make our sister?'

XXXV. ¹AND God saith unto Jacob, 'Rise, go up to Bethel, and dwell there, and make there an altar to God, who appeared unto thee in thy fleeing from the face of Esau thy brother.'

²And Jacob saith unto his household, and unto all who are with him, 'Turn aside the gods of the stranger which are in your midst, and cleanse yourselves, and change your garments: ³and let us rise, and go up to Bethel, and I make there an altar to God, who answereth me in the day of my distress, and is with me in the way I have gone.'

⁴And they give unto Jacob all the gods of the stranger which are in their hand, and the rings which are in their ears, and Jacob hideth them under the oak which is by Shechem. ⁵And they journey; and the terror of God is on the cities which are round about them, and they have not pursued after the sons of Jacob.

⁶And Jacob cometh in to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan (it is Bethel), he and all the people who are with him. ⁷And he buildeth there an altar, and proclaimeth at that place the God of Bethel: for there had God been revealed to him, in his fleeing from the face of his brother.

⁸And Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, dieth, and she is buried beneath Bethel, under the oak; and he calleth its name Allon-Bachuth.

⁹And God appeareth unto Jacob again, in his coming from Padan-Aram, and blesseth him. ¹⁰And God saith to him, 'Thy name is Jacob: thy name is no more called Jacob, but Israel is thy name; and he calleth his name Israel.'

¹¹And God saith to him, 'I am God Almighty: be fruitful and multiply, let a nation and a congregation of nations be from thee, and let kings go out from thy loins. ¹²And the land which I have given to Abraham and to Isaac—to thee I give it, even to thy seed after thee I give the land.' ¹³And God goeth up from him, in the place where He hath spoken with him.

¹⁴And Jacob setteth up a standing pillar in the place where He hath spoken with him, a standing pillar of stone, and he poureth on it an oblation, he also poureth on it oil. ¹⁵And Jacob calleth the name of the place where God spake with him Bethel.

¹⁶And they journey from Bethel, and there is yet a kivrath of land before entering Ephrath; and Rachel beareth, and is sharply pained in her bearing: ¹⁷And it cometh to pass, in her being sharply pained in her bearing, that the midwife saith to her, 'Fear not, for this also is a son for thee.' ¹⁸And it cometh to pass in the going out of her soul (for she died), that she calleth his name Benoni; but his father hath called him Benjamin. ¹⁹And Rachel dieth, and is buried in the way to Ephrath, which is Bethlehem. ²⁰And Jacob setteth up a standing pillar over her grave; which is the standing pillar of Rachel's grave unto this day.

²¹And Israel journeyeth, and stretcheth out his tent beyond the tower of Eder. ²²And it cometh to pass in Israel's dwelling in that land, that Reuben goeth, and lieth with Bilhah his father's concubine: and Israel heareth.

XXXVI. ¹AND these are the genealogies of Esau, who is Edom. ²Esau hath taken his wives from the daughters of Canaan: Adah daughter of Elon the Hittite, and Aholibamah daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon the Iivite: ³also Bashemath daughter of Ishmael, sister of Nebajoth. ⁴And Adah beareth to Esau, Eliphaz: and Bashemath hath born Reuel. ⁵And Aholibamah hath born Jeush, and Janlam, and Korah. These are the sons of Esau, who were born to him in the land of Canaan.

⁹And these are the genealogies of Esau, father of the Edomites, in mount Seir. ¹⁰These are the names of the sons of Esau: Eliphaz son of Adah, wife of Esau; Reuel son of Bashemath, wife of Esau. ¹¹And the sons of Eliphaz are Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz. ¹²And Timnath hath been concubine to Eliphaz son of Esau, and she beareth to Eliphaz, Amalek; these are the sons of Adah wife of Esau. ¹³And these are the sons of Reuel: Nahath and Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah; these were the sons of Basemath wife of Esau.

¹⁴And these have been the sons of Aholibamah daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon, wife of Esau; and she beareth to Esau, Jeush and Jaalam and Korah.

¹⁵These are the chiefs of the sons of Esau: sons of Eliphaz, first-born of Esau: chief Teman, chief Omar, chief Zepho, chief Kenaz, ¹⁶chief Korah, chief Gatam, chief Amalek. These are the chiefs of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom; these are sons of Adah.

¹⁷And these are the sons of Reuel son of Esau: chief Nahath, chief Zerah, chief Shammah, chief Mizzah. These are the chiefs of Reuel, in the land of Edom; these are the sons of Basemath wife of Esau.

¹⁸And these are the sons of Aholibamah wife of Esau: chief Jeush, chief Jaalam, chief Korah: these are the chiefs of Aholibamah daughter of Anah, wife of Esau.

¹⁹These are the sons of Esau (who is Edom), and these are the chiefs.

²⁰These are the sons of Seir the Horite, the inhabitants of the land: Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, ²¹and Dishon, and Ezer, and Dishan: these are the chiefs of the Horites, the children of Seir, in the land of Edom.

²²And the sons of Lotan are Hori and Heman; and the sister of Lotan is Timna.

²³And these are the sons of Shobal: Alvan and Manahath, and Ebal, Shepho and Onam.

²⁴And these are the sons of Zibeon, both Ajah and Anah: it is Anah that hath found the Enim in the wilderness, in his feeding the asses of Zibeon his father.

²⁶And these are the sons of Dishon: Hemdan, and Eshban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

²⁷These are the sons of Ezer: Bilbah, and Zaan, and Akan.

²⁸These are the sons of Dishan: Uz and Aran.

²⁹These are the chiefs of the Horites: chief Lotan, chief Shobal, chief Zibeon, chief Anah, ³⁰chief Dishon, chief Ezer, chief Dishan: these are chiefs of Hor, in reference to their chiefs in the land of Seir.

Saul dieth, and Baal-hanan son of Achbor reigneth in his stead. ³⁹And Baal-hanan son of Achbor dieth, and Hadar reigneth in his stead; and the name of his city is Pau; and his wife's name is Mehetabel daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezahab.

XXXVII. ¹AND Jacob dwelleth in the land of his father's sojournings—in the land of Canaan. ²These are the genealogies of Jacob: Joseph, seventeen years old, has been enjoying himself with his brethren among the flock, and he is a youth compared with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives; and Joseph bringeth in an account of their evil unto their father.

³And Israel hath loved Joseph more than any of his children, for he is the son of his old age, and hath made for him a coat for the extremities. ⁴And his brethren see that their father hath loved him more than any of his brethren; and they hate him, and have not been able to speak to him peaceably.

⁵And Joseph dreameth a dream, and declareth it to his brethren; and they add still more to hate him. ⁶And he saith unto them, 'Hear ye, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed. ⁷That, lo, we are binding sheaves in the midst of the field, and lo, my sheaf hath arisen, and hath also stood up, and lo, your sheaves are round about, and bow themselves to my sheaf.'

⁸And his brethren say to him, 'Dost thou certainly reign over us? dost thou certainly rule over us?' and they add still more to hate him, for his dream, and for his words.

⁹And he dreameth yet another dream, and recounteth it to his brethren, and saith, 'Lo, I have dreamed a dream again, and lo, the sun and the moon, and eleven stars, bow themselves to me.'

¹⁰And he recounteth it unto his father, and unto his brethren; and his father pusleth against him, and saith to him, 'What is this dream which thou hast dreamt? do we certainly come—I, and thy mother, and thy brethren—to bow ourselves to thee, to the earth?' ¹¹And his brethren are jealous of him; but his father hath observed the matter.

¹²And his brethren go to feed the flock of their father in Shechem. ¹³And Israel saith unto Joseph, 'Are not thy brethren feeding in Shechem, come, and I send thee unto them.' And he saith to him, 'Here am I.' ¹⁴And he saith to him, 'Go, I pray thee, see the peace of thy brethren, and the peace of the flock, and bring me back word.' And he sendeth him from the valley of Hebron; and he cometh to Shechem.

¹⁵And a man findeth him, and lo, he is wandering in the field; and the man asketh him, saying, 'What seekest thou?' ¹⁶And he saith, 'I am seeking my brethren; declare to me, I pray thee, where they are feeding?' ¹⁷And the man saith, 'They have journeyed from hence, for I have heard them say, "Let us go to Dothan."' And Joseph goeth after his brethren, and findeth them in Dothan.

¹⁸And they see him from afar, even before he draweth near unto them, and they conspire against him to put him to death.

¹⁹And they say one unto another, 'Lo, this man dreams cometh.' ²⁰And now, come, and let us slay him, and cast him into one of the pits, then have we said, "An evil beast hath devoured him;" and let us see what his dreams are.' ²¹And Reuben heareth, and delivereth him out of their hand, and saith, 'Let us not smite the life.' ²²And Reuben saith unto them, 'Shed no blood; cast him into this pit which is in the wilderness, and lay not a hand upon him,'—in order to deliver him out of their hand, to bring him back unto his father.

²³And it cometh to pass, when Joseph hath come unto his brethren, that they strip Joseph of his coat, the coat for the extremities which is upon him. ²⁴And they take him and cast him into the pit; and the pit is empty, there is no water in it.

²⁵And they sit down to eat bread; and they lift up their eyes, and look, and lo, a company of Ishmaelites coming from Gilead, and their camels bearing spices, and balm, and myrrh, going to take them down to Egypt.

²⁶And Judah saith unto his brethren, 'What gain when we slay our brother and have concealed his blood?' ²⁷Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmaelites, and let not our hands be on him, for he is our brother, our flesh;' and his brethren hearken.

²⁸And Midianite merchantmen pass by; and they draw out and bring up Joseph out of the pit, and sell Joseph to the Ishmaelites for twenty silverlings; and they bring Joseph to Egypt.

²⁹And Reuben returneth unto the pit, and lo, Joseph is not in the pit; and he rendeth his garments. ³⁰And returneth unto his brethren, and saith, 'The lad is not; and I—whither do I go?'

³¹And they take the coat of Joseph, and they slaughter a kid of the goats, and dip the coat in the blood. ³²And they send the coat for the extremities, and they bring it in unto their father, and say, 'This have we found: discern, we pray thee, whether it is thy son's coat or not?' ³³And he discerneth it, and saith, 'My son's coat! an evil beast hath devoured him; torn—torn is Joseph!'

³⁴And Jacob rendeth his raiment, and putteth sackcloth on his loins, and becometh a mourner for his son many days. ³⁵And all his sons and all his daughters rise to comfort him, and he refuseth to comfort himself, and saith, 'For I go down mourning unto my son, to Sheol.' And his father weepeth for him.

³⁶And the Midianites have sold him unto

Egypt, to Potiphar, a eunuch of Pharaoh, head of the executioners.

XXXVIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, at that time, that Judah goeth down from his brethren, and turneth aside unto a man, an Adullamite, whose name is Hirah. ²And Judah seeth there the daughter of a man, a Canaanite, whose name is Shuah; and he taketh her, and goeth in unto her. ³And she conceiveth, and beareth a son, and he calleth his name Er. ⁴And she conceiveth again, and beareth a son, and calleth his name Onan. ⁵And she addeth again, and beareth a son, and calleth his name Shelah; and he was at Chezib in her bearing him.

⁶And Judah taketh a wife for Er, his first-born, and her name is Tamar. ⁷And Er, Judah's first-born, is evil in the eyes of the Lord, and the Lord putteth him to death.

⁸And Judah saith to Onan, 'Go in unto the wife of thy brother, and marry her, and raise up seed to thy brother.' ⁹And Onan knoweth that the seed is not reckoned his; and it hath come to pass—he hath not gone in unto his brother's wife, and hath destroyed it to the earth, so as not to give seed to his brother. ¹⁰And that which he hath done is evil in the eyes of the Lord, and He putteth him also to death.

¹¹And Judah saith to Tamar his daughter-in-law, 'Abide a widow at thy father's house, till Shelah my son be grown up;' for he hath said, 'Lest he die—even he—like his brethren;' and Tamar goeth and dwelleth at her father's house.

¹⁵And Judah seeth her, and reckoneth her to be a harlot, for she hath covered her face. ¹⁶And he turneth aside unto her by the way, and saith, 'Come, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee' (for he hath not known that she is his daughter-in-law); and she saith, 'What dost thou give me, that thou mayest come in unto me?' ¹⁷And he saith, 'I send a kid of the goats from the flock.' And she saith, 'Dost thou give a pledge till thou send it?' ¹⁸And he saith, 'What is the pledge that I give to thee?' and she saith, 'Thy seal, and thy ribbon, and thy staff which is in thy hand;' and he giveth to her, and goeth in unto her, and she conceiveth to him. ¹⁹And she riseth, and goeth, and turneth aside her vail from off her, and putteth on the garments of her widowhood.

to receive the pledge from the hand of the woman, but he hath not found her. ²¹And he asketh the men of her place, saying, 'Where is the separated one,—she in Ennyim, by the way?' and they say, 'There hath not been in this place a separated one.'

²²And he turneth back unto Judah, and saith, 'I have not found her; and the men of the place also have said, "There hath not been in this place a separated one."'

²³And Judah saith, 'Let her take it to herself, lest we become despised; lo, I have sent this kid, and thou hast not found her.'

²⁵She is brought out, and she hath sent unto her husband's father, saying, 'By the man whose these are, I am pregnant;' and she saith, 'Discern, I pray thee, whose are these, the seal, and the ribbon, and the staff.'

²⁶And Judah discerneth, and saith, 'She hath been more righteous than I, because that I have not given her to Shelah my son;' and he hath not added to know her again.

²⁷And it cometh to pass in the time of her bearing, that lo, twins are in her womb.

XXXIX. ¹AND Joseph hath been brought down to Egypt; and Potiphar, a eunuch of Pharaoh, head of the executioners, an Egyptian man, buyeth him out of the hands of the Ishmaelites who have brought him thither.

²And the LORD is with Joseph; and he is a prosperous man, and he is in the house of his lord the Egyptian. ³And his lord seeth that the LORD is with him, that all which he doeth the LORD causeth to prosper in his hand. ⁴And Joseph findeth grace in his eyes; and he serveth him, and he appointeth him over his house, and all which he hath he hath given unto his hand.

⁵And it cometh to pass from the time that he hath appointed him over his house, and over all which he hath, that the LORD blesseth the house of the Egyptian for Joseph's sake, and the blessing of the LORD is on all which he hath, in the house and in the field. ⁶And he leaveth all which he hath in the hand of Joseph; and he hath not known anything he hath, save the bread which he eateth. And Joseph is of a fair form, and of a fair appearance.

⁷And it cometh to pass after these things, his lord's wife lieth up her eyes unto Joseph, and saith, 'Lie with me.' ⁸And he refuseth, and saith unto his lord's wife,

'Lo, my lord hath not known what is with me in the house, and all which he hath he hath given into my hand. ⁹None is greater in this house than I, and he hath not withheld anything from me, save thee, because thou art his wife; and how shall I do this great evil?—then have I sinned against God.'

¹⁰And it cometh to pass in her speaking unto Joseph day by day, that he hath not hearkened unto her, to lie near her, to be with her. ¹¹And it cometh to pass about this day, that he goeth into the house to do his work, and there is none of the men of the house there in the house. ¹²And she catcheth him by his garment, saying, 'Lie with me;' and he leaveth his garment in her hand, and fleeth, and goeth without.

¹³And it cometh to pass when she seeth that he hath left his garment in her hand, and fleeth without, ¹⁴that she calleth for the men of her house, and speaketh to them, saying, 'See, he hath brought in to us a man, a Hebrew, to play with us: he cometh in unto me, to lie with me, and I call with a loud voice. ¹⁵And it cometh to pass, when he heareth that I have lifted up my voice and call, that he leaveth his garment near me, and fleeth, and goeth without.'

¹⁶And she placeth his garment near her, until the coming in of her lord into his house. ¹⁷And she speaketh unto him according to these words, saying, 'The Hebrew servant whom thou hast brought unto us, cometh in unto me to play with me.'

¹⁸And it cometh to pass, when I lift my voice and call, that he leaveth his garment near me, and fleeth without.'

¹⁹And it cometh to pass when his lord heareth the words of his wife, which she hath spoken unto him, saying, 'According to these things hath thy servant done to me,' that his anger burneth. ²⁰And Joseph's lord taketh him, and putteth him in the round-house, a place where the king's prisoners are bound; and he is there in the round-house.

²¹And the LORD is with Joseph, and stretcheth out kindness unto him, and putteth his grace in the eyes of the chief of the round-house; ²²and the chief of the round-house giveth into the hand of Joseph all the prisoners who are in the round-house; as to all which they do there, he hath been the doer. ²³The chief of the round-house seeth not anything under his hand, because the LORD is with him; and that which he doeth the LORD causeth to prosper.

XL. ¹AND it cometh to pass, after these things—the butler of the king of Egypt and the baker have sinned against their lord, against the king of Egypt. ²And Pharaoh is wroth against his two eunuchs, against the chief of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers. ³And he giveth them in charge in the house of the chief of the executioners, unto the round-house, the place where Joseph is a prisoner. ⁴And the chief of the executioners chargeth Joseph with them, and he serveth them; and they are a week in charge.

⁵And they dream a dream, both of them, each his dream in one night, each according to the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker whom the king of Egypt hath, who are prisoners in the round-house.

⁶And Joseph cometh in unto them in the morning, and seeth them, and lo, they are morose. ⁷And he asketh Pharaoh's eunuchs who are with him in charge in the house of his lord, saying, 'Wherefore are your faces sad to-day?' ⁸And they say unto him, 'We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it.' And Joseph saith unto them, 'Are not interpretations with God? recount, I pray you, to me.'

⁹And the chief of the butlers recounteth his dream to Joseph, and saith to him, 'In my dream, then lo, a vine is before me! ¹⁰And in the vine are three branches, and it is as it were flourishing: its blossom hath gone up, its clusters have ripened grapes. ¹¹And Pharaoh's cup is in my hand; and I take the grapes and press them into the cup of Pharaoh, and I give the cup into the hand of Pharaoh.'

¹²And Joseph saith to him, 'This is its interpretation: the three branches are three days; ¹³yet, within three days doth Pharaoh lift up thy head, and hath put thee back on thy station, and thou hast given the cup of Pharaoh into his hand, according to the former custom when thou wast his butler. ¹⁴Surely if thou hast remembered me with thee, when it is well with thee, and hast done (I pray thee) kindness with me, and hast made mention of me unto Pharaoh, then hast thou brought me out from this house. ¹⁵For I have been really stolen from the land of the Hebrews; and here also have I done nothing that they have put me in the pit.'

¹⁶And the chief of the bakers seeth that the interpretation is good, and he saith unto Joseph, 'I also am in a dream, and lo, three baskets of white bread are on my head. ¹⁷And in the uppermost basket are of all kinds of Pharaoh's food, the work of the baker; and the birds eat them out of the basket from off my head.'

¹⁸And Joseph answereth and saith, 'This is its interpretation: the three baskets are three days; ¹⁹yet, within three days doth Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hath hanged thee on a tree; and the birds have eaten thy flesh from off thee.'

XLI. ¹And it cometh to pass, at the end of two full years, that Pharaoh dreameth; ²and lo, he is standing by the River, and lo, from the River coming up are seven kine, of fair appearance, and fat in flesh, and they feed among the reeds. ³And lo, seven other kine are coming up after them out of the River, of bad appearance, and lean in flesh, and they stand near the kine on the edge of the River. ⁴And the kine of bad appearance and lean in flesh eat up the seven kine of fair appearance, and fat; and Pharaoh awaketh.

⁵And he sleepeth, and dreameth a second time; and lo, seven ears are coming up on one stalk, fat and good. ⁶And lo, seven ears, thin, and blasted with the east wind, are springing up after them. ⁷And the seven thin ears swallow the seven fat and full ears; and Pharaoh awaketh, and lo, a dream.

⁸And it cometh to pass in the morning, that his spirit is moved, and he sendeth and calleth all the scribes of Egypt, and all its wise men, and Pharaoh recounteth to them his dream, and there is no interpreter of them to Pharaoh.

⁹And the chief of the butlers speaketh with Pharaoh, saying, 'My sin I mention this day: ¹⁰Pharaoh hath been wroth against his servants, and giveth me into charge in the house of the chief of the executioners, me and the chief of the bakers. ¹¹And we dream a dream in one night, I and he, each according to the interpretation of his dream have we dreamed. ¹²And there is with us a youth, a Hebrew, servant to the chief of the executioners, and we recount to him, and he interpreteth to us our dreams, to each according to his dream hath he interpreted. ¹³And it cometh to pass, as he hath interpreted to us, so it hath been; me he hath put back on my station, and him he hath hanged.'

¹⁴And Pharaoh sendeth and calleth Joseph, and they cause him to run out of the pit; and he shaveth, and changeth his garments, and cometh in unto Pharaoh.

¹⁵And Pharaoh saith unto Joseph, 'I have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it, and I have heard concerning thee, saying, "Thou understandest a dream to interpret it." ¹⁶And Joseph answereth Pharaoh, saying, 'Without me, let God answer Pharaoh with peace.'

¹⁷And Pharaoh speaketh unto Joseph: 'In my dream, lo, I am standing by the edge of the River. ¹⁸And lo, out of the River going up are seven kine, fat in flesh, and of fair form, and they feed among the reeds. ¹⁹And lo, seven other kine are going up after them, thin, and of very bad form, and lean in flesh; I have not seen like these in all the land of Egypt for badness. ²⁰And the lean and bad kine eat up the first seven fat kine. ²¹And they come in unto their midst, and it hath not been known that they have come in unto their midst, and their appearance is bad as at the commencement; and I awake.

²²And I see in my dream, that lo, seven ears are coming up on one stalk, full and good. ²³And lo, seven ears, withered, thin, blasted with the east wind, are springing up after them. ²⁴ And the thin ears swallow the seven good ears; and I tell to the scribes, and there is none declaring to me.

²⁵ And Joseph saith unto Pharaoh, 'The dream of Pharaoh is one; that which God doeth he hath declared to Pharaoh. ²⁶ The seven good kine are seven years, and the seven good ears are seven years; the dream is one. ²⁷ And the seven thin and bad kine which come up after them are seven years; and the seven empty ears, blasted with the east wind, are seven years of famine. ²⁸ This is the thing which I have spoken unto Pharaoh, "That which God doeth, he hath shewn Pharaoh."

²⁹ 'Lo, seven years come of great abundance in all the land of Egypt. ³⁰ And seven years of famine have arisen after them, and all the plenty is forgotten in the land of Egypt, and the famine hath finished the land. ³¹ And the plenty is not known in the land because of that famine afterwards, for it is very grievous.

³⁷ And the thing is good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants. ³⁸ And Pharaoh saith unto his servants, 'Do we find like this, a man in whom the Spirit of God is?' ³⁹ And Pharaoh saith unto Joseph, 'After God hath caused thee to know all this, there is none intelligent and wise as thou. ⁴⁰ Thou art over my house, and at thy mouth do all my people kiss; only in the throne I am greater than thou.'

⁴⁶ And Joseph is thirty years old in his standing before Pharaoh king of Egypt; and Joseph goeth out from the presence of Pharaoh, and passeth over through all the land of Egypt. ⁴⁷ And the land yieldeth in the seven years of plenty by handfuls.

⁴⁸ And he gathereth all the food of the seven years which have been in the land of Egypt, and putteth the food in the cities: the food of the field which is round about each city hath he put in its midst. ⁴⁹ And Joseph gathereth corn as the sand of the sea, multiplying exceedingly, until he hath ceased to number, for it is innumerable.

⁵⁰ And to Joseph were born two sons before the year of famine cometh, whom Asenath daughter of Potipherah, priest of On, hath born to him. ⁵¹ And Joseph calleth the name of the first-born Manasseh: 'for God hath made me to forget all my labour, and all the house of my father.' ⁵² And the name of the second hath he called Ephraim: 'for God hath caused me to be fruitful in the land of mine affliction.'

⁵³ And the seven years of plenty are completed which have been in the land of Egypt. ⁵⁴ And the seven years of famine begin to come, as Joseph hath said; and the famine is in all the lands, but in all the land of Egypt hath been bread. ⁵⁵ And all the land of Egypt is famished, and the people cry unto Pharaoh for bread; and Pharaoh saith to all the Egyptians, 'Go ye unto Joseph; that which he saith to you, do.'

⁵⁶ And the famine has been over all the face of the land; and Joseph openeth all places which have corn in them, and selleth to the Egyptians; and the famine is severe in the land of Egypt. ⁵⁷ And all the lands have come to Egypt, to buy, unto Joseph; for the famine was severe in all the lands.

⁵⁸ XLII. ¹ AND Jacob seeth that there is corn in Egypt; and Jacob saith to his sons, 'Why do you look at each other?' ² He saith also, 'Lo, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt; go down thither, and buy for us from thence, and let us live and not die.' ³ And the ten brethren of Joseph go down to buy corn in Egypt. ⁴ And Benjamin, Joseph's brother, Jacob hath not sent with his brethren; for he hath said, 'Lest mischief meet him.'

⁵ And the sons of Israel come to buy in the midst of those who come, for the famine hath been in the land of Canaan. ⁶ And Joseph is the ruler over the land, he who selleth to all the people of the land; and Joseph's brethren come, and bow themselves to him—face to the earth.

⁸ And Joseph discerneth his brethren, but they have not discerned him. ⁹ And Joseph remembereth the dreams which he hath dreamed of them, and saith unto them, 'Ye are spies; to see the nakedness of the land have ye come.' ¹⁰ And they say unto him, 'Nay, my lord, but thy servants have come to buy food; ¹¹ we are all of us the sons of one man, we are right men; thy servants have not been spies." ¹²And he saith unto them, "Nay, but the nakedness of the land have ye come to see." ¹³And they say, "Thy servants are twelve brethren: we are the sons of one man in the land of Canaan, and lo, the young one is to-day with our father, and one is not."

¹⁴And Joseph saith unto them, "This is that which I have spoken unto you, saying, 'Ye are spies.'" ¹⁵By this ye are proved: Pharaoh liveth! ye go not out from this place, except by your young brother coming hither; ¹⁶send one of you, and let him bring your brother, and ye remain ye bound, and let your words be proved, whether truth be with you; and if not—Pharaoh liveth! surely ye are spies." ¹⁷And he removeth them unto charge three days.

¹⁸And Joseph saith unto them on the third day, "This do and live; God I fear. ¹⁹If ye are right men, let one of your brethren be bound in the house of your ward, and ye, go, carry in corn for the famine of your houses." ²⁰And your young brother bring ye unto me, and let your words be established, and die not; and they do so.

²¹And they say one unto another, "Verily we are guilty concerning our brother, because we saw the distress of his soul, in his making supplication unto us, and we did not hearken: therefore hath this distress come upon us." ²²And Reuben answereth them, saying, "Spake I not unto you, saying, 'Sin not against the lad?' but ye hearkened not; and his blood also, lo, it is required."

²³And they have not known that Joseph understandeth, for the interpreter is between them. ²⁴And he turneth round from them, and weepeth, and turneth back unto them, and speaketh unto them, and taketh Simeon from them, and bindeth him before their eyes.

²⁵And Joseph commandeth, and they fill their vessels with corn, also to put back the money of each unto his sack, and to give to them provision for the way; and thus he doth to them.

²⁹And they come in unto Jacob their father, to the land of Canaan, and they declare to him all that which meeteth them, saying, ³⁰"The man, the lord of the land, hath spoken with us sharp things, and maketh us as spies of the land;" ³¹and we say unto him, "We are right men; we have not been spies; ³²we are twelve brethren, sons of one father; the one is not, and the young one is to-day with our father in the land of Canaan."

³³And the man, the lord of the land, saith unto us, "By this I know that ye are right men—leave one of your brethren with me, and for the famine of your houses take ye and go; ³⁴and bring your young brother unto me, then do I know that ye are not spies, but that ye are right men; your brother I give to you, and ye trade with the land."

³⁵And it cometh to pass, they are emptying their sacks, and lo, the bundle of each man's silver is in his sack; and they see their bundles of silver, they and their father, and are afraid. ³⁶And Jacob their father saith unto them, "Me have ye bereaved; Joseph is not, and Simeon is not, and Benjamin ye take; all these have been against me."

³⁷And Reuben speaketh unto his father, saying, "My two sons put to death, if I bring him not in unto thee; give him into my hand, and I bring him back unto thee." ³⁸And he saith, "My son doth not go down with you, for his brother is dead, and he is left by himself; when mischief hath met him in the way in which ye go, then have ye brought down my grey hairs in sorrow to Sheol."

XLIII. ¹AND the famine is severe in the land; ²and it cometh to pass, when they have finished eating the corn which they have brought from Egypt, that their father saith unto them, "Turn back, buy for us a little food."

³And Judah speaketh unto him, saying, "The man hath certainly protested to us, saying, 'Ye do not see my face without your brother being with you;' if thou sendest our brother with us, we go down, and buy food for thee; and if thou dost not send—we do not go down, for the man hath said unto us, 'Ye do not see my face without your brother being with you.'"

⁴And Israel saith, "Why have ye done evil to me, by declaring to the man that ye have yet a brother?" ⁵And they say, "The man hath asked diligently concerning us, and concerning our kindred, saying, 'Is your father yet alive? have ye a brother?'" and we declare to him according to the tenor of these things. Should we certainly know that he will say, "Bring down your brother?"

⁶And Judah saith unto Israel his father, "Send the youth with me, and let us arise, and go, and let us live, and not die, both we, and thou, and our infants. ⁷I am surety for him; from my hand require him; if I have not brought him in unto thee and set him before thee—then have I sinned against thee continually. ⁸For if we had not lingered, surely now we had returned this second time."

⁹And Israel their father saith unto them, "If so, now, this do, take of the praised thing of the land in your vessels, and take down a present to the man, a little balm, and a little honey, spices and myrrh, nuts and almonds. ¹⁰And take double money in your hand; even the money which is brought back in the mouth of your bags, take it back in your hand, it may be it is an oversight. ¹¹And take your brother, and rise, return unto the man; ¹²and God Almighty give mercies to you before the man, so that he hath sent to you your other brother and

Benjamin; and I, when I am bereaved—I am bereaved.'

¹⁵And the men take this present; double money also have they taken in their hand, and Benjamin; and they rise up, and go down to Egypt, and stand before Joseph. ¹⁶And Joseph seeth Benjamin with them; and he saith to him who is over his house, 'Bring these men into the house, and slaughter an animal, and make ready, for the men do eat with me at noon.'

¹⁷And the man doeth as Joseph hath said; and the man bringeth in the men into the house of Joseph. ¹⁸And the men are afraid because they have been brought into the house of Joseph; and they say, 'For the matter of the money which was put back in our bags at the commencement are we brought in, to roll himself upon us, and to throw himself on us, and to take us for servants—our asses also.'

¹⁹And they come nigh unto the man who is over the house of Joseph, and they speak unto him at the opening of the house, ²⁰and say, 'O, my lord, we really come down at the commencement to buy food; and it cometh to pass, when we have come in unto the lodging-place, and opened our bags, that lo, each one's money is in the mouth of his bag: our money in its weight; but we bring it back in our hand. ²¹And other money have we brought down in our hand to buy food; we have not known who hath put our money in our bags.'

²²And he saith, 'Peace be to you, fear not: your God and the God of your father hath given to you hidden treasure in your bags: your money hath come unto me; and he bringeth out Simeon unto them. ²³And the man bringeth in the men into Joseph's house, and giveth water, and they wash their feet: he giveth also provender for their asses. ²⁴And they prepare the present until the coming of Joseph at noon, for they have heard that he eateth bread there.'

²⁵And Joseph cometh into the house, and they bring the present to him which is in their hand, into the house, and bow themselves to him, to the earth. ²⁶And he asketh of them concerning their welfare, and saith, 'Is your father well? the aged man of whom ye have spoken; is he yet alive?' ²⁷And they say, 'Thy servant our father is well; he is yet alive; and they bow, and do obeisance. ²⁸And he lifteth up his eyes, and seeth Benjamin his brother, his mother's son, and saith, 'Is this your young brother, of whom ye have spoken unto me?' and he saith, 'God be gracious to thee, my son.'

²⁹And Joseph hasteth, for his bowels have been moved for his brother, and he seeketh to weep; and he entereth the inner chamber, and weepeth there. ³⁰And he washeth his face, and goeth out, and refraineth himself, and saith, 'Place bread.'

³¹And they place for him by himself, and for them by themselves, and for the Egyptians who eat with him by themselves: for the Egyptians are unable to eat bread with the Hebrews, for it is an abomination to the Egyptians. ³²And they sit before him, the first-born according to his birthright, and the young one according to his youth; and the men wonder one at another. ³³And he lifteth up gifts from before him unto them; and the gift of Benjamin is five hands more than any of theirs. And they drink, yea, they drink abundantly with him.

³⁴XLIV. ¹AND he commandeth him who is over his house, saying, 'Fill the bags of the men with food, as they are able to bear, and put the money of each in the mouth of his bag; and my cup, the silver cup, put in the mouth of the bag of the young one, and his corn money;' and he doth according to the word of Joseph which he hath spoken.

²The morning is bright, and the men have been sent away, they and their asses: they have gone out of the city; they have not gone far off; and Joseph hath said to him who is over his house, 'Rise, pursue after the men; when thou hast overtaken them, then hast thou said unto them, 'Why have ye recompensed evil for good? ³Is not this that with which my lord drinketh? and he observeth diligently with it: ye have done evil in that which ye have done.'

⁴And he overtaketh them, and speaketh these words unto them. ⁵And they say unto him, 'Why doth my lord speak according to these words? far be it from thy servants to do according to this word. ⁶Lo, the money which we found in the mouth of our bags we have brought back unto thee from the land of Canaan, and how do we steal from the house of thy lord silver or gold? ⁷With whomsoever of thy servants it is found, let him die; and we also become servants to my lord.'

⁸And he saith, 'Now, also, it is according to your words; he with whom it is found becometh my servant, and ye are acquitted.' ⁹And they hasten and take down each his bag to the earth, and each openeth his bag. ¹⁰And he searcheth; at the eldest he hath begun, and at the youngest he hath completed; and the cup is found in the bag of Benjamin. ¹¹And they rend their garments; and each ladeth his ass, and they turn back to the city.

¹²And Judah and his brethren come in unto the house of Joseph; and he is yet there, and they fall before him to the earth. ¹³And Joseph saith to them, 'What is this work that ye have done? have ye not known that a man like me doth diligently observe?'

¹⁴And Judah saith, 'What shall we say to my lord? what shall we speak? and what—shall we justify ourselves? God hath found out the iniquity of thy servants: lo, we are servants to my lord, both we, and he in whose hand the cup hath been found.' ¹⁵And he saith, 'Far be it from me to do this; the man in whose hand the cup hath been found, he becometh my servant: as for you, go ye up in peace unto your father.'

lord hath asked his servants, saying, "Have you a father or brother?" ²⁰And we say unto my lord, "We have a father, an aged one, and a child of his old age, a young one; and his brother is dead, and he is left alone of his mother, and his father hath loved him." ²¹And thou sayest unto thy servants, "Bring him down unto me, and let me set mine eye upon him." ²²And we say unto my lord, "The youth is unable to leave his father: when he hath left his father, then hath he died." ²³And thou sayest unto thy servants, "If your young brother come not down with you, ye add not to see my face."

²⁴And it cometh to pass, that we have come up unto thy servant my father, and we declare to him the words of my lord. ²⁵And our father saith, "Turn back, buy for us a little food." ²⁶And we say, "We are unable to go down: if our young brother is with us, then have we gone down: for we are unable to see the man's face, when our young brother is not with us." ²⁷And thy servant my father saith unto us, "Ye have known that my wife hath born to me two; and the one goeth out from me, and I say, 'Surely he is torn—torn!' and I have not seen him since." ²⁸When ye have taken this also from my presence, and mischief hath met him, then have ye brought down my grey hairs with evil to Sheol."

²⁹And now, at my coming in unto thy servant my father, and the youth is not with us (and his soul is bound up in his soul), ³⁰then it hath come to pass when he seeth that the youth is not, that he hath died, and thy servants have brought down the grey hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to Sheol. ³¹For thy servant hath obtained the youth by surety from my father, saying, "If I bring him not in unto thee—I have sinned against my father continually." ³²And now, let thy servant, I pray thee, abide for the youth a servant to my lord, and let the youth go up with his brethren; ³³for how shall I go up unto my father, and the youth not with me? lest I look on the evil which doth find my father."

⁴And Joseph saith unto his brethren, 'Come nigh unto me, I pray you, and they come nigh; and he saith, 'I am Joseph, your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt. ⁵And now, be not grieved, nor let it be displeasing in your eyes that ye have sold me hither: for as a life-preserver hath God sent me before you. ⁶For these two years of famine have been in the heart of the land, and yet are five years, in which there is neither ploughing nor harvest. ⁷And

God sendeth me before you, to place a remnant of you in the land, and to give life to you by a great escape. ⁸And now, ye have not sent me hither, but God: and He doth set me as a father to Pharaoh, and as lord of all his house, and ruler over all the land of Egypt.

⁹'Haste, and go up to my father, then have ye said to him, "Thus hath Joseph thy son said, God hath set me as lord of all Egypt: come down to me, stay not, ¹⁰then hast thou dwelt in the land of Goshen, and been near to me, thou and thy children, and thy children's children, and thy flock, and thy herd, and all which thou hast, ¹¹and I have nourished thee there—for yet are five years of famine—lest thou become poor, thou and thy household, and all whom thou hast. ¹²And lo, your eyes see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth which speaketh unto you. ¹³When ye have declared to my father all my honour in Egypt, and all that ye have seen, then ye have hastened, and have brought down my father hither."

¹⁴And he falleth on the neck of Benjamin his brother, and weepeth, and Benjamin hath wept on his neck; ¹⁵and he kisseth all his brethren, and weepeth over them; and afterwards have his brethren spoken with him.

¹⁶And the sound hath been heard in the house of Pharaoh, saying, 'The brethren of Joseph have come; and it is good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants. ¹⁷And Pharaoh saith unto Joseph, 'Say unto thy brethren, "This do ye, lade your beasts, and go, enter ye the land of Canaan; ¹⁸and take your father, and your households, and come unto me, and let me give to you the good of the land of Egypt, and eat the fat of the land; ¹⁹yea, thou hast been commanded: this do ye; take for yourselves waggons out of the land of Egypt, for your infants, and for your wives, then have ye brought your father, and come. ²⁰And let not your eye have pity on your vessels, for the good of all the land of Egypt is yours."

²¹And the sons of Israel do so; and Joseph giveth waggons to them by the command of Pharaoh; he giveth also to them provision for the way. ²²To all of them hath he given; to each changes of garments, and to Benjamin he hath given three hundred silverlings, and five changes of garments; ²³and to his father he hath sent thus: ten asses bearing some of the good things of Egypt, and ten she-asses bearing corn and bread, even food for his father by the way. ²⁴And he sendeth his brethren away, and they go; he saith also unto them, 'Be not angry in the way.'

²⁵And they go up out of Egypt, and come in unto the land of Canaan, unto Jacob their father; ²⁶and they declare to him, saying, 'Joseph is yet alive, and that he is ruler over all the land of Egypt.' And the heart of Jacob ceaseth, for he hath not given credence to them. ²⁷And they speak unto him all the words of Joseph, which he hath spoken unto them; and he seeth the waggons which Joseph hath sent to bear him away, and the spirit of Jacob thy father reviveth. ²⁸And Israel saith, 'Enough, Joseph my son is yet alive; let me go and see him before I die.'

XLVI. ¹AND Israel journeyeth, and all which he hath, and he cometh in to Beer-Sheba, and sacrificeth sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. ²And God speaketh to Israel in visions of the night, and saith, 'Jacob, Jacob.' And he saith, 'Here am I.' ³And He saith, 'I am God, the God of thy father; be not afraid of going down to Egypt, for I make thee become a great nation there. ⁴I go down with thee to Egypt, and I also certainly bring thee up, and Joseph putteth his hand on thine eyes.'

⁵And Jacob riseth from Beer-Sheba, and the sons of Israel carry Jacob thy father, and their infants, and their wives, in the waggon which Pharaoh hath sent to carry him. ⁶And they take their cattle, and their goods which they have acquired in the land of Canaan, and come into Egypt, even Jacob, and all his seed with him. ⁷His sons, and his sons' sons with him: his daughters, and his sons' daughters, yea, all his seed hath he brought with him into Egypt.

⁸And these are the names of the children of Israel who come into Egypt: Jacob and his sons. Jacob's first-born, Reuben. ⁹And the sons of Keuben: Hanoch, and Phallu, and Hezron, and Carmi.

¹⁰And the sons of Simeon: Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad, and Jachin, and Zohar, and Shaul son of the Canaanitish woman.

¹¹And the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

¹²And the sons of Judah: Er, and Onan, and Shelah, and Pharez, and Zarah: (both Er and Onan die in the land of Canaan.) And the sons of Pharez are Hezron and Hamul.

¹³And the sons of Issachar: Toia, and Phuvah, and Job, and Shimron.

¹⁴And the sons of Zebulun: Sered, and Elon, and Jahleel.

¹⁵These are the sons of Leah whom she hath born to Jacob in Padan-Aram, and Dinah his daughter: all the persons of his sons and his daughters are thirty and three.

¹⁶And the sons of Gad: Ziphion, and Haggi, Shuni, and Ezbon, Eri, and Arodi, and Areli.

¹⁷And the sons of Asher: Jimnah, and Ishuah, and Isui, and Beriah, and Serah their sister. And the sons of Beriah: Heber and Malchiel.

¹⁸These are the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban hath given to Leah his daughter, and she beareth these to Jacob—sixteen persons.

¹⁹The sons of Rachel Jacob's wife: Joseph and Benjamin. ²⁰And born to Joseph in the land of Egypt (whom Asenath daughter of Potipherah, priest of On, hath born to him) are Manasseh and Ephraim.

²¹And the sons of Benjamin: Belah, and Becher, and Ashbel, Gera, and Naaman, Ehi, and Rosh, Muppim, and Huppin, and Ard.

²²These are the sons of Rachel, who are born to Jacob: all the persons are fourteen.

²³And the sons of Dan: Hushim.

²⁴And the sons of Naphtali: Jahzeel, and Guni, and Jezer, and Shilleu.

²⁵These are the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban hath given to Rachel his daughter; and she beareth these to Jacob—all the persons are seven.

²⁶All the persons who come with Jacob to Egypt, who go out of his thigh, besides the wives of Jacob's sons, all the persons are sixty and six. ²⁷And the sons of Joseph who have been born to him in Egypt are two persons: all the persons of the house of Jacob who come into Egypt are seventy.

²⁸And Judah he hath sent before him unto Joseph, to direct before him towards Goshen; and they come into the land of Goshen. ²⁹And Joseph harnesseth his chariot, and goeth up to meet Israel his father, to Goshen, and appeareth unto him: and falleth on his neck, and weepeth on his neck again. ³⁰And Israel saith unto Joseph, 'Let me die this time, after my seeing thy face, for thou art yet alive.'

³¹And Joseph saith unto his brethren, and unto the house of his father, 'Let me go up, and declare to Pharaoh, and say unto him, "My brethren, and the house of my father who are in the land of Canaan, have come in unto me. ³²And the men are feeders of flocks, for they have been men of cattle; and their flock, and their herd, and all that they have, they have brought." ³³When it hath come to pass that Pharaoh calleth for you, and hath said, "What are your works?" ³⁴then ye have said, "Thy servants have been men of cattle from our youth, even until now, both we and our fathers," in order that ye may dwell in the land of Goshen: for an abomination to the Egyptians is every one feeding a flock.'

XLVII. ¹AND Joseph cometh, and declareth to Pharaoh, and saith, 'My father, and my brethren, and their flock, and their herd, and all which they have, have come from the land of Canaan; and lo, they are in the land of Goshen.'

²And from his brethren he hath taken five men, and setteth them before Pharaoh.

³And Pharaoh saith unto his brethren, 'What are your works?' and they say unto Pharaoh, 'Thy servants are feeders of a flock, both we and our fathers.' ⁴They say also unto Pharaoh, 'To sojourn in the land have we come, for there is no pasture for the flock which thy servants have, for the famine is grievous in the land of Canaan. and now, let thy servants, we pray thee, dwell in the land of Goshen.'

⁵And Pharaoh speaketh unto Joseph, saying, 'Thy father and thy brethren have come unto thee: ⁶the land of Egypt is before thee, in the best of the land cause thy father and thy brethren to dwell: let them dwell in the land of Goshen: and if thou hast known that there are among them men of ability, then hast thou made them heads over the cattle which I have.'

⁷And Joseph bringeth in Jacob his father, and presenteth him before Pharaoh: and Jacob blesseth Pharaoh. ⁸And Pharaoh saith unto Jacob, 'How many are the days of the years of thy life?' ⁹ And Jacob saith unto Pharaoh, 'The days of the years of my sojournings are an hundred and thirty years; few and evil have been the days of the years of my life, and they have not reached the days of the years of the life of my fathers, in the days of their sojournings.' ¹⁰ And Jacob blesseth Pharaoh, and goeth out from before Pharaoh.

¹³ And there is no bread in all the land, for the famine is very grievous, and the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan are feeble because of the famine. ¹⁴ And Joseph gathereth all the money which hath been found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they buy; and Joseph bringeth the money into the house of Pharaoh.

¹⁸ And that year is finished; and they come in unto him on the second year, and say to him, 'We do not hide from my lord, that since the money is finished, and the possession of the cattle is unto my lord, there hath not been left before my lord save our bodies, and our ground.' ¹⁹ Why do we die before thine eyes, both we and our ground? buy us and our ground for bread, and let us and our ground be servants to Pharaoh, and give seed; and let us live, and not die, and let not the ground be desolate.'

²³ And Joseph saith unto the people, 'Lo, I have bought you and your ground to-day for Pharaoh; lo, seed for you: when ye have sown the ground, ²⁴ then hath it come to pass concerning the increase, that ye have given a fifth to Pharaoh, and four parts are for yourselves, for seed of the field, and for your food, and for those who are in your houses, and for food for your infants.'

²⁵ And they say, 'Thou hast revived us: let us find grace in the eyes of my lord, then have we been servants to Pharaoh.' ²⁶ And Joseph appointeth it for a statute unto this day, concerning the ground of Egypt, that Pharaoh hath a fifth; only the ground of the priests alone hath not become Pharaoh's.

²⁹ And the days are near for Israel to die: and he calleth for his son, for Joseph, and saith to him, 'If, I pray thee, I have found grace in thine eyes, put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh, seeing thou hast dealt kindly and truly with me; bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt.' ³⁰ When I have lain with my fathers, then thou hast borne me out of Egypt, and buried me in their burying-place.' And he saith, 'I do according to thy word.' ³¹ And he saith, 'Swear to me:' and he sweareth to him: and Israel boweth himself on the head of the bed.

XLVIII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, after these things, that one saith to Joseph, 'Lo, thy father is sick:' and he taketh his two sons with him, Manasseh and Ephraim. ² And one declareth to Jacob, and saith, 'Lo, thy son Joseph is coming unto thee:' and Israel strengtheneth himself, and sitteth upon the bed.

³ And Jacob saith unto Joseph, 'God Almighty hath appeared unto me, in Luz, in the land of Canaan, and blesseth me, and saith unto me, 'Lo, I am making thee fruitful, and have multiplied thee, and have set thee for a congregation of peoples, and have given this land to thy seed after thee, an everlasting possession.' ⁴ And now, thy two sons, who are born to thee in the land of Egypt, before my coming unto thee, to Egypt, mine they are: Ephraim and Manasse, as Reuben and Simeon, they are mine. ⁵ And thy family which thou hast begotten after them are thine: by the name of their brethren they are called in their inheritance. ⁶ And I—in my coming in from Padan-Aram Rachel dieth by me in the land of Canaan, in the way, while there is yet a kivvath of land to enter Ephraim, and I bury her there in the way of Ephraim, which is Bethlehem.'

¹⁵ And he blesseth Joseph, and saith, 'God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked habitually: God who feedeth me from my being unto this day, ¹⁶ the Angel who redeemeth me from all evil bless the youths, and let my name be called upon them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac: and let them increase as fish into a multitude in the midst of the land.'

²¹ And Joseph saith unto Joseph, 'Lo, I die, but God hath been with you, and hath brought you back unto the land of your fathers. ²² And I—I have given to thee one portion above thy brethren, which I have taken from the hand of the Amorite by my sword and by my bow.'

XLIX. ¹ AND Jacob calleth unto his sons and saith, 'Be gathered together, and let me declare to you that which happeneth with you in the latter end of the days.'

⁴ Unstable as water, thou art not abundant: For thou hast gone up thy father's bed; Then thou hast polluted it;

My couch he went up!

⁶ Into their secret, come not, O my soul! Into their convention be not thou united, O mine honour;

For in their anger they have slain a man, And in their self-will—eradicated a prince:

⁷ Cursed is their anger, for it is fierce, And their wrath, for it is sharp; I divide them in Jacob,

And I scatter them in Israel.

⁸ Judah! thou—thy brethren praise thee!

Thy hand is on the neck of thine enemies, The children of thy father bow to thee.

⁹ Judah is a lion's whelp;

For the prey, my son, thou hast gone up: He hath bent, he hath crouched as a lion, And as a lioness: who causeth him to arise?

¹⁰ The sceptre turneth not aside from Judah, Or a lawgiver from between his feet,

Till Her Seed come:

And his is the obedience of the peoples.

¹¹ Binding to the vine his ass,

And to the choice vine the colt of his ass,

He hath washed his clothing in wine,

And his covering in the blood of grapes:

¹² Red are his eyes with wine,

And white his teeth with milk.

¹³ Zebulun dwelleth at the haven of the seas,

And he is for a haven of ships;

And his side is unto Zidon.

¹⁴ Issachar is a strong ass,

Crouching between two folds;

¹⁵ And he seeth rest that it is good,

And the land that it is pleasant.

And he inclineth his shoulder to bear,

And is a servant to tribute.

¹⁶ Dan doth judge his people,

As one of the tribes of Israel;

¹⁷ Dan is a serpent by the way,

An adder by the path,

Which biteth the horse's heels,

And its rider falleth backward.

¹⁹ Gad! a troop assaulteth him,

But he assaulteth at the last.

²⁰ Out of Asher his bread is fat:

And he giveth out the dainties of a king.

²¹ Naphtali is a hind sent away,

Who giveth out beauteous young ones.

²² Joseph is a fruitful bough:

A fruitful bough by a fountain:

The branches step over the wall;

²³ But embitter him,—strive with him,

Yea, hate him do the archers;

²⁴ But his bow abideth in strength, and

The arms of his hands are strengthened:

By the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob:

Whence is the shepherd, the son of Israel.

²⁵ By the God of thy father who helpeth thee,

And the Mighty One who blesseth thee,

With blessings of the heavens from above,

Blessings of the deep lying under,

Blessings of the breasts and womb:—

²⁶ Thy father's blessings have been mighty

Above the blessings of my progenitors,

Unto the limits of the everlasting heights;

They are for the head of Joseph,

And for the crown of the one

Separate from his brethren.

²⁷ Benjamin! a wolf teareth;

In the morning he catcheth prey,

And at evening he apportioneth spoil.

²⁸ All these are the twelve tribes of Israel, and this is that which their father hath spoken unto them, and he blesseth them;

each according to his blessing hath he blessed them: and he commandeth them, and saith unto them, 'I am being gathered unto my people, bury me beside my fathers, at the cave which is in the field of Ephron the Hittite. ²⁹ In the cave which is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre, in the land of Canaan, which Abraham bought with the field from Ephron the Hittite for a possession of a burying-place. ²¹ (There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife: there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife: and there I buried Leah): ²² the purchase of the field and of the cave which is in it, is from the Children of Heth. ²³ And Jacob finisheth commanding his sons, and gathereth up his feet unto the bed, and exproeth, and is gathered unto his people.

L. ¹ AND Joseph falleth on his father's face, and weepeth over him, and kisseth him. ² And Joseph commandeth his servants, the physicians, to embalm his father: and the physicians embalm Israel. ³ And they fulfil for him forty days, for so they fulfil the days of the embalmed: and the Egyptians weep for him seventy days.

⁴ And the days of his weeping are passed away, and Joseph speaketh unto the house of Pharaoh, saying, 'If, I pray you, I have found grace in your eyes, speak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying, ⁵ My father hath caused me to swear, saying, Lo, I die: in my burying-place which I have prepared for myself in the land of Canaan, there dost thou bury me; and now, let me go up, I pray thee, and let me bury my father, and let me return.' ⁶ And Pharaoh saith, 'Go up and bury thy father, as he hath caused thee to swear.'

commanded them. ¹³ And his sons bear him away to the land of Canaan, and bury him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, which Abraham bought with the field for a possession of a burying-place, from Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre.

¹⁴ And Joseph turneth back unto Egypt, he and his brethren, and all who go up with him to bury his father, after his burying his father.

¹⁵ And the brethren of Joseph see that their father is dead, and they say, 'Peradventure Joseph hateth us, and doth certainly return to us all the evil which we have done with him.' ¹⁶ And they give a charge for Joseph, saying, 'Thy father hath commanded before his death, saying, ¹⁷ Thus do ye say to Joseph, I pray thee, bear with the transgression of thy brethren, and their sin, for they have done thee evil: and now, bear, we pray thee, with the transgression of the servants of the God of thy father: and Joseph weepeth in their speaking unto him.

¹⁹ And Joseph saith unto them, 'Fear not: for am I in the place of God? ²⁰ As for you, ye devised evil against me: God hath devised it for good: in order to do as at this day, to keep much people alive. ²¹ And now, fear not: I do nourish you, and your infants.' And he comforteth them, and speaketh unto their heart.

²² And Joseph dwelleth in Egypt, he and the house of his father: and Joseph liveth a hundred and ten years. ²³ And Joseph looketh on Ephraim's children of the third generation: the children also of Machir, son of Manasseh, have been born on the knees of Joseph.

²⁴ And Joseph saith unto his brethren, 'I die, but God doth certainly inspect you; then hath He caused you to go up from this land, unto the land which He hath sworn to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.'

²⁶ And Joseph dieth, a hundred and ten years old: and they embalm him, and he is put into a coffin in Egypt.

EXODUS.

CHAP. I. ¹AND these are the names of the sons of Israel who come into Egypt with Jacob; a man and his household have they come: ²Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, ³Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin, ⁴Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. ⁵And all the persons coming out of the loins of Jacob are seventy persons; as to Joseph he was in Egypt. ⁶And Joseph dieth, and all his brethren, and all that generation.

⁷And the sons of Israel have been fruitful, and they teem, and multiply, and are very very mighty, and the land is filled with them. ⁸And a new king riseth over Egypt, who hath not known Joseph: ⁹And he saith unto his people, 'Lo, the people of the Children of Israel is more numerous and mighty than we: give help! ¹⁰let us act wisely concerning it, lest it multiply, and it hath come to pass, when war happeneth, that it hath been joined, even it, unto those who hate us, and hath fought against us, and hath gone up out of the land.'

¹¹And they set over it princes of tribute, so as to afflict it with their burdens; and it buildeth store-cities for Pharaoh, Pithom and Rameses. ¹²And as they afflict it, so it multiplieth, and so it breaketh forth; and they are vexed because of the Children of Israel. ¹³And the Egyptians cause the Children of Israel to serve with rigour, ¹⁴and make their lives bitter with hard service, in clay, and in brick, and in every kind of service in the field; all their service they have served on them: ¹⁵and with rigour.

¹⁶And the king of Egypt speaketh to the Hebrew midwives (of whom the name of the one is Shiphrah, and the name of the second Pua); ¹⁷and saith, 'When ye cause the Hebrew women to bear, and have looked on the children; if it is a son—then have ye put him to death; and if it is a daughter—then hath she lived.'

¹⁸And the midwives fear God, and have not done as the king of Egypt hath spoken unto them, but keep the lads alive. ¹⁹And the king of Egypt calleth for the midwives, and saith to them, 'Wherefore have ye done this thing, and keep the lads alive?' ²⁰And the midwives say unto Pharaoh, 'Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women, for they are lively; before the midwife cometh in unto them—they have borne.'

²¹And God doth good to the midwives; and the people multiply, and are very mighty. ²²And it cometh to pass, because the midwives have feared God, that He maketh for them households. ²³And Pharaoh layeth a charge on all his people, saying, 'Every son who is born—ye do cast him into the River, and every daughter ye do keep alive.'

II. ¹AND a man of the house of Levi goeth, and taketh the daughter of Levi; ²and the woman conceiveth, and beareth a son; and she seeth him that he is fair, and she hideth him three months. ³And she hath not been able to hide him any more, and she taketh for him an ark of rushes, and daubeth it with bitumen and with pitch, and putteth the lad in it, and layeth it in the weeds by the edge of the River. ⁴And his sister stationeth herself afar off, to know what is done to him.

⁷And his sister saith unto the daughter of Pharaoh, 'Shall I go? when I have called for thee a suckling woman of the Hebrews, then doth she suckle the lad for thee.'

⁸And the daughter of Pharaoh saith to her, 'Go;' and the virgin goeth, and calleth the mother of the lad. ⁹And the daughter of Pharaoh saith to her, 'Take this lad away, and suckle him for me; and I—I give thy hire.' and the woman taketh the lad, and suckleth him.

¹⁰And the lad groweth, and she bringeth him in to the daughter of Pharaoh; and he is to her for a son; and she calleth his name Moses, and saith, 'Because from the water have I drawn him out.'

¹⁷And Pharaoh heareth of this thing, and seeketh to slay Moses; and Moses fleeth from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelleth in the land of Midian, and dwelleth by the well.

¹⁸And to a priest of Midian are seven daughters, and they come and draw, and fill the troughs, to water the flock of their father; ¹⁹and the shepherds come and drive them away; and Moses ariseth, and saveth them, and watereth their flock.

²⁰And they come in to Reuel their father, and he saith, 'Wherefore have ye hastened to come in to-day?' ²¹And they say, 'A man, an Egyptian, hath delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and hath also diligently drawn for us, and watereth the flock.' ²²And he saith unto his daughters,

'And where is he? why is this—ye left the man? call him, and let him eat bread.'

¹¹And Moses is willing to dwell with the man: and he giveth Zipporah his daughter to Moses. ¹²And she beareth a son, and he calleth his name Gershom: for he said, 'A sojourner I have been in a strange land.'

¹³And it cometh to pass, during these many days, that the king of Egypt dieth: and the Children of Israel sigh because of the service, and cry, and their cry goeth up unto God, because of the service. ¹⁴And God heareth their groaning; and God remembereth His covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; ¹⁵and God seeth the Children of Israel, and God knoweth.

III. ¹AND Moses hath been feeding the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, priest of Midian: and he leadech the flock behind the wilderness, and cometh in unto the mount of God, to Horeb. ²And the Messenger of Jehovah appeareth unto him in a flame of fire, out of the midst of the bush, and he seeth, and lo, the bush is burning with fire, and the bush is not consumed.

³And Moses saith, 'Let me turn aside, I pray thee, and see this great appearance: wherefore is the bush not burned?' ⁴And Jehovah seeth that he hath turned aside to see, and God calleth unto him out of the midst of the bush, and saith, 'Moses, Moses.' And he saith, 'Here am I.' ⁵And He saith, 'Come not near hither: cast thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place on which thou standest is holy ground.' ⁶He saith also, 'I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.' And Moses hideth his face, for he is afraid to look on God.

⁷And the LORD saith, 'I have certainly seen the affliction of My people who are in Egypt, and their cry I have heard, because of its exactors, for I have known its pains. ⁸And I go down to deliver it out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to cause it to go up out of that land, unto a land good and broad, unto a land flowing with milk and honey: unto the place of the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite. ⁹And now, lo, the cry of the Children of Israel hath come in unto Me, and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them. ¹⁰And now, come, and I send thee unto Pharaoh: and bring thou out My people, the Children of Israel, out of Egypt.'

¹¹And Moses saith unto God, 'Who am I, that I go unto Pharaoh, and that I bring out the Children of Israel, from Egypt?' ¹²And He saith, 'Surely I am with thee: and this is the sign to thee that I have sent thee: in thy bringing out the people from Egypt—ye do serve God on this mount.'

¹³And Moses saith unto God, 'Lo, I come unto the Children of Israel, and have said to them, The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you: and they have said to me, What is His name? what do I say to them?' ¹⁴And God saith unto Moses, 'I AM THAT WHICH I AM;' He saith also, 'Thus dost thou say to the Children of Israel, I AM hath sent me unto you.'

¹⁵And God saith again unto Moses, 'Thus dost thou say unto the Children of Israel, Jehovah, God of your fathers, God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you: this is My name for ever, and this My memorial, to generation and generation.

¹⁶'Go: when thou hast gathered the elders of Israel, then hast thou said unto them, Jehovah, God of your fathers, hath appeared unto me, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, I have certainly inspected you, and that which is done to you in Egypt: ¹⁷and I say, I bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt, unto the land of the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite, unto a land flowing with milk and honey.

¹⁸'When they have hearkened to thy voice, then thou hast entered, thou and the elders of Israel, unto the king of Egypt, and ye have said unto him, Jehovah, God of the Hebrews, hath met with us; and now, let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days into the wilderness, and let us sacrifice to Jehovah our God.

¹⁹'And I have known that the king of Egypt doth not permit you to go, unless by a strong hand. ²⁰When I have put forth My hand, and have smitten Egypt with all My wonders, which I do in its midst—then afterwards doth he send you away.

IV. ¹AND Moses answereth and saith, 'But lo, they do not give credence to me, nor hearken to my voice, but say, The LORD hath not appeared unto thee.'

²And the LORD saith unto him, 'What is this in thy hand?' and he saith, 'A rod.' ³And He saith, 'Cast it to the earth;' and he casteth it to the earth, and it becometh a serpent; and Moses fleeth from its presence. ⁴And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Put forth thy hand, and lay hold on its tail:' and he putteth forth his hand, and layeth hold on it, and it becometh a rod in his hand—⁵so that they believe that Jehovah, the God of their fathers, hath appeared unto thee, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.'

⁶And the LORD saith to him again, 'Put in, I pray thee, thy hand into thy bosom: and he putteth in his hand into his bosom: and he bringeth it out, and lo, his hand is leprous as snow. ⁷And He saith, 'Put back thy hand into thy bosom:' and he putteth back his hand into his bosom: and he bringeth it out from his bosom, and lo, it hath turned back as his other flesh—

not give credence to thee, and hearken not to the voice of the first sign, that they have given credence to the voice of the latter sign. ⁹ And it hath come to pass, if they do not give credence also to these two signs, nor hearken to thy voice, that thou hast taken of the water of the River, and hast poured it on the dry land; and the waters which thou takest from the River have been, yea, they have become blood on the dry land.

¹⁰ And Moses saith unto the LORD, 'O my Lord, I am not a man of words, either yesterday, or before, or since Thy speaking unto Thy servant, for I am slow of mouth, and slow of tongue.' ¹¹ And the LORD saith unto him, 'Who hath appointed a mouth for man? or who appointeth the dumb, or the deaf, or the open, or the blind? is it not I, the LORD?' ¹² And now, go, and I am with thy mouth, and have directed thee that which thou speakest.'

¹³ And he saith, 'O my Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand Thou dost send.' ¹⁴ And the anger of the LORD burneth against Moses, and He saith, 'Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I have known that he speaketh well, and also, lo, he cometh out to meet thee; when he hath seen thee, then hath he rejoiced in his heart; ¹⁵ and thou hast spoken unto him, and hast set the words in his mouth, and I, I am with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and have directed you that which ye do. ¹⁶ And he, even he hath spoken for thee unto the people, and he hath been, even he, to thee for a mouth, and thou, thou art to him for God. ¹⁷ And this rod thou dost take in thy hand, wherewith thou doest the signs.'

¹⁸ And Moses goeth and turneth back unto Jethro his father-in-law, and saith to him, 'Let me go, I pray thee, and let me turn back unto my brethren who are in Egypt, and let me see whether they are yet alive.' And Jethro saith to Moses, 'Go in peace.'

²¹ The LORD also saith unto Moses, 'In thy going to turn back to Egypt, see—all the wonders which I have put in thy hand—that thou hast done them before Pharaoh, and I, I strengthen his heart, and he doeth not send the people away. ²² Then hast thou said unto Pharaoh, 'Thus hath Jehovah said, Israel is My son, My first-born: ²³ and I say to thee, Send away My son, and let him serve Me; and if thou refuse to send him away, lo, I slay thy son, thy first-born.'

²⁴ And it cometh to pass: and the way, in the lodging place, that the LORD meeteth him, and seeketh to put him to death. ²⁵ And Zipporah taketh a flint, and cutteth off the foreskin of her son, and causeth it to touch his feet, and saith, 'Surely a bridegroom of blood art thou to me.' ²⁶ And He desisteth from him: then hath she said, 'A bridegroom of blood,' because of the circumcision.

²⁷ And the LORD saith unto Aaron, 'Go into the wilderness to meet Moses;' and he goeth, and meeteth him in the mount of God, and kisseth him. ²⁸ And Moses declareth to Aaron all the words of the LORD with which He hath sent him, and all the signs which he hath commanded him.

²⁹ And Moses goeth—Aaron also—and they gather all the elders of the Children of Israel. ³⁰ And Aaron speaketh all the words which the LORD hath spoken unto Moses, and doeth the signs before the eyes of the people. ³¹ And the people believe when they hear that the LORD hath visited the Children of Israel, and that He hath seen their affliction; and they bow and worship.

V. ¹ AND afterwards have Moses and Aaron entered, and they say unto Pharaoh, 'Thus hath Jehovah, God of Israel, said, Send My people away, and let them keep a feast to Me in the wilderness.' ² And Pharaoh saith, 'Who is Jehovah, that I should hearken to His voice, to send Israel away? I have not known Jehovah; and Israel also I do not send away.'

³ And they say, 'The God of the Hebrews hath met with us; let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days into the wilderness, and let us sacrifice to Jehovah our God, lest He meet us with pestilence or with sword.' ⁴ And the king of Egypt saith unto them, 'Why, Moses and Aaron, do ye free the people from its works; go to your burdens.' ⁵ Pharaoh also saith, 'Lo, numerous now is the people of the land; yet have ye caused them to cease from their burdens.'

⁹ And the exactors of the people, and its authorities, go out, and speak unto the people, saying, 'Thus hath Pharaoh said, I give you no straw; ¹⁰ go ye, take for yourselves straw where you find it; for there is none of your service diminished.'

¹³ And the authorities of the Children of Israel, whom the exactors of Pharaoh have placed over them, are beaten, saying, 'Wherefore have ye not completed your portion in making brick as heretofore, both yesterday and to-day?'

¹⁴ And the authorities of the Children of Israel come in and cry unto Pharaoh, saying, 'Why dealest thou thus with thy servants? ¹⁵ Straw hath not been given to thy servants, and they say to us, Make bricks; and lo, thy servants are smitten; but thy people hath sinned.' ¹⁷ And he saith, 'Remiss: ye are remiss, therefore ye say, Let us go, let us sacrifice to the LORD.' ¹⁸ And now, go, serve; for straw is not given to you, yet the measure of brick ye do give.'

²² And Moses turneth back unto the LORD, and saith, 'O Lord, why hast Thou done evil to this people? Why is this?—Thou hast sent me! ²³ For since I have come unto Pharaoh, to speak in Thy name, he hath done evil to this people; and Thou hast not at all delivered Thy people.'

VI. ¹ AND THE LORD saith unto Moses, 'Now dost thou see that which I do to Pharaoh; for with a strong hand doth he send them away; yea, with a strong hand he doth cast them out of his land.'

² And God speaketh unto Moses, and saith unto him, 'I am the LORD; and I appear unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, in the character of God Almighty; as to My name Jehovah, I have not been known to them; and I also establish My covenant with them, to give to them the land of Canaan, the land of their sojournings, where-in they have sojourned.' ³ And I have also heard the groaning of the Children of Israel, whom the Egyptians cause to serve, and I remember My covenant.

⁴ Therefore say to the Children of Israel, I am the LORD: when I have brought you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and have redeemed you from their service, and have redeemed you by a stretched-out arm, and by great judgments, and have taken you to me for a people, and have become your God, then ye have known that I am the LORD your God, who bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians. ⁵ When I have brought you in unto the land which I have lifted up My hand to give to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, then have I given it to you—a possession; I am the LORD.'

Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring out the Children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

¹⁷ The sons of Gershon are Libni, and Shimi, as to their families.

¹⁸ And the sons of Kohath are Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel: and the years of the life of Kohath are a hundred and thirty and three years. ¹⁹ And the sons of Merari are Mahali and Mushi: these are Levi's families, as to their genealogies.

²⁸ And it cometh to pass in the day of the LORD's speaking unto Moses in the land of Egypt, ²⁹ that the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, 'I am the LORD: speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, all that I speak unto thee.' ³⁰ And Moses saith before the LORD, 'Lo, I am of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh hearken unto me?'

VII. ¹ AND THE LORD saith unto Moses, 'See, I have made thee a god to Pharaoh, and Aaron thy brother is thy prophet. ² Thou—thou dost speak all which I command thee, and Aaron thy brother doth speak unto Pharaoh, and he hath sent the Children of Israel out of his land. ³ But I harden the heart of Pharaoh, and have multiplied My signs and My wonders in the land of Egypt: ⁴ when Pharaoh doth not hearken, then I have put My hand on Egypt, and have brought out My hosts, My people, the Children of Israel, from the land of Egypt by great judgments; ⁵ and the Egypt-tians have known that I am the LORD, in My stretching out My hand against Egypt; when I have brought out the Children of Israel from their midst.'

⁶And Moses doth—Aaron also—as the LORD hath commanded them; so have they done. ⁷And Moses is eighty years old, and Aaron is eighty and three years old, in their speaking unto Pharaoh.

⁸And the LORD speaketh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying, 'When Pharaoh speaketh unto you, saying, Give for yourselves a wonder; then hast thou said unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and cast it before Pharaoh—let it become a monster.'

¹⁴And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'The heart of Pharaoh hath been hard; he hath refused to send the people away: ¹⁵go unto Pharaoh in the morning; lo, he goeth out to the water: when thou hast stood to meet him by the edge of the River (the rod also which was turned to a serpent dost thou take in thy hand), ¹⁶then thou hast said unto him, Jehovah, God of the Hebrews, hath sent me unto thee, saying, Send My people away, and let them serve Me in the wilderness; and lo, thou hast not hearkened hitherto. ¹⁷Thus hath the LORD said, By this thou knowest that I am the LORD; lo, I smite with the rod which is in my hand, on the waters which are in the River, then they have been turned to blood; ¹⁸and the fish which are in the River die, and the River hath stank, and the Egyptians have been wearied of drinking water from the River.'

¹⁹The LORD saith also unto Moses, 'Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and stretch out thy hand against the waters of Egypt, against their streams, against their rivers, and against their ponds, and against all their collections of waters; then they are blood,—and there hath been blood in all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and in those of stone.'

²²And the scribes of Egypt do so with their flashings; and the heart of Pharaoh is strong, and he hath not hearkened unto them, as the LORD hath spoken. ²³And Pharaoh turneth and goeth in unto his house, and hath not set his heart even to this. ²⁴And all the Egyptians seek water round about the River to drink, for they have not been able to drink of the waters of the River.

²⁵And seven days are completed after the LORD's smiting the River.

VIII. ¹AND the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Go in unto Pharaoh; then hast thou said unto him, Thus hath the LORD said, Send My people away, and let them serve Me; and if thou refuse to send them away, lo, I smite all thy border with frogs; ²and the River hath teemed with frogs, and they have gone up and gone into thy house, and into the inner-chamber of thy bed, and on thy couch, and into the house of thy servants, and among thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy kneading-troughs: yea, on thee, and on thy people, and on all thy servants do the frogs go up.'

³And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Say unto Aaron, Stretch out thy hand, with thy rod, against the streams, against the rivers, and against the ponds, and cause the frogs to come up against the land of Egypt.'

⁴And Aaron stretcheth out his hand against the waters of Egypt, and the frogs cometh up, and covereth the land of Egypt. ⁷And the scribes do so with their flashings, and cause the frogs to come up against the land of Egypt.

⁸And Pharaoh calleth for Moses and for Aaron, and saith, 'Make supplication unto Jehovah, that he turn aside the frogs from me, and from my people, and I send the people away, and they sacrifice to Jehovah.'

⁹And Moses saith to Pharaoh, 'Beautify thyself over me; for when do I make supplication for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, to cut off the frogs from thee and from thy houses—only in the River do they remain?' ¹⁰And he saith, 'For tomorrow;' and he saith, 'According to thy word it is, so that thou knowest that there is none like Jehovah our God, ¹¹when the frogs have turned aside from thee, and from thy houses, and from thy servants, and from thy people; only in the River do they remain.'

¹²And Moses—Aaron also—goeth out from Pharaoh; and Moses crieth unto the LORD, concerning the matter of the frogs which He hath set on Pharaoh. ¹³And the LORD doth according to the word of Moses, and the frogs die out of the houses, out of the courts, and out of the fields; and they heap them up together, and the land stinketh. ¹⁵And Pharaoh seeth that there hath been a respite; and he hath hardened his heart, and hath not hearkened unto them, as the LORD hath spoken.

¹⁸ And the scribes do so with their flashings, to bring out the lice, and they have not been able; and the lice are on man and on beast. ¹⁹ And the scribes say unto Pharaoh, 'It is the finger of God;' but the heart of Pharaoh is strong, and he hath not hearkened unto them, as the LORD hath spoken.

²⁰ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Rise early in the morning, and station thyself before Pharaoh lo, he goeth out to the waters; then hast thou said unto him, Thus hath the LORD said, Send My people away, and let them serve Me; ²¹ for if thou send not My people away, lo, I send against thee, and against thy servants; and against thy people, and against thy houses, the beetle; then have the houses of the Egyptians been full of the beetle, and also the ground on which they are. ²² And I have separated in that day the land of Goshen, in which My people stay, that the beetle is not to be there, so that thou knowest that I am Jehovah in the midst of the land, ²³ when I have put a division between My people and thy people; to-morrow is this sign.'

²⁴ And the LORD doth so; and the grievous beetle entereth the house of Pharaoh, and the house of his servants, and into all the land of Egypt; the land is corrupted from the presence of the beetle.

²⁵ And Pharaoh calleth unto Moses and to Aaron, and saith, 'Go, sacrifice to your God in the land.' ²⁶ And Moses saith, 'Not right to do so; for the abomination of the Egyptians do we sacrifice to Jehovah our God; lo, we sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes—and do they not stone us? ²⁷ A journey of three days we go into the wilderness, and we sacrifice to Jehovah our God, as He saith unto us.'

²⁸ And Pharaoh saith, 'I send you away, then have ye sacrificed to Jehovah your God in the wilderness; only go not very far off; make ye supplication for me.' ²⁹ And Moses saith, 'Lo, I go out from thee, then have I made supplication unto the LORD, and the beetle hath turned aside from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to-morrow; only let not Pharaoh continue to deceive—in not sending the people away to sacrifice to Jehovah.'

IX. ¹ AND the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Go in unto Pharaoh; then hast thou spoken unto him, Thus hath Jehovah, God of the Hebrews, said, Send My people away, and let them serve Me; ² for if thou refuse to send them away, and dost still keep hold upon them, ³ lo, the hand of the LORD is on thy cattle which are in the field, on the horses, on the asses, on the camels, on the herd, and on the flock—a pestilence very grievous. ⁴ And the LORD hath separated between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt, and there doth not die a thing of all the Children of Israel's. ⁵ And the LORD setteth an appointed time, saying, To-morrow doth the LORD do this thing in the land.'

⁸ And the LORD saith unto Moses and unto Aaron, 'Take to you the fulness of your hands of soot of the furnace; then hath Moses sprinkled it towards the heavens, before the eyes of Pharaoh, ⁹ and it hath become small dust over all the land of Egypt, and it hath become on man and on cattle a boil breaking forth with blains, in all the land of Egypt.'

¹³ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Rise early in the morning, and station thyself before Pharaoh; then hast thou said unto him, Thus hath Jehovah, God of the Hebrews, said, Send My people away, and let them serve Me; ¹⁴ for at this time I send all My plagues unto thy heart, and on thy servants, and on thy people, so that thou knowest that there is none like Me in all the earth. ¹⁵ For now have I put forth My hand; and I smite thee, and thy people with pestilence, and thou art hidden from the earth.'

¹⁶ And yet truly for this have I caused thee to stand, so as to show thee My power, and for the sake of declaring My Name in all the earth. ¹⁷ Still thou art exalting thyself against My people—so as not to send them away. ¹⁸ Lo, I rain about this time to-morrow a very grievous hail, such as hath not been in Egypt, even from the day of its being founded, even until now. ¹⁹ And, now, send, strengthen thy cattle and all which thou hast in the field; every man and beast which is found in the field, and is not gathered into the house—the hail hath come down on them, and they have died.'

²³ And Moses stretcheth out his rod towards the heavens, and the LORD hath given voices and hail, and fire goeth towards the earth, and the LORD raineth hail on the land of Egypt: ²⁴and the hail, and the fire catching itself in the midst of the hail, is very grievous, such as hath not been in all the land of Egypt, since it hath become a nation.

²⁵And the hail smiteth in all the land of Egypt all which is in the field, from man even unto beast; and every herb of the field hath the hail smitten, and every tree of the field hath it broken. ²⁶Only in the land of Goshen, where the Children of Israel are, there hath been no hail.

²⁷And Pharaoh sendeth, and calleth for Moses and for Aaron, and saith unto them, 'I have sinned this time, Jehovah is the Righteous One, and I and my people are the Wicked; ²⁸make ye supplication unto Jehovah, and plead that there be no voices of God and hail; then I send you away, and ye continue not to remain.'

²⁹And Moses saith unto him, 'At my going out of the city, I spread my hands towards Jehovah—the voices cease, and the hail is not any more, so that thou knowest that the earth is Jehovah's. ³⁰But thou and thy servants—[have known that ye are not yet afraid of the presence of Jehovah God.]

³¹And the flax and the barley have been smitten, for the barley is budding, and the flax is forming flowers; ³²and the wheat and rye have not been smitten, for they are late.

³³And Moses goeth out from Pharaoh, and from the city, and spreadeth his hands towards the LORD, and the voices and the hail cease, and rain hath not been poured out to the earth; ³⁴and Pharaoh seeth that the rain hath ceased, the hail, and the voices also; and he continueth to sin, and hardeneth his heart, he and his servants. ³⁵And the heart of Pharaoh is strong, and he hath not sent the Children of Israel away, as the LORD hath spoken by means of Moses.

X. ¹AND THE LORD saith unto Moses, 'Go in unto Pharaoh, for I have declared hard the heart of Pharaoh, and the heart of his servants, so that I set these My signs in their midst, ²and so that thou recountest in the ears of thy son, and of thy son's son, that which I have done in Egypt, and My signs which I have set among them, and ye have known that I am the LORD.'

³And Moses cometh in—Aaron also—unto Pharaoh, and they say unto him, 'Thus hath Jehovah, God of the Hebrews, said, Until when hast thou refused to be humbled at My presence? send My people away, and let them serve Me; ⁴for if thou refuse to send My people away, lo, I bring in to-morrow the locust unto thy border, ⁵and it hath covered the eye of the land, and none is able to see the land, and it hath eaten the remnant of that which is escaped, which is left to you by the hail, and it hath eaten every tree which groweth for you out of the field. ⁶And they have filled thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians, which neither thy fathers nor thy fathers' fathers have seen, since the day of their being on the ground unto this day;—and he turneth and goeth out from Pharaoh.

⁷And the servants of Pharaoh say unto him, 'Until when doth this one become a snare to us? send the men away, and let them serve Jehovah their God: knowest thou not yet that Egypt hath perished?'

⁸And Moses is brought back—Aaron also—unto Pharaoh, and he saith unto them, 'Go, serve Jehovah your God;—who are those who go?' ⁹And Moses saith, 'With our young ones, and with our aged ones, do we go; with our sons, and with our daughters, with our flocks, and our herds, do we go; for we have a festival to Jehovah.'

¹⁰And he saith unto them, 'Let it be so: Jehovah be with you, when I send you and your infants away; see—for evil is before your faces. ¹¹Not so! go now, ye who are men, and serve Jehovah, for that ye are seeking;' and one casteth them out from the presence of Pharaoh.

¹³And Moses stretcheth out his rod against the land of Egypt, and the LORD hath led an east wind over the land all that day, and all the night;—the morning hath been, and the east wind hath brought the locust. ¹⁴And the locust goeth up against all the land of Egypt, and resteth in all the border of Egypt; very grievous: before it there hath not been such a locust as it, and after it there is none such. ¹⁵And it covereth the eye of all the land; and the land is darkened; and it eateth every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail hath left; and there hath not been left any green thing in the trees, or in the herb of the field, in all the land of Egypt.'

¹⁶And Pharaoh hasteth to call for Moses and for Aaron, and saith, 'I have sinned against Jehovah your God, and against you; ¹⁷and now, bear with, I pray you, my sin, only this time, and make ye supplication to Jehovah your God, that He turn aside from off me only this death.'

²¹And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Stretch out thy hand towards the heavens, and let there be darkness over the land of Egypt, and let the darkness be felt.'

²⁴And Pharaoh calleth unto Moses, and saith, 'Go ye, serve Jehovah; only let your flock and your herd be stayed; let your infants also go with you.' ²⁵ And Moses saith, 'Thou also shalt give in our hand sacrifices and burnt-offerings: then have we prepared for Jehovah our God: ²⁶ and our cattle also doth go with us: there is not left a hoof: for from it do we take to serve Jehovah our God: and we know not how we serve Jehovah till our going thither.'

²⁷ And the LORD strengtheneth the heart of Pharaoh, and he hath not been willing to send them away. ²⁸ And Pharaoh saith to him, 'Go from me: take heed to thyself: add not to see my face, for in the day thou seest my face thou diest.' ²⁹ And Moses saith, 'Rightly hast thou spoken: I add not any more to see thy face.'

XI. ¹ AND the LORD saith unto Moses, 'One plague more do I bring on Pharaoh, and on Egypt, afterwards doth he send you away from this: when he sendeth you away, he surely casteth you out altogether from this place.' ² Speak, I pray thee, in the ears of the people, and let each man ask from his neighbour, and each woman from her neighbour, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold.' ³ And the LORD putteth the grace of the people in the eyes of the Egyptians: the man Moses also is very great in the land of Egypt, in the eyes of the servants of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of the people.

⁴ And Moses saith to Pharaoh, 'Thus hath the LORD said, About midnight I go out into the midst of Egypt, ⁵ then hath every first-born in the land of Egypt died: from the first-born of Pharaoh who sitteth on his throne, unto the first-born of the maid-servant who is behind the mill-stones, and all the first-born of beasts.' ⁶ Then hath there been a great cry in all the land of Egypt, such as there hath not been, and such as there is not again. ⁷ But against the Children of Israel—a dog sharpeneth not its tongue, even from man unto beast, so that ye know that the LORD doth make a separation between the Egyptians and Israel. ⁸ Then all these thy servants have come down unto me, and bowed themselves unto me, saying, Go out, thou and all the people who are at thy feet: and afterwards do I go out:—and he goeth out from Pharaoh in the heat of anger.

⁹ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Pharaoh doth not hearken unto you, so as to multiply My wonders in the land of Egypt.' ¹⁰ And Moses and Aaron have done all these wonders before Pharaoh; and the LORD strengtheneth Pharaoh's heart, and he hath not sent the Children of Israel out of his land.

XII. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses and unto Aaron, in the land of Egypt, saying, ² 'This month is to you the chief of months; it is to you the first of the months of the year.' ³ Speak ye unto all the company of Israel, saying, In the tenth of this month—let them take to them each man a lamb for the house of the fathers, a lamb for a house. ⁴ (And if the household be too few for a lamb, then hath it taken, it and its neighbour who is near unto its house, for the number of persons, each according to his eating ye do count for the lamb.) ⁵ Let a lamb, a perfect one, a male of the first year, be to you: from the sheep or from the goats do ye take it.

⁶ Then hath it become a charge to you, until the fourteenth day of this month, and the whole congregation of the company of Israel have slaughtered it between the evenings. ⁷ And they have taken of the blood, and have put it on the two side-posts, and on the lintel over the houses in which they eat it. ⁸ And they have eaten the flesh in this night, roast with fire: with unleavened things and bitters do they eat it. ⁹ Ye do not eat of it raw, or boiled at all with water, but roast with fire, its head with its legs, and with its inwards; ¹⁰ and ye do not leave of it till the morning; and that which remaineth of it till the morning do ye burn with fire.

¹³ And the blood hath become a sign for you on the houses where ye are, and I have seen the blood, and have passed over you, and the plague is not on you for destruction in My smiting in the land of Egypt; ¹⁴ then this day hath become to you a memorial, and ye have kept it a feast to the LORD in your generations;—by a statute for ever do ye keep it a feast. ¹⁵ Seven days ye eat unleavened things; only—in the first day ye cause leaven to cease from your houses; for any one eating a fermented thing from the first day till the seventh day, even that person hath been cut off from Israel.

¹⁶ And in the first day is a holy convocation, and in the seventh day ye have a holy convocation; no work is done in them, only that which is eaten by any person—it alone is done by you. ¹⁷ And ye have observed the unleavened things; for in this self-same day have I brought out your hosts from the land of Egypt, and ye have observed this day in your generations—an everlasting statute.

²¹ And Moses calleth for all the elders of Israel, and saith unto them, 'Draw out and take for yourselves from the flock, for your families, and slaughter the Passover-sacrifice; ²² then have ye taken a bunch of hyssop, and have dipped it in the blood which is in the bason, and have struck it on the lintel, and on the two side-posts, with the blood which is in the bason, and ye, go not out from the opening of your house till the morning. ²³ When the LORD hath passed over to smite the Egyptians, and hath seen the blood on the lintel, and on the two side-posts, then hath the LORD passed over the opening, and doth not permit the destruction to come into your house to smite.

²⁴ And ye have observed this thing, for a statute to thee, and to thy children for ever. ²⁵ And it hath been, when ye come in unto the land which the LORD giveth to you, as He hath spoken, that ye have kept this service; ²⁶ yea, it hath come to pass when your children say unto you, What is this service ye have? ²⁷ that ye have said, It is the sacrifice of the LORD's passover, who passed over the houses of the Children of Israel in Egypt, in His smiting the Egyptians, and delivered our houses.

³⁰ And Pharaoh riseth by night, he and all his servants, and all the Egyptians, and there is a great cry in Egypt, for there is not a house where there is not one dead. ³¹ And he calleth for Moses and for Aaron by night, and saith, 'Rise, go out from the midst of my people, both ye and the Children of Israel, and go, serve Jehovah according to your word. ³² Take both your flock and your herd, as ye have spoken, and go; then have ye blessed even me.'

³³ And the Egyptians are urgent on the people, hasting to send them away out of the land; for they have said, 'We are all dead.' ³⁴ And the people take up their dough before it is fermented, their kneading-troughs are bound up in their garments on their shoulder. ³⁵ And the Children of Israel have done according to the word of Moses, and they ask from the Egyptians jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and garments. ³⁶ And the LORD hath put the grace of the people in the eyes of the Egyptians, and they cause them to ask, and they spoil the Egyptians.

is a night of watchings to the LORD to bring them out from the land of Egypt; it is this night to the LORD of watchings to all the Children of Israel in their generations.

XIII. ¹ AND THE LORD speaketh to Moses, saying, ² Sanctify to Me every first-born, opening any womb among the Children of Israel, among man and beast; it is Mine.

¹¹ And it hath been, when the LORD bringeth thee in unto the land of the Canaanite, as He hath sworn to thee and to thy fathers, and hath given it to thee, ¹² that thou hast caused every one opening the womb to pass over to the LORD, and every firstling—the increase of beasts which thou hast; the males are the LORD'S. ¹³ And every firstling of an ass thou dost ransom with a lamb; and if thou do not ransom it, then thou hast beheld it: every first-born of man also among thy sons dost thou ransom.

¹⁴ And it hath been, when thy son asketh thee hereafter, saying, What is this? that thou hast said unto him, By strength of hand hath the LORD brought us out from Egypt, from the house of servants. ¹⁵ Yea, it cometh to pass, when Pharaoh hath been pained to send us away, that the LORD doth slay every first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of man even unto the first-born of beast; therefore do I sacrifice to the LORD all opening the womb who are males, but every first-born of my sons do I ransom. ¹⁶ And it hath been for a token on thy hand, and for frontlets between thine eyes; for by strength of hand hath the LORD brought us out of Egypt.

¹⁷ And it cometh to pass in Pharaoh's sending the people away, that God hath not led them the way of the land of the Philistines, for it is near; for God hath said, 'Lest the people repent in their seeing war, and have turned back towards Egypt.' ¹⁸ And God turneth round the people the way of the wilderness of the Red Sea, and by fifties have the Children of Israel gone up from the land of Egypt. ¹⁹ And Moses taketh the bones of Joseph with him, for he hath certainly caused the Children of Israel to swear, saying, 'God doth certainly inspect you, then have ye brought up my bones from this with you.'

XIV. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² 'Speak unto the Children of Israel, and let them turn back and encamp before Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea, before Baal-Zephon; over-against it do ye encamp by the sea.' ³ When Pharaoh hath said of the Children of Israel, They are entangled in the land, (the wilderness hath shut upon them); ⁴ then I have strengthened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hath pursued after them, and I am honoured on Pharaoh, and on all his force, and the Egyptians have known that I am the LORD; and they do so.

⁵ And it is declared to the king of Egypt that the people hath fled; and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants is turned against the people, and they say, 'What is this we have done? that we have sent Israel away from our service.'

the chariot horses of Pharaoh, and his horse-men, and his force), and they overtake them, encamping by the sea, by Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-Zephon.

¹³ And Moses saith unto the people, 'Fear not, station yourselves, and see the salvation of the LORD, which He doth for you to-day: for as ye have seen the Egyptians to-day, ye add no more to see them for ever.' ¹⁴ The LORD fighteth for you, and ye keep silent.

¹⁹ And the Messenger of God, who goeth before the camp of Israel, journeyeth and goeth at their rear; and the pillar of the cloud journeyeth from their front, and standeth at their rear, ²⁰ and cometh in between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel; and the cloud and the darkness are, and it enlighteneth the night, and the one drew not near the other all the night.

²⁷ And Moses stretcheth out his hand towards the sea, and the sea turneth back (at the turning of the morning) to its perennial flow; and the Egyptians flee at its coming, and the LORD slaketh off the Egyptians in the midst of the sea; ²⁸ and the waters turn back, and cover the chariots and the horsemen, even all the force of Pharaoh, who come in after them into the sea: there hath not been left of them even one.

XV. ¹ THEN singeth Moses and the Children of Israel this song to the LORD, and speak, saying:—

- ¹ I sing to the LORD,
For He hath greatly triumphed:
The horse and his rider
He hath thrown into the sea.
² My strength and song is JAH,
And He is become my salvation:
This is my God, and I glorify Him:
The God of my father, and I exalt Him.
³ The LORD is a man of war;
The LORD is His name.
⁴ The chariots of Pharaoh and his force
He hath cast into the sea;
And the choice of his captains
Have sunk in the Red Sea!
⁵ The depths do cover them;
They went down to the depths as a stone.
⁶ Thy right hand, O LORD,
Is become honourable in power:
Thy right hand, O LORD,
Hath crushed the enemy.
⁷ And in the abundance of Thine excellency
Thou throwest down Thy withstanders:
Thou sendest forth Thy wrath—
It consumeth them as stubble.
⁸ And by the spirit of Thine anger
Have the waters been heaped together;
The flowings have stood as a heap;
The depths have been congealed
In the heart of the sea.
⁹ The enemy hath said, I pursue, I overtake:
I apportion the spoil;
My soul is filled with them;
I draw out my sword:
My hand destroyeth them:—
¹⁰ Thou hast blown with Thy wind—
The sea hath covered them:
They sank as lead in the mighty waters.
¹¹ Who is like Thee among the gods, O LORD?
Who is like Thee—honourable in holiness—
Fearful in praises—doing wonders.
¹² Thou hast stretched out Thy right hand—
The earth swallowed them!
¹³ Thou hast led forth in Thy kindness
The people whom Thou hast redeemed.
Thou hast led on in Thy strength
Unto Thy holy habitation.
¹⁴ The peoples have heard, they are troubled;

Pain hath seized inhabitants of Philistia!
¹⁵ Then have chiefs of Edom been troubled:
The mighty ones of Moab—
Trembling doth seize them!
Melted have all the inhabitants of Canaan!
¹⁶ Terror and dread fall on them;
By the greatness of Thine arm
They are still as a stone.
Till Thy people pass over, O LORD;
Till the people pass over Whom Thou hast purchased.
¹⁷ Thou bringest them in,
And dost plant them
In the mountain of Thine inheritance;
The fixed place of Thy dwelling
Thou hast made, O LORD;
The sanctuary, O LORD,
Thy hands have established:

¹⁸ The LORD doth reign for ever and ever!
¹⁹ For the horse of Pharaoh hath gone in with his chariots and with his horsemen into the sea, and the LORD turneth back on them the waters of the sea. And the Children of Israel have gone on dry land in the midst of the sea.

²⁰ And Miriam the inspired one, sister of Aaron, taketh the timbrel in her hand, and all the women go out after her, with timbrels and with choruses; ²¹ and Miriam answereth to them:—

'Sing ye to the LORD,
For He hath greatly triumphed:
The horse and his rider
Hath He thrown into the sea!'
²² And Moses causeth the people to journey from the Red Sea, and they go out into the wilderness of Shur; and they go three days in the wilderness, and have not found water. ²³ And they come in to Marah; and they have not been able to drink the waters of Marah, for they are bitter; therefore hath one called its name Marah.

²⁴ And the people murmur against Moses, saying, 'What shall we drink?' ²⁵ And he crieth unto the LORD; and the LORD sheweth him a tree, and he casteth it into the waters, and the waters become sweet; there hath He made for them a statute, and an ordinance, and there hath He tried them. ²⁶ And He saith, 'If thou dost really hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and dost that which is right in His eyes, and hast hearkened to His commands, and kept all His statutes: none of the sickness which I laid on the Egyptians do I lay on thee, for I, the LORD, do heal thee.'

XVI. ¹ AND they journey from Elim, and all the company of the Children of Israel come in unto the wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month of the going out from the land of Egypt.

² And all the company of the Children of Israel murmur against Moses and against Aaron in the wilderness. ³ And the Children of Israel say unto them, 'O that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, in our sitting by the flesh-pots, in our eating bread to satiety—for ye have brought us out into this wilderness to put all this congregation to death with hunger.

⁴And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Lo, I rain bread to you from the heavens—then have the people gone out and have gathered the matter of a thing in its day—so that I try them whether they walk in My law, or not. ⁵Yea, it hath been in the sixth day, that they have prepared that which they have brought in, and it hath been double of that which they gather day by day.'

⁶And Moses saith—Aaron also—unto all the Children of Israel, 'At evening—then have ye known that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt: ⁷and in the morning—then have ye seen the honour of the LORD, in His hearing your murmurings against the LORD; and what are we, that ye murmur against us?' ⁸Moses saith also, 'In the LORD'S giving to you in the evening flesh to eat, and bread in the morning to satiety,—in the LORD'S hearing your murmurings, which ye murmur against Him; and what are we? your murmurings are not against us, but against the LORD.'

¹¹And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹²'I have heard the murmurings of the Children of Israel; speak to them, saying, Between the evenings ye eat flesh, and in the morning ye are satisfied with bread; then have ye known that I am the LORD your God.'

¹³And it cometh to pass in the evening, that the quail cometh up, and covereth the camp; and in the morning there hath been the lying of dew round about the camp. ¹⁴And the lying of the dew goeth up, and lo, on the face of the wilderness a thin, bare thing, thin as the hoar-frost on the earth. ¹⁵And the Children of Israel see, and say one unto another, 'What is it?' for they have not known what it is; and Moses saith unto them, 'It is the bread which the LORD hath given to you for food.

¹⁹And Moses saith unto them, 'Let no man leave of it till the morning.' ²⁰And they have not hearkened unto Moses, and some of them leave of it till the morning, and it bringeth up worms and stinketh: and Moses is wroth at them. ²¹And they gather it morning by morning, each according to his eating: when the sun hath been warm, then hath it melted.

²²And it cometh to pass on the sixth day, they have gathered double bread, two omers for each; and all the princes of the company come in, and declare it to Moses.

²³And he saith unto them, 'It is that which the LORD hath spoken of; a rest—a holy sabbath to the LORD—is to-morrow; that which ye bake, bake; and that which ye boil, boil; and all which is over, let rest for yourselves in charge till the morning.' ²⁴And they let it rest until the morning, as Moses hath commanded, and it hath not stank, and no worm hath been in it.

²⁵And Moses saith, 'Eat it to-day: for to-day is a sabbath to the LORD: to-day ye find it not in the field; ²⁶six days do ye gather it: but in the seventh day—the sabbath—in it there is none.'

²⁷And it cometh to pass on the seventh day, that some of the people have gone out to gather, and have not found it.

²⁸And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'How long have ye refused to keep My commands, and My laws? ²⁹See, because the LORD hath given to you the Sabbath, therefore He is giving to you on the sixth day the bread of two days: abide ye each in his place, let no one go out from his place on the seventh day.' ³⁰And the people rest on the seventh day. ³¹And the house of Israel call its name Manna; and it is as coriander seed, white; and its taste as a cake with honey.

³²And Moses saith, 'This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded: Fill the omer with it, for a charge for your generations, so that they see the bread which I have caused you to eat in the wilderness, in My bringing you out of the land of Egypt.'

³³And Moses saith unto Aaron, 'Take one pot, and put there the fulness of an omer of manna, and let it rest before the LORD, for a charge for your generations.' ³⁴As the LORD hath given commandment unto Moses, so Aaron letteth it rest before the Testimony, for a charge.

XVII. ¹AND all the company of the Children of Israel journey from the wilderness of Sin, in their journeyings, by the command of the LORD, and encamp in Rephidim, and there is no water for the people to drink. ²And the people strive with Moses, and say, 'Give us water, and let us drink.'

And Moses saith to them, 'Why strive ye with me? why try ye the LORD?' ³And the people thirst there for water; and the people murmur against Moses, and say, 'Why is this?—thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to put us, our children and our cattle, to death with thirst.' ⁴And Moses crieth to the LORD, saying, 'What shall I do to this people?—yet a little, and they have stoned me.'

⁵And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Pass over before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Israel, and thy rod with which thou hast smitten the River take in thy hand; then hast thou gone. ⁶ Lo, I stand before thee there on the rock in Horeb, and thou hast smitten on the rock, and waters have come out from it, then have the people drunk.'

And Moses doeth so before the eyes of the elders of Israel. ⁷ And he calleth the name of the place Massah, and Meribah, because of the 'strife' of the Children of Israel, and of their 'trying' the LORD, saying, 'Is the LORD in our midst or not?'

¹⁰ And Joshua doth as Moses hath said to him, to fight with Amalek; and Moses, Aaron, and Hur, have gone up to the top of the height: ¹¹ and it hath come to pass, when Moses lifteth up his hand, that Israel hath been mighty, and when he letteth his hands rest, that Amalek hath been mighty. ¹² And the hands of Moses are heavy, and they take a stone, and put it under him, and he sitteth on it; and Aaron and Hur have taken hold on his hands, one on this side, and one on that, and his hands are steadfast till the going in of the sun. ¹³ And Joshua weakeneth Amalek and his people by the sword.

XVIII. ¹ AND Jethro the priest of Midian, father-in-law of Moses, heareth of all that which God hath done for Moses, and for Israel his people, that the LORD hath brought out Israel from Egypt: ² and Jethro, father-in-law of Moses, taketh Zipporah, wife of Moses, besides her presents. ³ And her two sons, of whom the name of the one is Gershom, for he hath said, 'I have been a sojourner in a strange land: ' ⁴ and the name of the other is Eliezer, for 'the God of my father is for my help, and delivereth me from the sword of Pharaoh.'

Egyptians. ¹⁰ And Jethro saith, 'Blessed is the LORD, who hath delivered you from the hand of the Egyptians, and from the hand of Pharaoh,—who hath delivered this people from under the hand of the Egyptians. ¹¹ Now have I known that Jehovah is greater than all gods; for in the thing they have acted proudly—He is above them.'

¹² And Jethro, father-in-law of Moses, taketh a burnt-offering and sacrifices for God; and Aaron cometh in, and all the elders of Israel, to eat bread with the father-in-law of Moses, before God.

¹³ And it cometh to pass on the morrow, that Moses sitteth to judge the people, and the people stand before Moses, from the morning unto the evening. ¹⁴ And the father-in-law of Moses seeth all that which he is doing to the people, and he saith, 'What is this thing which thou art doing to the people? Wherefore art thou sitting by thyself, and all the people standing by thee from morning till evening?'

¹⁵ And Moses saith to his father-in-law, 'Because the people come unto me to seek God. ¹⁶ When they have a matter, they come unto me, then have I judged between a man and his neighbour, and caused them to know the statutes of God, and His laws.'

¹⁷ And the father-in-law of Moses saith unto him, 'The thing which thou art doing is not good. ¹⁸ Thou dost surely wear away, both thou, and this people which is with thee, for the thing is too heavy for thee; thou art not able to do it by thyself. ¹⁹ Now, hearken to my voice, let me counsel thee, and let God be with thee: be thou for the people, over-against God; then hast thou brought in the things unto God: ²⁰ and thou hast warned them concerning the statutes and the laws, and hast made known to them the way in which they go, and the work which they do. ²¹ And thou dost provide out of all the people men of ability, fearing God, men of truth, hating dishonest gain, and hast placed these over them, as heads of thousands, heads of hundreds, heads of fifties, and heads of tens: ²² and they have judged the people at all times; and it hath come to pass, every great matter they bring in unto thee, and every small matter they judge themselves; and lighten it from off thyself, when they have borne it with thee. ²³ If thou do this thing, and God hath commanded thee, then thou hast been able to stand, and all this people also go in unto their place in peace.'

²⁴ And Moses hearkeneth to the voice of his father-in-law, and doth all which he hath said. ²⁵ And Moses chooseth men of ability out of all Israel, and maketh them chiefs over the people, heads of thousands, heads of hundreds, heads of fifties, and heads of tens. ²⁶ And they have judged the people at all times; the hard matters they bring in unto Moses, and every small matter they judge themselves.

XIX. ¹ IN the third month of the going out of the Children of Israel from the land of Egypt, in this day have they come into the wilderness of Sinai. ² And they journey from Rephidim, and enter the wilderness of Sinai, and encamp in the wilderness, and Israel encampeth there before the mount.

³ And Moses hath gone up unto God, and the LORD calleth unto him out of the mount, saying, 'Thus shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and declare to the Children of Israel, ⁴ Ye—ye have seen that which I have done to the Egyptians, that I bear you on eagles' wings, and bring you in unto Myself; ⁵ and now, if ye really hearken to My voice, then have ye kept My covenant, and been to Me a peculiar treasure more than all the peoples, for all the earth is Mine. ⁶ And ye—ye are to Me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation: these are the words which thou shalt speak unto the Children of Israel.'

⁷ And Moses cometh, and calleth for the elders of the people, and setteth before them all these words which the LORD hath commanded him. ⁸ And all the people answer together and say, 'All which the LORD hath spoken we do;' and Moses returneth the words of the people unto the LORD.

⁹ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Lo, I come unto thee in the thickness of the cloud, so that the people hear in Myspeaking with thee, and also believe in thee for ever.' And Moses declareth the words of the people unto the LORD.

¹⁰ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Go unto the people; then hast thou sanctified them to-day and to-morrow, and let them wash their garments, ¹¹ then have they been prepared for the third day; for on the third day doth the LORD come down before the eyes of all the people, on mount Sinai.

¹⁶ And it cometh to pass, on the third day, while it is morning, that there are voices and lightnings, and a heavy cloud on the mount, and the sound of the trumpet very strong; and all the people who are in the camp tremble.

¹⁷ And Moses bringeth out the people to meet God from the camp, and they station themselves at the lower part of the mount.

²¹ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Go down, protest to the people, lest they break through unto the LORD to see, and many of them have fallen. ²² And also let the priests who come nigh to the LORD sanctify themselves, lest the LORD break forth on them.'

²³ And Moses saith unto the LORD, 'The people is unable to come up unto mount Sinai, for Thou hast protested to us, saying, Make a border for the mount, then hast thou sanctified it.' ²⁴ And the LORD saith unto him, 'Go, descend; then hast thou come up, thou, and Aaron with thee; as to the priests and the people, let them not break through, to come up unto the LORD, lest He break forth upon them.' ²⁵ And Moses goeth down unto the people, and saith unto them:—

XX. ¹ GOD also speaketh all these words, saying, ² I am the LORD thy God, who hath brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants.

⁵ Thou shalt not bow thyself to them, nor serve them: for I, the LORD thy God, am a zealous God, charging the iniquity of the fathers on the children, on the third generation, and on the fourth of those who hate Me, ⁶ and doing kindness to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commands.

⁷ Thou shalt not take up the name of the LORD thy God for a vain thing; for the LORD acquitteth not him who taketh up His name for a vain thing.

⁸ Remember the Sabbath-day, to sanctify it; ⁹ six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work, ¹⁰ but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the LORD thy God; thou shalt not do any work; thou, or thy son, or thy daughter, thy man-servant, or thy handmaid, or thy cattle, or thy sojourner who is within thy gates,— ¹¹ for six days hath the LORD prepared the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all which is in them, and resteth in the seventh day; therefore hath the LORD blessed the Sabbath-day, and doth sanctify it.

¹³ Thou shalt do no murder.

¹⁴ Thou shalt not commit adultery.

¹⁵ Thou shalt not steal.

¹⁶ Thou shalt not answer against thy neighbour with a false testimony.

¹⁸ And all the people see the voices, and the flames, and the sound of the trumpet, and the mount smoking; when the people see, then they move, and stand afar off, ¹⁹ and say unto Moses, 'Speak thou with us, and let us hear; and let not God speak with us, lest we die.²⁰ And Moses saith unto the people, 'Fear not, for to try you hath God come, and in order that his fear may be before your faces—that ye sin not.'

²⁴ An altar of earth dost thou make for Me, then hast thou sacrificed on it thy burnt-offerings and thy peace-offerings, thy flock and thy herd; in every place where I cause My name to be remembered I come in unto thee, and have blessed thee.

XXI. ¹ AND these are the judgments which thou dost set before them. ² When thou buyest a Hebrew servant,—six years doth he serve, and in the seventh he goeth out as a freeman for nought. ³ If by himself he cometh in, by himself he goeth out; if he is a married man, then his wife hath gone out with him. ⁴ If his lord give to him a wife, and she hath born to him sons or daughters,—the wife and her children are her lord's, and he goeth out by himself.

⁷ And when a man selleth his daughter for a handmaid, she doth not go out according to the going out of the men-servants. ⁸ If it be evil in the eyes of her lord, so that he hath not betrothed her, then hath he let her be ransomed; to a strange people he hath no power to sell her, in his dealing treacherously with her.

¹² He who smiteth a man so that he hath died, is certainly put to death. ¹³ As to him who hath not hunted, but God hath brought him to his hand, I have even appointed for thee a place whither he doth flee.

¹⁵ And he who smiteth his father or his mother is certainly put to death.

¹⁶ And he who stealeth a man, and hath sold him, when he hath been found in his hand, is certainly put to death.

¹⁷ And he who revileth his father or his mother is certainly put to death.

¹⁸ And when men contend, and a man hath smitten his neighbour with a stone, or with the fist, and he die not, but hath fallen on the bed; ¹⁹ if he rise, and hath gone up and down without, on his staff, then hath the smiter been acquitted: only his cessation he giveth, that he may be thoroughly healed.

²² And when men strive, and have smitten a pregnant woman, and her children have come out, and there is no mischief, he is certainly fined, as the husband of the woman doth lay upon him, and he hath given through the judges. ²³ And if there is mischief, then thou hast given life for life, ²⁴ eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, ²⁵ burning for burning, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.

²⁸ And when an ox doth gore man or woman, that they have died, the ox is certainly stoned, and his flesh is not eaten; and the possessor of the ox is acquitted. ²⁹ But if the ox is one accustomed to gore heretofore, and it hath been testified to its owner, and he doth not watch it, and it hath put a man or woman to death, the ox is stoned, and its owner also put to death.

³⁰ If an atonement is laid upon him, then hath he given the ransom of his life, according to all that is laid upon him. ³¹ Whether it gore a son or gore a daughter, according to this judgment it is done to it.

XXII. ¹ WHEN a man doth steal an ox or sheep, and hath slaughtered it or sold it, five of the herd doth he repay for the ox, and four of the flock for the sheep. ² If in the breaking through, the thief is found, and he hath been smitten, and hath died, there is no blood for him. ³ If the sun hath risen upon him, blood is for him; he doth certainly repay; if he have nothing, then hath he been sold for his theft. ⁴If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive, whether ox, or ass, or sheep—he repayeth double.

⁵When a man depastureth a field or vineyard, and hath sent out his beast, and it hath pastured in the field of another, of the best of his own field, and the best of his own vineyard, doth he repay.

⁶When fire goeth forth, and hath found thorns, and the stack, or the standing corn, or the field hath been consumed, he who cansteth the burning doth certainly repay.

⁷When a man doth give unto his neighbour silver, or vessels to keep, and it hath been stolen out of the man's house,—if the thief is found, he repayeth double.

⁸If the thief is not found, then the master of the house hath been brought near unto God, whether he hath not put forth his hand against the work of his neighbour. ⁹For every matter of transgression, for ox, for ass, for sheep, for ruiuent, for any lost thing of which it is said it is his; unto God cometh the matter of them both; he whom God doth condemn, he repayeth double to his neighbour.

¹⁰When a man doth give unto his neighbour an ass, or an ox, or a sheep, or any beast, to keep, and it hath died, or hath been hurt, or taken captive, none seeing,—

¹⁴And when a man doth ask anything from his neighbour, and it hath been hurt or hath died—its owner not with it—he doth certainly repay. ¹⁵If its owner is with it, he doth not repay,—if it is a hired thing, it hath come for its hire.

¹⁶And when a man doth entice a virgin who is not betrothed, and hath lain with her, he doth certainly endow her to himself for a wife. ¹⁷If her father utterly refuse to give her to him, money he doth weigh out according to the dowry of virgins.

¹⁸A witch thou dost not keep alive.

¹⁹Whosoever lieth with a beast is certainly put to death.

²⁰He who sacrificeth to any god, save to the Lord alone, is devoted.

²¹A sojourner also thou dost not oppress, nor crush him, for sojourners have ye been in the land of Egypt.

²²Any widow or orphan ye do not afflict; ²³if thou dost really afflict him, surely if he at all cry unto Me, I certainly hear his cry. ²⁴And Mine anger hath burned, and I have slain you by a sword, and your wives have been widows, and your children orphans.

²⁵If thou lend My poor people with thee money, thou art not to him as a usurer; thou dost not lay on him usury. ²⁶If thou dost at all take in pledge the garment of thy neighbour, during the going in of the sun thou dost return it to him; ²⁷for it alone is his covering, it is his garment for his skin; wherein doth he lie down? and it hath come to pass, when he doth cry unto Me, that I have heard; for I am gracious.

²⁸God thou dost not revile, and the prince among thy people thou dost not curse.

³¹And ye are holy men to Me, and flesh torn in the field ye do not eat, ye do cast it to the dogs.

XXXIII. ¹THOU dost not lift up a vain report: thou dost not put thy hand with the wicked to be a violent witness.

²Thou art not after the many to evil, nor dost thou testify concerning a strife, by turning aside after the many to cause others to turn aside; ³and the poor thou dost not honour in his strife.

⁸And a bribe thou dost not take; for the bribe blindeth the open-eyed, and perverteth the words of the righteous.

⁹And a sojourner thou dost not oppress, seeing ye have known the soul of a sojourner: for sojourners have ye been in the land of Egypt.

¹⁰And six years dost thou sow thy land, and hast gathered its increase; ¹¹and the seventh thou dost release it, and hast left it, and the needy of thy people have eaten, and their leaving doth the beast of the field eat; so dost thou with thy vineyard,—with thine oliveyard.

¹²Six days dost thou do thy work, and on the seventh day dost thou rest, so that thine ox and thine ass doth rest, and the son of thine handmaid and the sojourner is refreshed. ¹³And in all that which I have said unto you ye do take heed; and the name of other gods ye do not mention; it is not heard on thy mouth.

¹⁴Three times dost thou keep a feast to Me in the year; ¹⁵the Feast of Unleavened things thou dost keep: seven days dost thou eat unleavened things, as I have commanded thee, at the time appointed in the month of Abib; for in it hast thou come forth out of Egypt, and ye do not appear in My presence empty. ¹⁶The Feast of Harvest also, the first-fruits of thy works which thou sowest in the field; and the Feast of In-Gathering, in the out-going of the year, in thy gathering thy works out of the field.

¹⁷Three times in the year do all thy mules appear before the face of the Lord Jehovah.

²⁰ 'Lo, I am sending a Messenger before thee to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee in unto the place which I have prepared. ²¹ Be watchful because of his presence, and hearken to his voice, rebel not against him: for he beareth not with your transgression, for My name is in his heart. ²² But if thou diligently hearken to his voice, and hast done all that which I speak, then am I at enmity with thine enemies, and have distressed those who distress thee.

²³ 'For My Messenger goeth before thee; when he hath brought thee in unto the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Canaanite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, then have I cut them off.

XXIV. ¹ AND unto Moses hath He said, 'Come up unto the LORD, thou, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, then have ye bowed yourselves afar off.' ² And Moses hath drawn nigh by himself unto the LORD; but they draw not nigh, and the people go not up with him.

³ And Moses cometh in, and recounteth to the people all the words of the LORD, and all the judgments; and all the people answer with one voice, and say, 'All the words which the LORD hath spoken we do.'

⁶ And Moses taketh half of the blood, and putteth it in basons, and half of the blood hath he sprinkled on the altar. ⁷ And he taketh the Book of the Covenant, and proclaimeth in the ears of the people, and they say, 'All that which the LORD hath spoken we do and obey.' ⁸ And Moses taketh the blood, and sprinklet it on the people, and saith, 'Lo, the blood of the covenant which the LORD hath made with you, concerning all these things.'

⁹ And Moses goeth up, Aaron also, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, ¹⁰ and they see the God of Israel, and under His feet is as the white work of the sapphire, even as the substance of the heavens for purity. ¹¹ And unto those of the Children of Israel who are near He hath not put forth His hand; and they see God, and eat and drink. ¹² And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Come up unto Me to the mount, and be there, and I give to thee the tables of stone, and the law, and the command, which I have written to direct them.'

¹³ And Moses riseth—Joshua his minister also—and Moses goeth up unto the mount of God. ¹⁴ And unto the elders hath he said, 'Abide ye for us in this place, until that we turn back unto you, and lo, Aaron and Hur are with you; let him who hath matters bring them nigh unto them.'

¹⁵ And Moses goeth up into the mount, and the cloud covereth the mount. ¹⁶ And the honour of the LORD doth tabernacle on mount Sinai, and the cloud covereth it six days; and He calleth unto Moses on the seventh day from the midst of the cloud. ¹⁷ And the appearance of the honour of the LORD is as a consuming fire on the top of the mount, before the eyes of the Children of Israel. ¹⁸ And Moses goeth into the midst of the cloud, and goeth up into the mount; and Moses is on the mount forty days and forty nights.

XXV. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² 'Speak unto the Children of Israel that they take a heave-offering for Me: from every man whose heart impelleth him do ye take my heave-offering.

⁸ Then have they made for Me a sanctuary, and I have tabernacled in their midst; ⁹ according to all that which I am shewing thee, the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all its instruments, even so do ye make it. ¹⁰ Then they have made an ark of shittim wood; two cubits and a half its length, and a cubit and a half its breadth, and a cubit and a half its height. ¹¹ And thou hast overlaid it with pure gold: within and without dost thou overlay it, and thou hast made on it a ring of gold round about. ¹² And thou hast cast for it four rings of gold, and thou hast put them on its four feet, even two rings on its one side, and two rings on its second side. ¹³ And thou hast made staves of shittim wood, and hast overlaid them with gold. ¹⁴ And hast put the staves into the rings on the sides of the ark, to bear the ark by them. ¹⁵ In the rings of the ark are the staves: they are not turned aside from it. ¹⁶ And thou hast put into the ark the testimony which I give to thee.

³¹ And thou hast made a candlestick of pure gold, of beaten work is the candlestick made; its base, and its branch, its calyxes, its knops, and its flowers are of the same. ³² And six branches are coming out of its sides; three branches of the candlestick out of the one side, and three branches of the candlestick out of the second side. ³³ Three calyxes made like almonds in the one branch, with a knop and a flower, and three calyxes made like almonds in one branch, with a knop and a flower; so for the six branches which are coming out from the candlestick.

³⁴ And in the candlestick are four calyxes made like almonds, with its knops and its flowers. ³⁵ And a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, are to the six branches which are coming out of the candlestick. ³⁶ Their knops and their branches are of the same; all of it one beaten work of pure gold. ³⁷ And thou hast made its seven lamps, and one hath caused its lights to go up, and it hath given light beyond its front. ³⁸ And its snuffers and its snuff dishes are of pure gold. ³⁹ Of a talent of pure gold dost thou make it, with all these vessels. ⁴⁰ And see thou and do them by their pattern which thou art shewn in the mount.

XXVI. ¹ And thou dost make the tabernacle with ten curtains of twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet; with cherubs, the work of the designer, dost thou make them. ² The length of the one curtain is eight and twenty by the cubit, and the breadth of the one curtain is four by the cubit; one measure is to all the curtains. ³ Five of the curtains are joining one to another, and the other five curtains are joining one to another. ⁴ And thou hast made loops of blue upon the edge of the one curtain, at the end in the joining; and so thou makest in the edge of the outermost curtain, in the joining of the second. ⁵ Fifty loops dost thou make in the one curtain, and fifty loops dost thou make in the edge of the curtain which is in the joining of the second, causing the loops to take hold one of another. ⁶ And thou hast made fifty hooks of gold, and hast joined the curtains one to another by the hooks, and the tabernacle hath been one.

ver it. ¹⁴And thou hast made a covering for the tent, of rams' skins made red, and a covering of badgers' skins above.

¹⁵And thou hast made the boards for the tabernacle of shittim wood, standing up. ¹⁶Ten cubits is the length of the board, and a cubit and a half the breadth of the one board. ¹⁷Two handles are to the one board, joined one to another; so dost thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle. ¹⁸And thou hast made the boards for the tabernacle; twenty boards for the south side southward. ¹⁹And thou dost make forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards, two sockets under the one board for its two handles, and two sockets under the other board for its two handles. ²⁰And for the second side of the tabernacle, for the north side, are twenty boards, ²¹and their forty sockets of silver, two sockets under the one board, and two sockets under another board. ²²And for the thighs of the tabernacle westward, thou dost make six boards. ²³And thou dost make two boards for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides. ²⁴And they are pairs beneath, and they are pairs together above its head unto the one ring; so is it for them both, they are for the two corners. ²⁵And they have been eight boards, and their sockets of silver are sixteen sockets, two sockets under the one board, and two sockets under another board.

³⁴And thou hast put the mercy-seat on the ark of the testimony, in the holy of holies.

³⁵And thou hast set the table at the outside of the vail, and the candlestick over against the table at the side of the tabernacle southward, and thou dost put the table on the north side.

³⁶And thou hast made a covering for the opening of the tent, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and twined linen, the work of the embroiderer. ³⁷And thou hast made for the covering five pillars of shittim wood, and hast overlaid them with gold, their pegs are of gold; and thou hast cast for them five sockets of brass.

^{XXVII.} ¹And thou hast made the altar of shittim wood; five cubits the length, and five cubits the breadth; the altar is square; and three cubits its height. ²And thou hast made its horns on its four corners, its horns are of the same; and thou hast overlaid it with brass. ³And thou hast made its pots to remove its ashes, and its shovels, and its bowls, and its forks, and its fire-pans, even all its vessels dost thou make of brass. ⁴And thou hast made for it a grate of net-work of brass, and hast made on the net four rings of brass on its four extremities, ⁵and hast put it under the compass of the altar beneath, and the net hath been unto the middle of the altar.

⁶And thou hast made staves for the altar, staves of shittim wood, and hast overlaid them with brass. ⁷And the staves have been put into the rings, and the staves have been on the two sides of the altar in bearing it. ⁸Hollow with boards dost thou make it; as it hath been shewed thee in the mount, so do they make it.

²⁰And thou dost command the Children of Israel, and they bring unto thee pure beaten olive oil for the light, to cause the lamp to go up continually. ²¹In the tent of meeting, at the outside of the vail, which is before the testimony, doth Aaron—his son also—arrange it from evening till morning before the Lord—an everlasting statute for their generations, because of the Children of Israel.

XXVIII. ¹ AND thou, bring near unto thee Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him, from the midst of the Children of Israel, for his ministering to Me, even Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, sons of Aaron. ² And thou hast made holy garments for Aaron thy brother, for glory and for beauty. ³ And thou dost speak to all the wise of heart, whom I have filled with a spirit of wisdom, then have they made the garments of Aaron to sanctify him for his ministering to Me.

⁴ And these are the garments which they make: a breastplate, and an ephod, and an upper robe, and an embroidered coat, a mitre, and a girdle; yea, they have made holy garments for Aaron thy brother, and for his sons, for his ministering to Me.

²¹ And thou hast made on the breastplate wreathed chains, the work of thick bands, of pure gold. ²² And thou hast made on the breastplate two rings of gold, and thou hast put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate. ²³ And thou hast put the two thick bands of gold on the two rings at the ends of the breastplate. ²⁴ And the two ends of the two thick bands dost thou put on the two embroidered things, and thou hast put them on the shoulders of the ephod over-against its face.

³⁹ When for the children of Aaron thou dost make coats, then thou hast made for them girdles, yea, bonnets dost thou make for them, for honour and for beauty. ⁴¹ And thou hast clothed Aaron thy brother with them, and his sons with him, and hast anointed them, and hast consecrated their hand, and hast sanctified them, and they have ministered to Me.

XXIX. ¹ AND this is the thing which thou dost to them to hallow them, so as to minister to Me: Take one young bullock from the herd, and two rams, perfect ones, ² and unleavened bread, and unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and thin unleavened cakes anointed with oil: of fine wheaten flour dost thou make them. ³ And thou hast put them on one basket, and hast brought them near in the basket, with the bullock and the two rams.

¹⁵ And thou dost take the one ram, and Aaron and his sons have laid their hands on the head of the ram: ¹⁶ and thou hast slaughtered the ram, and hast taken its blood, and hast sprinkled it on the altar round about. ¹⁷ And thou dost cut the ram into its pieces, and hast washed its inwards, and its legs, and hast put them on its pieces, and on its head. ¹⁸ And thou hast made a perfume on the altar with the whole ram: it is a burnt-offering to the LORD, a sweet fragrance; a fire-offering it is to the LORD.

²⁹ And the holy garments which are Aaron's, are for his sons after him, to be anointed in them, and to consecrate their hand in them. ³⁰ Seven days doth the priest in his stead (of his sons) put them on, when he goeth in unto the tent of meeting, to serve in the sanctuary.

³¹ And thou dost take the ram of the consecration, and hast boiled its flesh in the holy place: ³² and Aaron hath eaten—his sons also—the flesh of the ram, and the bread which is in the basket, at the opening of the tent of meeting. ³³ And they have eaten those things by which there is atonement to consecrate their hand, to sanctify them; and a stranger doth not eat —for they are holy. ³⁴ And if aught of the flesh of the consecration or of the bread be left till the morning, then hast thou burned that which is left with fire; it is not eaten, for it is holy.

⁴⁴ And I have sanctified the tent of meeting, and the altar; and Aaron and his sons I sanctify for ministering to Me; ⁴⁵ and I have tabernacled in the midst of the Children of Israel, and have become their God, ⁴⁶ and they have known that I am the LORD their God, who hath brought them out of the land of Egypt, that I may tabernacle in their midst; I am the LORD their God.

XXX. ¹ And thou hast made an altar for making perfume; of shittim wood dost thou make it. ² A cubit its length, and a cubit its breadth (it is square), and two cubits its height; its horns are of the same.

³ And thou hast overlaid it with pure gold, its top, and its sides round about, and its horns; and thou hast made to it a crown of gold round about. ⁴ And thou dost make two rings of gold to it under its crown; on its two ribs dost thou make them, on its two sides, and they have become places for the staves, to bear it with them. ⁵ And thou hast made the staves of shittim wood, and hast overlaid them with gold.

⁶ And thou hast put it before the veil, which is by the ark of the testimony, before the mercy-seat which is over the testimony, whither I am met with thee. ⁷ And Aaron hath made perfume on it, perfume of spices, morning by morning; in his making the lamps right he doth perfume it. ⁸ And in Aaron's causing the lamps to go up between the evenings, he doth perfume it; a continual perfume before the LORD in your generations.

¹⁷ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹⁸ Thou hast also made a laver of brass (and its base of brass), for washing; and thou hast put it between the tent of meeting and the altar, and hast put water there. ¹⁹ And Aaron and his sons have washed in it their hands and their feet. ²⁰ In their going in unto the tent of meeting they wash with water, and they die not; or in their drawing nigh unto the altar to minister, to perfume a fire-offering to the LORD, ²¹ then have they washed their hands and their feet, and they do not die; and it hath been to them an everlasting statute, to him and to his seed for their generations.

²⁶ And thou hast anointed with it the tent of meeting, and the ark of the testimony, ²⁷ and the table and all its vessels, and the candlestick and its vessels, and the altar of perfume, ²⁸ and the altar of burnt-offering and all its vessels, and the laver and its base; ²⁹ and thou hast sanctified them, and they have been most holy; any who cometh against them is holy. ³⁰ And thou doth anoint Aaron and his sons, and hast sanctified them for ministering to Me.

²¹ And unto the Children of Israel thou dost speak, saying, A holy anointing oil is this to Me, in your generations. ²² On man's flesh it is not poured, and with its proper proportion ye make none like it; it is holy; let it be holy to you. ²³ A man who compoundeth any like it, or who putteth any of it on a stranger—hath even been cut off from his people.

XXXI. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² See, I have called by name Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. ³ And I fill him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all kinds of work; ⁴ to devise designs, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, ⁵ and in graving of stone for settings, and in graving of wood to work in all kinds of work.

⁶ And I, lo, I have given with him Aholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan; and in the heart of every wise-hearted one I have put wisdom, and they have done all that which I have commanded thee.

⁷ The tent of meeting, and the ark of the testimony, and the mercy-seat which is on it, and all the vessels of the tent; ⁸ and the table and its vessels, and the pure candlestick and all its vessels, and the altar of perfume, ⁹ and the altar of burnt-offering and all its vessels, and the laver and its base, ¹⁰ and the coloured garments, and the holy garments, for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering. ¹¹ And the anointing oil, and the perfume of the spices for the sanctuary; according to all which I have commanded thee do they make.

¹² And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹³ And thou, speak unto the Children of Israel, saying, Only My Sabbaths do ye keep, for it is a sign between Me and you, in your generations, to know that I, the LORD, do sanctify you; ¹⁴ and ye have kept the Sabbath, for it is holy to you; he who polluteth it is certainly put to death—for any who doeth work in it—that person hath even been cut off from the midst of his people.

Children of Israel have kept the Sabbath; to keep the Sabbath in their generations is an everlasting covenant. ¹⁷ Between Me and the Children of Israel it is a sign for ever: for six days hath the LORD prepared the heavens and the earth, and in the seventh day He hath ceased, and is refreshed.

XXXII. ¹ AND the people see that Moses hath delayed to come down from the mount, and the people congregate against Aaron, and say unto him, 'Rise, make for us gods who may go before us; for this Moses—the man who hath brought us up out of the land of Egypt—we have not known what hath happened to him.'

⁷ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Go, descend, for thy people whom thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt hath done corruptly. ⁸ They have turned aside hastily from the way which I have commanded them; they have made for themselves a molten calf, and bow themselves to it, and sacrifice to it, and say, These are thy gods, O Israel, who have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.'

⁹ The LORD saith also unto Moses, 'I have seen this people, and lo, it is a stiff-necked people; ¹⁰ and now, let Me alone, and let My anger burn against them, and let Me consume them, and let Me make thee become a great nation.'

give to your seed, then have they inherited it for ever.' ¹⁴And the Lord repenteth of the evil which He hath spoken of doing to His people.

¹⁵And Moses turneth, and goeth down from the mount, and the two tables of the testimony are in his hand; the tables are written on both their sides, on this and on that, are they written. ¹⁶And the tables are the work of God, and the writing is the writing of God, graven on the tables.

¹⁷And Joshua heareth the voice of the people in their shouting, and saith unto Moses, 'The noise of battle is in the camp.'

²¹And Moses saith unto Aaron, 'What hath this people done to thee, that thou hast brought in upon it a great sin?' ²²And Aaron saith, 'Let not the anger of my lord burn; thou, thou hast known the people that it is set on evil; ²³and they say to me, Make for us gods, who may go before us, for this Moses—the man who hath brought us up out of the land of Egypt—we have not known what hath happened to him. ²⁴And I say to them, Whoso hath gold, let them break it off, and give it to me; and I cast it into the fire, and this calf cometh out.'

²⁵And Moses seeth the people that it is naked, for Aaron hath made it naked for contempt among its withstanders. ²⁶And Moses standeth in the gate of the camp, and saith, 'Who is for the Lord?—unto me;' and all the Children of Levi are gathered unto him. ²⁷And he saith to them, 'Thus hath the Lord, God of Israel, said, Put each his sword by his thigh, pass over and turn back from gate to gate through the camp, and slay each his brother, and each his friend, and each his relation.'

²⁸And the Children of Levi do according to the word of Moses, and there fall of the people on that day about three thousand men. ²⁹And Moses saith, 'Consecrate your hand to-day to the Lord, when a man is against his son, and against his brother, so as to bring a blessing on you to-day.'

³⁰And it cometh to pass, on the morrow, that Moses saith unto the people, 'Ye have sinned a great sin; and now I go up unto the Lord, if so be I atone for your sin.'

³¹And Moses turneth back unto the Lord, and saith, 'O this people hath sinned a great sin, that they make to themselves gods of gold. ³²But, now, surely Thou takest away their sin; and if not—blot me, I pray thee, out of Thy book which Thou hast written.' ³³And the Lord saith unto

Moses, 'Whoso hath sinned against Me—I blot him out of My book; ³⁴and now, go, lead the people whithersoever I have spoken to thee of; lo, My Messenger goeth before thee, but in the day of My inspecting then have I charged their sin upon them.'

³⁵And the Lord plagues the people, because they made the calf which Aaron made.

XXXIII. ¹AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, 'Go, ascend from this place, thou and the people, which thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I have sworn to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, To thy seed I give it; ²and I have sent before thee a Messenger, and have cast out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite; ³unto a land flowing with milk and honey, for I do not go up in thy midst, for thou art a stiff-necked people—lest I consume thee in the way.'

¹¹And the Lord hath spoken unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend; then hath he turned back unto the camp, but his minister Joshua, son of Nun, a youth, departeth not from the tent.

¹²And Moses saith unto the Lord, 'See, Thou art saying unto me, Bring up this people, and Thou hast not caused me to know whom Thou dost send with me; yet Thou hast said, I have known thee by name, and thou hast also found grace in Mine eyes. ¹³And now, if, I pray Thee, I have found grace in Thine eyes, cause me to know, I pray Thee, Thy way, and let me know Thee, in order that I may find grace in Thine eyes; and consider that this nation is Thy people.' ¹⁴And He saith, 'My presence doth go, and I have given rest to thee.'

¹⁵And he saith unto Him, 'If Thy presence is not going—take us not up from this place; ¹⁶ seeing in what is it known now, that I have found grace in Thine eyes—I and Thy people—is it not in Thy going with us? then have we been distinguished—I and Thy people—from all the people who are on the face of the ground.' ¹⁷ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Even this thing thou hast spoken I do; for thou hast found grace in Mine eyes, and I know thee by name.'

¹⁸ And he saith, 'Shew me, I pray Thee, Thine honour.' ¹⁹ And He saith, 'I cause all my goodness to pass before thy face, then have I called concerning the Name of the LORD before thee, and favoured those whom I favour, and loved those whom I love.'

²¹ The LORD also saith, 'Lo, a place is by Me: when thou hast stood on the rock ²² then it hath come to pass, in the passing by of Mine honour, that I have set thee in a cleft of the rock, and spread out My hands over thee, until My passing by, ²³ and I have turned aside My hands, and thou hast seen My back parts, but My face is not seen.'

XXXIV. ¹ AND the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Hew for thyself two tables of stone like the first, then have I written on the tables the words which were on the first tables which thou hast broken. ² And be prepared for the morning, then thou hast come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and hast stood before Me there, on the top of the mount. ³ And let no man come up with thee, and also let no man be seen in all the mount, also let not the flock or the herd feed over-against that mount.'

⁸ And Moses hasteth, and boweth to the earth, and doth obeisance, ⁹ and saith, 'If, I pray Thee, I have found grace in Thine eyes, O my Lord, let my Lord, I pray thee, go in our midst (for it is a stiff-necked people), then hast thou forgiven our iniquity and our sin, and hast inherited us.'

¹⁰ And He saith, 'Lo, I make a covenant: before all thy people I do wonderful things, which have not been done in all the earth, or in any nation, and all the people in whose midst thou art have seen the work of the LORD, for it is fearful that which I do with thee. ¹¹ Observe for thyself that which I am commanding thee to-day: lo, I am casting out from before thee the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite; ¹² take heed to thyself, lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land into which thou goest, lest it become a snare in thy midst.

²⁷ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Write for thyself these words, for according to the tenor of these words have I made a covenant with thee and with Israel.'

²⁸ And he is there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; bread he hath not eaten, and water he hath not drunk; and he writeth on the tables the matters of the covenant—the ten matters.

ing with him. ³⁰ And Aaron seeth—all the Children of Israel also—Moses, and lo, the skin of his face hath shone, and they are afraid of coming nigh unto him.

³³ And Moses blissheth speaking with them, and he putteth a vail on his face. ³⁴ And in the going in of Moses before the LORD to speak with Him, he turneth aside the vail until his coming out: when he hath come out then hath he spoken unto the Children of Israel that which he is commanded: ³⁵ and the Children of Israel have seen the face of Moses that the skin of the face of Moses hath shone, and Moses hath put back the vail on his face until his going in to speak with Him.

XXXV. ¹ AND Moses congregateth all the company of the Children of Israel, and saith unto them, 'These are the things which the LORD hath commanded you to do: ² Six days is work done, but there is to you on the seventh day a holy day, a sabbath of rest to the LORD; any who doeth work in it is put to death. ³ Ye do not burn a fire in any of your dwellings on the Sabbath-day.'

¹² The ark and its staves, the mercy-seat, and the vail of the covering,

¹⁷ The hangings of the court, its pillars, and their sockets, and the covering of the gate of the court,

¹⁸ The pins of the tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords,

³⁰ And Moses saith unto the Children of Israel, 'See, the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. ³¹ And He hath filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all kinds of work, ³² even to design devices to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, ³³ and in the carving of stones for settings, and in graving of wood to work in any work of design.

³⁴ And He hath put in his heart to direct, he and Aholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan. ³⁵ He hath filled them with wisdom of heart to do every kind of work, of the engraver, and of the designer, and of the embroiderer (in blue, and in purple, in scarlet, and in linen), and of the weaver, who do any work, and of the designers of designs.'

XXXVI. ¹ AND Bezaleel, and Aholiab, and every wise-hearted man, in whom the LORD hath put wisdom and understanding, to know how to do every kind of work for the service of the sanctuary, have done according to all which the LORD commanded.

²And Moses calleth unto Bezaleel, and unto Aholiab, and unto every wise-hearted man in whose heart the LORD hath put wisdom, every one whom his heart hath lifted up, to come near to the work to do it.

³And they take from before Moses all the heave-offering which the Children of Israel have brought in for the work of the service of the sanctuary to do it; and still they have brought in unto him a willing-offering morning by morning.

⁴And all the wise men, who do all the work of the sanctuary, come each from his work which they are doing, ⁵and speak unto Moses, saying, 'The people are multiplying to bring in more than sufficient for the service of the work which the LORD hath commanded to make.'

⁶And Moses commandeth, and they cause the voice to pass over through the camp, saying, 'Let no man or woman make any more work for the heave-offering of the sanctuary;' and the people are restrained from bringing, ⁷and the work hath been sufficient for them, for all the work to execute it, and to leave.

¹³And he maketh fifty hooks of gold, and joineth the curtains one to another by the hooks; and the tabernacle is one.

¹⁴And he maketh curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle: eleven curtains hath he made them. ¹⁵The length of the one curtain is thirty by the cubit, and the breadth of the one curtain is four cubits: one measure is to the eleven curtains. ¹⁶And he joineth the five curtains apart, and the six curtains apart.

¹⁷And he maketh fifty loops on the outer border of the curtain, in the joining; and fifty loops hath he made on the border of the curtain which joineth the second. ¹⁸And he maketh fifty hooks of brass to join the tent—to be one. ¹⁹And he maketh a covering for the tent of rams' skins made red, and a covering of badgers' skins above it.

²⁰And he maketh the boards of the tabernacle of shittim wood, standing up. ²¹Ten cubits is the length of the board, and a cubit and a half the breadth of the one board. ²²Two hands are to the one board, joined one unto another; so hath he made for all the boards of the tabernacle. ²³And he maketh the boards for the tabernacle; twenty boards for the south side southward. ²⁴And forty sockets of silver hath he made under the twenty boards, two sockets under the one board for its two hands, and two sockets under the other board for its two hands.

²⁵And for the second side of the tabernacle, for the north side, hath he made twenty boards, ²⁶and their forty sockets of silver, two sockets under the one board, and two sockets under the other board.

²⁷And for the sides of the tabernacle, westward, hath he made six boards. ²⁸And two boards hath he made for the corners of the tabernacle, in the two sides. ²⁹And they have been twins from below, and they have been twins together at its head, at the one ring: so hath he done to both of them at the two corners. ³⁰And there were eight boards; and their sockets of silver are sixteen sockets, two sockets under every board.

XXXVII. ¹AND Bezaleel maketh the ark of shittim wood, two cubits and a half its length, and a cubit and a half its breadth, and a cubit and a half its height. ²And he overlayeth it with pure gold within and without, and he maketh for it a wreath of gold round about. ³And he casteth for it four rings of gold, on its four feet, even two rings on its one side, and two rings on its second side. ⁴And he maketh staves of shittim wood, and overlayeth them with gold. ⁵And he putteth the staves into the rings, by the sides of the ark, to bear the ark.

⁶And he maketh the mercy-seat of pure gold, two cubits and a half its length, and a cubit and a half its breadth. ⁷And he maketh two cherubs of gold, of beaten work hath he made them, at the two ends of the mercy-seat. ⁸One cherub at the end on this side, and one cherub at the end on that, out of the mercy-seat hath he made the cherubs, at its two ends. ⁹And the cherubs are spreading out wings on high, covering the mercy-seat over with their wings, and their faces are one towards another; towards the mercy-seat have the faces of the cherubs been.

¹¹ And he overlayeth it with pure gold, and maketh for it a wreath of gold round about.

¹² And he maketh for it a border of a hand-breadth round about, and he maketh a wreath of gold for its border round about.

¹⁵ And he maketh the staves of shittim wood, and overlayeth them with gold, to bear the table. ¹⁶ And he maketh the vessels which are upon the table, its dishes, and its bowls, and its cups, and the cups by which they pour out, of pure gold.

²¹ And a knop under two branches of the same; and a knop under two branches of the same; and a knop under two branches of the same, are to the six branches which are coming out of it. ²² Their knops and their branches have been of the same; all of it one beaten work of pure gold.

²⁶ And he overlayeth it with pure gold, its top and its sides round about, and its horns; and he maketh for it a wreath of gold round about. ²⁷ And two rings of gold hath he made for it under its wreath, by its two corners at its two sides, for places for the staves to bear it with them.

²⁸ And he maketh the staves of shittim wood, and overlayeth them with gold.

²⁹ And he maketh the holy anointing oil, and the pure spiced perfume—the work of the compounder.

XXXVIII. ¹ AND he maketh the altar of burnt-offering of shittim wood, five cubits its length, and five cubits its breadth (square), and three cubits its height. ² And he maketh its horns on its four corners; its horns have been of the same; and he overlayeth it with brass. ³ And he maketh all the vessels of the altar, the pots, and the shovels, and the sprinkling-pans, and the forks, and the fire-pans; all its vessels hath he made of brass.

twenty and nine talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary. ²⁵ And the silver of those of the company who are numbered is a hundred talents, and a thousand and seven hundred and seventy-five shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary. ²⁶ A bekah for a poll (even half a shekel), by the shekel of the sanctuary, for every one who passeth over unto those who are numbered, from twenty years old and upwards, for six hundred thousand, and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty persons.

²⁹ And the brass of the heave-offering is seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels. ³⁰ And with it he maketh the sockets of the opening of the tent of meeting, and the brazen altar, and the brazen grate which it hath, and all the vessels of the altar, ³¹ and the sockets of the court round about, and the sockets of the gate of the court, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

XXXIX. ¹ AND of the blue, and the purple, and the scarlet, have they made coloured garments, to minister in the sanctuary; and they make the holy garments which are for Aaron, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

onyx, and a jasper—set, embroidered with gold, in their settings.

¹⁵ And they make on the breastplate wreathed chains, the work of thick bands of pure gold. ¹⁶ And they make two embroidered things of gold, and two rings of gold, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate, ¹⁷ and they put the two thick bands of gold on the two rings on the ends of the breastplate. ¹⁸ And the two ends of the two thick bands have they put on the two embroidered things, and they put them on the shoulders of the ephod, over-against its front.

³³ And they bring in the tabernacle unto Moses, the tent, and all its vessels, its hooks, its boards, its bars, and its pillars, and its sockets: ³⁴ and the covering of rams' skins made red, and the covering of badgers' skins, and the vail of the covering; ³⁵the ark of the testimony and its staves, and the mercy-seat; ³⁶the table, all its vessels, and the bread of the Presence; ³⁷the pure candlestick, its lamps, lamps of arrangement, and all its vessels, and the oil for light.

³⁸And the golden altar, and the anointing oil, and the spicy perfume, and the covering of the opening of the tent; ³⁹the brazen altar, and the brazen grate which it hath, its staves, and all its vessels, the laver and its base.

⁴²According to all that the LORD hath commanded Moses, so have the Children of Israel done all the work. ⁴³And Moses seeth all the work, and lo, they have done it as the LORD hath commanded; so have they done. And Moses blesseth them.

XL. ¹AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²On the first day of the month, on the first month, dost thou raise up the tabernacle of the tent of meeting, and hast put there the ark of the testimony, and hast covered over the ark with the vail, and hast brought in the table, and set its arrangement in order, and hast brought in the candlestick, and caused its lamps to go up.

⁴And thou hast set up the court round about, and hast placed the covering of the gate of the court; and hast taken the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle, and all that is in it, and hallowed it, and all its vessels, and it hath been holy. ⁵And thou hast anointed the altar of burnt-offering, and all its vessels, and sanctified the altar, and the altar hath been most holy. ⁶And thou hast anointed the laver and its base, and sanctified it.

¹¹And it cometh to pass, in the first month, in the second year, on the first of the month, the tabernacle hath been raised up.

¹²And Moses raiseth up the tabernacle, and setteth its sockets, and placeth its boards, and placeth its bars, and raiseth its pillars. ¹³And spreadeth the tent over the tabernacle, and putteth the covering of the tent upon it above, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

¹⁴And he taketh and putteth the testimony into the ark, and putteth the staves on the ark, and putteth the mercy-seat on the ark above. ¹⁵And he bringeth in the ark unto the tabernacle, and placeth the vail of the covering, and covereth over the ark of the testimony, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

¹⁸And he putteth the golden altar in the tent of meeting, before the vail, and maketh perfume on it, spicy perfume, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

²³And the cloud covereth the tent of meeting, and the honour of the LORD hath filled the tabernacle. ²⁴And Moses hath not been able to go in unto the tent of meeting, for the cloud hath tabernacled on it, and the honour of the LORD hath filled the tabernacle. ²⁵And in the going up of the cloud from off the tabernacle, the Children of Israel journey in all their journeys; and if the cloud go not up, then they journey not until the day of its going up; for the cloud of the LORD is on the tabernacle by day, and fire is on it by night, before the eyes of all the house of Israel in all their journeys.

LEVITICUS.

CHAP. I. ¹AND the LORD calleth unto Moses, and speaketh unto him out of the tent of meeting, saying, ²'Speak unto the Children of Israel: then hast thou said unto them, When any man of you doth bring near an offering to the LORD, of the cattle (of the herd, or of the flock), do ye bring near your offering.

⁶'And he hath stripped the burnt-offering, and hath cut it into its pieces; ⁷and the sons of Aaron the priest have put fire on the altar, and arranged the wood on the fire: ⁸and the priests, the sons of Aaron, have arranged the pieces, with the head and the fat, on the wood, which is on the fire, which is on the altar; ⁹and its inwards and its legs doth he wash in water; and the priest hath made a perfume with the whole on the altar, a burnt-offering, a fire-offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD.

¹⁴'And if his offering be a burnt-offering of fowl to the LORD, then hath he brought near his offering of turtle-doves or of young pigeons, ¹⁵and the priest hath brought it near unto the altar, and hath wrung off its head, and hath made a perfume on the altar, and its blood hath been wrung out by the side of the altar; ¹⁶and he hath turned aside its crop with its feathers, and hath cast it near the altar, eastward, unto the place of the ashes; ¹⁷and he hath cleaved it with its wings (he doth not separate it), and the priest hath made it a perfume on the altar, on the wood which is on the fire; it is a burnt-offering, a fire-offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD.

II. ¹'AND when a person bringeth near an offering, a present to the LORD, of flour is his offering, then he hath poured out on it oil, and hath put frankincense on it; ²and he hath brought it in unto the sons of Aaron, the priests, then he hath taken from thence the fulness of his hand of its flour and of its oil, besides all its frankincense, and the priest hath made a perfume with its memorial on the altar, a fire offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD; ³and the remnant of the present is for Aaron and for his sons,—most holy of the fire-offerings of the LORD.

⁷'And if thine offering be a present made on the frying-pan, of flour with oil it is made, ⁸then thou hast brought in the present which is made of these to the LORD, and one hath brought it near unto the priest, and he hath brought it nigh unto the altar; ⁹and the priest hath lifted up from the present its memorial, and hath made a perfume on the altar, a fire-offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD; ¹⁰and the remnant of the present is for Aaron and for his sons, most holy of the fire-offerings of the LORD.

¹²The offering of the first-fruits—ye bring them near to the LORD, but on the altar they go not up for a sweet fragrance.

¹³And every offering—thy present—with salt thou dost season, and thou dost not let the salt of the covenant of thy God cease from thy present; with all thine offerings thou dost bring near salt.

¹⁴'And if thou bring near a present of first-ripe fruits to the LORD, of green ears, roasted with fire, beaten out corn of a fruitful field dost thou bring near the present of thy first-ripe fruits, ¹⁵then thou hast put oil on it, and laid frankincense on it, it is a present. ¹⁶And the priest hath made a perfume with its memorial from its beaten out corn, and from its oil, besides all its frankincense.—a fire-offering to the LORD.

III. ¹'AND if his offering be a sacrifice of peace-offerings, if from the herd he is bringing it near, whether male or female, a perfect one doth he bring it near before the LORD, ²then he hath laid his hand on the head of his offering, and hath slaughtered it at the opening of the tent of meeting, and the sons of Aaron the priests have sprinkled the blood on the altar round about. ² And he hath brought near from the sacrifice of peace-offerings a fire-offering to the LORD, the fat which covereth the inwards, and all the fat which is on the inwards, ³ and the two kidneys, and the fat which is on them, which is on the flanks, and the redundancy above the liver, (beside the kidneys he doth turn it aside), ⁴ and the sons of Aaron have made it a perfume on the altar on the burnt-offering which is on the wood, which is on the fire—a fire-offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD.

¹² And if his offering be a goat, then hath he brought it near before the LORD, ¹³ and hath laid his hand on its head, and hath slaughtered it before the tent of meeting, and the sons of Aaron have sprinkled its blood on the altar round about, ¹⁴ and he hath brought near from it his offering, a fire-offering to the LORD, the fat which covereth the inwards, and all the fat which is on the inwards, ¹⁵ and the two kidneys, and the fat which is upon them, which is on the flanks, and the redundancy above the liver, beside the kidneys he doth turn it aside, ¹⁶ and the priest hath made them a perfume on the altar—bread of a fire-offering, for a sweet fragrance; all the fat is the LORD's. ¹⁷ An everlasting statute for your generations in all your dwellings—any fat or any blood ye shall not eat.

IV. ¹ AND THE LORD SPEAKETH UNTO MOSES, saying, ² Speak unto the Children of Israel, saying, When a person doth sin through ignorance against any of the commands of the LORD regarding things which are not to be done, and hath done something against one of these—

²⁰ And he hath done to the bullock as he hath done to the bullock of the sin-offering, so doth he to it; and the priest hath made an atonement for them, and it hath been forgiven them. ²¹ And he hath brought out the bullock unto the outside of the camp, and hath burned it as he hath burned the first bullock; it is a sin-offering of the congregation.

22 'When a prince doth sin, and hath done something against one of all the commands of the LORD his God regarding things which are not to be done, through ignorance, and hath been guilty—²³ or his sin wherein he hath sinned hath been made known unto him, then hath he brought in his offering, a kid of the goats, a male, a perfect one,²⁴ and he hath laid his hand on the head of the goat, and hath slaughtered it in the place where he doth slaughter the burnt-offering before the LORD: it is a sin-offering.

25 'And the priest hath taken of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger, and hath put it on the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and its blood doth he pour out at the foundation of the altar of burnt-offering,²⁶ and all its fat doth he make a perfume on the altar; as the fat of the sacrifice of peace-offerings; and the priest hath made an atonement for him because of his sin, and it hath been forgiven him.

27 'And if any person of the people of the land sin through ignorance, by his doing something against one of the commands of the LORD regarding things which are not to be done, and hath been guilty—²⁸ or his sin which he hath sinned hath been made known unto him, then hath he brought in his offering, a kid of the goats, a female, a perfect one, for his sin which he hath sinned,²⁹ and he hath laid his hand on the head of the sin-offering, and hath slaughtered the sin-offering in the place of the burnt-offering.

30 'Then hath the priest taken of its blood with his finger, and hath put it on the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and all its blood doth he pour out at the foundation of the altar,³¹ and all its fat doth he turn aside, as the fat hath been turned aside from off the sacrifice of peace-offerings, and the priest hath made a perfume on the altar, for a sweet fragrance to the LORD; and the priest hath made an atonement for him, and it hath been forgiven him.

32 'And if he bring a sheep for his offering, for a sin-offering, a female, a perfect one, doth he bring it,³³ then hath he laid his hand on the head of the sin-offering, and hath slaughtered it for a sin-offering in the place where he slaughtereth the burnt-offering.

34 'Then hath the priest taken of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger, and hath put it on the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and all its blood he poureth out at the foundation of the altar,³⁵ and all its fat he turneth aside, as the fat of the sheep is turned aside from the sacrifice of peace-offerings, and the priest hath made them a perfume on the altar, according to the fire-offerings of the LORD, and the priest hath made an atonement for him, for his sin which he hath sinned, and it hath been forgiven him.

V. 1 'AND when a person sinneth, and hath heard the voice of an oath, and is a witness, or hath seen or hath known—if he declare it not, then hath he borne his iniquity;

2 'Or when a person cometh against any unclean thing, or against the carcase of an unclean beast, or against the carcase of an unclean cattle, or against the carcase of an unclean teeming creature, and it hath been hidden from him, and he is unclean, and guilty;

3 'Or when he cometh against the uncleanness of man, even any of his uncleanness whereby he is unclean, and it hath been hidden from him, and he hath known, and is guilty;

4 'Or when a person sweareth, speaking wrongfully with the lips to do evil, or to do good, even anything which man speaketh wrongfully with an oath, and it hath been hid from him—when he hath known then he is guilty of one of these;

5 'And it hath been when he is guilty of one of these, that he hath confessed concerning that which he hath sinned,⁶ and hath brought in his guilt-offering to the LORD for his sin which he hath sinned, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats for a sin-offering, and the priest hath made an atonement for him, because of his sin.

7 'And if his hand reach not to the sufficiency of a lamb—then hath he brought in for his guilt which he hath sinned two turtle-doves or two young pigeons to the LORD, one for a sin-offering, and one for a burnt-offering;⁸ and he hath brought them in unto the priest; and he hath brought near that which is for the sin-offering first, and hath wrung off its head from its neck, and doth not separate it;⁹ and he hath sprinkled of the blood of the sin-offering on the side of the altar, and that which is left of the blood is wrung out at the foundation of the altar; it is a sin-offering.

10 'And he maketh the second a burnt-offering, according to the ordinance, and the priest hath made an atonement for him, because of his sin which he hath sinned, and it hath been forgiven him.

11 'And if his hand reach not to two turtle-doves, or to two young pigeons, then hath he brought in for his offering—he who hath sinned—the tenth of an ephah of flour for a sin-offering; he putteth no oil on it, nor doth he put frankincense on it, for it is a sin-offering;¹² and he hath brought it in unto the priest, and the priest hath taken a handful from it—the fulness of his hand—its memorial—and hath made a perfume on the altar, according to the fire-offerings of the LORD; it is a sin-offering.

13 'And the priest hath made an atonement for him, for his sin which he hath sinned against one of these, and it hath been forgiven him, and the remnant hath been the priest's, like the present.'

14 'And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, 15 'When a person committeth a trespass, and hath sinned through ignorance, against the holy things of the LORD, then hath he brought in his guilt-offering to the LORD, a ram, a perfect one, out of the flock, at thy valuation in silver, shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, for a guilt-offering.

¹⁶ And that which he hath sinned against the holy thing he repayeth, and addeth its fifth to it, and hath given it to the priest, and the priest maketh atonement for him with the ram of the guilt-offering, and it hath been forgiven him.

VI. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² When a person sinneth, and hath committed a trespass against the LORD, and hath lied to his fellow concerning a deposit, or concerning fellowship, or concerning a violent robbery, or hath oppressed his fellow; ³ or hath found a lost thing, and hath lied concerning it, and hath sworn to a falsehood, concerning one of all these which man doth, sinning in them:

⁴ Then it hath been, when he sinneth, and is guilty, that he hath returned the plunder which he hath taken violently away, or the thing which he hath got by oppression, or the deposit which hath been deposited with him, or the lost thing which he hath found; ⁵ or all that concerning which he sweareth falsely, he hath even repaid it by its principal, and its fifth he addeth to it; to him whose it is he giveth it in the day of his guilt-offering.

²⁴ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²⁵ Speak unto Aaron and unto his sons, saying, This is the law of the sin-offering: in the place where the burnt-offering is slaughtered is the sin-offering slaughtered before the LORD; it is most holy.

²⁶ The priest who maketh atonement by it doth eat it, in the holy place it is eaten, in the court of the tent of meeting; ²⁷ all that cometh against its flesh is holy, and when any of its blood is sprinkled on the garment, that on which it is sprinkled thou dost wash in the holy place; ²⁸ and the earthen vessel in which it is boiled is broken, and if in a brass vessel it is boiled, then it is scoured and rinsed in water.

VII. ¹ AND this is the law of the guilt-offering: it is most holy; ² in the place where they slaughter the burnt-offering do they slaughter the guilt-offering; and its blood one doth sprinkle on the altar round about, ³ and all its fat he bringeth near out of it, the fat tail, and the fat which covereth the inwards, ⁴ and the two kidneys, and the fat which is on them, which is by the flanks, and the redundancy above the liver (beside the kidneys doth he turn it aside); ⁵ and the priest hath made them a perfume on the altar, a fire-offering to the LORD; it is a guilt-offering.

⁶ Every male among the priests doth eat it; in the holy place it is eaten; it is most holy. ⁷ As is the sin-offering, so is the guilt-offering; one law is for them; the priest who maketh atonement by it—it is his.

¹¹ And this is the law of the sacrifice of peace-offerings which one bringeth near to the LORD; ¹² if for a thank-offering he bring it near, then hath he brought near with the sacrifice of thank-offering unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and thin unleavened cakes anointed with oil, and of fried flour cakes mixed with oil; ¹³ besides the cakes, fermented bread doth he bring near with his offering, besides the sacrifice of the thank-offering of his peace-offerings; ¹⁴ and he hath brought near out of it one of the whole offering for a heave-offering to the LORD; to the priest who sprinkleth the blood of the peace-offerings—it is his, ¹⁵ as to the flesh of the sacrifice of the thank-offering of his peace-offerings, in the day of his offering it is eaten; he leaveth none of it till morning.

¹⁶ And if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow or a free-will offering, in the day of his bringing near his sacrifice it is eaten; and on the morrow also the remnant of it is eaten. ¹⁷ And the remnant of the flesh of the sacrifice on the third day is burnt with fire. ¹⁸ And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings be really eaten on the third day, it is not pleasing; for him who bringeth it near it is not reckoned; it is an abominable thing, and the person who eateth of it beareth his iniquity.

²² And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²³ Speak unto the Children of Israel, saying, Any fat of ox or of sheep or of goat ye shall not eat. ²⁴ And the fat of a carcase, and the fat of a torn thing may be prepared for any work, but ye shall certainly not eat it. ²⁵ For whosoever eateth the fat of the beast, of which one bringeth near a fire-offering to the LORD, even the person who eateth hath been cut off from his people. ²⁶ And any blood ye shall not eat, in all your dwellings, of fowl, or of beast. ²⁷ Any person who eateth any blood, even that person hath been cut off from his people.

VIII. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Take Aaron and his sons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil, and the bullock of the sin-offering, and the two rams, and the basket of unleavened things; ³ and congregate all the company unto the opening of the tent of meeting.

the breastplate the Lights and Perfections; ⁹and doth put the mitre on his head, and doth put on the mitre, over-against its front, the golden flowers of the holy crown, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

¹⁰And Moses taketh the anointing oil and anointeth the tabernacle, and all that is in it, and sanctifieth them. ¹¹And he sprinkleth of it on the altar seven times, and anointeth the altar, and all its vessels, and the laver, and its base, to sanctify them. ¹²And he poureth of the anointing oil on the head of Aaron, and anointeth him to sanctify him.

¹³And Moses bringeth near the sons of Aaron, and clotheth them with coats, and girdeth them with girdles, and bindeth for them turbans, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

¹⁴And he bringeth nigh the bullock of the sin-offering, and Aaron layeth—his sons also—their hands on the head of the bullock of the sin-offering, ¹⁵and he slaughtereth it; and Moses taketh the blood, and putteth it on the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and cleanseth the altar; and the blood he hath poured out at the foundation of the altar, and sanctifieth it, to make atonement upon it.

¹⁷And the bullock, and its skin, and its flesh, and its dung, hath he burnt with fire, at the outside of the camp, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

²²And he bringeth near the second ram, the ram of consecrations, and Aaron and his sons lay their hands on the head of the ram, ²³and he slayeth it, and Moses taketh of its blood and putteth on the tip of the right ear of Aaron, and on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot. ²⁴And he bringeth near the sons of Aaron, and Moses putteth of the blood on the tip of their right ear, and on the thumb of their right hand, and on the great toe of their right foot; and Moses sprinkleth the blood on the altar round about, ²⁵and he taketh the fat, and the fat tail, and all the fat which is on the inwards, and the redundancy above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and the right leg; ²⁶and out of the basket of unleavened things, which is before the LORD, hath he taken one unleavened cake, and one cake of oiled bread, and one thin cake, and putteth them on the fat, and on the right leg; ²⁷and putteth the whole on the hands of Aaron, and on the hands of his sons, and waveth them—a wave-offering before the LORD.

³⁰And Moses taketh of the anointing oil, and of the blood which is on the altar, and sprinkleth it on Aaron, on his garments, and on his sons, and on the garments of his sons with him, and sanctifieth Aaron, his garments, and his sons, and the garments of his sons with him.

³¹And Moses saith unto Aaron, and unto his sons, 'Boil ye the flesh at the opening of the tent of meeting, and there ye do eat it and the bread which is in the basket of consecrations, as I have been commanded, saying, Let Aaron and his sons eat it.'

³⁶And Aaron doth—his sons also—all the things which the LORD hath commanded by means of Moses.

IX. ¹AND it cometh to pass on the eighth day, Moses hath called for Aaron and for his sons, and for the elders of Israel; ²and he saith unto Aaron, 'Take to thyself a calf, a young one of the herd, for a sin-offering, and a ram for a burnt-offering, perfect ones, and bring them near before the LORD.'

⁵And they take that which Moses hath commanded unto the front of the tent of meeting, and all the company draw near and stand before the LORD; ⁶and Moses saith, 'This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded; do it, and the honour of the LORD doth appear to you.' ⁷And Moses saith unto Aaron, 'Draw near unto the altar, and make thy sin-offering, and thy burnt-offering, and make atonement for thyself, and for the people, and make the offering of the people, and make atonement for them, as the LORD hath commanded.'

¹⁵ And he bringeth near the offering of the people, and taketh the goat of the sin-offering which is for the people, and slaughtereth it, and maketh it a sin-offering, like the first. ¹⁶ And he bringeth near the burnt-offering, and maketh it, according to the ordinance. ¹⁷ And he bringeth near the present, and filleteth his hand with it, and maketh a perfume on the altar, beside the burnt-offering of the morning.

¹⁸ And he slaughtereth the bullock and the ram for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, which is for the people, and the sons of Aaron present the blood unto him (and he sprinkleth it on the altar round about), ¹⁹ and the fat of the bullock, and of the ram, the fat tail, and the covering of the inwards, and the kidneys, and the redundancy above the liver, ²⁰ and they put the fat on the breasts, and he maketh perfume with the fat on the altar. ²¹ And the breasts and the right leg hath Aaron waved for a wave-offering before the LORD, as He hath commanded Moses.

X. ¹ And the sons of Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, take each his censor, and put fire in them, and put perfume on it, and bring near before the LORD strange fire, which He hath not commanded them; ² and fire goeth out from before the LORD, and consumeth them, and they die before the LORD.

³ And Moses saith unto Aaron, 'It is that which the LORD hath spoken, saying, By those who draw near to me I am sanctified, and in the front of all the people I am honoured.' and Aaron is silent. ⁴ And Moses calleth unto Mishael and unto Elza-phan, sons of Uzziel, uncle of Aaron, and saith unto them, 'Come near, bear your brethren from the front of the sanctuary unto the outside of the camp.' ⁵ And they come near, and bear them in their coats unto the outside of the camp, as Moses hath spoken.

⁶ And Moses saith unto Aaron, and to Eleazar, and to Ithamar, his sons, 'Your heads ye shall not uncover, and your garments ye shall not rend, that ye die not, and on all the company He be wroth; as to your brethren, the whole house of Israel, let them bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled; ⁷ and from the opening of the tent of meeting ye shall not go out, lest ye die, for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you; and they do according to the word of Moses.

⁸ And the LORD speaketh unto Aaron, saying, ⁹ 'Wine or strong drink thou shalt not drink, thou, or thy sons with thee, in your going in unto the tent of meeting, that ye die not—an everlasting statute for your generations; ¹⁰ so as to make a separation between the holy and the common, and between the unclean and the pure; ¹¹ so as to teach the Children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD hath spoken unto them by means of Moses.'

¹⁹ And Aaron speaketh unto Moses, 'Lo, to-day they have brought near their sin-offering and their burnt-offering before the LORD; and things like these meet me, and I have eaten the sin-offering to-day; is it good in the eyes of the LORD?' ²⁰ And Moses hearkeneth, and it is good in his eyes.

XL 1 AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying unto them, ² 'Speak unto the Children of Israel, saying, This is the beast which ye do eat of all the beasts which are on the earth: ³ any dividing the hoof, and cleaving the cleft of the hoofs, bringing up the cud, among the beasts, it ye do eat.

¹³ And these ye do abominate of the fowl: they are not eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey, ¹⁴ and the vulture, and the kite after its kind; ¹⁵ every raven after its kind; ¹⁶ and the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckoo, and the hawk after its kind; ¹⁷ and the little owl, and the cornuorant, and the great owl, ¹⁸ and the swan, and the pelican, and the gier eagle, ¹⁹ and the stork, the heron after its kind; and the lap-wing and the bat. ²⁰ Every teeming creature which flieth, which goeth on four—it is an abomination to you.

you; any who cometh against their carcase is unclean until the evening; ²⁸ and he who lifeth up their carcase doth wash his clothes, and is unclean until the evening—they are unclean to you.

²⁹ And this is to you the unclean among the teeming things which teem on the earth: the weasel, and the mouse, and the tortoise after its kind, ³⁰ and the ferret, and the chameleon, and the lizard, and the snail, and the mole; ³¹ these are the unclean to you among all which teem; any who cometh against them in their death is unclean till the evening. ³² And anything on which any of them falleth, in their death, is unclean, of any vessel of wood or garment or skin or sack, any vessel in which work is done is brought into water, and is unclean till the evening; then it hath been clean. ³³ And any earthen vessel, into the midst of which any of them falleth, all that is in its midst is unclean, and ye do break it.

³⁴ Of all the food which is eaten, that on which cometh such water, is unclean, and all drink which is drunk in any such vessel is unclean. ³⁵ And anything on which any of their carcase falleth is unclean (oven or double pots), it is broken down, they are unclean, yea, they are unclean to you.

³⁶ Only a fountain or pit, a collection of waters, is clean, but that which cometh against their carcase is unclean. ³⁷ And when any of their carcase falleth on any sowing seed which is sown—it is clean. ³⁸ But when water is put on the seed, and any of its carcase hath fallen on it—it is unclean to you.

³⁹ And when any of the beasts which are to you for food dieth, he who cometh against its carcase is unclean till the evening; ⁴⁰ and he who eateth of its carcase doth wash his garments, and hath been unclean till the evening; and he who lifeth up its carcase doth wash his garments, and hath been unclean till the evening.

⁴⁴ For I am the LORD your God, and ye have sanctified yourselves, and ye have been holy, for I am holy; and ye do not defile your persons with any teeming thing which creepeth on the earth. ⁴⁵ For I am the LORD who bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt to become your God; and ye have been holy, for I am holy.

⁴⁶ This is the law of the beasts, and of the fowl, and of every living creature which moveth in the waters, and of every creature which teemeth on the earth. ⁴⁷ To make a separation between the unclean and the pure, and between the beast that is eaten, and the beast that is not eaten.

XII. ¹AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²Speak unto the Children of Israel, saying, When a woman conceiveth seed, and hath born a male, then hath she been unclean seven days, according to the days of separation for her sickness is she unclean. ³And on the eighth day is the flesh of his foreskin circumcised. ⁴And thirty and three days doth she abide in the blood of her cleansing; against any holy thing she doth not come, and unto the sanctuary she doth not go in, till the fulness of the days of her cleansing.

⁵And if she bear a female, then hath she been unclean two weeks, as in her separation; and sixty and six days doth she abide for the blood of her cleansing. ⁶And in the fulness of the days of her cleansing for a son or for a daughter she doth bring in a lamb of a year old for a burnt-offering, and a young pigeon or a turtle-dove for a sin-offering, unto the opening of the tent of meeting, unto the priest; ⁷and he hath brought it near before the LORD, and hath made an atonement for her, and she hath been cleansed from the fountain of her blood; this is the law of her who beareth, for a male or for a female.

⁸And if her hand find not the sufficiency of a sheep, then hath she taken two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, one for a burnt-offering, and one for a sin-offering, and the priest hath made an atonement for her, and she hath been cleansed.

XIII. ¹AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying, ²When a man hath in the skin of his flesh a rising, or a scab, or a bright spot, and it hath become in the skin of his flesh a leprous plague, then hath he been brought in unto Aaron the priest, or unto one of his sons the priests; ³when the priest hath seen the plague in the skin of the flesh that the hair in the plague hath turned white, and the appearance in the plague is deeper than the skin of his flesh—it is a plague of leprosy, and the priest hath seen him, and hath pronounced him unclean.

⁷And if the scab spread greatly in the skin, after his being seen by the priest for his cleansing, then hath he been seen a second time by the priest. ⁸When the priest hath seen, and lo, the scab hath spread in the skin, then the priest hath pronounced him unclean; it is a leprosy.

²¹And if the priest see it, and lo, there is no white hair in it, and it is not lower than the skin, and is become weak, then hath the priest shut him up seven days. ²²And if it spread greatly in the skin, then hath the priest pronounced him unclean; it is a plague. ²³And if the bright spot stay in its place—it hath not spread; it is the inflammation of an ulcer; and the priest hath pronounced him clean.

²⁶And if the priest see it, and lo, there is no white hair on the bright spot, and it is not lower than the skin, and it is become weak, then the priest hath shut him up seven days. ²⁷And the priest hath seen him on the seventh day, if it spread greatly in the skin, then the priest hath pronounced him unclean; it is the plague of leprosy.

²⁸And if the bright spot stay in its place, it hath not spread in the skin, and is become weak; it is a rising of the burning; and the priest hath pronounced him clean; for it is inflammation of the burning.

29 And when a man or woman hath in him a plague in the head or in the beard, and the priest hath seen the plague, and o, its appearance is deeper than the skin, and in it a thin shining hair, then hath the priest pronounced him unclean; it is a scall; it is a leprosy of the head or of the beard.

31 And when the priest seeth the plague of the scall, and lo, its appearance is not deeper than the skin, and there is no black hair in it, then the priest hath shut up him who hath the plague of the scall seven days.

32 And the priest hath seen the plague on the seventh day, and lo, the scall hath not perished, and a shining hair hath not been in it, and the appearance of the scall is not deeper than the skin, then hath he shaved himself, but the scall he doth not shave; and the priest hath shut up him who hath the scall seven days. 33 And the priest hath seen the scall on the seventh day, and lo, he scall hath not spread in the skin, and its appearance is not deeper than the skin, then the priest hath pronounced him clean, and he hath washed his garments, and hath been clean.

35 And if the scall spread greatly in the skin after his cleansing, and the priest hath seen him, and lo, the scall hath spread in the skin, the priest seeketh not for the shining hair; he is unclean. 37 And if in his eyes the scall hath stayed, and black hair hath sprung up in it, the scall hath been healed; he is clean; and the priest hath pronounced him clean.

38 And when a man or woman hath in the skin of their flesh bright spots, white right spots, and the priest hath seen, and lo, in the skin of their flesh are white, dark bright spots, it is a freckled spot broken out in the skin; he is clean.

40 And when a man's head is polished; he is bald; he is clean. 41 And if from the corner of his face his head is polished, he is bald of the forehead; he is clean.

42 And when there is in the bald back of the head, or in the bald forehead, a very red white plague; it is a leprosy breaking out in the bald back of the head, or in the bald forehead. 43 And the priest hath seen him, and lo, the rising of the very red white plague in the bald back of the head or in the bald forehead as the appearance of leprosy in the skin of the flesh; he is a leprosy man; he is unclean; the priest doth pronounce him utterly unclean; his plague is in his head.

45 As to the leper in whom is the plague, his garments are rent, and his head is uncovered, and he covereth over the upper lip, and he crieth, 'Unclean! unclean!' he crieth. 46 All the days that the plague is in him, he is unclean; he is unclean, alone doth he dwell; the outside of the camp is his dwelling.

47 And when there is in a garment a plague of leprosy,—in a woollen garment, or in a linen garment, or in the warp, or in the woof, or in linen or of wool, or in a skin, or in any leather work, and the plague hath been very green or very red in the garment, or in the skin, or in the warp, or in the woof, or in any leather vessel; it is a plague of leprosy, and hath been shewn to the priest.

48 And the priest hath seen the plague, and hath shut up that which hath the plague seven days. 49 When he hath seen the plague on the seventh day, and the plague hath spread in the garment, or in the warp, or in the woof, or in the skin, of all which is made of skin for work; the plague is a fretting leprosy; it is unclean.

50 And he hath burnt the garment, or the warp, or the woof, in wool or in linen, or any leather vessel in which the plague is; for it is a fretting leprosy; it is burnt with fire.

51 And if the priest see, and lo, the plague hath not spread in the garment, or in the warp, or in the woof, or in any leather vessel, then hath the priest commanded, and they have washed that in which the plague is, and he hath shut it up other seven days. 52 And the priest hath seen that which hath the plague after it hath been washed, and lo, the plague hath not changed its aspect, and the plague hath not spread,—it is unclean; with fire dost thou burn it: it is a fretting in its back-part or in its front-part.

53 And if the priest hath seen, and lo, the plague is become weak after it hath been washed, then hath he rent it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof. 54 And if it still be seen in the garment, or in the warp, or in the woof, or in any leather vessel, it is a fretting; with fire dost thou burn it—that in which the plague is.

55 And the garment, or the warp, or the woof, or any leather vessel which thou dost wash, when the plague hath turned aside from them, then it hath been washed a second time, and it hath been clean.

56 This is the law of the plague of leprosy in a garment of wool or of linen, or of the warp or woof, or any leather vessel, to pronounce it clean or to pronounce it unclean.

XIV. 1 AND THE LORD spaketh unto Moses, saying, 2 This is the law of the leper, in the day of his cleansing, that he hath been brought unto the priest, and the priest hath gone out unto the outside of the camp, and the priest hath seen, and lo, the plague of leprosy hath ceased from the leper, then hath the priest commanded, and he hath taken for him who is to be cleansed, two clean living birds, and cedar wood, and scarlet, and hyssop.

3 And the priest hath commanded, and he hath slaughtered the one bird in an earthen vessel, over running water. 4 As to the living bird, he taketh it and the cedar wood, and the scarlet, and the hyssop, and hath dipped them and the living bird in the blood of the slaughtered bird, over the running water, and he hath sprinkled it on him who is to be cleansed from the leprosy seven times, and hath pronounced him clean, and hath sent out the living bird on the face of the field.

5 And he who is to be cleansed hath washed his garments, and hath shaved all his hair, and hath bathed in water, and hath been clean, and afterwards doth he come in unto the camp, and hath dwelt at the outside of his tent seven days.

priest hath waved them—a wave-offering before the LORD; ²⁵ and he hath slaughtered the lamb of the guilt-offering, and the priest hath taken of the blood of the guilt-offering, and hath put it on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, and on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot; ²⁶ and the priest hath poured of the oil on the left palm of the priest; ²⁷ and the priest hath sprinkled with his right finger of the oil which is on his left palm, seven times before the LORD.

³³ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying, ³⁴ When ye come in unto the land of Canaan, which I am giving to you for a possession, and I have put the plague of leprosy in a house in the land of your possession; ³⁵ then he whose the house is hath come in and declared to the priest, saying, As if were a plague hath appeared to me in the house; ³⁶ and the priest hath commanded, and they have prepared the house before the priest cometh in to see the plague (that all which is in the house be not unclean), and afterwards doth the priest come in to see the house; ³⁷ and he hath seen the plague, and lo, the plague is in the walls of the house, hollow strakes, very green or very red, and their appearance is lower than the wall. ³⁸ Then the priest hath gone out of the house unto the opening of the house, and hath shut up the house seven days.

³⁹ And the priest hath turned back on the seventh day, and hath seen, and lo, the plague hath spread in the walls of the house, ⁴⁰ then the priest hath commanded, and they have drawn out the stones in which the plague is, and have cast them unto the outside of the city, unto an unclean place.

⁴¹ And the house doth he cause to be scraped within round about, and they have poured out the rubbish which they have scraped off, at the outside of the city, at an unclean place. ⁴² And they have taken other stones, and have brought them in unto the place of the stones, and other clay he taketh and hath daubed the house.

ing of the house, and after the daubing; ⁴⁴then the priest hath come in and seen, and lo, the plague hath spread in the house; it is a fretting leprosy in the house; it is unclean.

⁴⁵And he hath broken down the house, its stones, and its timber, and all the clay of the house, and he hath brought them forth unto the outside of the city, unto an unclean place. ⁴⁶And he who goeth in unto the house all the days he hath shut it up, is unclean till the evening; ⁴⁷and he who lieth in the house doth wash his garments; and he who eateth in the house doth wash his garments.

⁴⁹And he hath taken for the cleansing of the house two birds, and cedar wood, and scarlet, and hyssop; ⁵⁰and he hath slaughtered the one bird in an earthen vessel, over running water; ⁵¹and he hath taken the cedar wood, and the hyssop, and the scarlet, and the living bird, and hath dipped them in the blood of the slaughtered bird, and in the running water, and hath sprinkled over the house seven times.

⁵²And he hath cleansed the house with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar wood, and with the hyssop, and with the scarlet. ⁵³And he hath sent away the living bird unto the outside of the city unto the face of the field, and hath made an atonement for the house, and it hath been clean.

⁵⁴This is the law for every plague of leprosy and for scall, ⁵⁵and for the leprosy of a garment, or of a house, ⁵⁶and for a rising, and for a scab, and for a bright spot, —⁵⁷to direct in the day of its being unclean, and in the day of its being clean; this is the law of the leprosy.

XV. ¹AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying, ²Speak unto the Children of Israel, then have ye said unto them, When there is an issue out of the flesh of any man, for his issue he is unclean. ³And this is his uncleanness in his issue,—his flesh hath run with his issue, or his flesh hath stopped from his issue; it is his uncleanness.

⁶And he who sitteth on the vessel on which he sitteth who hath the issue, doth wash his garments, and hath bathed in water, and been unclean till the evening.

⁷And he who cometh against the flesh of him who hath the issue, doth wash his garments, and hath bathed in water, and hath been unclean till the evening.

⁸And when he who hath the issue spitteth on him who is clean, then hath he washed his garments, and hath bathed in water, and been unclean till the evening.

⁹And the whole of the saddle on which he rideth who hath the issue is unclean.

¹⁰And any who cometh against anything which is under him is unclean till the evening, and he who beareth them doth wash his garments, and hath bathed in water, and hath been unclean till the evening.

¹¹And any against whom he cometh who hath the issue (and hath not rinsed his hands in water) hath even washed his garments, and bathed in water, and been unclean till the evening.

¹²And the earthen vessel which he who hath the issue cometh against is broken; and every wooden vessel is rinsed with water.

¹³And when he who hath the issue is clean from his issue, then hath he numbered to himself seven days for his cleansing, and hath washed his garments, and hath bathed his flesh in running water, and been clean.

¹⁴And on the eighth day he taketh to himself two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, and hath come in before the LORD unto the opening of the tent of meeting, and hath given them unto the priest. ¹⁵And the priest hath made them, one a sin-offering, and the other a burnt-offering; and the priest hath made an atonement for him before the LORD, because of his issue.

¹⁶And when a man's seed of copulation goeth out from him, then hath he bathed in water all his flesh, and hath been unclean till the evening.

¹⁷And any garment, or any skin on which there is the seed of copulation, hath also been washed with water, and hath been unclean till the evening.

¹⁸And the woman with whom a man hath with the seed of copulation, they also have bathed in water, and been unclean till the evening.

¹⁹And when a woman hath an issue—blood is her issue from her flesh—seven days is she in her separation, and any who cometh against her is unclean till evening.

²²And any who cometh against any vessel on which she sitteth doth wash his garments, and hath bathed in water, and hath been unclean till the evening.

²³And if it is on the bed, or on the vessel on which she sitteth, in his coming against it, he is unclean till the evening.

²⁴And if a man really lie with her, and her separation is on him, then hath he been unclean seven days, and the whole of the bed on which he lieth is unclean.

²⁵And when a woman's issue of blood floweth many days beyond the time of her separation, or when it floweth over her separation—all the days of the issue of her uncleanness as are the days of her separation; she is unclean.

³⁰ And the priest hath made the one a sin-offering, and the other a burnt-offering, and the priest hath made an atonement for her before the LORD, because of the issue of her uncleanness.

XVI. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, after the death of the two sons of Aaron, in their drawing near before the LORD, when they die; ² yea, the LORD saith unto Moses, "Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he come not in at all times unto the sanctuary within the veil, unto the front of the mercy-seat, which is upon the ark, that he die not, for in the cloud I am seen upon the mercy-seat.

atonement by it, to send it away for a goat of departure into the wilderness.

¹⁵ And he hath slaughtered the goat of the sin-offering which is the people's, and hath brought in its blood within the veil, and hath done with its blood as he hath done with the blood of the bullock, and hath sprinkled it on the mercy-seat, and in the front of the mercy-seat, ¹⁶ and he hath made an atonement for the sanctuary because of the uncleanness of the Children of Israel, and because of their transgressions in all their sins; and so he doth for the tent of meeting which doth tabernacle with them in the midst of their uncleanness.

²³ When he hath sent the goat away into the wilderness, ²⁴ then Aaron hath come in unto the tent of meeting, and hath stripped off the linen garments, which he had put on in his going in unto the sanctuary, and hath placed them there. ²⁵ And he hath bathed his flesh in water in the holy place, and hath put on his garments, and hath come out, and hath made his burnt-offering, and the burnt-offering of the people, and hath made an atonement for himself and for the people; ²⁶and the fat of the sin-offering doth he make a perfume on the altar.

²⁶And he who sendeth away the goat for the goat of departure doth wash his garments, and hath bathed his flesh in water, and afterwards he cometh in unto the camp.

²⁹And it hath been to you for an everlasting statute, in the seventh month, in the tenth of the month, ye humble yourselves, and do no work—the native, or the sojourner who sojourneth in your midst. ³⁰For on this day he maketh an atonement for you, to cleanse you; from all your sins before the LORD ye are clean. ³¹It is to you a sabbath of rest, and ye have humbled yourselves—an everlasting statute.

³²And the priest whom he doth anoint, and whose hand he doth consecrate to minister instead of his father, hath made an atonement, and hath put on the linen garments, the holy garments; ³³and he hath made an atonement for the holy sanctuary; and for the tent of meeting, even for the altar he doth make an atonement; yea, for the priests, and for all the people of the congregation he maketh an atonement.

³⁴And this hath been to you for an everlasting statute, to make an atonement for the Children of Israel, because of all their sins, once in the year; and he doth as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

XVII. ¹AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, saying, Any man of the house of Israel who slaughtereth an ox, or lamb, or goat, in the camp, or who slaughtereth it at the outside of the camp, and unto the opening of the tent of meeting hath not brought it in to bring near an offering to the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD, blood is reckoned to that man; blood he hath shed; and that man hath been cut off from the midst of his people, so that the Children of Israel do bring in their sacrifices which they sacrifice on the face of the field, yea, they have brought them in to the LORD, unto the opening of the tent of meeting, unto the priest, and they have sacrificed sacrifices of peace-offerings to the LORD with them.

³And the priest hath sprinkled the blood upon the altar of the LORD, at the opening of the tent of meeting, and hath made a perfume with the fat for a sweet fragrance to the LORD; and they sacrifice no more their sacrifices to goats after whom they go a-whoring; this is to them an everlasting statute, for their generations.

⁴And unto them thou sayest: Any man of the house of Israel, or of the sojourner who sojourneth in your midst, who cansteth a burnt-offering or sacrifice to ascend, and unto the opening of the tent of meeting doth not bring it in to make it to the LORD—that man hath been cut off from his people.

⁵And any man of the house of Israel, or of the sojourner who sojourneth in your midst, who eateth any blood, I have even set My face against the person who eateth blood, and have cut him off from the midst of his people. ⁶For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you on the altar, to make an atonement for your souls; for it is the blood which maketh an atonement for the soul.

¹⁰And any person who eateth a carcase or a torn thing, among the natives or among the sojourners—hath both washed his garments, and hath bathed in water, and hath been unclean until the evening—then hath he been clean; ¹¹and if he wash not, and his flesh bathed not—then hath he borne his iniquity.

XVIII. ¹AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²Speak unto the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, I am the LORD your God. According to the work of the land of Egypt in which ye have dwelt ye shall not do, and according to the work of the land of Canaan whither I am bringing you in, ye shall not do, and in their statutes ye shall not walk. My judgments ye shall do, and My statutes ye shall keep, to walk in them; I am the LORD your God. Then have ye kept My statutes and My judgments which man doeth and liveth in them; I am the LORD.

³None of you shall draw near unto any relation of his flesh, to uncover nakedness: I am the LORD.

⁴The nakedness of thy father or the nakedness of thy mother thou shalt not uncover, she is thy mother; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

⁵The nakedness of the wife of thy father thou shalt not uncover; it is the nakedness of thy father.

⁶The nakedness of thy sister, the daughter of thy father, or the daughter of thy mother, born at home or born without; thou shalt not uncover their nakedness.

¹⁰ 'The nakedness of thy son's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter: thou shalt not uncover their nakedness; for theirs is thy nakedness.

¹² 'The nakedness of the sister of thy father thou shalt not uncover; she is a relation of thy father.

¹³ 'The nakedness of thy mother's sister thou shalt not uncover; for she is thy mother's relation.

¹⁴ 'The nakedness of thy father's brother thou shalt not uncover; unto his wife thou shalt not draw near; she is thine aunt.

¹⁵ 'The nakedness of thy daughter-in-law thou shalt not uncover; she is thy son's wife; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

¹⁶ 'The nakedness of thy brother's wife thou shalt not uncover; it is thy brother's nakedness.

¹⁷ 'The nakedness of a woman and her daughter thou shalt not uncover; her son's daughter, or her daughter's daughter thou shalt not take to uncover her nakedness; they are her relations; it is wickedness.

¹⁹ 'And unto a woman in the separation of her uncleanness thou shalt not draw near to uncover her nakedness.

²⁰ 'And unto the wife of thy fellow thou shalt not give thy seed of copulation, for uncleanness with her.

²² 'And with a male thou shalt not lie as one lieth with a woman; it is abomination.

²⁴ 'Ye shall not be defiled with any of these, for with all these have the nations been defiled which I send away from before you: ²⁵ yea, the land is defiled, and I charge its iniquity upon it, and the land vomiteth out its inhabitants; ²⁶ when ye have kept My statutes and My judgments, and do not any of all these abominations, the native and the sojourner who sojourneth in your midst, ²⁷ (for all these abominations have the men of the land done who are before you, and the land is defiled), ²⁸ then the land doth not vomit you out for your defiling it, as it hath vomited out the nation which is before you; ²⁹ for any who doth any of all these abominations—even the persons who do so, have been cut off from the midst of their people. ³⁰ And ye have kept My charge, so as not to do any of the abominable statutes which have been done before you, and ye do not defile yourselves with them: I am the LORD your God.'

XIX. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² 'Speak unto all the company of the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, Ye shall be holy; for I, the LORD your God, am holy.

¹³ 'Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbour, nor take plunder; the wage of the hireling shall not remain with thee till the morning.

¹⁶ 'Thou shalt not go slandering among thy people: thou shalt not stand by the blood of thy neighbour; I am the LORD.

¹⁷ 'Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart; thou shalt certainly reprove thy fellow, and not suffer sin on him.

²¹ 'And he hath brought in his guilt-offering to the LORD, unto the opening of the tent of meeting, a ram for a guilt-offering: ²²and the priest hath made an atonement for him with the ram of the guilt-offering before the LORD, for his sin which he hath sinned, and it hath been forgiven him because of his sin which he hath sinned.

²³And when ye come in unto the land, and have planted all kinds of trees for food, then have ye reckoned as uncircumcised its fruit: three years it is to you uncircumcised: it is not eaten. ²⁴And in the fourth year all its fruit is holy—praises for the LORD: ²⁵and in the fifth year ye do eat its fruit—to add to you its increase: I am the LORD your God.

²⁶Ye shall not eat with the blood; ye shall not enchant, nor observe the clouds.

²⁷Ye shall make not round the corner of your head, nor destroy the corner of thy beard.

²⁸And a cutting for the soul ye shall not put in your flesh; and a writing, a cross-mark, ye shall not put on you; I am the LORD.

²⁹Thou shalt not pollute thy daughter to cause her to go a-whoring, that the land go not a-whoring, and the land hath been full of wickedness.

³⁰My sabbaths shall ye keep, and My sanctuary shall ye reverence: I am the LORD.

³¹Ye shall not turn unto those who have familiar spirits: and unto wizards shall ye not seek; for uncleanness by them; I am the LORD your God.

³²At the presence of grey hairs shalt thou rise up, and thou hast honoured the presence of the old man, and hast been afraid of thy God; I am the LORD.

³³And when a sojourner sojourneth with thee in your land, thou shalt not oppress him. ³⁴As the native among you is the sojourner to you who sojourneth with you, and thou hast had love to him as thyself, for ye have been sojourners in the land of Egypt; I am the LORD your God.

³⁵Ye shall not do perversity in judgment, in mete-yard, in weight, or in liquid measure; ³⁶righteous balances, righteous weights; a righteous ephah, and a righteous hin shall ye have; I am the LORD your God, who hath brought you out of the land of Egypt; ³⁷then have ye observed all my statutes, and all my judgments, and have done them; I am the LORD.

XX. ¹AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²And unto the Children of Israel thou dost say, Any man of the Children of Israel, or of the sojourner who sojourneth in Israel, who giveth of his seed to the Moloch, is certainly put to death; the people of the land do stone him with stones; ³yea, I set My face against that man, and have cut him off from the midst of his people, for of his seed hath he given to the Moloch, so as to defile My sanctuary, and to pollute My holy name.

⁴And if the people of the land really hide their eyes from that man, in his giving of his seed to the Moloch, so as not to put him to death, ⁵then have I set My face against that man, and against his family, and have cut him off, and all who go a-whoring after him, even going a-whoring after the Moloch, from the midst of their people.

⁶And the person who turneth unto those who have familiar spirits, or unto the wizards, to go a-whoring after them, I have even set My face against that person, and have cut him off from the midst of his people.

⁷And ye have sanctified yourselves, and ye have been holy, for I am the LORD your God. ⁸And ye have kept My statutes and have done them, I am the LORD who sanctifieth you.

⁹For any man who revileth his father or his mother is certainly put to death; his father or his mother he hath reviled; his blood is on him.

¹⁰And the man who committeth adultery with a man's wife—who committeth adultery with the wife of his neighbour—the adulterer and the adulteress are surely put to death.

¹¹And the man who lieth with his father's wife—the nakedness of his father he hath uncovered—both of them are certainly put to death; their blood is on them.

¹²And the man who lieth with his daughter-in-law—both of them are certainly put to death; they have wrought confusion; their blood is on them.

¹³And the man who lieth with a male as one lieth with a woman; both of them have wrought abomination; they are certainly put to death; their blood is on them.

¹⁴And the man who taketh a woman and her mother—it is wickedness; with fire they burn him and them; and there is no wickedness in your midst.

¹⁵And the man who giveth his lying with a beast is certainly put to death; and the beast ye do slay.

¹⁶And the woman who draweth near unto any beast to lie with it,—thou hast oven slain the woman and the beast; they are certainly put to death; their blood is on them.

¹⁷And the man who taketh his sister, the daughter of his father or the daughter of his mother, and hath seen her nakedness, and shoseeth his nakedness: it is a shame; and they have been cut off before the eyes of the children of their people: the nakedness of his sister he hath uncovered; he beareth his iniquity.

¹⁸And the man who lieth with a sick woman, and hath uncovered her nakedness, her fountain he hath made bare, and she hath uncovered the fountain of her blood,—even both of them have been cut off from the midst of their people.

¹⁹And the nakedness of thy mother's sister, or of thy father's sister, thou shalt not uncover; because his relation he hath made bare they bear their iniquity.

²⁰And the man who lieth with his aunt, the nakedness of his uncle he hath uncovered; they bear their sin; they die childless.

²¹ And the man who taketh his brother's wife—it is impurity; the nakedness of his brother hath he uncovered; they are childless.

²² When ye have kept all My statutes and all My judgments, and have done them, then the land vomiteth you not out whither I am bringing you in to dwell in it; ²³ and ye walk not in the statutes of the nation which I send away from before you, for all these have they done, and I am wearied with them. ²⁴ And I say to you, Ye do possess their ground, and I do give it to you to possess it, a land flowing with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, who hath separated you from the peoples.

XXI. ¹ AND the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Speak unto the priests, the sons of Aaron; then hast thou said unto them, For any person a priest is not defiled among his people, ² save for his relation who is near unto him—for his mother, and for his father, and for his son, and for his daughter, and for his brother, ³ and for his sister, the virgin, who is near unto him, who hath not been a man's: for her he is defiled.

his mother he doth not defile himself; ¹² nor doth he go out from the sanctuary; nor doth he pollute the sanctuary of his God; for the separation of the anointing oil of his God is on him: I am the LORD.

²⁴ And Moses speaketh unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the Children of Israel.

XXII. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² 'Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and let them be separated from the holy things of the Children of Israel, and let them not pollute My holy name in what they hallow to Me; I am the LORD.

⁹ Then have they kept My charge, and bear no sin for it, that they have died for it when they pollute it: I am the LORD who sanctifieth them.

¹⁷ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹⁸ Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, Any man of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners in Israel, who bringeth near his offering of all his vows, or of all his willing-offerings which they bring near to the LORD for a burnt-offering; ¹⁹ at your own pleasure a perfect one, a male of the herd, of the sheep or of the goats. ²⁰ Nothing in which is a blemish do ye bring near, for it is not a pleasing thing for you.

²³ As to an ox or a sheep stretched out or contracted—a willing-offering ye may make it, but for a vow it is not pleasing. ²⁴ As to a bruised, or beaten, or drawn out, or cut thing—ye shall not bring it near to the LORD; even in your land ye shall not do it. ²⁵ And from the hand of the son of a stranger ye shall not bring near the bread of your God, of any of these, for their corruption is in them; a blemish is in them; they are not pleasing for you.

²⁹ And when ye sacrifice a sacrifice of thanksgiving to the LORD, at your own pleasure ye do sacrifice it; ³⁰ on that day it is eaten, ye leave none of it till morning; I am the LORD; ³¹ and ye have kept My commands, and have done them; I am the LORD. ³² When ye do not pollute My holy name, then have I been hallowed in the midst of the Children of Israel; I am the LORD who sanctifieth you, ³³ who bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt, to become your God; I am the LORD.

XXIII. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Speak unto the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, The appointed seasons of the LORD, which ye proclaim holy convocations, are these: they are My appointed seasons: ³ six days is work done and in the seventh day is a sabbath of rest, a holy convocation; ye do no work; it is the sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

¹⁴ And bread or roasted corn or full ears ye do not eat until this self-same day, until your bringing in the offering of your God—an everlasting statute for your generations, in all your dwellings.

¹⁸ And ye have brought near, besides the bread, seven lambs, perfect ones, of a year old, and one young bullock of the herd, and two rams: they are a burnt-offering to the LORD, with their present, and their libations, a fire-offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD.

²⁶ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²⁷ Only on the tenth of this seventh month is the day of atonement: ye have a holy convocation, then have ye humbled yourselves, and have brought near a fire-offering to the LORD; ²⁸ and ye do no work in this self-same day, for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God.

³⁷ These are the appointed seasons of the LORD, which ye proclaim holy convocations, to bring near a fire-offering to the LORD, a burnt-offering, and a present, a sacrifice, and libations, the thing of a day in its day, ³⁸ besides the sabbaths of the LORD, and besides your gifts, and besides all your vows, and besides all your willing-offerings, which ye give to the LORD.

XXIV. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Command the Children of Israel, and let them bring unto thee pure olive oil, beaten, for the light, to cause the lamp to go up continually. ³ At the outside of the veil of the testimony in the tent of meeting doth Aaron arrange it from evening till morning before the LORD continually—an everlasting statute for your generations. ⁴ By the pure candlestick doth he arrange the lamps before the LORD continually.

⁹ And the son of an Israelitish woman goeth out (he is also the son of an Egyptian man), into the midst of the Children of Israel, and the son of the Israelitish woman and a man of Israel strive in the camp: ¹⁰ and the son of the Israelitish woman execrateth the Name, and revileth; and they bring him in unto Moses; and his mother's name is Shelomith daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan; ¹¹ and he causeth him to rest in charge—to explain to them by the mouth of the LORD.

he who execrateth the Name of the LORD is certainly put to death; all the company do certainly cast stones at him; as the sojourner so the native, in his execrating the Name, is put to death.

¹⁷ And when a man smiteth any soul of man, he is certainly put to death.

²¹ And he who smiteth a beast repayeth it, and he who smiteth the soul of man is put to death. ²² One ordinance is to you; as the sojourner so is the native; for I am the LORD your God.

XXV. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, in mount Sinai, saying, ² Speak unto the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, When ye come in unto the land which I give to you, then hath the land kept a sabbath to the LORD.

⁶ And the sabbath of the land hath become your food, to thee, and to thy manservant, and to thy handmaid, and to thy hireling, and to thy settler who sojourn with thee. ⁷ And to thy cattle, and to the beast which is in thy land, all thine increase is for food.

⁸ And thou hast numbered to thee seven sabbaths of years, seven times seven years, and the days of the seven sabbaths of years have been to thee forty and nine years, ⁹ and thou hast caused the trumpet of shouting to pass over in the seventh month, in the tenth of the month; in the day of the atonements do ye cause the trumpet to pass over through all your land; ¹⁰ and ye have hallowed the year, the fiftieth year; and ye have proclaimed liberty in the land to all its inhabitants; it is a jubilee to you; and ye have returned each unto his possession; yea, each unto his family do ye return.

¹⁶ According to the multitude of the years thou dost multiply its price, and according to the fewness of the years thou dost diminish its price; for the number of the increases he doth sell to thee. ¹⁷ And ye do not oppress one another, and thou hast been afraid of thy God; for I am the LORD your God.

¹⁸ When ye have done My statutes, and My judgments do keep, and have done them, then ye have dwelt on the land confidently. ¹⁹ And the land hath given its fruit, and ye have eaten to satiety, and have dwelt confidently on it.

²⁰ And when ye say, What do we eat in the seventh year, lo, we do not sow, nor gather our increase, ²¹ then have I commanded My blessing on you in the sixth year, and it hath yielded the increase for three years. ²² And ye have sown the eighth year, and have eaten of the old increase; until the ninth year, until the coming in of its increase ye do eat the old.

for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession in the midst of the Children of Israel. ²⁴ And the field, the suburb of their cities, is not sold; for an everlasting possession it is to them.

²⁹ And when thy brother becometh poor with thee, and he hath been sold to thee, thou dost not lay on him servile labour; ³⁰ as an hireling, as a settler, is he with thee, till the year of jubilee doth he serve with thee;—³¹ then hath he gone out from thee, he and his children with him, and hath returned unto his family; even unto the possession of his fathers doth he return.

⁴¹ If yet many years, according to them he giveth back his redemption money, from the money of his purchase,

⁴² And if few are left of the years till the year of jubilee, then hath he reckoned with him, according to his years doth he give back his redemption money. ⁴³ As an hireling, year by year, is he with him, and he doth not rule him with rigour before thine eyes.

⁴⁴ And if he is not redeemed in these years, then hath he gone out in the year of jubilee, he and his children with him. ⁴⁵ For to Me are the Children of Israel servants; they are My servants, whom I have brought out of the land of Egypt; I am the LORD your God.

XXVI. ¹ YE shall not make to yourselves idols; and a graven image or a standing image ye shall not set up for yourselves; and a stone of imagery ye shall not put in your land, to bow yourselves to it; for I am the LORD your God.

³ If in My statutes ye walk, and My commands ye keep, and have done them, ⁴ then have I given your rains in their season, and the land hath given her produce, and the tree of the field doth give its fruit. ⁵ And for you the threshing hath reached the gathering, and the gathering doth reach the sowing-time; and ye have eaten your bread to satiety, and have dwelt confidently in your land.

⁶ And I have given peace in the land, and ye have lain down, and there is none causing trembling; and I have caused evil beasts to cease out of the land, and the sword doth not go over into your land.

⁷ And ye have pursued your enemies, and they have fallen before you by the sword; ⁸ and five of you have pursued a hundred, and a hundred of you do pursue a myriad; and your enemies have fallen before you by the sword.

⁹ And I have turned unto you, and have made you fruitful, and have multiplied you, and have established My covenant with you; ¹⁰ and ye have eaten old store, and the old because of the new ye bring out.

¹⁸ And if during these ye hearken not to Me,—then have I added to chastise you seven times for your sins. ¹⁹ And I have broken the pride of your strength, and have made your heavens as iron, and your earth as brass: ²⁰ and your power hath been consumed in vain, and your land doth not give her produce, and the tree of the land doth not give its fruit.

²³ And if by these ye are not instructed by Me, and have walked in opposition to Me, ²⁴ then have I also walked in opposition to you, and have smitten you, even I, seven times for your sins; ²⁵ and I have brought in on you a sword, executing the vengeance of the covenant; and ye have been gathered together unto your cities, and I have sent the pestilence into your midst, and ye have been given into the hand of the enemy.

²⁶ In My breaking for you the staff of bread, when ten women have baked your bread in one oven, then have they given back your bread by weight; and ye have eaten, and are not satisfied.

²⁹ And ye have eaten the flesh of your sons; even the flesh of your daughters ye do eat. ³⁰ And I have destroyed your high places, and cut down your images, and have put your carcasses on the carcasses of your idols, and my soul hath loathed you; ³¹ and I have made your cities a waste, and have made your sanctuaries a desolation, and I smell not at your sweet fragrances. ³² And I have made the land a desolation, and your enemies, who dwell in it, have been astonished at it. ³³ And I scatter you among the nations, and have drawn out a sword after you, and your land hath been a desolation; and your cities are a waste.

³⁷ And they have stumbled one on another, as from the face of a sword, while there is no pursuer; and ye have no standing before your enemies; ³⁸ and ye have perished among the nations; and the land of your enemies hath consumed you.

⁴⁰ But—they have confessed their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they have trespassed against Me, and also, that they have walked in opposition to Me—⁴¹ also I walk in opposition to them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies—or then their uncircumcised heart is humbled, and then they accept the punishment of their iniquity,—⁴² then have I remembered My covenant with Jacob, and also My covenant with Isaac, and also My covenant with Abraham do I remember, and I remember the land.

XXVII. 1 AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Speak unto the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, When a man maketh a wonderful vow, the persons are the LORD'S by thy valuation.

⁸ And if he is poorer than thy valuation, then hath he presented himself before the priest, and the priest hath valued him: according to that which the hand of him who voweth doth reach, doth the priest value him.

⁹ And if it is a beast of which they bring near an offering to the LORD, all that one giveth of it to the LORD is holy. ¹⁰ He doth not change it nor exchange it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good; and if he really change beast for beast—then it hath been: it and its exchange is holy.

¹¹ And if it be any unclean beast of which they do not bring near an offering to the LORD, then hath he presented the beast before the priest; ¹² and the priest hath valued it; whether good or bad, according to thy valuation, O priest, so is it. ¹³ And if he really redeem it, then hath he added its fifth to thy valuation.

¹⁴ And when a man sanctifieth his house, a holy thing to the LORD, then hath the priest valued it, whether good or bad; as the priest doth value it so it standeth. ¹⁵ And if the sanctifier doth redeem his house, then hath he added the fifth of the money of thy valuation to it, and it hath become his.

¹⁹ And if he really redeem the field—he who sanctifieth it—then hath he added the fifth of the money of thy valuation to it, and it hath been established to him. ²⁰ And if he do not redeem the field, or if he hath sold the field to another man, it is not redeemed any more. ²¹ And the field hath been, in its going out in the jubilee, holy to the LORD as a field devoted; its possession is the priests.

²² And if the field of his purchase (which is not of the fields of his possession) one sanctify to the LORD—²³ then hath the priest reckoned to him the amount of thy valuation unto the year of the jubilee, and he hath given thy valuation in that day—a holy thing to the LORD. ²⁴ In the year of the jubilee the field returneth to him who hath bought it from him, to him whose is the possession of the land. ²⁵ And all thy valuations are by the shekel of the sanctuary: the shekel is ten gerahs.

²⁶ Only, the firstling which is the LORD's firstling among beasts—no man doth sanctify it, whether ox or sheep; it is the LORD'S. ²⁷ And if among the unclean beasts, then hath he ransomed it at thy valuation, and hath added its fifth to it; and if it is not redeemed, then hath it been sold at thy valuation.

³¹ And if a man really redeem any of his tithe, he addeth its fifth to it.

CHAP. I. ¹AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the tent of meeting, on the first of the second month, in the second year of their going out of the land of Egypt, saying :

²Take ye up the sum of all the company of the Children of Israel by their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of the names—every male by their polls. ³From twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host in Israel, do ye number them by their hosts, thou and Aaron : ⁴and with you there is a man for a tribe, each is a head for the house of his fathers.

⁵And these are the names of the men who stand with you :

⁶For Reuben—Elizur son of Shedeur.

⁶For Simeon—Shelumiel son of Zuri-shaddai.

⁷For Judah—Nahshon son of Amminadab.

⁸For Issachar—Nethaneel son of Zuar.

⁹For Zebulun—Eliab son of Helon.

¹⁰For the children of Joseph—for Ephraim : Elishama son of Ammihud : for Manasseh—Gammaliel son of Pedahzur.

¹¹For Benjamin—Abidan son of Gideoni.

¹²For Dan—Ahezzer son of Ammishaddai.

¹³For Asher—Pagiel son of Ocran.

¹⁴For Gad—Eliasaph son of Deuel.

¹⁵For Naphtali—Ahira son of Enan.

¹⁶These are those who are called of the company, princes of the tribes of their fathers : they are heads of the thousands of Israel. ¹⁷And Moses taketh—Aaron also—these men, who have been defined by name : and all the company have they congregated on the first of the second month : ¹⁸and they declare their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names from twenty years old and upward, by their polls, ¹⁹as the LORD hath commanded Moses : and he numbereth them in the wilderness of Sinai.

²²Of the Children of Simeon—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, its numbered ones in the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—²³their numbered ones, for the tribe of Simeon, are fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

²⁶Of the Children of Judah—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—²⁷their numbered ones, for the tribe of Judah, are seventy and four thousand and six hundred.

²⁸Of the Children of Issachar—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—²⁹their numbered ones, for the tribe of Issachar, are fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

³⁰Of the Children of Zebulun—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—³¹their numbered ones, for the tribe of Zebulun, are fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.

³²Of the Children of Joseph, even of the Children of Ephraim—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—³³their numbered ones, for the tribe of Ephraim, are forty thousand and five hundred.

³⁴Of the Children of Manasseh—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—³⁵their numbered ones, for the tribe of Manasseh, are thirty and two thousand and two hundred.

³⁶Of the Children of Benjamin—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—³⁷their numbered ones, for the tribe of Benjamin, are thirty and five thousand and four hundred.

³⁸Of the Children of Dan—their births, by their families, by the house of their fathers, in the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, every one going out to the host—³⁰ their numbered ones, for the tribe of Dan, are sixty and two thousand and seven hundred.

⁵² And the Children of Israel have encamped, each by his own camp, and each by his own standard, by their hosts: ⁵³ and the Levites encamp round about the tabernacle of the testimony; and there is no wrath on the company of the Children of Israel when the Levites have kept the charge of the tabernacle of the testimony.

II. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying, ² Each by his standard, with the ensigns of the house of their fathers, do the Children of Israel encamp; over-against round about the tent of meeting do they encamp.

³ And those who encamp eastward, towards the sun-rising, are of the standard of the camp of Judah, by their hosts; and the prince of the Children of Judah is Nahshon, son of Amminadab; ⁴ and his host, and their numbered ones, are seventy and four thousand and six hundred.

²⁸and his host, and their numbered ones, are forty and one thousand and five hundred.

³³And the Levites have not numbered themselves in the midst of the Children of Israel, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

³⁴And the Children of Israel do according to all that the LORD hath commanded Moses; so have they pitched by their standards, and so have they journeyed; each by his families, by the house of his fathers.

III. ¹AND these are the genealogies of Aaron and Moses, in the day of the LORD's speaking with Moses in mount Sinai. ²And these are the names of the sons of Aaron: the first-born Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. ³These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the anointed priests, whose hand he hath consecrated for ministering. ⁴And Nadab dieth—Abihu also—before the LORD, in their bringing near strange fire before the LORD, in the wilderness of Sinai, and they had no children; and Eleazar—Ithamar also—ministereth in the presence of Aaron their father.

⁵And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ⁶'Bring near the tribe of Levi, and cause it to stand before Aaron the priest, then have they served him, ⁷and kept his charge, and the charge of all the company before the tent of meeting, to do the service of the tabernacle: ⁸and they have kept all the vessels of the tent of meeting, and the charge of the Children of Israel, to do the service of the tabernacle. ⁹And thou hast given the Levites to Aaron and to his sons: they are surely given to him out of the Children of Israel.

¹¹And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹²'And I, lo, I have taken the Levites from the midst of the Children of Israel instead of every first-born opening the womb among the Children of Israel, and the Levites have been Mine. ¹³For every first-born is Mine, in the day of My smiting every first-born in the land of Egypt I sanctified to Myself every first-born in Israel, from man unto beast; they are Mine; I am the LORD.'

¹⁴And the LORD speaketh unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying, ¹⁵'Number the Children of Levi by the house of their fathers, by their families; every male from a month old and upward thou dost number.'

¹⁶And Moses numbereth them according to the command of the LORD, as he hath been commanded. ¹⁷And these are the sons of Levi by their names; Gershon, and Kohath, and Merari.

³¹And their charge is the ark, and the table, and the candlestick, and the altars, and the vessels of the sanctuary with which they serve, and the veil, and all its service. ³²And to the prince of the princes of the Levites, Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, is the oversight of the keepers of the charge of the sanctuary.

³³Of Merari is the family of the Mahlites, and the family of the Mushites; these are the families of Merari. ³⁴And their numbered ones, in the number of all the males from a month old and upward, are six thousand and two hundred. ³⁵And the prince of the father's house of the families of Merari is Zuriel son of Abihail; by the side of the tabernacle they encamp northward.

³⁶And the oversight—the charge of the sons of Merari—is the boards of the tabernacle, and its bars, and its pillars, and its sockets, and all its vessels, and all its service, ³⁷and the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords.

²⁹ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ³⁰ 'Take the Levites instead of all the first-born from among the Children of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle; then have the Levites been Mine: I am the LORD.'

IV. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying, ² 'Take up the sum of the Children of Kohath from the midst of the Children of Levi, by their families, by the house of their fathers; ³ from thirty years old and upward, even till fifty years old, every one going in to the host, to do the work in the tent of meeting.'

ing of badger's skin, and have spread a garment completely of blue above, and have placed its staves:

⁷ 'On the table of the presence also they spread a garment of blue, and have put on it the dishes, and the spoons, and the bowls, and the cups for the libation (the bread of continuity also is on it), ⁸ and they have spread over them a garment of scarlet, and have covered it with a covering of a badger's skin, and have placed its staves; ⁹ and have taken a garment of blue, and have covered the candlestick of the light, and its lamps, and its snuffers, and its snuff-dishes, and all its oil vessels wherewith they minister to it; ¹⁰ and they have put it and all its vessels into a covering of a badger's skin, and have put it on the bar.'

¹⁵ 'When Aaron hath finished—his sons also—covering the sanctuary, and all the vessels of the sanctuary, in the journeying of the camp, then afterwards do the sons of Kohath come in to bear it, and they do not come against any holy thing, that they have died: these things are the burden of the sons of Kohath in the tent of meeting.'

¹⁶ 'And the oversight of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, is the oil for the light, and the spicy perfume, and the present of continuity, and the anointing oil, the oversight of all the tabernacle, and of all that is in it, in the sanctuary, and in its vessels.'

covering, and the covering of the badger's skin which is on it above, and the veil for the opening of the tent of meeting,²⁸ and the hangings of the court, and the veil of the opening of the gate of the court which is by the tabernacle, and by the altar round about, and their cords, and all the vessels of their service, and all that is made for them—then have they served.

²⁹As to the sons of Merari, by their families, by the house of their fathers, dost thou number them; ³⁰from thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old dost thou number them, every one who goeth in to the host, to do the service of the tent of meeting.

³¹And this is the charge of their burden, of all their service in the tent of meeting; the boards of the tabernacle, and its bars, and its pillars, and its sockets, ³²and the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords, of all their vessels, and of all their service; and by name do ye number the vessels of the charge of their burden.

³⁴And Moses numbereth—Aaron also, and the princes of the company—the sons of the Kohathites, by their families, and by the house of their fathers, ³⁵from thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old, every one who goeth in to the host, to serve in the tent of meeting; ³⁶and their numbered ones, by their families, are two thousand seven hundred and fifty. ³⁷These are the numbered ones of the families of the Kohathites, every one who serveth in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, by the command of the LORD, by the hand of Moses.

⁴²And the numbered ones of the families of the sons of Merari, by their families, by the house of their fathers, ⁴³from thirty years old and upwards even unto fifty years old, every one who goeth in to the host, for service in the tent of meeting, ⁴⁴even their numbered ones, by their families, are three thousand and two hundred. ⁴⁵These are the numbered ones of the families of the sons of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, by the command of the LORD, by the hand of Moses.

⁴⁶All the numbered ones, whom Moses numbered—Aaron also, and the princes of Israel—of the Levites, by their families, and by the house of their fathers, ⁴⁷from thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old, every one who goeth in to do the work of the service, even the service of burden in the tent of meeting, ⁴⁸even their numbered ones are eight thousand and five hundred and eighty; ⁴⁹by the command of the LORD hath one numbered them, by the hand of Moses, each man by his service, and by his burden; with his numbered ones, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

V. ¹AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²Command the Children of Israel that they send out of the camp every leper, and every one with an issue, and every one defiled by a body; ³both male and female do ye send out; unto the outside of the camp do ye send them; and they defile not their camps in the midst of which I tabernacle.

⁴And the Children of Israel do so, and they send them out unto the outside of the camp; as the LORD hath spoken unto Moses so have the Children of Israel done.

⁵And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ⁶Speak unto the Children of Israel, When a man or woman doth any of the sins of men, by committing a trespass against the LORD, and that person is guilty, ⁷and they have confessed their sin which they have done, then hath he restored his guilt in its principal, and addeth its fifth to it, and hath given it to him in reference to whom he hath been guilty.

⁸And if the man have no redeemer to restore the guilt to him, the guilt which is restored is the LORD's, the priest's, besides the ram of atonement whereby he maketh atonement for him.

¹⁵Then the man hath brought in his wife unto the priest, and he hath brought in her offering for her, the tenth of an ephah of barley meal, he poureth no oil on it, nor doth he put frankincense on it, for it is a present of jealousy, a present of memorial, causing iniquity to be remembered.

¹³ Then the priest hath caused her to swear, and hath said unto the woman, If no man hath lain with thee, and if thou hast not turned aside to uncleanness under thy husband, be free from these bitter waters which cause the curse; ¹⁴ but thou, if thou hast turned aside under thy husband, and if thou hast been defiled, and any man hath given his copulation to thee besides thy husband, ¹⁵ then the priest hath caused the woman to swear with an oath of execration, and the priest hath said to the woman—The LORD make thee become an execration, and a curse, in the midst of thy people, by the LORD'S making thy thigh to fall, and thy belly to swell, ¹⁶ when these waters which cause the curse have gone into thy bowels, to cause the belly to swell, and the thigh to fall. And the woman hath said, Amen, Amen.

priest hath done to her all this law, ²⁵ and the man hath been acquitted from iniquity, and that woman beareth her iniquity.

VI. ¹ AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Speak unto the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, When a man or woman doth singularly by vowing the vow of a Nazarite, to be separate to the LORD; ³ from wine and strong drink doth he keep separate; vinegar of wine, and vinegar of strong drink he doth not drink; and any juice of grapes he doth not drink; even grapes moist or dry he doth not eat. ⁴ All the days of his separation, of anything which is made of the wine-vine, from the kernels even unto the husk, he doth not eat.

⁹ And when the dead dieth beside him in an instant, suddenly, and he hath defiled the head of his separation, then hath he shaved his head on the day of his cleansing; on the seventh day doth he shave it; ¹⁰ and on the eighth day he bringeth in two turtle-doves or two young pigeons unto the priest, unto the opening of the tent of meeting; ¹¹ and the priest hath prepared the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and hath made an atonement for him, because of that which he hath sinned by the body, and he hath hallowed his head on that day; ¹² and he hath separated to the LORD the days of his separation, and he hath brought a lamb, a year old, for a guilt-offering; and the former days are fallen, for his separation hath been defiled.

¹⁶ And the priest hath brought them near before the LORD, and hath made his sin-offering and his burnt-offering. ¹⁷ And the ram he maketh a sacrifice of peace-offerings to the LORD, besides the basket of unleavened things; and the priest hath made its present and its libations.

¹⁸ And the Nazarite hath shaved (at the opening of the tent of meeting) the head of his separation, and hath taken the hair of the head of his separation, and hath put it on the fire which is under the sacrifice of the peace-offerings.

²² And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²³ Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, saying, Thus do ye bless the Children of Israel, saying to them,

²⁴ The LORD bless thee and keep thee;

²⁶ The LORD lift up His countenance upon thee, and appoint for thee peace.

VII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass on the day of Moses' finishing setting up the tabernacle, that he anointeth it, and sanctifieth it, and all its vessels, and the altar, and all its vessels, and he anointeth them, and sanctifieth them, ² and the princes of Israel (heads of the house of their fathers, they are the princes of the tribes, they are standing over the numbered ones) bring near, ³ and bring in their offering before the LORD, six covered waggons, and twelve oxen; a wagon for two of the princes, and an ox for one; and they bring them near before the tabernacle.

¹¹ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'One prince a day—one prince a day—do they bring near their offering for the dedication of the altar.'

offerings two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs a year old; this is the offering of Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai.

⁴⁶On the seventh day, the prince of the Children of Ephraim, Elishama son of Ammihud;—⁴⁷his offering is one silver dish, its weight a hundred and thirty shekels; one silver bowl of seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of flour mixed with oil, for a present; ⁴⁸one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of perfume; ⁴⁹one young bullock of the herd, one ram, one lamb a year old, for a burnt-offering; ⁵⁰one kid of the goats for a sin-offering; ⁵¹and for a sacrifice of peace-offerings two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs a year old; this is the offering of Elishama son of Ammihud.

⁵²On the eighth day, the prince of the Children of Manasseh, Gamaliel son of Pedahzur;—⁵³his offering is one silver dish, its weight a hundred and thirty shekels; one silver bowl of seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of flour mixed with oil, for a present; ⁵⁴one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of perfume; ⁵⁵one young bullock of the herd, one ram, one lamb a year old, for a burnt-offering; ⁵⁶one kid of the goats for a sin-offering; ⁵⁷and for a sacrifice of peace-offerings two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs a year old; this is the offering of Gamaliel son of Pedahzur.

⁶⁷one young bullock of the herd, one ram, one lamb a year old, for a burnt-offering; ⁶⁸one kid of the goats for a sin-offering; ⁶⁹and for a sacrifice of peace-offerings two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs a year old; this is the offering of Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai.

VIII. ¹AND THE LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²'Speak unto Aaron: then hast thou said unto him, In thy causing the lamps to go up, over-against the face of the candlestick do the seven lamps give light.'

³And Aaron doth so: over-against the face of the candlestick hath he caused its lamps to go up, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

⁵And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ⁶'Take the Levites from the midst of the Children of Israel; then hast thou cleansed them.

²⁰And Moses doth—Aaron also, and all the company of the Children of Israel—to the Levites according to all that the LORD hath commanded Moses concerning the Levites; so have the Children of Israel done to them.

²³And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²⁴'This is that which is the Levites': from five and twenty years old and upward doth he go in to serve the host in the service of the tent of meeting; ²⁵and from fifty years old doth he return from the host of the service, and doth not serve any more; ²⁶but doth minister with his brethren in the tent of meeting, to keep the charge, and doth not do service; thus dost thou to the Levites concerning their charge.

IX. ¹AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, in the wilderness of Sinai, in the second year of their going out of the land of Egypt, in the first month, saying, ²'Let the Children of Israel also prepare the passover at its appointed season; ³in the fourteenth day of this month between the evenings do ye prepare it in its appointed season; according to all its statutes, and according to all its ordinances ye do prepare it.'

⁴And Moses speaketh unto the Children of Israel to prepare the passover; ⁵and they prepare the passover on the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the evenings, in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD hath commanded Moses, so have the Children of Israel done.

⁶And there are certain men who have been defiled by the body of a man, and they have not been permitted to prepare the passover on that day; and they come near before Moses, and before Aaron, on that day; ⁷and those men say unto him, 'We are defiled by the body of a man; why are we withdrawn so as not to bring near the offering of the LORD at its appointed season, in the midst of the Children of Israel?' ⁸And Moses saith unto them, 'Stand ye, and let me hear what the LORD hath commanded concerning you.'

⁹And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹⁰'Speak unto the Children of Israel, saying, Though any man be unclean by a body or by a distant journey (of you or of your generations), yet hath he prepared the passover to the LORD. ¹¹In the second month, on the fourteenth day, between the evenings, do they prepare it; with unleavened and bitter things do they eat it; ¹²they do not leave any of it till the morning; and a bone they do not break in it; according to all the statutes of the passover do they prepare it.

¹³'And the man who is clean, and hath not been on a journey, and hath ceased to prepare the passover, even that person hath been cut off from his people; because he hath not brought near the offering of the LORD, at its appointed season, that man doth bear his sin.

¹⁴ And when a sojourner sojourneth with you, then hath he prepared the passover to the LORD, according to the statutes of the passover, and according to its ordinances, so he doth: one statute is to you, even to the sojourner, and to the native of the land.

¹⁵ And in the day of the raising up of the tabernacle hath the cloud covered the tabernacle, even the tent of the testimony; and in the evening there is on the tabernacle as the appearance of fire unto the morning.

¹⁹ And in the cloud prolonging itself over the tabernacle many days, then have the Children of Israel kept the charge of the LORD, and journey not; ²⁰ and so when the cloud is a number of days on the tabernacle; by the command of the LORD they encamp, and by the command of the LORD they journey.

²¹ And so when the cloud is from evening till morning, when the cloud hath gone up in the morning, then they have journeyed; whether by day or by night, when the cloud hath gone up, then have they journeyed.

²² Whether two days, or a month, or a year, in the cloud prolonging itself on the tabernacle, to tabernacle on it, the Children of Israel encamp, and journey not; and in its being lifted up they journey; ²³ by the command of the LORD they encamp, and by the command of the LORD they journey; the charge of the LORD they have kept, at the command of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

X. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Make to thee two trumpets of silver; of beaten work dost thou make them, then have they been to thee for the convocation of the company, and for the journey of the camps: ³ when they have blown with them, then all the company have met together unto thee, unto the opening of the tent of meeting.

⁵ When ye have blown with a shout, then the camps which encamp eastward have journeyed.

⁶ When ye have blown with a second shout, then the camps which encamp southward have journeyed; they blow with a shout for their journeys.

⁷ And in the congregating of the congregation ye blow, but do not shout; ⁸ and the sons of Aaron, the priests, blow with the trumpets; and they have been to you for an everlasting statute, for your generations.

⁹ And when ye go into battle in your land against the adversary who distreatheth you, then have ye shouted with the trumpets, and ye have been remembered before the LORD your God, and ye have been saved from your enemies.

¹⁰ When in the day of your gladness, and in your appointed seasons, and in the beginnings of your months, ye have blown also with the trumpets over your burnt-offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace-offerings, then they have been to you for memorials before your God; I am the LORD your God.

¹⁶ And over the host of the tribe of the Children of Zebulun is Eliab son of Helon;

¹⁸ And the standard of the camp of Reuben hath journeyed, by their hosts; and over its host is Elizur son of Shedeur.

²⁰ And over the host of the tribe of the Children of Gad is Elinasaph son of Deuel:

²¹ And the Kohathites have journeyed, bearing the tabernacle, and the others have raised up the tabernacle until their coming in.

²² And the standard of the camp of the Children of Ephraim hath journeyed, by their hosts; and over its host is Elishama son of Ammihud:

²³ And over the host of the tribe of the Children of Manasse is Gamaliel son of Pedahzur;

²⁴ And over the host of the tribe of the Children of Benjamin is Abidan son of Gideon.

²⁶ And over the host of the tribe of the Children of Asher is Pagiel son of Ocran;

²⁷ And over the host of the tribe of the Children of Naphtali is Ahira son of Enan.

²⁸ These are the journeyings of the Children of Israel by their hosts, when they journey:

²⁹ And Moses saith to Hobab son of Raguel the Midianite, father-in-law of Moses, 'We are journeying unto the place of which the Lord hath said, I give it to you; go with us; then have we done good to thee: for the Lord hath spoken good concerning Israel.'

³¹ And he saith, 'Forsake us not, I pray thee, because that thou hast known our encamping in the wilderness, and thou hast been to us for eyes; ³² and if hath come to pass when thou goest with us, yea, it hath come to pass, that good which the Lord doth kindly with us—it we have done kindly to thee.'

XI. ¹ AND the people is evil, as those who sigh habitually in the ears of the Lord; and the Lord heareth, and His anger burneth, and the fire of the Lord burneth among them, and consumeth in the extremity of the camp.

² And the people cry unto Moses, and Moses prayeth unto the Lord, and the fire is quenched. ³ And he calleth the name of the place Taberah, for the fire of the Lord 'hath burned' among them.

⁴ And the rabble who are in its midst have lustred greatly, and the Children of Israel also turn back and weep, and say, 'Who doth give us flesh? ⁵ We have remembered the fish which we ate in Egypt for nought, the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlic: ⁶ and now our soul is dry: there is not anything, save this manna, before our eyes.'

¹¹ And Moses saith unto the Lord, 'Why hast Thou done evil to Thy servant? and why have I not found grace in Thine eyes—putting the burden of all this people upon me? ¹² Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten it, that Thou sayest unto me, Carry them in thy bosom as the nursing father beareth the suckling, unto the ground which Thou hast sworn to its fathers? ¹³ Whence have I flesh to give to all this people? for they weep unto me, saying, Give flesh to us, and let us eat. ¹⁴ I am not able—I alone—to bear all this people, for it is too heavy for me. ¹⁵ And if this Thou do to me—slay me, I pray Thee: slay, if I have found grace in Thine eyes, and let me not look on mine affliction.'

¹⁶ And the Lord saith unto Moses, 'Gather to Me seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom thou hast known that they are elders of the people, and its authorities; then hast thou taken them unto the tent of meeting, and they have stationed themselves there with thee, ¹⁷ and I have come down and spoken with thee there, and have kept back some of the Spirit which is upon thee, and have put it on them, and they have borne with thee some of the burden of the people, and thou dost not bear it thyself alone.'

¹⁸ And unto the people dost thou say, Sanctify yourselves for to-morrow; then have ye eaten flesh (for ye have wept in the ears of the Lord, saying, Who doth give us flesh? for we had good things in Egypt)—then hath the Lord given to you flesh, and ye have eaten. ¹⁹ Ye do not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days—²⁰ unto a month of days, until it come out from your nostrils, and it hath become to you an abomination, because that ye have loathed the Lord, who is in your midst, and weep before Him, saying, Why is this?—we have come out of Egypt.'

²¹ And Moses saith, 'Six hundred thousand footmen are the people in whose midst I am; yet Thou, Thou hast said, I give flesh to them, and they have eaten a month of days! ²² Is the flock or herd slaughtered for them, that one hath found for them?—are all the fishes of the sea gathered for them—that one hath found for them?'

²⁴ And Moses goeth out, and speaketh unto the people the words of the Lord, and gathereth the seventy men of the elders of the people, and causeth them to stand round about the tent. ²⁵ And the Lord cometh down in the cloud, and speaketh unto him, and withdraweth of the Spirit which is on him, and putteth it on the seventy men of the elders; and it cometh to pass at the resting of the Spirit on them, that they prophesy, and do not cease.

among those who are written, but have not gone out to the tent; and they prophesy in the camp. ²⁷ And the young man runneth, and declareth to Moses, and saith, 'Eldad and Meidad are prophesying in the camp.'

²⁸ And Joshua son of Nun, minister of Moses, one of his young men, answereth and saith, 'My lord Moses, restrain them.'

²⁹ And Moses saith to him, 'Art thou zealous for me? O that all the LORD'S people were prophets! that the LORD would put His Spirit upon them!' ³⁰ And Moses is gathered unto the camp, he and the elders of Israel.

³¹ And a spirit hath journeyed from the LORD, and cutteth off quails from the sea, and leaveth them by the camp; as a day's journey here, and as a day's journey there, round about the camp, and about two cubits high, on the face of the land. ³² And the people rise all that day, and all that night, and all the day after, and gather the quails: he who gathereth least hath gathered ten homers; and they spread them out for themselves round about the camp.

³³ The flesh is yet between their teeth, it is not yet cut off, and the anger of the LORD hath burned against the people; and the LORD smiteth among the people—a very great smiting. ³⁴ And one calleth the name of that place Kibroth-Hattaavah, for there they have buried the people who lust.

XII. ¹ AND Miriam speaketh—Aaron also—against Moses concerning the circumstances of the Cushite woman whom he had taken: for a Cushite woman had he taken. ² And they say, 'Only by Moses hath the LORD spoken? hath he not also spoken by us?' And the LORD heareth. ³ And the man Moses is very humble, more than any of the men who are on the face of the ground.

⁶ And He saith, 'Hear, I pray you, My words: If ye have a prophet of the LORD—in an appearance unto him I make Myself known: in a dream I speak with him. ⁷ Not so is My servant Moses; in all My house he is steadfast. ⁸ Mouth unto mouth I speak with him, and by an appearance, and not in riddles; and the form of the LORD he beholdeth attentively; wherefore then have ye not been afraid to speak against My servant, against Moses?' ⁹ And the anger of the LORD burneth against them, and He goeth on. ¹⁰ And the cloud hath turned aside from off the tent, and lo, Miriam is leprous as snow; and Aaron turneth unto Miriam, and lo, a leper!

¹¹ And Aaron saith unto Moses, 'O my lord, lay not, I pray thee, upon us the sin in which we have been foolish, and in which we have sinned; ¹² let her not be, I pray thee, as one dead, when in his coming out from the womb of his mother—the half of his flesh is consumed.'

¹⁵ And Miriam is shut out at the outside of the camp seven days, and the people hath not journeyed till Miriam is gathered.

XIII. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Send men for thyself, and let them spy the land of Canaan, which I give to the Children of Israel: one man for the tribe of his fathers do ye send; every one a prince among them.'

³ And Moses sendeth them from the wilderness of Paran by the command of the LORD: all of them are men, heads of the Children of Israel. ⁴ And these are their names:

For the tribe of Reuben, Shammua son of Zaccur.

For the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat son of Hori.

For the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh.

For the tribe of Issachar, Igal son of Joseph.

For the tribe of Ephraim, Oshea son of Nun.

For the tribe of Benjamin, Phalti son of Raphu.

For the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel son of Sodi.

For the tribe of Joseph, for the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi son of Susi.

For the tribe of Dan, Ammiel son of Gemalli.

For the tribe of Asher, Sethur son of Michael.

For the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi son of Vophsi.

For the tribe of Gad, Geuel son of Machi.

¹⁶ These are the names of the men whom Moses hath sent to spy the land. And Moses calleth Oshea son of Nun, Jehoshua.

¹⁷ And Moses sendeth them to spy the land of Canaan, and saith unto them, 'Go ye up this way into the south, then have ye gone up the mountain, ¹⁸ and have seen the land what it is, and the people which dwelleth on it, whether it is strong or feeble; whether it is few or many; ¹⁹ and what the land is in which it dwelleth; whether it is good or bad; and what are the cities in which it dwelleth; whether in camps or in fortresses; ²⁰ and what the land is, whether it is fat or lean; whether there is wood in it or not; ye have also strengthened yourselves, and have taken of the fruit of the land, seeing the days are the days of the first-fruits of the grapes.'

²⁶ And they go and come in unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto all the company of the Children of Israel, unto the wilderness of Paran, to Kadesh; and they bring them, and all the company, back word, and shew them the fruit of the land. ²⁷ And they recount to him, and say, 'We came in unto the land whither thou hast sent us, and it is even flowing with milk and honey; and this is its fruit; ²⁸ only, surely the people which dwelleth in the land is strong; and the cities are fenced, very great; and also the Children of Anak have we seen there. ²⁹ Amalek dwelleth in the land of the south; and the Hittite, and the Jebusite, and the Amorite dwell in the hill country; and the Canaanite dwelleth by the sea, and by the side of Jordan.'

³¹ But the men who have gone up with him have said, 'We are not able to go up against the people, for it is stronger than we;' ³² and they bring out an evil account of the land which they have spied unto the Children of Israel, saying, 'The land into which we passed over to spy it is a land eating up its inhabitants; and all the people whom we saw in its midst are men of stature; ³³ and there we saw the Nephilim, the Children of Anak, of the Nephilim; and we are in our own eyes as the grasshoppers; and so were we in their eyes.'

XIV. ¹ AND all the company lift up and give forth their voice, and the people weep during that night. ² And all the Children of Israel murmur against Moses, and against Aaron; and all the company say unto them, 'O that we had died in the land of Egypt, or in this wilderness, O that we had died! ³ And why doth the LORD bring us into this land to fall by the sword? our wives and our infants are become a prey: is it not better for us to turn back towards Egypt?' ⁴ And they say one unto another, 'Let us appoint a head, and let us turn back towards Egypt.'

⁵ And Moses falleth—Aaron also—on their faces, before all the congregation of the company of the Children of Israel.

⁶ And Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh, of those who spy the land, have rent their garments: ⁷ and they speak unto all the company of the Children of Israel, saying, 'The land into which we have passed over to search it, is a very very good land. ⁸ If the LORD hath delight in us, then hath He brought us in unto this land, and hath given it to us, a land which floweth with milk and honey: ⁹ only against the LORD rebel not ye; and ye, fear not the people of the land, for they are our bread: their defence hath turned aside from them, and the LORD is with us; fear them not.'

¹¹ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Until when doth this people despise Me? and until when do they not believe in Me, for all the signs which I have done in its midst? ¹² I smite it with pestilence, and dispossess it, and make thee become a nation greater and mightier than it.'

¹³ And Moses saith unto the LORD, 'Then have the Egyptians heard; for Thou hast brought up with Thy power this people out of their midst, ¹⁴ and they have said it unto the inhabitant of this land, they have heard that Thou, LORD, art in the midst of this people, that eye to eye He hath been seen—Thou LORD, and Thy cloud is standing over them,—and in the pillar of the cloud Thou goest before them by day, and in the pillar of fire by night.'

¹⁵ When Thou hast put to death this people as one man, then the nations who have heard Thy fame have spoken, saying, ¹⁶ From the LORD's want of ability to bring in this people unto the land which He hath sworn to them—doth He slaughter them in the wilderness.'

²⁰ And the LORD saith, 'I have forgiven according to thy word; ²¹ and yet, I live—and it is filled—the whole earth—with the honour of the LORD; ²² for all the men who see My honour, and My signs, which I have done in Egypt, and in the wilderness, and try Me these ten times, and have not hearkened to My voice,—²³ they see not the land which I have sworn to their fathers; yea, none of those who despise Me see it: ²⁴ but My servant Caleb, because there hath been another spirit with him, and he is fully after Me—I have even brought him in unto the land whither he hath entered, and his seed doth possess it.

²⁹ As to your infants—of whom ye have said, They are become a spoil—I have even brought them in, and they have known the land which ye have refused. ³⁰ As to you—your carcasses do fall in this wilderness, ³¹ and your children suffer evil in the wilderness forty years, and have borne your whoredoms till your carcasses are consumed in the wilderness. ³² By the number of the days in which ye spied the land, forty days, (a day for a year, a day for a year), ye do bear your iniquities forty years, and ye have known my breaking off. ³³ I the LORD have spoken; if I do not this to all this evil company who meet against me,—in this wilderness they are consumed, and there they die.

³⁴ And the men whom Moses hath sent to spy the land, who return and cause all the company to murmur against him, by bringing out an evil account concerning the land, ³⁵ even the men who bring out an evil account of the land die by the plague before the LORD. ³⁶ But Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh, have lived of those men who go to spy out the land.

³⁷ And Moses speaketh these words unto all the Children of Israel, and the people have mourned exceedingly. ³⁸ And they rise early in the morning, and go up unto the top of the hill, saying, Here we are, and we have come up unto the place which the LORD hath spoken of, for we have sinned.

⁴² And they presume to go up unto the top of the mountain; but the ark of the covenant of the LORD and Moses have not departed out of the camp.

who dwell in that mountain come down and smite them, and beat them down—unto Hormah.

XV. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Speak unto the Children of Israel: then hast thou said unto them, When ye come in unto the land of your dwellings, which I give to you, ³ then have ye prepared a fire-offering to the LORD, a burnt-offering, or a sacrifice, at separating a vow or free-will-offering, or in your appointed things, to make a sweet fragrance to the LORD, of the herd or of the flock.

⁸ And when thou makest a young bullock a burnt-offering or a sacrifice, at separating a vow or peace-offerings to the LORD, ⁹ then hath he brought near for the young bullock a present of flour, three-tenth deals, mixed with oil, the half of a hin. ¹⁰ And wine thou bringest near for a libation, the half of a hin—a fire offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD. ¹¹ Thus it is done for the one ox, or for the one ram, or for a lamb of the sheep or of the goats.

¹² According to the number that ye prepare, so ye do to each, according to their number. ¹³ Every native doth thus with these, at bringing near a fire-offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD. ¹⁴ And when a sojourner sojourneth with you, or whose is in your midst throughout your generations, who hath made a fire-offering of a sweet fragrance to the LORD, as ye do so doth he.

¹⁵ One statute is for you of the congregation and for the sojourner who sojourneth; an everlasting statute for your generations: as ye are so is the sojourner before the LORD. ¹⁶ One law and one ordinance is for you, and for the sojourner who sojourneth with you.

¹⁷ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹⁸ Speak unto the Children of Israel: then hast thou said unto them, In your coming in unto the land whither I am bringing you in, ¹⁹ then hath it been in your eating of the bread of the land, ye have up a heave-offering to the LORD; ²⁰ of the beginning of your dough a cake ye have up—a heave-offering; as the heave-offering of the threshing-floor, so do ye have it. ²¹ Of the beginning of your dough do ye give to the LORD a heave-offering, throughout your generations.

manded, and henceforth, in your generations; ²⁴then hath it been, if from the eyes of the company it hath been done in ignorance, that all the company have prepared one young bullock of the herd for a burnt-offering, for a sweet fragrance to the LORD, and its present, and its libation, according to the ordinance; and one kid of the goats for a sin-offering.

³⁵And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'The man is certainly put to death, all the company stoning him with stones at the outside of the camp.'

³⁶And all the company bring him out unto the outside of the camp, and stone him with stones, and he dieth, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

³⁷And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ³⁸'Speak unto the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, and they have made for themselves fringes on the skirts of their garments, throughout their generations, and they have put on the fringe of the skirt a ribbon of blue; ³⁹and it hath been to you for a fringe, and ye have seen it, and have remembered all the commands of the LORD, and have done them, and ye search not after your own heart, and after your own eyes, after which ye go a-whoring, ⁴⁰so that ye remember and have done all My commands, and have been holy to your God; ⁴¹I am the LORD your

God, who hath brought you up out of the land of Egypt to become your God; I am the LORD your God.'

XVI. ¹AND Korah son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, taketh both Dathan and Abiram sons of Eliab, and On son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, ²and they rise up before Moses, with certain men of the Children of Israel, two hundred and fifty princes of the company, called ones of the convention, men of name. ³And they are congregated against Moses and against Aaron, and say unto them, 'Enough of you! for all the company—all of them are holy, and the LORD is in their midst; and wherefore do ye lift yourselves up above the congregation of the LORD?'

⁴And Moses heareth, and falleth on his face; ⁵and he speaketh unto Korah, and unto all his company, saying, 'Morning!—and the LORD maketh known those who are his, and him who is holy, and hath brought him near unto Him; even him whom He doth fix on He bringeth near unto Him. ⁶This do: take to yourselves censers, Korah, and all his company, ⁷and put fire in them, and put perfume on them before the LORD to-morrow, then it hath been, the man whom the LORD chooseth, he is the holy one;—enough of you, O sons of Levi.'

⁸And Moses saith unto Korah, 'Hear ye, I pray you, O sons of Levi; ⁹is it little to you that the God of Israel hath separated you from the company of Israel to bring you near unto Himself, to do the service of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the LORD, to serve them?—¹⁰yea, He doth bring thee near, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee, yet ye have sought also the priesthood! ¹¹Therefore thou and all thy company who are met are against the LORD; and Aaron, what is he, that ye murmur against him?'

¹²And Moses sendeth to call for Dathan and for Abiram sons of Eliab, and they say, 'We do not come up; ¹³is it little that thou hast brought us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey to put us to death in the wilderness, that thou also certainly makest thyself a prince over us? ¹⁴Yea, unto a land flowing with milk and honey thou hast not brought us in, nor dost thou give to us an inheritance of fields and vineyards; the eyes of these men dost thou pick out? we do not come up.'

¹⁵And it is very displeasing to Moses, and he saith unto the LORD, 'Turn not Thou unto their present; not one ass have I taken from them, nor have I afflicted one of them.'

¹⁶And Moses saith unto Korah, 'Thou and all thy company, be ye before the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron, to-morrow; ¹⁷and take ye each his censer; then have ye put perfume on them, and brought them near before the LORD, each his censer, two hundred and fifty censers; thou also and Aaron, each his censer.'

¹⁸And they take each his censer, and put fire on them, and lay perfume on them, and they stand at the opening of the tent of meeting: Moses also and Aaron. ¹⁰ And Korah congregated against them all the company unto the opening of the tent of meeting, and the honour of the LORD is seen by all the company.

²⁵ And Moses riseth, and goeth unto Dathan and Abiram; and the elders of Israel go after him. ²⁶ And he speaketh unto the company, saying, 'Turn aside, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and come not against anything that they have, lest ye be consumed in all their sins.'

³¹ And it cometh to pass at his finishing speaking all these words, that the ground which is under them cleaveth; ³² and the earth openeth her mouth, and swalloweth them, and their houses, and all the men who are for Korah; and all the goods. ³³ And they go down, they, and all that they have, alive to Sheol; and the earth closeth upon them; and they perish from the midst of the congregation; ³⁴ and all Israel who are round about them, have fled at their voice, for they have said, 'Lest the earth swallow us.' ³⁵ Fire also hath come out from the LORD, and consumeth the two hundred and fifty men who bring near the perfume.

³⁹ And Eleazar the priest taketh the brazen censers which they who are burnt had brought near, and they spread them out, a covering for the altar: ⁴⁰ a memorial to the Children of Israel, so that a stranger who is not of the seed of Aaron doth not draw near to make perfume before the LORD, and is not as Korah, and as his company, as the LORD hath spoken by means of Moses to him.

⁴⁷ And Aaron taketh as Moses hath commanded, and he runneth unto the midst of the congregation, and lo, the plague hath begun among the people; and he giveth out the perfume, and maketh atonement for the people; ⁴⁸ and he standeth between the dead and the living, and the plague is restrained. ⁴⁹ And they who die by the plague are fourteen thousand and seven hundred, besides those who die for the matter of Korah. ⁵⁰ And Aaron turneth back unto Moses, unto the opening of the tent of meeting, when the plague hath been restrained.

XVII. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² 'Speak unto the Children of Israel, and take from them each a rod, for a father's house, from all their princes, for the house of their fathers, twelve rods; the name of each dost thou write on his rod, ³ and Aaron's name dost thou write for the tribe of Levi; for one rod is for the head of their fathers' house; ⁴ then thou hast placed them in the tent of meeting, before the testimony, whither I meet with you.

bring out flourishing, and doth blossom blossoms, and doth produce almonds. ⁹ And Moses bringeth out all the rods from before the LORD, unto all the Children of Israel, and they look, and take each his rod.

¹¹ And Moses doth as the LORD hath commanded him; so hath he done. ¹² And the Children of Israel speak unto Moses, saying, 'Lo, we have expired; we have perished: we have all of us perished. ¹³ Any who really draweth near unto the tabernacle of the LORD dieth; have we not been consumed—to expire?'

XVIII. ¹ AND the LORD saith unto Aaron, 'Thou, and thy sons, and thy father's house with thee, do bear the iniquity of the sanctuary; and thou, and thy sons with thee do bear the iniquity of your priesthood; ² and also thy brethren, the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring near with thee, and let them be joined unto thee, and serve thee, even thou and thy sons with thee, before the tent of testimony.

³ Then they have kept thy charge, and the charge of all the tent; only, unto the vessels of the sanctuary and unto the altar they do not come near, and they die not, either they or you; ⁴ and they have been joined unto thee, and have kept the charge of the tent of meeting, for all the service of the tent; and a stranger doth not come near unto you. ⁵ And ye have kept the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar, and there is no more wrath against the Children of Israel.

wine, and of the wheat, their first-fruits which they give to the LORD—to thee have I given them.

²⁵ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ²⁶ 'And unto the Levites dost thou speak; then hast thou said unto them, When ye take from the Children of Israel the tithe which I have given to you from them, for your inheritance, then have ye lifted up from it the heave-offering of the LORD, a tithe of the tithe. ²⁷ And your heave-offering hath been reckoned to you as the corn of the threshing-floor, and as the fulness of the wine-vat. ²⁸ So do ye lift up—ye also—the heave-offering of the LORD of all your tithes which ye receive from the Children of Israel; and ye have given from it the heave-offering of the LORD to Aaron the priest. ²⁹ Out of all your gifts do ye lift up the whole heave-offering of the

²⁰ 'Thou hast also said unto them, In your lifting up its best part out of it, then hath it been reckoned to the Levites, as the increase of the threshing-floor, and as the increase of the wine-vat; ²¹ and ye have eaten it in every place, ye and your households; for it is your hire in exchange for your service in the tent of meeting. ²² And ye bear no sin for it, when ye lift up its best part out of it; and the holy things of the Children of Israel ye do not pollute, and ye die not.'

XIX. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying, ² 'This is the statute of the law which the LORD hath commanded, saying, Speak unto the Children of Israel that they bring unto thee a red cow, a perfect one, in which there is no blemish, on which no yoke hath gone up; ³ then have ye given it unto Eleazar the priest, and he hath brought it out unto the outside of the camp and hath slaughtered it before him.

¹¹ 'He who cometh against the dead body of any man is unclean seven days. ¹² He doth cleanse himself for it on the third day, and on the seventh day he is clean; and if he cleanse not himself on the third day, then on the seventh day he is not clean.

¹⁴ 'This is the law when a man dieth in a tent: every one who cometh in unto the tent, and all that is in the tent, is unclean seven days; ¹⁵ and every open vessel which hath no covering of thread upon it is unclean.

¹⁹ 'And the clean hath sprinkled it on the unclean on the third day and on the seventh day, and he hath cleansed him on the seventh day, and hath washed his garments, and hath bathed in water, and hath been clean in the evening.

²¹ And it hath been to them for an everlasting statute, that he who sprinkleth the water of separation doth wash his garments, and he who cometh against the water of separation is unclean till the evening, ²² and all against which the unclean person cometh is unclean, and the person who cometh against it is unclean till the evening.'

XX. ¹ AND the Children of Israel come in, even all the company, to the wilderness of Zin, in the first month; and the people abide in Kadesh; and Miriam dieth there, and is buried there.

² And there hath been no water for the company, and they are congregated against Moses, and against Aaron. ³ And the people strive with Moses, and speak, saying, 'Oh that we had expired when our brethren expired before the LORD! ⁴ And why have ye brought in the congregation of the LORD unto this wilderness to die there, we and our beasts? ⁵ And why hast thou brought us up out of Egypt to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of seed, or fig, or vine, or pomegranate; and water there is none to drink.'

⁷ And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ⁸ 'Take the rod, and congregate the company, thou and Aaron thy brother; then have ye spoken unto the rock before their eyes, and it hath given its waters, and thou hast brought out to them water from the rock, and thou hast watered the company and their beasts.'

⁹ And Moses taketh the rod from before the LORD, as He hath commanded him. ¹⁰And Moses and Aaron convene the congregation unto the front of the rock, and he saith to them, 'Hear, I pray you, O rebels, from this rock shall we bring out to you water?' ¹¹And Moses lifteth up his hand, and smiteth the rock with his rod twice; and much water cometh out; and the company drink, their beasts also.

¹²And the LORD saith unto Moses, and unto Aaron, 'Because ye have not believed in Me to sanctify Me before the eyes of the Children of Israel, therefore ye do not bring in this congregation unto the land which I have given to them.'

¹³These are the waters of Meribah; because the Children of Israel have 'striven' with the LORD, and he is sanctified upon them.

¹⁴And Moses sendeth messengers from Kadesh unto the king of Edom, 'Thus hath thy brother Israel said, Thou hast known all the travail which hath found us; ¹⁵that our fathers go down to Egypt, and we dwell in Egypt many days, and the Egyptians do evil to us and to our fathers. ¹⁶And we cry unto the LORD, and He heareth our voice, and sendeth a messenger, and bringeth us out of Egypt; and lo, we are in Kadesh, a city in the extremity of thy border. ¹⁷Let us pass over, we pray thee, through thy land; we pass not over through the field, or through the vineyard, nor do we drink the waters of the well; we go the way of the king; we turn not aside to the right or to the left, till we pass over thy border.'

¹⁸And Edom saith unto him, 'Thou dost not pass over through me, lest with the sword I come out to meet thee.'

¹⁹And the Children of Israel say unto him, 'In the highway let us go, and if of thy waters we drink—I or my cattle—then have I given their price; only (there is nothing) on my feet let me go over.'

²⁷And Moses doth as the LORD hath commanded, and they go up unto mount Hor before the eyes of all the company. ²⁸And Moses strippeth Aaron of his garments, and clotheth Eleazar his son with them, and

Aaron dieth there on the top of the mount; and Moses cometh down—Eleazar also—from the mount. ²⁹And all the company see that Aaron hath expired; and they bewail Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

XXI. ¹AND the Canaanite (even king Arad), who dwelleth in the south, heareth that Israel hath come the way of the Atharim, and he fighteth against Israel, and taketh some of them captive.

²And Israel voweth a vow to the LORD, and saith, 'If Thou certainly give this people into my hand, then have I devoted their cities.' ³And the LORD hearkeneth to the voice of Israel, and giveth up the Canaanites; and he devoteth them and their cities, and he calleth the name of that place Hormah.

⁴And they journey from mount Hor, the way of the Red Sea, to compass the land of Edom, and the soul of the people is short in the way; ⁵and the people speak against God, and against Moses, 'Why hast thou brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, and there is no water, and our soul is weary of this light bread.'

⁶And the LORD sendeth among the people the burning serpents, and they bite the people, and much people of Israel die. ⁷And the people come in unto Moses and say, 'We have sinned, for we have spoken against the LORD, and against thee; pray unto the LORD that He turn aside from us the serpent;' and Moses prayeth in behalf of the people.

⁸And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Make for thyself a burning serpent, and set it on an ensign; then it hath been, every one who is bitten and hath seen it, hath lived.'

⁹And Moses maketh a serpent of brass, and putteth it on the ensign, and it hath been, if the serpent hath bitten any man—and he hath looked expectingly unto the serpent of brass—he hath lived.

¹⁰And the Children of Israel journey, and encamp in Obotoh.

¹¹And they journey from Obotoh, and encamp in Ije-Abarim, in the wilderness which is on the front of Moab, at the rising of the sun.

¹²From thence they have journeyed, and encamp in the valley of Zared.

¹³From thence they have journeyed, and encamp beyond Arnon, which is in the wilderness which cometh out of the border of the Amorite, for Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorite; ¹⁴therefore it is said in the book of the wars of the LORD, 'Wahab in the rear, and the brooks of Arnon, ¹⁵and the spring of the brooks which hath turned aside to the dwelling of Ar, and hath leaned to the border of Moab.'

¹⁶And from thence they have journeyed to Beer; it is the well concerning which the LORD hath said to Moses, 'Gather the people, and I give to them water.'

¹⁷Then Israel singeth this song, concerning the well, they have answered to it;

¹⁸ A well—princes have digged it;
Nobles of the people have prepared it,
With the lawgiver, with their staves.'

²⁰ and from Bamoth in the valley which is in the field of Moab to the top of Pisgah, which looketh on the front of the wilderness.

²¹ And Israel sendeth messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorite, saying, ²² 'Let me pass over into thy land, we do not turn aside into the field, or into the vineyard, we do not drink the waters of the well; in the king's way do we go till we pass over thy border.'

²⁶ for Heshbon is the city of Sihon king of the Amorites, and he hath fought against the former king of Moab, and taketh all his land out of his hand, unto Arnon. ²⁷ Therefore those who use similes, say—

'Enter ye Heshbon:

Let the city of Sihon be built and ready;

²⁸ For fire hath gone out from Heshbon;

A flame from the city of Sihon;

It hath consumed Ar of Moab;

The owners of the high places of Arnon.

²⁹ Wo to thee, O Moab;

Thou art lost, O people of Chemosh;

He hath given his sons who escape—

His daughters also—

Into captivity to the king of the Amorites

³⁰ And we shoot them; (—Sihon!)

Heshbon hath perished unto Dibon;

And we make desolate unto Nophah,

Which is unto Medeba.'

³³ and they turn and go up the way to Bashan; and Og king of Bashan cometh out to meet them, he and all his people, to the battle at Eshrei.

³⁴ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Fear him not, for into thy hand have I given him, and all his people, and his land: then thou hast done to him as thou hast done to Sihon king of the Amorite, who dwelleth in Heshbon.'

³⁵ And they smite him, and his sons, and all his people, until he hath not left to him a remnant, and they possess his land.

XXII. ¹ And the Children of Israel journey and encamp in the plains of Moab, beyond the Jordan, by Jericho.

² And Balak son of Zippor seeth all that

Israel hath done to the Amorites; ³ and Moab is exceedingly afraid of the presence of the people, for it is numerous; and Moab is vexed by the presence of the Children of Israel; ⁴ and Moab saith unto the elders of Midian, 'Now doth this congregation lick up all that is round about us, as the ox licketh up the green thing of the field.'

And Balak son of Zippor is king of Moab at that time. ⁵ And he sendeth messengers unto Balaam son of Beor, to Pethor, which is by the River of the land of the Children of his people, to call for him, saying, 'Lo, a people hath come out of Egypt: lo, it hath covered the eye of the earth, and it is abiding over-against me; ⁶ and now, come, I pray thee, curse for me this people, for it is mightier than I: it may be I prevail—we smite it—and cast it out from the land; for I have known that that which thou blessest is blessed, and that which thou cursest is cursed.'

⁷ And the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian go, and divinations are in their hand, and they come in unto Balaam, and speak unto him the words of Balak. ⁸ And he saith unto them, 'Lodge here to-night, then have I brought you back word, as the LORD speaketh unto me; ⁹ and the princes of Moab abide with Balaam.'

¹⁰ And God cometh in unto Balaam, and saith, 'Who are these men with thee?'

¹¹ And Balaam saith unto God, 'Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, hath sent unto me, saying, ¹² Lo, the people who cometh out from Egypt, and covereth the eye of the land—come, now, pierce it for me, it may be I am able to fight against it, then have I cast it out.' ¹³ And God saith unto Balaam, 'Thou shalt not go with them; thou shalt not curse the people: for it is blessed.'

¹⁴ And Balaam riseth in the morning, and saith unto the princes of Balak, 'Go unto your land, for the LORD refuseth to suffer me to go with you.' ¹⁵ And the princes of Moab rise, and come in unto Balak, and say, 'Balaam refuseth to come with us.'

¹⁶ And Balak yet addeth to send princes, greater and more honoured than these; ¹⁷ and they come in unto Balaam, and say to him, 'Thus hath Balak son of Zippor said, Be not, I pray thee, withheld from coming unto me; ¹⁸ for I very greatly honour thee, and all that thou sayest unto me I do: and come, I pray thee, pierce for me this people.'

¹⁹ And Balaam answereth and saith unto the servants of Balak, 'If Balak give to me the fulness of his house of silver and gold, I am unable to pass over the command of the LORD my God, to do a little thing or a great one. ²⁰ And, now, abide, I pray you, in this place, you also, to-night: then do I know what the LORD addeth to speak with me.'

²¹ And God cometh in unto Balaam, by night, and saith to him, 'If the men have come to call for thee, rise, go with them, but only the thing which I speak unto thee—it thou shalt do.'

saddlith his ass, and goeth with the princes of Moab; ²²and God's anger burneth, because he is going, and the Messenger of the LORD stationeth himself in the way for an adversary to him; and he is riding on his ass, and his two servants are with him; ²³and the ass seeth the Messenger of the LORD standing in the way, and his drawn sword in his hand; and the ass turneth aside out of the way, and goeth into the field; and Balaam smiteth the ass to turn it aside into the way.

²⁸And the LORD openeth the mouth of the ass, and she saith to Balaam, 'What have I done to thee that thou hast smitten me these three times?' ²⁹And Balaam saith to the ass, 'Because thou hast rolled thyself against me; if there were a sword in my hand surely now I had slain thee.' ³⁰And the ass saith unto Balaam, 'Am not I thine ass, upon whom thou hast ridden since I was thine unto this day? have I at all been accustomed to do thus to thee?' And he saith, 'No.'

³¹And the LORD uncovereth the eyes of Balaam, and he seeth the Messenger of the LORD standing in the way, and his drawn sword in his hand; and he boweth and doth obeisance to his face. ³²And the Messenger of the LORD saith unto him, 'Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass these three times? lo, I have come out to be an adversary, for thy way hath been perverse before me; ³³and the ass seeth me, and turneth aside at my presence these three times; unless she had turned aside from my presence, surely now, also, thee had I slain, and her kept alive.'

³⁴And Balaam saith unto the Messenger of the LORD, 'I have sinned, for I have not known that thou art standing to meet me in the way, and now, if it is evil in thine eyes—I turn back by myself.'

³⁵And the Messenger of the LORD saith unto Balaam, 'Go with the men; but only the word which I speak unto thee—it dost thou speak.' And Balaam goeth on with the princes of Balak.

³⁶And Balak heareth that Balaam hath come, and goeth out to meet him, unto a city of Moab, which is by the border of Arnon, which is in the extremity of the border. ³⁷And Balak saith unto Balaam, 'Have I not diligently sent unto thee to call for thee? why hast thou not come unto me? Am I not truly able to honour thee?' ³⁸And Balaam saith unto Balak, 'Lo, I have come unto thee; now—am I really able to speak anything? the word which God putteth in my mouth—it do I speak.'

³⁹And Balaam goeth with Balak, and they come in to Kirjath-Huzoth; ⁴⁰and Balak sacrificeth oxen and sheep, and sendeth to Balaam, and to the princes who are with him; ⁴¹and it cometh to pass in the morning, that Balak taketh Balaam, and causeth him to go up the high places of Baal; and he seeth from thence the extremity of the people.

XXIII. ¹AND Balaam saith unto Balak, 'Build for me in this place seven altars, and make ready for me in this place seven bullocks and seven rams.'

²And Balak doth as Balaam hath spoken; and Balak—Balaam also—offereth a bullock and a ram on every altar. ³And Balaam saith to Balak, 'Station thyself by thy burnt-offering; and I go on; it may be the LORD doth come to meet me, and the thing which He sheweth me I have also declared to thee;' and he goeth to a high place.

⁶And he turneth back unto him, and lo, he is standing by his burnt-offering, he and all the princes of Moab.

⁷And he taketh up his simile, and saith:

'From Aram doth he lead me—

Balak king of Moab;

From the mountains of the east—saying,

Come—curse Jacob for me,

And come—he indignant with Israel.

⁸What—do I pierce?—

God hath not pierced it!

And what—am I indignant?—

God hath not been indignant!

⁹For from the top of the rocks I see it,

And from the heights I behold it;

Lo! the people doth tabernacle alone,

And among the nations

Doth not reckon itself!

¹⁰Who hath counted the dust of Jacob,—

Or the number of the fourth of Israel?

Let me die the death of the upright,

And let my last end be like his!

¹¹And Balak saith unto Balaam, 'What hast thou done to me? to pierce mine enemies have I taken thee,—and lo, thou hast certainly blessed.' ¹²And he answereth and saith, 'That which the LORD putteth in my mouth—shall I not take heed to speak it?'

¹³And Balak saith unto him, 'Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place; from whence thou dost see them: only its extremity thou seest; and all of it thou dost not see; and pierce it for me from thence.' ¹⁴And he taketh him into the field of Zophim, unto the top of Pisgah; and buildeth seven altars, and offereth a bullock and a ram on every altar.

¹⁵And he saith unto Balak, 'Station thyself here by thy burnt-offering, and I meet Him there. ¹⁰ And the Lord cometh unto Balaam, and putteth a word in his mouth, and saith, 'Turn back unto Balak, and thus dost thou speak.'

¹¹ And he cometh unto him, and lo, he is standing by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moab are with him; and Balak saith to him, 'What hath the Lord spoken?'

¹² And he taketh up his simile, and saith:

'Rise Balak, and hear;

Give ear unto me, thou son of Zippor;

¹³ God is not a man,—and lieth,

Or a son of man,—and repenteth!

Hath He said,—and doth He not do it?

Or spoken,—and doth He not confirm it?

¹⁴ Lo, to bless I have received:

He hath blessed, and I cannot reverse it.

¹⁵ He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob,

Nor hath he seen perverseness in Israel;

The Lord his God is with him,

And the shout of a king is in him.

¹⁶ God is bringing them out from Egypt.

He hath as the swiftness of a Reem;

¹⁷ For no enchantment is against Jacob,

Nor divination against Israel,

At the time it is said of Jacob and Israel,

What hath God wrought!

¹⁸ Lo, the people as a lioness riseth,

And as a lion he lifteth himself up,

He lieth not down till he eat the prey.

And the blood of the pierced ones drink.'

¹⁹ And Balak saith unto Balaam, 'Neither pierce it at all, nor bless it at all.' ²⁰ And Balaam answereth and saith unto Balak,

'Have I not spoken unto thee, saying, All that the Lord speaketh—it I do?'

²¹ And Balak saith unto Balaam, 'Come, I pray thee, let me take thee unto another place; it may be it is right in the eyes of God even to pierce it for me from thence.'

XXIV. ¹ AND Balaam seeth that it is good in the eyes of the Lord to bless Israel, and he hath not gone as time by time to meet enchantments; and he setteth his face towards the wilderness. ² And Balaam lifteth up his eyes, and seeth Israel tabernacled by its tribes, and the Spirit of God is upon him. ³ And he taketh up his simile, and saith:

'Balaam son of Beor affirmeth:

The man whose eyes are shut affirmeth:

⁴ He who heareth the words of God affirmeth:

Who seeth the vision of the Almighty, Falling with eyes uncovered:

⁵ How good have been thy tents, O Jacob; Thy tabernacles, O Israel:

⁶ As valleys they have been stretched out; As gardens by the River;

As aloes the Lord hath planted,

As cedars by the waters;

⁷ He maketh waters flow from his buckets, And his seed is in many waters;

And higher than Agag is his king,

And his kingdom is exalted.

⁸ God is bringing him out of Egypt:

He hath as the swiftness of a Reem,

He eateth up nations his adversaries;

And their bones he breaketh,

And he smiteth with his arrows.

⁹ He bent, he hath lain down as a lion,

—And as a lioness, who raiseth him up?

He who blesseth thee is blessed,

And he who curseth thee is cursed.'

¹² And Balaam saith unto Balak, 'Have I not also spoken unto thy messengers whom thou hast sent unto me, saying, ¹³ If Balak give to me the fulness of his house of silver and gold, I am not able to pass over the command of the Lord, to do good or evil of mine own heart;—that which the Lord speaketh—it do I speak? ¹⁴ And, now, lo, I am going to my people; come, let me counsel thee concerning that which this people doeth to thy people, in the latter end of the days.'

¹⁵ And he taketh up his simile, and saith:

'Balaam son of Beor affirmeth;

The man whose eyes are shut affirmeth;

¹⁶ He affirmeth, who heareth the words of God,

And knoweth the knowledge of the Most High;

The vision of the Almighty he seeth,

Falling with eyes uncovered:

¹⁷ I see it, but not now;

I behold it, but not near;

A star hath proceeded from Jacob,

And a sceptre hath risen from Israel,

And hath smitten the corners of Moab,

And hath destroyed all the sons of Sheth.

¹⁸ And Edom hath been a possession,

And Seir hath been a possession, for its enemies,

And Israel doeth valiantly.

¹⁹ And One ruleth out of Jacob,

And hath destroyed the remnant from the city.'

²⁰ And he seeth Amalek, and taketh up his simile, and saith:

'The beginning of the Goyim is Amalek:

And his latter end—for ever he perisheth.'

²¹ And he seeth the Kenite, and taketh up his simile, and saith:

'Enduring is thy dwelling,

And putting in the rock thy nest,

²² But the Kenite is for a burning:

Till when doth Asshur keep thee captive?'

²³ And he taketh up his simile, and saith:

'Alas, who doth live when God doth this?'

²⁴ And ships are from the side of Chittim,

And they have humbled Asshur,

And they have humbled Eber,

And it also for ever doth perish.'

²⁵ And Balaam riseth, and goeth and turn-eth back to his place; and Balak also hath gone on his way.

XXV. ¹AND Israel dwelleth in Shittim, and the people begin to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab: ²who call for the people to the sacrifices of their gods; and the people eat, and bow themselves to their gods; ³and Israel is joined to Baal-Peor; and the anger of the LORD burneth against Israel.

⁴And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Take all the chiefs of the people, and hang them before the LORD, over-against the sun: and let the fierceness of the anger of the LORD turn back from Israel.'

⁵And Moses saith unto the judges of Israel, 'Slay ye each his men who are joined to Baal-Peor.'

¹⁰And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying; ¹¹'Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, hath turned back My fury from the Children of Israel, by his being zealous with My zeal in their midst, and I have not consumed the Children of Israel in My zeal.

¹²'Therefore say, Lo, I do give to him My covenant of peace, ¹³and it hath been to him and to his seed after him the covenant of an everlasting priesthood, because that he hath been zealous for his God, and doth make an atonement for the Children of Israel.'

¹⁴And the name of the man of Israel who is smitten, who is smitten with the Midianites, is Zimri son of Salu, prince of the house of a father of the Simeonites; ¹⁵and the name of the Midianitish woman who is smitten is Cozbi daughter of Zur, head of a people; of the house of a father in Midian is he.

¹⁶And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ¹⁷'Distress the Midianites, then have ye smitten them; ¹⁸for they are adversaries to you with their frauds, with which they have acted fraudulently to you, concerning the matter of Peor, and concerning the matter of Cozbi daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, who is smitten in the day of the plague for the matter of Peor.'

XXVI. ¹AND it cometh to pass after the plague, that the LORD speaketh unto Moses and unto Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, saying,

²'Take up the sum of all the company of the Children of Israel, from twenty years old and upward, by the house of their fathers, every one going out to the host in Israel.'

³And Moses and Eleazar the priest speak with them, in the plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho, saying, ⁴'From twenty years old and upward,' as the LORD hath commanded Moses and the Children of Israel who come out from the land of Egypt.

⁵Reuben, first-born of Israel—the Children of Reuben: of Hanoch is the family of the Hanochites; of Pallu the family of the Palluites; ⁶of Hezron the family of the Hezronites; of Carmi the family of the Carmites.

⁷These are the families of the Reubenites, and their numbered ones are three and forty thousand and seven hundred and thirty.

¹²The sons of Simeon by their families: of Nemuel is the family of the Nemuelites; of Jamin the family of the Jaminites; of Jachin the family of the Jachinites; ¹³of Zerah the family of the Zarhites; of Shaul the family of the Shaulites.

¹⁸These are the families of the sons of Gad, by their numbered ones, forty thousand and five hundred.

²²These are the families of Judah, by their numbered ones, six and seventy thousand and five hundred.

²³The sons of Issachar by their families: of Tola is the family of the Tolaite; of Pua the family of the Puites; ²⁴of Jashub the family of the Jashubites; of Shimron the family of the Shimronites.

²⁵These are the families of Issachar, by their numbered ones, four and sixty thousand and three hundred.

²⁷ These are the families of the Zebulunites, by their numbered ones, sixty thousand and five hundred.

²⁸ The sons of Joseph by their families are Manasseh and Ephraim.

⁵⁴ To the many thou dost increase their inheritance, and to the few thou dost diminish their inheritance; to each according to his numbered ones is given his inheritance.

And Kohath hath begotten Amram; ⁵⁹ and the name of Amram's wife is Jochebed, a daughter of Levi, whom one hath born to Levi in Egypt; and she beareth to Amram Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam their sister.

XXVII. ¹ AND the daughters of Zelophehad son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, of the families of Manasseh son of Joseph, draw near (and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah,) ² and they stand before Moses, and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes and all the company, at the opening of the tent of meeting, saying:

³ 'Our father died in the wilderness, and he was not in the midst of the company who were met together against the LORD in the company of Korah, but for his own sin he hath died, and hath had no sons. ⁴ Why is the name of our father withdrawn from the midst of his family because he hath no son? give to us a possession in the midst of the brethren of our father.' ⁵ And Moses bringeth near their cause before the LORD.

⁸ 'And unto the Children of Israel thou dost speak, saying, When a man dieth, and hath no son, then have ye caused his inheritance to pass over to his daughter; ⁹ and if he have no daughter, then have ye given his inheritance to his brethren; ¹⁰ and if he have no brethren, then have ye given his inheritance to his father's brethren; ¹¹ and if his father have no brethren, then have ye given his inheritance to his relation who is near unto him of his family, and he hath possessed it; and it hath been to the Children of Israel for a statute of judgment, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.'

¹⁵ And Moses speaketh unto the LORD, saying, ¹⁶ 'The LORD, the God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the company, ¹⁷ who goeth out before them, and who taketh them out, and who bringeth them in; that the company of the LORD be not as sheep which have no shepherd.'

¹⁸ And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Take to thee Joshua son of Nun, a man in whom is the Spirit, then hast thou laid thine hand upon him; ¹⁹ and I have caused him to stand before Eleazar the priest, and before all the company, and thou hast charged him before their eyes; ²⁰ and thou hast put of thine honour upon him, so that all the company of the Children of Israel do hearken. ²¹ And he standeth before Eleazar the priest, who hath asked for him by the judgment of Urim before the LORD; at His word they go out, and at His word they come in; he, and all the Children of Israel with him, even all the company.'

manded him, and taketh Joshua, and causeth him to stand before Eleazar the priest, and before all the company, ²³ and layeth his hands upon him, and he chargeth him, as the LORD hath spoken by means of Moses.

XXVIII. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² 'Command the Children of Israel; then hast thou said unto them, My offering, My bread for My fire-offerings, My sweet fragrance, ye do take heed to bring near to Me in their appointed seasons. ³ Thou hast also said to them, This is the fire-offering which ye bring near to the LORD; two lambs a year old, perfect ones, daily, a continual burnt-offering. ⁴ The one lamb thou preparest in the morning, and the second lamb thou preparest between the evenings. ⁵ And the tenth of an ephah of flour for a present, mixed with beaten oil, the fourth of a hin; ⁶ a continual burnt-offering, which is made in mount Sinai, for a sweet fragrance, a fire-offering to the LORD. ⁷ And its libation is the fourth of a hin for the one lamb; in the sanctuary cause thou the libation of strong drink to be poured out to the LORD.

¹⁶ 'And in the first month, in the fourteenth day of the month, is the passover to the LORD. ¹⁷ And in the fifteenth day of this month is the festival; seven days unleavened food is eaten. ¹⁸ In the first day is an holy convocation; ye do no servile work; ¹⁹ and ye have brought near a fire-offering, a burnt-offering to the LORD; two young bullocks of the herd, and one ram, and seven lambs a year old, perfect ones are they for you. ²⁰ And their present is of flour mixed with oil, three-tenth deals for a bullock, and two-tenth deals for a ram ye do prepare; ²¹ a several tenth deal thou prepare for the one lamb, for the seven lambs, ²²and one goat for a sin-offering to make an atonement for you.

XXIX. ¹ AND in the seventh month, in the first of the month, ye have a holy convocation; ye do no servile work; it is a day of shouting to you; ² and ye have prepared a burnt-offering, for a sweet fragrance to the LORD, one young bullock of the herd, one ram, seven lambs a year old, perfect ones; ³ and their present is of flour mixed with oil; three-tenth deals for the bullock, two-tenth deals for the ram, ⁴ and one-tenth deal for the one lamb, for the seven lambs; ⁵ and one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you; ⁶ besides the burnt-offering of the month, and its present, and the continual burnt-offering, and its present, and their libations, according to their ordinance, for a sweet fragrance, a fire-offering to the LORD.

¹² And in the fifteenth day of the seventh month ye have a holy convocation; ye do no servile work; and ye have celebrated a festival to the LORD seven days; ¹³ and ye have brought near a burnt-offering, a fire-offering, a sweet fragrance to the LORD; thirteen young bullocks of the herd, two rams, fourteen lambs a year old; they are perfect ones; ¹⁴ and their present is of flour mixed with oil, three-tenth deals to the one

bullock, for the thirteen bullocks; two-tenth deals to the one ram, for the two rams; ¹⁵ and a several tenth deal to the one lamb, for the fourteen lambs; ¹⁶ and one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, besides the continual burnt-offering and its libation.

an-offering, besides the continual burnt-offering, and its present, and its libation.

⁴⁰ And Moses saith unto the Children of Israel according to all that the LORD hath commanded Moses.

XXX. ¹ AND Moses speaketh unto the heads of the tribes of the Children of Israel, saying, 'This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded :

² 'When a man voweth a vow to the LORD, or hath sworn an oath to bind a bond on his soul, he doth not pollute his word; according to all that goeth out from his mouth he doth.

upon her; he hath established them, for he hath kept silent at her, in the day of his hearing. ¹⁵ And if he really break them after his hearing, then hath he borne her iniquity.'

XXXI. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² 'Execute the vengeance of the Children of Israel against the Midianites: afterwards thou art gathered unto thy people.'

⁵ And there are given out of the thousands of Israel a thousand for a tribe, twelve thousand armed ones of the host: ⁶ and Moses sendeth them, a thousand for a tribe to the host, them and Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest, to the host; and the holy vessels, and the trumpets of shouting, are in his hand.

⁷ And they war against Midian, as the LORD hath commanded Moses, and slay every male. ⁸ And the kings of Midian have they slain, besides their pierced ones, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: Balaam also, son of Beor, have they slain with the sword.

¹⁷ 'And now, slay every male among the infants; every woman also known of man by the lying of a male have ye slain: ¹⁸ and all the infants among the women who have not known the lying of a male, ye have kept alive for yourselves.

³¹ And Moses doth—Eleazar the priest also—as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

³² And the prey, the residue of the spoil which the people of the host have spoiled, is of the flock six hundred thousand, and seventy thousand, and five thousand; ³³ and of the herd two and seventy thousand; ³⁴ and of asses one and sixty thousand; ³⁵ and of human beings, of women who have not known the lying of a male—all the persons are two and thirty thousand.

³⁷ And the tribute to the LORD of the sheep is six hundred five and seventy; ³⁸ and the herd is six and thirty thousand, and their tribute to the LORD is two and seventy. ³⁹ And the asses are thirty thousand and five hundred, and their tribute to the LORD is one and sixty. ⁴⁰ And the human beings are sixteen thousand, and their tribute to the LORD is two and thirty persons.

⁴¹ And Moses giveth the tribute—the LORD's heave-offering—to Eleazar the priest, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

XXXII. ¹ AND much cattle hath been to the Children of Reuben and to the Children of Gad, very many; and they see the land of Jazer, and the land of Gilead, and lo, the place is a place for cattle. ² And the Children of Gad and the Children of Reuben come in and speak unto Moses, and unto Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of the company, saying:

³ 'Ataroth, and Dibon, and Jazer, and Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeth, and Shebam, and Nebo, and Beon—the land which the LORD hath smitten before the company of Israel, is a land for cattle, and thy servants have cattle.' ⁴ They say also, 'If we have found grace in thine eyes, let this land be given to thy servants for a possession; cause us not to pass over the Jordan.'

and see the land, and discourage the heart of the Children of Israel so as not to go in unto the land which the LORD hath given to them: ¹⁰and the anger of the LORD burneth in that day, and He sweareth, saying, ¹¹They do not see—the men who come up out of Egypt from twenty years old and upward—the ground which I have sworn to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, for they have not been fully after Me: ¹²save Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenezite, and Joshua son of Nun, for they have been full after the LORD: ¹³and the anger of the LORD burneth against Israel, and He causeth them to wander in the wilderness forty years, until the consumption of all the generation which doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD.

¹⁴And lo, ye have risen in the stead of your fathers, an increase of sinful men, to add yet to the fury of the anger of the LORD toward Israel: ¹⁵when ye turn back from after Him, then He hath added yet to leave it in the wilderness, and ye have done corruptly to all this people.

¹⁶And they come high unto him, and say, 'Sheepfolds let us build for our cattle here, and cities for our infants: ¹⁷and we—we are armed hasting before the Children of Israel till we have brought them in unto their place, and our infants have dwelt in the fenced cities because of the inhabitants of the land: ¹⁸we do not turn back into our houses till the Children of Israel have inherited each his inheritance. ¹⁹For we do not inherit with them beyond the Jordan, and yonder, for our inheritance hath come unto us beyond the Jordan, at the sun-rising.'

²³And if ye do not so, lo, ye have sinned against the LORD, and know ye your sin, that it doth find you out. ²⁴Build ye for yourselves cities for your infants, and folds for your flocks, and do ye that which goeth out from your mouth.'

²⁸And concerning them Moses commandeth Eleazar the priest, and Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the Children of Israel. ²⁹And Moses saith unto them, 'If the Children of Gad and the Children of Reuben pass over the Jordan with you, every one armed for the battle, before the LORD, and the land hath been subdued before you, then have ye given to them the land of Gilead for a possession: ³⁰and if they do not pass over with you armed, then have they possessions in your midst in the land of Canaan.'

³¹And the Children of Gad and the Children of Reuben answer, saying, 'That which the LORD hath spoken unto thy servants—so we do. ³²We—we pass over armed before the LORD to the land of Canaan, and with us is the possession of our inheritance beyond the Jordan.'

³⁴And the Children of Gad build Dibon, and Atrath, and Arer, ³⁵and Atrath, Shophan, and Jaazer, and Jogbehah, ³⁶and Beth-Nimrah, and Beth-Haran, fenced cities; and sheepfolds.

³⁹And the Children of Machir son of Manasseh go to Gilead, and take it, and dispossess the Amorites who are in it. ⁴⁰And Moses giveth Gilead to Machir son of Manasseh, and he dwelleth in it.

⁴¹And Jair son of Manasseh hath gone and captureth their small towns, and calleth them Havoth-Jair. ⁴²And Nobah hath gone and captureth Kenath, and its villages, and calleth it Nobah, by his own name.

XXXIII. ¹THESE are the journeys of the Children of Israel who have come out of the land of Egypt, by their hosts, by the hand of Moses and Aaron. ²And Moses writeth their out-goings, by their journeys, by the command of the LORD; and these are their journeys, by their out-goings:

¹⁸ And they journey from Hazeroth, and they encamp in Rithmah. ¹⁹ And they journey from Rithmah, and encamp in Rimmon-Parez.

⁴¹ And they journey from mount Hor, and encamp in Zalmonah. ⁴² And they journey from Zalmonah, and encamp in Punon. ⁴³ And they journey from Punon, and encamp in Oboth.

⁴⁴ And they journey from Oboth, and they encamp in Ije-Abarim, in the border of Moab. ⁴⁵ And they journey from Ije, and encamp in Dibon-Gad.

⁴⁶ And they journey from Dibon-Gad, and encamp in Almon-Diblathaim. ⁴⁷ And they journey from Almon-Diblathaim, and encamp in the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo.

⁵⁵ And if ye dispossess not the inhabitants of the land from before you, then it hath been, those whom ye let remain of them, are for pricks in your eyes, and for thorns in your sides, and they have distressed you on the land in which ye dwell; ⁵⁶ and it hath come to pass, as I thought to do to them, I do to you.

XXXIV. ¹ AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ² Command the Children of Israel: then hast thou said unto them, When ye are coming in unto the land of Canaan (this is the land which falleth to you by inheritance, the land of Canaan, by its borders), ³ then the south quarter hath been to you from the wilderness of Zin, by the sides of Edom, yea, the south border hath been to you from the extremity of the Salt Sea, eastward; ⁴ and the border hath turned round to you from the south to the ascent of Akrabbim, and hath passed on to Zin, and its outgoings have been from the south to Kadesh-Barnea, and it hath gone out at Hazar-Addar, and hath passed on to Azmon; ⁵ and the border hath turned round from Azmon to the brook of Egypt, and its outgoings have been at the sea.

⁶ As to the west border, even the great sea hath been to you a border; this is to you the west border.

⁷ And this is to you the north border: from the great sea ye mark out for yourselves mount Hor; ⁸ from mount Hor ye mark out to go in to Hamath, and the outgoings of the border have been to Zedad; ⁹and the border hath gone out to Ziphron, and its outgoings have been at Hazar-Enan; this is to you the north border.

¹⁰And ye have marked out for yourselves for the border eastward from Hazar-Enan to Shepham; ¹¹and the border hath gone down from Shepham to Riblah, at the east of Ain; and the border hath gone down, and hath smitten against the shoulder of the sea of Chinnereth eastward; ¹²and the border hath gone down to the Jordan, and its outgoings have been at the Salt Sea: this is the land for you by its borders round about.

¹³And Moses commandeth the Children of Israel, saying, 'This is the land which ye inherit by lot, which the LORD hath commanded to give to the nine tribes and the half of the tribe; ¹⁴for the tribe of the Children of Reuben have received, by the house of their fathers; the tribe of the children of Gad also, by the house of their fathers; the half of the tribe of Manasseh also have received their inheritance; ¹⁵the two tribes and the half of the tribe have received their inheritance beyond the Jordan, near Jericho, eastward, at the sun-rising.'

²⁹These are those whom the LORD hath commanded to give the Children of Israel an inheritance in the land of Canaan.

XXXV. AND the LORD speaketh unto Moses, in the plains of Moab, by the Jordan, near Jericho, saying, ¹'Command the Children of Israel; then have they given to the Levites of the inheritance of their possession cities to inhabit: a suburb also for the cities round about them do ye give to the Levites. ²And the cities have been to them to inhabit; and their suburbs are for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beasts.

³And the suburbs of the cities which ye give to the Levites are, from the wall of the city and without, a thousand cubits round about. ⁴And ye have measured from the outside of the city, on the east quarter two thousand by the cubit, and on the south quarter two thousand by the cubit, and on the west quarter two thousand by the cubit, and on the north quarter two thousand by the cubit; and the city is in the midst; this is the suburb of their cities.

⁸And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, saying, ⁹'Speak unto the Children of Israel: then hast thou said unto them, When ye are passing over the Jordan to the land of Canaan, ¹⁰and have prepared for yourselves cities—cities of refuge are they to you—then hath the man-slayer fled thither, who smiteth a person unawares, ¹¹and the cities have been to you for a refuge from the redeemer, and the man-slayer dieth not till his standing before the company for judgment.

¹⁵And if with an instrument of iron he hath smitten him, that he die, he is a murderer: the murderer is certainly put to death.

¹⁶And if with a stone in the hand, wherewith he dieth, he hath smitten him, he is a murderer: the murderer is certainly put to death.

¹⁷Or with a wooden instrument in the hand, wherewith he dieth, he hath smitten him, that he die, he is a murderer: the murderer is certainly put to death.

¹⁸The redeemer of blood himself doth put the murderer to death: in his coming against him he putteth him to death.

¹⁹And if in hatred he thrust him through, or hath cast anything at him by lying in wait that he die; ²⁰or in enmity he hath smitten him with his hand that he die; the smiter is certainly put to death; he is a murderer: the redeemer of blood doth put the murderer to death in his coming against him.

²¹But if, in an instant, without enmity, he hath thrust him through, or hath cast at him any instrument, without lying in wait; ²²or with any stone wherewith a man dieth, without seeing, and causeth it to fall upon him, that he die; and he is not his enemy, nor seeking his evil: ²⁴ then have the company judged between the smiter and the redeemer of blood, by these judgments.

²⁵ And the company have delivered the man-slayer out of the hand of the redeemer of blood, and the company have caused him to turn back unto the city of his refuge, whither he hath fled; and he hath dwelt in it till the death of the high priest, who hath been anointed with the holy oil.

XXXVI. AND the heads of the fathers of the families of the Children of Gilead son of Machir, son of Manassah, of the families of the sons of Joseph, come near, and speak before Moses, and before the princes, the heads of the fathers of the Children of Israel, and they say, 'The LORD hath commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the Children of Israel; and my lord hath been commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother to his daughters;

DEUTERONOMY.

CHAP. I. THESE are the words which Moses hath spoken unto all Israel, beyond the Jordan, in the wilderness, in the plain over-against the Red Sea, between Paran and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazereth, and Di-zahab; ²eleven days' journey from Horeb, the way of mount Seir, unto Kadesh-Barnea.

⁶The LORD our God hath spoken unto us in Horeb, saying, Ye have enough of dwelling in this mount; ⁷turn ye and journey, and go into the mount of the Amorite, and unto all its neighbouring places, in the plain, in the hill-country, and in the low country, and in the south, and in the haven of the sea, the land of the Canaanite, and of Lebanon, unto the great river, the river Euphrates; ⁸see, I have set the land before you; go in and possess the land which the LORD hath sworn to your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give to them, and to their seed after them.

⁹And I speak unto you at that time, saying, I am not able by myself to bear you: ¹⁰the LORD your God hath multiplied you, and lo, ye are to-day as the stars of the heavens for multitude: ¹¹the LORD, God of your fathers, add to you, as you are, a thousand times, and bless you as he hath spoken to you. ¹²How do I bear by myself your pressure, and your burden, and your strife? ¹³Give for yourselves men, wise and intelligent, and known of your tribes, and I set them for your heads: ¹⁴and ye answer me and say, It is good to do the thing which thou hast spoken.

¹⁵And I take the heads of your tribes, men wise and known, and I appoint them heads over you, princes of thousands, and princes of hundreds, and princes of fifties, and princes of tens, and authorities for your tribes.

¹⁸And we journey from Horeb, and we go through all that great and fearful wilderness which ye have seen; the way of the mount of the Amorite, as the LORD our God hath commanded us; and we come in unto Kadesh-Barnea.

²⁰And I say unto you, Ye have come in unto the mount of the Amorite which the LORD our God giveth to us; ²¹see, the LORD thy God hath set the land before thee: go up, possess, as the LORD, the God of thy fathers, hath spoken to thee; fear not, nor be affrighted.

²²And ye come near unto me, all of you, and say, Let us send men before us, and let them search the land for us, and let them bring us back word concerning the way we go up into it, and the cities unto which we come in. ²³And the thing is good in mine eyes, and I take twelve men of you, one man for a tribe.

²⁴And they turn and go up the hill-country, and come in unto the valley of Eschcol, and spy it; ²⁵and they take with their hand of the fruit of the land, and bring it down unto us, and bring us back word; and say, The land is good which the LORD our God giveth to us.

²⁶But ye have not been willing to go up, and ye provoke the mouth of the LORD your God. ²⁷And ye murmur in your tents, and say, In the LORD'S hating us hath He brought us out of the land of Egypt, to give us into the hand of the Amorite to destroy us. ²⁸Whither are we going up? our brethren have melted our heart, saying, The people is greater and taller than we, the cities are great and fenced to heaven, and also the Children of the Anakim have we seen there.

²⁹And I say unto you, Be not terrified, nor be afraid of them; ³⁰the LORD your God who goeth before you—He fighteth for you, according to all that He hath done with you in Egypt before your eyes, ³¹and in the wilderness where thou hast seen that the LORD thy God hath borne thee as a man beareth his son, in all the way which ye have gone, till your coming in unto this place.

³²Yet in this thing ye are not believers in the LORD your God, ³³who goeth before you in the way to search out for you a place for your encamping, in fire by night, to shew you in the way in which ye go, and in a cloud by day. ³⁴And the LORD heareth the voice of your words, and is wroth, and sweareth, saying, ³⁵Not one of these men of this evil generation doth see the good land which I have sworn to give to your fathers, ³⁶save Caleb son of Jephunneh,—he doth see it, and to him I give the land on which he hath trodden, and to his sons, because that he hath been fully after the LORD.

³⁷Also with me hath the LORD been angry for your sake, saying, Thou also dost not go in thither; ³⁸Joshua son of Nun, who standeth before thee, he goeth in thither: strengthen him; for he doth cause Israel to inherit. ³⁹ And your infants, of whom ye have said, 'They are for a prey, and your children who have not known to-day good or evil, they go in thither, and to them I give it, and they do possess it; ⁴⁰ but ye, turn for yourselves, and journey towards the wilderness, the way of the Red Sea.

⁴¹ And ye answer and say unto me, 'We have sinned against the LORD: we go up, then have we fought, according to all that which the LORD our God hath commanded us; and ye gird on each his weapons of war, and ye are ready to go up into the hill-country. ⁴² And the LORD saith unto me, 'Say to them, 'Go not up, nor fight, for I am not in your midst, that ye be not smitten before your enemies.'

⁴³ And I speak unto you, and ye have not hearkened, and provoke the mouth of the LORD, and act proudly, and go up into the hill: ⁴⁴ and the Amorite who dwelleth in that hill cometh out to meet you, and they pursue you as the bees do, and smite you in Seir, unto Hormah. ⁴⁵ And ye turn back and weep before the LORD, and the LORD hath not hearkened to your voice, nor hath He given ear unto you.

⁴⁶ And ye dwell in Kadesh many days, according to the days which ye had dwelt.

II. ¹ AND we turn, and journey into the wilderness, the way of the Red Sea, as the LORD hath spoken unto me, and we go round the mount of Seir many days.

² And the LORD speaketh unto me, saying, ³ Sufficient for you is the going round of this mount; turn for yourselves northward.

¹⁰ The Emim formerly have dwelt in it, a people great and numerous, and tall as the Anakim: ¹¹ Rephaim they are reckoned, they also, as the Anakim; and the Moabites call them Emim. ¹² And in Seir have the Horim dwelt formerly: but the Children of Esau dispossess them, and destroy them from before them, and dwell in their stead, as Israel hath done to the land of its possession, which the LORD hath given to them.

¹³ Now, rise ye, and pass over for yourselves the brook Zered; and we pass over the brook Zered. ¹⁴ And the days which we have walked from Kadesh-Barnea until that we have passed over the brook Zered, are thirty and eight years, till the consumption of all the generation of the men of battle from the midst of the camp, as the LORD had sworn to them. ¹⁵ And also the hand of the LORD hath been against them, to destroy them from the midst of the camp, till they are consumed.

and strengthened his heart, so as to give him into thy hand, as at this day.

³¹ And the LORD saith unto me, See, I have begun to give before thee Sihon and his land; begin to possess, to possess his land.

³² And Sihon cometh out to meet us, he and all his people, to the battle at Jahaz; and the LORD our God giveth him before us, and we smite him, and his children, and all his people. ³³ And we capture all his cities at that time, and devote the whole of each city, the men, and the women, and the infants: we have not left a remnant.

III. ¹ AND we turn, and go up the way to Bashan, and Og king of Bashan cometh out to meet us, he and all his people, to the battle, at Edrei.

² And the LORD saith unto me, Fear him not, for into thy hand have I given him, and all his people, and his land; then hast thou done to him as thou hast done to Sihon king of the Amorite who dwelleth in Heshbon.

³ And the LORD our God giveth into our hands also Og king of Bashan, and all his people, and we smite him till there hath not been left to him a remnant. ⁴ And we capture all his cities at that time: there hath not been a city which we have not taken from them, sixty cities, all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. ⁵ All these are cities fenced with high walls, two-leaved doors and bars, besides cities of villages very many. ⁶ And we devote them, as we have done to Sihon king of Heshbon, devoting every city, the men, the women, and the infants. ⁷ And all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities, have we spoiled for ourselves.

and its cities, I have given to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites. ¹³ And the rest of Gilead and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og, have I given to the half tribe of Manasseh; all the region of Argob, even all that Bashan, called the land of the Rephaim.

¹⁸ And I command you, at that time, saying, The LORD your God hath given to you this land to possess it; armed do ye pass over before your brethren the Children of Israel, all the sons of might. ¹⁹ Only, your wives, and your infants, and your cattle (I have known that ye have much cattle), do dwell in your cities which I have given to you. ²⁰ Till the LORD give rest to your brethren like yourselves, and they also have possessed the land which the LORD your God hath given to them beyond the Jordan, then have ye turned back each to his possession, which I have given to you.

²¹ And Joshua have I commanded at that time, saying, Thine eyes see all that which the LORD your God hath done to these two kings—so doth the LORD to all the kingdoms whither thou passest over. ²² Fear them not, for the LORD your God, He is fighting for you.

²⁶ And the LORD sheweth himself wroth with me, for your sake, and hath not hearkened unto me, and the LORD saith unto me, Enough for thee; add not to speak unto Me any more about this matter. ²⁷ Go up to the top of Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward, and see with thine eyes—for thou dost not pass over this Jordan. ²⁸ And charge Joshua, and strengthen him, and harden him, for he passeth over before this people, and he causeth them to inherit the land which thou seest.

IV. ¹ AND now, O Israel, hearken unto the statutes, and unto the judgments which I teach you to do, so that ye live, and have gone in, and possessed the land which the LORD God of your fathers giveth to you. ²Ye shall not add to the word which I command you, nor diminish from it, to keep the commands of the LORD your God which I command you.

³Your eyes see that which the LORD hath done in Baal-Peor, for every man who hath gone up after Baal-Peor hath the LORD thy God destroyed from your midst. ⁴And ye who cleave to the LORD your God are alive, all of you, to-day.

⁵See, I have taught you statutes and judgments, as the LORD my God hath commanded me,—to do so in the midst of the land whither ye are going in to possess it. ⁶When ye have kept and done them (for it is your wisdom and your understanding) before the eyes of the people who hear all these statutes, then they have said, Only this great nation is a wise and understanding people.

⁷For which is the great nation which hath God near unto it, as the LORD our God, according to all we have called unto him? ⁸And which is the great nation which hath righteous statutes and judgments according to all this law which I set before you to-day?

⁹Only, take heed to thyself, and watch thyself exceedingly, lest thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they turn aside from thy heart, all the days of thy life; thou hast also made them known to thy children, and to thy children's children. ¹⁰The day when thou hast stood before the LORD thy God in Horeb,—in the LORD's saying unto me, Congregate to Me the people, and I cause them to hear My words, that they learn to fear Me all the days that they live on the ground, and teach their children,—¹¹and ye do draw near and stand under the mountain, and the mountain is burning unto the heart of heaven—darkness, clouds, yea, thick darkness;

¹⁴And me hath the LORD commanded at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, for your doing them in the land whither ye are passing over to possess it: ¹⁵and ye have been very watchful of yourselves, for ye have not seen any similitude in the day of the LORD's speaking unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire, ¹⁶lest ye do corruptly, and have made to yourselves a graven image, the similitude of any figure, the form of male or female,—¹⁷the form of any beast which is on the earth,—the form of any winged bird which flieth in the heavens,—¹⁸the form of any creeping thing on the ground,—the form of any fish which is in the waters under the earth:

¹⁹And lest thou lift up thine eyes towards the heavens, and hast seen the sun, and the moon, and the stars, all the host of the heavens, and hast been forced, and hast bowed thyself to them, and hast served them, whom the LORD thy God hath apportioned to all the peoples under the whole heavens.

²⁰But you hath the LORD taken, and He bringeth you out from the iron furnace, from Egypt, to be to Him for a people—an inheritance, as at this day.

²¹And the LORD hath shewed himself wroth with me because of your words, and sweareth to my not passing over the Jordan, and to my not going in unto the good land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee—an inheritance. ²²For I die in this land: I do not pass over the Jordan; but ye do pass over, then have ye possessed this good land.

²³Take heed to yourselves, lest ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which He hath made with you, and have made to yourselves a graven image, a similitude of anything concerning which the LORD thy God hath charged thee: ²⁴for the LORD thy God is a consuming fire—a zealous God.

²⁹When ye have sought from thence the LORD thy God, then hast thou found, when thou seekest Him with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, ³⁰in distress being to thee, when all these things have found thee, in the latter end of the days, when thou hast turned back unto the LORD thy God, and hast hearkened to His voice: ³¹for a merciful God is the LORD thy God: He doth not fail thee, nor destroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers, which He hath sworn to them.

³²For, ask, I pray thee, of the former days which have been before thee, even from the day that God hath prepared man on the earth, and even from the one end of the heavens even unto the other end of the heavens, whether there hath been as this great thing—or hath been heard like it? ³³Hath a people heard the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, thou—and doth live? ³⁴Or hath God tried to go in to take to Himself, a nation from the midst of a nation, by trials, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a strong hand, and by a stretched-out arm, and by great fears—according to all that the LORD your God hath done to you, in Egypt, before your eyes? ²⁵Thou, thou hast been shewn it, to know that the LORD He is God; there is none else beside Him.

²⁶Out of the heavens hath He caused thee to hear His voice, to instruct thee; and on earth He hath shewed thee His great fire; and His words thou hast heard out of the midst of the fire.

²⁹And thou hast known to-day, and hast turned it back unto thy heart, that the LORD He is God, in the heavens above, and on the earth beneath; there is none else: ³⁰and thou hast kept His statutes and His commands which I command thee to-day, so that it is well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and so that thou longest days on the ground which the LORD thy God is giving to thee—continually.

³³And this is the law which Moses hath set before the Children of Israel: ³⁴these are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which Moses hath spoken unto the Children of Israel, in their coming out of Egypt: ³⁵beyond the Jordan, in the valley over-against Beth-Peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorite who dwelleth in Heshbon, whom Moses and the Children of Israel have smitten, in their coming out of Egypt, ³⁶and they possess his land; and the land of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, who are beyond the Jordan, towards the sun-rising: ³⁷From Aroer, which is by the edge of the brook of Arnon, even unto mount Sion, which is Hebron, ³⁸and all the plain beyond the Jordan eastward, even unto the sea of the plain, under the springs of Pisgal.

V. ¹AND Moses calleth unto all Israel, and saith unto them, 'Hear, O Israel, the statutes and the judgments which I speak in your ears to-day, then have ye learned them, and observed to do them. ²The LORD our God hath made with us a covenant in Horeb; ³not with our fathers hath the LORD made this covenant, but with us; we—these—here to-day—all of us alive. ⁴Face to face hath the LORD spoken with you, in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, ⁵[ am standing between the LORD and you, at that time, to declare to you the word of the LORD, for ye have been afraid from the presence of the fire, and ye have not gone up unto the mount], saying:

⁶'I am the LORD thy God, who hath brought thee out from the land of Egypt, from the house of servants.

⁷'Thou shalt not have other gods in My presence.

¹¹'Thou shalt not take up the Name of the LORD thy God for a vain thing, for the LORD doth not acquit him who taketh up His Name for a vain thing.

¹²'Observe the sabbath-day to sanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee: ¹³six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work, ¹⁴and the seventh day is a sabbath to the LORD thy God; thou shalt not do any work, thou, or thy son, or thy daughter, or thy man-servant, or thy hand-maid, or thine ox, or thine ass, or any of thy cattle, or thy sojourner who is within thy gates; so that thy man-servant, and thy hand-maid do rest like thyself; ¹⁵seeing thou hast remembered that thou hast been a servant in the land of Egypt, that the LORD thy God bringeth thee out from thence by a strong hand, and by a stretched-out arm; therefore hath the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the sabbath-day.

¹⁶'Honour thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee, so that thy days are prolonged, and so that it is well with thee, on the ground which the LORD thy God is giving to thee.

¹⁷'Thou shalt not murder,

¹⁸'Thou shalt not commit adultery.

¹⁹'Thou shalt not steal.

²⁰'Thou shalt not answer against thy neighbour a false testimony.

²¹'Thou shalt not desire thy neighbour's wife; nor shalt thou covet thy neighbour's house, his field, or his man-servant, or his hand-maid, his ox, or his ass, or anything which is thy neighbour's.

²²'These words hath the LORD spoken unto all your congregation, in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkness; a great voice, and He hath not added, and He writeth them on two tables of stone, and giveth them unto me.

²³'And it cometh to pass as ye hear the voice out of the midst of the darkness, and of the mountain burning with fire, that ye come near unto me, all the heads of your tribes, and your elders, ²⁴and ye say, Lo, the LORD our God hath shewed us His honour, and His greatness; and His voice have we heard out of the midst of the fire: this day we have seen that God doth speak with man—yet he liveth. ²² And, now, why should we die? for this great fire consumeth us:—if we add to hear the voice of the LORD our God any more—then have we died. ²³ For who of all flesh is he who hath heard the voice of the living God speaking out of the midst of the fire like us—and doth live? ²⁴ Draw thou near, and hear all that which the LORD our God saith; then thou, thou dost speak unto us all that which the LORD our God speaketh unto thee, and we have hearkened, and we have done it.

²⁵ And the LORD heareth the voice of your words, in your speaking unto me, and the LORD saith unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people which they have spoken unto thee: they have done well in all that they have spoken: ²⁶ O that their heart had been thus within them, to fear Me, and to keep all My commands continually, that it may be well with them, and with their children for ever!

²⁷ Go, say to them, Turn ye back for yourselves to your tents: ²⁸ and thou, stand thou here with Me, and let Me speak unto thee all the command, and the statutes, and the judgments which thou dost teach them, and they have done in the land which I am giving to them to possess it.

²⁹ And ye have observed to do as the LORD your God hath commanded you, ye turn not aside to the right or to the left. ³⁰ In all the way which the LORD your God hath commanded you do ye walk, so that ye live, and it is well with you, and ye have prolonged days in the land which ye possess. VI. ¹ AND this is the command, the statutes, and the judgments which the LORD your God hath commanded to teach you, to do in the land which ye are passing over thither to possess it, ² that thou mayest fear the LORD thy God, to keep all His statutes and His commands, which I command thee, thou, and thy son, and thy son's son, all the days of thy life, and that thy days may be prolonged.

³ Hear then, O Israel, and observe to do, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest multiply exceedingly, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath spoken to thee, in the land flowing with milk and honey.

¹⁰ Then it hath been when the LORD thy God bringeth thee in unto the land which He hath sworn to thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give to thee great and good cities which thou hast not built, ¹¹ and houses full of all good things which thou hast not filled, and wells digged which thou hast not digged, vineyards and olive-yards which thou hast not planted, that thou hast eaten, and been satisfied.

²⁰ When thy son asketh thee hereafter, saying, What are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments which the LORD our God hath commanded you? ²¹ then hast thou said to thy son, We have been servants to Pharaoh in Egypt, and the LORD bringeth us out of Egypt by a high hand; ²² and the LORD giveth signs and wonders, great and sad, on Egypt, on Pharaoh, and on all his house, before our eyes. ²³ And us hath He brought out from thence, in order to bring us in, to give to us the land which He had sworn to our fathers. ²⁴ And the LORD commandeth us to do all these statutes, to fear the LORD our God, for good to ourselves continually, to keep us alive, as at this day. ²⁵ And it is righteousness for us, when we observe to do all this command before the LORD our God, as He hath commanded us.

VII. ¹ WHEN the LORD thy God bringeth thee in unto the land whither thou goest in to possess it, and He hath cast out many nations from thy presence, the Hittite, and the Girsasbite, and the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite, seven nations more numerous and mighty than thou; ² and the LORD thy God hath given them before thee, and thou hast smitten them; thou dost utterly devote them: thou dost not make a covenant with them; nor dost thou favour them.

³ And thou dost not join in marriage with them: thy daughter thou dost not give to his son; and his daughter thou dost not take for thy son: ⁴ when they turn aside thy son from after Me, then have they served other gods, and the anger of the LORD hath burned against you, and hath destroyed thee hastily.

5 'But thus dost thou deal with them; their altars thou dost break down, and their standing pillars thou dost shiver, and their shrines thou dost cut down, and their graven images thou dost burn with fire. 6 'For a holy people art thou to the LORD thy God; on thee hath the LORD thy God fixed, to be to Him for a peculiar people, above all the peoples who are on the face of the ground.

7 'Not because of your being more numerous than any of the peoples hath the LORD delighted in you, and fixeth on you, for years the least of all the peoples; 8 but because of the LORD's loving you, yea, because of His keeping the oath which He hath sworn to your fathers hath the LORD brought you out by a strong hand, and doth ransom you from the house of servants, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

9 'When thou hast known that the LORD thy God He is God, the faithful God, keeping the covenant, and the kindness for those who love Him, and for those who keep His commands, to a thousand generations, 10 and repaying to those who hate Him, unto their face, to destroy them; He delayeth not to him who hateth Him, unto his face; He repayeth to him;—11 then hast thou kept the command, and the statutes, and the judgments, which I command thee to-day to do them.

12 'And it hath been, because ye hear these judgments, and have kept and done them, that the LORD thy God hath kept for thee the covenant and the kindness which He hath sworn to thy fathers, 13 and hath loved thee, and hath blessed thee, and hath multiplied thee, and hath blessed the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy ground; thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil; the increase of thine oxen, and the wealth of thy flock, on the ground which He hath sworn to thy fathers to give to thee.

14 'Blessed art thou above all the peoples; there is not in thee a barren man or barren woman—not among your cattle. 15 And the LORD hath turned aside from thee every sickness, and none of the evil diseases of Egypt (which thou knowest) doth He put on thee, but hath put them on all who hate thee.

16 'And thou hast consumed all the peoples whom the LORD thy God is giving to thee, thine eye hath no pity on them, and thou dost not serve their gods, for it is a snare for thee.

17 'When thou sayest in thine heart, These nations are more numerous than I; how am I able to dispossess them? 18 Thou shalt not be afraid of them; thou shalt surely remember that which the LORD thy God hath done to Pharaoh, and to all Egypt; 19 the great trials which thine eyes have seen, and the signs, and the wonders, and the strong hand, and the stretched-out arm, wherewith the LORD thy God hath brought thee out;—so doth the LORD thy God to all the peoples of whose presence thou art afraid. 20 And the locust also doth the LORD thy God send among them, till the destruction of those who are left, and of those who are hidden from thy presence. 21 Thou shalt not be terrified at their presence, for the LORD thy God in thy midst is a great and fearful God.

22 'When the LORD thy God hath cast out those nations from thy presence, little by little (thou art not able to consume them hastily, lest the beast of the field multiply against thee), 23 and the LORD thy God hath given them before thee, and hath destroyed them—a mighty destruction—till their destruction; 24 then hath He given their kings into thy hand, and thou hast destroyed their name from under the heavens; no man doth station himself before thy face till thou hast destroyed them.

25 'The graven images of their gods ye do burn with fire; thou dost not desire the silver and gold on them, nor hast taken it to thyself, lest thou be snared by it, for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God. 26 And thou dost not bring in an abomination unto thy house—or thou hast been devoted like it;—thou dost utterly detest it, and thou dost utterly abominate it; for it is devoted.

VIII. 1 'ALL the command which I command thee to-day shall ye observe to do, so that ye live and have multiplied, and have gone in, and have possessed the land which the LORD hath sworn to your fathers: 2 and thou hast remembered all the way which the LORD thy God hath caused thee to go these forty years in the wilderness, in order to humble thee, to try thee, to know that which is in thy heart, whether thou dost keep His commands or not.

3 'Yea, he humbleth thee, and causeth thee to hunger, and causeth thee to eat the manna (which thou hast not known, thy fathers also have not known), in order to cause thee to know that not by bread alone doth man live, but by every produce of the mouth of the LORD doth man live. 4 Thy raiment hath not worn out from off thee, and thy foot hath not swelled these forty years; 5 and thou hast known, in thy heart, that as a man chastiseth his son the LORD thy God chastiseth thee; 6 and thou hast kept the commands of the LORD thy God, to walk in His ways, and to fear Him.

7 'For the LORD thy God is bringing thee in unto a good land, a land of brooks of waters, of fountains, and of depths coming out in the valley and in the mountains: 8 a land of wheat, and barley, and vine, and fig, and pomegranate; a land of oil olive and honey; 9 a land in which thou eatest bread without scarcity; thou dost not lack anything in it; a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose mountains thou dost dig brass. 10 And thou hast eaten, and hast been satisfied, and thou hast blessed the LORD thy God, for the good land which he hath given to thee.

11 'Take heed to thyself, lest thou forget the LORD thy God so as not to keep His commands, and His judgments, and His statutes which I command thee to-day: ¹³lest thou eat, and hast been satisfied, and build good houses, and hast inhabited them; ¹⁴and thy herd and thy flock be multiplied, and silver and gold be multiplied to thee; and all that is thine be multiplied:

¹⁵And thy heart hath been high, and thou hast forgotten the LORD thy God (who bringeth thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants: ¹⁶who causeth thee to go in the great and the terrible wilderness—burning serpents, and scorpions, and thirst—where there is no water; who bringeth out to thee waters from the flinty rock; ¹⁷who causeth thee to eat manna in the wilderness, which thy fathers have not known, in order to humble thee, and in order to try thee, to do thee good in thy latter end), ¹⁸and thou hast said in thy heart, My power and the might of my hand hath made for me all this wealth:

¹⁹But thou hast remembered the LORD thy God, for it is He who giveth to thee power to make wealth, in order to establish His covenant which He hath sworn to thy fathers as at this day.

IX. ¹HEAR, O Israel, thou art passing over the Jordan to-day, to go in to possess nations greater and mightier than thyself; cities great and fenced unto the heavens. ²A people great and tall, the Children of the Anakim, whom thou hast known; (thou also, thou hast heard: Who doth station himself before the Children of Anak?) ³Yea, thou hast known, to-day, that the LORD thy God is He who is passing over before thee—a consuming fire: He doth destroy them, and He doth humble them before thee, and thou hast dispossessed them, and hast destroyed them hastily, as the LORD hath spoken to thee.

⁴Thou shalt not speak in thy heart in the LORD thy God's driving them away from before thee, saying, For my righteousness hath the LORD brought me in to possess this land, seeing for the wickedness of these nations is the LORD dispossessing them from thy presence; ⁵not for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thy heart, art thou going in to possess their land; but for the wickedness of these nations is the LORD thy God dispossessing them from before thee; and in order to establish the word which the LORD hath sworn to thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob. ⁶And thou hast known, that not for thy righteousness is the LORD thy God giving to thee this good land to possess it, for thou art a stiff-necked people.

⁷Remember—forget not—that with which thou hast made the LORD thy God wroth in the wilderness; even from the day that thou hast come out of the land of Egypt till thy coming in unto this place ye have been rebels with the LORD: ⁸even in Horeb ye have made the LORD wroth, and the LORD sheweth Himself angry against you—to destroy you.

⁹In my going up into the mount to receive the tables of stone (the tables of the covenant which the LORD hath made with you), then I abide in the mount forty days and forty nights; bread I have not eaten, and water I have not drunk. ¹⁰And the LORD giveth unto me the two tables of stone written with the finger of God, and on them according to all the words which the LORD hath spoken with you in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, in the day of the congregation.

¹³Yea, the LORD speaketh unto me, saying, I have seen this people, and lo, it is a stiff-necked people; ¹⁴desist from Me, and let Me destroy them, and blot out their name from under the heavens, and let Me make thee become a nation more mighty and numerous than it.

¹⁵And I turn, and come down from the mount, and the mount is burning with fire, and the two tables of the covenant are in my two hands. ¹⁶And I see, and lo, ye have sinned against the LORD your God; ye have made to yourselves a molten calf; ye have turned aside hastily out of the way which the LORD hath commanded you.

¹⁷And I lay hold on the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and break them before your eyes; ¹⁸and I throw myself before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights; bread I have not eaten, and water I have not drunk, because of all your sins which ye have sinned, by doing the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, to make him angry.

¹⁹For I have been afraid because of the anger and the fury wherewith the LORD hath been wroth against you, to destroy you; but the LORD hearkeneth unto me also at this time.

²⁰And with Aaron hath the LORD shewed himself very angry, to destroy him, and I pray also for Aaron at that time; ²¹and your sin, which ye have made, the calf, have I taken, and I burn it with fire, and heat it, grinding well till it is small as dust, and I cast its dust unto the brook which goeth down out of the mount.

²²And in Taberah, and in Massah, and in Kibroth-Hattavah, ye have been making the LORD wroth; ²³and in the LORD's sending you from Kadesh-Barnea, saying,

Go up, and possess the land which I have given to you, then do ye provoke the mouth of the LORD your God, and have not given credence to Him, and have not hearkened to His voice; ²¹ye have been rebels with the LORD from the day of my knowing you.

²²And I throw myself before the LORD, the forty days and the forty nights, as I had thrown myself, for the LORD hath spoken of destroying you; ²³and I pray unto the LORD, and say, O Lord Jehovah, destroy not Thy people, and Thy inheritance, whom Thou hast ransomed through Thy greatness; whom Thou hast brought out of Egypt with a strong hand; ²⁴be mindful of Thy servants, of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob; turn not unto the stiffness of this people, or unto its wickedness, or unto its sin; ²⁵lest the land from which Thou hast brought us out say, Because of the LORD's want of ability to bring them in unto the land of which He hath spoken to them, and because of His hating them, hath He brought them out to put them to death in the wilderness.—²⁶yet they are Thy people, and Thine inheritance, whom Thou hast brought out by Thy great power, and by Thy stretched-out arm.

X. ¹AT that time hath the LORD said unto me, Grave for thyself two tables of stone, like the first; and come up unto Me, into the mount; thou hast also made for thyself an ark of wood; ²when I write on the tables the words which were on the first tables, which thou hast broken, then hast thou placed them in the ark. ³And I make an ark of shittim wood, and grave two tables of stone like the first, and I go up to the mount, and the two tables in my hand.

⁴And He writeth on the tables, according to the first writing, the Ten Matters which the LORD hath spoken unto you in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, in the day of the congregation; and the LORD giveth them unto me; ⁵and I turn and come down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I made, and they are there, as the LORD commanded me.

⁸At that time hath the LORD separated the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to stand before the LORD to serve Him, and to bless in His name, unto this day; ⁹therefore there hath not been to Levi a portion or inheritance with his brethren; the LORD Himself is his inheritance, as the LORD thy God hath spoken to him.

¹⁰And I, I have remained in the mount, as the former days, forty days and forty nights; and the LORD hearkened unto me also at this time; the LORD hath not willed to destroy thee.

¹¹And the LORD saith unto me, Rise, go to journey before the people, and let them go in and possess the land which I have sworn to their fathers to give to them.

¹²And now, O Israel, what is the LORD thy God asking from thee, save to fear the LORD thy God, to walk in all His ways, and to love Him, and to serve the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul; ¹³to keep the commands of the LORD, and His statutes which I command thee to-day, for good to thyself?

¹⁴Lo, to the LORD thy God are the heavens and the heavens of heavens, the earth and all that is in it; ¹⁵only in thy fathers hath the LORD delighted to love them, and He doth fix on their seed after them—on you, above all the peoples, as at this day; ¹⁶when ye have circumcised the foreskin of your heart, then your neck ye do not harden any more; ¹⁷for the LORD your God—He is God of gods, and Lord of lords; God, the great, the mighty, the fearful; who accepteth not persons, nor taketh a bribe. ¹⁸He doeth the judgment of the fatherless and widow, and loveth the sojourner, to give to him bread and raiment.

¹⁹And ye have loved the sojourner, for ye were sojourners in the land of Egypt.

XI. ¹WHEN thou hast loved the LORD thy God, then hast thou kept His charge, and His statutes, and His judgments, and His commands continually; ²and ye have known this day—for I speak not with your children who have not known, and who have not seen the chastisement of the LORD your God, His greatness, His strong hand, and His stretched-out arm, ³and His signs and His works which He hath done in the midst of Egypt, to Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to all his land; ⁴and that which He hath done to the force of Egypt, to its horses, and to its chariots, when He hath caused the waters of the Red Sea to flow before their faces in their pursuing after them, and the LORD destroyeth them, unto this day; ⁵also that which He hath done to you in the wilderness, till your coming unto this place. ⁶And that which He hath done to Dathan, and to Abiram, sons of Eliab, sons of Reuben, when the earth hath opened her mouth and swallowed them, and their houses, and their tents, and all which liveth, which is at their feet, in the midst of all Israel;

⁷—But it is your eyes which see all the great work of the LORD, which He hath done. ⁸When ye have kept all the command which I command thee to-day, so that ye are strong, then have ye gone in, and possessed the land whither ye are passing over to possess it, and so that ye prolong days on the ground which the LORD hath sworn to your fathers to give to them and to their seed—a land flowing with milk and honey.

¹³ And it hath been—if thou hearken diligently unto my commands which I command thee to-day, to love the LORD your God, and to serve Him with all your heart and with all your soul—¹⁴ then have I given the rain of your land in its season (the sprinkling and the gathered), and thou hast gathered thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil; ¹⁵ and I have given herbs in thy field for thy cattle: and thou hast eaten, and hast been satisfied.

¹⁸ When ye have placed these my words in your heart, and in your soul, then have ye bound them for a sign on your hand, and they have been for frontlets between your eyes: ¹⁹ and ye have taught them your children, by speaking of them in thy sitting in thy house, and in thy going in the way, and in thy lying down, and in thy rising up: ²⁰ and thou hast written them on the side-posts of thy house, and on thy gates, ²¹ so that your days are multiplied, the days of your children also, on the land which the LORD hath sworn to your fathers to give to them, as the days of the heavens on the earth.

²² For if ye diligently keep all this command which I command you to do it, to love the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways, and to cleave to Him: ²³ then hath the LORD dispossessed all these nations from before you, and ye have possessed nations, greater and mightier than yourselves: ²⁴ every place on which the sole of your foot treadeth is yours: from the wilderness and Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the farthest sea is your border: ²⁵ no man doth station himself in your presence; your dread and your fear doth the LORD your God put on the face of all the land on which ye tread, as He hath spoken to you.

²⁸ and the cursing, if ye do not hearken unto the command of the LORD your God, and have turned aside out of the way which I command you to-day, by going after other gods which ye have not known.

²⁹ And it hath been, when the LORD thy God bringeth thee in unto the land whither thou art going in to possess it, that thou hast put the blessing on mount Gerizim, and the cursing on mount Ebal: ³⁰ are they not beyond the Jordan, behind the way of the going in of the sun, in the land of the Canaanite, who dwelleth in the plain over-against Gilgal, near the oaks of Moreh?

XII. ¹ THESE are the statutes and the judgments which ye observe to do in the land which the LORD, God of thy fathers, hath given to thee to possess it, all the days that ye live on the ground. ² Ye do utterly destroy all the places whither the nations ye are dispossessing have served their gods, on the high mountains, and on the heights, and under every flourishing tree. ³ And ye have broken down their altars, and have shivered their standing pillars, and their shrines ye do burn with fire, and the graven images of their gods ye cut down, and have destroyed their name out of that place.

⁴ Ye do not so to the LORD your God: ⁵ but unto the place which the LORD your God chooseth out of all your tribes to put His name there, to His tabernacle ye do seek, and thither hast thou entered: ⁶ and thou hast brought in thither your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and your vows, and your free-will offerings, and the firstling of your herd and of your flock: ⁷ and ye have eaten there before the LORD your God, and ye have rejoiced in every putting forth of your hand, ye, and your households, with which the LORD thy God hath blessed thee.

¹¹ Then it hath been, the place on which the LORD your God fixeth to cause His name to tabernacle there, thither do ye bring in all that which I am commanding thee, your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all the choice of your vows which ye vow to the LORD. ¹² And ye have rejoiced before the LORD your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters, and your men-servants, and your hand-maids, and the Levite who is within your gates; for he hath no part or inheritance with you.

¹³ Take heed to thyself, lest thou cause thy burnt-offerings to ascend in any place which thou seest: ¹⁴ gave in the place which the LORD chooseth in one of thy tribes, there dost thou cause thy burnt-offering to ascend, and there thou dost all that which I am commanding thee.

¹⁹ Take heed to thyself lest thou forsake the Levite all thy days on thy ground.

²⁰ When the LORD thy God doth enlarge thy border, as He hath spoken to thee, and thou hast said, Let me eat flesh (for thy soul desireth to eat flesh), of all the desire of thy soul thou dost eat flesh. ²¹ When the place which the LORD thy God chooseth to put His name there is far from thee, then hast thou sacrificed of thy herd and of thy flock which the LORD hath given to thee, as I have commanded thee, and thou hast eaten within thy gates of all the desire of thy soul; ²² only as the roe and the hart is eaten, so dost thou eat it; the unclean or the clean doth alike eat it.

²⁹ When the LORD thy God cutteth off the nations, whither thou art going in to possess them, from thy presence, and thou hast possessed them, and hast dwelt in their land,—³⁰ take heed to thyself, lest thou be snared after them, after their being destroyed out of thy presence; and lest thou inquire of their gods, saying, How do these nations serve their gods, that I may do so, even I?

XIII. ¹ WHEN there ariseth in your midst a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and he hath given unto thee a sign or wonder; ² and the sign or the wonder come which he hath spoken of unto thee, saying, Let us go after other gods (which thou hast not known), and let us serve them, ³ thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or unto that dreamer of the dream, for the LORD your God trieth you, to know whether ye are loving the LORD your God with all your heart, and with all your soul. ⁴ After the LORD your God shall ye walk, and Him shall ye fear, and His commands shall ye keep, and to His voice shall ye hearken, and Him shall ye serve, and to Him shall ye cleave.

⁵ And that prophet, or that dreamer of the dream, is surely put to death, for he hath spoken apostasy against the LORD your God (who is bringing you out of the land of Egypt, and hath ransomed you out of the house of servants), to drive you out of the way in which the LORD thy God hath commanded thee to walk; then thou hast put away the evil thing from thy midst.

⁶ When thy brother—son of thy mother, or thy son, or thy daughter, or the wife of thy bosom, or thy friend who is as thine own soul—moveth thee in secret, saying, Let us go and let us worship other gods—(which thou hast not known, thou or thy fathers, of the gods of the peoples who are round about you, who are near unto thee, or who are far off from thee, from the one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth)—⁷ thou shalt not consent to him, nor shalt thou hearken unto him, nor shall thine eye have pity on him, nor shalt thou spare, nor shalt thou cover him over.

their city, saying, Let us go and let us serve other gods, which ye have not known,—¹⁴and thou hast inquired, and searched, and asked diligently, and lo, truth; the thing is established: this abomination hath been done in thy midst;

¹⁵Thou dost surely smite the inhabitants of that city by the edge of the sword; devoting it, and all that is in it, even its cattle, by the edge of the sword. ¹⁶And all its spoil thou dost gather unto the midst of its broad place, and hast burned with fire the city and all its spoil completely before the LORD thy God, and it hath been an everlasting heap: it is not built any more. ¹⁷And there doth not cleave to thy hand any of the devoted thing, so that the LORD turneth back from the fierceness of His anger, and hath given mercies to thee, and hath loved thee, and hath multiplied thee, as He hath sworn to thy fathers, ¹⁸when thou dost hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep all His commands which I am commanding thee to-day, to do that which is right in the eyes of the LORD thy God.

XIV. ¹YE are the children to the LORD your God; ye do not cut yourselves, nor do ye make baldness between your eyes for the dead. ²For a holy people art thou to the LORD thy God, and on thee hath the LORD fixed to be to Him for a people, a peculiar treasure, above all the peoples who are on the face of the ground.

⁷Only, this ye do not eat: of those who bring up the cud, or of those who divide the cloven hoof: the camel, and the hare, and the rabbit, for they bring up the cud, but the hoof have not divided; they are unclean to you; ⁸and the sow, though it divideth the hoof, yet it bringeth not up the cud, it is unclean to you; of their flesh ye do not eat, and against their carcase ye do not come.

⁹This do ye eat of all that are in the waters; all which hath fins and scales do ye eat. ¹⁰And any which hath not fins and scales ye do not eat; it is unclean to you.

¹¹Any clean bird ye do eat: ¹²but these are they of which ye do not eat: the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey, ¹³and the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after its kind, ¹⁴and every raven after its kind; ¹⁵and the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckoo, and the hawk after its kind; ¹⁶the little owl, and the great owl, and the swan, ¹⁷and the pelican, and the gier-eagle, and the cormorant, ¹⁸and the stork, and the heron after its kind, and the lapwing, and the bat, ¹⁹and every teeming thing which flieth is unclean to you; they are not eaten. ²⁰Any clean fowl ye do eat.

²¹Ye do not eat of any carcase: to the sojourner who is within thy gates thou dost give it, and he hath eaten it; or sell thou it to a stranger: for thou art a holy people to the LORD thy God. Thou dost not boil a kid in its mother's milk.

²⁴And when the way is too much for thee, that thou art not able to carry it,—when the place which the LORD thy God chooseth to put His name is too far off from thee, when the LORD thy God blesseth thee:—²⁵then thou hast put it into money, and hast bound up the money in thy hand, and hast gone unto the place on which the LORD thy God doth fix. ²⁶And thou hast given the money for any thing which thy soul desireth, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for any thing which thy soul asketh, and thou hast eaten there before the LORD thy God; and thou hast rejoiced, thou and thy house. ²⁷As to the Levite who is within thy gates, thou dost not forsake him, for he hath no portion or inheritance with thee, ²⁸At the end of three years thou dost bring out all the tithe of thine increase in the same year, and thou hast placed it within thy gates. ²⁹And come in hath the Levite (for he hath no part or inheritance with thee), and the sojourner, and the fatherless, and the widow, who are within thy gates, and they have eaten, and have been satisfied, so that the LORD thy God doth bless thee in all the work of thy hand which thou dost.

XV. ¹AT the end of seven years thou dost make a release, ²and this is the decree of the release: Every owner of a loan is to release his hand which he doth lift up against his neighbour, he doth not exact of his neighbour or his brother, but hath proclaimed a release to the LORD: ³of the stranger thou mayest exact, but that which is thine with thy brother thy hand doth release; ⁴only when there is no needy one with thee, for the LORD doth greatly bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee—an inheritance to possess it.

⁵Only, if thou dost diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all this command which I am commanding thee to-day, ⁶then hath the LORD thy God blessed thee as He hath spoken to thee: and thou hast lent to many nations, but thou hast not borrowed; and thou hast ruled over many nations, but over thee they do not rule.

⁷When there is any needy one with thee, of one of thy brethren, in one of thy cities, in thy land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee, thou dost not harden thy heart, nor shut thy hand from thy needy brother; ⁹but thou dost certainly open thy hand to him; and dost certainly lend him sufficient for his lack which he hath.

¹³When thy brother, a Hebrew man or a Hebrew woman, is sold to thee, and hath served thee six years,—then in the seventh year dost thou send him away from thee free. ¹⁴And when thou dost send him away free from thee, thou dost not send him away empty. ¹⁵Thou dost certainly encircle him out of thy flock, and out of thy threshing-floor, and out of thy wine-vat; of that which the LORD thy God hath blessed thee thou dost give to him, ¹⁶and thou hast remembered that thou hast been a servant in the land of Egypt, that the LORD thy God doth ransom thee; therefore I command thee this thing to-day.

¹⁷And it hath been, when he saith unto thee, I go not out from thee—(because he hath loved thee, and thy house, because it is good for him to be with thee)—¹⁸then thou hast taken the awl, and has put it through his ear, and through the door, and he hath been an everlasting servant to thee; and to thy handmaid also thou dost do so.

¹⁹It shall not be hard in thine eyes, in thy sending him away from thee free: for the double of the hire of an hireling hath he served thee six years; and the LORD thy God hath blessed thee in all that thou doest.

²⁰Every firstling which is born in thy herd or in thy flock—the male thou dost sanctify to the LORD thy God; thou dost not work with the firstling of thine ox, nor shear the firstling of thy flock. ²¹Before the LORD thy God dost thou eat it year by year, in the place which the LORD doth choose, thou and thy house.

²²And when there is a blemish in it, lame or blind, any evil blemish, thou dost not sacrifice it to the LORD thy God. ²³Within thy gates dost thou eat it, the unclean and the clean alike, as the roe, and as the hart. ²⁴Only, its blood thou dost not eat; on the earth thou dost pour it as water.

XVI. ¹OBSERVE the month of Abib,—then thou hast prepared the passover to the LORD thy God, for in the month of Abib hath the LORD thy God brought thee out of Egypt by night. ²And thou hast sacrificed the passover to the LORD thy God, of the flock and of the herd, in the place which the LORD doth choose to cause His name to tabernacle there.

⁵Thou art not permitted to sacrifice the passover within any of thy gates which the LORD thy God is giving to thee, ⁶save at the place which the LORD thy God doth choose to cause His name to tabernacle—there thou dost sacrifice the passover in the evening, at the going in of the sun, the season of thy coming out of Egypt; ⁷and thou hast boiled and eaten it in the place on which the LORD thy God doth fix: and thou hast turned in the morning, and hast gone to thy tents. ⁸Six days dost thou eat unleavened things, and on the seventh day is a restraint to the LORD thy God; thou dost do no work.

⁹Seven weeks dost thou number to thyself: from the beginning of the sickle among the standing corn dost thou begin to number the seven weeks; ¹⁰then thou hast prepared the feast of weeks to the LORD thy God, a tribute of a free-will-offering of thy hand, which thou dost give, as the LORD thy God doth bless thee. ¹¹And thou hast rejoiced before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy hand-maid, and the Levite who is within thy gates, and the sojourner, and the fatherless, and the widow, who are in thy midst, in the place which the LORD thy God doth choose to cause His name to tabernacle there; ¹²and thou hast remembered that thou hast been a servant in Egypt, and thou hast observed and done these statutes.

¹⁶Three times in the year doth every one of thy males appear before the LORD thy God in the place which He chooseth—in the feast of unleavened things, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of booths; and they do not appear before the LORD empty: ¹⁷each according to the gift of his hand, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God, which He hath given to thee.

XVII. ¹ THOU dost not sacrifice to the LORD thy God an ox or sheep in which there is a blemish, any evil thing; for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God.

⁸ When anything is too hard for thee in judgment, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke—matters of strife within thy gates—then hast thou risen, and gone up unto the place on which the LORD thy God doth fix, ⁹ and thou hast come in unto the priests the Levites, and unto the judge who is in those days, and hast inquired, and they have declared to thee the word of judgment, ¹⁰ and thou hast done according to the tenor of the word which they declare to thee (they of that place which the LORD chooseth), yea, thou hast observed to do according to all that they direct thee:

priest (who standeth there to serve the LORD thy God), or unto the judge, even that man hath died, and thou hast put away the evil thing from Israel, ¹³ and all the people do hear and fear, and do not presumptuously any more.

¹⁴ When thou comest in unto the land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee, and hast possessed it, and hast dwelt in it, and hast said, Let me set a king over me, like all the nations who are round about me:—¹⁵ thou dost certainly set over thee a king on whom the LORD doth fix; from the midst of thy brethren thou dost set a king over thee; thou art not permitted to set a stranger over thee, who is not thy brother.

¹⁸ And it hath been, when he sitteth on the throne of his kingdom, that he hath written for himself the duplicate of this law, in a book, from that before the priests the Levites, ¹⁹ and it hath been with him, and he hath read in it all the days of his life, so that he doth learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law, and these statutes, to do them; ²⁰ so that his heart is not high above his brethren, and so as not to turn aside from the command, right or left, so that he prolongeth days over his kingdom, he and his sons, in the midst of Israel.

XVIII. ¹ THE priests the Levites, all the tribe of Levi, have no portion or inheritance with Israel: the fire-offerings of the LORD, even His inheritance, they do eat; ² yea, he hath no inheritance in the midst of his brethren: the LORD himself is his inheritance, as He hath spoken to him.

thou dost not learn to do according to the abominations of those nations: ¹⁰there is none found in thee causing his son or his daughter to pass over into the fire, or a user of divinations, or an observer of clouds, or an enchanter, or a sorcerer, ¹¹or a charmer, or one asking at a familiar spirit, or a wizard, or one seeking unto the dead.

¹²For an abomination to the LORD is every one doing these, and because of these abominations is the LORD thy God disposing them from thy presence. ¹³Perfect shalt thou be with the LORD thy God: ¹⁴for these nations whom thou dost possess, unto the observers of clouds, and unto diviners, do hearken; but thou—not so hath the LORD thy God suffered thee.

¹⁵A Prophet out of thy midst, from thy brethren, like to me, doth the LORD thy God raise up to thee; unto him ye do hearken; ¹⁶according to all that thou didst ask from the LORD thy God, in Horeb, in the day of the congregation, saying, Let me not add to hear the voice of the LORD my God, and this great fire let me not see any more, that I die not; ¹⁷and the LORD saith unto me, They have done well that they have spoken. ¹⁸A prophet I do raise up to them, from the midst of their brethren, like to thee; and I have put my words in his mouth, and he hath spoken unto them all that which I command him; ¹⁹and it hath been—the man who doth not hearken unto my words which he doth speak in My name, I do require it of him.

²⁰Only, the prophet who presumeth to speak anything in My name—that which I have not commanded him to speak—or who speaketh in the name of other gods—even that prophet hath died.

²¹And when thou sayest in thy heart, How do we know the word which the LORD hath not spoken? ²²That which the prophet speaketh in the name of the LORD, and the thing is not, and cometh not—it is the thing which the LORD hath not spoken; in presumption hath the prophet spoken it,—thou shalt not be afraid of him.

XIX. ¹WHEN the LORD thy God cutteth off the nations, whose land the LORD thy God is giving to thee, and thou hast succeeded them, and hast dwelt in their cities, and in their houses, ²three cities thou dost separate for thyself in the midst of thy land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee to possess it. ³Thou dost prepare for thyself the way, and hast divided into three parts the border of thy land which the LORD thy God causeth thee to inherit, and it hath been for the fleeing thither of every slayer.

⁴And this is the matter of the slayer who fleeth thither, and liveth: He who smiteth his neighbour unknowingly, and who hath not hated him heretofore, ⁵even he who cometh in with his neighbour into a forest to hew wood, and his hand hath driven away with the axe to cut the tree, and the iron hath slipped from the wood, and hath met his neighbour, and he hath died;—he doth flee unto one of these cities, and hath lived,—lest the redeemer of blood pursue after the slayer when his heart is hot, and hath overtaken him (for the way is great), and hath smitten him—the life, yet he hath no sentence of death, for he doth not hate him heretofore. ⁷Therefore I command thee, saying, Three cities dost thou separate for thyself.

⁸And when the LORD thy God doth enlarge thy border, as He hath sworn to thy fathers, and hath given to thee all the land which He hath spoken of giving to thy fathers—⁹when thou keepest all this command to do it, which I command thee to-day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk in His ways continually—then thou hast added to thyself yet three cities to these three; ¹⁰and innocent blood is not shed in the midst of thy land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee—an inheritance, nor hath blood been upon thee.

XX. ¹WHEN thou goest out to the battle against thine enemy, and hast seen horses and chariots—a people more numerous than thou—thou shalt not be afraid of them, for the LORD thy God is with thee, who bringeth thee up out of the land of Egypt. ²Yea, it hath been, in your drawing near unto the battle, that the priest hath come nigh, and hath spoken unto the people, ³and hath said unto them, Hear, O Israel, ye are drawing near to-day to the battle against your enemies; let not your hearts be tender: fear ye not, nor make haste, nor be terrified at their presence. ⁴For the LORD your God it is who goeth with you, to fight for you with your enemies, to save you.

⁵The authorities also have spoken unto the people, saying, Who is the man that hath built a new house, and hath not dedicated it?—let him go and turn back to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.

⁶And who is the man that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not made it common?—let him go and turn back to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man make it common.

⁷And who is the man that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her?—let him go and turn back to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man take her.

⁸And the authorities continue to speak unto the people, and have said, Who is the man that is afraid and tender of heart?—let him go and turn back to his house, and let not the heart of his brethren melt like his heart. ⁹Then it hath come to pass, as the authorities finish speaking unto the people, that they have appointed princes of the hosts at the head of the people.

¹⁰When thou drawest near unto a city to fight against it, then hast thou proclaimed unto it "Peace." ¹¹And it hath been, if "Peace" it answer thee, and hath opened to thee, then hath it come to pass—all the people who are found in it are to thee for tributaries, and have served thee.

¹²And if it make not peace with thee, but hath made war with thee, then hast thou laid siege against it; ¹³when the LORD thy God hath given it into thy hand, then thou hast smitten every male of it by the edge of the sword. ¹⁴Only, the women, and the infants, and the cattle, and all that is in the city, all its spoil dost thou seize for thyself, and thou hast eaten the spoil of thine enemies, which the LORD thy God hath given to thee.

¹⁹When thou layest siege unto a city many days, by fighting against it to capture it, thou dost not destroy its trees by forcing an axe against them, for of them thou dost eat, and thou dost not cut them down (for man's is the tree of the field), to go in at thy presence in the siege. ²⁰Only, the trees which thou knowest that they are not fruit-trees, them thou dost destroy and hast cut down, and thou hast built a bulwark against the city which is making war with thee till thou hast subdued it.

XXI. ¹WHEN one is found slain on the ground which the LORD thy God is giving to thee to possess it—fallen in the field—it is not known who hath smitten him: ²then have thine elders and thy judges gone out and measured unto the cities which are round about the slain one, ³and it hath been, the city which is near unto the slain one, even the elders of that city have taken a heifer of the herd, which hath not been wrought with, which hath not drawn in the yoke: ⁴and the elders of that city have brought down the heifer unto a hard valley, which is not tilled nor sown, and have beheaded there the heifer in the valley.

⁵And the priests, the sons of Levi, have come nigh (for on them hath the LORD fixed to serve him, and to bless in the name of the LORD, and by their mouth is every strife, and every stroke), ⁶and all the elders of that city, which is near unto the slain one, do wash their hands over the heifer which is beheaded in the valley: ⁷and they have answered and said, Our hands have not shed this blood, and our eyes have not seen—⁸receive an atonement for Thy people Israel, whom Thou hast ransomed, O LORD, and suffer not innocent blood in the midst of Thy people Israel: and the blood hath been pardoned thee, ⁹and thou dost put away the innocent blood out of thy midst, for thou dost that which is right in the eyes of the LORD.

¹⁴And it hath been—if thou hast not delighted in her, then hast thou sent her away at her desire, and thou dost not at all sell her for money; thou dost not tyrannize over her, because thou hast humbled her.

¹⁵If a man have two wives, the one loved, and the other hated, and they have born children to him (the loved one and the hated one), and the first-born son hath been to the hated one: ¹⁶then it hath been, in the day of his causing his children to inherit that which he hath, he is not permitted to declare the son of the loved one first-born, before the son of the hated one—the first-born. ¹⁷But the first-born, the son of the hated one, he doth acknowledge, by giving to him a second portion of all that is found with him, for he is the beginning of his strength; to him is the right of the first-born.

XXII. ¹ THOU dost not see the ox of thy brother or his sheep driven away, nor hast thou hidden thyself from them; thou dost certainly turn them back to thy brother. ² And if thy brother is not near unto thee, or thou hast not known him, then hast thou removed it unto the midst of thine own house, and it hath been with thee till thy brother seek it, then thou hast given it back to him. ³ And so thou dost to his ass, and so thou dost to his garment, and so thou dost to any lost thing of thy brother's, which is lost by him, and thou hast found it; thou art not permitted to hide thyself.

¹⁰ Thou dost not plow with an ox and an ass together.

¹¹ Thou dost not put on a mixed cloth, wool and linen together.

¹² Fringes thou dost make to thyself on the four skirts of thy covering with which thou coverest thyself.

¹⁵ Then hath the father of the damsel—her mother also—taken and brought out the tokens of virginity of the damsel unto the elders of the city in the gate. ¹⁶ And the father of the damsel hath said unto the elders, My daughter I have given to this man for a wife, and he doth hate her. ¹⁷ And lo, he hath laid actions of words, saying, I have not found with thy daughter tokens of virginity,—yet these are the tokens of the virginity of my daughter; and they have spread out the garment before the elders of the city.

¹⁸ And the elders of that city have taken the man, and chastised him, ¹⁹ and have fined him a hundred silverlings, and have given them to the father of the damsel, because he hath brought out an evil name on a virgin of Israel, and she is to him for a wife; he is not able to send her away all his days.

²² When a man is found lying with a woman, married to a husband, then have even both of them died, the man who lieth with the woman, the woman also; and thou hast put away the evil thing out of Israel.

²³ When there is a damsel, a virgin, betrothed to a man, and a man hath found her in the city, and hath lain with her; ²⁴ then have ye brought them both out unto the gate of that city, and have stoned them with stones, and they have died:—the damsel, because that she hath not cried, being in the city; and the man, because that he hath humbled his neighbour's wife; and thou hast put away the evil thing out of thy midst.

²⁸ When a man findeth a damsel, a virgin who is not betrothed, and hath caught her, and hath lain with her, and they have been found, ²⁹ then hath the man who lieth with her given the damsel's father fifty silverlings, and she is to him for a wife: because that he hath humbled her, he is not able to send her away all his days.

²⁰ A man doth not take his father's wife, nor uncover his father's skirt.

XXIII. ¹ ONE wounded, bruised, or cut in the member doth not enter in to the congregation of the LORD. ² A bastard doth not enter into the congregation of the LORD: even the tenth generation of him doth not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

³ An Ammonite or a Moabite doth not enter into the congregation of the LORD: even the tenth generation of them doth not enter into the congregation of the LORD, for ever:—because that they have not come before you with bread and with water in the way, in your coming out from Egypt, and because they have hired against thee Balaam son of Beor, of Pethor of Aram-Naharaim, to revile thee: ⁵ but the LORD thy God hath not been willing to hearken unto Balaam, and the LORD thy God doth turn for thee the cursing to a blessing, because the LORD thy God hath loved thee: ⁶ thou dost not seek their peace or their good all thy days for ever.

⁹ When the camp goeth out against thine enemies, then hast thou kept from every wicked thing.

¹⁰ When there is in thee a man who is not clean, by an accident at night,—then hath he gone out unto the outside of the camp: he doth not come in unto the midst of the camp: ¹¹ and it hath been, at the turning of the evening, he doth bathe in water, and at the going in of the sun he doth come in unto the midst of the camp.

¹⁷ There is not a whore among the daughters of Israel, nor is there a whoremonger among the sons of Israel. ¹⁸ Thou dost not bring the gift of a whore, or the price of a dog, into the house of the LORD thy God, for any vow: for an abomination to the LORD thy God are even both of them.

¹⁹ Thou dost not lend in usury to thy brother: usury of money, usury of food, usury of anything which is lent on usury.

²² But when thou forebarest to vow, it is not a sin in thee. ²³ The produce of thy lips thou dost keep, and hast done it, as thou hast vowed to the LORD thy God: even a free-will-offering, which thou hast spoken with thy mouth.

XXIV. ¹ WHEN a man taketh a wife, and hath possessed her, and it hath been, if she find not grace in his eyes (for he hath found in her the nakedness of anything), that he hath written for her a writing of divorce, and hath given it into her hand, and hath sent her out of his house: ² when she hath gone out of his house, and hath gone, and hath been another man's, and the latter man hath hated her, and hath written for her a writing of divorce, and hath given it into her hand, and hath sent her out of his house, or when the latter man who hath taken her to himself for a wife dieth:—

⁷ Take heed, in the plague of leprosy, to be very watchful, and to do according to all that the priests, the Levites, teach you: as I have commanded them shall ye observe to do. ⁸ Remember that which the LORD thy God hath done to Miriam in the way, in your coming out of the land of Egypt.

¹⁶ Fathers are not put to death for children, and children are not put to death for fathers.—each for his own sin are they put to death.

¹⁷ Thou dost not turn aside the judgment of the sojourner or fatherless; nor dost thou take in pledge the garment of the widow; ¹⁸ and thou hast remembered that thou hast been a servant in Egypt, that the Lord thy God doth ransom thee from thence; therefore I command thee to do this thing.

XXV. ¹ WHEN there is a strife between men, and they have come nigh unto the judgment, then have they judged, and the righteous they have declared righteous, and the wrong-doer they have declared wrong. ² And it hath come to pass, if the wrong-doer is to be smitten, that the judge hath caused him to fall down, and hath smitten him in his presence, according to the sufficiency of his wrong-doing, by number; ³ forty times doth he smite him, but doth not add, lest he add to smite him above these, with many stripes, and thy brother is lightly esteemed in thine eyes.

⁴ Thou dost not muzzle the ox in its threshing-time.

⁵ When brethren dwell together, and one of them hath died, and hath no son, the wife of the dead is not without to a strange man; her husband's brother doth go in unto her, and hath taken her to himself for a wife, and doth perform the duty of a husband's brother to her. ⁶ Then it hath been, the first-born which she beareth doth rise for the name of his dead brother, and his name is not wiped away out of Israel.

⁷ And if the man delight not to take his brother's wife, then hath his brother's wife gone up to the gate, unto the elders, and hath said, My husband's brother refuseth to raise up to his brother a name in Israel; he hath not been willing to perform the duty of my husband's brother. ⁸ When the elders of his city have called for him, and have spoken unto him, and he hath stood and said, I have no desire to take her;

¹⁷ Remember that which Amalek hath done to thee in the way in your going out from the land of Egypt, ¹⁸ for he hath met thee in the way, and smiteth in thee all the feeble ones behind thee (and thou wearied and fatigued), and he feareth not God. ¹⁹ And it hath been, in the Lord thy God's giving rest to thee, from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the Lord thy God is giving to thee—an inheritance to possess it,—thou dost blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under the heavens; thou dost not forget.

XXVI. ¹ AND it hath been, when thou comest in unto the land which the Lord thy God is giving to thee—an inheritance, and thou hast possessed it, and hast dwelt in it, ² that thou hast taken of the first of all the fruits of the ground which thou dost bring in out of thy land which the Lord thy God is giving to thee, and hast put it in a basket, and hast gone unto the place which the Lord thy God chooseth to cause His name to tabernacle there.

³ And thou hast come in unto the priest who is in these days, and hast said unto him, I have declared this day to the Lord thy God, that I have come in unto the land which the Lord hath sworn to our fathers to give to us; ⁴and the priest hath taken the basket out of thy hand, and hath placed it before the altar of the LORD thy God.

⁵And thou hast answered and said before the LORD thy God, A perishing Syrian is my father! and he goeth down to Egypt, and sojourneth there with few men, and becometh there a nation, great, mighty, and numerous; ⁶and the Egyptians do us evil, and afflict us, and put on us hard service; ⁷and we cry unto the LORD, God of our fathers, and the LORD heareth our voice, and seeth our affliction, and our labour, and our oppression; ⁸and the LORD bringeth us out from Egypt, by a strong hand, and by a stretched-out arm, and by great fear, and by signs, and by wonders, ⁹and he bringeth us in unto this place, and giveth to us this land—a land flowing with milk and honey.

¹²When thou dost complete tithing all the tithe of thine increase in the third year, the year of the tithe, and hast given it to the Levite, to the sojourner, to the fatherless, and to the widow, and they have eaten within thy gates, and have been satisfied, ¹³then hast thou said before the LORD thy God, I have put away the separated thing out of the house, and have also given it to the Levite, and to the sojourner, and to the orphan, and to the widow, according to all Thy command which Thou hast commanded me; I have not passed over from Thy commands, nor have I forgotten: ¹⁴I have not eaten of it in mine affliction, nor have I put any of it away for uncleanness, nor have I given of it for the dead: I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God; I have done according to all that Thou hast commanded me. ¹⁵Look from Thy holy habitation, from the heavens, and bless Thy people Israel, and the ground which Thou hast given to us, as Thou hast sworn to our fathers—a land flowing with milk and honey.

¹⁶This day doth the LORD thy God command thee to do these statutes and judgments: when thou hast hearkened and hast done them with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, ¹⁷the LORD thou hast caused to promise that day to be thy God, even by walking in His ways, and by keeping His statutes, and His commands, and His judgments, and by hearkening to His voice.

¹⁸And the LORD hath caused thee to promise that day to be His people, a peculiar treasure, as He hath spoken to thee, and to keep all his commands; ¹⁹so as to make thee uppermost above all the nations whom he hath made for a praise, and for a name, and for beauty: and for thy being a holy people to the LORD thy God, as He hath spoken.

XXVII. ¹AND Moses—the elders of Israel also—commandeth the people, saying, Keep all the command which I command you to-day; ²and it hath been, in the day that ye pass over the Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee, that thou hast raised up for thyself great stones, and hast plastered them with plaister; ³and thou hast written on them all the words of this law in thy passing over, so that thou goest in unto the land which the LORD thy God is giving to thee—a land flowing with milk and honey, as the LORD, the God of thy fathers, hath spoken to thee.

⁴Yea, it hath been, in your passing over the Jordan, ye raise up these stones which I command you to-day, in mount Ebal, and thou hast plastered them with plaister, ⁵and thou hast built there an altar to the LORD thy God, an altar of stones: thou dost not wave iron over them. ⁶Of complete stones thou buildest the altar of the LORD thy God, and hast caused burnt-offerings to ascend on it to the LORD thy God. ⁷And thou hast sacrificed peace-offerings, and hast eaten there, and hast rejoiced before the LORD thy God. ⁸And thou hast written on the stones all the words of this law, well engraved.

⁹And Moses speaketh—the priests, the Levites, also—unto all Israel, saying, ¹⁰Keep silent, and hearken, O Israel: this day thou hast become the people of the LORD thy God; ¹¹and thou hast hearkened to the voice of the LORD thy God, and hast done His commands, and His statutes, which I command thee to-day.

¹⁵And the Levites have answered and said unto every man of Israel, with a loud voice:

¹⁶Cursed is the man who maketh a graven or molten image, an abomination to the LORD, the work of the hands of the artificer, and hath put it in a secret place;—and all the people have answered and said, Amen.

¹⁸Cursed is he who removeth his neighbour's border,—and all the people have said, Amen.

¹⁹Cursed is he who causeth the blind to err in the way,—and all the people have said, Amen.

²⁰Cursed is he who turneth aside the judgment of the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow,—and all the people have said, Amen.

²⁶ Cursed is he who establisheth not the words of this law, to do them,—and all the people have said, Amen.

XXVIII. ¹ AND it hath been, if thou hearken diligently to the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all His commands which I command thee to-day, that the LORD thy God hath made thee uppermost above all the nations of the earth, ² and all these blessings have come upon thee, and have overtaken thee, because thou dost hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God:

³ Blessed art thou in the city, and blessed art thou in the field.

⁴ Blessed is the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thine oxen, and the wealth of thy flock.

⁵ Blessed is thy basket and thy store.

⁶ Blessed art thou in thy coming in, and blessed art thou in thy going out.

⁷ The LORD giveth up thine enemies, who rise up against thee—smitten before thy face: in one way they come out unto thee, and in seven ways they flee before thee.

⁹ The LORD doth establish thee to Himself for a holy people, as He hath sworn to thee, when thou keepest the commands of the LORD thy God, and hast walked in His ways. ¹⁰ And all the people of the land have seen that the name of the LORD is called upon thee, and they have been afraid of thee.

¹³ And the LORD hath made thee become head, and not the tail; and thou hast been only above, and thou art not beneath, when thou dost hearken unto the commands of the LORD thy God, which I command thee to-day, to keep and to do, ¹⁴ when thou dost not turn aside from all the words which I command you to-day,—right or left,—to go after other gods, to serve them.

¹⁵ But it hath been, if thou dost not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all His commands, and His statutes, which I command thee to-day, that all these curses have come upon thee, and overtaken thee:

¹⁶ Cursed art thou in the city, and cursed art thou in the field.

¹⁷ Cursed is thy basket and thy store.

¹⁸ Cursed is the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thine oxen, and the wealth of thy flock.

¹⁹ Cursed art thou in thy coming in, and cursed art thou in thy going out.

²⁷ And thou hast been for an astonishment, for a simile, and for a byword among all the peoples whither the LORD doth lead thee.

³⁵ And all these curses have come upon thee, and have pursued thee, and have overtaken thee, till thou art destroyed, because thou hast not hearkened to the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep His commands, and His statutes, which He hath commanded thee. ³⁶ And they have been on thee for a sign and for a wonder: on thy seed also for ever.

³⁷ Because that thou hast not served the LORD thy God with joy, and with gladness of heart, in the abundance of all things, ³⁸ thou hast even served thine enemies, whom the LORD sendeth against thee, in hunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in lack of all things; and he hath put a yoke of iron on thy neck, till he hath destroyed thee.

high and the fenced ones in which thou dost trust, in all thy land; yea, it hath laid siege to thee in all thy gates, throughout all thy land, which the LORD thy God hath given to thee. ⁴³ And thou hast eaten the fruit of thy body, the flesh of thy sons and thy daughters (whom the LORD thy God hath given to thee), in the siege, and in the straitness with which thine enemies do straiten thee.

⁵³ And it hath been, as the LORD thy God hath rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you, so doth the LORD rejoice over you to destroy you, and to lay you waste; and ye have been pulled away from off the ground whither thou goest in to possess it; ⁵⁴ and the LORD hath scattered thee among all the peoples, from the one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; and there hast thou served other gods which thou hast not known, thou or thy fathers—wood and stone.

thy life. ⁶⁷In the morning thou sayest, O that it were evening! and in the evening thou sayest, O that it were morning! from the fear of thy heart, with which thou art afraid, and from the sight of thine eyes which thou seekest.

⁶⁸And the Lord hath brought thee back into Egypt with ships, by the way concerning which I have said to thee, Thou dost not add any more to see it, and there have ye sold yourselves to thine enemies, for men-servants and for maid servants, but there is no buyer.

XXIX. ¹THESE are the words of the covenant which the Lord hath commanded Moses to make with the Children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the covenant which He hath made with them in Horeb.

²And Moses calleth unto all Israel, and saith unto them, 'Ye—ye have seen all that which the Lord hath done before your eyes in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land: ³the great trials which thine eyes have seen, the signs, and these great wonders; ⁴but the Lord hath not given to you a heart to know, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, till this day. ⁵And I cause you to go forty years in the wilderness: your garments have not been consumed from off you, and thy shoe hath not worn away from off thy foot. ⁶Bread ye have not eaten, and wine and strong drink ye have not drunk, so that ye know that I am the Lord your God.

⁷When ye are come in unto this place, then Sihon king of Heshbon—Og king of Bashan also—doth come out to meet us, to the battle, and we smite them: ⁸and we take their land, and give it for an inheritance to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half of the tribe of Manasseh; ⁹and ye have kept the words of this covenant, and have done them, so that ye cause all that ye do to prosper.

¹⁴And not with you alone am I making this covenant and this oath: ¹⁵but with him who is here with us, standing to-day before the Lord our God, and with him who is not here with us to-day, ¹⁶(for ye have known how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt, and how we have passed by through the midst of the nations which ye have passed by; ¹⁷and ye see their abominations, and their idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which are with them,) ¹⁸lest there be among you a man or woman, or family or tribe, whose heart is turning to-day from the Lord our God, to go to serve the gods of these nations, lest there be in you a root fruitful of gall and worm-wood:

¹⁹That it hath been, in his hearing the words of this oath, that he hath blessed himself in his heart, saying, I have peace, though in the stubbornness of my heart I go on, in order to end the fulness with the thirst. ²⁰The Lord is not willing to be propitious to him, for then doth the anger of the Lord and His zeal smoke against that man, and all the oath which is written in this book hath lain down on him, and the Lord hath blotted out his name from under the heavens. ²¹And the Lord hath separated him for evil, out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the oaths of the covenant which is written in this book of the law.

²²And the latter generation of your children who rise at your back, and the stranger who cometh in from a land afar off, have said when they have seen the strokes of that land, and the sicknesses which the Lord hath sent into it,—²³with brimstone and salt is the whole land burnt, it is not sown, nor doth it shoot up, nor doth any herb grow up on it, like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, which the Lord hath overturned in His anger, and in His fury:—²⁴yea, all the nations have said, Wherefore hath the Lord done thus to this land? what the heat of this great anger?

²⁵Then have they said, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the Lord, God of their fathers, which He hath made with them in His bringing them out of the land of Egypt, ²⁶and they go and serve other gods, and bow themselves to them,—gods whom they have not known, and whom He hath not apportioned to them; ²⁷and the anger of the Lord burneth against that land, to bring in on it all the cursing which is written in this book; ²⁸and the Lord doth pluck them from off their ground in anger, and in fury, and in great wrath, and doth cast them into another land, as at this day.

²⁹The things which are hidden are the Lord our God's, and the things which are revealed are ours and our children's for ever, to do all the words of this law.

XXX. ¹And it hath been, when all these things come upon thee, the blessing and the cursing, which I have set before thee, and thou hast brought them back—unto thy heart, among all the nations whither the Lord thy God hath driven thee away, ²and hast turned back unto the Lord thy God, and hast hearkened to His voice, according to all that I command thee to-day, thou and thy children, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul,—³then hath the Lord thy God turned back to thy captivity, and hath pitied thee, yea, He hath turned back and gathered thee out of all the peoples whither the Lord thy God hath scattered thee.

4 'If thine outcast is in the extremity of the heavens, from thence doth the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence doth He take thee; 5 and the LORD thy God hath brought thee in unto the land which thy fathers have possessed, and thou hast inherited it, and He hath done thee good, and hath multiplied thee above thy fathers.

6 'And the LORD thy God hath circumcised thy heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, for the sake of thy life; 7 and the LORD thy God hath put all this oath on thine enemies, and on those who hate thee, who have pursued thee.

8 'When thou dost turn back, and hast hearkened to the voice of the LORD, and hast done all His commands which I command thee to-day, 9 then the LORD thy God hath made thee abundant in every work of thy hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, for good; for the LORD turneth back to rejoice over thee for good, as He hath rejoiced over thy fathers, 10 when thou dost hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep His commands, and His statutes, which are written in the book of this law, when thou turnest back unto the LORD thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul.

11 'For this command which I command thee to-day, it is not too wonderful for thee, nor is it far off. 12 It is not in the heavens, saying, Who doth go up for us into the heavens, and doth take it for us, and doth cause us to hear it—that we may do it? 13 And it is not beyond the sea, saying, Who doth pass over for us beyond the sea, and doth take it for us, and doth cause us to hear it—that we may do it? 14 For the word is very near unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart to do it.

15 'See, I have set before thee to-day life and good, and death and evil, 16 in that I command thee to-day to love the LORD thy God, to walk in His ways, and to keep His commands, and His statutes, and His judgments; then thou hast lived and multiplied, and the LORD thy God hath blessed thee in the land whither thou goest in to possess it.

17 'But if thy heart turn, and thou dost not hearken, and hast been driven away, and hast bowed thyself to other gods, and hast served them; 18 I have declared to you this day, that ye do certainly perish; ye do not prolong days on the ground which thou passest over the Jordan to go in thither to possess it.

19 'I have caused the heavens and the earth to testify against you to-day; life and death I have set before you, the blessing and the cursing; and thou hast fixed on life in order that thou mayest live, thou and thy seed, 20 to love the LORD thy God, to hearken to His voice, and to cleave to Him (for He is thy life, and the length of thy days), to dwell on the ground which the LORD hath sworn to thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give to them.

XXXI. 1 AND Moses goeth and speaketh these words unto all Israel; 2 and he saith unto them, 'I am a hundred and twenty years old to-day; I am not able any more to go out or come in, and the LORD hath said unto me, Thou dost not pass over this Jordan.

3 'The LORD thy God He is passing over before thee, He doth destroy these nations from before thee, then thou hast possessed them; Joshua—he is passing over before thee as the LORD hath spoken, 4 and the LORD hath done to them as he hath done to Sihon and to Og kings of the Amorites, and to their land whom he destroyed. 5 When the LORD hath given them up before your face, then ye have done to them according to all the command which I have commanded you. 6 Be strong and courageous; fear not, nor be terrified because of them, for the LORD thy God is He who goeth with thee; He doth not fail thee nor forsake thee.'

7 And Moses calleth for Joshua, and saith unto him before the eyes of all Israel, 'Be strong and courageous, for thou dost go in with this people unto the land which the LORD hath sworn to their fathers to give to them; and thou—thou dost cause them to inherit it. 8 And the LORD is He who goeth before thee, He himself is with thee; He doth not fail thee nor forsake thee; fear not, nor be affrighted.'

9 And Moses writeth this law, and delivereth it unto the priests the sons of Levi, who bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Israel. 10 And Moses commandeth them, saying, 'At the end of seven years, in the appointed time, the year of release, in the feast of booths; 11 in the coming in of all Israel to see the face of the LORD in the place which He chooseth, thou dost proclaim this law before all Israel, in their ears.

12 'Congregate the people, the men, and the women, and the infants, and thy sojourner who is within thy gates, so that they hear, and so that they learn, and have feared the LORD your God, and have observed to do all the words of this law; 13 and their children, who have not known anything, do hear, and have learned to fear the LORD your God all the days which ye live on the ground whither ye are passing over the Jordan to possess it.'

14 And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Lo, thy days have drawn near to die: call Joshua, and station yourselves in the tent of meeting, and let Me command him; and Moses goeth—Joshua also—and they station themselves in the tent of meeting. 15 And the LORD is seen in the tent, in the pillar of the cloud; and the pillar of the cloud standeth at the opening of the tent.

16 And the LORD saith unto Moses, 'Lo, thou dost lie down with thy fathers; then this people hath risen, and hath gone a whoring after the gods of the strangers of the land into the midst of which it hath entered, and hath forsaken Me, and hath broken My covenant which I have made with it. ¹⁷And Mine anger hath burned against it in that day, and I have forsaken them, and have hidden My face from them; and it hath been for consumption, and many evils and distresses have found it, and it hath said in that day, Is it not because that my God is not in my midst—these evils have found me? ¹⁸Seeing I do certainly hide My face in that day for all the evil which it hath done, for it hath turned unto other gods.

¹⁹And now, write for yourselves this song, and teach it the Children of Israel; put it in their mouths, so that this song is to Me for a witness against the Children of Israel. ²⁰When I bring it in unto the ground which I have sworn to its fathers—flowing with milk and honey, and it hath eaten, and been satisfied, and been fat, and hath turned unto other gods, and they have served them, and have despised Me, and hath broken My covenant,— ²¹Then it hath been, when many evils and distresses do meet it, that this song hath testified to its face, for a witness: for it is not forgotten out of the mouth of its seed, for I have known its imagining which it doth to-day, before I bring them in unto the land of which I have sworn.

²²And Moses writeth this song on that day, and hath taught it the Children of Israel. ²³And He commandeth Joshua son of Nun, and saith, 'Be strong and courageous, for thou dost bring in the Children of Israel unto the land which I have sworn to them, and I—I am with thee.'

²⁸'Congregate unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your authorities, and let me speak these words in their ears, and cause the heavens and the earth to testify against them. ²⁹For I have known that after my death ye do very corruptly, and have turned aside out of the way which I have commanded you, and evil hath met you in the latter end of the days, because ye do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, to make Him angry with the work of your hands.'

³⁰And Moses speaketh in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, till their completion:—

XXXII. ¹GIVE our, O heavens, and I speak;

And hear, O earth, the sayings of my ²My doctrine doth drop as the rain,
My saying doth flow as the dew;
As storms on the tender grass,
And as showers on the herb.

³When the Name of the LORD I proclaim,
Ascribe ye greatness to our God!

⁴The Rock!—His work is perfect,
For all His ways are just; [quity;
A God of steadfastness, and without fail—
Just and upright is He.

⁵It hath done corruptly to Him;
Their blemish is not His children's.
A generation perverse and crooked!

⁶To the LORD do ye act thus,
O people foolish and unwise?
Is not He thy father—thy possessor?
He made thee, and doth establish thee.

⁷Remember the days of old— [tions—
Understand the years of many genera—
Ask thy father, and he doth tell thee;
Thine elders, and they say to thee:

⁸In the Most High causing the nations to inherit—

In His separating the children of Adam—
He set up the borders of the peoples
By the number of the Children of Israel.

⁹For the LORD'S portion is His people,
Jacob is the line of His inheritance.

¹⁰He findeth him in a land—a desert,
And in a void—a howling wilderness.
He turneth him round—
He causeth him to understand—
He keepeth him as the apple of His eye.

¹¹As an eagle waketh up its nest,
Over its young ones fluttereth,
Spreadeth its wings—taketh them,
Beareth them on its pinions:—

¹²The LORD alone doth lead him,
And there is no strange god with him.

¹³He maketh him ride on the heights of earth,

And he eateth the increase of the fields:
And He maketh him suck honey from the rock,
And oil out of the flint of the rock;

With fat of lambs, and young rams of Bashan, [wheat;

He-goats also, with the fat of kidneys of Even of the blood of the grape thou dost drink wine!

Thou hast been fat—thou hast been
Thou hast been covered, [thick—
And he leaveth God who made him,
And dishonoureth the Rock of his salvation. [gods;

With abominations they make Him angry.

Gods they have not known— [come;
New ones—from the vicinity have they
Your fathers have not feared thee!

¹⁸The Rock that begat thee thou forgettest,
And neglectest God who formeth thee.

¹⁹And the LORD seeth and despiseth,—
By the provoking of His sons and His daughters.

²⁰And He saith: I hide My face from them,
I see what is their latter end;
For they are a froward generation,
Children in whom is no steadfastness.

²¹They have made Me zealous by "no-god,"
They made Me angry with their vanities;
And I make them zealous by "no-people,"

- By a foolish nation I make them angry.
 22 For a fire hath been kindled in Mine anger,
 And it burneth unto the lower Sheol,
 And consumeth the earth and its increase,
 And setteth on fire the foundations of mountains.
 23 I gather evils upon them,
 Mine arrows I consume upon them.
 24 They are exhausted by famine.
 And consumed by heat, and bitter destruction, (them,
 Yea, the teeth of beasts I send upon
 With the poison of fearful things of the dust.

 And at the inner-chambers—fear;
 Both the youth and the virgin,
 The suckling with the man of grey hairs.
 26 I have said: I blow them away, [man;
 I cause their remembrance to cease from 27 If not—the joy of the enemy I fear,
 Lest there adversaries know—
 Lest they say, Our land is high,
 And the LORD hath not wrought all this.
 28 For they are a nation lost to counsels,
 And there is no understanding in them.
 29 If they were wise—
 They would deal wisely with this;
 They would attend to their latter end:
 30 How would one pursue a thousand,
 And two cause a myriad to flee!
 If not—that their Rock hath sold them,
 And the LORD hath shut them up?
 31 For not as our Rock is their rock,
 (Even our enemies are judges).
 32 For their vine is of the vine of Sodom,
 And of the fields of Gomorrah;
 Their grapes are grapes of gall—venom;
 They have bitter clusters;
 33 Their wine is the poison of dragons,
 And the fierce venom of asps.
 34 Is not this laid up with Me?—
 Sealed among My treasures?
 35 Mine are vengeance and recompense,
 At the time their foot doth slide;
 For near is the day of their calamity,
 And the things prepared for them hasten.
 36 For the LORD doth judge His people,
 And doth repent Himself for His servants,
 For He seeth the going away of power,
 And none restrained or left.
 37 And He hath said, Where are their gods—
 The rock in which they trusted;
 38 Which do eat the fat of their sacrifices,
 And drink the wine of their libations?
 Let them arise and help you,
 Let it be a hiding-place for you!
 39 See ye, now, that I—I am He,
 And there is no god with Me:
 I put to death, and I keep alive;
 I have smitten, and I heal;
 And there is no deliverer from My hand.
 40 For I lift up My hand unto the heavens,
 And have said, I live for ever!
 41 If I sharpen the brightness of My sword,
 And My hand lay hold on judgment,
 I turn back vengeance to mine adversaries,
 And to those who hate me—I repay!
 42 I make Mine arrows drunk with blood,

- And My sword devoureth flesh,
 From the blood of the pierced and the captive, [enemy.
 From the head of the freemen of the 44 And Moses cometh and speaketh all the words of this song in the ears of the people, he and Hoshea son of Nun. 45 And Moses finisheth speaking all these words unto all Israel, 46 and he saith unto them, 'Set your heart to all the words which I testify against you to-day, that ye command your children to observe to do all the words of this law. 47 For it is not a vain thing for you, for it is your life: and by this thing ye do prolong days on the ground whither ye are passing over the Jordan to possess it.'

 48 And the LORD speaketh unto Moses, in this self-same day, saying, 49 'Go up unto this mount Abarim, mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, which is on the front of Jericho, and see the land of Canaan which I am giving to the Children of Israel for a possession. 50 And die in the mount whither thou art going up, and be gathered unto thy people, as Aaron thy brother hath died in mount Hor, and is gathered unto his people.
 51 'Because ye trespassed against me in the midst of the Children of Israel at the waters of Meribah-Kadesh, the wilderness of Zin;—because ye sanctified me not in the midst of the Children of Israel. 52 Yet over-against thou seest the land, but thither thou dost not go in, unto the land which I am giving to the Children of Israel.'
 XXXIII. 1 AND this is the blessing with which Moses the man of God hath blessed the Children of Israel before his death.
 2 And he saith:—
 'The LORD from Sinai hath come,
 And He hath risen from Seir for them:
 He hath shone from mount Paran,
 And hath come—myriads of holy ones;
 At His right hand are springs for them.

- ¹² Of Benjamin he hath said:— [rise not! The beloved of the LORD doth tabernacle confidently by him, Covering him over all the day; Even between his shoulders doth He tabernacle.
- ¹³ And of Joseph he hath said:— Blessed of the LORD is his land, By the precious things of the heavens, By the dew, and by the deep crouching beneath, [the sun,
- ¹⁴ And by the precious things—fruits of And by the precious things— Cast out by the moons,
- ¹⁵ And by the chief things Of the ancient mountains, And by the precious things Of the everlasting heights,

O thy happiness, O Israel! who is like A people saved by the LORD, The shield of thy help, and He who is the sword of thine excellency: So that thine enemies are subdued, And thou on their high places dost tread.]
- XXXIV. ¹ AND Moses goeth up from the plains of Moab unto mount Nebo, the top of Pisgah, which is on the front of Jericho, and the LORD sheweth him all the land, Gilead unto Dan, ² and all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim, and Manassah, and all the land of Judah unto the furthest sea, ³ and the south, and the circuit of the valley of Jericho, the city of palms, unto Zoar.
- ⁴ And the LORD saith unto him, 'This is the land which I have sworn to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, To thy seed I give it; I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thither thou dost not pass over.'
- ⁵ And Moses, the servant of the LORD, dieth there, in the land of Moab, according to the command of the LORD. ⁶ And He burieth him in the valley in the land of Moab, over-against Beth-Peor, and no man hath known of his burying-place unto this day.
- ⁷ And Moses is a hundred and twenty years old when he dieth; his eye hath not become dim, nor hath his moisture fled.
- ⁸ And the Children of Israel bewail Moses in the plains of Moab thirty days; and the days of weeping and mourning for Moses are completed.
- ⁹ And Joshua son of Nuh is full of the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had laid his hands upon him, and the Children of Israel hearken unto him: and they do as the LORD hath commanded Moses.
- ¹⁰ And there hath not arisen a prophet any more in Israel like Moses, whom the LORD hath known face to face, ¹¹ in reference to all the signs and the wonders which the LORD sent him to do in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land, ¹² and in reference to all the strong hand, and to all the great fear which Moses did before the eyes of all Israel.

CHAP. I. ¹ AND it cometh to pass after the death of Moses, the servant of the LORD, that the LORD spenketh unto Joshua son of Nun, minister of Moses, saying, ² Moses my servant is dead, and now, rise, pass over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I am giving to them, to the Children of Israel. ³ Every place on which the sole of your foot treadeth, to you have I given it, as I have spoken unto Moses.

¹⁰ And Joshua commandeth the authorities of the people, saying, ¹¹ Pass over into the midst of the camp, then have ye commanded the people, saying, Prepare provision for yourselves, for within three days ye are passing over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land which the LORD your God is giving to you to possess it.

¹² And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half of the tribe of Manasseh, Joshua hath spoken, saying, ¹³ Remember the word which Moses the servant of the LORD hath commanded you, saying, The LORD your God is giving rest to you, and He hath given to you this land. ¹⁴ Your wives, your infants, and your substance do abide in the land which Moses hath given to you beyond the Jordan, and ye pass over by fifties, before your brethren, all the mighty ones of valour, then have ye helped them, ¹⁵ till the LORD give rest to your brethren like yourselves, and they have possessed, even they, the land which the LORD your God is giving to them; then have ye turned back to the land of your possession, and have possessed it, which Moses the servant of the LORD hath given to you beyond the Jordan, at the sun-rising.

¹⁶ And they answer Joshua, saying, 'All that thou hast commanded us, we do; and unto every place whither thou dost send us, we go; ¹⁷ according to all that we have hearkened unto Moses in, so do we hearken unto thee; surely the LORD thy God is with thee as He hath been with Moses. ¹⁸ Any man who doth provoke thy mouth, and doth not hear thy words in all that thou dost command him, is put to death; only, be strong and courageous.'

II. ¹ AND Joshua son of Nun sendeth from Shittim two men, spies, silently, saying, 'Go, see the land, even Jericho; and they go and come into the house of a woman, a harlot, and her name is Rahab, and they lie down there.

² And it is told to the king of Jericho, saying, 'Lo, men have come in hither to-night, from the children of Israel, to search out the land.' ³ And the king of Jericho sendeth unto Rahab, saying, 'Bring out the men who come in unto thee, who have come into thy house; for to search out the whole of the land have they come in.' ⁴ But the woman taketh the two men, and hideth them, and saith thus: 'The men have come in unto me, but I have not known from whence they are; ⁵ and it cometh to pass—the gate is to be shut—in the dark, that the men have gone out; I have not known whither the men have gone; pursue ye, hasten after them, for ye do overtake them; ⁶ but she hath caused them to go up on the roof, and hideth them with the flax-wood, which is arranged for her on the roof.

⁸ But before they lie down, she hath gone up unto them on the roof, ⁹ and she saith unto the men, 'I have known that the LORD hath given to you the land, and that your terror hath fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land have melted at your presence. ¹⁰ For we have heard how the LORD hath dried up the waters of the Red Sea at your presence, in your going out of Egypt, and that which ye have done to the two kings of the Amorites who are beyond the Jordan; to Sihon and to Og whom ye have devoted. ¹¹ And we hear, and our heart doth melt, and there hath not stood any more spirit in any man, from your presence, for the LORD your God, He is God in the heavens above, and on the earth beneath. ¹² And now, swear ye, I pray you, to me by the LORD,—because I have done with you kindness—that ye have done, even ye, kindness with the house of my father, and have given to me a true token, ¹³ and have kept alive my father, and my mother, and my brothers, and my sisters, and all that they have, and have delivered our souls from death.'

¹⁴ And the men say to her, 'Our souls for yours—to die, if ye declare not this our matter; then it hath been, in the LORD's giving to us this land, that we have done with thee kindness and truth.'

¹⁵ And she causeth them to go down by a rope through the window, for her house is in the side of the wall, and in the wall she is an inhabitant. ¹⁶ She saith also to them, 'Go to the mountain, lest the pursuers come upon you: when ye have been hidden there three days till the turning back of the pursuers, then afterwards do ye go on your way.'

¹⁷ And the men say unto her, 'We are acquitted of this thine oath which thou hast caused us to swear: ¹⁸ lo, we are come into the land, this line of scarlet thread thou dost bind at the window by which thou hast caused us to go down, and thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all the house of thy father thou dost gather unto thee, at the house. ¹⁹ And it hath been, any one who goeth out from the doors of thy house without, his blood is on his own head, and we are innocent; but any one who is with thee in the house, his blood is on our head, if a hand is on him. ²⁰ But if thou declare this our matter, then have we been acquitted from thine oath which thou hast caused us to swear.'

²² And they go, and come into the mountain, and abide there three days until the pursuers have turned back; and the pursuers seek in all the way, and have not found them.

III. ¹ AND Joshua riseth early in the morning, and they journey from Shittim, and come in unto the Jordan, he and all the Children of Israel, and they lodge there before they pass over.

² And it cometh to pass, at the end of three days, that the authorities pass over into the midst of the camp, and command the people, saying, 'When ye see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, and the priests, the Levites, bearing it, then ye do journey from your place, and have gone after it: only, a distance is between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure; come not near unto it, that ye may know the way in which ye go, for ye have not passed over in the way heretofore.'

³ And Joshua saith unto the people, 'Sanctify yourselves, for to-morrow doth the LORD do wonders in your midst.'

⁴ And Joshua speaketh unto the priests, saying, 'Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people;' and they take up the ark of the covenant, and go before the people.

⁷ And the LORD saith unto Joshua, 'This day I begin to make thee great in the eyes of all Israel, that they may know that as I was with Moses I am with thee. ⁸ And thou, thou dost command the priests bearing the ark of the covenant, saying, When ye come unto the extremity of the waters of the Jordan—in the Jordan ye do stand.'

⁹ And Joshua saith unto the Children of Israel, 'Come nigh hither, and hear the words of the LORD your God.' ¹⁰ And Joshua saith, 'By this do ye know that the living God is in your midst, and He doth certainly dispossess from before you the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Hivite, and the Perizzite, and the Girgashite, and the Amorite, and the Jebusite: ¹¹ lo, the ark of the covenant of the LORD of all the earth is passing over before you into the Jordan.'

come down from above have risen—a heap, very far from above the city Adam, which is at the side of Zaretan; and those which go down by the sea of the plain, the Salt Sea, have been completely cut off; and the people have passed through over-against Jericho: ¹⁷ and the priests bearing the ark of the covenant of the LORD stand established on dry ground in the midst of the Jordan, and all Israel pass over on dry ground till all the nation hath completed passing over the Jordan.

IV. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, when all the nation hath completed passing over the Jordan, that the LORD speaketh unto Joshua, saying, ² 'Take for yourselves out of every tribe: ³ and command them, saying, Take up for yourselves from this place, from the midst of the Jordan, from the established standing-place of the feet of the priests, twelve stones, then have ye removed them over with you, and have placed them in the lodging-place in which ye do lodge to-night.'

for yourselves each a stone on his shoulder, according to the number of the tribes of the Children of Israel, ⁹so that this is a sign in your midst, when your children ask hereafter, saying, What are these stones to you? ¹⁰then have ye said to them, Because the waters of the Jordan were cut off, at the presence of the ark of the covenant of the LORD; in its passing over into the Jordan the waters of the Jordan were cut off; and these stones have been for a memorial to the Children of Israel for ever.

¹¹And the Children of Israel do as Joshua hath commanded, and they take up twelve stones out of the midst of the Jordan, as the LORD hath spoken unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the Children of Israel, and they remove them over with them unto the lodging-place, and they place them there.

¹²Twelve stones also hath Joshua raised up in the midst of the Jordan, the place of the standing of the feet of the priests bearing the ark of the covenant, and they are there unto this day. ¹³And the priests bearing the ark stand in the midst of the Jordan till the completion of the whole thing which the LORD hath commanded Joshua to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua, and the people hasted and pass over.

¹⁴And it cometh to pass when all the people have completed passing over, that the ark of the LORD passeth over, the priests also, in the presence of the people. ¹⁵And the Children of Reuben, and the Children of Gad, and the half of the tribe of Manasseh, pass over, by fifties, before the Children of Israel, as Moses had spoken unto them. ¹⁶About forty thousand, armed ones of the host, passed over before the LORD, for the battle, unto the plains of Jericho.

¹⁷On that day hath the LORD made Joshua great in the eyes of all Israel, and they reverence him, as they revered Moses, all the days of his life.

¹⁸And the LORD speaketh unto Joshua, saying, ¹⁹'Command the priests bearing the ark of the testimony, that they come up out of the Jordan.' ²⁰And Joshua commandeth the priests, saying, 'Come ye up out of the Jordan.'

²²And the people have come up out of the Jordan on the tenth of the first month, and they encamp in Gilgal, in the east extremity of Jericho. ²³And those twelve stones, which they have taken out of the Jordan, hath Joshua raised up in Gilgal.

²⁴And he speaketh unto the Children of Israel, saying, 'When your children ask their fathers hereafter, saying, What are these stones? ²⁵then have ye caused your children to know, saying, On dry land

Israel passed over this Jordan; ²⁶because the LORD your God dried up the waters of the Jordan at your presence, till your passing over, as the LORD your God did to the Red Sea which He dried up at our presence till our passing over; ²⁷in order that all the people of the land may know the hand of the LORD that it is strong, so that ye have revered the LORD your God continually.'

V. ¹AND it cometh to pass, when all the kings of the Amorites, which are beyond the Jordan, towards the sea, and all the kings of the Canaanites, which are by the sea, hear how that the LORD hath dried up the waters of the Jordan at the presence of the Children of Israel till their passing over, that their heart is melted, and there hath not been in them any more spirit because of the presence of the Children of Israel.

²At that time the LORD said unto Joshua, 'Make for thyself swords of flint, and turn back, circumcise the Children of Israel a second time.' ³And Joshua maketh for himself swords of flint, and circumciseth the Children of Israel unto the height of the foreskins.

⁴And this is the thing for which Joshua hath circumcised them: all the people who come out of Egypt, who are males, all the men of war have died in the wilderness, in the way, in their coming out of Egypt, ⁵for all the people who come out were circumcised, but all the people who are born in the wilderness, in the way, in their coming out, they have not circumcised; ⁶for forty years have the Children of Israel gone in the wilderness, till all the nation of the men of war who come out of Egypt, who hearkened not to the voice of the LORD, to whom the LORD hath sworn not to show them the land which the LORD sware to their fathers to give to us, a land flowing with milk and honey, are consumed; ⁷but their children whom He raised up in their stead,—Joshua hath circumcised, for they have been uncircumcised, for they have not circumcised them in the way.

⁸And it cometh to pass when all the nation have completed being circumcised, that they abide in their places in the camp till their reviving. ⁹And the LORD saith unto Joshua, 'To-day have I rolled the reproach of Egypt from off you; and one calleth the name of that place Gilgal unto this day.'

¹⁰And the Children of Israel encamp in Gilgal, and prepare the passover on the fourteenth day of the month, at evening, in the plains of Jericho. ¹¹And they eat of the old corn of the land on the morrow of the passover, unleavened things and roasted corn, in this self-same day. ¹²And the manna doth cease on the morrow in their eating of the old corn of the land, and there hath been no more manna to the Children of Israel, and they eat of the increase of the land of Canaan in that year.

¹³And it cometh to pass in Joshua's being by Jericho, that he lifteth up his eyes, and looketh, and lo, one standing over-against him, and his drawn sword in his hand; and Joshua goeth unto him, and saith to him,

'Art thou for us or for our adversaries?'
 14 And He saith, 'Nay, for I am Prince of the LORD's host; now have I come.' And Joshua falleth on his face to the earth, and doth obeisance, and saith to Him, 'What doth my Lord speak unto His servant?'
 15 And the Prince of the LORD's host saith unto Joshua, 'Cast off thy shoe from off thy foot, for the place on which thou standest is holy;' and Joshua doth so.

V. 16. ¹AND Jericho shutteth itself up, and is shut up, because of the presence of the Children of Israel,—none going out, and none coming in.

2 And the LORD saith unto Joshua, 'See, I have given unto thy hand Jericho and its king,—mighty ones of valour; and ye have compassed the city—all the men of battle—going round the city once; thus thou dost six days; 3 And seven priests do bear seven trumpets of jubilee before the ark; and on the seventh day ye do compass the city seven times, and the priests do blow with the trumpets. 4 Then it hath been, in the prolongation of the horn of the jubilee, in your hearing the sound of the trumpets, all the people shout a great shout, and the wall of the city hath fallen under it, and the people have gone up, each before him.'

6 And Joshua son of Nuu caddeth unto the priests, and saith unto them, 'Bear the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of jubilee before the ark of the LORD.' 7 He saith also unto the people, 'Pass over, and compass the city, and let him who is armed pass over before the ark of the LORD.'

8 And it cometh to pass, when Joshua speaketh unto the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of jubilee before the LORD have passed over and blown with the trumpets, and the ark of the covenant of the LORD goeth after them.

9 And he who is armed goeth before the priests who are blowing the trumpets, and he who gathereth up goeth after the ark, going on and blowing with the trumpets.

10 And the people hath Joshua commanded, saying, 'Ye do not shout, nor cause your voice to be heard, nor doth a word go out from your mouth, till the day of my saying unto you, Shout ye:—then have ye shouted.'

11 And the ark of the LORD doth compass the city, going round it once, and they come into the camp, and they lodge in the camp.

12 And Joshua riseth early in the morning, and the priests do bear the ark of the LORD, 13 and seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of jubilee before the ark of the LORD are walking, going on, then they have blown with the trumpets (and he who is armed goeth before them, and he who gathereth up goeth behind the ark of the LORD), going on and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And they compass the city once on the second day, and turn back to the camp; thus have they done six days.

15 And it cometh to pass, on the seventh day, that they rise early, at the ascending of the dawn, and compass the city, according to this ordinance, seven times; only, on that day they have compassed the city seven times. 16 And it cometh to pass, at the seventh time, the priests have blown with the trumpets, and Joshua saith unto the people, 'Shout ye, for the LORD hath given the city to you.' 17 And the city hath been devoted, it and all that is in it, to the LORD; only let Rahab the harlot live, she and all who are with her in the house, for she hid the messengers which we sent. 18 And ye have surely kept from the devoted thing, lest ye devote yourselves, and have taken from the devoted thing, and have made the camp of Israel become a devoted thing, and have troubled it. 19 And all the silver and gold, and the vessels of brass and iron, are holy to the LORD; they come into the treasury of the LORD.'

20 And the people have shouted, and they blow with the trumpets; and it cometh to pass when the people hear the sound of the trumpet, that the people shout a great shout, and the wall falleth under it, and the people goeth up into the city, each over-against him, and they capture the city.

21 And they devote all that is in the city, from man even unto woman, from young even unto aged, even unto ox, and sheep, and ass, by the edge of the sword.

22 And to the two men who spy the land Joshua hath said, 'Go into the house of the woman, the harlot, and bring out from thence the woman, and all whom she hath, as ye have sworn to her.' 23 And the young men, the spies, go in and bring out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all whom she hath: yea, all her families they brought out, and place them at the outside of the camp of Israel.

24 And the city they have burnt with fire, and all that is in it; only, the silver and the gold, and the vessels of brass, and of iron, have they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD. 25 And Rahab the harlot, and the house of her father, and all whom she hath, hath Joshua kept alive; and she dwelleth in the midst of Israel unto this day, for she hid the messengers whom Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

26 And Joshua adjureth them at that time, saying, 'Cursed is the man before the LORD who riseth up and hath built this city, even Jericho; in his first-born doth he lay its foundation, and in his youngest doth he set up its doors.' 27 And the LORD is with Joshua, and his fame is in all the land.

VII. 1 AND the Children of Israel commit a trespass in the devoted thing; and Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi-son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, taketh of the devoted thing; and the anger of the LORD burneth against the Children of Israel.

2 And Joshua sendeth men from Jericho to Ai, which is near Beth-Aven, at the east of Bethel, and speaketh unto them, saying, 'Go ye up and spy the land;' and the men go up and spy Ai; 3 and they turn back unto Joshua, and say unto him, 'Let not all the people go up: let about two thousand men, or about three thousand men go up, and let them smite Ai; cause not all the people to labour thither, for they are few.'

⁷And Joshua saith, 'Aha! O Lord Jehovah, why hast thou at all caused this people to pass over the Jordan, to give us into the hand of the Amorite to destroy us?—Oh that we had been willing that we should dwell beyond the Jordan.' ⁸O LORD, what shall I say after that Israel hath turned the neck before its enemies? ⁹and the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land do hear, and have come round against us, and have cut off our name out of the earth: and what dost Thou do for Thy great name?'

¹⁰And the LORD saith unto Joshua, 'Rise for thyself, why is this?—thou art falling on thy face. ¹¹Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed My covenant which I have commanded them, and have also taken of the devoted thing, and have also stolen, and have also deceived, and have also put it among their vessels; ¹²and the Children of Israel have not been able to stand before their enemies; the neck they turn before their enemies, for they have become a devoted thing; I continue not to be with you,—if ye destroy not the devoted thing out of your midst.

¹³'Rise, sanctify the people; then hast thou said, Sanctify yourselves by to-morrow: for thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, A devoted thing is in thy midst, O Israel: thou art not able to stand before thine enemies till your turning aside of the devoted thing out of your midst. ¹⁴When ye have been brought near in the morning by your tribes, then it hath been, the tribe which the LORD doth capture doth draw near by families; and the family which the LORD doth capture doth draw near by households; and the household which the LORD doth capture doth draw near by men. ¹⁵And it hath been, he who is captured with the devoted thing is burnt with fire, he and all that he hath, because he hath transgressed the covenant of the LORD, and because he hath done folly in Israel.'

¹⁶And Joshua riseth early in the morning, and bringeth Israel near by its tribes, and the tribe of Judah is captured; ¹⁷and he bringeth the families of Judah near, and he captureth the family of the Zarhites; and he bringeth near the family of the Zarhites by its men, and Zabdi is captured; ¹⁸and he bringeth near his household by its men, and Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, is captured.

¹⁹And Joshua saith unto Achan, 'My son, put, I pray thee, honour on the LORD,

God of Israel, and give thanks to Him, and declare, I pray thee, to me, what thou hast done—hide it not from me.'

²⁰And Achan answereth Joshua, and saith, 'Truly I have sinned against the LORD, God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done.'

²¹When I see among the spoil a goodly robe of Shinaar, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a wedge of gold, whose weight is fifty shekels, then I desire them, and take them; and lo, they are hid in the earth, in the midst of my tent, and the silver under it.'

²²And Joshua sendeth messengers, and they run unto the tent, and lo, it is hidden in his tent, and the silver under it. ²³And they take them out of the midst of the tent, and bring them in unto Joshua, and unto all the Children of Israel; and they pour them out before the LORD.

²⁴And Joshua taketh Achan son of Zerah, and the silver, and the robe, and the wedge of gold, and his sons, and his daughters, and his ox, and his ass, and his flock, and his tent, and all that he hath, and all Israel with him, and they cause them to go up into the valley of Achor.

VIII. ¹AND the LORD saith unto Joshua, 'Fear not, nor be affrighted; take with thee all the people of war, and rise, go up to Ai; see, I have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land. ²Then thou hast done to Ai and to her king as thou hast done to Jericho and to her king; only, its spoil and its cattle ye do spoil for yourselves; place for thyself an ambush for the city at its rear.'

³And Joshua riseth, and all the people of war, to go up to Ai; and Joshua chooseth thirty thousand men, mighty ones of valour, and sendeth them away by night. ⁴And he commandeth them, saying, 'See, ye are liers in wait against the city, at the rear of the city, go not very far off from the city; when all of you have been prepared, ⁵then I and all the people who are with me do draw near unto the city, and it hath come to pass when they come out to meet us as at the first, that we have fled before them, ⁶and they have come out after us till we have drawn them out of the city, for they say, They flee before us as at the first; when we have fled before them, ⁷then ye rise from the ambush, and have occupied the city, seeing the LORD your God hath given it into your hand; ⁸and it hath been, when ye capture the city, ye do burn the city with fire; according to the word of the LORD ye do; see, I have commanded you.'

⁹And Joshua sendeth them away, and they go into the ambush, and they abide between Bethel and Ai, at the west of Ai; and Joshua lodgeth during that night in the midst of the people.

¹⁰And Joshua riseth early in the morning, and inspecteth the people, and he goeth up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai. ¹¹And all the people of war who are with him have gone up, yea, they draw nigh and come in over-against the city, and they encamp at the north of Ai, and the valley is between them and Ai.

¹²And he taketh about five thousand men, and setteth them an ambush between Bethel and Ai, at the west of the city.

¹³When they set the people, even all the camp which is at the north of the city, and its rear at the west of the city, then Joshua goeth during that night into the valley.

¹⁴And it cometh to pass, when the king of Ai seeth, that the men of the city hasten, and rise early, and go out to meet Israel for battle, he and all his people, at the appointed season, at the front of the plain: but he hath not known that an ambush is against him, at the rear of the city.

²⁰And the men of Ai look behind them, and they see, and lo, the smoke of the city hath gone up unto the heavens, and there hath been no power in them to flee hither or thither—the people also who are fleeing to the wilderness have turned against the pursuer:—²¹And Joshua and all Israel have seen that the ambush hath captured the city, and that the smoke of the city hath gone up, and they turn back and smite the men of Ai; ²²and the others have come out from the city to meet them, and they are in the midst of Israel, some at this side, and some at that, and they smite them till he hath not left to them a remnant or escaped one. ²³And the king of Ai they have caught alive, and they bring him near unto Joshua.

³⁰Then doth Joshua build an altar to the LORD, God of Israel, in mount Ebal, ³¹as Moses the servant of the LORD hath commanded the Children of Israel, as written in the book of the law of Moses,—an altar of whole stones, over which he hath not waved iron,—and they cause burnt-offerings to go up on it to the LORD, and sacrifice peace-offerings. ³²And he writeth there on the stones the duplicate of the law of Moses, which he hath written in the presence of the Children of Israel.

³³And all Israel, and its elders, and authorities, and its judges, are standing at this side and at that of the ark, over-against the priests, the Levites, bearers of the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the sojourner as the native, half of them over-against mount Gerizim, and half of them over-against mount Ebal, as Moses the servant of the LORD hath commanded to bless the people of Israel at the first.

³⁴And afterwards hath he proclaimed all the words of the law, the blessing and the cursing, according to all that is written in the book of the law. ³⁵There hath not been a thing of all that Moses hath commanded which Joshua hath not proclaimed before all the congregation of Israel, with the women, and the infants, and the sojourner who goeth in their midst.

IX. ¹AND it cometh to pass, when all the kings who are beyond the Jordan, in the hill-country, and in the low-country, and in every haven of the great sea over-against Lebanon, the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, hear—²that they gather themselves to fight with Joshua, and with Israel, with one voice.

³And the inhabitants of Gibeon have heard that which Joshua hath done to Jericho and to Ai, ⁴and they work, even they, with subtlety, and they go, and feign to be ambassadors, and take old sacks for their asses, and wine-bottles, old, and rent, and bound up, ⁵and sandals, old and patched, on their feet, and old garments upon them, and all the bread of their provision is dry,—it was crumb.

⁶And they go unto Joshua, unto the camp at Gilgal, and they say unto him, and unto the men of Israel, 'From a land afar off have we come, and now, make ye with us a covenant.' ⁷And the men of Israel say unto the Hivites, 'It may be ye are dwelling in our midst, and how do we make with you a covenant?' ⁸And they say unto Joshua, 'We are thy servants.' And Joshua saith unto them, 'Who are ye? and from whence come ye?'

⁹And they say unto him, 'From a land very far off have thy servants come, for the name of the LORD thy God, for we have heard His fame, and all that He hath done in Egypt, ¹⁰and all that He hath done to the two kings of the Amorites who are beyond the Jordan, to Sihon king of Heshbon, and to Og king of Bashan, who is in Ashteroth. ¹¹And our elders, and all the inhabitants of our land speak unto us, saying, Take in your hand provision for the way, and go to meet them, then have ye said unto them, We are your servants, and now, make with us a covenant: ¹²this our bread—hot we provided ourselves with it out of our houses, on the day of our coming out to go unto you, and now, lo, it is dry, and hath become crumbs. ¹³And these are the wine-bottles which we filled, new, but lo, they have rent; and these, our garments and our sandals, have become old, by the exceeding greatness of the way.'

¹⁴And the men take of their provision, and at the mouth of the LORD have not asked; ¹⁵and Joshua maketh peace with them, and maketh a covenant with them, to keep them alive; and the princes of the company do swear to them.

¹⁶And it cometh to pass, at the end of three days after that they have made a covenant with them, that they hear that they are their neighbours—that they are dwelling in their midst. ¹⁷And the Children of Israel journey and come in unto their cities on the third day; and their cities are Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kirjath-Jearim. ¹⁸And the Children of Israel have not smitten them, for the princes of the company have sworn to them by the LORD, God of Israel, and all the company murmur against the princes; ¹⁹and all the princes say unto all the company, 'We have sworn to them by the LORD, God of Israel; and now, we are not permitted to come against them: ²⁰this we will do to them, and have kept them alive, and wrath is not upon us, because of the oath which we have sworn to them.' ²¹And the princes say unto them, 'Let them live (and let them be hewers of wood and drawers of water for all the company), as the princes have spoken to them.'

²²And Joshua calleth for them, and speaketh unto them, saying, 'Why have ye deceived us, saying, We are very far from you, while ye are dwelling in our midst? ²³And now, ye are cursed, and none of you is cut off from being a servant, even hewers of wood and drawers of water for the house of my God.'

²⁴And they answer Joshua and say, 'Because it was certainly declared to thy servants, that the LORD thy God commanded His servant Moses to give to you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you; then we are greatly afraid for ourselves because of you, and we do this thing. ²⁵And now, lo, we are in thy hand, as it is good, and as it is right in thine eyes to do to us, do.'

²⁶And so he doth to them, and delivereth them from the hand of the Children of Israel, and they have not slain them. ²⁷And Joshua maketh them on that day hewers of wood and drawers of water for the company, and for the altar of the LORD, unto this day, at the place which He chooseth.

X. ¹AND it cometh to pass, when Adonizdec king of Jerusalem heareth that Joshua hath captured Ai, and doth devote it (as he had done to Jericho and to her king, and that the inhabitants of Gibeon have made peace with Israel, and are in their midst,—they also are greatly afraid, because Gibeon is a great city, as one of the royal cities, and because it is greater than Ai; and all its men are heroes. ²And Adonizdec king of Jerusalem sendeth unto Hiram king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachish, and unto Debir king of Eglon, saying, 'Come up unto me, and help me, and let us smite Gibeon, for it hath made peace with Joshua, and with the Children of Israel.'

³And five kings of the Amorite (the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon) are gathered together, and go up, they and all their camps, and encamp against Gibeon, and fight against it.

⁵And Joshua goeth up from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, even all the mighty men of valour.

⁶And the LORD saith unto Joshua, 'Be not afraid of them, for I have given them into thy hand; no man of them doth stand in thy presence.'

ley of Ajalon.' ¹³ And the sun standeth still, and the moon hath stood—till the nation taketh vengeance on its enemies. Is it not written in the Book of the Upright, that 'the sun standeth in the midst of the heavens, and it hath not hasted to go in—as it were a whole day?' ¹⁴ And there hath not been like that day before it or after it, for the LORD's hearkening to the voice of a man; for the LORD is fighting for Israel.

²⁰ And it cometh to pass, when Joshua and the Children of Israel finish smiting them with a very great smiting till they are consumed, and the remnant who have remained of them have gone in unto the fenced cities, ²¹ that all the people turn back to the camp unto Joshua, at Makkedah, in peace; none moved sharply against the Children of Israel with his tongue.

²⁴ And it cometh to pass, when they bring out these kings unto Joshua, that Joshua calleth unto every man of Israel, and saith unto the captains of the men of war, who have gone with him, 'Draw near: set your feet on the necks of these kings; and they draw near, and set their feet on their necks.

fighteth with Libnah. ³⁰ And the LORD giveth even it into the hand of Israel, its king also, and he smiteth it by the edge of the sword, and every person who is in it; he left not in it a remnant; and he doth to its king as he did to the king of Jericho.

³¹ And Joshua passeth over, and all Israel with him, from Libnah to Lachish, and encampeth against it, and fighteth against it.

³² And the LORD giveth Lachish into the hand of Israel, and it captureth it on the second day, and smiteth it by the edge of the sword, and every person who is in it, according to all that it hath done to Libnah.

³³ Then hath Hiram king of Gezer come up to help Lachish, and Joshua smiteth him and his people till he hath not left to him a remnant.

³⁴ And Joshua passeth over, and all Israel with him, from Lachish to Eglon, and they encamp against it, and fight against it; ³⁵ and capture it on that day, and smite it by the edge of the sword, and every person who is in it on that day he hath devoted, according to all that he did to Lachish.

³⁶ And Joshua goeth up, and all Israel with him, from Eglon to Hebron, and they fight against it, ³⁷ and capture it, and smite it by the edge of the sword, and its king, and all its cities, and every person who is in it: he hath not left a remnant (according to all that he hath done to Eglon), and doth devote it, and every person who is in it.

³⁸ And Joshua turneth back, and all Israel with him, to Debir, and fighteth against it, ³⁹ and captureth it, and its king, and all its cities, and they smite them by the edge of the sword, and devote every person who is in it; he hath not left a remnant: as he hath done to Hebron so hath he done to Debir, and to its king, even as he hath done to Libnah, and to its king.

XI. ¹ AND it cometh to pass when Jabin king of Hazor heareth, that he sendeth unto Jobab king of Madon, and unto the king of Shimron, and unto the king of Achshaph, ² and unto the kings who are at the north in the hill-country, and in the plain south of Chinneroth, and in the low country, and in the elevations of Dor, at the west, ³ to the Canaanite at the east, and at the west, and the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite in the hill-country, and the Hivite under Hermon, in the land of Mizpeh;—⁴ and they go out, they and all their camps with them, a numerous people, as the sand which is on the sea-shore for multitude, and horses and charioteers very many. ⁶And all these kings are met together, and they come and encamp together at the waters of Merom, to fight with Israel.

⁶And the LORD saith unto Joshua, 'Be not afraid of their presence; for to-morrow about this time do I give up all of them wounded before Israel: their horses thou dost hough, and their chariots burn with fire.'

¹⁵As the LORD hath commanded Moses His servant, so hath Moses commanded Joshua, and so hath Joshua done; he hath not turned aside a word of all that the LORD hath commanded Moses.

¹⁶And Joshua taketh all that land, the hill-country, and all the south, and all the land of Goshen, and the low-country, and the plain, even the hill-country of Israel and its low lands, ¹⁷from the mount of Halak, which goeth up to Seir, even unto Baal-Gad, in the valley of Lebanon, under mount Hermon; all their kings also hath he captured, and he smiteth them, and putteth them to death. ¹⁸Many days hath Joshua made war with all these kings; ¹⁹there hath not been a city which hath made peace with the Children of Israel save the Hivites, the inhabitants of Gibeon; the whole have they taken in battle. ²⁰For it hath been of the LORD to strengthen their heart, to meet in battle with Israel, in order to devote them, so that they have no grace, but in order to destroy them, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

²¹And Joshua cometh at that time, and cutteth off the Anakim from the hill-country, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, even from all the hill-country of Judah, and from all the hill-country of Israel: with their cities hath Joshua devoted them.

²²There were not left any of the Anakim in the land of the Children of Israel: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod were they left.

²³And Joshua taketh the whole of the land, according to all that the LORD hath spoken unto Moses, and Joshua giveth it for an inheritance to Israel, according to their divisions by their tribes; and the land hath rest from war.

XII. ¹AND these are the kings of the land whom the Children of Israel have smitten, and possess their land, beyond the Jordan, at the sun-rising, from the brook of Arnon unto mount Hermon, and all the plain eastward: ²Sihon king of the Amorite, who dwelleth in Heshbon, ruling from Aroer, which is on the border of the brook of Arnon, and the middle of the brook, and half of Gilead, even unto the brook of Jabbok, the border of the Beul-Ammon; ³and the plain unto the sea of Chinneroth eastward, even unto the sea of the plain the salt sea eastward, the way to Beth-Jeshi-moth, and from the south under the springs of Pishgah, ⁴and the border of Og king of Bashan (of the remnant of the Rephaim, who dwelleth in Ashtaroth and in Edrei, ⁵and ruleth in mount Hermon, and in Salcah, and in all Bashan, unto the border of the Geshurites, and the Maachathites, and the half of Gilead, the border of Sihon king of Heshbon. ⁶Moses the servant of the LORD, and the Children of Israel, have smitten them, and Moses the servant of the LORD giveth it—a possession to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half of the tribe of Manasseh.

⁷And these are the kings of the land whom Joshua and the Children of Israel have smitten beyond the Jordan westward, from Baal-Gad, in the valley of Lebanon, even unto the mount of Halak, which goeth up to Seir; and Joshua giveth it to the tribes of Israel—a possession, according to their divisions. ⁸In the hill-country, and in the low country, and in the plain, and in the springs, and in the wilderness, and in the south; the Hittite, the Amorite, and the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite:

⁹The king of Jericho, one;

The king of Ai, which is beside Bethel, one;

¹⁰The king of Jerusalem, one;

The king of Hebron, one;

¹¹The king of Jarmuth, one;

The king of Lachish, one;

¹²The king of Eglon, one;

The king of Gezer, one;

¹³The king of Debir, one;

The king of Gedar, one;

¹⁴The king of Hormah, one;

The king of Arad, one;

¹⁵The king of Libnah, one;

The king of Adullam, one;

¹⁶The king of Makedah, one;

The king of Bethel, one;

¹⁷The king of Tappuah, one;

- The king of Hopher, one;
 18 The king of Aphek, one;
 The king of Lasharon, one;
 19 The king of Madon, one;
 The king of Hazor, one;
 20 The king of Shinaron-Meron, one;
 The king of Achshaph, one;
 21 The king of Taanach, one;
 The king of Megiddo, one;
 22 The king of Kedesh, one;
 The king of Jokneam of Carmel, one;
 23 The king of Dor, at the hill of Dor, one;
 The king of the Goyim of Gilgal, one;
 24 The king of Tirzah, one;

All the kings are thirty and one.

XIII. ¹AND Joshua is old, entering into days, and the LORD saith unto him, Thou hast become aged, thou hast entered into days; as to the land, very much hath been left to possess.

²This is the land which is left: all the circuits of the Philistines, and all Geshuri, ³from Sihor which is on the front of Egypt, even unto the border of Ekron northward, reckoned to the Canaanite: five princes of the Philistines, the Gazathites, and the Ashdodites, the Eshkalonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites: ⁴the Avites also. ⁵From the south, all the land of the Canaanite, and Merah, which is to the Sidonians, unto Aphek, unto the border of the Amorite: ⁶and the land of the Gileites, and all Lebanon, at the sun-rising, from Baal-Gad under mount Hermon, unto the going in to Hamath: ⁷all the inhabitants of the hill-country, from Lebanon unto Misrephoth-Maim, all the Sidonians: I dispossess them before the Children of Israel; only, cause it to fall to Israel for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

⁸And now, apportion this land for an inheritance to the nine tribes, and the half of the tribe of Manasseh, ⁹with whom the Reubenites and the Gadites have received their inheritance, which Moses hath given to them beyond the Jordan eastward, as Moses the servant of the LORD hath given to them. ¹⁰From Aroer, which is on the edge of the brook of Arnon, and the city which is in the midst of the brook, and all the plain of Medeba unto Dibon: ¹¹and all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorite, who reigned in Heshbon, unto the border of the Beni-Ammon: ¹²and Gilead, and the border of the Geshurites, and of the Maachathites, and all mount Hermon, and all Bashan unto Salcah: ¹³all the kingdom of Og in Bashan, who reigned in Ashtaroth and in Edrei; he was left of the remnant of the Rephaim, and Moses smiteth them, and dispossesseth them. ¹⁴And the Children of Israel dispossessed not the Geshurite, nor the Maachathite; and Geshur and Maachath dwell in the midst of Israel to this day.

¹⁶And Moses giveth to the tribe of the Children of Reuben, for their families.

¹⁷And the border is to them from Aroer, which is on the edge of the brook of Arnon, and the city which is in the midst of the brook, and all the plain by Medeba, ¹⁸Heshbon, and all its cities which are in the plain, Dibon, and Bamoth-Baal, and Beth-Baal-Meon, ¹⁹and Jahaza, and Kedemoth, and Mephaath, ²⁰and Kirjathaim, and Sibmah, and Zareth-Shahar, in the mount of the valley, ²¹and Beth-Peor, and the springs of Pisgah, and Beth-Jeshimoth, ²²and all the cities of the plain, and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, whom Moses smote with the princes of Midian, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, princes of Sihon, inhabitants of the land.

²³Balaam also, son of Beor, the diviner, have the Children of Israel slain with the sword, among their wounded ones.

²⁴And the border of the Children of Reuben is the Jordan, and its border: this is the inheritance of the Children of Reuben for their families, the cities and their villages.

²⁵And Moses giveth to the tribe of Gad, to the Children of Gad, for their families.

³³These are they whom Moses hath caused to inherit in the plains of Moab, beyond the Jordan, by Jericho, eastward. ³⁴But to the tribe of Levi Moses gave no inheritance: the LORD, God of Israel, himself is their inheritance, as He hath spoken to them.

XIV. ¹AND these are they of the Children of Israel who have an inheritance in the land of Canaan, whom Eleazar the priest, and Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the Children of Israel have caused to inherit: ²their inheritance is by lot, as the LORD hath commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine of the tribes, and for the half of the tribe: ³for Moses hath given the inheritance of two of the tribes, and of half of the tribe, beyond the Jordan, but to the Levites he hath not given an inheritance in their midst; ⁴for the Children of Joseph have been two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim, and they have not given a portion to the Levites in the land, save cities to dwell in, and their suburbs for their cattle, and for their possessions: ⁵as the LORD hath commanded Moses, so have the Children of Israel done, and they apportion the land.

⁶And the Children of Judah come nigh unto Joshua in Gilgal, and Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenezite saith unto him, 'Thou hast known the thing that the LORD hath spoken unto Moses the man of God, concerning my circumstances and concerning thy circumstances in Kadesh-Barnea: ⁷forty years old was I in Moses sending me from Kadesh-Barnea, to spy the land, and I bring him back word as at my heart. ⁸But my brethren who have gone up with me have caused the heart of the people to melt, but I have been fully after the LORD my God. ⁹And Moses sweareth in that day, saying, If not—the land on which thy foot hath trodden is thine for an inheritance, and thy children's for ever, for thou hast been fully after the LORD my God.

¹⁰And now, lo, the LORD hath kept me alive, as He hath spoken, these forty and five years, since the LORD spake this word unto Moses, when Israel went in the wilderness; and now, lo, I am to-day five and eighty years old. ¹¹Yet am I to-day strong as in the day of Moses sending me: as my power then, so is my power now, for battle, even to go out and to come in.

¹²And now, give to me this hill-country, of which the LORD spake in that day, for thou didst hear in that day that the Anakim are there, and great fenced cities; if so be the LORD is with me, then have I dispossessed them, as the LORD hath spoke.'

¹³And Joshua blesseth him, and giveth Hebron to Caleb son of Jephunneh for an inheritance. ¹⁴Therefore hath Hebron been to Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenezite for an inheritance unto this day, because that he was fully after the LORD, God of Israel.

¹⁵And the name of Hebron formerly was Kirjath-Arba (he is the great man among the Anakim), and the land hath rest from war.

XV. ¹AND the lot for the tribe of the Children of Judah, for their families, is unto the border of Edom: the wilderness of Zin southward, at the extremity of the south. ²And to them the south border is at the extremity of the salt sea, from the bay which looketh southward: ³and it hath gone out at the south to Malch-Acrabbim, and hath passed over to Zin, and hath gone up at the south to Kadesh-Barnea, and hath passed over to Hebron, and hath gone up to Adar, and hath turned round to Karkaa: ⁴and hath passed over to Azmon, and hath gone out at the brook of Egypt, and the outgoings of the border have been at the sea; this is to you the south border.

⁵And the east border is the salt sea, unto the extremity of the Jordan, and the border at the north quarter is from the bay of the sea, at the extremity of the Jordan: ⁶and the border hath gone up to Beth-Hogla, and hath passed over at the north of Beth-

Arabah, and the border hath gone up to the stone of Bohan son of Reuben. ⁷And the border hath gone up towards Debir from the valley of Achor, and northward looking unto Gilgal, which is over-against the ascent of Adummim, which is at the south of the brook, and the border hath passed over unto the waters of En-Shemesh, and its outgoings have been at En-Rogel: ⁸and the border hath gone up by the valley of the son of Hinnom, unto the side of the Jebusite, at the south (which is Jerusalem), and the border hath gone up unto the top of the hill-country which is on the front of the valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the extremity of the valley of the Rephaim northward: ⁹and the border hath been marked out, from the top of the hill-country unto the fountain of the waters of Nephtoah, and it hath gone out unto the cities of mount Ephraim, and the border hath been marked out to Baalah, which is Kirjath-Jearim: ¹⁰and the border hath gone round from Baalah westward, unto mount Seir, and hath passed over unto the side of mount Jearim (which is Chesalon), at the north, and hath gone down to Beth-Shemesh, and hath passed over to Timnah: ¹¹and the border hath gone out unto the side of Ekron northward, and the border hath been marked out to Shicron, and hath passed over to mount Baalah, and hath gone out to Jahmuel; and the outgoings of the border have been at the sea.

¹²And the west border is to the great sea, and its border: this is the border of the Children of Judah round about, for their families.

¹³And to Caleb son of Jephunneh hath he given a portion in the midst of the Children of Judah, according to the command of the LORD to Joshua, even the city of Arba, the father of Anak, which is Hebron.

¹⁴And Caleb dispossesseth from thence the three sons of Anak, Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmi, children of Anak. ¹⁵And he goeth up from thence against the inhabitants of Debir: and the name of Debir formerly was Kirjath-Sepher.

¹⁶And Caleb saith, 'He who smiteth Kirjath-Sepher and hath captured it—then have I given to him Achsah my daughter for a wife.' ¹⁷And Othniel son of Kenaz, brother of Caleb, doth capture it, and he giveth to him Achsah his daughter for a wife.

¹⁸And it cometh to pass, in her coming in, that she persuadeth him to ask from her father a field: and she lighteth from off the ass, and Caleb saith to her, 'What—to thee?' ¹⁹And she saith, 'Give to me, I pray thee, a blessing: when thou hast given me the land of the south, then hast thou given to me springs of waters:' and he giveth to her the upper springs and the lower springs.

²⁰This is the inheritance of the tribe of the Children of Judah, for their families. ²¹And the cities at the extremity of the tribe of the Children of Judah are unto the border of Edom in the south, Kabzeel, and Eder, and Jagur, ²²and Kinah, and Dimonah, and Adadah, ²³and Kedesh, and Hazor.

and Itnan, ²⁴Ziph, and Telem, and Bealoth, ²⁵and Hazor, Hadattah, and Kerioth, Hezron, (which is Hazor,) ²⁶Aman, and Shema, and Moladah, ²⁷and Hazar-Gaddah, and Heshmon, and Beth-Palet, ²⁸and Hazar-Shual, and Beer-Sheba, and Bizjeth-Jah, ²⁹Banlah, and Iim, and Azem, ³⁰and Elolad, and Chesil, and Hormah, ³¹and Ziklag, and Madmannah, and Sansannah, ³²and Lebaoth, and Shilhim, and Ain, and Rimmon; all the cities are twenty and nine, and their villages.

³³In the low country: Eshtaol, and Zorah, and Ashmoh, ³⁴and Zanoah, and Engannim, Tappuah, and Enam, ³⁵Jarmuth, and Adullam, Socoh, and Azekah, ³⁶and Sharaim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, and Gederothaim; fourteen cities and their villages.

³⁷Zean, and Hadashah, and Migdal-Gad, ³⁸and Dilean, and Mizpeh, and Joktheel, ³⁹Laishah, and Bozkath, and Eglon, ⁴⁰and Cabbon, and Lahmam, and Kithlish, ⁴¹and Gederoth, Beth-Dagon, and Naamah, and Makkedah; sixteen cities and their villages.

⁴²Lithnah, and Ethar, and Ashan, ⁴³and Jiphthah, and Ashnah, and Nezib, ⁴⁴and Keilah, and Achzib, and Mareshah; nine cities and their villages.

⁴⁵Ekron and its towns and its villages, ⁴⁶from Ekron even to the sea, all that are by the side of Ashdod and their villages. ⁴⁷Ashdod and its towns and its villages. Gaza and its towns and its villages, unto the brook of Egypt, and the great sea, and its border.

⁴⁸And in the hill-country: Shamir, and Jattir, and Socoh, ⁴⁹and Danah, and Kirjath-Sannah (which is Debir), ⁵⁰and Anah, and Eshtemoth, and Anin, ⁵¹and Goshen, and Holon, and Giloh; eleven cities and their villages.

⁵²Arab, and Dumah, and Eshean, ⁵³and Janin, and Beth-Tappuah, and Aphekah, ⁵⁴and Humtah, and Kirjath-Arba (which is Hebron), and Zior; nine cities and their villages.

⁵⁵Maon, Carmel, and Ziph, and Juttah, ⁵⁶and Jezreel, and Jokdeam, and Zanoah, ⁵⁷Cain, Gilbeah, and Timnah; ten cities and their villages.

⁵⁸Hadul, Beth-Zur, and Gedor, ⁵⁹and Maanath, and Beth-Atoth, and Elkethon; six cities and their villages.

⁶⁰Kirjath-Baal (which is Kirjath-Jearim), and Babab; two cities and their villages.

⁶¹In the wilderness: Beth-Arabah, Middin, and Secacah, ⁶²and Nishan, and the city of Salt, and En-Gedi; six cities and their villages.

⁶³As to the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the Children of Judah have not been able to dispossess them: and the Jebusite dwelleth with the Children of Judah in Jerusalem unto this day.

XVI. ¹AND the lot for the Children of Joseph goeth out from Jordan by Jericho, to the waters of Jericho at the east, to the wilderness going up from Jericho in the hill-country of Bethel, ²and it hath gone out from Bethel to Luz, and hath passed over unto the border of Archi to Ataroth, ³and hath gone down westward unto the border of Japhleti, unto the border of Beth-Horon the lower, and unto Gezer, and its outgoings have been at the sea. ⁴And the children of Joseph—Manasseh and Ephraim—inherit.

⁵And the border of the Children of Ephraim is for their families; at the border of their inheritance is at the east, Ataroth-Addar unto Beth-Horon the upper; ⁶and the border hath gone out at the sea, to Michmethah at the north, and the border hath gone round eastward to Taanath-Shilo, and hath passed over it eastward to Janolah; ⁷and hath gone down from Janolah to Ataroth, and to Naarath, and hath touched against Jericho, and hath gone out at the Jordan. ⁸From Tappuah the border goeth westward unto the brook of Kanah, and its outgoings have been at the sea: this is the inheritance of the tribe of the Children of Ephraim for their families.

⁹And the separate cities of the Children of Ephraim are in the midst of the inheritance of the Children of Manasseh, all the cities and their villages. ¹⁰And they have not dispossessed the Canaanite who dwelleth in Gezer; and the Canaanite dwelleth in the midst of Ephraim unto this day, and is a servant to tribute.

XVII. ¹AND the lot is for the tribe of Manasseh (for he is the first-born of Joseph), for Machir the first-born of Manasseh, the father of Gilead, for he hath been a man of war, and his are Gilead and Bashan.

³As to Zelophehad son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, he hath no children save daughters, and these are the names of his daughters: Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milchah, and Tirzah; ⁴and they draw near before Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, 'The LORD commanded Moses to give to us an inheritance in the midst of our brethren;' and he giveth to them, at the command of the LORD, an inheritance in the midst of the brethren of their father.

⁵And ten portions fall to Manasseh, apart from the land of Gilead, and Bashan, which are beyond the Jordan. ⁶For the daughters of Manasseh have inherited their inheritance in the midst of his sons, and the land of Gilead hath been to the sons of Manasseh who are left.

⁷And the border of Manasseh is from Asher to Michmethah, which is on the front of Shechem, and the border hath gone on unto the right, unto the inhabitants of En-Tappuah. ⁸To Manasseh hath been the land of Tappuah; but Tappuah unto the border of Manasseh is the Children of Ephraim's. ⁹And the border hath come down to the brook of Kanah, southward of the brook: these cities of Ephraim are in the midst of the cities of Manasseh, and the border of Manasseh is at the north of the brook, and its outgoings are at the sea.¹⁰ Southward is Ephraim's, and northward Manasseh's, and the sea is his border, and in Asher they meet at the north, and in Issachar at the east.

¹¹ And Manasseh hath in Issachar and in Asher, Beth-Shean and its towns, and Ib-lean and its towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and its towns, and the inhabitants of En-Dor and its towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and its towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and its towns, three counties.

XVIII. ¹ AND all the company of the Children of Israel are congregated at Shiloh, and they cause the tent of meeting to tabernacle there, and the land hath been subdued before them. ² And there are left among the Children of Israel who have not shared their inheritance, seven tribes.

before the LORD our God. ⁷ But there is no portion for the Levites in your midst, for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance; and Gad, and Reuben, and the half of the tribe of Manasseh received their inheritance beyond the Jordan eastward, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave to them.'

⁸ And the men rise and go; and Joshua commandeth those who go to describe the land, saying, 'Go ye; when ye have walked up and down through the land, then have ye described it, and turned back unto me, and have let me cast a lot for you before the LORD in Shiloh.'

¹¹ And the lot goeth up for the tribe of the Children of Benjamin, for their families; and the border of their lot goeth out between the Children of Judah and the Children of Joseph. ¹² And the border is to them at the north side from the Jordan, and the border hath gone up unto the side of Jericho, at the north, and hath gone up through the hill-country westward, and its outgoings have been at the wilderness of Beth-Aven. ¹³ And the border hath gone over from thence to Luz, unto the side of Luz (which is Bethel) southward, and the border hath gone down to Aroth-Adar, by the hill which is at the south of the lower Beth-Horon. ¹⁴ And the border hath been marked out, and hath gone round to the corner of the sea southward, from the hill which is at the front of Beth-Horon southward, and its outgoings have been at Kirjath-Baal (which is Kirjath-Jearim), a city of the Children of Judah: this is the west quarter.

²⁰ And the Jordan bordereth it at the east quarter: this is the inheritance of the Children of Benjamin, by its borders round about, for their families.

²¹ And the cities for the tribe of the Children of Benjamin, for their families, have been Jericho, and Beth-Hoglah, and the valley of Keziz, ²² and Beth-Arabah, and Zemaraim, and Bethel, ²³ and Avim, and Parah, and Ophrah, ²⁴ and Chephar-Haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba; twelve cities and their villages.

XIX. ¹ AND the second lot goeth out for Simeon, for the tribe of the Children of Simeon, for their families; and their inheritance is in the midst of the inheritance of the Children of Judah: ² and they have in their inheritance Beer-Sheba, and Sheba, and Moladah, ³ and Hazar-Shual, and Balah, and Azem, ⁴ and Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah, ⁵ and Ziklag, and Beth-Marcaboth, and Hazar-Susah, ⁶ and Beth-Lebaoth, and Sharuhen; thirteen cities and their villages.

⁷ Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Ashan; four cities and their villages.

⁸ Also all the villages which are round about these cities, unto Baalath-Beer, Ramoth of the south. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the Children of Simeon, for their families. ⁹ Out of the portion of the Children of Judah is the inheritance of the Children of Simeon; for the portion of the Children of Judah hath been too much for them, and the Children of Simeon inherit in the midst of their inheritance.

touched against Tabor, and Shahazimnah, and Beth-Shemesh, and the outgoings of their border have been at the Jordan; sixteen cities and their villages. ²³ This is the inheritance of the tribe of the Children of Issachar, for their families, the cities and their villages.

⁴⁹ And they finish giving the land in inheritance, by its borders, and the Children of Israel give an inheritance to Joshua son of Nun in their midst. ²⁰By the command of the LORD have they given to him the city which he hath asked, even Timnath-Serah, in the hill country of Ephraim, and he buildeth the city and dwelleth in it.

²¹These are the inheritances which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the Children of Israel have caused to inherit by lot, in Shiloh, before the LORD, at the opening of the tent of meeting; and they complete apportioning the land.

XX. ¹AND the LORD speaketh unto Joshua, saying, ²'Speak unto the Children of Israel, saying, Make for yourselves cities of refuge, as I have spoken unto you by means of Moses; ³for the fleeing thither of a man-slayer smiting the life ignorantly, without knowledge; then have they been to you for a refuge from the redeemer of blood. ⁴When one hath fled unto one of these cities, and hath stood at the opening of the gate of the city, and hath spoken his matter in the ears of the elders of that city, then have they gathered him into the city unto them, and they have given to him a place, and he hath dwelt with them.

XXI. ¹AND the heads of the fathers of the Levites draw nigh unto Eleazar the priest, and unto Joshua son of Nun, and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the Children of Israel; ²and they speak unto them in Shiloh, in the land of Canaan, saying, 'The LORD hath commanded by the hand of Moses to give to us cities to dwell in, and their suburbs for our cattle.' ³And the Children of Israel give to the Levites out of their inheritance, at the command of the LORD, these cities and their suburbs.

⁴And the lot goeth out for the families of the Kohathites, and there is for the Children of Aaron the priest (of the Levites), out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin, by lot thirteen cities; ⁵and for the Children of Kohath who are left are out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half of the tribe of Manasseh, by lot ten cities;

⁶And for the Children of Gershon are out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, by lot, thirteen cities.

⁷For the Children of Merari, for their families, are out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

⁸And the Children of Israel give to the Levites these cities and their suburbs, as the LORD hath commanded by the hand of Moses, by lot.

¹³And to the Children of Aaron the priest have they given the city of refuge for the man-slayer, even Hebron and its suburbs, and Libnah and its suburbs, ¹⁴and Jattir and its suburbs, and Eshtemoa and its suburbs, ¹⁵and Holon and its suburbs, and Debir and its suburbs, ¹⁶and Ain and its suburbs, and Juttah and its suburbs, Beth-She-mesh and its suburbs; nine cities out of these two tribes.

¹⁷And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon and its suburbs, Geba and its suburbs, ¹⁸Anathoth and its suburbs, and Almon and its suburbs; four cities. ¹⁹All the cities of the Children of Aaron, the priests, are thirteen cities and their suburbs.

²⁰And for the families of the Children of Kohath, the Levites, who are left of the Children of Kohath, even the cities of their lot are of the tribe of Ephraim: ²¹and they give to them the city of refuge for the man-slayer, even Shechem and its suburbs, in the hill-country of Ephraim, and Gezer and its suburbs, ²²and Kibzaim and its suburbs, and Beth-Horon and its suburbs; four cities.

²³And out of the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh and its suburbs, Gibbethon and its suburbs, ²⁴Aijalon and its suburbs, Gath-Rimmon and its suburbs; four cities.

²⁵And out of the half of the tribe of Manasseh, Tanach and its suburbs, and Gath-Rimmon and its suburbs; two cities. ²⁶All the cities are ten and their suburbs, for the families of the Children of Kohath who are left.

²⁷And for the Children of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, out of the other half of the tribe of Manasseh, the city of refuge for the slayer, Golan in Bashan and its suburbs, and Beeshterah and its suburbs; two cities.

⁴⁰ All the cities for the Children of Merari, for their families, who are left of the families of the Levites, their lot is twelve cities.

⁴¹ All the cities of the Levites in the midst of the inheritance of the Children of Israel are forty and eight cities, and their suburbs.

⁴² These cities are each city and its suburbs round them: so to all these cities.

⁴³ And the LORD giveth to Israel the whole of the land which He hath sworn to give to their fathers, and they possess it, and dwell in it. ⁴⁴ And the LORD giveth rest to them from round about, according to all that which He hath sworn to their fathers; and there hath not stood in their presence a man of all their enemies; the whole of their enemies hath the LORD given into their hand: ⁴⁵ there hath not fallen a thing of all the good thing which the LORD spake to the house of Israel: the whole hath come.

XXII. ¹ THEN Joshua calleth for the Reubenites, and for the Gadites, and for the half of the tribe of Manasseh, ² and he saith unto them, 'Ye have kept the whole of that which Moses the servant of the LORD hath commanded you, and ye do hearken to my voice in all that I have commanded you: ³ ye have not left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the command of the LORD your God. ⁴ And, now, the LORD your God hath given rest to your brethren, as He spake to them: and now, turn ye, and go for yourselves to your tents, unto the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the LORD hath given to you beyond the Jordan. ⁵ Only, be very watchful to do the command and the law which Moses the servant of the LORD hath commanded you, to love the LORD your God, and to walk in all His ways, and to keep His commands, and to cleave to Him, and to serve Him with all your heart, and with all your soul.'

⁶ And Joshua blesseth them, and sendeth them away, and they go unto their tents.

¹⁵ And they come in unto the Children of Reuben, and unto the Children of Gad, and unto the half of the tribe of Manasseh, unto the land of Gilead, and speak with them, saying, ¹⁶ 'Thus have all the company of the LORD said, What is this trespass which ye have trespassed against the God of Israel, turning back to-day from after the LORD, by your building for yourselves an altar for your rebelling to-day against the LORD? ¹⁷ Is the iniquity of Peor too little for us, from which we have not been cleansed till this day when the plague is in the company of the LORD, ¹⁸ that ye turn back to-day from after the LORD? and it hath been—ye rebel to-day against the LORD—and to-morrow against all the company of Israel He is wroth!'

¹⁹ 'But surely if the land of your possession is unclean, pass ye over for yourselves unto the land of the possession of the LORD, whither the tabernacle of the LORD hath tabernacled, and have possession in our midst; and against the LORD rebel not, and against us rebel not, by your building for yourselves an altar, besides the altar of the LORD our God. ²⁰ Did not Achan son of Zerah commit a trespass in the devoted thing, and on all the company of Israel there was wrath? and he—one man—expired not alone in his iniquity.'

²¹ And the Children of Reuben, and the Children of Gad, and the half of the tribe of Manasseh, answer and speak with the heads of the thousands of Israel: ²² 'The God of gods, Jehovah, the God of gods, Jehovah, He knoweth, and Israel, he may know, in rebellion, or if in trespass against the LORD, (Thou dost not save us this day!) ²³ we are building for ourselves an altar to turn back from after the LORD, or if to cause burnt-offering and present to go up on it, or if to make peace-offerings on it,—let the LORD Himself require it.

²⁴ 'Or if from fear of this thing we have not done it, saying, Hereafter your children may speak to our children, saying, What to you and to the LORD God of Israel? ²⁵ for a border hath the LORD put between us and you, O Children of Reuben, and Children of Gad, even Jordan; ye have no portion in the LORD;—and your children have caused our children to cease, not to fear the LORD.

²⁶ 'And we say, Pray, let us prepare for ourselves to build the altar,—not for burnt-offering nor for sacrifice;—²⁷ but it is a witness between us and you, and between our generations after us, to do the service of the LORD before Him with our burnt-offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings, and your children do not say hereafter to our children, Ye have no portion in the LORD.

²⁸ 'We also say, It hath even been, when they say so unto us, and unto our generations hereafter, that we have said, See the pattern of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers have made,—not for burnt-offering nor for sacrifice—but it is a witness between us and you.

³⁰ And Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the company, and the heads of the thousands of Israel, who are with him, hear the words which the Children of Reuben, and the Children of Gad, and the Children of Manasseh have spoken, and it is good in their eyes. ³¹ And Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest saith unto the Children of Reuben, and unto the Children of Gad, and unto the Children of Manasseh, 'To-day have we known that the LORD is in our midst, because ye have not committed this trespass against the LORD,—but delivered the Children of Israel out of the hand of the LORD.'

XXIII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass many days after that the LORD hath given rest to Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua is old, entering into days; ² and Joshua calleth for all Israel, for its elders, and for its heads, and for its judges, and for its authorities, and he saith unto them, 'I have become old; I have entered into days; ³ and ye—ye have seen all that the LORD your God hath done to all these nations because of you, for the LORD your God is He who is fighting for you; ⁴ see, I have caused these nations who are left to fall to you for an inheritance for your tribes, from the Jordan all the nations also whom I cut off, and the great sea, the going in of the sun.

⁵ 'As to the LORD your God, He doth thrust them from your presence; when He hath dispossessed them from before you, and ye have possessed their land, as the LORD your God hath spoken to you, ⁶ then ye have been very strong to keep and to do the whole that is written in the book of the law of Moses, so as not to turn aside from it, right or left, ⁷ so as not to go in among these nations, these who are left with you; yea, of the name of their gods ye do not make mention, nor do ye swear, nor do ye serve them, nor do ye bow yourselves to them; ⁸ but to the LORD your God do ye cleave, as ye have done till this day. ⁹ And the LORD doth dispossess from before you nations great and mighty; as for you, none hath stood in your presence till this day.

¹⁰ One man of you doth pursue a thousand, for the LORD your God is He who is fighting for you, as He hath spoken to you. ¹¹ And ye have been very watchful for yourselves, to love the LORD your God.

¹² 'But—if ye at all turn back and have cleaved to the remnant of those nations who are left with you, and have intermarried with them, and have gone in to them, and they into you,—¹³ know ye certainly that the LORD your God doth not continue to dispossess these nations from before you; and they have been to you for a gin and for a snare, and for a scourge in your sides, and for thorns in your eyes, till ye perish from off this good ground which the LORD your God hath given to you. ¹⁴ And lo, I am going, to-day, in the way of all the earth, and ye have known with all your heart, and with all your soul, that not one thing hath fallen of all the good things which the LORD your God hath spoken concerning you: the whole have come to you; there hath not failed of it one thing.

¹⁶ And it hath been, as all the good thing which the LORD your God hath spoken unto you, hath come upon you, so doth the LORD bring upon you the whole of the evil thing, till His destroying you from off this good ground which the LORD your God hath given to you. ¹⁷ In your transgressing the covenant of the LORD your God which He hath commanded you, when ye have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them, then hath the anger of the LORD burned against you, and ye have perished hastily from off the good land which He hath given to you.

XXIV. ¹ AND Joshua gathereth all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and calleth for the elders of Israel, and for its heads, and for its judges, and for its authorities, and they station themselves before God.

² And Joshua saith unto all the people, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, Beyond the River have your fathers dwelt of old,—Terah father of Abraham, and father of Nachor,—and they serve other gods. ³ And I take your father Abraham from beyond the River, and cause him to go through all the land of Canaan, and multiply his seed, and give to him Isaac. ⁴ And I give to Isaac, Jacob and Esau; and I give to Esau mount Seir, to possess it; and Jacob and his children have gone down to Egypt. ⁵ And I send Moses and Aaron, and I plague Egypt, as I have done in its midst, and afterwards have I brought you out. ⁶ And I bring out your fathers from Egypt, and ye go into the sea, and the Egyptians pursue after your fathers, with chariots and with horsemen, to the Red Sea; and they cry unto the LORD, and He setteth thick darkness between you and the Egyptians, and bringeth in on them the sea, and covereth them, and your eyes see that which I have done in Egypt, and ye dwell in the wilderness many days.

⁷ And I bring you in unto the land of the Amorite who dwelleth beyond the Jordan, and they fight with you, and I give them into your hand, and ye possess their land, and I destroy them out of your presence.

⁸ And Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, riseth, and fighteth against Israel, and sendeth and calleth for Balaam son of Beor, to revile you; ⁹ but I was not willing to hearken to Balaam, and he greatly blesteth you, and I deliver you out of his hand.

¹⁰ And ye pass over the Jordan, and come in unto Jericho, and the possessors of Jericho fight against you—the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Girgashite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite—and I give them into your hand. ¹¹ And I send before you the hornet, and it casteth them out from your presence—the two kings of the Amorite—nor by thy sword, nor by thy bow.

¹² And I give to you a land for which thou hast not laboured, and cities which ye have not built, and ye dwell in them; vineyards and oliveyards which ye have not planted—they are ye eating.

¹³ And now, fear ye the LORD, and serve Him in perfection and in truth, and turn aside the gods which your fathers served beyond the River, and in Egypt, and serve ye the LORD. ¹⁴ And if it is wrong in your eyes to serve the LORD—choose for yourselves to-day him whom ye will serve,—whether the gods whom your fathers served, which are beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorite in whose land ye are dwelling; but I and my house—we serve the LORD.

¹⁵ And the people answer and say, 'Far be it from us to forsake the LORD, to serve other gods. ¹⁶ For the LORD our God, He it is who bringeth us and our fathers up out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants, and who hath done before our eyes these great signs, and doth keep us in all the way in which we have gone, and among all the peoples through whose midst we passed; ¹⁷ yea, the LORD casteth out the whole of the peoples, even the Amorite inhabiting the land, from our presence; we also do serve the LORD, for He is our God.'

¹⁸ And Joshua saith unto the people, 'Ye are not able to serve the LORD, for He is a most holy God; He is a zealous God; He doth not bear with your transgressions or with your sins. ¹⁹ When ye forsake the LORD, and have served the gods of the stranger, then hath He turned back and done evil to you, and hath consumed you, after that He hath done good to you.'

²¹ And Joshua saith unto the people, 'Ye are witnesses against yourselves, that ye have chosen for yourselves the LORD to serve Him; and they say, 'We are witnesses', ²² and, now, turn aside the gods of the stranger which are in your midst, and incline your heart to the LORD, God of Israel.'

³⁰ And Israel serveth the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who have prolonged days after Joshua, and who have known all the work of the LORD which He hath done to Israel.

³² And the bones of Joseph, which the Children of Israel have brought up out of Egypt, have they buried in Shechem, in the portion of the field which Jacob bought from the Children of Hamor father of Shechem, for a hundred kesitah; and it is the Children of Joseph's for inheritance.

³³ And Eleazar son of Aaron hath died, and they bury him in the hill of Phinehas his son, which was given to him in the hill-country of Ephraim.

JUDGES.

CHAP. I. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, after the death of Joshua, that the Children of Israel ask at the LORD, saying, 'Who shall go up for us against the Canaanite, at the commencement, to fight against it?' ² And the LORD saith, 'Let Judah go up; lo, I have given the land into his hand.'

³ And Judah saith to Simeon his brother, 'Come up with me into my lot, and let us fight against the Canaanite,—then have I gone, even I, with thee into thy lot.' and Simeon goeth with him. ⁴ And Judah goeth up, and the LORD giveth the Canaanite and the Perizzite into their hand, and they smite them in Bezek—ten thousand men.

⁸ And the Children of Judah fight against Jerusalem, and capture it, and smite it by the edge of the sword, and the city they have sent into the fire. ⁹ And afterwards have the Children of Judah gone down to fight against the Canaanite, inhabiting the hill-country, and the south, and the low country. ¹⁰ And Judah goeth against the Canaanite who dwelleth in Hebron (and the name of Hebron formerly was Kirjath-Arba), and they smite Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai.

¹¹ And he goeth from thence against the inhabitants of Debir (and the name of Debir formerly was Kirjath-Sepher), ¹² and Caleb saith, 'He who smiteth Kirjath-Sepher—and hath captured it,—then have I given to him Achsah my daughter for a wife.' ¹³ And Othniel son of Kenaz, younger brother of Caleb, captureth it, and he giveth to him Achsah his daughter for a wife.

¹⁴ And it cometh to pass in her coming in, that she persuadeth him to ask from her father the field, and she lighteth from off the ass, and Caleb saith to her, 'What—to thee?' ¹⁵ And she saith to him, 'Give to me a blessing; when a south land thou hast given me,—then hast thou also given to me springs of water.' and Caleb giveth to her the upper springs and the lower springs.

¹⁷ And Judah goeth with Simeon his brother, and they smite the Canaanite inhabiting Cephath, and devote it; and one calleth the name of the city Hormah.

¹⁸ And Judah captureth Gaza and its border, and Askelon and its border, and Ekron and its border. ¹⁹ And the LORD is with Judah, and he occupieth the hill-country, but not so as to dispossess the inhabitants of the valley, for they have chariots of iron.

²³ And the house of Joseph cause men to spy about Bethel (and the name of the city formerly was Luz); ²⁴ and the watchers see a man coming out from the city, and they say to him, 'Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance of the city, then have we dealt kindly with thee.' ²⁵ And he sheweth them the entrance of the city, and they smite the city by the edge of the sword, but the man and all his family have they sent away. ²⁶ And the man goeth to the land of the Hittites, and buildeth a city, and calleth its name Luz—that is its name unto this day.

³⁰ Zebulun hath not dispossessed the inhabitants of Kitron, or the inhabitants of Nahaboth, and the Canaanite dwelleth in its midst, and they become tributary.

³¹ Asher hath not dispossessed the inhabitants of Acco, or the inhabitants of Zidon, or of Ahlab, or Achzib, or Helbah, or Aphik, or Rehob; ³² and the Asherite dwelleth in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land, for it hath not dispossessed them.

³³ Naphtali hath not dispossessed the inhabitants of Beth-She-mesh, or the inhabitants of Beth-Anath, and he dwelleth in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land; and the inhabitants of Beth-She-mesh and of Beth-Anath have become tributary to them.

³⁴ And the Amorites press the Children of Dan to the mountain, for they have not suffered them to go down to the valley. ³⁵ And the Amorite is desirous of dwelling in mount Heres in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim, but the hand of the house of Joseph is heavy, and they become tributary. ³⁶ And the border of the Amorite is from the ascent of Akkrabbim, from the rock, and upward.

II. ¹ AND the Messenger of Jehovah goeth up from Gilgal unto Bochim, ² and saith, 'I cause you to go up out of Egypt, and I bring you in unto the land which I have sworn to your fathers, and I say, I will not break My covenant with you for ever; and ye—ye do make no covenant with the inhabitants of this land; their altars ye do break down;—but ye have not hearkened to My voice,—what is this ye have done? ³ And I also have said, I do not cast them out from your presence, and they have been to you for adversaries, and their gods are to you for a snare.'

⁴ And it cometh to pass, when the Messenger of Jehovah speaketh these words unto all the Children of Israel, that the people lift up their voice and weep; ⁵ and they call the name of that place Bochim; and they sacrifice there to the Lord.

¹¹ And the Children of Israel do the evil thing in the eyes of the Lord, and serve the Baalim, ¹² and forsake the Lord, God of their fathers, who bringeth them out from the land of Egypt, and they go after other gods (of the gods of the peoples who are round about them), and bow themselves to them, and provoke the Lord; ¹³ yea, they forsake the Lord, and do service to Baal and to Ashtoroth.

¹⁴ And the anger of the Lord burneth against Israel, and He giveth them into the hand of spoilers, and they spoil them; and He selleth them into the hand of their enemies round about, and they have not been able any more to stand before their enemies; ¹⁵ in every place whither they have gone out, the hand of the Lord hath been against them for evil, as the Lord hath spoken, and as the Lord hath sworn to them, and they are greatly distressed.

¹⁶ And the Lord raiseth up judges, and they save them from the hand of their spoilers; ¹⁷ yet unto their judges also they have not hearkened, but have gone a-whoring after other gods, and bow themselves to them; they have turned aside with haste out of the way in which their fathers have walked, obeying the commands of the Lord;—they have not done so.

¹⁸ And when the Lord raised for them judges,—then was the Lord with the judge, and saved them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge; for it repenteth the Lord, because of their groaning from the presence of their oppressors, and of those who thrust them away.

²³ And the Lord leaveth these nations, so as not to dispossess them hastily, and hath not given them into the hand of Joshua.

III. ¹ AND these are the nations which the Lord hath left, to try Israel by them, even all who have not known all the wars of Canaan; ² (only for the sake of the generations of the Children of Israel's knowing to teach them war, only those who formerly have not known them)—³ five princes of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Zidonians, and the Hivites inhabiting mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-Hermon unto the entering in of Hamath. ⁴ And they are to prove Israel by them, to know whether they obey the commands of the Lord that He commanded their fathers by Moses.

⁵ And the Children of Israel have dwelt in the midst of the Canaanite, the Hittite, and the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite; ⁶ and they take their daughters to themselves for wives, and their own daughters have they given to their sons, and they serve their gods; ⁷ and the Children of Israel do the evil thing in the eyes of the Lord, and they forget the LORD their God, and serve the Baalim and the shrines.

¹² And the Children of Israel continue to do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD; and the LORD strengtheneth Egion king of Moab against Israel, because they have done the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD. ¹³ And he gathereth unto him the Beni-Ammon and Amalek, and goeth and smiteth Israel, and possesseth the city of palms. ¹⁴ And the Children of Israel serve Egion king of Moab eighteen years.

during their tarrying, and he hath passed by the images, and is escaped to Seirath.

²⁷ And it cometh to pass, in his coming in, that he bloweth with the trumpet in the hill-country of Ephraim, and the Children of Israel go down with him from the hill-country, and he before them. ²⁸ And he saith unto them, 'Pursue after me, for the LORD hath given your enemies, the Moabites, into your hand.' And they go down after him, and capture the passages of the Jordan towards Moab, and have not permitted a man to pass over.

IV. ¹ AND the Children of Israel continue to do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD when Ehud is dead; ² and the LORD selleth them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor, and the head of his host is Sisera, and he dwelleth in Harosheth of the Goyim. ³ And the Children of Israel cry unto the LORD: for he hath nine hundred chariots of iron, and he hath oppressed the Children of Israel mightily twenty years.

⁷ And Barak saith unto her, 'If thou go with me, then have I gone; and if thou go not with me, I do not go.' ⁸ And she saith, 'I do certainly go with thee; only, surely thy glory is not on the way which thou goest, for into the hand of a woman doth the LORD sell Sisera;' and Deborah riseth and goeth with Barak to Kedesh.

all the people who are with him, from Harosheth of the Goyim to the brook of Kishon.

²³ And God humbleth on that day Jabin king of Canaan before the Children of Israel; ²⁴ and the hand of the Children of Israel goeth, going on and becoming hard on Jabin king of Canaan, till they have cut off Jabin king of Canaan.

VI. ¹ AND the Children of Israel do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and the LORD giveth them into the hand of Midian seven years. ² And the hand of Midian is strong against Israel: from the presence of Midian have the Children of Israel made for themselves the flowings which are in the mountains, and the caves, and the strongholds. ³ And it hath been, if Israel hath sowed, that Midian hath come up,
 Amalek also, and the children of the east, yea, they have come up against it, ⁴ and encamp against them, and destroy the increase of the land till thine entering Gaza;
 and they leave no sustenance in Israel, either sheep, or ox, or ass; ⁵ for they and their cattle come up with their tents; they come in as the fulness of the locust for multitude, yea, of them and of their cattle there is no number; and they come into the land to destroy it. ⁶ And Israel is very weak from the presence of Midian, and the Children of Israel cry unto the LORD.

⁷ And it cometh to pass when the Children of Israel have cried unto the LORD, concerning the circumstances of Midian, ⁸ that the LORD sendeth a man, a prophet, unto the Children of Israel, and he saith to them, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, I—I have brought you up out of Egypt, and I bring you out from the house of servants; ⁹ and I deliver you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all your oppressors, and I cast them out from your presence, and I give to you their land, ¹⁰ and I say to you, I am the LORD your God; ye shall not fear the gods of the Amorites in whose land ye are dwelling;—but ye have not hearkened to My voice.'

¹¹ And the Messenger of Jehovah cometh and sitteth under the oak which is in Ophirah, which is to Joash the Abi-Ezrite, and Gideon his son is beating out wheat at the wine-press, to remove it from the presence of the Midianites; ¹² and the Messenger of Jehovah appeareth unto him, and saith unto him, 'The LORD is with thee, O mighty one of valour.' ¹³ And Gideon saith unto him, 'O my lord,—the LORD then is with us—and why hath all this found us? and where are all His wonders which our fathers have recounted to us, saying, Hath not the LORD brought us up out of Egypt?
 seeing now the LORD hath left us, and giveth us into the hand of Midian.'

¹⁴ And the LORD turneth unto him and saith, 'Go in this thy power: then hast thou saved Israel out of the hand of Midian:
 have not I sent thee?' ¹⁵ And he saith to him, 'O my lord, wherewith shall I save Israel? lo, my chief is the weakest in Manasseh, and I the least in the house of my father.'

¹⁶ And the LORD saith unto him, 'Surely
 I am with thee, and thou hast smitten the Midianites as one man.' ¹⁷ And he saith unto Him, 'If, I pray Thee, I have found grace in Thine eyes, then Thou hast done for me a sign that Thou art speaking with me. ¹⁸ Move not, I pray thee, from this, till my coming unto Thee, and I have brought out my present, and put it before Thee: and he saith, 'I abide till thy return.'

¹⁹ And Gideon hath gone in, and prepareth a kid of the goats, and with an ephah of flour unleavened things: the flesh he hath put in a basket, and the broth he hath put in a pot, and he bringeth it out to Him, to the place of the oak, and bringeth it nigh.

²⁰ And the Messenger of God saith unto him, 'Take the flesh, and the unleavened things, and place them on this rock—and the broth pour out;' and he doth so.
²¹ And the Messenger of Jehovah sendeth forth the end of the staff which is in His hand, and cometh against the flesh, and against the unleavened things, and the fire goeth up out of the rock and consumeth the flesh and unleavened things,—then the Messenger of the LORD went from his eyes.

²² And Gideon seeth that He is the Messenger of Jehovah, and Gideon saith, 'Alas, Lord Jehovah! because that I have seen the Messenger of Jehovah face to face!' ²³
 And the LORD saith to him, 'Peace to thee: fear not; thou shalt not die.' ²⁴ And Gideon buildeth there an altar to the LORD, and calleth it Jehovah-Shalom: unto this day it is yet in Ophrah of the Abi-Ezrites.

²⁵ And it cometh to pass, on that night, that the LORD saith to him, 'Take the young ox which thy father hath, and the second bullock of seven years, then hast thou thrown down the altar of Baal which is thy father's, even the shrine which is by it thou dost cut down: ²⁶ then hast thou built an altar to the LORD thy God on the top of this stronghold, by the arrangement, and hast taken the second bullock, and caused a burnt-offering to ascend with the wood of the shrine which thou cuttest down.

²⁷ And Gideon taketh ten men of his servants, and doth as the LORD hath spoken unto him; and it cometh to pass, because he hath been afraid for the house of his father, and the men of the city of doing it by day, that he doth it by night.

²⁸ And the men of the city rise early in the morning, and lo, the altar of Baal hath been broken down, and the shrine which is by it hath been cut down, and the second bullock hath been offered on the altar which is built. ²⁹ And they say one unto another, 'Who hath done this thing?' and they inquire and seek, and say, 'Gideon son of Joash hath done this thing.' ³⁰ And the men of the city say unto Joash, 'Bring out thy son, and let him die; because he hath broken down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the shrine which is by it.'

³³ And all Midian and Amalek and the Children of the east have been gathered together, and pass over, and encamp in the valley of Jezreel. ³⁴ And the Spirit of the LORD hath clothed Gideon, and he bloweth with the trumpet, and Abi-Ezer is called after him. ³⁵ And he hath sent messengers into all Manasseh, and it also is called after him; and he hath sent messengers into Asher, and into Zebulun, and into Naphtali, and they come up to meet them.

³⁶ And Gideon saith unto God, 'If Thou art the Saviour of Israel by my hand, as Thou hast spoken,' ³⁷ lo, I place the fleece of wool in the threshing-floor: if dew be on the fleece alone, and on all the earth be drought—then have I known that Thou dost save Israel by my hand, as Thou hast spoken.' ³⁸ And it is so; and he riseth early on the morrow, and presseth the fleece, and wringeth the dew out of the fleece—the fulness of a bowl of water.

³⁹ And Gideon saith unto God, 'Let not Thine anger burn against me, and let me speak only this time; let me try, I pray Thee, only this time with the fleece,—let drought be, I pray Thee, on the fleece alone, and on all the earth let there be dew.'

⁴⁰ And God doth so on that night, and the drought is on the fleece alone, and on all the earth there hath been dew.

VII. ¹ AND Jerubbaal (who is Gideon) riseth early, all the people also who are with him, and they encamp by the well of Harod, and the camp of Midian hath been at the south of him, at the height of Moreh, in the valley. ² And the LORD saith unto Gideon, 'The people who are with thee are too many for My giving Midian into their hand, lest Israel beautify itself against Me, saying, Mine own hand hath given salvation to me.' ³ And now, call, I pray thee, in the ears of the people, saying, Whoso is afraid and trembling, let him turn back and go early from mount Gilead; and there turneth back of the people twenty and two thousand; and ten thousand have been left.

⁴ And the LORD saith unto Gideon, 'Yet are the people too many; bring them down unto the water, and let Me refine it for thee there; then it hath been, that of whom I say unto thee, This doth go with thee—I he doth go with thee; and all of whom I say unto thee, This doth not go with thee—he doth not go with thee.'

⁹ And it cometh to pass, on that night, that the LORD saith unto him, 'Rise, go down into the camp, for I have given it into thy hand; ¹⁰ and if thou art afraid to go down—go down, thou and Phurah thy young man, unto the camp; ¹¹ then hast thou heard what they speak, and afterwards are thy hands strengthened, and thou hast gone down against the camp.' And he goeth down, he and Phurah his young man, unto the extremity of the fifties who are in the camp. ¹² And Midian, and Amalek, and all the children of the east are lying in the valley, as the locust for multitude, and of their camels there is no number, as the sand which is on the sea-shore for multitude.

¹³ And Gideon cometh in, and lo, a man is recounting to his companion a dream, and saith, 'Lo, I have dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley-bread is turning itself over into the camp of Midian, and it cometh in unto the tent, and smiteth it, and it falleth, and turneth it upwards, and the tent hath fallen.' ¹⁴ And his companion answereth and saith, 'This thing is nothing save the sword of Gideon son of Joash, a man of Israel; God hath given into his hand Midian and all the camp.'

¹⁵ And it cometh to pass, when Gideon heareth the narration of the dream and its interpretation, that he boweth himself, and turneth back unto the camp of Israel, and saith, 'Rise ye, for the LORD hath given into your hand the camp of Midian.' ¹⁶ And he divideth the three hundred men into three detachments, and putteth trumpets into the hand of each of them, and empty pitchers, and lamps in the pitchers.

¹⁷ And he saith unto them, 'Look at me, and do thus: when lo, I come into the extremity of the camp—then it hath been—as I do so ye do. ¹⁸ When I have blown with the trumpet—I and all who are with me, then have ye blown with the trumpets, even ye, round about all the camp, and have said, For the LORD and for Gideon.'

²¹ And they stand each in his place, round about the camp, and all the camp runneth, and shouteth, and fleeth. ²² And the three hundred blow the trumpets, and the LORD setteth the sword of each against his companion, even through all the camp; and the camp fleeth to Beth-Shittah, at Zerether, to the border of Abel-Meholah, by Tabbath.

²⁴ And Gideon hath sent messengers through all the hill-country of Ephraim, saying, 'Come down to meet Midian, and capture before them the waters unto Beth-Barah, and the Jordan; and every man of Ephraim is called, and they capture the waters unto Beth-Barah and the Jordan. ²⁵ They also capture two of the heads of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb; and they slay Oreb at the rock of Oreb, and Zeeb have they slain at the winevat of Zeeb, and they pursue Midian; and the heads of Oreb and Zeeb have they brought in unto Gideon beyond the Jordan.'

VIII. ¹ AND the men of Ephraim say unto him, 'What is this thing thou hast done to us—not to call for us when thou wentest to fight with Midian? and they strive with him severely. ² And he saith unto them, 'What have I done now like you? Are not the gleanings of Ephraim better than the harvest of Abi-Ezer? ³ Into your hand hath God given the heads of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb; and what have I been able to do like you? Then their temper desisted from off him in his speaking this thing.'

⁴ And Gideon cometh in unto the Jordan, passing over, he and the three hundred men who are with him, wearied, yet pursuing. ⁵ And he saith to the men of Succoth, 'Give, I pray you, cakes of bread for the people who are at my feet, for they are wearied; and I am pursuing after Zebah and Zalmunna kings of Midian.' ⁶ And the heads of Succoth say, 'Is the hand of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thy hand, that we should give bread to thy host?'

⁷ And Gideon saith, 'Therefore—in the LORD's giving Zebah and Zalmunna into my hand, then have I threshed your flesh by the thorns of the wilderness and with threshing instruments.'

¹⁰ And Zebah and Zalmunna are in Kar-kor, and their camps with them, about fifteen thousand men, all who are left of all the camp of the children of the east: seeing those who fell are a hundred, and twenty thousand men drawing the sword.

¹¹ And Gideon goeth up the way of those who tabernacle in tents, at the east of Nobah and Jogbehah, and he smiteth the camp, seeing the camp was confident. ¹² And Zebah and Zalmunna flee, and he pursueth after them, and he captureth the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and hath caused all the camp to tremble.

¹³ And Gideon son of Joash turneth back from the battle, at the going up of the sun:

¹⁵ And he cometh in unto the men of Succoth, and saith, 'Lo, Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom ye reproached me, saying, Is the hand of Zebah or Zalmunna now in thy hand that we should give bread to thy men who are wearied?' ¹⁶ And he taketh the elders of the city, and the thorns of the wilderness and the threshing instruments, and by them he teacheth the men of Succoth. ¹⁷ The tower of Penuel also he brake down, and he slayeth the men of the city.

¹⁸ And he saith unto Zebah and unto Zalmunna, 'How—the men whom ye slew in Tabor?' and they say, 'As thou—so they, each had the form of the king's children.' ¹⁹ And he saith, 'My brethren—the sons of my mother—they; the LORD liveth, if ye had kept them alive, I had not slain you.'

²² And the men of Israel say unto Gideon, 'Rule over us, both thou and thy son, and thy son's son, for thou hast saved us from the hand of Midian.' ²³ And Gideon saith unto them, 'I will not rule over you, nor shall my son rule over you: the LORD doth rule over you.' ²⁴ Gideon saith also unto them, 'Let me ask a petition of you, and give me each the ring of his prey: for they have rings of gold, for they are Ishmaelites.' ²⁵ And they say, 'We will certainly give; and they spread out the garment, and they cast thither each the ring of his prey.

²⁶ And the weight of the rings of gold which he hath asked is a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold, apart from the round ornaments, and the drops, and the purple garments, which are on the kings of Midian, and apart from the chains which are on the necks of their camels. ²⁷And Gideon maketh it into an ephod, and placeth it in his city, in Ophrah; and all Israel go a-whoring after it there; and it is to Gideon and to his house for a snare.

²⁸And Midian is humbled before the Children of Israel, and they have not added to lift up their head; and the land resteth forty years in the days of Gideon.

²⁹And Jerubbaal son of Joash goeth and dwelleth in his own house. ³⁰And there have been to Gideon seventy sons, coming out of his loins, seeing he had many wives. ³¹And his concubine who is in Shechem, she hath born to him—even she—a son, and he appointeth his name Abimelech.

³²And Gideon son of Joash dieth, in a good old age, and is buried in the burying-place of Joash his father, in Ophrah of the Abi-Ezrites. ³³And it cometh to pass when Gideon is dead, that the Children of Israel turn back and go a-whoring after the Baalim, and set over them Baal-Berith for a god. ³⁴And the Children of Israel have not remembered the LORD their God, who delivereth them out of the hand of all their enemies round about; ³⁵neither have they dealt kindly with the house of Jerubbaal (namely Gideon), according to all the good which he did with Israel;

IX. ¹SEEKING Abimelech son of Jerubbaal goeth to Shechem, unto his mother's brethren, and speaketh unto them, and unto all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying, ²'Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the masters of Shechem, Which is good for you,—the ruling over you of seventy men (all the sons of Jerubbaal), or the ruling over you of one man? ye have also remembered that I am your bone and your flesh.'

³And his mother's brethren speak for him, in the ears of all the masters of Shechem, all these words, and their heart inclineth after Abimelech, for they said, 'He is our brother.' ⁴And they give to him seventy silverlings out of the house of Baal-Berith, and Abimelech hireth with them men, vain and unstable, and they go after him. ⁵And he goeth into the house of his father at Ophrah, and slayeth his brethren, the sons of Jerubbaal, seventy men on one stone; yet Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubbaal, is left, for he hath been hidden.

Reign thou over us. ⁹And the olive saith to them, Have I ceased my fatness, when by me they honour God and man, that I have gone to stagger over the trees? ¹⁰And the trees say to the fig, Come thou, reign over us. ¹¹And the fig saith to them, Have I ceased my sweetness, and my good increase, that I have gone to stagger over the trees? ¹²And the trees say to the vine, Come thou, reign over us. ¹³And the vine saith to them, Have I ceased my new wine, which rejoiceth God and men, that I have gone to stagger over the trees? ¹⁴And all the trees say unto the bramble, Come thou, reign over us. ¹⁵And the bramble saith unto the trees, If in truth ye are anointing me for king over you, come, take refuge in my shadow; and if not—let fire come out from the bramble and devour the cedars of Lebanon.

¹⁶'And, now, if in truth and in sincerity ye have acted, when ye make Abimelech king; and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal, and with his house; and if according to the deed of his hands ye have done to him—¹⁷'(hooray) so my father hath fought for you, and doth cast away his life from him, and deliver you from the hand of Midian, ¹⁸yet ye—ye have risen against the house of my father to-day, and slay his sons, seventy men, on one stone, and cause Abimelech son of his handmaid to reign over the masters of Shechem, because he is your brother); ¹⁹yea, if in truth and in sincerity ye have acted with Jerubbaal and with his house this day, rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him rejoice—even he—in you; ²⁰and if not—let fire come out from Abimelech and devour the masters of Shechem and the house of Millo, and let fire come out from the masters of Shechem and from the house of Millo and devour Abimelech.' ²¹And Jotham hasteth, and fleeth, and goeth to Beer, and dwelleth there, from the face of Abimelech his brother.

²⁵And the masters of Shechem set ambushes for him on the top of the hills, and they rob every one who passeth over to them in the way, and it is declared to Abimelech. ²⁶And Gaal son of Ebed cometh—his brethren also—and they pass over into Shechem, and the masters of Shechem trust in him. ²⁷And they go out into the field, and gather their vineyards, and tread, and make praises, and go into the house of their gods, and eat and drink, and revile Abimelech.

²⁸And Gaal son of Ebed saith, 'Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we do serve him? is he not the son of Jerubbaal?

and Zebul his commander? Serve the men of Hamaor father of Shechem, and wherefore do we serve him—we? ²⁹And oh that this people were in my hand—then would I turn Abimelech aside.' And he saith to Abimelech, 'Increase thy host, and come out.'

³⁰And Zebul, head of the city, heareth the words of Gaal son of Ebed, and his anger burneth. ³¹And he sendeth messengers unto Abimelech deceitfully, saying, 'Lo, Gaal son of Ebed and his brethren are coming into Shechem, and lo, they are fortifying the city against thee. ³²And, now, rise by night, thou and the people who are with thee, and lay wait in the field. ³³Then it hath been, in the morning, at the rising of the sun, thou dost rise early, and hast pushed against the city: when lo, he and the people who are with him are going out unto thee—then thou hast done to him as thy hand findeth.'

³⁴And Abimelech riseth, and all the people who are with him, by night, and they lay wait against Shechem—four detachments. ³⁵And Gaal son of Ebed goeth out, and standeth at the opening of the gate of the city, and Abimelech riseth—the people also who are with him—from the ambush. ³⁶And Gaal seeth the people, and saith unto Zebul, 'Lo, people are coming down from the top of the hills: and Zebul saith unto him, 'The shadow of the hills thou seest like men.' ³⁷And Gaal addeth yet to speak, and saith, 'Lo, people are coming down from the high part of the land, and another detachment is coming by the way of the oak of Meonenim.'

³⁸And Zebul saith unto him, 'Where is now thy mouth, in that thou sayest, Who is Abimelech that we do serve him? is not this the people against whom thou hast kicked? go out now, I pray thee, and fight against it.' ³⁹And Gaal goeth out before the masters of Shechem, and fighteth against Abimelech. ⁴⁰And Abimelech pursueth him, and he fleeth from his presence, and many fall wounded, even to the opening of the gate.

⁴¹And Abimelech abideth in Arumah; and Zebul casteth out Gaal and his brethren from dwelling in Shechem. ⁴²And it cometh to pass, on the morrow, that the people go out to the field, and they declare it to Abimelech. ⁴³And he taketh the people, and divideth them into three detachments, and layeth wait in the field, and looketh, and lo, the people are coming out from the city, and he riseth against them and smiteth them. ⁴⁴And Abimelech and the detachments who are with him have pushed on, and stand at the opening of the gate of the city, and the two detachments have pushed against all who are in the field, and smite them. ⁴⁵And Abimelech hath fought against the city all that day, and captureth the city, and the people who are in it hath he slain, and he breaketh down the city, and soweth it with salt.

⁴⁶And all the masters of the tower of Shechem hear, and go in unto the high place of the house of the god Berith: ⁴⁷and it is declared to Abimelech that all the masters of the tower of Shechem have gathered themselves together. ⁴⁸And Abimelech goeth up to mount Zalmon, he and all the people who are with him, and Abimelech taketh the great axe in his hand, and cutteth a bough off the trees, and lifteth it up, and setteth it on his shoulder, and saith unto the people who are with him, 'What ye have seen I have done, haste, do ye like it.' ⁴⁹And all the people also cut down each one his bough, and they go after Abimelech, and set them at the high place, and burn by these the high place with fire, and also all the masters of the tower of Shechem die, about a thousand men and women.

⁵⁰And Abimelech goeth unto Thebez, and eucampeth against Thebez, and captureth it. ⁵¹And there hath been a strong tower in the midst of the city, and thither flee all the men and women, and all the masters of the city, and they shut it behind them, and go up on the roof of the tower.

⁵²And Abimelech cometh unto the tower, and fighteth against it, and draweth nigh unto the opening of the tower to burn it with fire. ⁵³And a certain woman casteth a piece of a rider on the head of Abimelech, and brake his skull. ⁵⁴And he calleth hastily unto the young man bearing his weapons, and saith to him, 'Draw thy sword—then hast thou put me to death, lest they say of me—A woman slew him: and his young man pierceth him through, and he dieth. ⁵⁵And the men of Israel see that Abimelech is dead, and they go each to his place. ⁵⁶And God turneth back the evil of Abimelech which he did to his father by slaying his seventy brethren: ⁵⁷and all the evil of the men of Shechem God turned back on their own head, and the cursing of Jotham son of Jerubbaal cometh unto them.'

X. ¹AND after Abimelech riseth Tola son of Puah, son of Dodo, a man of Issachar, to save Israel, and he dwelleth in Shamir, in the hill-country of Ephraim: ²and he judgeth Israel twenty and three years; and he dieth, and is buried in Shamir.

³And after him riseth Jair the Gileadite, and he judgeth Israel twenty and two years. ⁴And he hath thirty sons riding on thirty ass-colls, and they have thirty cities: they call them Havoth-Jair unto this day, which are in the land of Gilead. ⁵And Jair dieth, and is buried in Camon.

⁶And the Children of Israel continue to do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and serve the Baalim, and Ashtaroth, and the gods of Aram, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the Beni-Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines, and forsake the LORD, and have not served Him. ⁷And the anger of the LORD burneth against Israel, and He selleth them into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the Beni-Ammon: ⁸and they crush and oppress the Children of Israel in that year—⁹even eighteen years all the Children of Israel who are beyond the Jordan, in the hand of the Amorite, which is in Gilead.

⁹And the Beni-Ammon pass over the Jordan to fight also against Judah, and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim; and Israel hath great distress.

¹⁰And the Children of Israel cry unto the LORD, saying, 'We have sinned against Thee, even because we have forsaken our God, and do serve the Baalim.'

¹¹And the LORD saith unto the Children of Israel, 'Have I not saved you from the Egyptians, and from the Amorite, from the Beni-Ammon, and from the Philistines?

¹²When the Zidonians, and Amalek, and Moab have oppressed you, and ye cry unto Me, then do I save you out of their land.

¹³Yet ye, ye have forsaken Me, and serve other gods; therefore I continue not to save you. ¹⁴Go and cry unto the gods on whom ye have fixed: they—let them save you in the time of your adversity.'

¹⁵And the Children of Israel say unto the LORD, 'We have sinned, do Thou to us according to all that is good in Thine eyes; only deliver us, we pray Thee, this day.'

¹⁶And they turn aside the gods of the stranger out of their midst, and they serve the LORD, and His soul is grieved with the misery of Israel. ¹⁷And the Beni-Ammon are called together, and encamp in Gilead; and the Children of Israel are gathered together, and encamp in Mizpeh. ¹⁸And the people—the heads of Gilead—say one to another, 'Who is the man that beginneth to fight against the Beni-Ammon? let him be for a head to all the inhabitants of Gilead.'

XI. ¹AND Jephthah the Gileadite hath been a mighty man of valour, and he is the son of a woman, a harlot; when Gilead begetteth Jephthah, ²then the wife of Gilead beareth sons to him, and the wife's sons grow up and cast out Jephthah, and say to him, 'Thou hast no inheritance in the house of our father; for the son of another woman art thou.' ³And Jephthah fleeth from the presence of his brethren, and dwelleth in the land of Tob; and vain men gather themselves together unto Jephthah, and they go out with him.

⁴And it cometh to pass, after a time, that the Beni-Ammon fight with Israel. ⁵And it cometh to pass when the Beni-Ammon have fought with Israel, that the elders of Gilead go to take Jephthah from the land of Tob. ⁶And they say to Jephthah, 'Come; then hast thou been to us for a captain, and we do fight against the Beni-Ammon.' ⁷And Jephthah saith to the elders of Gilead, 'Have not ye hated me, and cast me out from the house of my father?—and wherefore have ye come unto me now when ye are in distress?'

⁸And the elders of Gilead say unto Jephthah, 'Therefore, now, have we turned back unto thee: when thou hast gone with us, and hast fought against the Beni-Ammon, then thou hast been to us for a head—to all the inhabitants of Gilead.' ⁹And Jephthah saith unto the elders of Gilead, 'If ye take me back to fight against the Beni-Ammon, and the LORD hath given them up before me,—I, am I to you for a head?' ¹⁰And the elders of Gilead say unto Jephthah, 'The LORD is hearkening between us,—if we do not so according to thy word.'

¹¹And Jephthah goeth with the elders of Gilead, and the people set him over them for head and for captain, and Jephthah speaketh all his words before the LORD in Mizpeh. ¹²And Jephthah sendeth messengers unto the king of the Beni-Ammon, saying, 'What to me and to thee that thou hast come in unto me, to fight in my land.'

¹³And the king of the Beni-Ammon saith unto the messengers of Jephthah, 'Because Israel took my land in his coming up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto the Jabbok, and unto the Jordan; and now, restore them in peace.'

¹⁴And Jephthah addeth yet and sendeth messengers unto the king of the Beni-Ammon, ¹⁵and saith to him, 'Thus hath Jephthah said, Israel took not the land of Moab, or the land of the Beni-Ammon; ¹⁶for in his coming up out of Egypt, Israel then goeth in the wilderness unto the Red Sea, and cometh in to Kadesh, ¹⁷and Israel sendeth messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, Let me pass over, I pray thee, through thy land; but the king of Edom hearkened not; and also unto the king of Moab hath Israel sent, but he hath not been willing; and Israel abideth in Kadesh, ¹⁸and goeth on through the wilderness, and compasseth the land of Edom and the land of Moab, and cometh in at the rising of the sun of the land of Moab, and encampeth beyond Arnon, and came not into the border of Moab, for Arnon is the border of Moab.'

¹⁹And Israel sendeth messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and Israel saith to him, Let us pass over, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place. ²⁰But Sihon hath not trusted Israel to pass over through his border, and Sihon gathereth all his people, and they encamp in Jahaz, and fight with Israel. ²¹And the LORD, God of Israel, giveth Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they smite them; and Israel possesseth all the land of the Amorite, the inhabitant of that land, ²²and they possess all the border of the Amorite from the Arnon unto the Jabbok, and from the wilderness unto the Jordan.'

²³And now, the LORD, God of Israel, hath dispossessed the Amorite from the presence of his people Israel, but thou wouldst possess it. ²⁴That which Chemosh thy god causeth thee to possess—dost thou not possess it? and whom the LORD our God hath dispossessed from our presence, —them do we possess.

²⁵And now, art thou at all better than Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab? did he at all strive with Israel? did he at all fight against them? ²⁶In Israel's dwelling in Heshbon and in its towns, and in Aroer and in its towns, and in all the cities which are by the sides of Arnon three hundred years—wherefore have ye not delivered them in that time. ²⁷Yea, I have not sinned against thee, and thou art doing evil with me—by fighting against me. The LORD, the Judge, judge to-day between the Children of Israel and the Children of Ammon.

²⁸ But the king of the Beni-Ammon hath not hearkened unto the words of Jephthah which he hath sent unto him. ²⁹ And the Spirit of the Lord is on Jephthah, and he passeth over Gilead and Manasseh, and he passeth over Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he hath passed over to the Beni-Ammon.

³⁰ And Jephthah voweth a vow to the Lord, and saith, 'If Thou certainly give the Beni-Ammon into my hand—³¹ then it hath been, that which at all cometh out from the doors of my house to meet me in my turning back in peace from the Beni-Ammon—it hath been the Lord's, or I have offered for it—a burnt-offering.'

³⁴ And Jephthah cometh into Mizpeh, unto his house, and lo, his daughter is coming out to meet him with timbrels, and with choruses; and except she alone, he hath none—son or daughter. ³⁵ And it cometh to pass, when he seeth her, that he rendeth his garments, and saith, 'Alas! my daughter, thou hast caused me to bend, and hast been among those who trouble me; and I—I have opened my mouth unto the Lord, and I am unable to turn back.'

³⁶ And she saith unto him, 'My father—thou hast opened thy mouth unto the Lord, do to me as it hath gone out from thy mouth, after the Lord hath executed for thee vengeance on thine enemies, on the Beni-Ammon.' ³⁷ She also saith unto her father, 'Let this thing be done for me: desist from me two months, and let me go on, then have I gone down on the hills and weep for my virginity—I and my friends.'

³⁸ And he saith, 'Go;' and he sendeth her away two months, and she goeth, she and her friends, and she weepeth for her virginity on the hills. ³⁹ And it cometh to pass at the end of two months that she turneth back unto her father, and he doth to her the vow which he hath vowed; and she knew not a man; and it is a statute in Israel that ⁴⁰ from time to time the daughters of Israel go to talk to the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite, four days in the year.

XII. ¹ AND the men of Ephraim are called together, and they pass on northward, and say to Jephthah, 'Wherefore hast thou passed over to fight against the Beni-Ammon, and hast not called on us to go with thee? thy house will we burn over thee with fire.'

² And Jephthah saith unto them, 'A man of great strife have I been (I and my people) with the Beni-Ammon, and I call you, and ye have not saved me out of their hand; ³ and I see that thou art not a saviour, and I put my life in my hand, and pass over unto the Beni-Ammon, and the Lord giveth them into my hand—and why have ye come up to me this day to fight with me?'

⁷ And Jephthah judgeth Israel six years; and Jephthah the Gileadite dieth, and is buried in one of the cities of Gilead.

⁸ And after him Ibzan of Beth-lehem judgeth Israel; and he hath thirty sons, and thirty daughters whom he hath sent without; and he hath brought in thirty daughters for his sons from without; and he judgeth Israel seven years. ¹⁰ And Ibzan dieth, and is buried in Beth-lehem.

¹³ And after him, Abdon son of Hillel, the Pirathonite, judgeth Israel; and he hath forty sons, and thirty grand-children, riding on seventy ass-colts; and he judgeth Israel eight years. ¹⁵ And Abdon son of Hillel, the Pirathonite, dieth, and is buried in Pirathon, in the land of Ephraim, in the hill-country of the Amalekites.

XIII. ¹ AND the Children of Israel add to do the evil thing in the eyes of the Lord, and the Lord giveth them into the hand of the Philistines forty years.

² And there is a certain man of Zorah, of the family of the Danites, and his name is Manoah, and his wife is barren, and hath not borne. ³ And the Messenger of Jehovah appeareth unto the woman, and saith unto her, 'Lo, I pray thee, thou art barren, and hast not borne: when thou hast conceived, then thou hast borne a son. ⁴ And, now, take heed, I pray thee, and drink not wine or strong drink, and eat not any unclean thing. ⁵ For lo, thou art conceiving and bearing a son, and a razor doth not go up on his head, for a Nazarite to God is the youth from the womb, and he shall begin to save Israel out of the hand of the Philistines.'

⁶ And the woman cometh and speaketh to her husband, saying, 'A man of God hath come unto me, and his appearance is as the appearance of a Messenger of God, very fearful; but I have not asked him whence he is, and his name he declared not to me. ⁷ But he saith to me, Lo, thou art pregnant, and bearing a son; and now drink not wine or strong drink, and eat no unclean thing, for a Nazarite to God is the youth from the womb till the day of his death.'

⁸And Manoah maketh entreaty unto the LORD, and saith, 'O, my Lord, the man of God whom Thou hast sent, let him come in, I pray Thee, again to us, and direct us what we should do to the youth who is born.'

⁹And God hearkeneth to the voice of Manoah, and the Messenger of God cometh in again unto the woman, and she is sitting in the field; but Manoah her husband is not with her. ¹⁰And the woman hasteth, and runneth and declareth to her husband, and saith to him, 'Lo, he hath appeared to me—the man who came on that day to me.'

¹¹And Manoah riseth, and goeth after his wife, and cometh unto the man, and saith to him, 'Art thou the man who hath spoken unto the woman?' and he saith, 'I am.' ¹²And Manoah saith, 'Now let thy words come to pass; what is the custom of the youth, and his work?'

¹³And the Messenger of Jehovah saith unto Manoah, 'Of all that I said unto the woman let her take heed. ¹⁴Of anything which cometh out from the wine-vine she doth not eat, and wine and strong drink she doth not drink, and any unclean thing she doth not eat; all that I have commanded her doth she observe.'

¹⁷And Manoah saith unto the Messenger of Jehovah, 'What is thy name? when thy words come to pass, then have we honoured thee.' ¹⁸And the Messenger of Jehovah saith to him, 'Why is this—thou dost ask for My name—seeing it is Wonderful?'

¹⁹And Manoah taketh the kid of the goats, and the present, and offereth on the rock to the LORD, and He doth wonderfully; and Manoah and his wife are looking on. ²⁰And it cometh to pass, in the going up of the flame from off the altar towards the heavens, that the Messenger of Jehovah goeth up in the flame of the altar; and Manoah and his wife are looking on, and they fall on their face to the earth. ²¹And the Messenger of Jehovah hath not added again to appear unto Manoah, or unto his wife; then Manoah hath known that He is the Messenger of Jehovah. ²²And Manoah saith unto his wife, 'We do certainly die, for we have seen God.' ²³And his wife saith to him, 'If the LORD were desirous of putting us to death, He had not received from our hands a burnt-offering and present, nor shewed us all these things, nor as at this time caused us to hear anything like this.'

²⁴And the woman beareth a son, and calleth his name Samson; and the youth groweth, and the LORD doth bless him; ²⁵and the Spirit of the LORD beginneth to move him in the camp of Dau, between Zorah and Eshtaol.

XIV. ¹AND Samson goeth down to Tim-nath, and seeth a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines. ²And he cometh up and declareth to his father and to his mother, and saith, 'I have seen a woman in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines; and now, take her for me for a wife.'

³And his father saith to him—his mother also—'Is there not among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, a woman, that thou art going to take a woman from the uncircumcised Philistines?' but Samson saith unto his father, 'Take her for me, for she is upright in mine eyes.' ⁴And his father and his mother have not known that it is from the LORD, that he is seeking a meeting of the Philistines; and at that time the Philistines are ruling over Israel.

⁵And Samson goeth down—his father and his mother also—to Timnath, and they come unto the vineyards of Timnath, and lo, a lion's whelp roareth at meeting him. ⁶And the Spirit of Jehovah prospereth over him, and he rendeth it as the rending of a kid, and there is nothing in his hand; and he hath not declared to his father or to his mother that which he hath done.

⁷And he goeth down and speaketh to the woman, and she is upright in the eyes of Samson. ⁸And he turneth back, after a week, to take her, and he turneth aside to see the carcase of the lion, and lo, a company of bees are in the body of the lion, and honey. ⁹And he taketh it down on to his hands, and goeth on, going and eating; and he goeth unto his father and unto his mother, and giveth to them, and they do eat; and he declared not to them that from the body of the lion he took down the honey.

¹⁰And his father goeth down unto the woman, and Samson maketh there a banquet, for so the young men do. ¹¹And it cometh to pass when they see him, that they take thirty companions; and they are with him. ¹²And Samson saith to them, 'Let me, I pray you, put forth to you a riddle; if ye do certainly declare it to me in the seven days of the banquet, and have found it out, then have I given to you thirty linnen shirts, and thirty changes of garments; ¹³and if ye are not able to declare it to me, then have ye given to me thirty linnen shirts, and thirty changes of garments.' And they say to him, 'Put forth thy riddle, and let us hear it!' ¹⁴And he saith to them, 'Out of the eater hath gone forth meat,

And out of the strong went forth sweetness;' and they have not been able to declare the riddle in three days.

¹⁵And it cometh to pass, on the seventh day, that they say to Samson's wife, 'Entice thy husband, that he declare to us the riddle, lest we burn thee and the house of thy father with fire; to possess us have ye called for us? is it not?'

¹⁶And Samson's wife weepeth for it, and saith, 'Thou hast only hated me, and hast not loved me: the riddle thou hast put forth to the children of my people—even to me thou hast not declared it;' and he saith to her, 'Lo, to my father and to my mother I have not declared it,—and to thee I declare it.' ¹⁷ And she weepeth for it the seven days, in which their banquet hath been; and it cometh to pass on the seventh day, that he declareth it to her, for she hath distressed him; and she declareth the riddle to the children of her people.

¹⁸ And the men of the city say to him on the seventh day, before the going in of the sun,—
'What is sweeter than honey?

And what is stronger than a lion?'

And he saith to them,

'Unless ye had ploughed with my heifer,
Ye had not found out my riddle.'

¹⁹ And the Spirit of Jehovah prospereth over him, and he goeth down to Ashkelon, and smiteth of them thirty men, and taketh their armour, and giveth the changes to those who declare the riddle; but his anger burneth, and he goeth up to the house of his father. ²⁰ And Samson's wife becometh his companion's, who had been his friend.

XV. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, after a time, in the days of wheat-harvest, that Samson visiteth his wife with a kid of the goats, and saith, 'Let me go in unto my wife to the inner chamber;' and her father hath not permitted him to go in; ² yea, her father saith, 'I certainly said, that thou hast certainly hated her, and I give her to thy companion; is not her sister—the young one—better than she? Let her be, I pray thee, to thee, instead of her.'

³ And Samson saith of them, 'I am more innocent this time than the Philistines, though I do evil with them.' ⁴ And Samson goeth and catcheth three hundred foxes, and taketh torches, and turneth tail to tail, and putteth a torch between the two tails, in the midst. ⁵ And he kindleth fire in the torches, and sendeth them out into the standing corn of the Philistines, and burneth from the heap even unto the standing corn, even unto the vineyard—oliveyard.

⁷ And Samson saith to them, 'Though ye do this, nevertheless I am avenged on you, and afterwards will I cease!' ⁸ And he smiteth them hip and thigh—a great smiting; and he goeth down and dwelleth in the cleft of the rock Etam.

⁹ And the Philistines go up, and encamp in Judah, and are spread out in Lehi. ¹⁰ And the men of Judah say, 'Why have ye come up against us?' and they say, 'To bind Samson have we come up, to do to him as he hath done to us.'

¹¹ And three thousand men of Judah go down unto the cleft of the rock Etam, and say to Samson, 'Hast thou not known that the Philistines are rulers over us? and what is this thou hast done to us?' And he saith to them, 'As they did to me, so did I to them.'

¹² And they say to him, 'To bind thee have we come down—to give thee into the hand of the Philistines.' And Samson saith to them, 'Swear to me, lest ye fall upon me yourselves.' ¹³ And they speak to him, saying, 'No, but we do certainly bind thee, then have we given thee into their hand; but we certainly do not put thee to death; and they bind him with two thick bands, new ones, and bring him up from the rock.'

¹⁵ And he findeth a fresh jaw-bone of an ass, and putteth forth his hand and taketh it, and smiteth with it a thousand men.

¹⁶ And Samson saith, 'With the jaw-bone of an ass—an ass upon asses—with the jaw-bone of an ass have I smitten a thousand men.' ¹⁷ And it cometh to pass when he finisheth speaking, that he casteth away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and calleth that place Ramath-Lehi. ¹⁸ And he thirsteth exceedingly, and calleth unto the Lord, and saith, 'Thou—Thou hast given by the hand of Thy servant this great salvation; and now, I die with thirst,—then have I fallen into the hand of the uncircumcised.'

¹⁹ And God cleaveth the hollow place which is in Lehi, and waters come out of it, and he drinketh, and his spirit cometh back, and he reviveth; therefore hath one called its name 'The fountain of him who calleth,' which is in Lehi unto this day. ²⁰ And he judgeth Israel in the days of the Philistines twenty years.

XVI. ¹ AND Samson goeth to Gaza, and he seeth there a woman, a barlot, and he goeth in unto her. ² It is told to the Gazites, saying, 'Samson hath come in hither;' and they go round and lay wait for him all the night at the gate of the city, and they keep themselves silent all the night, saying, 'Till the light of the morning—then have we slain him.' ³ And Samson lieth till the middle of the night; and he riseth in the middle of the night, and layeth hold on the doors of the gate of the city, and on the two side-posts, and removeth them with the bar, and putteth them on his shoulders, and taketh them up unto the top of the hill, which is on the front of Hebron.

⁴ And it cometh to pass afterwards that he loveth a woman in the valley of Sorek, and her name is Delilah. ⁵ And the princes of the Philistines come up unto her, and say to her, 'Entice him, and see wherein his great power is, and wherein we are able for him—then have we bound him to afflict him, and we—we do give to thee each one eleven hundred silverlings.'

⁸ And the princes of the Philistines bring up to her seven green withs which have not been dried, and she bindeth him with them.

⁹ And the ambush is abiding with her in the inner chamber, and she saith unto him, 'The Philistines are on thee, Samson;' and he breaketh the withs as a thread of tow is broken in its touching fire, and his power hath not been known.

¹⁰And Delilah saith unto Samson, 'Lo, thou hast played upon me, and speakest lies unto me; now, declare, I pray thee, to me, wherewith thou mayest be bound.' ¹¹And he saith unto her, 'If they certainly bind me with new thick bands by which work hath not been done, then have I been weak, and been as one of the human race.'

¹²And Delilah taketh new thick bands, and bindeth him with them, and saith unto him, 'The Philistines are upon thee, Samson;' and the ambush is abiding in the inner chamber; and he breaketh them from off his arms as a thread.

¹³And Delilah saith unto Samson, 'Hither-to thou hast played upon me, and dost speak lies unto me; declare to me wherewith thou mayest be bound.' And he saith unto her, 'If thou weavest the seven locks of my hair with the web.'

¹⁴And she fixeth it with the pin, and saith unto him, 'The Philistines are upon thee, Samson;' and he awaketh out of his sleep, and he journeyeth with the pin of the weaving machine, and with the web.

¹⁵And she saith unto him, 'How dost thou say, I have loved thee, and thy heart is not with me? these three times thou hast played upon me, and hast not declared to me wherein thy great power is.'

¹⁶And it cometh to pass because she distressed him with her words continually, and doth urge him, that his soul is grieved to death. ¹⁷And he declareth to her all his heart, and saith to her, 'A razor hath not gone up on my head, for a Nazarite to God am I from the womb of my mother; when I have been shaven, then my power hath turned aside from me, and I have been weak, and been as one of the human race.'

¹⁸And Delilah seeth that he hath declared to her all his heart, and she sendeth and calleth for the princes of the Philistines, saying, 'Come up this time, for he hath declared to me all his heart;' and the princes of the Philistines have come up unto her, and they bring up the money in their hand.

¹⁹And she maketh him sleep on her knees, and she calleth for a man, and shaveth the seven locks of his head, and beginneth to afflict him, and his power turneth aside from him. ²⁰And she saith, 'The Philistines are upon thee, Samson;' and he awaketh out of his sleep, and saith, 'I go out as at other times, and shake myself,' and he hath not known that the LORD hath turned aside from him.

²¹And the Philistines seize him, and pick out his eyes, and bring him down to Gaza, and bind him with two fetters of brass; and he is grinding in the prison-house; ²²yet the hair of his head beginneth to shoot up, when he hath been shaven.

²³And the princes of the Philistines have been gathered together to sacrifice a great sacrifice to Dagon their god, and to rejoice; and they say, 'Our god hath given into our hand Samson our enemy.' ²⁴And the people see him, and praise their god, for they have said, 'Our god hath given into our hand our enemy, and he who layeth waste our land, and who hath multiplied our wounded.'

²⁵And it cometh to pass, when their heart is glad, that they say, 'Call for Samson, and let him play before us;' and they call for Samson out of the prison-house, and he playeth before them, and they cause him to stand between the pillars.

²⁶And Samson saith unto the young man who is keeping hold on his hand, 'Let me alone, I pray thee, and let me feel the pillars on which the house is established, and let me lean upon them.' ²⁷And the house hath been full of men and women, and thither are all the princes of the Philistines; and on the roof about three thousand men and women, who look on the playing of Samson.

²⁸And Samson calleth unto the Lord, and saith, 'Lord Jehovah, remember me, I pray Thee, and strengthen me, I pray Thee, only this time, O God; and let me be avenged—vengeance at once—because of my two eyes, on the Philistines.' ²⁹And Samson turneth aside to the two middle pillars, on which the house is established, and on which it is supported, one with his right hand, and one with his left. ³⁰And Samson saith, 'Let me die with the Philistines;' and he inclineth himself powerfully, and the house falleth on the princes, and on all the people who are in it, and the dead whom he hath put to death in his death are more than those whom he put to death in his life.

³¹And his brethren come down, even all the house of his father, and they lift him up, and bring him up, and bury him between Zorah and Eshtaol, in the burying-place of Manoah his father; and he hath judged Israel twenty years.

XVII. ¹AND there is a man of the hill-country of Ephraim, and his name is Micah. ²And he saith to his mother, 'The eleven hundred silverlings which have been taken from thee, and about which thou hast sworn, and also spoken in mine ears; lo, the silver is with me, I have taken it;' and his mother saith, 'Blessed is my son of the LORD.'

³And he giveth back the eleven hundred silverlings to his mother; and his mother saith, 'I had certainly sanctified the silver to the LORD, from my hand, for my son, to make a graven image, and a molten image; and now, I give it back to thee.' ⁴But he giveth back the money to his mother; and his mother taketh two hundred silverlings, and giveth them to the refiner, and he maketh them a graven image, and a molten image; and they are in the house of Micah.

⁷And there is a young man out of Bethlehem-Judah, of the family of Judah, and he is a Levite, and he is a sojourner there.

⁸And the man goeth out of the city, out of Beth-lehem-Judah, to sojourn where he may find a place, and he cometh to the hill-country of Ephraim, unto the house of Micah, to work his way. ⁹And Micah saith to him, 'Whence comest thou?' and he saith unto him, 'A Levite am I, out of Beth-lehem-Judah, and I am going to sojourn where I may find a place.' ¹⁰And Micah saith to him, 'Dwell with me, and be to me for a father and for a priest, and I give to thee ten silverlings for the days, and a suit of garments, and thy sustenance;' and the Levite goeth in. ¹¹And the Levite is willing to dwell with the man; and the young man is to him as one of his sons.

¹²And Micah consecrateth the hand of the Levite, and the young man is to him for a priest, and he is in the house of Micah. ¹³And Micah saith, 'Now I have known that the LORD doth good to me, for the Levite hath been to me for a priest.'

XVIII. ¹IN those days there is no king in Israel, and in those days the tribe of the Danites is seeking for itself an inheritance to inhabit, for that hath not fallen to it unto that day in the midst of the tribes of Israel by inheritance. ²And the Children of Dan send, out of their family, five men of them, men of valour, from Zorah, and from Eshtaol, to traverse the land and to search it, and they say unto them, 'Go, search the land;' and they come into the hill-country of Ephraim, unto the house of Micah, and they lodge there.

³They are with the household of Micah, and they discern the voice of the young man the Levite, and they turn aside there, and say to him, 'Who hath brought thee hither? and what art thou doing in this place? and what hast thou here?' ⁴And he saith unto them, 'Thus and thus hath Micah done to me; and he hireth me, and I am to him for a priest.'

⁵And they say to him, 'Ask, we pray thee, at God, and let us know whether our way on which we are going is prosperous.' ⁶And the priest saith to them, 'Go in peace; before the LORD is your way in which ye go.'

⁷And the five men go, and come into Laish, and see the people which is in its midst, dwelling confidently, according to the custom of the Zidonians, quiet and confident; and there is none possessing restraint, putting to shame in any thing; and they are far off from the Zidonians, and have no matters with any man.

⁸And they come in unto their brethren, at Zorah and Eshtaol; and their brethren say to them, 'What say ye?' ⁹And they say, 'Rise and let us go up against them, for we have seen the land, and lo, very good; yet, ye keep silent; be not slothful to go; to enter to possess the land.' ¹⁰When ye go, ye come in unto a people confident, and the land is large on both hands, for God hath given it into your hand, a place where there is no lack of anything which is in the land.'

¹¹And some of the family of the Danites journey from thence, from Zorah, and from

Eshtaol, six hundred men, girded with weapons of war. ¹²And they go up and encamp in Kirjath-Jearim, in Judah; therefore have they called that place, 'The camp of Dan,' till this day; lo, behind Kirjath-Jearim. ¹³And they pass over from thence to the hill-country of Ephraim, and they come in unto the house of Micah. ¹⁴And the five men who go to traverse the land of Laish answer and say unto their brethren, 'Have ye known that there is in these houses an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image? and now, know ye what ye do.'

¹⁵And they turn aside thither, and come in unto the house of the young man the Levite, the house of Micah, and ask of him concerning his welfare, ¹⁶(and the six hundred men girt with their weapons of war, who are of the Children of Dan, are standing at the opening of the gate) ¹⁷yea, the five men who go to traverse the land go up—they have come in thither—they have taken the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image, and the priest is standing at the opening of the gate, and the six hundred men who are girt with weapons of war ¹⁸yea, these have entered the house of Micah, and they take the graven image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image; and the priest saith unto them, 'What are you doing?' ¹⁹And they say to him, 'Keep silent, lay thy hand on thy mouth, and go with us, and be to us for a father and for a priest: is it better thy being a priest to the house of one man, or thy being priest to a tribe and to a family in Israel?' ²⁰And the heart of the priest is glad, and he taketh the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and he goeth into the midst of the people. ²¹And they turn and go, and put the infants, and the cattle, and the baggage before them.

²²They have been far off from the house of Micah—and the men who are in the houses which are near the house of Micah have been called together—and they overtake the Children of Dan. ²³And they call unto the Children of Dan, and they turn round their faces, and say to Micah, 'What—to thee that thou hast been called together?' ²⁴And he saith, 'My gods whom I have made ye have taken, the priest also, and go; and what have I more? and what is this ye say unto me, What—to thee?'

²⁵And the Children of Dan say unto him, 'Let not thy voice be heard with us, lest the men who are bitter in soul fall upon you, and thou hast gathered thy life, and the lives of thy household.' ²⁶And the Children of Dan go on their way, and Micah seeth that they are stronger than he, and he turneth, and goeth back unto his house.

²⁷And they have taken that which Micah hath made, and the priest whom he had, and they come in against Laish, against a people quiet and confident, and they smite them by the edge of the sword, and the city they have burnt with fire; ²⁸and there is no deliverer, for it is far from Zidon, and they have no matters with any man, and it is in the valley which is to Beth-Rehob: and they build the city, and dwell in it.

XIX. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, in those days, when there is no king in Israel, that there is a man, a Levite, a sojourner in the sides of the hill-country of Ephraim, and he taketh to himself a wife, a concubine, out of Beth-lehem-Judah. ² And his concubine committeth whoredom against him, and goeth from him unto the house of her father, unto Beth-lehem-Judah, and she is there four months of days.

³ And her husband riseth and goeth after her, to speak unto her heart, to bring her back; and his young man is with him, and a couple of asses; and she bringeth him into the house of her father; and the father of the young woman seeth him, and rejoiceth to meet him.

⁴ And his father-in-law, the father of the young woman, keepeth hold on him, and he abideth with him three days, and they eat and drink, and lodge there. ⁵ And it cometh to pass, on the fourth day, that they rise early in the morning, and he riseth to go, but the father of the young woman saith unto his son-in-law, 'Support thy heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward do ye go on.' ⁶ And they sit and eat both of them together, and they drink, and the father of the young woman saith unto the man, 'Be willing, I pray thee, and lodge all night, and let thy heart be glad.' ⁷ And the man riseth to go, and his father-in-law presseth on him, and he turneth back and lodgeth there. ⁸ And he riseth early in the morning, on the fifth day, to go, and the father of the young woman saith, 'Support, I pray thee, thy heart;' and they tarry till the turn of the day, and both of them do out.

⁹ And the man riseth to go, he and his concubine, and his young man; and his father-in-law, the father of the young woman, saith to him, 'Lo, I pray thee, the day hath fallen towards evening, lodge all night, I pray thee; lo, the declining of the day; lodge here, and let thine heart be glad,—then have ye risen early to-morrow for your journey, and gone to thy tent.'

¹⁰ But the man hath not been willing to lodge all night, and he riseth, and goeth, and cometh in till over-against Jebus (which is Jerusalem): and with him are a couple of asses saddled; his concubine also is with him. ¹¹ They are near Jebus, and the day has gone greatly down, and the young man saith unto his lord, 'Come, I pray thee, and let us turn aside unto this city of the Jebusites, and let us lodge in it.'

¹² And his lord saith unto him, 'Let us not turn aside hither unto the city of a stranger, that is not of the Children of Israel, but we have passed over unto Gibeah.' ¹³ He saith also to the young man, 'Come, and let us draw near to one of the places, then have we lodged in Gibeah or in Ramah.'

¹⁴ And they pass over and go on, and the sun goeth in upon them near Gibeah, which is Benjamin's. ¹⁵ And they turn aside there to go in to lodge in Gibeah: and he goeth in and sitteth in the broad place of the city: but there is no man gathering them into the house to lodge.

¹⁸ And he saith unto him, 'We are passing over from Beth-lehem-Judah unto the sides of the hill-country of Ephraim—from thence am I; and I go unto Beth-lehem-Judah, but to the house of the LORD I am going, and there is no man gathering me into the house: ¹⁹ yet, both straw and provender are for our asses, and also bread and wine there is for me and for thy handmaid, and for the young man with thy servants; there is no lack of anything.'

²³ And the man, the master of the house, goeth out unto them, and saith unto them, 'Nay, my brethren, do not evil, I pray you, after that this man hath come in unto my house, do not this folly.' ²⁴ Lo, my daughter, the virgin, and his concubine, let me bring them out, I pray you, and humble ye them, and do to them what is good in your eyes: but to this man do not this foolish thing.'

²⁷ And her lord riseth in the morning, and openeth the doors of the house, and goeth on to go on his way, and lo, the woman, his concubine, is fallen at the opening of the house, and her hands are on the threshold; ²and he saith unto her, 'Rise, and let us go;' but there is none answering; and he taketh her on the ass, and the man riseth, and goeth to his place. ³And he cometh in unto his house, and taketh the knife, and layeth hold on his concubine, and cutteth her in pieces to her bones—into twelve pieces, and sendeth her into all the border of Israel.

⁴And it cometh to pass, that every one who seeth it, hath said, 'There hath not been—yea, there hath not been seen like this, even from the day of the coming up of the Children of Israel out of the land of Egypt until this day: set your heart to it, take counsel, and speak.'

XX. ¹AND all the Children of Israel go out, and the company is congregated as one man, from Dan even unto Beer-Sheba, and the land of Gilead, unto the LORD at Mizpeh. ²And the chief of all the people, of all the tribes of Israel, station themselves in the congregation of the people of God, four hundred thousand footmen drawing sword.

⁴And the man, the Levite, the husband of the woman who hath been murdered, answereth and saith, 'Into Gibeah (which is Benjamin's), have I come, I and my concubine, to lodge; ⁵and the owners of Gibeah rise against me, and go round the house against me by night—me they have thought to slay, and my concubine they have humbled, and she dieth. ⁶And I lay hold on my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and send her into all the country of the inheritance of Israel: for they have done wickedness and folly in Israel; ⁷lo, ye are all Children of Israel: give for yourselves a word and counsel here.'

¹¹And every man of Israel is gathered unto the city, as one man—companions. ¹²And the tribes of Israel send men among all the tribes of Benjamin, saying, 'What is this wickedness which hath been among you? ¹³And now, give up the men—the children of worthlessness—which are in Gibeah, and let us put them to death, and let us put away evil from Israel.'

And the Children of Benjamin have not been willing to hearken to the voice of their brethren, the Children of Israel. ¹⁴And the Children of Benjamin are gathered out of the cities to Gibeah, to go out to battle with the Children of Israel.

¹⁵And the Children of Benjamin have numbered themselves on that day: out of the cities are twenty and six thousand men drawing the sword, apart from the inhabitants of Gibeah, who have numbered themselves seven hundred chosen men. ¹⁶Among all this people are seven hundred chosen men, having their right hand closed, each of those slinging with a stone at the hair, and not erring.

²⁴And the Children of Israel draw near unto the Children of Benjamin on the second day; ²⁵and Benjamin cometh out to meet them, from Gibeah on the second day, and they destroy among the Children of Israel again eighteen thousand men to the earth: all these draw the sword.

²⁶And all the Children of Israel go up, even all the people, and they come into Bethel, and weep, and sit there before the LORD, and they fast on that day till the evening, and they cause burnt-offerings and peace-offerings to ascend before the LORD.

²⁹And Israel setteth liers in wait against Gibeah, round about. ³⁰And the Children of Israel go up against the Children of Benjamin, on the third day: and they arrange themselves against Gibeah, as time by time.

³¹And the Children of Benjamin come out to meet the people; they have been drawn away out of the city, and they begin to smite some of the people—wounded as time by time, in the highways of which one goeth up to Bethel, and the other to Gibeah in the field,) are about thirty men of Israel.

²²And the Children of Benjamin say, 'They are smitten before us as at the beginning;' but the Children of Israel have said, 'Let us flee, and let us draw them away out of the city, unto the highways.' ²³And all the men of Israel have risen from their place, and arrange themselves at Baal-Tamar, and the ambush of Israel cometh forth from its place, out of the cave of Gibeath.

²⁴And they come in—ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel—over-against Gibeath, and the battle is grievous, and they have not known that evil is striking against them. ²⁵And the Lord smiteth Benjamin before Israel; and the Children of Israel destroy in Benjamin, on that day, twenty and five thousand, and a hundred men; all these draw the sword.

²⁶And the Children of Benjamin see that they have been smitten, (seeing the men of Israel give place to Benjamin, for they have trusted unto the ambush which they had set against Gibeath, ²⁷and the ambush have basted, and they push against Gibeath, and it draweth itself out, and smiteth the whole of the city by the edge of the sword. ²⁸And the men of Israel have had an appointed sign with the ambush, even their causing a great volume of smoke to go up out of the city. ²⁹And the men of Israel turn in the battle, and Benjamin hath begun to put to death the wounded among the men of Israel, about thirty men, for they have said, 'Surely they are utterly smitten before us, as at the first battle; ³⁰but the volume hath begun to go up from the city,—a pillar of smoke—and Benjamin turneth behind, and lo, the perfection of the city hath gone up towards the heavens. ³¹And the men of Israel hath turned, and the men of Benjamin are troubled, for they have seen that evil hath stricken against them; ³²and they turn before the men of Israel unto the way of the wilderness, and the battle hath pursued them; as to those who are of the city—they destroy them in their midst; ³³they have compassed the Benjamites—they have pursued them,—with ease they have trodden them down till over-against Gibeath, at the sun-rising.

³⁶And all who fall of Benjamin are twenty and five thousand men drawing the sword, on that day; the whole of these are men of valour. ³⁷And six hundred men turn and flee into the wilderness, unto the rock of Rimmon, and they dwell in the rock of Rimmon four months. ³⁸And the men of Israel have turned back upon the Children of Benjamin, and smite them by the edge of the sword out of the city,—men unto cattle, unto all that is found; also into all the cities which are found they have sent fire.

XXI. ¹AND the men of Israel have sworn in Mizpeh, saying, 'None of us shall give his daughter to a Benjamite for a wife.' ²And the people come into Bethel, and abide there till the evening before God, and they lift up their voice, and weep a great weeping, ³and say, 'Why, O LORD, God of Israel, hath this been in Israel—to be lacking to-day, from Israel, one tribe?'

⁴And it cometh to pass on the morrow, that the people rise early, and build there an altar, and cause burnt-offerings and peace-offerings to ascend. ⁵And the Children of Israel say, 'Who is he of all the tribes of Israel that hath not come up with the congregation unto the LORD?' for the great oath hath been concerning him who hath not come up unto the LORD to Mizpeh, saying, 'He is surely put to death.' ⁶And the Children of Israel repent concerning Benjamin their brother, and say, 'To-day hath one tribe been cut off from Israel, ⁷what shall we do for them—for those who are left—for wives, seeing we have sworn by the LORD not to give to them of our daughters for wives?'

⁸And they say, 'Who is that one of the tribes of Israel who hath not come up unto the LORD to Mizpeh?' and lo, none hath come in unto the camp from Jabesh-Gilead—unto the congregation. ⁹And the people have numbered themselves, and lo, there is not a man there of the inhabitants of Jabesh-Gilead.

¹²And they find among the inhabitants of Jabesh-Gilead four hundred young women, virgins, who have not known man by the lying of a male, and they bring them in unto the camp at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

¹³And all the company send, and speak, unto the Children of Benjamin who are in the rock of Rimmon, and proclaim to them peace. ¹⁴And Benjamin turneth back at that time, and they give to them the women whom they have kept alive of the women of Jabesh-Gilead, but they have not found for all of them so. ¹⁵And the people have repented concerning Benjamin; for the LORD hath made a breach among the tribes of Israel.

¹⁶And the elders of the company say, 'What shall we do to the remnant for wives—for the women have been destroyed out of Benjamin?' ¹⁷And they say, 'Benjamin hath the possession of the escaped party, and a tribe is not blotted out from Israel: ¹⁸but we—we are unable to give to them wives out of our daughters, for the Children of Israel have sworn, saying, Cursed is he who giveth a wife to Benjamin.' ¹⁹And they say, 'Lo, a festival of the LORD is in Shiloh, from time to time, which is at the north of Bethel, at the rising of the sun, by the highway which goeth up from Bethel to Shechem, and at the south of Lehonah.

²⁰And they command the Children of Benjamin, saying, 'Go—then have ye laid wait in the vineyards, ²¹and have seen, and lo, if the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in dances—then have ye gone out from the vineyards, and have caught for yourselves each his wife out of the daughters of Shiloh, and have gone to the land of Benjamin. ²²And it hath been, when their fathers or their brethren come in to plead with us, that we have said unto them, Favour us by them, for we have not taken to each his wife in the battle, for ye—ye have not given to them at this time that ye should be guilty.'

²³And the Children of Benjamin do so; and they take women according to their number, out of the dancers whom they have taken violently away: and they go, and turn back unto their inheritance; and they build the cities, and dwell in them.

²⁴And the Children of Israel go up and down from thence at that time, each to his tribe, and to his family; and they go out from thence each to his inheritance. ²⁵In those days there is no king in Israel: each doth that which is right in his own eyes.

RUTH.

CHAP. I. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the days of the judging of the judges, that there is a famine in the land, and a man of Bethlehem-Judah goeth to sojourn in the fields of Moab, he, and his wife, and his two sons. ²And the name of the man is Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion, Ephrathites of Beth-lehem-Judah: and they come into the fields of Moab, and are there.

³And Elimelech husband of Naomi dieth, and she is left, she and her two sons. ⁴And they take to themselves wives of the Moabitesses: the name of the one is Orpah, and the name of the second is Ruth; and they dwell there about ten years. ⁵And Mahlon and Chilion die also both of them, Mahlon and Chilion, and the woman is left of her two children and of her husband.

⁶And she riseth, she and her daughters-in-law, and turneth back out of the fields of Moab, for she hath heard in the fields of Moab that God hath inspected his people, —to give to them bread. ⁷And she goeth out from the place where she hath been, and her two daughters-in-law with her, and they go on in the way to turn back unto the land of Judah.

⁸And Naomi saith to her two daughters-in-law, 'Go, turn back each to the house of her mother: the LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me; ⁹the LORD grant to you, that ye have found rest each in the house of her husband;' and she kisseth them, and they lift up their voice and weep. ¹⁰And they say to her, 'Surely with thee do we go back to thy people.' ¹¹And Naomi saith, 'Turn back, my daughters; why should ye go with me? are there yet to me sons in my bowels—that they have become your husbands?' ¹²Turn back, my daughters, go; for I am too aged to become a man's; though I had said, There is hope for me, also I have become a man's to-night, and also I have borne sons: ¹³for them would ye wait till they grow up? for them would ye shut yourselves up, so as not to become a man's? nay, my daughters, for it is bitter to me exceedingly for you, for the hand of the LORD hath gone out against me.'

¹⁴And they lift up their voice, and weep again; and Orpah kisseth her mother-in-law, but Ruth hath cleaved to her. ¹⁵And she saith, 'Lo, thy sister-in-law hath turned back unto her people, and unto her god, turn thou back after thy sister-in-law.'

¹⁶And Ruth saith, 'Urge me not to leave thee,—to turn back from after thee; for whither thou goest I go, and where thou lodgest I lodge; thy people is my people, and thy God my God. ¹⁷Where thou diest I die, and there am I buried: the LORD do thus to me, and thus let Him add—for death itself shall part between me and thee.'

¹⁸And she seeth that she is strengthening herself to go with her, and she ceaseth to speak unto her. ¹⁹And they go on both of them till their coming into Beth-lehem. And it cometh to pass at their coming into Beth-lehem, that all the city is moved at them, and they say, 'Is this Naomi?'

²⁰And she saith unto them, 'Call me not Naomi: call me Mara, for the Almighty hath made me bitter; ²¹I went out full, and the LORD hath brought me back empty: why do ye call me Naomi, seeing the LORD hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?'

²²And Naomi turneth back, and Ruth the Moabitess her daughter-in-law with her who hath turned back out of the fields of Moab, and they have come into Beth-lehem at the commencement of barley-harvest.

II. ¹AND Naomi hath an acquaintance of her husband's, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimelech, and his name is Boaz.

²And Ruth the Moabitess saith unto Naomi, 'Let me go, I pray thee, into the field, and gather among the ears of corn after him in whose eyes I find grace;' and she saith to her, 'Go, my daughter.' ³And she goeth and cometh and gathereth in the field after the reapers, and her chance happeneth—the portion of the field is Boaz's, who is of the family of Elimelech.

⁴And lo, Boaz hath come from Beth-lehem, and he saith to the reapers, 'The LORD is with you;' and they say to him, 'The LORD bless thee.' ⁴And Boaz saith to his young man who is set over the reapers, 'Whoso is this young person?' ⁵And the young man who is set over the reapers answereth and saith, 'She is the Moabitish young woman who hath come back with Naomi from the fields of Moab; ⁷and she saith, Let me glean, I pray thee—then have I gathered among the sheaves after the reapers: and she cometh and remaineth from the morning even till now: she eat a little in the house.'

⁸And Boaz saith unto Ruth, 'Hast thou not heard, my daughter? go not to glean in another field, and also pass not over from this; and thus thou dost cleave to my young women: ⁹thine eyes are on the field which they reap, and thou hast gone after them; have I not charged the young men not to touch thee? when thou art athirst then thou hast gone unto the vessels, and hast drunk of that which the young men draw.'

¹⁰And she falleth on her face, and boweth herself to the earth, and saith unto him, 'Wherefore have I found grace in thine eyes, to discern me, seeing I am a stranger?'

¹¹And Boaz answereth and saith to her, 'It hath thoroughly been declared to me all that thou hast done with thy mother-in-law, after the death of thy husband, that thou dost leave thy father and thy mother and the land of thy birth, and dost come in unto a people which thou hast not known heretofore. ¹²The LORD recompense thy work, and let thy reward be complete from the LORD, God of Israel, under whose wings thou hast come to take refuge.'

¹³And she saith, 'Let me find grace in thine eyes, my lord, because thou hast comforted me, and because thou hast spoken unto the heart of thy maid-servant, seeing I am not as one of thy maid-servants.'

¹⁴And Boaz saith to her, 'At meal-time come nigh hither, then hast thou eaten of the bread, and dipped thy morsel in the vinegar.' And she sitteth at the side of the reapers, and he reacheth to her roasted corn, and she eateth, and is satisfied, and leaveth.

¹⁵And she riseth to glean; and Boaz commandeth his young men, saying, 'Even among the sheaves let her glean, and cause her not to blush. ¹⁶And ye do also surely cast to her of the handfuls—yea, ye have left, and she hath gleaned, and push not against her.'

¹⁷And she gleaneth in the field till the evening, and she beateth out that which she hath gleaned, and it is about an ophal of barley. ¹⁸And she taketh it up, and goeth into the city; and her mother-in-law seeth that which she hath gleaned; and she bringeth out and giveth to her that which she hath left from her satiety.

¹⁹And her mother-in-law saith to her, 'Where hast thou gleaned to-day? and where hast thou wrought? let him who discerneth thee be blessed.' And she declareth to her mother-in-law with whom she hath wrought, and saith, 'The name of the man with whom I have wrought to-day is Boaz.'

²⁰And Naomi saith to her daughter-in-law, 'Blessed is he of the LORD who hath not forsaken his kindness with the living and with the dead; Naomi also saith to her, 'The man is a relation of ours; he is one of our redeemers.'

²¹And Ruth the Moabitess saith, 'He hath also surely said unto me, Near the young people whom I have thou shalt cleave till they have completed the whole of the harvest which I have.' ²²And Naomi saith unto Ruth her daughter-in-law, 'It is good, my daughter, that thou go out with his young women, that they come not against thee in any other field.'

²³And she cleaveth to the young women of Boaz to glean, till the completion of the barley-harvest, and of the wheat-harvest; and she dwelleth with her mother-in-law.

III. ¹AND Naomi her mother-in-law saith to her, 'My daughter, should I not seek rest for thee that it may be well with thee? ²And now, is not Boaz of our acquaintance, with whose young women thou hast been? Lo, he is winnowing the threshing-floor of barley to-night. ³When thou hast bathed and anointed thyself, and hast put thy garments upon thee, then thou hast gone down to the threshing-floor; let not thyself be known to the man, till he complete eating and drinking; ⁴and it cometh to pass when he lieth down, and thou hast known the place where he lieth down, and hast gone in, and uncovered his feet, and lain down,—then doth he declare to thee that which thou shalt do.'

⁵And she saith unto her, 'All that thou sayest unto me, I do.' ⁶And she goeth down to the threshing-floor, and doth according to all that her mother-in-law hath commanded her.

⁸And it cometh to pass, at the middle of the night, that the man trembleth, and turneth himself, and lo, a woman is lying at his feet. ⁹And he saith, 'Who art thou?' and she saith, 'I am Ruth thy handmaid; and thou hast spread thy skirt over thy handmaid, for thou art a redeemer.'

¹⁰And he saith, 'Blessed art thou of the LORD, my daughter; thou hast dealt more kindly at the latter end than at the beginning, by not going after the young men, either poor or rich. ¹¹And now, my daughter, fear not, all that thou sayest I do to thee, for all the gate of my people doth know that thou art a virtuous woman.

¹²And now, surely, it is true, that I am a redeemer, but there is also a redeemer nearer than I. ¹³Lodge to-night, and it hath been in the morning, if he doth redeem thee, well: let him redeem; and if he delight not to redeem thee, then have I redeemed thee, even I.—The LORD liveth! lie down till the morning.'

¹⁴And she lieth down at his feet till the morning, and she riseth before one doth discern another. And he saith, 'Let it not be known that the woman hath come into the floor.' ¹⁵He also saith, 'Give the covering which is on thee, and keep hold on it.' And she keepeth hold on it, and he measureth six measures of barley, and layeth it on her; and he goeth into the city.

¹⁶And she cometh in unto her mother-in-law; and she saith, 'How art thou, my daughter?' and she declareth to her all that the man hath done to her. ¹⁷She also saith, 'These six measures of barley hath he given to me, for he said to me, Thou shalt not go in empty unto thy mother-in-law.' ¹⁸And she saith, 'Sit still my daughter, till thou know how the matter falleth, for the man doth not rest except he hath completed the matter to-day.'

IV. ¹AND Boaz goeth up unto the gate, and sitteth there; and lo, the redeemer is passing by of whom Boaz had spoken, and he saith, 'Turn aside, sit down here, such a one, such a one;' and he turneth aside and sitteth down. ²And he taketh ten men of the elders of the city, and saith, 'Sit down here;' and they sit down.

³And he saith to the redeemer, 'The portion of the field which is our brother's, Elimelech's, hath Naomi sold, who hath come back out of the fields of Moab. ⁴And I said, I will uncover thine ear, saying, Buy it before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people; if thou dost redeem—redeem, and if none doth redeem—declare to me, and let me know, for there is none save thee to redeem, and I after thee.' And he saith, 'I redeem it.' ⁵And Boaz saith, 'In the day of thy purchasing the field from the hand of Naomi, then from Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the dead, hast thou bought it, to raise up the name of the dead over his inheritance.'

⁶And the redeemer saith, 'I am unable to redeem it for myself, lest I destroy mine own inheritance: redeem to thyself—thou—my right of redemption, for I am unable to redeem.'

⁷And this formerly was in Israel for redemption and for changing, to establish anything; a man hath drawn off his sandal, and hath given it to his neighbour, and this is a testimony in Israel.

⁸And the redeemer saith to Boaz, 'Buy it for thyself;' and he draweth off his sandal. ⁹And Boaz saith to the elders, and to all the people, 'Ye are witnesses to-day that I have bought all that is Elimelech's, and all that is Chilion's, and Mahlon's, from the hand of Naomi. ¹⁰And also Ruth the Moabitess, wife of Mahlon, have I bought to myself for a wife, to raise up the name of the dead over his inheritance; and the name of the dead is not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place; ye are witnesses to-day.'

¹¹And all the people who are in the gate say—the elders also—'Witnesses! the LORD make the woman who is coming in unto thy house as Rachel and as Leah, both of whom have built the house of Israel; and do thou virtuously in Ephrath, and proclaim the Name in Beth-lehem. ¹²And let thy house be as the house of Pharez (whom Tamar bare to Judah), of the seed which the LORD doth give to thee of this young woman.'

¹³And Boaz taketh Ruth, and she becometh his wife, and he goeth in unto her, and the LORD giveth conception to her, and she beareth a son.

¹⁴And the women say unto Naomi, 'Blessed is the LORD who hath not let a redeemer cease from thee to-day (yea, let His Name be proclaimed in Israel), and he hath been to thee for a restorer of life, and for a nourisher of thine old age; for thy daughter-in-law who hath loved thee, who is better to thee than seven sons, hath borne him.'

¹⁵And Naomi taketh the lad, and layeth him in her bosom, and she is to him for a nurse. ¹⁷And the neighbouring women give him a name, saying, 'A son hath been born to Naomi,' and they call his name Obed; he is father of Jesse, the father of David.

¹⁸And these are the genealogies of Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron, ¹⁹and Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab, ²⁰and Amminadab begat Nashon, and Nashon begat Salmon, ²¹and Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed, ²²and Obed begat Jesse, and Jesse begat David.

FIRST BOOK OF SAMUEL.

CHAP. I. ¹AND there is a certain man of Ramathaim-Zophim, of the hill-country of Ephraim, and his name is Elkanah son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephraimite: ²and he hath two wives, the name of the one is Hannah, and the name of the second is Peninnah: and Peninnah hath children, but Hannah hath no children.

³And that man hath gone up out of his city from time to time, to bow himself, and to sacrifice before the LORD of Hosts in Shiloh; and there are the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, priests to the LORD.

⁴And the day cometh, and Elkanah sacrificeth, and he hath given to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions. ⁵And to Hannah he giveth a double portion, for he hath loved Hannah, yet the LORD hath shut her womb. ⁶And her adversity hath provoked her greatly, so as to make her tremble, for the LORD hath shut her womb.

⁷And so he doth year by year, from the time of her going up into the house of the LORD, so it provoketh her, and she weepeth, and doth not eat. ⁸And Elkanah her husband saith to her, 'Hannah, why weepest thou? and why dost thou not eat? and why is thy heart afflicted? am I not better to thee than ten sons?'

⁹And Hannah riseth after eating in Shiloh, and after drinking, and Eli the priest is sitting on the throne by the side-posts of the temple of the LORD.

¹⁰And she is bitter in soul, and prayeth unto the LORD, and weepeth greatly, ¹¹and voweth a vow, and saith, 'O LORD of Hosts, if Thou certainly look on the affliction of Thy handmaid, and hast remembered me, and dost not forget Thy handmaid, and hast given to Thy handmaid the seed of men—then have I given him to the LORD all the days of his life, and a razor doth not go up on his head.'

¹²And it hath been, when she multiplied prayers before the LORD, that Eli watched her mouth: ¹³and Hannah is speaking to her heart, only her lips are moving, and her voice is not heard; and Eli reckoneth her to be drunken. ¹⁴And Eli saith unto her, 'Until when are thou drunken? turn aside thy wine from thee.' ¹⁵And Hannah answereth and saith, 'Nay, my lord, I am a woman sharply pained in spirit, and wine and strong drink I have not drunk, and I pour out my soul before the LORD. ¹⁶Put not thy handmaid before a daughter of worthlessness, for from the abundance of my meditation and provocation have I spoken hitherto.'

¹⁷And Eli answereth and saith, 'Go in peace, and the God of Israel grant thy petition which thou hast asked of Him.' ¹⁸And she saith, 'Let thy handmaid find grace in thine eyes;' and the woman goeth on her way, and eateth, and her countenance hath not been sad any more for it.

¹⁹And they rise early in the morning, and bow themselves before the LORD, and they turn back and come in unto their house in Ramah; and Elkanah knoweth Hannah his wife, and the LORD remembereth her. ²⁰And it cometh to pass, at the revolution of the days, that Hannah conceiveth, and beareth a son, and calleth his name Samuel, 'for from the LORD have I asked him.'

²¹And the man Elkanah goeth up, and all his house, to sacrifice to the LORD the sacrifice of the days, and his vow. ²²And Hannah hath not gone up, for she said to her husband, 'Till the youth be weaned—then have I brought him in, and he hath appeared before the face of the LORD, and hath dwelt there for ever.'

²⁵And they slaughter the bullock, and bring in the youth unto Eli. ²⁶And she saith, 'O my lord, thy soul liveth! my lord, I am the woman who stood with thee in this place, to pray unto the LORD. ²⁷For this youth I prayed, and the LORD doth give to me my petition which I asked of Him. ²⁸And I have also caused him to be asked for the LORD, all the days that he hath lived he is asked for the LORD;' and he boweth himself there before the LORD.

II. ¹AND Hannah prayeth, and saith, 'My heart hath exulted in the LORD, My horn hath been high in the LORD, My mouth is large over mine enemies, For I have rejoiced in Thy salvation.'

²There is none holy as the LORD, For there is none save Thee, Yea, there is no rock like our God.

³Multiply not—speak not very haughtily, Let the old saying go out from your mouth,

For the LORD is a God of knowledge, And by His actions are weighed.

⁴The bows of the mighty are broken, And the stumbling have girded on strength.

⁵The satiated for bread have hired them— And the hungry have ceased.

While the barren hath borne seven, And she who aboundeth with children

⁶The LORD putteth to death, [is weak]. And He keepeth alive,

He bringeth down to Sheol, And He bringeth up.

⁷The LORD dispossessioneth, and maketh rich, He maketh low, and maketh high.

⁸He raiseth the poor from the dust: From the dunghill He lifteth the needy,

To cause them to sit with nobles,
Yea, a throne of honour
He causeth them to inherit,
For the fixtures of the earth are the LORD'S, [them.]

And He setteth the habitable world upon
9 The feet of His saints He keepeth;
And the wicked in darkness are silent;
For not by power doth man become mighty.

10 The LORD—broken down are His adversaries, [eth]:
Against them out of heaven He thunder-
The LORD judgeth the ends of the earth,
He also giveth strength to His King,
And exalteth the horn of His Anointed.'

11 And Elkanah goeth to Ramah, unto his house, and the youth hath been serving the LORD, in the presence of Eli the priest:

12 and the sons of Eli are worthless children, they have not known the LORD. 13 And the custom of the priests with the people is:
any man sacrificing a sacrifice—then hath the servant of the priest come when the flesh is boiling, and the hook of three teeth in his hand, 14 and he hath struck it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; all that the hook bringeth up the priest taketh for himself: thus they do to all Israel who come in there to Shiloh.

15 Also before they make a perfume with the fat—then hath the priest's servant come, and said to the man who is sacrificing, 'Give flesh to roast for the priest, seeing he will not take of thee boiled flesh, but raw;' 16 and the man saith unto him, 'Let them surely make a perfume (as to-day) with the fat, then take to thyself as thy soul desireth;' then hath he said to him—
'Surely, now dost thou give; and if not—I have taken by strength.'

17 And the sin of the young men is very great in the presence of the LORD, for the men have despised the offering of the LORD.

18 And Samuel is ministering in the presence of the LORD, a youth, girl with a linen ephod. 19 And a small upper coat doth his mother make for him, and she hath brought it up to him from time to time, in her coming up with her husband to sacrifice the sacrifice of the time.

20 And Eli hath blessed Elkanah, and his wife, and hath said, 'The LORD appoint for thee seed of this woman, for the petition which she asked for the LORD;' and they have gone to his place.

21 When the LORD hath visited Hannah, then she conceiveth and beareth three sons and two daughters: and the youth Samuel groweth up with the LORD.

22 And Eli is very old, and hath heard all that his sons do to all Israel, and how that they lie with the women who assemble at the opening of the tent of meeting. 23 And he saith to them, 'Why do ye things like these? for I hear of your evil acts from all the people—these things.' 24 Nay, my sons; for the report which I hear is not good,— causing the LORD's people to transgress.

25 If a man sin against a man, then hath God judged him; but if a man sin against the LORD, who doth pray for him?' but they hearken not to the voice of their father, that the LORD delighted to put them to death.

26 And the youth Samuel is going on and growing up, and is good both with the LORD, and with men.

27 And a man of God cometh in unto Eli, and saith unto him, 'Thus hath the LORD said, Was I really revealed unto the house of thy father in their being in Egypt, before Pharaoh's house, 28 even to choose him out of all the tribes of Israel for a priest to Myself, to go up on Mine altar, to make perfume, to bear an ephod before Me, while I give to the house of thy father all the fireofferings of the Children of Israel? 29 Why do ye kick at My sacrifice, and at Mine offering which I have commanded in My habitation, and dost honour thy sons above Me, to make yourselves fat from the first part of every offering of Israel My people?'

30 Therefore, affirmeth the LORD, God of Israel: I certainly said, Thy house and the house of thy father, shall walk up and down before Me for ever; but now, the LORD affirmeth, Far be it from Me! for he who honoureth Me, I do honour, and they who despise Me, are lightly esteemed.

31 'Lo, days are coming, and I have cut off thine arm, and the arm of the house of thy father, that an old man is not in thy house. 32 And thou hast beheld an adversary in My habitation, in all that He doth good with Israel, and there is not an old man in thy house all the time.

33 And the man of thine I cut not off from Mine altar, to consume thine eyes, and to grieve thy soul; and all the increase of thy house shall die men. 34 And this is the sign to thee, that it cometh on thy two sons, on Hophni and Phinehas; in one day they die both of them. 35 Then have I raised for Myself a steadfast priest; as in My heart and in My soul doth he do; and I have built for him a steadfast house, and he hath walked up and down before Mine anointed all the days. 36 And it hath been, every one who is left in thy house doth come in to bow himself to him, for a wage of silver, and a cake of bread, and hath said, Admit me, I pray thee, into one of the priest's offices to eat a morsel of bread.'

III. 1 AND the youth Samuel is serving the LORD before Eli; and the word of the LORD hath been precious in those days;
there is no vision broken forth.

2 And it cometh to pass, at that time, that Eli lieth down in his place, and his eyes have begun to be dim,—he is unable to see.

3 And the lamp of God is not yet extinguished, and Samuel lieth down in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God is, 4 and the LORD calleth unto Samuel, and he saith,
'Here am I.' 5 And he runneth unto Eli, and saith, 'Here am I, for thou hast called for me;' and he saith, 'I called not; turn back, lie down;' and he goeth and lieth down.

6 And the LORD addeth again to call Samuel, and Samuel riseth and goeth unto Eli, and saith, 'Here am I, for thou hast called for me;' and he saith, 'I have not called, my son, turn back, lie down.' ⁷ And Samuel hath not yet known the LORD, and the word of the LORD is not yet revealed unto him.

⁸ And the LORD addeth to call Samuel the third time, and he riseth and goeth unto Eli, and saith, 'Here am I, for thou hast called for me;' and Eli understandeth that the LORD is calling to the youth. ⁹ And Eli saith to Samuel, 'Go, lie down, then it hath been, if He call unto thee, that thou hast said, 'Speak, LORD, for Thy servant heareth.' And Samuel goeth and lieth down in his place.

¹⁷ And he saith, 'What is the thing which He hath spoken unto thee? I pray thee, hide it not from me; so may God do to thee, and so may He add, if thou hide from me any thing of all the things that He hath spoken unto thee.'

¹⁸ And Samuel declareth to him the whole of the things, and hath not hid anything from him; and he saith, 'It is the LORD; that which is good in His eyes let Him do.'

¹⁹ And Samuel groweth up, and the LORD hath been with him, and hath not let any of his words fall to the earth. ²⁰ And all Israel, from Dan even unto Beer-Sheba, know that Samuel is established for a prophet of the LORD. ²¹ And the LORD addeth to appear in Shiloh, for the LORD hath been revealed unto Samuel in Shiloh, by the Word of the LORD.

IV. ¹ AND the word of Samuel is for all Israel; and Israel goeth out to meet the Philistines for the battle, and they encamp by Eben-Ezer, and the Philistines have encamped in Aphek. ² And the Philistines set themselves in array to meet Israel; and the battle spreadeth itself, and Israel is smitten before the Philistines, and they smite among the ranks in the field about four thousand men.

³ And the people cometh in unto the camp, and the elders of Israel say, 'Why hath the LORD smitten us to-day before the Philistines? Let us take to ourselves from Shiloh the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and let it come into our midst, and let it save us out of the hand of our enemies.'

And they perceive that the ark of the LORD hath come in unto the camp. ⁷ And the Philistines are afraid, for they have said, 'God hath come in unto the camp;'

they say also, 'Woe to us, for there hath not been like this heretofore. ⁸ Woe to us; who doth deliver us out of the hand of these honourable gods? these are the gods who smite the Egyptians with every plague in the wilderness. ⁹ Strengthen yourself, and become men, O ye Philistines, lest ye do service to the Hebrews, as they have done to you—then have ye become men and fought.'

¹⁰ And the Philistines fight, and Israel is smitten, and they flee each to his tent, and the blow is very great, and there fall of Israel thirty thousand footmen. ¹¹ And the ark of God hath been taken, and the two sons of Eli have died, Hophni and Phinehas.

¹⁴ And Eli heareth the sound of the cry, and he saith, 'What—the sound of this noise?'

And the man hath hastened, and cometh in, and declareth it to Eli. ¹⁵ And Eli is ninety and eight years old, and his eyes have stood, and he hath been unable to see. ¹⁶ And the man saith unto Eli, 'I am he who hath come out of the ranks, and I out of the ranks have fled to-day; and he saith, 'What hath been the matter, my son?'

¹⁷ And he who beareth the tidings answereth and saith, 'Israel hath fled before the Philistines; and also a great slaughter hath been among the people; and also thy two sons have died, Hophni and Phinehas—and the ark of God hath been captured.'

¹⁹ And his daughter-in-law, wife of Phinehas, is pregnant, about to bare, and she heareth the report regarding the taking of the ark of God, that her father-in-law and her husband have died, and she boweth, and beareth, for her pains have turned against her. ²⁰And at the time of her death, when the women who are standing by her say, 'Fear not, for thou hast born a son,' she hath not answered, nor hath she set her heart to it; ²¹and she calleth the youth I-chabod, saying, 'Honour hath removed from Israel,' because of the taking of the ark of God, and because of her father-in-law and her husband. ²²And she saith, 'Honour hath removed from Israel, for the ark of God hath been taken.'

V. ¹AND the Philistines have taken the ark of God, and bring it in from Eben-Ezer to Ashdod; ²and the Philistines take the ark of God, and bring it unto the house of Dagon, and set it near Dagon.

³And the Ashdodites rise early on the morrow, and lo, Dagon is fallen on its face to the earth, before the ark of the LORD; and they take Dagon and put it back to its place.

⁴And they rise early in the morning on the morrow, and lo, Dagon is fallen on its face to the earth, before the ark of the LORD, and the head of Dagon, and the two palms of its hands are cut off at the threshold, only the fleshy part hath been left to him. ⁵Therefore the priests of Dagon, and all who come into the house of Dagon, tread not on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod till this day.

⁶And the hand of the LORD is heavy on the Ashdodites, and he maketh them desolate, and smiteth them with emerods, Ashdod and its borders. ⁷And the men of Ashdod see that it is so, and they have said, 'Let not the ark of the God of Israel abide with us, for hard hath been His hand upon us, and upon Dagon our god.'

⁸And they send and gather all the princes of the Philistines unto them, and they say, 'What shall we do to the ark of the God of Israel?' and they say, 'To Gath let the ark of the God of Israel be brought round;' and they bring round the ark of the God of Israel. ⁹And it cometh to pass after they have brought it round, that the hand of the LORD is against the city—a very great destruction; and He smiteth the men of the city, both small and great; and emerods break forth on them.

¹⁰And they send the ark of God to Ekron; and it cometh to pass at the coming in of the ark of God to Ekron, that the Ekrouites cry out, saying, 'They have brought round unto us the ark of the God of Israel, to put us to death—our people also.' ¹¹And they send and gather all the princes of the Philistines, and say, 'Send ye away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it turn back to its place, and let it not put us to death—our people also;' for there hath been a deadly destruction throughout all the city: very heavy hath the hand of God been there; ¹²and the men who have not died have been smitten with emerods, and the cry of the city goeth up into the heavens.

VI. ¹AND the ark of the LORD is in the fields of the Philistines seven months; ²and the Philistines call for the priests and for the diviners, saying, 'What shall we do to the ark of the LORD? let us know wherewith we shall send it to its place?' ³And they say, 'If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, ye do not send it away empty; but ye do certainly send back to him a guilt-offering; then are ye healed, and it hath been known to you why His hand turneth not aside from you.'

⁴And they say, 'What is the guilt-offering which we send back to Him?' and they say, 'The number of the princes of the Philistines—five golden emerods, and five golden mice; for one plague is to you all, and to your princes. ⁵Then have ye made images of your emerods, and images of your mice that corrupt the land, and ye have given honour to the God of Israel; it may be He doth lighten His hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land. ⁶And why do ye harden your heart as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their heart? do they not—when he hath rolled himself upon them—send them away, and they go?'

⁷And now, take ye, and prepare one new cart, and two suckling kine, on which a yoke hath not gone up,—then have ye bound the kine in the cart, and caused their young ones to turn back from after them to the house; ⁸and ye have taken the ark of the LORD, and put it on the cart, and the jewels of gold which ye have turned back to Him—a guilt-offering—ye do put in a coffer at its side, and have sent it away, and it hath gone; ⁹then have ye seen, if the way of its own border it goeth up to Beth-Shemesh—He hath done to us this great evil; and if not, then have we known that His hand hath not come against us; it hath been an accident to us.'

¹⁰And the men do so; and they take two suckling kine, and bind them in the cart, and their young ones they have shut up in the house; ¹¹and they place the ark of the LORD on the cart, and the coffer, and the golden mice, and the images of their emerods.

¹²And the kine go straight in the way, on the way to Beth-Shemesh, in one highway have they gone, going and lowing, and they have not turned aside right or left; and the princes of the Philistines go after them unto the border of Beth-Shemesh.

¹³And the Beth-Shemeshites are reaping their wheat-harvest in the valley, and they lift up their eyes and see the ark, and rejoice to see it. ¹⁴And the cart hath come in unto the field of Joshua the Beth-Shemeshite, and standeth there; and there is a great stone, and they cleave the wood of the cart, and the kine have they caused to ascend—a burnt-offering to the LORD.

¹⁵And the Levites have taken down the ark of the LORD, and the coffer which is with it, in which are the jewels of gold, and they place them on the great stone; and the men of Beth-Shemesh have caused burnt-offerings to ascend, and sacrifice sacrifices in that day to the LORD. ¹⁶When the five princes of the Philistines have seen it, then they turn back to Ekron, on that day.

¹⁷And these are the golden emerods which the Philistines have sent back—a guilt-offering to the LORD: for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one: ¹⁸the golden mice also—the number of all the cities of the Philistines—of the five princes, from the fenced city even unto the hamlet of the villages, even unto the great meadow, on which they placed the ark of the LORD—are unto this day, in the field of Joshua, the Beth-Shemeshite.

¹⁹And He smiteth among the men of Beth-Shemesh, for they have looked into the ark of the LORD, yea, He smiteth among the people seventy men—fifty chief men: and the people mourn, because the LORD smote among the people—a great smiting.

²⁰And the men of Beth-Shemesh say, 'Who is able to stand before Jehovah, this holy God? and unto whom shall He go up from us?' ²¹And they send messengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath-Jearim, saying, 'The Philistines have sent back the ark of the LORD: come down, take it up unto you.'

VII. ¹AND the men of Kirjath-Jearim come and bring up the ark of the LORD, and bring it in unto the house of Abinadab, in the hill, and have sanctified Eleazar his son, to keep the ark of the LORD. ²And it cometh to pass, from the day of the dwelling of the ark in Kirjath-Jearim, that the days are multiplied yea, they are twenty years, and all the house of Israel wail after the LORD.

³And Samuel speaketh unto all the house of Israel, saying, 'If with all your heart ye are turning back unto the LORD—turn aside the gods of the stranger from your midst, Ashtaroth also; and prepare your heart to the LORD, and serve Him only, and He doth deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines.'

⁴And the Children of Israel turn aside the Baalim and Ashtaroth, and serve the LORD alone. ⁵And Samuel saith, 'Gather all Israel to Mizpeh, and I pray for you unto the LORD.'

⁶And they are gathered to Mizpeh, and they draw water, and pour it out before the LORD, and fast on that day, and say there, 'We have sinned against the LORD;' and Samuel judgeth the people of Israel in Mizpeh.

⁷And the Philistines hear that the Children of Israel have gathered themselves to Mizpeh, and the princes of the Philistines go up against Israel; and the Children of Israel hear, and are afraid of the presence of the Philistines.

⁸And the Children of Israel say unto Samuel, 'Keep not silent from crying unto the LORD our God for us, and let Him save us out of the hands of the Philistines.'

⁹And Samuel taketh a fat lamb, and causeth it to go up—a whole burnt-offering to the LORD: and Samuel crieth unto the LORD for Israel, and the LORD answereth him. ¹⁰And Samuel is causing the burnt-offering to go up—and the Philistines have drawn nigh to battle against Israel—and the LORD thundereth with a great noise, on that day, upon the Philistines, and troubleth them, and they are smitten before Israel.

¹¹And the men of Israel go out from Mizpeh, and pursue the Philistines, and smite them unto the place of Beth-Car.

¹²And Samuel taketh a stone, and setteth it between Mizpeh and Shen, and calleth its name Eben-Ezer, saying, 'Hitherto hath the LORD helped us.'

¹³And the Philistines are humbled, and have not continued any more to come into the border of Israel; and the hand of the LORD is on the Philistines all the days of Samuel. ¹⁴And the cities which the Philistines have taken from Israel are restored to Israel: from Ekron even unto Gath; and their border hath Israel delivered out of the hand of the Philistines; and there is peace between Israel and the Amorites.

¹⁵And Samuel judgeth Israel all the days of his life, ¹⁶And he hath gone from year to year, and hath gone round Bethel, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh; and he hath judged Israel in all those places. ¹⁷And his returning is to Ramah, for there is his house, and there he hath judged Israel, and there he buildeth an altar to the LORD.

VIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, when Samuel is old, that he maketh his sons judges over Israel. ²And the name of his first-born son is Joel, and the name of his second is Abiah; judges in Beer-Sheva. ³And his sons have not walked in his ways, and turn aside after dishonest gain, and take bribes, and turn aside judgment.

⁴And all the elders of Israel gather themselves together, and come in unto Samuel to Ramah, ⁵and say unto him, 'Lo, thou hast become old, and thy sons have not walked in thy ways; now, appoint for us a king to judge us, like all the nations.' ⁶And the thing is evil in the eyes of Samuel, when they have said, 'Give to us a king to judge us;' and Samuel prayeth unto the LORD.

⁷And the LORD saith unto Samuel, 'Hearken to the voice of the people, to all that they say unto thee, for they have not rejected thee, but Me they have rejected from reigning over them. ⁸According to all the works that they have done from the day of My bringing them up out of Egypt, even unto this day, when they forsake Me, and serve other gods—so they are doing also to thee. ⁹And now, hearken to their voice; only, surely thou dost certainly protest to them; and hast declared to them the custom of the king who reigneth over them.'

¹⁰And Samuel speaketh all the words of the LORD unto the people who ask from him a king, ¹¹and saith, 'This is the custom of the king who reigneth over you: Your sons he doth take, and hath appointed for himself among his chariots, and among his horsemen, and they have run before his chariots; ¹²also to appoint for himself heads of thousands, and heads of fifties; also to plow his plowing, and to reap his harvest, and to make the instruments of his war, and the instruments of his charioteer.'

¹³'And your daughters he doth take for perfumers, and for cooks, and for bakers. ¹⁴And your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards—the best—doth he take, and hath given to his servants. ¹⁵And your seed and your vineyards he doth tithe, and hath given to his eunuchs and to his servants. ¹⁶ And your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and your best young men, and your asses, doth he take, and hath prepared for his own work. ¹⁷ Your flock he doth tithe, and ye are to him for servants. ¹⁸ And ye have cried out in that day because of the king whom ye have chosen for yourselves, and the LORD doth not answer you in that day.

¹⁹ But the people refuse to hearken to the voice of Samuel, and say, 'Nay, but a king shall be over us, ²⁰ then have we been, even we, like all the nations; and our king hath judged us, and gone out before us, and hath fought our battles.'

IX. ¹ AND there is a man of Benjamin, and his name is Kish son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Bechorath, son of Aphiah, a Benjamite, a mighty one of valour. ² And he hath a son, and his name is Saul, a choice youth and goodly, and there is not among the Children of Israel a goodlier man than he; from his shoulder and upward, higher than any of the people.

³ And the asses of Kish, the father of Saul, are lost, and Kish saith unto Saul his son, 'Take, I pray thee, with thee, one of the young men, and rise, go, seek the asses.'

⁴ And he passeth over through the hill-country of Ephraim, and passeth over through the land of Shalisha, but they have not found; and they pass over into the land of Shalim, but they are not; and he passeth over through the land of Benjamin, but they have not found.

⁵ And they have come in unto the land of Zuph, and Saul hath said to his young man who is with him, 'Come, and let us turn back, lest my father leave off the asses, and hath been sorrowful for us.'

⁶ And he saith to him, 'Lo, I pray thee, a man of God is in this city, and the man is honoured; all that he speaketh certainly cometh; now, let us go there, it may be he will declare to us our way on which we should have gone.'

⁷ And Saul saith to his young man, 'But lo, we go, and what do we bring in to the man? for the bread hath gone from our vessels, and there is no present to bring in to the man of God—what is with us?'

⁸ And the young man continueth to answer Saul, and saith, 'Lo, there is found with me the fourth of a shekel of silver; and I have given to the man of God, and he hath declared to us our way.'

⁹ Formerly in Israel, thus hath the man said in his going to seek God, 'Come and let us go unto the seer,' for the 'prophet' of to-day was called formerly 'the seer.'

¹⁰ And Saul saith to his young man, 'Thy word is good: come, let us go;' and they go unto the city where the man of God is.

¹¹ They are going up in the ascent of the city, and they have found young women going out to draw water, and say to them, 'Is the seer in this place?' ¹² And they answer them and say, 'He is; lo, before thee! haste, now, for to-day he hath come into the city, for the people hath a stated sacrifice in the high place. ¹³ At your going into the city so shall ye find him, before he go up into the high place to eat; for the people do not eat till his coming, for he doth bless the sacrifice; afterwards do they eat who are called; and now, go up, for at this time ye do find him.'

¹⁴ And they go up into the city; they are coming into the midst of the city, and lo, Samuel cometh out to meet them, to go up to the high place; ¹⁵ seeing the LORD had uncovered the ear of Samuel a day before the coming of Saul, saying, ¹⁶ 'At this time to-morrow, I send unto thee a man out of the land of Benjamin,—then thou hast anointed him for leader over My people Israel, and he hath saved My people out of the hand of the Philistines; for I have seen My people, for its cry hath come in unto Me.' ¹⁷ When Samuel hath seen Saul, then the LORD answered him, 'Lo, the man of whom I have spoken unto thee; this one shall restrain My people.'

¹⁹ And Samuel answereth Saul and saith, 'I am the seer; go up before me into the high place, then hast thou eaten with me to-day, and I have sent thee away in the morning, and all that is in thy heart I declare to thee. ²⁰ As to the asses which are lost to thee this day three days, set not thy heart to them, for they have been found; and for whom is all the desire of Israel? is it not for thee and for all thy father's house?'

²¹ And Saul answereth and saith, 'Am not I a Benjamite—of the smallest of the tribes of Israel? and my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? and why hast thou spoken unto me according to this word?'

²² And Samuel taketh Saul, and his young man, and bringeth them into the chamber, and giveth to him a place at the head of those who are called; and they are about thirty men. ²³ And Samuel saith to the cook, 'Give the portion which I gave to thee, of which I said unto thee, Set it by thee.' ²⁴ And the cook lieth up the leg, and that which is on it, and setteth it before Saul. he also saith, 'Lo, that which is left; set it before thee—eat, for to this appointed season it is kept for thee, saying, I have called the people; and Saul eateth with Samuel on that day.

²⁵ And they come down from the high place, into the city, and he speaketh with Saul on the roof. ²⁶ And they rise early, and it cometh to pass, at the ascending of the dawn, that Samuel calleth unto Saul, on the roof, saying, 'Rise, and let me send three away: and Saul riseth, and they go out, both of them; he and Samuel, without.

¹⁷ They are going down in the extremity of the city, and Samuel hath said unto Saul, 'Say to the young man that he pass on before us (and he passeth on), but thou, stand at this time, and let me cause thee to hear the word of God.'

X. ¹ AND Samuel taketh the vial of oil, and poureth it on his head, and kisseth him, and saith, 'Is it not because the LORD hath anointed thee over His inheritance for leader? ² In thy going to-day from me—then thou hast found two men by the grave of Rachel, in the border of Benjamin, at Zelzah, and they have said unto thee, 'The asses have been found which thou hast gone to seek; and lo, thy father hath left the matter of the asses, and hath sorrowed for you, saying, What shall I do for my son?'

³ And thou hast passed on from thence, and beyond, and hast come in unto the oak of Tabor, and three men have found thee there going up unto God to Bethel, one bearing three kids, and another bearing three cakes of bread, and another bearing a bottle of wine. ⁴ And they have asked of thy welfare, and given to thee two loaves, and thou hast received from their hand.

⁸ Then thou hast gone down before me to Gilgal, and lo, I go down unto thee, to cause burnt-offerings to ascend, to sacrifice sacrifices of peace-offerings, seven days dost thou wait till my coming in unto thee, then have I made known to thee that which thou shalt do.'

⁹ And it hath been, in his turning his shoulder to go from Samuel, that God turneth to him another heart, and all these signs come on that day; ¹⁰ seeing they come in thither to the hill, and lo, a company of prophets—to meet him, and the Spirit of God prospereth over him, and he prophesieth in their midst.

¹¹ And it cometh to pass when all his acquaintances heretofore see, and lo, with the prophets he hath prophesied, that the people say one unto another, 'What is this hath happened to the son of Kish? is Saul also among the prophets?' ¹² And a man from thence answereth and saith, 'And who is their father?' therefore it became a simile, 'Is Saul also among the prophets?'

¹³ And he censeth from prophesying, and he cometh into the high place. ¹⁴ And the uncle of Saul saith unto him, and unto his young man, 'Whither went ye?' and he saith, 'To seek the asses; when we see that they are not, then we go in unto Samuel.'

¹⁵ And the uncle of Saul saith, 'Declare to me, I pray thee, what Samuel hath said to you?' ¹⁶ And Saul saith unto his uncle, 'He certainly declared to us that the asses had been found; but of the matter of the kingdom he hath not declared to him that which Samuel hath said.'

¹⁷ And Samuel calleth the people unto the LORD to Mizpeh, ¹⁸ and saith unto the Children of Israel, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, I have brought up Israel out of Egypt, yea, I deliver you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all the kingdoms who are oppressing you. ¹⁹ Yet ye have to-day rejected your God, who is Himself your saviour out of all your evils and your distresses, and ye say, Nay, but—a king thou dost set over us: and now, station yourselves before the LORD, by your tribes, and by your thousands.'

²⁰ And Samuel bringeth near all the tribes of Israel, and the tribe of Benjamin is captured; ²¹ and he bringeth near the tribe of Benjamin by its families, and the family of Matri is captured, and Saul son of Kish is captured, and they seek him, and he hath not been found.

²² And they ask again at the LORD, 'Hath the man yet come hither?' and the LORD saith, 'Lo, he hath been hidden near the vessels.' ²³ And they run and bring him from thence, and he stationeth himself in the midst of the people, and he is higher than any of the people, from the shoulder and upward.

²⁴ And Samuel saith unto all the people, 'Have ye seen him on whom the LORD hath fixed, for there is none like him among all the people?' And all the people shout, and say, 'Let the king live!'

²⁶ And Saul also hath gone to his house, to Gibeah, and the company go with him whose heart God hath touched; ²⁷ but the sons of worthlessness have said, 'What! doth this one save us!' and they despise him, and have not brought a present to him; but he is as one dead.

XI. ¹ AND Nahash the Ammonite cometh up, and encampeth against Jabesh-Gilead; and all the men of Jabesh say unto Nahash, 'Make with us a covenant, and we serve thee.'

² And Nahash the Ammonite saith unto them, 'For this do I covenant with you, by picking out all your right eyes,—then have I put a reproach on all Israel.' ³ And the elders of Jabesh say unto him, 'Let us alone seven days, and let us send messengers into all the border of Israel; and if there is none saving us—then have we come out to thee.'

the herd out of the field, and Saul saith, 'What—to the people, that they weep?' and they recount to him the words of the men of Jabesh.

⁶And the Spirit of God prospereth over Saul, in his hearing these words, and his anger burneth greatly. ⁷And he taketh a couple of oxen, and cutteth them in pieces, and sendeth them through all the border of Israel, by the hand of the messengers, saying, 'He who cometh not out after Saul and after Samuel—so is it done to his oxen;' and the fear of the LORD falleth on the people, and they come out as one man. ⁸And he inspecteth them in Bezek; and the Children of Israel are three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand.

⁹And they say to the messengers who come, 'Thus do ye say to the men of Jabesh-Gilead, To-morrow ye have safety—by the heat of the sun;' and the messengers come and declare it to the men of Jabesh, and they rejoice. ¹⁰And the men of Jabesh say to the Ammonites, 'To-morrow we come unto you; then have ye done to us according to all that is good in your eyes.'

¹¹And it cometh to pass, on the morrow, that Saul putteth the people in three detachments, and they come into the midst of the camp in the morning-watch, and smite the Ammonites till the heat of the day; and it cometh to pass that they who are left are scattered, and two of them have not been left together.

¹²And the people say unto Samuel, 'Who is he that saith, Saul reign over us! give ye up the men, and let us put them to death.'

¹³And Saul saith, 'There shall not a man be put to death on this day, for to-day hath the LORD wrought salvation in Israel.'

¹⁴And Samuel saith unto the people, 'Come and let us go to Gilgal, and let us renew the kingdom there.' ¹⁵And all the people go to Gilgal, and they cause Saul to reign there before the LORD in Gilgal, and there sacrifice their sacrifices of peace-offerings before the LORD; and there Saul rejoiceth—all the men of Israel also—very greatly.

XII. ¹AND Samuel saith unto all Israel, 'Lo, I have hearkened to your voice, to all that ye have said to me, and I cause a king to reign over you. ²And, now, lo, the king is walking habitually before you, and I have become aged, and gray-headed; and my children, lo, they are with you; and I have walked habitually before you from my youth till this day.

³Lo, here am I; testify against me, over-against the LORD, and over-against His anointed: whose ox have I taken, or whose ass have I taken, or whom have I oppressed: whom have I bruised, or of whose hand have I taken a ransom, and hide mine eyes with it?—and I restore it to you.'

⁴And they say, 'Thou hast not oppressed us, nor hast thou crushed us, nor hast thou taken anything from the hand of any one.'

⁵And he saith unto them, 'The LORD is witness against you; and His anointed is witness this day, that ye have not found anything in my hand;' and they say, 'A witness.'

⁶And Samuel saith unto the people, 'The LORD—He who made Moses and Aaron, and who hath brought up your fathers out of the land of Egypt. ⁷And, now, station yourselves, and let me judge you before the LORD, by all the righteous acts of the LORD, which He did with you, and your fathers.'

⁸When Jacob hath come into Egypt, and your fathers cry unto the LORD, and the LORD sendeth Moses and Aaron, and they bring your fathers out of Egypt, and cause them to dwell in this place, ⁹then they forget the LORD their God, and He selleth them into the hand of Sisera, head of the host of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and they fight against them.

¹⁰And they cry unto the LORD, and say, 'We have sinned, because we have forsaken the LORD, and serve the Baalim and Ashtaroth: but now, deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and let us serve Thee.'

¹¹And the LORD sendeth Jerubbaal, and Bedan, and Jephthah, and Samuel, and delivereth you out of the hand of your enemies round about, and ye dwell confidently.

¹²And ye see that Nahash king of the Ben-Ammon hath come against you, and ye say to me, Nay, but let a king reign over us: yet the LORD your God is your king. ¹³And, now, lo, the king whom ye have chosen—whom ye have asked! and lo, the LORD hath placed a king over you.

¹⁴If ye fear the LORD, and have served Him, and hearkened to His voice, then ye do not provoke the mouth of the LORD, and ye have been—both ye and the king who hath reigned over you—after the LORD your God.

¹⁵And if ye do not hearken to the voice of the LORD—then have ye provoked the mouth of the LORD, and the hand of the LORD hath been against you, and against your fathers.

¹⁶Now also, station yourselves and see this great thing which the LORD doth before your eyes. ¹⁷Is it not wheat-harvest to-day? I call unto the LORD, and He giveth voices and rain: and know ye and see that your evil is great which ye have done in the eyes of the LORD, by asking for yourselves a king.'

¹⁸And Samuel calleth unto the LORD, and the LORD giveth voices and rain, on that day; and all the people greatly fear the LORD and Samuel. ¹⁹And all the people say unto Samuel, 'Pray for thy servants unto the LORD thy God, and let us not die; for we have added evil to all our sins, by asking for ourselves a king.'

²⁰And Samuel saith unto the people, 'Fear not; ye have done all this evil: only, turn not aside from after the LORD—then have ye served Him with all your heart, ²¹and ye do not turn aside after the vain things which do not profit nor deliver, for they are vain: ²²for the LORD doth not leave His people, on account of His great name: for the LORD hath been pleased to make you become His people.'

²¹ 'I, also, far be it from me to sin against the LORD, by ceasing to pray for you, seeing I have directed you in the good and upright way. ²² Only, fear ye the LORD, then have ye served Him in truth with all your heart: for see that which He hath made great with you. ²³ But if ye really do evil, both ye and your king are consumed.'

XIII. ¹ SAUL hath reigned one year, yea, two years hath he reigned over Israel. ² when Saul chooseth for himself three thousand men out of Israel: and two thousand are with Saul in Michmash, and in the hill-country of Bethel: and a thousand have been with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin: and the remnant of the people hath he sent each to his tent.

³ And Jonathan smiteth the garrison of the Philistines which is in Geba, and the Philistines hear; and Saul hath blown with the trumpet through all the land, saying, 'Let the Hebrews hear.' ⁴ And all Israel have heard, saying, 'Saul hath smitten the garrison of the Philistines,' and also 'Israel hath been abhorred by the Philistines;' and the people are called after Saul to Gilgal.

⁶ And the men of Israel have seen that they are distressed, that the people hath been oppressed, and the people hide themselves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits. ⁷ And some of the Hebrews have passed over the Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead; but Saul is yet in Gilgal, and all the people have trembled after him.

⁸ And he waiteth seven days, according to the appointment with Samuel; but Samuel hath not come to Gilgal, and the people are scattered from him. ⁹ And Saul saith, 'Bring nigh unto me the burnt-offerings, and the peace-offerings;' and he causeth the burnt-offering to ascend.

¹⁰ And it cometh to pass at his completing causing the burnt-offering to ascend, that lo, Samuel cometh, and Saul goeth out to meet him, to salute him. ¹¹ And Samuel saith, 'What hast thou done?' And Saul saith, 'Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and thou hadst not come at the appointment of the days, and the Philistines are gathered to Michmash; ¹² and I say, Now do the Philistines come down unto me to Gilgal, and the face of the LORD I have not appeased; and I force myself, and cause the burnt-offering to ascend.'

people, for thou hast not kept that which the LORD hath commanded thee.'

¹⁵ And Samuel riseth, and goeth up from Gilgal to Gibeah of Benjamin, and Saul inspecteth the people who are found present with him, about six hundred men. ¹⁶ And Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people who are found present with him, abide in Gibeah of Benjamin, and the Philistines have encamped in Michmash.

XIV. ¹ AND the day cometh that Jonathan son of Saul saith unto the young man bearing his weapons, 'Come and let us pass over unto the station of the Philistines, which is at the other side;' and he hath not declared it to his father.

² And Saul is abiding at the extremity of Gibeah, under the pomegranate which is in Migron, and the people who are with him are about six hundred men, ³ Abiah also son of Ahitub, brother of I-chabod, son of Phinehas, son of Eli, the priest of the LORD in Shiloh, bearing the ephod; but the people knew not that Jonathan hath gone.

⁶ And Jonathan saith unto the young man bearing his weapons, 'Come and let us pass over unto the station of these uncircumcised; it may be the LORD doth work by us, for there is no restraint to the LORD to save by many or by few.'

⁷ And the bearer of his weapons saith to him, 'Do all that is in thy heart; turn for thyself; lo, I am with thee, as thine own heart.' ⁸ And Jonathan saith, 'Lo, we are passing over unto the men, and we are revealed unto the men; ⁹ if they say thus unto us, 'Stand still till we have come unto you,' then have we stood in our place, and do not go up unto them; ¹⁰and if they say thus, 'Come up against us,' then have we gone up, for the LORD hath given them into our hand, and this is the sign to us.'

¹¹And both of them are revealed at the station of the Philistines, and the Philistines say, 'Lo, the Hebrews are coming out of the holes where they have hid themselves.' ¹²And the men of the station answer Jonathan and the bearer of his weapons, and say, 'Come up unto us, and let us cause you to know something.' And Jonathan saith unto the bearer of his weapons, 'Come up after me, for the LORD hath given them into the hand of Israel.'

¹³And Jonathan goeth up on his hands, and on his feet, and the bearer of his weapons after him; and they fall before Jonathan, the bearer of his weapons putteth to death after him.

¹⁴And the first smiting which Jonathan and the bearer of his weapons have smitten is of about twenty men, in about half the furrow of a yoke of the field. ¹⁵And there is a trembling in the camp, in the field, and among all the people: the station and the destroyers have trembled—even they, and the earth shaketh, and it becometh a trembling of God.

¹⁶And the watchmen of Saul in Gibeah of Benjamin see, and lo, the multitude melted away, and it goeth on and is beaten down.

¹⁷And Saul saith to the people who are with him, 'Inspect, I pray you, and see who hath gone from us,' and they inspect, and lo, Jonathan and the bearer of his weapons are not. ¹⁸And Saul saith to Abiah, 'Bring nigh the ark of God;' for the ark of God hath been on that day with the Children of Israel.

¹⁹And it cometh to pass while Saul spake unto the priest, that the noise which is in the camp of the Philistines goeth on, going on and becoming great; and Saul saith unto the priest, 'Remove thy hand.' ²⁰And Saul is called, and all the people who are with him, and they come in unto the battle, and lo, the sword of each hath been against his neighbour,—a very great destruction.

²¹And the Hebrews who have been for the Philistines as heretofore, who have gone with them into the camp, have turned round, even they, to be with Israel who are with Saul and Jonathan. ²²And all the men of Israel, who are hiding themselves in the hill-country of Ephraim, have heard that the Philistines have fled, and they pursue—even they—after them in the battle. ²³And the LORD saveth Israel on that day, and the battle passed over to Beth-Aven.

²⁴And the men of Israel have been distressed on that day, seeing Saul adjureth the people, saying, 'Cursed is the man who eateth food till the evening, and I have been avenged of mine enemies;' and none of the people hath tasted food.

²⁵And all they of the land have come into a forest, and there is honey on the face of the field; ²⁶and the people come in unto the forest, and lo, the honey hath dropped, but none moveth his hand unto his mouth, for the people feared the oath.

²⁷But Jonathan hath not heard of his father's adjuring the people, and he putteth forth the end of the rod which is in his hand, and dippeth it in the honey-comb, and bringeth back his hand unto his mouth—and his eyes see!

²⁸And a man of the people answereth and saith, 'Thy father hath certainly adjured the people, saying, Cursed is the man who eateth food to-day;' and the people are weary. ²⁹And Jonathan saith, 'My father hath troubled the land; see, I pray you, that mine eyes have become bright because I have tasted of this honey. ³⁰How much more if to-day the people had well eaten of the spoil of its enemies which it hath found: for now, the smiting hath not been great among the Philistines.'

³¹And they smite on that day among the Philistines from Michmash to Ajalon, but the people are very weary. ³²And the people make unto the spoil, and take sheep, and oxen, and bullocks, and slaughter on the earth, and the people eat with the blood.

³³And they declare it to Saul, saying, 'Lo, the people are sinning against the LORD, by eating with the blood.' And he saith, 'Ye have dealt treacherously: roll ye unto me a great stone.' ³⁴Saul also saith, 'Be ye scattered among the people: then have ye said to them, Bring ye nigh unto me each his ox, and each his sheep: then have ye slain them in this place, and eaten, and ye do not sin against the LORD by eating with the blood.' And all the people bring nigh each his ox, in his hand, in that night, and they slaughter them there. ³⁵And Saul buildeth an altar to the LORD: with it he hath begun to build altars to the LORD.

³⁶And Saul saith, 'Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and let us prey upon them till the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them.' And they say, 'Do all that is good in thine eyes.' But the priest saith, 'Let us draw near hither unto God.' ³⁷And Saul asketh of God, 'Shall I go down after the Philistines? dost Thou give them into the hand of Israel?' but He hath not answered him on that day.

³⁸And Saul saith, 'Draw ye nigh hither all the chiefs of the people; and know and see in what this sin hath been to-day. ³⁹For, the LORD liveth, who saveth Israel: surely if it be in Jonathan my son, surely he doth certainly die;' but none answereth him out of all the people.

⁴⁰He saith also to all Israel, 'Ye ye on one side, and I and Jonathan my son are on the other side;' and the people say unto Saul, 'Do that which is good in thine eyes.' ⁴¹And Saul saith unto the LORD, God of Israel, 'Give perfection;' and Jonathan and Saul are captured, and the people went out.

⁴²And Saul saith, 'Cast between me and Jonathan my son;' and Jonathan is captured. ⁴³And Saul saith unto Jonathan, 'Declare to me what thou hast done?' and Jonathan declareth to him, and saith, 'I certainly tasted with the end of the rod that is in my hand a little honey: lo, I die!' ⁴¹And Saul saith, 'Thus let God do, and thus let Him add, for thou dost certainly die, Jonathan.'

⁴²And the people say unto Saul, 'Doth Jonathan die who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel?—a profanation! the LORD liveth, there doth not fall from the hair of his head to the earth, for with God hath he wrought this day.' And the people rescue Jonathan, and he hath not died.

⁴⁵And he getteth a force, and smiteth Amalek, and delivereth Israel out of the hand of its spoilers.

⁴⁹And the war is severe against the Philistines all the days of Saul; when Saul hath seen any mighty man, or any valiant man, then doth he gather him unto himself.

XV. ¹And Samuel saith unto Saul, 'Me did the LORD send to anoint thee to be king over His people, over Israel; and now, hearken to the voice of the words of the LORD:

²'Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said, I inspected that which Amalek did to Israel, that which he laid for him in the way in his going up out of Egypt. ³Now, go: then hast thou smitten Amalek, and devoted all that they have; and thou hast no pity on it, but hast put to death both man and woman, both infant and suckling, both ox and sheep, both camel and ass.'

⁴And Saul summoneth the people, and inspecteth them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand are men of Judah. ⁵And Saul cometh unto a city of Amalek, and layeth wait in the valley. ⁶And Saul saith unto the Kenites, 'Go, turn aside, go down from the midst of Amalek, lest I consume thee with it; seeing thou didst kindness with all the Children of Israel, in their going up out of Egypt.' And the Kenite turneth aside from Amalek.

⁷And Saul smiteth Amalek from Havilah—thy going in to Shur, which is on the front of Egypt. ⁸And he catcheth Agag king of Amalek alive, and all the people he hath devoted by the edge of the sword. ⁹And Saul hath pity—the people also—on Agag, and on the best of the flock, and of the herd, and of the seconds, and on the lambs, and on all that is good, and have not been willing to devote them; but all the despised and wasted work—it they devoted.

¹⁰And the word of the LORD is unto Samuel, saying, ¹¹'I have repented that I caused Saul to reign as king; for he hath turned back from after Me, and My words he hath not performed.' And it is displeasing to Samuel, and he crieth unto the LORD all the night.

¹²And Samuel riseth early to meet Saul in the morning, and it is declared to Samuel, saying, 'Saul hath come into Carmel, and lo, he setteth up to himself a monument, and goeth round, and passeth over, and goeth down to Gilgal.'

¹³And Samuel cometh unto Saul, and Saul saith to him, 'Blessed art thou of the LORD; I have performed the word of the LORD.'

¹⁴And Samuel saith, 'And what is the noise of this flock in mine ears—and the noise of the herd which I hear?' ¹⁵And Saul saith, 'From the Amalekites have they brought them, because the people had pity on the best of the flock and of the herd, in order to sacrifice to the LORD thy God; and the remnant have we devoted.'

¹⁶And Samuel saith unto Saul, 'Desist, and let me declare to thee that which the LORD hath spoken unto me to-night,' and he saith to him, 'Speak.'

¹⁷And Samuel saith, 'If thou art little in thine own eyes, art not thou the head of the tribes of Israel? ¹⁸and the LORD doth anoint thee for king over Israel, and the LORD sendeth thee in the way, and saith, Go: then hast thou devoted the sinners, the Amalekites, and fought against them till they are consumed; ¹⁹and why hast thou not hearkened to the voice of the LORD—but dost fly unto the spoil, and doest the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD?'

²⁰And Saul saith unto Samuel, 'Because—I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD, and I go in the way which the LORD hath sent me, and I bring in Agag king of Amalek, and Amalek I have devoted. ²¹And the people take of the spoil of the flock and herd, the chief part of the devoted thing, for sacrifice to the LORD thy God in Gilgal.'

²²And Samuel saith, 'Hath the LORD delight in burnt-offerings and sacrifices as in hearkening to the voice of the LORD? lo, hearkening is better than sacrifice; giving attention than the fat of rams. ²³For rebellion is the sin of divination, and stubbornness is iniquity and teraphim; because thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, He also doth reject thee from being king.'

²⁴And Saul saith unto Samuel, 'I have sinned, for I have passed over the command of the LORD, and thy words: because I have feared the people, and hearken to their voice. ²⁵And now, hear, I pray thee, with my sin, and turn back with me and let me bow myself to the LORD.'

²⁶And Samuel saith unto Saul, 'I do not turn back with thee; for thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, and the LORD doth reject thee from being king over Israel.' ²⁷And Samuel turneth round to go, and he layeth hold on the skirt of his upper robe—and it is rent!

²⁸And Samuel saith unto him, 'The LORD hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee to-day, and hath given it to thy neighbour who is better than thou.' ²⁹And also the Pre-eminence of Israel doth not lie nor repent; for He is not a man to be penitent.'

³⁰And he saith, 'I have sinned; now, honour me, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Israel; and turn back with me; then have I bowed myself to the LORD thy God.'

³¹And Samuel turneth back after Saul, and Saul boweth himself to the LORD.

³²And Samuel saith, 'Bring ye nigh unto me Agag king of Amalek,' and Agag cometh unto him daintily; and Agag saith, 'Surely the bitterness of death hath turned aside.'

³³And Samuel saith, 'As thy sword hath bereaved women—so is thy mother bereaved among women;' and Samuel heweth Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal.

³⁴And Samuel goeth to Ramah, and Saul hath gone to his house—to Gibeah of Saul.

³⁵And Samuel hath not added to see Saul till the day of his death, but Samuel hath mourned for Saul; and the LORD repented that He caused Saul to reign over Israel.

XVI. ¹AND the LORD saith unto Samuel, 'Until when art thou mourning for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? Fill thy horn with oil, and go, let me send thee unto Jesse the Beth-lehemite; for I have seen among his sons a king for Myself.'

²And Samuel saith, 'How shall I go? when Saul hath heard, then hath he slain me.' And the LORD saith, 'A heifer of the herd thou dost take in thy hand, then hast thou said, To sacrifice to the LORD have I come; and thou hast called Jesse to the sacrifice, and I cause thee to know that which thou shalt do, and thou hast anointed to Me him of whom I speak unto thee.'

⁴And Samuel doth that which the LORD hath spoken, and cometh unto Beth-lehem; and the elders of the city tremble at his coming, and say, 'Is thy coming peaceable?'

⁵And he saith, 'Peaceable: to sacrifice to the LORD have I come; sanctify yourselves; then have ye come in with me to the sacrifice;' and he sanctifieth Jesse and his sons, and calleth them to the sacrifice.

⁶And it cometh to pass, in their coming in, that he seeth Eliab, and saith, 'Surely, before the LORD is His anointed.'

⁷And the LORD saith unto Samuel, 'Look not unto his appearance, or unto the height of his stature, for I have rejected him; for it is not as man seeth; for man looketh at the eyes, but the LORD looketh at the heart.'

⁸And Jesse calleth unto Abinadab, and causeth him to pass by before Samuel; and he saith, 'On this also the LORD hath not fixed.'

⁹And Jesse causeth Shammah to pass by, and he saith, 'On this also the LORD hath not fixed.'

¹⁰And Jesse causeth seven of his sons to pass by before Samuel, and Samuel saith to Jesse, 'The LORD hath not fixed on these.'

¹¹And Samuel saith unto Jesse, 'Are the young men finished?' and he saith, 'Yet the youngest hath been left; and lo, he delighteth himself among the flock.' and Samuel saith unto Jesse, 'Send and take him, for we do not turn round till his coming in hither.'

¹²And he sendeth, and bringeth him in, and he is ruddy, with beauty of eyes, and of good appearance. And the LORD saith, 'Rise, anoint him, for this is he.' ¹³And Samuel taketh the horn of oil, and anointeth him in the midst of his brethren; and the Spirit of the LORD prospereth over David from that day and onwards. And Samuel riseth and goeth to Ramah.

¹⁴And the Spirit of the LORD hath turned aside from Saul, and a spirit of sadness from the LORD terrified him. ¹⁵And the servants of Saul say unto him, 'Lo, we pray thee, a spirit of sadness from God is terrifying thee.' ¹⁶Let our lord command, we pray thee, thy servants before thee, let them seek a skilful man, playing on the harp; then it hath come to pass, in the spirit of sadness from God being upon thee, that he hath played with his hand, and it is well with thee.'

¹⁷And Saul saith unto his servants, 'Provide, I pray you, for me a man playing well—then have ye brought him in unto me.'

¹⁸And one of the servants answereth and saith, 'Lo, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lehemite, skilful in playing, and a mighty virtuous man, and a man of battle, and intelligent in word, and a man of form, and the LORD is with him.'

¹⁹And Saul sendeth messengers unto Jesse, and saith, 'Send unto me David thy son who is with the flock.' ²⁰And Jesse taketh an ass, with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid of the goats, and sendeth them by the hand of David his son unto Saul.

²¹And David cometh in unto Saul, and standeth before him, and he loveth him greatly; and he is the bearer of his weapons. ²²And Saul sendeth unto Jesse, saying, 'Let David, I pray thee, stand before me, for he hath found grace in mine eyes.'

²³And it hath come to pass in the spirit of sadness from God being on Saul, that David hath taken the harp, and hath played with his hand, and Saul hath refreshment and gladness, and the spirit of sadness hath turned aside from off him.

XVII. ¹AND the Philistines gather their camps to battle, and are gathered to Shochoh, which is Judah's, and they encamp between Shochoh and Azekah, in Ephes-Dammim. ²And Saul and the men of Israel have been gathered, and they encamp by the valley of Elah, and they set the battle in array to meet the Philistines.

³And the Philistines are standing on the mountain on this side, and the Israelites are standing on the mountain on that side, and the valley is between them.

⁴And a man of the duellists goeth out from the camps of the Philistines, Goliath is his name, from Gath; his height is six cubits and a span, ⁵and a helmet of brass is on his head, and with a scaled coat of armour he is clothed, and the weight of the coat of mail is five thousand shekels of brass; and a frontlet of brass is on his feet, and a javelin of brass is between his shoulders. And the wood of his spear is like a weaver's beam, and the flame of his spear is six hundred shekels of iron, and the bearer of the buckler goeth before him.

And he standeth and crieth unto the ranks of Israel, and saith to them, 'Why are ye come out to set the battle in array? am not I the Philistine, and ye servants to Saul? choose for yourselves a man, and let him come down unto me. If he be able to fight with me, and have smitten me, then have we become your servants; but if I am able for him, and have smitten him, then have ye become our servants, and have served us.' The Philistine also saith, 'I have reproached the ranks of Israel this day: give me a man, and let us fight together.'

And Saul heareth—all Israel also—these words of the Philistine, and they are broken down and greatly afraid.

And David is a son of this Ephrathite of Beth-lehem-Judah, whose name is Jesse, and he hath eight sons, and the man in the days of Saul hath become aged among men.

And the three eldest sons of Jesse go, they have gone after Saul to the battle; and the name of his three sons who have gone into the battle are Eliab the first-born, and his second Abinadab, and the third Shammah.

And David is the youngest; and the three eldest have gone after Saul. And David goeth and returneth from Saul, to feed the flock of his father at Beth-lehem.

And the Philistine draweth nigh, early and late, and stationeth himself forty days.

And Jesse saith to David his son, 'Take, I pray thee, to thy brethren, an ephah of this roasted corn, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brethren. And these ten cuttings of cheese thou dost take in to the head of the thousand; and thy brethren thou dost inspect for welfare, and their pledge thou dost receive.'

And Saul, and they, and all the men of Israel are in the valley of Elah, fighting with the Philistines.

And David riseth early in the morning, and leaveth the flock to a keeper, and lifteth up and goeth, as Jesse commanded him, and he cometh into the path, and to the force which is going out unto the rank, and they have shouted for the battle. And Israel and the Philistines set rank in array to meet rank.

And David letteth the goods down from off him, on the hand of the keeper of the goods, and runneth into the ranks, and cometh, and asketh of his brethren regarding their welfare.

And he is speaking with them, and lo, a man of the duellists cometh up, Goliath is his name, the Philistine of Gath, out of the ranks of the Philistines, and he speaketh according to these words, and David heareth.

And all the men of Israel when they see the man flee from his presence, and are greatly afraid. And the men of Israel say, 'Have ye seen this man who cometh up? for to reproach Israel he cometh up; and it hath been,—the man who smiteth him, the king doth enrich him with great riches, his daughter also he doth give to him, and doth make his father's house free in Israel.'

And David speaketh unto the men who stand by him, saying, 'What is done to the man who smiteth this Philistine, and hath turned aside reproach from Israel? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine that he hath reproached the ranks of the living God?'

And the people speak to him according to this word, saying, 'Thus is it done to the man who smiteth him.'

And Eliab, his eldest brother, heareth when he speaketh unto the men, and the anger of Eliab burneth against David, and he saith, 'Why is this—thou hast come down? and to whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I have known thy pride, and the evil of thy heart,—for to see the battle thou hast come down.' And David saith, 'What have I done, now? Is it not a word?'

And he turneth round from him to another, and saith according to this word, and the people return him word as the first word.

And the words which David hath spoken are heard, and they declare them before Saul, and he receiveth him. And David saith unto Saul, 'Let no man's heart fall because of him; thy servant doth go—then hath he fought with this Philistine.'

And Saul saith unto David, 'Thou art not able to go unto this Philistine, to fight with him; for thou art a youth, and he a man of war from his youth.'

And David saith unto Saul, 'Thy servant hath been a shepherd to his father among the sheep, and the lion hath come,—the bear also—and hath taken away a sheep out of the drove; and I have gone out after him, and have smitten him, and have delivered it out of his mouth, and he riseth against me, and I have taken hold on his beard, and have smitten him, and have put him to death. Both the lion and the bear hath thy servant smitten,—and this uncircumcised Philistine hath been as one of them, for he hath reproached the ranks of the living God.'

David also saith, 'The Lord who hath delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, He doth deliver me from the hand of this Philistine.' And Saul saith unto David, 'Go, and the Lord be with thee.'

And Saul putteth his long robe on David, and hath put a helmet of brass on his head, and clotheth him with a coat of mail.

And David girdeth his sword above his long robe, and he beginneth to go, for he had not tried it; and David saith unto Saul, 'I am unable to go, for I had not tried it,' and David turneth them aside from off him.

And he taketh his staff in his hand, and chooseth for himself five smooth stones of the brook, and putteth them in the shepherd's habilitments which he hath, even in the script, and his sling is in his hand, and he draweth nigh unto the Philistine.

⁴¹And the Philistine goeth on, going and drawing near unto David, and the man bearing the buckler is before him. ⁴²And the Philistine looketh attentively, and seeth David, and despiseth him, for he was a youth, and ruddy, with a fair appearance.

⁴³And the Philistine saith unto David, 'Art thou a dog that thou art coming unto me with staves?' and the Philistine revileth David by his gods. ⁴⁴And the Philistine saith unto David, 'Come unto me, and let me give thy flesh to the fowl of the heavens, and to the beast of the field.'

⁴⁵And David saith unto the Philistine, 'Thou art coming unto me with sword, and spear, and buckler; but I am coming unto thee in the name of the LORD of Hosts, the God of the ranks of Israel, which thou hast reproached. ⁴⁶This day doth the LORD shut thee up into my hand,—then have I smitten thee, and turned aside thy head from off thee, and given the carcase of the camp of the Philistines this day to the fowl of the heavens, and to the beast of the earth, and all the earth doth know that God is for Israel. ⁴⁷And all this congregation know that not by sword or by spear doth the LORD save: that the battle is the LORD'S, when he hath given you into our hand.'

⁴⁸And it hath come to pass, that the Philistine hath risen, and he goeth, and draweth near to meet David; and David hasteth and runneth to the rank to meet the Philistine. ⁴⁹And David putteth forth his hand unto the vessel, and taketh from thence a stone, and slingeth it, and smiteth the Philistine on his forehead, and the stone smiteth in his forehead, and he falleth on his face to the earth.

⁵⁰And David is stronger than the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and he smiteth the Philistine, and putteth him to death, and there is no sword in the hand of David; ⁵¹but David runneth and staudeth over the Philistine, and taketh his sword, and draweth it out of its sheath, and putteth him to death, and cutteth off his head with it; and the Philistines see that their hero is dead, and they flee.

⁵⁴And David taketh the head of the Philistine, and bringeth it to Jerusalem; but his weapons he hath put in his own tent.

⁵⁵And when Saul seeth David going out to meet the Philistine, he hath said unto Abner, head of the host, 'Whose son is this—the youth, Abner?' and Abner saith, 'Thy soul liveth, O king, I have not known.'

⁵⁶And the king saith, 'Ask thou whose son is this—the young man.'

⁵⁷And when David turneth back from smiting the Philistine, then Abner taketh him and bringeth him in before Saul, and the head of the Philistine is in his hand.

⁵⁸And Saul saith unto him, 'Whose son art thou, O youth?' and David saith, 'The son of thy servant Jesse the Beth-lehemite.'

XVIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, when he finisheth speaking unto Saul, that the soul of Jonathan hath been bound to the soul of David, and Jonathan loveth him as his own soul. ²And Saul taketh him on that day, and hath not permitted him to return to the house of his father.

³And Jonathan maketh—David also—a covenant, because he loveth him as his own soul. ⁴And Jonathan strippeth himself of the upper robe which is upon him, and giveth to David, and his long robe, even to his sword, and his bow, and his girdle.

⁵And David goeth out whithersoever Saul doth send him; he acteth wisely, and Saul setteth him over the men of war; and it is good in the eyes of all the people, and also in the eyes of the servants of Saul.

⁶And it cometh to pass, in their coming in, in David's returning from the smiting of the Philistine, that the women come out of all the cities of Israel to sing—the dancers also—to meet Saul the king, with tabrets, with joy, and three-stringed instruments. ⁷And the women answer the players, and say

'Saul hath smitten among his thousands, and David among his myriads.'

⁸And it is displeasing to Saul exceedingly, and this thing is evil in his eyes, and he saith, 'They have given to David myriads, and to me they have given the thousands; and more to him is only the kingdom.'

⁹And Saul is eyeing David from that day and henceforth.

¹⁰And it cometh to pass, on the morrow, that the spirit of sadness from God prospereth over Saul, and he prophesieth in the midst of the house; and David is playing with his hand, as day by day; and the javelin is in the hand of Saul. ¹¹And Saul casteth the javelin, and saith, 'I smite through David, even through the wall;' but David turneth out of his presence twice.

¹²And Saul is afraid of the presence of David, for the LORD hath been with him, and from Saul he hath turned aside. ¹³And Saul turneth him aside from him, and appointeth him to himself head of a thousand, and he goeth out and cometh in before the people.

¹⁴And David acteth wisely in all his ways, and the LORD is with him. ¹⁵And Saul seeth that he is acting very wisely, and is afraid of him. ¹⁶And all Israel and Judah love David when he goeth out and cometh in before them.

¹⁷And Saul saith unto David, 'Lo, my elder daughter Merab—her do I give to thee for a wife; only, be valiant for me, and fight the battles of the LORD;' seeing Saul had said, 'Let not my hand be on him, but let the hand of the Philistines be on him.'

¹⁸And David saith unto Saul, 'Who am I? and what is my company—the family of my father in Israel—that I should be son-in-law to the king?'

²²And Saul commandeth his servants, 'Speak unto David gently, saying, Lo, the king delighteth in thee, and all his servants have loved thee, and now, be son-in-law to the king.'

²³And the servants of Saul speak in the ears of David these words: and David saith, 'Is it a light thing in your eyes to be son-in-law to the king—seeing I am a poor man, and lightly esteemed?'

²⁴And the servants of Saul declare to him, saying, 'According to these words hath David spoken.' And Saul saith, 'Thus do ye say to David. The king hath no delight in a dowry, but in a hundred foreskins of the Philistines—to be avenged on the enemies of the king:' but Saul thought of making David fall by the hand of the Philistines.

²⁷And Saul seeth and knoweth that the LORD is with David, that Michal daughter of Saul hath loved him, ²⁸and Saul addeth yet to be afraid of the presence of David: and Saul is at enmity with David continually. ²⁹And the princes of the Philistines come out, and it cometh to pass from the time of their coming out, David hath acted more wisely than any of the servants of Saul: and his name is very precious.

XIX. ¹AND Saul speaketh unto Jonathan his son, and unto all his servants, of putting David to death. ²But Jonathan son of Saul delighteth exceedingly in David: and Jonathan declareth to David, saying, 'Saul my father is seeking to put thee to death: and, now, take heed, I pray thee, in the morning, then hast thou dwelt in a secret place, and been hidden: ³when I go out, and have stood by the side of my father in the field where thou art, and do speak of thee unto my father, and have seen what is coming, then have I declared it to thee.'

⁴And Jonathan speaketh good of David unto Saul his father, and saith unto him, 'Let not the king sin against his servant, against David, because he hath not sinned against thee, and because his works for thee are very good: yea, he putteth his life in his hand, and smiteth the Philistine, and the LORD worketh a great salvation for all Israel: thou hast seen, and shouldst rejoice: and why dost thou sin against innocent blood, putting David to death for nought?'

⁵And Saul hearkeneth to the voice of Jonathan, and Saul sweareth, 'The LORD liveth—he doth not die.' And Jonathan calleth for David, and Jonathan declareth to him all these things; and Jonathan bringeth in David unto Saul, and he is before him as heretofore.

⁶And there continueth to be war, and David goeth out, and fighteth against the Philistines, and smiteth among them—a great smiting: and they flee from his face.

⁷And the spirit of sadness from the LORD is on Saul, and he is sitting in his house, and his javelin is in his hand, and David is playing with the harp. ⁸And Saul seeketh to smite with the javelin through David, and through the wall, but he freeth himself from the presence of Saul, who smiteth the javelin through the wall: and David fleeth and escapeth during that night.

⁹And Saul sendeth messengers unto the house of David to watch him, and to put him to death in the morning: and Michal his wife declareth it to David, saying, 'I, thou deliver not thy life to-night—to-morrow thou art put to death.'

¹⁰And Michal causeth David to go down through the window, and he goeth on, and fleeth, and escapeth. ¹¹And Michal taketh the teraphim, and layeth it on the bed, and the mattress of goats' hair hath she put for his pillows, and covereth it with a garment.

¹²And Saul sendeth messengers to take David, and she saith, 'He is sick.'

¹³And Saul sendeth the messengers to see David, saying, 'Bring ye him in the bed unto me,'—to put him to death. ¹⁴And the messengers come in, and lo, the teraphim are on the bed, and the mattress of goats' hair for his pillows. ¹⁵And Saul saith unto Michal, 'Why hast thou deceived me thus—that thou dost send away mine enemy, and he is escaped?' and Michal saith unto Saul, 'He said unto me, Send me away: why should I put thee to death?'

¹⁶And David hath fled, and he is escaped, and cometh in unto Samuel to Ramah, and declareth to him all that Saul hath done to him, and he goeth, he and Samuel, and they dwell in Naioth.

¹⁷And it is declared to Saul, saying, 'Lo, David is in Naioth in Ramah.' ¹⁸And Saul sendeth messengers to take David, and they see the congregation of the prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing over them, and the Spirit of God is on Saul's messengers, and they prophesy—they also.

¹⁹And they declare it to Saul, and he sendeth other messengers, and they prophesy—they also: and Saul addeth and sendeth messengers a third time, and they prophesy—they also.

²⁰And he goeth—he also—to Ramah, and cometh unto the great well which is in Sechu, and he asketh, and saith, 'Where are Samuel and David?' and one saith, 'Lo, in Naioth in Ramah.'

²¹And he goeth there—unto Naioth in Ramah; and the Spirit of God is upon him

—him also; and he goeth on, going and prophesying till his coming in to Naioth in Ramah, ²⁴and he strippeth off—he also—his garments, and prophesieth—he also—before Samuel, and he falleth down naked all that day and all that night; therefore they say, 'Is Saul also among the prophets?'

XX. ¹AND David fleeth from Naioth in Ramah, and cometh, and saith before Jonathan, 'What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what my sin before thy father that he is seeking my life?' ²And he saith to him, 'Far be it! thou dost not die; lo, my father doth not anything great or small which he doth not reveal in mine ears; and wherefore should my father hide this thing from me? this thing is not!'

³And David sweareth again, and saith, 'Thy father hath certainly known that I have found grace in thine eyes, and he saith, Let not Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved; and yet, the LORD liveth, and thy soul liveth; but a step is between me and death.' ⁴And Jonathan saith to David, 'What thy soul saith, that I do for thee.'

⁵And David saith unto Jonathan, 'Lo, the new moon is to-morrow; and I should certainly sit with the king to eat; when thou hast sent me away, then I have been hidden in the field till the third evening: ⁶if thy father at all miss me, then thou hast said, David hath asked earnestly of me to run to Beth-lehem his city, for the sacrifice of the days is there for all the family. ⁷If he say thus: Good; peace is for thy servant; but if it be very displeasing to him—know thou that evil hath been determined by him. ⁸Then hast thou done kindness to thy servant, for into a covenant of the LORD hast thou brought thy servant with thee;—yet if there is iniquity in me, put thou me to death; but unto thy father, why shouldst thou bring me in?'

⁹And Jonathan saith, 'Far be it from thee! for I certainly do not know that evil hath been determined by my father to come upon thee, so that I do not declare it to thee.'

¹⁰And David saith unto Jonathan, 'Who doth declare to me? or what if thy father answer thee sharply?' ¹¹And Jonathan saith unto David, 'Come and let us go out into the field; and they go out both of them into the field.'

¹²And Jonathan saith unto David, 'The LORD, God of Israel—when I search my father, about this time to-morrow or the third day, and lo, good is towards David, and I do not then send unto thee, nor have uncovered thine ear—¹³so let the LORD do to Jonathan, and so let Ifim add; when evil concerning thee is good to my father, then I have uncovered thine ear, and have sent thee away, and thou hast gone in peace, and the LORD is with thee, as he was with my father: ¹⁴and not only while I am yet alive dost thou do with me the kindness of the LORD, that I die not, ¹⁵but thou dost not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever, nor in the LORD's cutting off the enemies of David, each from off the face of the ground.'

¹⁶And Jonathan covenanteth with the house of David, and the LORD hath sought it from the hand of the enemies of David. ¹⁷And Jonathan addeth to cause David to swear, because he loveth him: for with the love of his own soul hath he loved him.

¹⁸And Jonathan saith to him, 'To-morrow is the new moon, then hast thou been inspected, for thy seat is inspected. ¹⁹But thou dost certainly come down on the third day, and hast come in unto the place whither thou hast been hidden in the day of the work, and hast remained by the stone Ezel.'

²⁰'And I shoot three of the arrows at its side, sending them out for myself at a mark.'

²¹And lo, I send the youth, Go, find the arrows. If I at all say to the youth, Lo, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them,—then come thou, for there is peace for thee, and there is nothing; the LORD liveth.

²²'But if thus I say to the young man, Lo, the arrows are beyond thee,—go, for the LORD hath sent thee away: ²³as to the thing which we have spoken, I and thou, lo, the LORD is between me and thee for ever.'

²⁴And David is hidden in the field, and it is the new moon, and the king sitteth down to the food to eat. ²⁵And the king sitteth on his seat as time by time, on a seat by the wall, and Jonathan riseth, and Abner sitteth at the side of Saul, and David's place is inspected.

²⁶But Saul hath not spoken any thing on that day: he hath said, 'It is an accident: he is not clean: surely he is not clean.'

²⁷And it cometh to pass on the second morrow of the new moon, that David's place is inspected, and Saul saith unto Jonathan his son, 'Wherefore hath the son of Jesse not come, either yesterday or to-day, unto the feast?'

²⁸And Jonathan answereth Saul, 'David hath been earnestly asked of me unto Beth-lehem. ²⁹And he saith, Send me away, I pray thee, for we have a family sacrifice in the city, and my brother himself hath given commandment to me, and now, if I have found grace in thine eyes, let me go away, I pray thee, and see my brethren: therefore he hath not come unto the table of the king.'

³⁰And the anger of Saul burneth against Jonathan, and he saith to him, 'Son of a perverse, rebellious woman, have I not known that thou art fixing on the son of Jesse to thine own shame, and to the shame of thy mother's nakedness? ³¹for all the days that the son of Jesse liveth on the ground thou art not established, thou or thy kingdom; and now, send and bring him unto me, for he is worthy of death.'

³²And Jonathan answereth Saul his father, and saith unto him, 'Why is he put to death? what hath he done?' ³³And Saul casteth the javelin at him to smite him: and Jonathan knoweth that it hath been determined by his father to put David to death.

³⁴And Jonathan riseth from the table in the heat of anger, and hath not eaten food on the second day of the new moon, for he hath been grieved for David, for his father hath put him to shame.

³⁵And it cometh to pass in the morning, that Jonathan goeth out into the field for the appointment with David, and a little youth ³⁶with him. ³⁶And he saith to his youth, 'Run, find, I pray thee, the arrows which I shoot;' the youth is running, and he hath shot the arrow, causing it to pass over him.

³⁷And the youth cometh unto the place of the arrow which Jonathan hath shot, and Jonathan calleth after the youth, and saith, 'Is not the arrow beyond thee?' ³⁸Jonathan also calleth after the youth, 'Speed, haste, stand not,' and Jonathan's youth gathereth the arrows, and cometh unto his lord. ³⁹And the youth hath not known anything, only Jonathan and David knew the matter. ⁴⁰And Jonathan giveth his weapons unto the youth whom he hath, and saith to him, 'Go, carry into the city.'

XXI. ¹AND David cometh to Nob, unto Ahimelech the priest; and Ahimelech trembleth at meeting David, and saith to him, 'Wherefore art thou thyself alone, and no man with thee?'

²And David saith to Ahimelech the priest, 'The king hath commanded me a matter, and he saith unto me, Let no man know anything of the matter about which I send thee, and which I have commanded thee; and the young men I have appointed at such and such a place. ³And now, what is there under thy hand? five loaves give into my hand, or what hath been found present.'

⁴And the priest answereth David and saith, 'There is no common bread under my hand, but there is hallowed bread: if the youths have been kept only from women.'

⁵And David answereth the priest and saith to him, 'Surely, if women have been restrained from us as heretofore by my going out, then the vessels of the young men are holy, and it is the common way; and also, surely to-day it is sanctified in the vessel.'

⁶And the priest giveth to him the holy thing, for there was no bread there save the bread of the Presence which is turned aside from the presence of the LORD to put hot bread in the day of its being taken away.

⁷And there is a man of the servants of Saul on that day detained before the LORD, and his name is Doeg the Edomite, chief of the shepherds whom Saul hath.

⁸And David saith to Ahimelech, 'And is there not here under thy hand spear or sword? for neither my sword nor my weapons have I taken in my hand, for the matter of the king hath been urgent.'

⁹And the priest saith, 'The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou hast smitten in the valley of Elah, lo, it is wrapt in a garment behind the ephod, if thou wilt take it to thyself, take; for there is none other save it in this place.' And David saith, 'There is none like it; give it to me.'

¹⁰And David riseth and fleeth on that day because of Saul, and cometh in unto Achish king of Gath. ¹¹And the servants of Achish say unto him, 'Is not this David king of the land? do they not sing of him in dances, saying, 'Saul smote among his thousands, and David among his myriads?'

¹²And David layeth these words in his heart, and is exceedingly afraid because of Achish king of Gath, ¹³and he changeth his behaviour before their eyes, and feigneth himself mad in their hand, and he scribbleth on the doors of the gate, and letteth down his spittle on his beard.

¹⁴And Achish saith unto his servants, 'Lo, you see a man acting like a madman; why do ye bring him in unto me? ¹⁵A lack of madmen have I, that ye have brought in this one to act as a madman by me? doth this one come in unto my house?'

XXII. ¹AND David goeth from thence, and is escaped unto the cave of Adullam, and his brethren hear, and all the house of his father, and they go down unto him thither. ²And every man in distress, and every man who hath a creditor, and every man with a bitter soul, gather themselves unto him; and he is over them for head, and there are with him about four hundred men.

³And David goeth from thence to Mizpeh of Moab, and saith unto the king of Moab, 'Let, I pray thee, my father and my mother go out with you, till I know what God doth for me.' ⁴And he leadeth them before the king of Moab, and they dwell with him all the days of David's being in the fortress.

⁶And Saul heareth that David hath become known, the men also who are with him; and Saul is abiding in Gibeon, under the grove in Ramah, and his spear is in his hand, and all his servants standing by him.

⁷And Saul saith to his servants who are standing by him, 'Hearken, I pray you, ye Benjamites; to all of you also the son of Jesse doth give fields and vineyards—all of you he doth appoint heads of thousands and heads of hundreds—for ye have conspired all of you against me, and there is none uncovering mine ear about my son's covenanting with the son of Jesse; and there is none of you grieving for me, or uncovering mine ear, for my son hath raised up my servant against me, to lie in wait as at this day.'

⁸And Doeg the Edomite, who is set over the servants of Saul, answereth and saith, 'I have seen the son of Jesse coming into Nob, unto Ahimelech son of Ahitub: ⁹and he asketh at the LORD for him, and hath given to him provision, and hath given to him the sword of Goliath the Philistine.'

¹⁰And the king sendeth to call Ahimelech son of Ahitub, the priest, and all the house of his father, the priests who are in Nob, and they come all of them unto the king.

¹² And Saul saith, 'Hear, I pray thee, O son of Ahitub:' and he saith, 'Here am I, my lord.'

¹³ And Saul saith unto him, 'Why have ye conspired against me, thou and the son of Jesse, by thy giving to him bread and a sword, and hast asked at God for him, to rise against me, to lie in wait, as at this day?'

¹⁴ And Ahimelech answereth the king and saith, 'And who among all thy servants as David is faithful, and son-in-law of the king, and turneth aside unto thy council, and is honoured in thy house? ¹⁵ That day did I begin to ask at God for him? far be it from me! let not the king lay anything against his servant, against any of the house of my father; for thy servant hath known nothing of all this, less or more.'
¹⁶ And the king saith, 'Thou dost surely die, Ahimelech, thou, and all the house of thy father.'

¹⁷ And the king saith to the runners who are standing by him, 'Turn round, and put to death the priests of the LORD, because their hand also is with David, and because they have known that he is fleeing, and have not uncovered mine ear;' but the servants of the king have not been willing to put forth their hand to come against the priests of the LORD.

²¹ And Abiathar declareth to David that Saul hath slain the priests of the LORD.

²² And David saith to Abiathar, 'I knew on that day that Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would certainly declare it to Saul: I have brought it round every person of the house of thy father.
²³ Dwell with me; fear not; for he who seeketh my life seeketh thy life: for a charge art thou with me.'

XXIII. ¹ AND they declare to David, saying, 'Lo, the Philistines are fighting against Keilah, and they are spoiling the threshing-floors.'
² And David asketh at the LORD, saying, 'Shall I go?—have I then smitten among the Philistines?' And the LORD saith unto David, 'Go: then hast thou smitten the Philistines, and saved Keilah.'

⁴ And David addeth again to ask at the LORD, and the LORD answereth him and saith, 'Rise, go down to Keilah, for I do give the Philistines into thy hand.'

⁵ And David and his men go to Keilah, and fight with the Philistines, and he leadeth away their cattle, and smiteth among them

—a great smiting, and David saveth the inhabitants of Keilah.

⁶ And it cometh to pass, in the fleeing of Abiathar son of Ahimelech unto David to Keilah, an ephod came down in his hand.

⁷ And it is declared to Saul that David hath come into Keilah, and Saul saith, 'God hath made him known for my hand, for he hath been shut in, by entering into a city of doors and bars.'
⁸ And Saul summoneth the whole of the people to the war, to go down to Keilah, to lay siege unto David and unto his men.

⁹ And David knoweth that Saul is devising evil against him, and he saith unto Abiathar the priest, 'Bring nigh the ephod.'
¹¹ Do the possessors of Keilah shut me up into his hand? doth Saul come down as Thy servant hath heard? LORD, God of Israel, declare, I pray Thee, to Thy servant.'
¹³ And David saith, 'Do the possessors of Keilah shut me and my men up into the hand of Saul?' And the LORD saith, 'They do shut thee up.'

¹⁶ And David seeth that Saul hath come out to seek his life, and David is in the wilderness of Ziph, in a forest.
¹⁷ And Jonathan son of Saul riseth, and goeth unto David in the forest, and strengtheneth his hand in God,
¹⁸ and saith unto him, 'Fear not, for the hand of Saul my father shall not find thee, and thou shalt reign over Israel, and I shall become second to thee, and so also knoweth Saul my father.'
¹⁹ And they two make a covenant before the LORD: and David abideth in the forest, and Jonathan hath gone to his house.

²² And Saul saith, 'Blessed are ye of the LORD, for ye have pity on me;
²⁴ And see and know of all the hiding-places where he hideth himself; then have ye turned back unto me prepared, and I have gone with you: and it hath been, if he is in the land, that I have searched him out through all the thousands of Judah.

XXIV. ¹ AND it cometh to pass when Saul is turning back from after the Philistines, that they declare to him, saying, 'Lo, David is in the wilderness of Eng-gedi.' ² And Saul taketh three thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and goeth to seek David and his men, on the front of the rocks of the wild goats. ³ And he cometh in unto the folds of the flock, on the way, and there is a cave, and Saul goeth in to cover his feet; and David and his men in the sides of the cave are abiding.

⁴ And the men of David say unto him, 'Lo, the day of which the LORD hath said unto thee, Lo, I do give thine enemy into thy hand, and thou hast done to him as it is good in thine eyes; and David riseth and cutteth off the skirt of the upper robe which is on Saul—gently.

⁵ And it cometh to pass afterwards that the heart of David smiteth him, because that he hath cut off the skirt which is on Saul. ⁶ And he saith to his men, 'Far be it from me, by the LORD: I will not do this thing to my lord—to the anointed of the LORD,—to send forth my hand against him, for he is the anointed of the LORD.'

¹¹ And, my father, see, yea see, the skirt of thine upper robe in my hand: for by my cutting off the skirt of thy upper robe, while I did not slay thee know and see that in my hand there is no evil or transgression, and I have not sinned against thee, yet thou art hunting my soul to take it.

¹² The LORD judge between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee, but my hand is not on thee. ¹³ As saith the simile of the ancients, From the wicked wickedness goeth out; but my hand is not on thee.

²⁰ And, now, lo, I have known that thou dost certainly reign, and the kingdom of Israel hath stood in thy hand. ²¹ And, now, swear to me by the LORD,—thou dost not cut off my seed after me, nor dost thou destroy my name from the house of my father.'

²² And David sweareth to Saul; and Saul goeth unto his own house; and David and his men have gone up unto the fortress.

XXV. ¹ AND Samuel dieth, and all Israel are gathered, and mourn for him, and bury him in his own house, in Ramah; and David riseth and goeth down unto the wilderness of Parah. ² And there is a man in Maon, but his work is in Carmel; and the man is very great, and he hath three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats; and he is shearing his flock in Carmel.

⁸ Ask thy young men, and let them declare to thee; and let the young men find grace in thine eyes, for on a good day have we come; give, I pray thee, that which thy hand findeth to thy servants, and to thy son, to David.'

¹⁰ And Nabal answereth the servants of David and saith, 'Who is David, and who is the son of Jesse? to-day have servants been multiplied who break away each from his master: ¹¹ and I have taken my bread, and my water, and my flesh, which I slaughtered for my shearers, and have given it to men whom I have not known whence they are!'

¹⁴ And to Abigail wife of Nabal hath one young man of the youths declared, saying,

'Lo, David hath sent messengers out of the wilderness to salute our lord, but he fleeth upon them: ¹⁵ yet the men are very good to us, and have not put us to shame, nor have we missed anything all the days we have gone up and down with them, in our being in the field: ¹⁶ they have been a wall unto us both by night and by day, all the days of our being with them feeding the flock.'

²¹ And David had said, 'Only, in vain have I kept all that this one hath in the wilderness, and he hath not missed anything of all that he hath, yet he turneth back to me evil for good: ²² so let God do to the enemies of David, and so let Him add, if I leave of all that he hath till the light of the morning—of those who sit on the wall.'

lord whom thou hast sent. ²⁶ And now, my lord, the LORD liveth, and thy soul liveth, because the LORD hath withheld thee from coming in to blood, and hath restrained thy hand to thyself—now let thine enemies be as Nabal, they also who seek evil unto my lord.'

³⁰ 'And it hath been, when the LORD doeth to my lord according to all the good which He hath spoken concerning thee, and hath appointed thee for leader over Israel, ³¹ that this doth not become a stumbling-block to thee, nor an offence of heart to my lord—either the shedding of blood for nought, or my lord's restraining himself; when the LORD hath done good to my lord—then hast thou remembered thy handmaid.'

³² And David saith to Abigail, 'Blessed is the LORD, God of Israel, who hath sent thee this day to meet me: ³³ and blessed is thy discretion, and blessed art thou, who hast restrained me this day from coming in with blood, and hath restrained my hand to myself. ³⁴ And yet, the LORD, God of Israel liveth, who hath kept me back from afflicting thee, unless thou hadst hastened and come to meet me, surely there had not been left to Nabal till the morning light any who sit on the wall.'

³⁶ And Abigail cometh in unto Nabal, and lo, he hath a banquet in his house, like the king's banquet, and the heart of Nabal is glad within him; and he is drunk to excess, and she hath not declared to him anything, less or more, till the morning light. ³⁷ And it cometh to pass in the morning, when the wine is gone out from Nabal, that his wife declareth these things to him, and his heart dieth in him, and he hath been as a stone. ³⁸ And it cometh to pass, in about ten days, that the LORD smiteth Nabal, and he dieth.

⁴⁰ And the servants of David come in unto Abigail at Carmel, and speak unto her, saying, 'David hath sent us unto thee to take thee to him for a wife.'

XXVI. ¹ AND the Ziphites come in unto Saul, at Gibeath, saying, 'Is not David hiding himself in the height of Hachilah, on the front of the desert?' ² And Saul riseth, and goeth down unto the wilderness of Ziph, and with him are three thousand men, chosen ones of Israel, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph. ³ And Saul encampeth in the height of Hachilah, which is on the front of the desert, by the way, and David is abiding in the wilderness, and he seeth that Saul is coming after him into the wilderness: ⁴ and David sendeth spies, and knoweth that Saul is coming unto Nachon; ⁵ and David riseth and goeth in unto the place where Saul hath encamped, and David seeth the place where Saul hath lain, and Abner son of Ner head of his host, and Saul is lying in the path, and the people are encamping round about him.

⁸ And Abishai saith unto David, 'God hath shut up to-day thine enemy into thy hand; and now, let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear, even unto the earth at once—and I do it not a second time to him.'

⁹ And David saith unto Abishai, 'Destroy him not; for who hath sent forth his hand against the anointed of the LORD and been requited?' ¹⁰ David also saith, 'The LORD liveth; except the LORD smite him, or his day come that he hath died, or into battle he go down, and hath been consumed—far be it from me, because of the LORD, from sending forth my hand against the anointed of the LORD; but, now, take, I pray thee, the spear which is at his bolster, and the cruise of water, and let us go away.'

¹² And David taketh the spear, and the cruise of water at the bolster of Saul, and they go away; and there is none seeing, and there is none knowing, and there is none awaking, for they are all sleeping; for a deep sleep from the LORD hath fallen upon them.

¹³ And David passeth over to the other side, and standeth on the top of the hill afar off; great is the place between them.

²¹ And Saul saith, 'I have sinned; return, my son David, for I do evil to thee no more, because my soul hath been precious in thine eyes this day; lo, I have acted foolishly, and do err very greatly.'

XXVII. ¹ AND David saith unto his heart, 'I shall be consumed one day by the hand of Saul; there is nothing better for me than that I diligently escape unto the land of the Philistines, then hath Saul been despairing of me—of seeking me any more in all the border of Israel; and I have escaped out of his hand.'

² And David riseth, and passeth over, he and the six hundred men who are with him, unto Achish son of Maach king of Gath.

³ And David dwelleth with Achish in Gath, he and his men, each with his household even David and his two wives, Ahimeam the Jezebelitess, and Abigail wife of Nabal the Carmelitess. ⁴And it hath been declared to Saul that David hath fled to Gath, and he hath not added any more to seek him.

⁵And David saith unto Achish, 'If I pray thee, I have found grace in thine eyes. let them give me a place in one of the cities of the field, and let me dwell there, yea, why should thy servant dwell in the royal city with thee?' ⁶And Achish giveth to him in that day Ziklag; therefore Ziklag hath been to the kings of Judah till this day. ⁷And the number of the days which David hath dwelt in the field of the Philistines is a week and four months; ⁸and David and his men go up, and push against the Geshurites, and the Gzrites, and the Amalekites, (for they are the inhabitants of the land from of old,) as thou goest in to Shur, even unto the land of Egypt. ⁹And David hath smitten the land, and doth not keep alive man or woman; he hath also taken away sheep, and oxen, and asses, and camels, and garments; and he turneth back, and cometh in unto Achish.

¹²And Achish believeth in David, saying, 'He hath made himself utterly abhorred among his people, in Israel, and hath become to me an everlasting servant.'

XXVIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass in those days, that the Philistines gather their camps for the war, to fight with Israel; and Achish saith unto David, 'Thou dost certainly know that with me thou goest out into the camp, thou and thy men.'

²And David saith unto Achish, 'Therefore—thou shalt know that which thy servant shall do.' And Achish saith unto David, 'Therefore—keeper of my head do I appoint thee for ever.'

³And Samuel hath died, and all Israel mourn for him, and bury him in Ramiah, even in his own city; and Saul had turned aside those who have familiar spirits, the wizards also, out of the land.

⁵And Saul saith to his servants, 'Seek for me a woman possessing a familiar spirit, and let me go unto her, and inquire of her.' And his servants say unto him, 'Lo, a woman possessing a familiar spirit in En-Dor.'

⁶And Saul disguiseth himself, and putteth on other garments, and goeth, he and two of the men with him, and they come in unto the woman by night, and he saith, 'Divine, I pray thee, to me by the familiar spirit; and cause to come up to me him whom I say unto thee.'

⁷And the woman saith unto him, 'Lo, thou hast known that which Saul hath done—that he hath cut off those who have familiar spirits, the wizards also, out of the land; and why art thou laying a snare for my soul—to put me to death?' ⁸And Saul sweareth to her by the LORD, saying, 'The LORD liveth, punishment doth not meet thee for this thing.'

⁹And the woman saith, 'Whom do I bring up to thee?' and he saith, 'Samuel—bring up to me.' ¹⁰And the woman seeth Samuel, and she crieth with a loud voice, and the woman speaketh unto Saul, saying, 'Why hast thou deceived me—and thou—Saul?' ¹¹And the king saith to her, 'Do not fear: for what hast thou seen?' and the woman saith unto Saul, 'I have seen gods coming up out of the earth.' ¹²And he saith to her, 'What is his form?' and she saith, 'An aged man is coming up, and he is covered with an upper robe;' and Saul knoweth that it is Samuel, and he boweth—face to the earth—and doth obeisance.

¹³And Samuel saith unto Saul, 'Why hast thou troubled me, to bring me up?' And Saul saith, 'I have great distress: seeing the Philistines are fighting against me, and God hath turned aside from me, and hath not answered me any more, either by the hand of the prophets or by dreams; and I call for thee to let me know what I shall do.'

¹⁴And Samuel saith, 'And why dost thou ask me, seeing the LORD hath turned aside from thee, and is thine enemy?' ¹⁵And the LORD hath done for Himself as He hath spoken by my hand; and the LORD rendeth the kingdom out of thy hand, and giveth it to thy neighbour—to David. ¹⁶Because thou hast not hearkened to the voice of the LORD, nor didst the fierceness of His anger on Amalek—therefore this thing hath the LORD done to thee this day: ¹⁷yea, the LORD also giveth Israel with thee into the hand of the Philistines;—and to-morrow, thou and thy sons are with me; also the camp of Israel doth the LORD give into the hand of the Philistines.'

¹⁸And Saul hasteth and falleth—the fulness of his stature—to the earth, and feareth greatly because of the words of Samuel: power also was not in him, for he hath not eaten bread all the day and all the night.

¹⁹And the woman cometh in unto Saul, and she seeth that he hath been greatly troubled, and she saith unto him, 'Lo, thy maid-servant hath hearkened to thy voice; and I put my soul in my hand; and I obey thy words which thou hast spoken unto me: ²⁰and now, hearken, I pray thee, thou also, to the voice of thy maid-servant, and let me set before thee a morsel of bread, and eat, then there is power in thee when thou goest in the way.'

²¹And he refuseth, and saith, 'I will not eat;' and his servants urge on him, and also the woman, and he hearkeneth to their voice, and he riseth from the earth, and sitteth on the bed.

²⁴And the woman hath a calf of the stall in the house, and she hasteth and slaughtereth it, and taketh flour, and kneadeth, and baketh with it unleavened things, ²⁵and bringeth nigh before Saul, and before his servants, and they eat, and rise, and go on during that night.

XXIX. ¹AND the Philistines gather all their camps to Aphek; and the Israelites are encamping at a fountain which is in Jezreel. ²And the princes of the Philistines are passing on by hundreds, and by thousands, and David and his men are passing on in the rear with Achish.

³And the heads of the Philistines say, 'What are these Hebrews?' and Achish saith unto the heads of the Philistines, 'Is not this David servant of Saul king of Israel, who hath been with me these days or these years, and I have not found anything wrong in him from the day of his falling away unto this day.'

⁴And the heads of the Philistines are wroth against him; and the heads of the Philistines say to him, 'Send back the man, and let him turn back unto his place whither thou hast appointed him, and let him not go down with us into the battle, that he be not to us for an adversary in the battle; and wherewith doth this one reconcile himself unto his lord—is it not with the heads of these men?' ⁵Is not this David, of whom they answer in dances, saying, Saul hath smitten among his thousands, and David among his myriads?'

⁶And Achish calleth unto David, and saith unto him, 'The Lord liveth, surely thou art upright; and good in mine eyes is thy going out and thy coming in with me in the camp, for I have not found evil in thee from the day of thy coming in unto me till this day; yet in the eyes of the princes thou art not good. ⁷And now, turn back, and go in peace, and do no evil in the eyes of the princes of the Philistines.'

⁸And David saith unto Achish, 'But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant from the day that I have been before thee till this day—that I go not in and have fought against the enemies of my lord the king?'

⁹And Achish answereth and saith unto David, 'I have known that thou art good in mine eyes as a messenger of God: only, the princes of the Philistines have said, Let him not go up with us into the battle. ¹⁰And now, rise thou early in the morning, and the servants also of thy lord who have come with thee: when ye have risen early in the morning, and have light, then go ye.'

¹¹And David riseth early, he and his men, to go in the morning, to turn back unto the land of the Philistines; and the Philistines have gone up to Jezreel.

XXX. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the coming in of David and his men to Ziklag, on the third day, that the Amalekites have pushed against the south, and against Ziklag, and they smite Ziklag, and burn it with fire, ²and they take captive the women who are in it, both small and great; they have not put one to death, but they lead them away, and go on their way.

⁷And David saith unto Abiathar the priest, son of Ahimelech, 'Bring nigh, I pray thee, the ephod to me;' and Abiathar bringeth nigh the ephod unto David. ⁸And David asketh at the Lord, saying, 'I pursue after this troop—do I overtake it?' And He saith to him, 'Pursue, for thou dost certainly overtake, and dost certainly deliver.'

⁹And David goeth on, he and the six hundred men who are with him, and they come in unto the brook of Besor, and those who are left behind have stood still. ¹⁰And David pursueth, he and four hundred men, (but two hundred men stand still who have been too faint to pass over the brook of Besor). ¹¹And they find a man, an Egyptian, and they take him unto David, and give to him bread, and he eateth, and they cause him to drink water, ¹²and they give to him a piece of a bunch of dried figs, and two bunches of dried raisins, and he eateth, and his spirit returneth unto him, for he hath not eaten bread nor drunk water three days and three nights.

¹³And David saith to him, 'Whose art thou? and whence art thou?' And he saith, 'I am an Egyptian lord, servant to an Amalekite, but my lord forsaketh me, for I have been sick three days. ¹⁴We pushed to the south of the Cherethites, and against that which is Judah's, and against the south of Caleb, and Ziklag we burnt with fire.'

¹⁵And David saith unto him, 'Wilt thou bring me down unto this troop?' and he saith, 'Swear to me by God—thou wilt not put me to death, nor shut me up into the hand of my lord—and I bring thee down unto this troop.'

¹⁶And he bringeth him down, and lo, they are spread out over all the face of the earth, eating, and drinking, and feasting, with all the great spoil which they have taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah.

¹⁷And David smiteth them from the twilight even unto the evening of the morrow, and not a man of them hath escaped, save four hundred young men who have ridden on the camels and are fled. ¹⁸And David delivereth all that the Amalekites have taken; his two wives also hath David delivered. ¹⁹And there hath not lacked to them anything, either small or great, either sons or daughters, or from the spoil, even unto all that they had taken to themselves: the whole hath David brought back. ²⁰And David taketh the whole of the flock, and of the herd; they have led before these cattle, and they say, 'This is David's spoil.'

²¹And David cometh in unto the two hundred men who were too faint to follow after David, and whom they cause to abide at the brook of Besor: and they go out to meet David, and to meet the people who are with him; and David approacheth the people, and asketh of them concerning their welfare.

²²And every bad and worthless man, of the men who have gone with David, answereth, yea, they say, 'Because they have not gone down with us, we do not give to them any of the spoil which we have delivered, save each his wife and his children, that they may lead them away and go.'

²³And David saith, 'Ye do not do so, my brethren, with that which the Lord hath given to us, seeing He doth preserve us, and doth give the troop which cometh against us into our hand: ²⁴yea, who will hearken to you in this thing? surely as the portion of him who hath been brought down into the battle, so also is the portion of him who abideth by the vessels: they share alike.'

²⁵And it cometh to pass from that day and forward, that he appointeth it for a statute and ordinance for Israel to this day.

²⁶And David cometh in unto Ziklag, and he sendeth of the spoil to the elders of Judah, to his friends, (saying, 'Lo, a blessing for you, of the spoil of the enemies of the Lord:'); ²⁷to those who are in Bethel, and to those who are in South Ramoth, and to those who are in Jattir, ²⁸and to those who are in Aroer, and to those who are in Siphmoth, and to those who are in Eshtemoa, ²⁹and to those who are in Rachal, and to those who are in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, and to those who are in the cities of the Kenites, ³⁰and to those who are in Hormah, and to those who are in Chor-Ashan, and to those who are in Athach, ³¹and to those who are in Hebron—even to all the places where David hath gone up and down, he and his men.

XXXI. ¹AND the Philistines are fighting against Israel, and the men of Israel flee from the presence of the Philistines, and fall wounded in mount Gilboa. ²And the Philistines follow Saul and his sons, and the Philistines smite Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua, sons of Saul.

³And the battle is hard against Saul, and the bowmen, even the archers find him, and he is greatly pained by the archers. ⁴And Saul saith to the bearer of his weapons, 'Draw thy sword, and pierce me with it, lest they come—these uncircumcised—and have pierced me, and rolled themselves on me:' but the bearer of his weapons hath not been willing, for he is greatly afraid, and Saul taketh the sword, and falleth upon it.

⁵And the bearer of his weapons seeth that Saul is dead, and he falleth—he also—on his sword, and dieth with him. ⁶And Saul dieth, and three of his sons, and the bearer of his weapons, also all his men on that day.

⁷And they see—the men of Israel who are beyond the valley, and who are beyond the Jordan—that the men of Israel have fled, and that Saul and his sons have died, and they forsake the cities and flee, and the Philistines go in, and dwell in them.

¹¹And they hear regarding it—the inhabitants of Jabesh-Gilead—that which the Philistines have done to Saul: ¹²and all the men of valour arise, and go all the night, and take the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, from the wall of Beth-Shan, and they come in to Jabesh, and burn them there: ¹³and they take their bones, and bury them under the tamarisk by Jabesh, and fast seven days.

SECOND BOOK OF SAMUEL.

CHAP. I. ¹AND it cometh to pass, after the death of Saul, that David hath returned from the smiting of the Amalekites, and David dwelleth in Ziklag two days, ²yea, it cometh to pass, on the third day, that lo, a man cometh in out of the camp from Saul, and his garments are rent, and earth is on his head; and it cometh to pass, in his coming in unto David, that he falleth to the earth, and doth obeisance.

³And David saith to him, 'Whence comest thou?' and he saith unto him, 'Out of the camp of Israel I have escaped.' ⁴And

David saith unto him, 'What hath the matter been? declare, I pray thee, to me.' And he saith, 'That the people hath fled from the battle, and also a multitude hath fallen of the people, and they die; and also Saul and Jonathan his son have died.'

⁵And David saith unto the youth who declareth it to him, 'How hast thou known that Saul and Jonathan his son are dead?' ⁶And the youth who declareth it to him saith, 'I happened to meet in mount Gilboa, and lo, Saul is leaning on his spear; and lo, the chariots and those possessing horses have followed him. ⁷ And he turneth behind him, and seeth me, and calleth unto me, and I say, 'Here am I.' ⁸ And he saith to me, 'Who art thou?' and I say unto him, 'I am an Amalekite.' ⁹ And he saith unto me, 'Stand, I pray thee, over me, and put me to death: for the arrow hath seized me, for all my soul is still in me.' ¹⁰ And I stand over him, and put him to death, for I knew that he would not live after his falling: and I take the crown which is on his head, and the bracelet which is on his arm, and I bring them in unto my lord hither.

¹¹ And David taketh hold on his garments, and rendeth them, and also all the men who are with him. ¹² And they mourn, and weep, and fast till the evening, for Saul and for Jonathan his son, and for the people of the LORD, and for the house of Israel, because they have fallen by the sword.

¹⁷ And David lamenteth with this lamentation over Saul and over Jonathan his son: ¹⁸ and he hath spoken of teaching the children of Judah 'The Bow': lo, it is written in the book of the Upright:—

¹⁹ 'The Roebuck, O Israel,
On thy high places is wounded;
How have the mighty fallen!

²⁰ Declare it not in Gath,
Proclaim not the tidings
In the streets of Askelon,
Lest they rejoice—
The daughters of the Philistines,
Lest they exult—

The daughters of the Uncircumcised.

²¹ Mountains of Gilboa!
No dew nor rain be on you,
Nor fields of heave-offerings;
For there hath become loathsome
The shield of the mighty ones,
The shield of Saul—
Without—the anointed with oil.

²² From the blood of the wounded,
From the fat of the mighty,
The bow of Jonathan
Hath not turned backward;
And the sword of Saul
Doth not turn back empty.

²³ Saul and Jonathan!
They are loved—and pleasant in their
And in their death— [lives,
They have not been parted.

Thou eagles they have been lighter,
Thou lions they have been mighty!

²⁴ Daughters of Israel! for Saul weep ye,
Who clotheth you in scarlet—

With delights.
Who lifteth up ornaments of gold
On your clothing.

²⁵ How have the mighty fallen
In the midst of the battle!

O Jonathan! on thy high places wounded.

²⁶ I am in distress for thee, my brother
Jonathan,

Very pleasant hast thou been to me;
Thy love to me hath been wonderful,

²⁷ How have the mighty fallen,
Yea, the weapons of war perish!

II. ¹ AND it cometh to pass afterwards, that David asketh at the LORD, saying, 'Shall I go up into one of the cities of Judah?' and the LORD saith unto him, 'Go up.' And David saith, 'Whither shall I go up?' and He saith, 'To Hebron.' ² And David goeth up there, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail wife of Nabal the Carmelite. ³ And his men who are with him hath David brought up—a man and his household—and they dwell in the cities of Hebron.

⁶ And, now, the LORD do with you kindness and truth: and I also, I do with you this good because ye have done this thing. ⁷ And now, let your hands be strong, then have ye become sons of valour, for your lord Saul is dead, and also—me have the house of Judah anointed to be king over them.'

⁸ And Abner son of Ner, head of the host which Saul hath, hath taken Ish-Bosheth son of Saul, and causeth him to pass over to Mahanaim, and causeth him to reign over Gilead, and over the Ashurites, and over Jezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over Israel—all of it. ¹⁰ Forty years old is Ish-Bosheth son of Saul, in his reigning over Israel; and he hath reigned two years; only, the house of Judah have been after David. ¹¹ (And the number of the days that David was king in Hebron, over the house of Judah, is seven years and six months.) ¹² And Abner son of Ner goeth out with the servants of Ish-Bosheth son of Saul, from Mahanaim to Gibeon. ¹³ And Joab son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David, have gone out, and they meet together by the pool of Gibeon; and they sit down, these by the pool on this side, and those by the pool on that.

and one calleth that place Hekth-Hazurim, which is in Gibeon. ¹⁷ And the battle is very hard during that day, and Abner is smitten, and the men of Israel, before the servants of David.

²² And Abner continueth again, saying unto Asahel, 'Turn thee aside from after me, why should I smite thee to the earth? and how shall I lift up my face unto Joab thy brother?' ²³ But he refuseth to turn aside, and Abner smiteth him with the hinder part of the spear unto the fifth rib, and the spear cometh out from behind him, and he falleth there, and dieth under it; and it cometh to pass, every one who cometh unto the place where Asahel hath fallen and dieth,—they even stand still. ²⁴ And Joab and Abishai pursue after Abner, and the sun went in, and they came in unto the height of Ammah, which is on the front of Giah, the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

³⁰ And Joab hath turned back from after Abner, and gathereth all the people, and there are lacking of the servants of David nineteen men, and Asahel; ³¹ but the servants of David have smitten of Benjamin, even among the men of Abner, three hundred and sixty men—they died. ³² And they lift up Asahel, and bury him in the burying-place of his father, which is in Beth-lehem, and they go all the night—Joab and his men—and it cometh light to them in Hebron.

III. 'AND the war is long between the house of Saul and the house of David; and David goeth on and is strong, and the house of Saul go on and are weak.

¹ And there are born to David sons in Hebron; and his first-born is Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess; ² and his second is Chileab, of Abigail wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third is Absalom son of Maacah daughter of Talmai king of Geshur; ⁴ and the fourth is Adonijah son of Hagith; and the fifth is Shephatiah son of Abital; ⁵ and the sixth is Ithream, of Eglah wife of David; these were born to David in Hebron.

⁸ And it is displeasing to Abner exceedingly, because of the words of Ish-Bosheth, and he saith, 'A dog's head am I—which in reference to Judah to-day doth kindness with the house of Saul thy father, unto his brethren, and unto his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David—that thou chargest me with iniquity concerning the woman to-day?' ⁹ So let God do to Abner, and so let Him add to him; surely as the LORD hath sworn to David—surely so I do to him: ¹⁰ to cause the kingdom to pass over from the house of Saul, and to raise up the throne of David over Israel and Judah, from Dan even unto Beer-Sheba.

¹¹ And he is unable any more to turn back Abner a word, because he feareth him. ¹² And Abner sendeth messengers unto David for himself, saying, 'Whose is the land?' saying also, 'Make thy covenant with me, and lo, my hand is with thee, to bring a Israel round unto thee.' ¹³ And he saith, 'Good: I will make with thee a covenant; only, one thing I ask of thee, that is, Thou dost not see my face, except thou first bring Michal daughter of Saul in thy coming to see my face.'

¹⁷ And the word of Abner was with the elders of Israel, saying, 'Heretofore ye have been seeking David as king over you: ¹⁸ and now, do it, for the LORD hath spoken of David, saying, By the hand of David my servant—saving my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.'

¹⁹ And Abner speaketh also in the ears of Benjamin, and Abner goeth also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron all that is good in the eyes of Israel, and in the eyes of the whole house of Benjamin. ²⁰ And Abner cometh unto David, to Hebron, and with him are twenty men; and David maketh for Abner, and for the men who are with him, a banquet.

²¹ And Abner saith unto David, 'Let me arise, and go, and gather unto my lord the king the whole of Israel, and let them make with thee a covenant, then hast thou reigned over all that thy soul desireth;' and David sendeth away Abner, and he goeth in peace.

²² And lo, the servants of David and Joab come from the troop, and much spoil have they brought with them, and Abner is not with David in Hebron, for he hath sent him away, and he goeth in peace. ²³ And Joab and all the host that is with him have come, and they declare to Joab, saying, 'Abner son of Ner hath come unto the king, and he sendeth him away, and he goeth in peace.'

²⁴ And Joab cometh unto the king, and saith, 'What hast thou done? lo, Abner hath come unto thee, why is this—thou hast sent him away, and he is really gone? ²⁵ Thou hast known Abner son of Ner, that to deceive thee he came, and to know thy going out and thy coming in, and to know all that thou art doing.' ²⁶ And Joab goeth out from David, and sendeth messengers after Abner, and they bring him back from the well of Sirah: but David knew not.

²⁸ And David heareth afterwards and saith, 'I am acquitted; my kingdom also, by the LORD for ever, from the blood of Abner son of Ner: ²⁹ let it stay on the head of Joab, and on all the house of his father, and let there not be cut off from the house of Joab one having an issue, or leprous, or laying hold on a staff, or falling by a sword, or lacking bread.'

³⁰ And Joab and Abishai his brother slew Abner because he put to death Asahel their brother, in Gibeon, in the battle.

³⁴ As the death of a fool should Abner die? ³⁵ Thy hands not bound,

And thy feet not brought nigh to fetters;
As one falling before the sons of evil—
Hast thou fallen!

And all the people continue to weep over him. ³⁶ And all the people come to cause David to eat bread while yet day, but David sweareth, saying, 'So let God do to me, and so let Him add: for—before the going in of the sun I taste no bread nor any other thing.'

³⁷ And all the people have discerned it, and it is good in their eyes: as all that the king hath done is good in the eyes of all the people. ³⁸ And all the people know, even all Israel, in that day, that it hath not been from the king—the putting to death of Abner son of Ner. ³⁹ And the king saith unto his servants, 'Do ye not know that a prince and a great one hath fallen this day in Israel? ⁴⁰ And I to-day am tender, though anointed king; and these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are too hard for me: the LORD recompense to the doer of evil according to his evil.'

IV. ¹ AND the son of Saul heareth that Abner is dead in Hebron, and his hands are feeble, and all Israel have been troubled. ² And two men, heads of troops, have been to the son of Saul: the name of the one is Baanah, and the name of the second Rechab, sons of Rimmon a Beerothite, of the Children of Benjamin, for Beeroth also is reckoned to Benjamin, and the Beerothites flee to Gittaim, and are sojourners there unto this day. ³ And Jonathan son of Saul hath a son—lame: he was five years old at the coming of the rumour of the death of Saul and Jonathan, out of Jezreel, and his nurse lifteth him up and fleeth, and it cometh to pass in her hasting to flee, that he falleth, and becometh lame, and his name is Mephibosheth.

⁴ And the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, go and come at the heat of the day into the house of Ish-Bosheth: and he is lying down—the lying down of noon. ⁵ And thither they have come, unto the midst of the house, taking wheat, and they smite him unto the fifth rib, and Rechab and Baanah his brother have escaped. ⁶ Yea, they come into the house, and he is lying on his bed, in the inner chamber of his bed, and they smite him, and put him to death, and turn aside his head, and take his head, and go the way of the plain all the night. ⁷ And they bring the head of Ish-Bosheth unto David in Hebron, and say unto the king, 'Lo, the head of Ish-Bosheth son of Saul, thine enemy who sought thy life, and the LORD doth give to my lord the king vengeance this day of Saul and of his seed.'

⁸ And David answereth Rechab and Baanah his brother, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and saith to them, 'The LORD liveth, who hath redeemed my soul out of all adversity: ⁹ when one declareth to me, saying, Lo, Saul is dead; though he was as a bearer of good tidings in his own eyes, yet I take hold on him, and slay him in Ziklag, instead of my giving to him for the tidings. ¹⁰ Also, when wicked men have slain the righteous man in his own house, on his bed; now also, do not I require his blood of your hand? then have I taken you away from the earth?'

V. ¹ AND all the tribes of Israel come unto David, to Hebron, and speak, saying, 'Lo, we are thy bone and thy flesh. ² Also heretofore, in Saul's being king over us, thou hast been he who bringest out and bringest in Israel, and the LORD saith to thee, Thou shalt feed My people Israel, and thou shalt be for leader over Israel.'

⁸And all the elders of Israel come unto the king, to Hebron, and king David maketh with them a covenant in Hebron before the LORD, and they anoint David for king over Israel. 'Thirty years old ~~is~~ David in his being king: forty years hath he reigned. ⁹In Hebron he reigned over Judah seven years and six months, and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years, over all Israel and Judah.

⁶And the king goeth with his men to Jerusalem, unto the Jebusite, the inhabitant of the land, and they speak to David, saying, 'Thou shalt not come in hither, except thou turn aside the blind and the lame;' saying to themselves, 'David shall not come in hither.' ⁷And David captureth the fortress of Zion, which is the city of David.

⁸And David saith on that day, 'Any one smiting the Jebusite, and the lame and the blind—the hated of David's soul—because the blind and the lame say, He doth not come into the house!—let him go up by the waterspout.'

¹¹And Hiram king of Tyre sendeth messengers unto David, and cedar-trees, and artificers of wood, and artificers of stones for walls; and they build a house for David.

¹²And David knoweth that the LORD hath established him for king over Israel, and that He hath lifted up his kingdom because of His people Israel.

¹³And David taketh more concubines and wives out of Jerusalem, after his coming from Hebron, and there are born to David more sons and daughters. ¹⁴And these are the names of those who are born to him in Jerusalem: Shammuah, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon, ¹⁵and Ithar, and Elishua, and Nepheg, and Japhia, ¹⁶and Elishama, and Eliada, and Eliphalet.

¹⁷And the Philistines hear that they have anointed David for king over Israel, and all the Philistines come up to seek David, and David heareth, and goeth down unto the fortress. ¹⁸And the Philistines have come, and they are spread out in the valley of Rephaim.

¹⁹And David asketh of the LORD, saying, 'Shall I go up unto the Philistines? will Thou give them into my hand?' And the LORD saith unto David, 'Go up, for I certainly give the Philistines into thy hand.'

²²And the Philistines add again to come up, and are spread out in the valley of Rephaim; ²³and David asketh of the LORD, and He saith, 'Thou shalt not go up; turn round unto their rear; then hast thou come to them over-against the mulberry-trees; ²⁴and it cometh to pass, in thy hearing the sound of the stepping in the tops of the mulberry-trees, then thou dost move sharply, for then hath the LORD gone out before thee to smite in the camp of the Philistines.' ²⁵And David doth so, as the LORD commanded him, and smiteth the Philistines from Geba unto thy coming to Gazer.

VI. ¹AND David gathereth again every chosen one in Israel, thirty thousand. ²And David riseth and goeth, and all the people who are with him, from Baale-Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, whose name was called—the name of the LORD of Hosts, inhabiting the cherubs—upon it.

³And they cause the ark of God to ride on a new cart, and bring it up out of the house of Abinadab, which is in the height, and Uzzah and Ahio sons of Abinadab lead the new cart. ⁴And they bring it up from the house of Abinadab, which is in the height, with the ark of God, and Ahio is going before the ark. ⁵And David and all the house of Israel are playing before the LORD, with all kinds of fir instruments, even with harps, and with psalteries, and with timbrels, and with cornets and cymbals.

⁶And they come unto the threshing-floor of Nachon, and Uzzah sendeth forth his hand unto the ark of God, and layeth hold on it, for they have released the oxen. ⁷And the anger of the LORD burneth against Uzzah, and God smiteth him there for the error, and he dieth there by the ark of God. ⁸And it is displeasing to David, because the LORD hath broken forth a breach upon Uzzah, and one calleth that place Perez-Uzzah, unto this day. ⁹And David feareth the LORD on that day, and saith, 'How shall the ark of the LORD come in unto me?'

¹¹And the ark of the LORD doth inhabit the house of Obed-Edom the Gittite three months; and the LORD blesseth Obed-Edom and all his household.

¹²And it is declared to king David, saying, 'The LORD hath blessed the house of Obed-Edom, and all that he hath, because of the ark of God;' and David goeth and bringeth up the ark of God out of the house of Obed-Edom to the city of David with joy. ¹³And it cometh to pass, when the bearers of the ark of the LORD have stepped six steps, that he sacrificeth an ox and a fatling.

¹⁴And David danceth with all his strength before the LORD, and David is girded with a linen ephod. ¹⁵And David and all the house of Israel are bringing up the ark of the LORD with shouting, and with the voice of the trumpet; ¹⁶and it hath come to pass, the ark of the LORD is coming into the city of David, and Michal daughter of Saul, hath looked through the window, and seeth king David moving and dancing before the LORD, and despiseth him in her heart.

VII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, when the king sat in his house, and the LORD had given rest to him round about, from all his enemies, ² that the king saith unto Nathan the prophet, 'See, I pray thee, I am dwelling in a house of cedars, and the ark of God is dwelling in the midst of curtains.' ³ And Nathan saith to the king, 'All that is in thine heart, go, do, for the LORD is with thee.'

⁴ And it cometh to pass in that night, that the word of the LORD is unto Nathan, saying, ⁵ 'Go; then hast thou said unto My servant, unto David, Thus hath the LORD said, Dost thou build for Me a house for My dwelling in? ⁶ For I have not dwelt in a house even from the day of my bringing up the Children of Israel out of Egypt, even unto this day, but am walking up and down in a tent and in a tabernacle. ⁷ During all the time that I have walked up and down among all the Children of Israel, have I spoken a word with one of the tribes of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying, Why have ye not built to Me a house of cedar? ⁸ And, now, thus dost thou say to my servant, to David:

'I have taken thee from home, from after the flock, to be leader over my people, over Israel; ⁹ and I am with thee whithersoever thou hast gone, and I cut off the whole of thine enemies from thy presence, and I have made for thee a great name, as the name of the great ones who are in the earth, ¹⁰ and I have appointed a place for my people, for Israel, and have planted it, and it hath tabernacled in its own place, and it is not troubled any more, and the children of perverseness do not add to afflict them any more, as in the beginning, ¹¹ and even since the day that I appointed judges over my people Israel, and have given rest to thee from all thine enemies: the LORD also hath declared to thee that the LORD doth make for thee a house. ¹² When thy days are full, and thou hast lain with thy fathers, then have I raised up thy seed after thee which goeth out from thy loins, and have established his kingdom. ¹³ He doth build the house for My Name, and I have established the throne of his kingdom for ever. ¹⁴ I am to him for a father, and he is to me for a son; whom in his dealing perversely I have even reproved with the rod of men, and with the strokes of the Children of Adam, ¹⁵ and my kindness doth not turn aside from him, as I turned it aside from Saul, whom I turned aside from before thee; ¹⁶ and steadfast is thy house and thy kingdom for ever before thee; thy throne is established for ever.' ¹⁷ According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so Nathan spoke unto David.

¹⁸ And king David cometh and sitteth before the LORD, and saith, 'Who am I, O Lord Jehovah? and what is my house that Thou hast brought me hitherto? ¹⁹ And yet this is little in Thine eyes. O Lord Jehovah, and Thou speakest also concerning the house of Thy servant, afar off; and this is the law of the Man, O Lord Jehovah. ²⁰ And what shall David add more to speak unto Thee? but Thou, Thou hast known Thy servant, O Lord Jehovah. ²¹ Because of Thy word, and according to Thine own heart Thou hast done all this greatness, causing Thy servant to know it. ²² Therefore Thou hast been great, O LORD God; for there is none like Thee, and there is no God save Thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.'

²³ 'And who is as Thy people Israel—one nation in the earth, whom God hath gone to redeem to Himself for a people, and to make for Himself a name, and to do for you the greatness, even fearful things for Thy land, at the presence of Thy people, whom Thou hast redeemed to Thyself out of Egypt—among the nations and their gods? ²⁴ Yea, Thou dost establish to Thyself Thy people Israel to Thyself for a people for ever, and Thou, LORD, hast been to them for God.'

²⁵ 'And now, O LORD God, the word which Thou hast spoken concerning Thy servant and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as Thou hast spoken. ²⁶ And let Thy Name be great for ever, saying, The LORD of Hosts is God over Israel; and let the house of Thy servant David be established before Thee; ²⁷ for Thou, O LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, Thou hast uncovered the ear of Thy servant, saying, A house I do build for thee; therefore hath Thy servant found in his heart to pray unto Thee this prayer; ²⁸ and, now, O Lord Jehovah, Thou art God himself, and Thy words are truth, and Thou speakest unto Thy servant this goodness; ²⁹ and now, begin and bless the house of Thy servant, to be for ever before Thee; for Thou, O Lord Jehovah, hast spoken, and by Thy blessing is the house of Thy servant blessed for ever.'

VIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass afterwards that David smiteth the Philistines, and humbleth them, and David taketh the bridle of the metropolis out of the hand of the Philistines.

²And he smiteth Moab, and mensureth them with a line, causing them to lie down on the earth, and he measureth two lines to put to death, and the fulness of the line to keep alive, and the Moabites become David's servants, bearers of presents.

⁵And Aram of Damascus cometh to give help to Hadadezer king of Zobah, and David smiteth of Aram twenty and two thousand men. ⁶And David putteth garrisons in Aram of Damascus, and Aram becometh David's servant, bearing presents; and the LORD saveth David whithersoever he hath gone.

⁷And David taketh the shields of gold which were on the servants of Hadadezer, and bringeth them to Jerusalem; ⁸and from Bethai, and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, king David took very much brass.

¹³And David maketh a name in his turning back from his smiting of Aram, in the valley of Salt—eighteen thousand. ¹⁴And he putteth in Edom garrisons; in all Edom he hath put garrisons, and all Edom becometh David's servant; and the LORD saveth David whithersoever he hath gone.

¹⁵And David reigneth over all Israel, and David doeth judgment and righteousness to all his people; ¹⁶and Joab son of Zeruiah is over the host; and Jehoshaphat son of Ahitub is remembrancer; ¹⁷and Zadok son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech son of Abiathar, are the priests, and Seraiah is scribe. ¹⁸And Beniah son of Jehonada is over both the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and the sons of David have been ministers.

IX. ¹AND David saith, 'Is there yet any left to the house of Saul, that I may deal kindly with him because of Jonathan?'

²And the house of Saul hath a servant, and his name is Ziba, and they call for him unto David; and the king saith unto him, 'Art thou Ziba?' and he saith, 'Thy servant.'

³And the king saith, 'Is there not yet a man to the house of Saul, that I may do with him the kindness of God?' And Ziba saith unto the king, 'Jonathan hath yet a son—lame.' ⁴And the king saith to him, 'Where is he?' and Ziba saith to the king, 'Lo, he is in the house of Machir son of Ammiel, in Lo-Debar.'

⁵And king David sendeth, and taketh him out of the house of Machir son of Ammiel, in Lo-Debar. ⁶And Mephibosheth son of Jonathan, son of Saul, cometh unto David, and falleth on his face, and doth obeisance; and David saith, 'Mephibosheth!'; and he saith, 'Lo, thy servant.' ⁷And David saith to him, 'Be not afraid: for I certainly deal kindly with thee because of Jonathan thy father, and have given back to thee all the field of Saul thy father, and thou dost eat bread at my table continually.' And he boweth himself, and saith, 'What is thy servant, that thou hast turned unto such a dead dog as I?'

⁸And the king calleth unto Ziba servant of Saul, and saith unto him, 'All that was to Saul and to all his house have I given to the son of thy lord; ⁹and thou hast served for him the land, thou and thy sons, and thy servants, and hast brought in, and there hath been bread to the son of thy lord, and he hath eaten; also Mephibosheth son of thy lord doth eat bread always at my table; and Ziba hath fifteen sons and twenty servants.

¹⁰And Ziba saith unto the king, 'According to all that my lord the king commandeth his servant, so doth thy servant do; as to Mephibosheth, 'he doth eat at my table (saith the king, as one of the king's sons.' ¹²And Mephibosheth hath a young son, and his name is Micaiah; and all who dwell in the house of Ziba are servants to Mephibosheth. ¹³And Mephibosheth dwelleth in Jerusalem, for at the table of the king he eateth continually, and he is lame of both his feet.

X. ¹AND it cometh to pass afterwards, that the king of the Beni-Ammon dieth, and Hanun his son reigneth in his stead; ²and David saith, 'I will deal kindly with Hanun son of Nahash, as his father dealt kindly with me; and David sendeth to comfort him by the hand of his servants concerning his father; and the servants of David come into the land of the Beni-Ammon.

³And the heads of the Beni-Ammon say unto Hanun their lord, 'Is David honouring thy father in thine eyes because he hath sent to thee comforters? is it not for to search the city, and to spy it, and to overthrow it that David hath sent his servants unto thee?'

⁴And Hanun taketh the servants of David and shaveth off the half of their beard, and cutteth off their long robes in the midst—unto their buttocks, and sendeth them away.

⁵And they declare it to David, and he sendeth to meet them, for the men have been greatly ashamed, and the king saith, 'Abide ye in Jericho till your beard spring up—then have ye returned.'

⁶And the Beni-Ammon see that they have been abhorred by David, and the Beni-Ammon send and hire Aram of Beth-Rehob, and Aram of Zoba, twenty thousand footmen, and the king of Maceah with a thousand men, and Ish-Tob with twelve thousand men. ⁷And David heareth, and sendeth Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

⁸And the Beni-Ammon come out, and set the battle in array, at the opening of the gate; and Aram of Zoba, and Ithob, and Ish-Tob, and Maacah, are by themselves in the field. ⁹And Joab seeth that the front of the battle hath been against him before and behind, and he chooseth of all the chosen in Israel, and setteth them in array to meet Aram. ¹⁰And the rest of the people hath he given into the hand of Abishai his brother, and setteth in array to meet the Beni-Ammon.

¹¹And he saith, 'If Aram be stronger than I, then thou hast been to me for salvation; and if the Beni-Ammon be stronger than thou, then have I come to give salvation to thee.' ¹²Be strong and strengthen thyself for our people, and for the cities of our God; and the LORD do what is good in His eyes.'

¹³And Joab draweth nigh, and the people who are with him, to the battle against Aram; and they flee from his presence.

¹⁴And the Beni-Ammon have seen that Aram hath fled, and they flee from the presence of Abishai, and go into the city; and Joab turneth back from the Beni-Ammon, and cometh into Jerusalem.

¹⁵And Aram seeth that it is smitten before Israel, and they are gathered together.

¹⁶And Hadarezer sendeth, and bringeth out Aram from beyond the river, and they come to Helam, and Shobach head of the host of Hadarezer is before them.

¹⁷And it hath been declared to David, and he gathereth all Israel, and passeth over the Jordan, and cometh to Helam, and Aram setteth itself in array to meet David, and they fight with him. ¹⁸And Aram fleeth from the presence of Israel, and David slayeth of Aram seven hundred charioteers, and forty thousand horsemen, and Shobach prince of its host hath he smitten, and he dieth there. ¹⁹And all the kings—servants of Hadarezer—see that they have been smitten before Israel, and make peace with Israel, and serve them; and Aram is afraid of helping any more the Beni-Ammon.

XI. ¹AND it cometh to pass, at the revolution of the year, (at the time of the going out of the messengers,) that David sendeth Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel; and they destroy the Beni-Ammon, and lay siege against Rabbah; but David is dwelling in Jerusalem.

²And it cometh to pass, at evening-time, that David riseth from off his couch, and walketh up and down on the roof of the king's house, and seeth from the roof a woman bathing, and the woman is of very good appearance. ³And David sendeth and inquireth about the woman, and saith, 'Is not this Bath-Sheba daughter of Eliam, wife of Uriah the Hittite?'

⁴And David sendeth messengers, and taketh her, and she cometh unto him, and he lieth with her (and she is purifying herself from her uncleanness) and she turneth back unto her house. ⁵And the woman conceiveth, and sendeth, and declareth to David, and saith, 'I am conceiving.'

⁶And David sendeth unto Joab, 'Send unto me Uriah the Hittite; and Joab sendeth Uriah unto David. ⁷And Uriah cometh unto him, and David asketh of the prosperity of Joab, and of the prosperity of the people, and of the prosperity of the war.'

⁸And David saith to Uriah, 'Go down to thy house, and wash thy feet; and Uriah goeth out of the king's house, and there goeth out after him a gift from the king; ⁹but Uriah lieth down at the opening of the king's house, with all the servants of his lord, and hath not gone down to his house.'

¹⁰And they declare to David, saying, 'Uriah hath not gone down unto his house; and David saith unto Uriah, 'Hast thou not come from a journey? wherefore hast thou not gone down unto thy house?' ¹¹And Uriah saith unto David, 'The ark, and Israel, and Judah, are abiding in booths; and my lord Joab, and the servants of my lord, on the face of the field are encamping; and I—I go in unto my house to eat and to drink, and to lie with my wife—thy life, and the life of thy soul—I do not think this.'

¹²And David saith unto Uriah, 'Abide in this place to-day also, and to-morrow I send thee away; and Uriah abideth in Jerusalem, on that day and on the morrow. ¹³And David calleth for him, and he eateth before him, and drinketh, and he maketh him drunk; and he goeth out in the evening, to lie on his couch with the servants of his lord, but unto his house he hath not gone down.'

¹⁴And it cometh to pass in the morning, that David writeth a letter unto Joab, and sendeth it by the hand of Uriah. ¹⁵And he writeth in the letter saying, 'Place ye Uriah over-against the front of the severest battle, then have ye turned back from after him, and he hath been smitten, and hath died.'

¹⁷And the men of the city go out and fight with Joab; and there fall some of the people of the servants of David; and he dieth also, Uriah the Hittite.

¹⁸And Joab sendeth and declareth to David all the matters of the war; ¹⁹and commandeth the messenger, saying, 'At thy finishing speaking all the matters of the war unto the king, ²⁰then, it hath been, if the king's fury ascend, and he hath said to thee, Wherefore did ye draw nigh unto the city to fight? did ye not know that they would shoot from off the wall? ²¹Who smote Abimelech son of Jerubesheth? did not a woman cast on him a piece of a rider from the wall, and he dieth in Thebez? why drew ye nigh unto the wall? then thou hast said, 'Thy servant Uriah the Hittite also is dead.'

²²And the messenger goeth, and cometh in, and declareth to David all that with which Joab had sent him; ²³and the messenger saith unto David, 'Surely the men have been mighty against us, and they come out unto us into the field, and we are upon them unto the opening of the gate; ²⁴and

the shooters shoot at thy servants from off the wall, and some of the servants of the king are dead, and thy servant also Uriah the Hittite is dead. ²⁵ And David saith unto the messenger, 'Thus dost thou say unto Joab, Let not this thing be evil in thine eyes: for thus and thus the sword devoureth; strengthen thy battle against the city, and throw it down; and strengthen thou him.'

XII. ¹ AND THE LORD sendeth Nathan unto David; and he cometh unto him, and saith to him,

'Two men were in one city;

One rich, and one poor;

² The rich had flocks and herds very many;

³ And the poor one had nothing,

Save one little ewe-lamb,

Which he acquired, and keepeth alive,

And it groweth up with him,

And with his children together;

Of his morsel it eateth,

And from his cup it drinketh,

And in his bosom it lieth,

And it is to him as a daughter;

⁴ And there cometh in a traveller

To the rich man,

And he spareth to take

Of his own flock, and of his own herd,

To prepare for the traveller

Who is come to him,

And he taketh the lamb of the poor man,

And prepareth it for the man

Who is come unto him.'

⁷ And Nathan saith unto David, 'Thou art the man. Thus hath the LORD, the God of Israel, said, I anointed thee for king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul. ⁸ And I give to thee the house of thy lord, even the wives of thy lord into thy bosom, and I give to thee the house of Israel and of Judah; and if too little, then I add to thee such and such things.'

¹⁰ 'And now, the sword doth not turn aside from thy house for ever; because thou hast despised Me, and dost take the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be to thee for a wife. ¹¹ Thus hath the LORD said, Lo, I am raising up evil against thee, out of thine own house, and have taken thy wives before thine eyes, and given to thy neighbour, and he hath lain with thy wives before the eyes of this sun. ¹² For thou hast done it in secret, but I do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun.'

¹⁷ And the elders of his house rise against him, to raise him up from the earth, and he hath not been willing, nor hath he eaten bread with them. ¹⁸ And it cometh to pass, on the seventh day, that the lad dieth, and the servants of David fear to declare to him that the lad is dead, for they said, 'Lo, in the lad being alive we spake unto him, and he did not hearken to our voice; and how shall we say unto him, The lad is dead?—then hath he done evil.'

¹⁹ And David seeth that his servants are whispering, and David understandeth that the lad is dead, and David saith unto his servants, 'Is the lad dead?' and they say, 'Dead.' ²⁰ And David riseth from the earth, and washeth, and anointeth himself, and changeth his raiment, and cometh into the house of the LORD, and boweth himself; and he cometh unto his own house, and asketh; and they place bread for him, and he eateth.

²¹ And his servants say unto him, 'What is this thing thou hast done? because of the living lad thou hast fasted and dost weep, but when the lad is dead thou hast risen and dost eat bread.' ²² And he saith, 'While the lad is alive I have fasted, and weep, for I have said, Who knoweth?—the LORD may pity me, and the lad live: ²³ but now, he hath died, why is this—I fast? am I able to bring him back again? I am going unto him, but he doth not return unto me.'

²⁶ And Joab fighteth against Rabbah of the Beni-Ammon, and captureth the royal cities. ²⁷ And Joab sendeth messengers unto David, and saith, 'I have fought against Rabbah—I have also captured the city of waters: ²⁸ and now, gather the rest of the people, and encamp against the city and capture it, lest I capture the city, and my name hath been called upon it.'

he hath brought out, and setteth to the saw, and to the cutting instruments of iron, and to the axes of iron, and hath caused them to pass over into the brick-kiln: and thus he doth to all the cities of the Beniamon; and David turneth back with all the people to Jerusalem.

XIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass afterwards that Absalom son of David hath a fair sister, and her name is Tamar, and Amnon son of David loveth her.

²And Amnon hath distress, even to become sick, because of Tamar his sister, for she is a virgin; and it is hard in the eyes of Amnon to do anything to her.

³And Amnon hath a friend, and his name is Jonadab son of Shimeah, David's brother; and Jonadab is a very wise man, and saith to him, 'Wherefore art thou so lean, O king's son, morning by morning? wilt thou not declare to me?' And Amnon saith to him, 'Tamar—sister of Absalom my brother—I do love.' ⁴And Jonadab saith to him, 'Lie down on thy couch, and feign thyself sick; when thy father hath come to see thee, then thou hast said unto him, Let, I pray thee, Tamar my sister come and give me bread to eat; when she hath made the food before mine eyes so that I see it, then have I eaten from her hand.'

⁵And Amnon lieth down, and feigneth himself sick, and the king cometh to see him; and Amnon saith unto the king, 'Let, I pray thee, Tamar my sister come, and make before mine eyes two cakes, that I may eat from her hand.' ⁷And David sendeth unto Tamar, at the house, saying, 'Go, I pray thee, to the house of Amnon, and make food for him.'

⁸And Tamar goeth to the house of Amnon her brother, and he is lying down, and she taketh the dough, and kneadeth, and maketh cakes before his eyes, and cooketh the cakes, ⁹and taketh the frying-pan, and poureth them out before him, but he refuseth to eat; and Amnon saith, 'Take ye out every one from me;' and they go out every one from him.

¹⁰And Amnon saith unto Tamar, 'Bring the food into the inner chamber, and let me eat from thy hand;' and Tamar taketh the cakes which she had made, and bringeth them to Amnon her brother, into the inner chamber. ¹¹And she bringeth nigh to him to eat, and he layeth hold on her, and saith to her, 'Come, lie with me, my sister.'

¹²And she saith to him, 'Nay, my brother, do not humble me; for it is not so done in Israel: do not this foolish thing.' ¹³And I—whither do I cause my reproach to go? and thou—thou shalt be as one of the fools in Israel; but now, speak, I pray thee, unto the king: for he will not withhold me from thee.' ¹⁴And he hath not been willing to hearken to her voice, and is stronger than she, and humbleth her, and lieth with her.

¹⁵And Amnon hateth her—a very great hatred—that greater is the hatred with which he hath hated her than the love with which he loved her, and Amnon saith to her, 'Rise, go.' ¹⁶And she saith to him,

'Because of the circumstances this evil is greater than the other that thou hast done to me—to send me away; but he hath not been willing to hearken to her, ¹⁷and he calleth his young man his servant, and saith, 'Send away, I pray you, this one from me without, and bolt the door after her'; ¹⁸(and on her is a long coat, for such upper robes do the daughters of the king who are virgins put on); and his servant bringeth her out without, and hath bolted the door after her.

²³And it cometh to pass, after two years of days, that Absalom hath shearers in Baal-Hazor, which is with Ephraim, and Absalom calleth for all the sons of the king.

²⁴And Absalom cometh unto the king, and saith, 'Lo, I pray thee, thy servant hath shearers, let the king go, I pray thee, and his servants, with thy servant.' ²⁵And the king saith to Absalom, 'Nay, my son, let us not all go, I pray thee, that we be not too heavy on thee;' yet he presseth on him, but he hath not been willing to go; and he blesseth him. ²⁶And Absalom saith, 'If not—let, I pray thee, Amnon my brother go with us;' and the king saith to him, 'Why should he go with thee?' ²⁷And Absalom urgeth on him, and he sendeth with him Amnon and all the sons of the king.

²⁸And Absalom commandeth his young men, saying, 'See, I pray you, when the heart of Amnon is glad with wine; when I have said unto you, Smite Amnon, then have ye put him to death; fear not; have not I commanded you? be strong, yea, become sons of valour.' ²⁹And the young men of Absalom do to Amnon as Absalom commanded, and all the sons of the king rise and ride each on his mule, and flee.

³²And Jonadab son of Shimeah, David's brother, answereth and saith, 'Let not my lord say, 'The whole of the young men, the sons of the king, they have put to death, for Amnon alone is dead; for by the command of Absalom it hath been so appointed from the day of his humbling Tamar his sister; ³³and now, let not my lord the king lay unto his heart the thing, saying, All the sons of the king are dead; for Amnon alone is dead.'

³⁵ And Jonadab saith unto the king, 'Lo, the sons of the king have come; as the word of thy servant so it hath been.'

³⁷ And Absalom hath fled, and goeth unto Talmai son of Ammihud king of Geshur; and David mourneth for his son continually.

³⁸ And Absalom hath fled, and he goeth to Geshur, and he is there three years. ³⁹ And the soul of king David determineth to go out unto Absalom, for he hath been comforted for Amnon, for he is dead.

XIV. ¹ AND Joab son of Zeruiah knoweth that the heart of the king is on Absalom.

² And Joab sendeth to Tekoah, and taketh from thence a wise woman, and saith unto her, 'Feign thyself a mourner, I pray thee, and put on, I pray thee, garments of mourning, and anoint not thyself with oil, then hast thou been as a woman mourning these many days for the dead, and thou hast come unto the king, and spoken unto him, according to this word;' and Joab putteth the words into her mouth.

⁴ And the woman of Tekoah speaketh unto the king, and falleth on her face to the earth, and doth obeisance, and saith, 'Save, O king.' ⁵ And the king saith to her, 'What—to thee?' and she saith, 'Truly a widow woman am I, seeing my husband dieth, and thy maid-servant hath two sons; they strive both of them in the field, and there is no deliverer between them, and the one smiteth the other, and putteth him to death; and lo, the whole family hath risen against thy maid-servant, and they say, Give up him who smiteth his brother, and let us put him to death for the life of his brother whom he hath slain, and let us destroy also the heir; then have they quenched the coal which is left—so as not to set to my husband a name or remnant on the face of the ground.'

⁸ And the king saith unto the woman, 'Go to thine house, and I will give charge concerning thee.' ⁹ And the woman of Tekoah saith unto the king, 'On me, my lord, O king, is the iniquity, and on the house of my father; and the king and his throne are innocent.' ¹⁰ And the king saith, 'He who speaketh ought unto thee, when thou hast brought him unto me, then he shall not add any more to come against thee.'

¹¹ And she saith, 'Let, I pray thee, the king remember by the LORD thy God, that the redeemer of blood add not to destroy, that they destroy not my son;' and he saith, 'The LORD liveth; there doth not fall one hair of thy son to the earth.' ¹² And the woman saith, 'Let, I pray thee, thy maid-servant speak unto my lord the king a word;' and he saith, 'Speak.'

thou thought thus concerning the people of God? yea, the king is speaking this thing as a guilty one, in that the king doth not bring back his outcast; ¹⁴ for we do surely die, and are as water which runneth down to the earth, which is not gathered, and God doth not accept a person, yet hath devised devices in that the outcast is not outcast by Him.

¹⁵ And now that I have come to speak unto the king my lord this word, it is because the people make me afraid, and thy maid-servant saith, Let me speak, I pray thee, unto the king; it may be the king doth execute the word of his handmaid, ¹⁶ for the king will hearken to deliver his handmaid out of the paw of the man seeking to destroy me and my son together out of the inheritance of God; ¹⁷ and thy maid-servant saith, Let, I pray thee, the word of my lord the king be for ease: for as a messenger of God so is my lord the king, to understand good and evil; and the LORD thy God is with thee.'

¹⁸ And the king answereth and saith unto the woman, 'Do not, I pray thee, hide from me the thing that I ask thee;' and the woman saith, 'Let, I pray thee, my lord the king speak.' ¹⁹ And the king saith, 'Is the hand of Joab with thee in all this?' and the woman answereth and saith, 'Thy soul liveth, my lord, O king, none can turn to the right or to the left from all that my lord the king hath spoke; for thy servant Joab he hath commanded me, and hath put in the mouth of thy maid-servant all these words; ²⁰ in order to bring round the appearance of the thing hath thy servant Joab done this thing; and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of a messenger of God, to know all that is in the land.'

²⁵ And like Absalom there was no man so fair in all Israel, to praise greatly: from the sole of his foot even unto his crown there was no blemish in him. ²⁶ And in his polling his head (and it hath been at the end of every year that he polleth it, for it is heavy on him, and he hath polled it), he hath even weighed the hair of his head—two hundred shekels by the king's weight. ²⁷ And there are born to Absalom three sons and one daughter, whose name is Tamar; she was a woman of a fair appearance.

he hath not been willing to come unto him; and he sendeth again a second time, but he hath not been willing to come. ³⁰ And he saith unto his servants, 'See, the portion of Joab is beside mine, and he hath barley there; go, burn it with fire; ³¹ and the servants of Absalom burn it with fire. ³² And Joab riseth and cometh unto Absalom in the house, and saith to him, 'Why have thy servants burned the portion I have with fire?'

³² And Absalom saith unto Joab, 'Lo, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither, and let me send thee unto the king to say, Why have I come in from Geshur?—good for me while I am there—and now, let me see the king's face, and if there is iniquity in me, then hath he put me to death.' ³³ And Joab cometh unto the king, and declareth it to him, and he calleth for Absalom, and he cometh unto the king, and boweth himself to him on his face to the earth, before the king; and the king giveth a kiss to Absalom.

XV. ¹ AND it cometh to pass afterwards, that Absalom prepareth for himself a chariot, and horses, and fifty men running before him. ² And Absalom hath risen early, and stood by the side of the way of the gate, and it cometh to pass, that every man who hath a pleading to come unto the king for judgment, Absalom calleth unto him, and saith, 'Of which city art thou?' and he saith, 'Of one of the tribes of Israel is thy servant.' ³ And Absalom saith unto him, 'See, thy matters are good and straightforward; but there is none hearkening to thee from the king.' ⁴ And Absalom saith, 'Who will make me a judge in the land, that unto me may come every man who hath a plea or judgment?—then have I justified him.'

⁵ And it hath come to pass, in the drawing near of any man to bow himself to him, that he hath put forth his hand and laid hold on him, and given a kiss to him. ⁶ And Absalom doth according to this thing to all Israel who come in for the judgment unto the king; and Absalom stealeth the heart of the men of Israel.

⁷ And it cometh to pass, at the end of forty years, that Absalom saith unto the king, 'Let me go, I pray thee, and complete my vow, which I vowed to the LORD, in Hebron: ⁸ for a vow hath thy servant vowed in my dwelling in Geshur, in Aram, saying, If the LORD certainly bring me back to Jerusalem, then have I served the LORD.' ⁹ And the king saith to him, 'Go in peace;' and he riseth and goeth to Hebron. ¹⁰ And Absalom sendeth spies through all the tribes of Israel, saying, 'At your hearing the voice of the trumpet, then have ye said, Absalom hath reigned in Hebron.'

¹³ And he who declareth tidings cometh unto David, saying, 'The heart of the men of Israel hath been after Absalom.' ¹⁴ And David saith to all his servants who are with him in Jerusalem, 'Rise, and let us flee, for we have no escape from the presence of Absalom; haste to go, lest he hasten and have overtaken us, and forced evil on us, and smitten the city by the edge of the sword.' ¹⁵ And the servants of the kingsay unto the king, 'According to all that my lord the king chooseth—lo, thy servants do.'

¹⁶ And the king goeth out, and all his household at his feet, and the king leaveth ten women, concubines, to keep the house.

¹⁹ And the king saith to Ittai the Gittite, 'Why dost thou go—thou also—with us? turn back—and abide with the king, for thou art a stranger, and also an exile thou—to thy place. ²⁰ Yesterday was thy coming in, and to-day I move thee to go with us! and I am going on that which I am going!—turn back, and take back thy brethren, with thee be kindness and truth.' ²¹ And Ittai answereth the king and saith, 'The LORD liveth, and my lord the king liveth, surely in the place where my lord the king is,—if for death, if for life, there is thy servant.'

²⁵ And the king saith to Zadok, 'Take back the ark of God into the city; if I find grace in the eyes of the LORD, then hath He brought me back, and shewn me it and His habitation.' ²⁶ And if thus He say, I have not delighted in thee; here am I, let Him do to me as is good in His eyes.'

²⁷ And the king saith unto Zadok the priest, 'Art thou a seer? turn back to the city in peace, and Ahimaaz thy son, and Jonathan son of Abiathar, your two sons with you. ²⁸ See ye, I am tarrying in the plains of the wilderness till the coming of a word from you to declare to me.' ²⁹ And Zadok taketh back—Abiathar also—the ark of God to Jerusalem; and they abide there.

³⁰ And David goeth up by the ascent of the olives, going up and weeping, and he hath the head covered, and he is going barefoot, and all the people who are with him have covered each his head; and they have gone up, going up and weeping. ³¹ And David hath declared, saying, 'Ahiathophel is among the conspirators with Absalom;' and David saith, 'Make foolish, I pray thee, the counsel of Ahiathophel, O LORD.'

² And it cometh to pass, David hath come unto the top, where he boweth himself to the LORD, and lo, to meet him is Hushai the Archite, his coat rent, and earth on his head; ³ and David saith to him, 'If thou hast passed on with me then thou hast been on me for a burden;' ⁴ but if to the city thou turn back, and hast said to Absalom, Thy servant, I will be, O king; the servant of thy father I am also hitherto, but now, I am also thy servant; then thou hast made void for me the counsel of Ahiathophel; ⁵ and with thee are there not Zadok and Abiathar the priests? and it hath been, the whole of the matter which thou hearest from the house of the king thou dost declare to Zadok and to Abiathar the priests. ⁶ Lo, their two sons are with them there, Ahimaaz to Zadok, and Jonathan to Abiathar, and ye have sent by thy hand unto me anything which ye hear.' ⁷ And Hushai David's friend cometh into the city; and Absalom cometh into Jerusalem.

XVI. ¹ AND David hath passed on a little from the top, and lo, Ziba servant of Mephibosheth—to meet him, and a couple of asses saddled, and upon them two hundred loaves, and a hundred bunches of dried raisins, and a hundred of summer-fruit, and a bottle of wine.

² And the king saith unto Ziba, 'What—these to thee?' and Ziba saith, 'The asses are for the household of the king to ride on; and the bread and the summer-fruit for the young men to eat; and the wine for the wearied to drink in the wilderness.'

³ And the king saith, 'And where is the son of thy lord?' and Ziba saith unto the king, 'Lo, he is abiding in Jerusalem, for he said, To-day doth the house of Israel give back to me the kingdom of my father.'

⁹ And Abishai son of Zeruiah saith unto the king, 'Why doth this dead dog revile my lord the king? let me pass over, I pray thee, and turn aside his head.' ¹⁰ And the king saith, 'What—to me and to you, O sons of Zeruiah? for, let him revile; even because the LORD hath said to him, Revile David; and who saith, 'Why hast thou done so?'

¹¹ And David saith unto Abishai, and unto all his servants, 'Lo, my son who hath come out of my bowels is seeking my life; and also surely now this Benjamite: leave him alone, and let him revile, for the LORD hath said so to him. ¹² It may be the LORD doth look on mine affliction, then hath the LORD turned back good for his reviling this day.'

¹⁵ And Absalom and all the people, the men of Israel, have come into Jerusalem, and Ahiathophel with him. ¹⁶ And it cometh to pass, when Hushai the Archite, David's friend, hath come unto Absalom, that Hushai saith unto Absalom, 'Let the king live! let the king live!' ¹⁷ And Absalom saith unto Hushai, 'This thy kindness with thy friend? why hast thou not gone with thy friend?' ¹⁸ And Hushai saith unto Absalom, 'Nay, but whom the LORD hath chosen, and this people, even all the men of Israel, his I am, and with him I abide. ¹⁹ And secondly, for whom should I labour? is it not before his son? as I have served before thy father so am I before thee.'

²² And they spread out for Absalom the tent on the roof, and Absalom goeth in unto the concubines of his father before the eyes of all Israel. ²³ And the counsel of Ahiathophel which he counselled in those days is as when one inquireth at the word of God; so is all the counsel of Ahiathophel both to David and to Absalom.

XVII. ¹ AND Ahiathophel said unto Absalom, 'Let me choose out, I pray thee, twelve thousand men, and let me arise and pursue after David to-night; ² and I come upon him, and he is weary and feeble-handed, and have caused him to tremble, and all the people have fled who are with him, and I have smitten the king by himself; ³ and I bring back all the people unto thee; as the turning back of the whole is the man thou art seeking; all the people are in peace.'

⁴ And the thing is right in the eyes of Absalom, and in the eyes of all the elders of Israel. ⁵ And Absalom saith, 'Call, I pray thee, also for Hushai the Archite, and let us hear what is in his mouth—even he?'

⁷ And Hushai saith unto Absalom, 'Not good is the counsel which Ahithophel hath counselled at this time.' ⁸ Hushai also saith, 'Thou hast known thy father and his men, that they are heroes, and bitter of soul, as a bereaved bear in the field, and thy father is a man of war, and doth not lodge with the people.' ⁹ Lo, now, he is hidden in one of the pits, or in one of the places, and it hath been, at the falling among them at the commencement, that the hearer hath heard, and said, There hath been a slaughter among the people who are after Absalom. ¹⁰ And he also who is valiant, whose heart is as the heart of the lion, doth utterly melt: for all Israel doth know that thy father is a hero, and they are valiant who are with him.

¹¹ So that I have counselled: Let all Israel be diligently gathered unto thee, from Dan even unto Beer-Sheba, as the sand that is by the sea for multitude, and thou thyself go in the midst; ¹² and we have come in unto him in one of the places where he is found, and we have lighted upon him as the dew falleth on the ground, and there hath not been left of him and of all the men who are with him even one. ¹³ And if unto a city he is gathered, then have they caused all Israel to bear unto that city ropes, and we have drawn it unto the brook till there hath not been found there even a stone.'

¹⁵ And Hushai saith unto Zadok and unto Abiathar the priests, 'Thus and thus hath Ahithophel counselled Absalom and the elders of Israel, and thus and thus have I counselled. ¹⁶ And now, send hastily, and declare to David, saying, Lodge not to-night in the plains of the wilderness, and also certainly pass over, lest he be swallowed up by the king and by all the people with him.'

¹⁷ And Jonathan and Ahimaaz are standing at En-Rogel, and the maid-servant hath gone and declared to them, and they go and have declared it to king David; for they are unable to go into the city. ¹⁸ And a youth seeth them, and declareth it to Absalom: but they go on both of them hastily, and come unto the house of a man in Bahurim, and he hath a well in his court, and they go down there. ¹⁹ And the woman taketh and spreadeth the covering over the face of the well, and spreadeth on it the ground corn, and the thing hath not been known.

²⁰ And the servants of Absalom come in to the woman to the house, and say, 'Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan?' and the woman saith to them, 'They have passed over the brook of water;' and they seek and have not found, and turn back to Jerusalem.

over the Jordan till the light of the morning, till one hath not been lacking who hath not passed over the Jordan.

²⁷ And it cometh to pass at the coming of David to Mahanaim, that Shobi son of Nahash, from Itabab of the Beni-Ammon, and Machir son of Ammiel from Lo-Debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite from Rogelim, ²⁸ have brought nigh couches, and basins, and earthen vessels, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and roasted corn, and beans, and lentiles, and roasted pulse, ²⁹ and honey, and butter, and sheep, and cheese of kine, for David and the people who are with him to eat; for they said, 'The people is hungry, and weary, and thirsty in the wilderness.'

XVIII. ¹ AND David inspecteth the people who are with him, and setteth over them heads of thousands and heads of hundreds: ² and David sendeth the third of the people by the hand of Joab, and the third by the hand of Abishai son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, and the third by the hand of Ittai the Gittite; and the king saith unto the people, 'I certainly go out—I also—with you.' ³ But the people say, 'Thou dost not go out; for if we utterly flee, they will not set their heart on us; or if half of us die, they will not set their heart on us, for now like us are ten thousand; now also, better that thou be to us from the city for an helper.'

⁴ And the king saith to them, 'That which is good in your eyes I do;' and the king standeth by the side of the gate, and all the people have gone out by hundreds and by thousands: ⁵ and the king commandeth Joab, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, 'Gently—for me, for the youth, for Absalom;' and all the people heard in the king commanding all the heads concerning Absalom.

⁶ And the people goeth out into the field to meet Israel, and the battle is in the forest of Ephraim; ⁷ and the people of Israel are smitten there before the servants of David, and the smiting there is great on that day—twenty thousand. ⁸ And the battle is there scattered over the face of all the land, and the forest multiplieth to devour among the people more than those whom the sword hath devoured.

⁹ And Absalom meeteth before the servants of David, and Absalom is riding on the mule, and the mule cometh in under the entangled bough of the great oak, and his head taketh hold on the oak, and he is placed between the heavens and the earth, and the mule that is under him passed on.

¹⁰ And one man seeth, and declareth it to Joab, and saith, 'Lo, I saw Absalom hanged on an oak.' ¹¹ And Joab saith to the man who declareth it to him, 'And lo, thou hast seen, and wherefore didst thou not smite him there to the earth—and on me to give to thee ten silverlings and one girl?' ¹²

And the man saith unto Joab, 'Yea, though I weigh on my hand a thousand silverlings, I do not put forth my hand unto the son of the king; for in our ears, the king commanded thee, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, Observe ye who is against the youth—against Absalom; ¹³ or I had wrought vainly against mine own soul, and no matter is hid from the king, and thou—thou wouldst station thyself over-against.'

¹⁶ And Joab bloweth with the trumpet, and the people turneth back from pursuing after Israel, for Joab hath kept back the people. ¹⁷ And they take Absalom and cast him in the forest into the great pit, and set up over him a very great heap of stones; and all Israel have fled—each to his tent.

¹⁸ And Absalom hath taken, and setteth up during his life, the standing-pillar which is in the king's valley, for he said, 'I have no son to cause my name to be remembered;' and he calleth the standing-pillar by his own name, and it is called 'The monument of Absalom' unto this day.

¹⁹ And Ahimaaz son of Zadok said, 'Let me run, I pray thee, and let me bear the king tidings, that the LORD hath delivered him out of the hand of his enemies.' ²⁰ And Joab saith to him, 'Thou dost not bear tidings this day, yet thou hast born tidings on another day, but this day thou dost bear no tidings, because the king's son is dead.'

²¹ And Joab saith to Cushi, 'Go, declare to the king that which thou hast seen;' and Cushi boweth himself to Joab, and runneth.

²² And Ahimaaz son of Zadok addeth again, and saith unto Joab, 'Yet, whatever it be, let me run, I pray thee, I also, after the Cushite.' And Joab saith, 'Why is this—thou runnest, my son, and for thee there is no tidings found?' ²³ Yet, whatever it be, said he, let me run.' And he saith to him, 'Run.' And Ahimaaz runneth the way of the circuit, and passeth by the Cushite.

²⁶ And the watchman seeth another man running, and the watchman calleth unto the gate-keeper, and saith, 'Lo, a man running by himself;' and the king saith, 'He also is bearing tidings.' ²⁷ And the watchman saith, 'I see the running of the first as the running of Ahimaaz son of Zadok.' And the king saith, 'He is a good man, and with good tidings he cometh.'

³¹ And lo, the Cushite hath come, and the Cushite saith, 'Let the tidings be proclaimed, my lord, O king; for the LORD hath delivered thee to-day out of the hand of all who rise up against thee.' ³² And the king saith unto the Cushite, 'Is there peace to the youth—to Absalom?' And the Cushite saith, 'Let them be—as the youth—the enemies of my lord the king, and all who have risen up against thee for evil.' ³³ And the king trembleth, and goeth up on the upper chamber of the gate, and weepeth, and thus he said in his going, 'My son Absalom! my son; my son Absalom; oh that I had died for thee, Absalom, my son, my son.'

XIX. ¹ AND it is declared to Joab, 'Lo, the king is weeping and mourning for Absalom.' ² And the deliverance on that day becometh mourning to all the people, for the people hath heard on that day, saying, 'The king hath been grieved for his son.' ³ And the people stealth away secretly, on that day, to go into the city, as the people steal away secretly, who are ashamed, in their fleeing in the battle; ⁴ seeing the king hath covered his face, yea, the king crieth—a loud voice,—'My son, Absalom, Absalom, my son, my son.'

⁹And all the people are contending through all the tribes of Israel, saying, 'The king delivered us out of the hand of our enemies, yea, he himself delivered us out of the hand of the Philistines, and now he hath fled out of the land because of Absalom; ¹⁰and Absalom whom we anointed over us is dead in the battle: and now, why are ye silent regarding bringing back the king?'

¹¹And king David hath sent unto Zadok and unto Abiathar the priests, saying, 'Speak ye unto the elders of Judah, saying, 'Why are ye the last to bring back the king unto his house? seeing the word of all Israel had come unto the king, unto his house; ¹²my brethren are ye, my bone and my flesh are ye; and why are ye the last to bring back the king? ¹³And to Amasa say ye, Art not thou my bone and my flesh? So let God do to me, and so let Him add, if thou art not head of the host before me continually instead of Joab.' ¹⁴And he inclineth the heart of all the men of Judah as the heart of one man, and they send unto the king, 'Turn back, thou and all thy servants.'

¹⁸And the ferry-bont passed over to let the household of the king pass over, and to do that which is good in his eyes; and Shimei son of Gera hath fallen before the king, in his passing over through Jordan: ¹⁹and saith unto the king, 'Let not my lord impute iniquity to me; neither do thou remember that which thy servant did perversely in the day that my lord the king went out from Jerusalem,—for the king's setting his heart to it; ²⁰for thy servant hath known that I have sinned; but lo, I have come to-day, first of all the house of Joseph, to go down to meet my lord the king.'

²¹And Abishai son of Zeruiah answereth and saith, 'For this is not Shimei put to death—because he reviled the anointed of the Lord?' ²²And David saith, 'What—to me and to you, O sons of Zeruiah, that ye are to me to-day for an adversary? to-day is any man put to death in Israel? for have I not known to-day I am king over Israel?'

²³And the king saith unto Shimei, 'Thou shalt not die; and the king sweareth to him.'

²⁴And Mephibosheth son of Saul hath come down to meet the king [and he prepared not his feet, nor did he prepare his upper lip, yea, his garments he washed not, even from the day of the king's going away, till the day that he came in peace], ²⁵and it cometh to pass, when he hath come to Jerusalem to meet the king, that the king saith to him, 'Why didst thou not go with me, Mephibosheth?'

²⁶And he saith, 'My lord, O king, my servant deceived me; for thy servant said, Let me saddle for myself the ass, and let me ride on it, and let me go with the king, for thy servant is lame. ²⁷And he uttereth slander against thy servant to my lord the king, and my lord the king is as a messenger of God; but do thou that which is good in thine eyes; ²⁸for all the house of my father have been nothing but dead men before my lord the king, but thou dost set thy servant among those that eat at thine own table; and what right have I any more—even to cry any more unto the king?'

²⁹And the king saith to him, 'Why dost thou speak any more of thy matters? I have said, Thou and Ziba, share ye the field.'

³⁰And Mephibosheth saith unto the king, 'Yea, the whole let him take, after my lord the king hath come in peace to his house.'

³¹And Barzillai the Gileadite hath gone down from Rogelim, and passeth over the Jordan with the king, to send him away over the Jordan. ³²And Barzillai is very aged, eighty years old, and he hath sustained the king in his abiding at Mahanaim, for he is a very great man. ³³And the king saith to Barzillai, 'Pass over with me, then have I sustained thee with me in Jerusalem.'

³⁴And Barzillai saith unto the king, 'How many are the days of the years of my life, that I should go up with the king to Jerusalem? ³⁵Eighty years old am I to-day; do I know between good and evil? doth thy servant taste that which I eat, or that which I drink? do I hearken any more to the voice of singers and songstresses? and why should thy servant be any more for a burden unto my lord the king? ³⁶As a little thing, thy servant doth pass over the Jordan with the king, and why doth the king recompense me with this recompense? ³⁷Let, I pray thee, thy servant turn back again, and let me die in mine own city, near the burying-place of my father and of my mother;—but lo, thy servant Chimham, let him pass over with my lord the king, and do thou to him that which is good in thine eyes.'

³⁸And the king saith, 'With me Chimham doth go over, and I do to him that which is good in thine eyes, yea, all that thou dost fix on me I do to thee.' ³⁹And all the people pass over the Jordan; and the king hath passed over; and the king giveth a kiss to Barzillai, and blesseth him; and he turneth back unto his own place.

⁴⁰And the king passeth over to Gilgal, and Chimham hath passed over with him, and all the people of Judah, and they bring over the king, and also the half of the people of Israel. ⁴¹And, lo, all the men of Israel are coming unto the king, and they say unto the king, 'Wherefore have they stolen thee—our brethren, the men of Judah?' (seeing they bring the king and his household over the Jordan, and all the men of David with him). ⁴²And all the men of Judah answer against the men of Israel, 'Because the king is near unto us; but why is this—ye are displeased about this matter?'

have we eaten at all of the king's substance? a gift hath he lifted up to us?"

⁴²And the men of Israel answer the men of Judah, and say, 'We have ten parts in the king, and also in David we have more than you; and wherefore have ye lightly esteemed us, that our word hath not been first to bring back our king?' And the word of the men of Judah is sharper than the word of the men of Israel.

XX. ¹AND a worthless man hath been called there, whose name is Sheba son of Bichri, a Benjamite, and he bloweth with the trumpet, and saith, 'We have no portion in David, yea, we have no inheritance in the son of Jesse; each to his tents, O Israel.' ²And every man of Israel goeth up from after David, after Sheba son of Bichri; but the men of Judah have cleaved to their king, from the Jordan even unto Jerusalem.

³And David cometh unto his house at Jerusalem, and the king taketh the ten women, concubines, whom he had left to keep the house, and putteth them in a house of ward, and sustaineth them, but unto them hath not gone in, and they are shut up unto the day of their death, living in widowhood.

⁴And the king saith unto Amasa, 'Call for me the men of Judah in three days, and thou, stand here.' ⁵And Amasa goeth to call Judah, but tarrieth beyond the appointed time which he had appointed him. ⁶And David saith unto Abishai, 'Now doth Sheba son of Bichri do more evil to us than Abishai; thou, take the servants of thy lord, and pursue after him, lest he have found for himself fenced cities, and deliver himself from our eyes.'

⁷And the men of Joab go out after him, also the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men, and they go out from Jerusalem to pursue after Sheba son of Bichri. ⁸They are near the great stone which is in Gibeon, and Amasa is going before them, and Joab is girded; his long robe he hath put on him, and upon it a girdle, a sword is fastened upon his loins in its sheath; and he hath gone out, and it falleth. ⁹And Joab saith to Amasa, 'Art thou in peace, my brother?' And the right hand of Joab layeth hold of the beard of Amasa to give a kiss to him; ¹⁰and Amasa hath not been watchful of the sword which is in the hand of Joab, and he smiteth him with it unto the fifth rib, and sheddeth out his bowels to the earth, and he hath not repeated it to him, and he dieth; then Joab and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba son of Bichri. ¹¹But a man hath stood by him, of Joab's young men, and saith, 'He who hath delight in Joab, and he who is for David—after Joab!' ¹²And Amasa is rolling himself in blood, in the midst of the highway; and the man seeth that all the people have stood still, and he bringeth round Amasa out of the highway into the field, and casteth over him a garment when he saw that every one who cometh by him—hath stood still; ¹³when he has been removed out of the highway, every man hath passed on after Joab, to pursue after Sheba son of Bichri; ¹⁴and he passeth over through all the tribes of Israel to Abel, and to Beth-Maachah, and to all the Berites, and they are congregated, and go in also after him; ¹⁵and they go in and lay siege against him, in Abel of Beth-Maachah, and they cast up a mound against the city, and it standeth in the bulwark, and all the people who are with Joab are destroying to cause the wall to fall.

¹⁶And a wise woman crieth out of the city, 'Hear, hear: say, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, and let me speak unto thee.' ¹⁷And he cometh near unto her, and the woman saith, 'Art thou Joab?' and he saith, 'I am.' And she saith to him, 'Hear the words of thy handmaid: and he saith, 'I am hearkening.' ¹⁸And she speaketh, saying, 'They spake well in former times, saying, Let them diligently ask at Abel, and so they finished. ¹⁹I am of the peaceable and faithful of Israel; thou art seeking to destroy a city, and a mother in Israel, why dost thou swallow up the inheritance of the LORD?' ²⁰And Joab answereth and saith, 'Far be it, far be it from me; I do not swallow up nor destroy. ²¹The matter is not so; but a man of the hill-country of Ephraim, Sheba son of Bichri is his name, hath lifted up his hand against the king, against David; give ye up him by himself, and I go away from the city.' And the woman saith unto Joab, 'Lo, his head is cast unto thee over the wall.'

²²And the woman cometh unto all the people in her wisdom, and they cut off the head of Sheba son of Bichri, and cast it unto Joab, and he bloweth with the trumpet, and they are scattered from the city, each to his tent; and Joab turned back to Jerusalem unto the king.

²³And Joab is over all the host of Israel; and Benaiah son of Jehoiada is over the Cherethites and over the Pelethites; ²⁴and Adoram is over the tribute; and Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud is remembrancer; ²⁵and Sheva is scribe; and Zadok and Abiathar are the priests; ²⁶and Ira also, the Jairite, was David's minister.

XXI. ¹AND there is a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David seeketh the face of the LORD; and the LORD saith, 'For Saul and for the bloody house, because he put the Gibeonites to death.' ²And the king calleth for the Gibeonites, and saith unto them, (as to the Gibeonites, they are not of the Children of Israel, but of the remnant of the Amorites, and the Children of Israel had sworn to them, but Saul seeketh to smite them in his zeal for the Children of Israel and Judah), ³yea, David saith unto the Gibeonites, 'What shall I do for you? and wherewith do I make atonement? then bless ye the inheritance of the LORD.' ⁴And the Gibeonites say to him, 'We have no silver or gold by Saul and by his house, and we have no man to put to death in Israel;' and he saith, 'What ye say I do to you.'

⁵And they say unto the king, 'The man who consumed us, and who devised against us; (we have been destroyed from station-ing ourselves in all the border of Israel)

 6 Let seven men of his sons be given to us, then have we hanged them before the LORD in the hill of Saul the chosen of the LORD.

And the king saith, 'I will give;' but the king hath pity on Mephibosheth son of Jonathan, son of Saul, because of the oath of the LORD which is between them, between David and Jonathan son of Saul; and the king taketh the two sons of Rizpah daughter of Aiah, whom she bore to Saul, Armoni and Mephibosheth, and the five sons of Michal daughter of Saul whom she bare to Adriel son of Barzillai the Gileadite, and giveth them into the hand of the Gibeonites, and they hang them in the hill before the LORD; and the seven fall together, and they have been put to death in the days of harvest, in the first days, the commencement of barley-harvest.

10 And Rizpah daughter of Aiah taketh sackcloth, and stretcheth it out for herself on the rock, from the commencement of harvest till water hath been poured out upon them from the heavens, and suffered not the fowl of the heavens to rest upon them by day, or the beast of the field by night.

11 And it is declared to David that which Rizpah daughter of Aiah, concubine of Saul, hath done. 12 And David goeth and taketh the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the possessors of Jabesh-Gilead, who had stolen them from the broad place of Beth-Shan, where the Philistines had hanged them, in the day of the Philistines smiting Saul in Gilboa; 13 and he bringeth up from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, and they gather the bones of those hanged, 14 and they bury the bones of Saul and of Jonathan his son in the land of Benjamin, in Zelah, in the burying-place of Kish his father; and they do all that the king hath commanded; and God is entreated for the land afterwards.

15 And the Philistines again have war with Israel, and David goeth down, and his servants with him, and they fight with the Philistines, and David is weary. 16 And Ishbi Benob, who is among the children of the giant, the weight of whose spear is three hundred shekels weight of brass, who is girded with a new sword, speaketh even of smiting David. 17 And Abishai son of Zeruiah giveth him help, and smiteth the Philistine, and putteth him to death. Then the men of David swear to him, saying, 'Thou shalt not go out again with us to battle, nor quench the light of Israel.'

18 And it cometh to pass afterwards, that the battle is again in Gob with the Philistines; then Sibbechai the Hushathite smote Saph, who is among the children of the giant.

19 And the battle is again in Gob with the Philistines, and Elhanan son of Jaare-Oregim, a Beth-lehemite, smiteth the brother of Goliath the Gittite, the word of whose spear is like the beam of weavers.

20 And the battle is again in Gath, and there is a man of stature, and the fingers of his hands are six, and the toes of his feet are six, twenty and four in number, and he also hath been born to the giant. 21 And he reproacheth Israel; and Jonathan son of Shimea, brother of David, smiteth him. 22 These four have been born to the giant in Gath, and they fall by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

XXII. 1 AND David speaketh to the LORD the words of this song in the day the LORD delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies and out of the hand of Saul; 2 he saith:

'The LORD is my rock,

of David:—

And the sweetness of the songs of Israel;

In the cessation.
⁸ These are the names of the mighty ones whom David hath: sitting in the seat is the Tachmonite head of the captains,—he is Adino, who hardened himself against eight hundred—wounded at one time.
⁹ And after him is Eleazar son of Dodo, son of Ahohi, of the three mighty men with David, in their exposing themselves among the Philistines; they have been gathered there to the battle, and the men of Israel go up. ¹⁰ He hath arisen, and smiteth among the Philistines till his hand hath been weary, and his hand cleaveth unto the sword, and the Lord worketh a great salvation on that day, and the people turn back after him only to strip off.
¹¹ And after him is Shammah son of Agee the Iifarite; and the Philistines are gathered into a company, and there is a portion of the field full of lentiles, and the people hath fled from the presence of the Philistines. ¹² And he stationeth himself in the midst of the portion, and delivereth it, and smiteth the Philistines, and the Lord work-eth a great salvation.
¹³ And three of the thirty heads go down and come unto the harvest, unto David, unto the cave of Adullam; and the company of the Philistines encamp in the valley of Rophaim: ¹⁴ and David is then in a fortress, and the station of the Philistines is then in Beth-lehem. ¹⁵ And David longeth and saith, 'Who will give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, which is by the gate?' ¹⁶ And the three mighty ones cleave through the camp of the Philistines, and draw water out of the well of Beth-lehem, which is by the gate, and take it up, and bring it in unto David; but he was not willing to drink it, and poureth it out to the LORD, ¹⁷and saith, 'Far be it from me, O LORD, my doing this: is it not the blood of the men who go with their lives?' and he was not willing to drink it; these things did the three mighty ones.

¹⁸And Abishai brother of Joab, son of Zeruah, he is head of three, and he fifteth up his spear against three hundred—wounded, and hath a name among three. ¹⁹Than the three he is honoured, and becometh their head; but unto the first three he hath not come.

XXIV. 1 AND the anger of the LORD addeth to burn against Israel, seeing an adversary moveth David about them, saying, 'Go, number Israel and Judah.' ²And the king saith unto Joab, head of the host which is with him, 'Go to and fro, I pray thee, through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even unto Beer-Sheba, and inspect ye the people—then have I known the number of the people.' ³And Joab saith unto the king, 'Yea, the LORD thy God add unto the people, as they are, a hundred times, and the eyes of my lord the king seeing: as to my lord the king, why is he desirous of this thing?' ⁴And the word of the king is severe towards Joab, and against the heads of the force, and Joab goeth out with the heads of the force from before the king, to inspect the people, even Israel. ⁵And they pass over the Jordan, and encamp in Arzer, on the right of the city which is in the midst of the brook of Gad, and toward Jazer; ⁶and they come into Gilead, and unto the land of Tahtim-Hodshi; and they come into Dan-Jaan, and round about unto Zidon; ⁷and they come into the fortress of Tyre, and all the cities of the Hivite, and the Canaanite; and they go out unto the south of Judah, to Beer-Sheba. ⁸And they go to and fro through all the land, and come at the end of nine months and twenty days to Jerusalem. ⁹And Joab giveth the account of the inspection of the people unto the king, and Israel is eight hundred thousand valiant men, drawing the sword, and the men of Judah five hundred thousand men.

¹⁰And the heart of David smiteth him, after that he hath numbered the people, and David saith unto the LORD, 'I have sinned greatly in that I have done; and now, cause, I pray Thee, the iniquity of Thy servant to pass away, for I have acted very foolishly.' ¹¹And David riseth in the morning, and the word of the LORD hath been to Nathan, the seer, for David, saying, ¹²Go, then hast thou spoken unto David, Thus the LORD said, Three—I lift up for thee, choose thee one of them, and I do it to thee.'

¹³And Gad cometh unto David, and declareth to him, and saith to him, 'Do seven years of famine come to thee in thy land? or three months art thou fleeing before thine adversaries—and they pursuing thee? or are three days' pestilence in thy land? now, know and see what word I take back to Him who sendeth me.' ¹⁴And David saith unto Gad, 'I have great distress; let us fall, I pray thee, into the hand of the LORD, for many are His mercies, but into the hand of man let me not fall.'

¹⁵And the LORD giveth out a pestilence on Israel from the morning even unto the time appointed, and there die of the people from Dan even unto Beer-Sheba, seventy thousand men. ¹⁶And the Messenger sendeth forth his hand to Jerusalem to destroy it, and the LORD repenteth concerning the evil, and saith to the Messenger who is destroying among the people, 'Enough, now cease thy hand;' and the Messenger of the LORD was near the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite. ¹⁷And David speaketh unto the LORD, when he seeth the Messenger who smiteth among the people, and saith, 'Lo, I have sinned, yea, I have done perversely; but these—the flock—what have they done? Let, I pray Thee, Thy hand be on me, and on the house of my father.'

¹⁸And Gad cometh unto David on that day, and saith to him, 'Go up, raise to the LORD an altar in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.' ¹⁹And David goeth up, according to the word of Gad, as the LORD commanded. ²⁰And Auranah looketh, and seeth the king and his servants passing over unto him, and Auranah goeth out and boweth himself to the king—his face to the earth. ²¹And Auranah saith, 'Wherefore hath my lord the king come unto his servants?' and David saith, 'To buy from thee the threshing-floor, to build an altar to the LORD, that the plague be re-drained from the people.' ²²And Auranah saith unto David, 'Let my lord the king take and cause to ascend that which is good in his eyes: see, the oxen for a burnt-offering, and the threshing instruments and the instruments of the oxen for wood.' ²³The whole hath Auranah given, as a king, to the king; and Auranah saith to the king, 'The Lord thy God accept thee.'

²⁴And the king saith unto Auranah, 'Nay, but I do surely buy it from thee at a price, seeing I do not cause to ascend to the Lord my God burnt-offerings for nought;' and David buyeth the threshing-floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver; ²⁵and David buildeth there an altar to the Lord, and causeth burnt-offerings and peace-offerings to ascend, and the Lord is entreated for the land, and the plague is restrained from Israel.

FIRST BOOK OF KINGS.

CHAP. I. 1 AND king David is old, entering into days; and they cover him with garments, but he hath no heat; ²and his servants say to him, 'Let them seek for my lord the king a young woman, a virgin, then hath she stood before the king, and is his companion, and she hath life in thy bosom, and my lord the king hath heat.'

³And they seek a fair young woman in all the border of Israel, and find Abishag the Shunammite, and bring her to the king.

⁴And the young woman is fair unto excess, and she is the king's companion, and serveth him, but the king hath not known her.

⁷And his words are with Joab son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest, and they help after Adonijah; ⁸but Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei, and Ithai, and the mighty ones whom David hath, have not been with Adonijah.

⁹Adonijah sacrificeth sheep and oxen and fattings near the stone of Zoheleth, which is by En-Rogel, and calleth all his brethren the sons of the king, also for all the men of Judah servants of the king; ¹⁰but Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty ones, and Solomon his brother he called not.

¹¹And Nathan speaketh unto Bath-Sheba, mother of Solomon, saying, 'Hast thou not heard that Adonijah son of Haggith hath reigned, and our lord David hath not known?' ¹²And now, come, let me counsel thee, I pray thee, and deliver thy life, and the life of thy son Solomon;

¹³go and enter in unto king David; then hast thou said unto him, 'Hast thou not, my lord, O king, sworn to thy handmaid, saying, Surely Solomon thy son doth reign after me, and he doth sit on my throne? and wherefore hath Adonijah reigned?' ¹⁴Lo, thou art yet speaking there with the king, and I come in after thee, and have completed thy words.'

¹⁵And Bath-Sheba cometh unto the king, into the inner chamber, and the king is very aged; and Abishag the Shunammite is serving the king. ¹⁶And Bath-Sheba boweth and doth obeisance to the king, and the king saith, 'What—to thee?' ¹⁷And she saith to him, 'My lord, thou hast sworn by the Lord thy God to thy handmaid, Surely Solomon thy son doth reign after me, and he doth sit on my throne; ¹⁸and now, lo, Adonijah hath reigned, and now, my lord, O king, thou hast not known; ¹⁹and he sacrificeth ox and fattening, and sheep in abundance, and calleth for all the sons of the king, and for Abiathar the priest, and for Joab head of the host; but for Solomon thy servant he hath not called. ²⁰And thou, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are on thee, to declare to them who doth sit on the throne of my lord the king after him; ²¹yea, it hath been, when my lord the king lieth with his fathers that I have been, I and my son Solomon—reckoned sinners.'

²²And lo, she is yet speaking with the king, and Nathan the prophet cometh in; ²³and they declare to the king, saying, 'Lo, Nathan the prophet;' and he cometh before the king, and boweth himself to the king, on his face, to the earth. ²⁴And Nathan saith, 'My lord, O king, thou hast said, Adonijah doth reign after me, and he doth sit on my throne; ²⁵for he hath gone down to-day, and doth sacrifice ox and fattening, and sheep in abundance, and calleth for all the sons of the king, and for the heads of the host, and for Abiathar the priest, and lo, they are eating and drinking before him, and they say, Let king Adonijah live! ²⁶But for me, me thy servant, and for Zadok the priest, and for Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and for Solomon thy servant, he hath not called. ²⁷If from my lord the king this thing hath been, then thou hast not caused thy servant to know who doth sit on the throne of my lord the king after him.'

²⁸And king David answereth and saith, 'Call for me for Bath-Sheba;' and she cometh before the king, and standeth before the king. ²⁹And the king sweareth and saith, 'The Lord liveth, who hath redeemed my soul out of all adversity. ³⁰Surely as I swore to thee by the Lord, God of Israel, saying, Surely Solomon thy son doth reign after me, and he doth sit on my throne in my stead; surely so I do this day.' ³¹And Bath-Sheba boweth—face to the earth—and doth obeisance to the king, and saith, 'Let my lord, king David, live for ever.'

³² And king David saith, 'Call for me for Zadok the priest, and for Nathan the prophet, and for Benaiah son of Jehoiada; and they come before the king.' ³³ And the king saith to them, 'Take with you the servants of your lord, then have ye caused Solomon my son to ride on mine own mule, and caused him to go down to Gihon, ³⁴ and Zadok the priest—Nathan the prophet also—hath anointed him there for king over Israel, and ye have blown with the trumpet, and have said, Let king Solomon live; ³⁵ and ye have come up after him, and he hath come and hath sat on my throne, and doth reign in my stead, seeing him have I appointed to be leader over Israel and over Judah.'

⁴¹ And Adonijah heareth, also all they who are called, who are with him, and they have finished eating; and Joab heareth the noise of the trumpet, and saith, 'Wherefore is the noise of the city roaring?' ⁴² He is yet speaking, and lo, Jonathan son of Abiathar the priest hath come, and Adonijah saith, 'Come in, for thou art a virtuous man, and bearest good tidings.'

each on his way. ⁵⁰ And Adonijah feareth death because of Solomon, and riseth, and goeth, and layeth hold on the horns of the altar.

⁵¹ And it is declared to Solomon, saying, 'Lo, Adonijah feareth king Solomon, and lo, he hath laid hold on the horns of the altar, saying, Let king Solomon swear to me to-day—he will not put his servant to death by the sword.' ⁵² And Solomon saith, 'If he becometh a virtuous man—there doth not fall aught from his hair to the earth, but if evil is found in him—then hath he died.' ⁵³ And king Solomon sendeth, and they bring him down from the altar, and he cometh and boweth himself to king Solomon, and Solomon saith to him, 'Go to thy house.'

11. 'AND the days of David draw near to die, and he chargeth Solomon his son, saying, ² 'I am going in the way of all the earth; then thou hast been strong, and become a man, ³ and kept the charge of the LORD thy God, to walk in His ways, to keep His statutes, His commands, and His judgments, and His testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, in order that thou mayest do wisely all that thou dost, and whithersoever thou turnest: ⁴ in order that the LORD may establish His word which He spake to me, saying, If thy children observe their way to walk before Me in truth, with all their heart, and with all their soul, a man of thine is not cut off from the throne of Israel.'

⁵ 'And also, thou hast known that which he did to me—Joab son of Zeruiah—that which he did to the two heads of the hosts of Israel, to Abner son of Ner, and to Amasa son of Jether—that he slayeth them, and maketh the blood of war in peace, and putteth the blood of war on his girdle, which is on his loins, and in his sandals, which are on his feet. ⁶ And thou hast done according to thy wisdom, and dost not let his old age go down in peace to Sheol.

⁸ 'And lo, with thee is Shimei son of Gera, the Benjaminite of Bahurim, and he reviled me—a grievous reviling—in the day of my going to Mahanaim; but he hath come down to meet me at the Jordan, and I do swear to him by the LORD, saying, I will not put thee to death by the sword. ⁹ But now, acquit him not, for thou art a wise man, and thou hast known that which thou dost to him, and hast brought down his old age with blood to Sheol.'

¹³ And Adonijah son of Haggith cometh unto Bath-Sheba, mother of Solomon, and she saith, 'Is thy coming peaceable?' and he saith, 'Peaceable.' ¹⁴ And he saith, 'I have a word unto thee,' and she saith, 'Speak.' ¹⁵ And he saith, 'Thou hast known that the kingdom was mine, and towards me all Israel had set their faces for reigning, but the kingdom is turned round about, and is in my brother's, for from the Lord it was his.' ¹⁶ And now, one petition I ask of thee: turn not back my face;' and she saith unto him, 'Speak.' ¹⁷ And he saith, 'Speak, I pray thee, to Solomon the king, for he doth not turn back thy face, that he give to me Abishag the Shunammite for a wife.' ¹⁸ And Bath-Sheba saith, 'Good: I will speak for thee unto the king.'

²² And king Solomon answereth and saith to his mother, 'And why dost thou ask Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? ask also for him the kingdom (for he is mine elder brother), even for him, and for Abiathar the priest, and for Joab son of Zeruah.'

²³ And king Solomon answereth by the Lord, saying, 'Thus let God do to me, and thus let him add—surely against his own soul hath Adonijah spoken this word: ²⁴ and now, the Lord liveth, who hath established me, and causeth me to sit on the throne of David my father, and who hath made an house for me as he spake,—surely to-day is Adonijah put to death.' ²⁵ And king Solomon sendeth by the hand of Benaiah son of Jeholada, and he falleth upon him, and he dieth.

³¹ And the king saith to him, 'Do as he hath spoken, and fall upon him, then hast thou buried him, and turned aside the causeless blood which Joab shed, from me, and from the house of my father.' ³² And the Lord hath turned back his blood on his own head, who hath fallen on two men more righteous and better than he, and slayeth them with the sword, (while my father David knew not.) Abner son of Ner, head of the host of Israel, and Amasa son of Jether, head of the host of Judah: ³³ yea, their blood hath turned back on the head of Joab, and on the head of his seed for ever; and for David, and for his seed, and for his house, and for his throne, there is peace for ever from the Lord.'

³⁶ And the king sendeth and calleth for Shimei, and saith to him, 'Build for thyself a house in Jerusalem, then hast thou dwelt there, and dost not go out from thence any where: ³⁷ and it hath been, in the day of thy going out, when thou hast passed over the brook of Kidron, thou dost certainly know that thou dost surely die; thy blood is on thine own head.'

⁴¹ And it is declared to Solomon that Shimei hath gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and returneth. ⁴² And the king sendeth and calleth for Shimei, and saith unto him, 'Have I not caused thee to swear by the Lord? yea, I testify against thee, saying, In the day of thy going out, when thou hast gone anywhere thou dost certainly know that thou dost surely die; yea, thou sayest unto me, The word I have heard is good; ⁴³ and wherefore hast thou not kept the oath of the Lord, and the command with which I commanded thee?'

III. ¹ AND Solomon joineth in marriage with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and taketh the daughter of Pharaoh, and bringeth her in unto the city of David, till he completeth building his own house, and the house of the LORD, and the wall of Jerusalem round about. ²Only the people are sacrificing in the high places, for a house was not built for the name of the LORD till those days.

³And Solomon loveth the LORD, to walk in the statutes of David his father; only, in the high places he sacrificeth and maketh perfume. ⁴And the king goeth to Gibeon, to sacrifice there, for it is the great high place; a thousand burnt-offerings doth Solomon cause to ascend on that altar.

⁵In Gibeon hath the LORD appeared unto Solomon, in a dream of the night, and God saith, 'Ask, what shall I give to thee?'

⁶And Solomon saith, 'Thou hast done with Thy servant David my father great kindness; as he walked before Thee in truth and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with Thee, Thou also keepest for him this great kindness, that Thou givest to him a son sitting on his throne, as at this day.'

⁷'And now, O LORD my God, Thou hast caused thy servant to reign instead of David my father; and I am a little child; I have not known going out or coming in. ⁸When Thy servant is in the midst of Thy people, whom Thou hast chosen, a numerous people, which is not numbered nor counted for multitude, ⁹then hast Thou given to Thy servant an understanding heart to judge Thy people, to discern good and evil; for who is able to judge this Thy great people?'

¹⁵And Solomon awaketh, and lo, a dream; and he cometh to Jerusalem, and standeth before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and causeth burnt-offerings to ascend, and maketh peace-offerings; and he maketh a banquet for all his servants.

¹⁶Then come two women, harlots, unto the king, and stand before him; ¹⁷and the one woman saith, 'O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house, and I bring forth, with her in the house; ¹⁸and it cometh to pass on the third day of my bringing forth, that this woman also bringeth forth, and we are together, there is no stranger with us in the house, save we two, in the house. ¹⁹And the son of this woman dieth at night, because she hath lain upon it; ²⁰and she riseth in the middle of the night, and taketh my son from beside me, while thy handmaid is asleep, and layeth it in her bosom, and her dead son she laid in my bosom. ²¹And I rise in the morning to suckle my son, and lo, dead; and I consider concerning it in the morning, and lo, it was not my son whom I did bear.' ²²And the other woman saith, 'Nay, but the living is my son, and the dead is thy son;' and this one saith, 'Nay, but the dead is thy son, and the living is my son.' And they speak before the king.

²³And the king saith, 'This one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is the dead; and that one saith, Nay, but thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.' ²⁴And the king saith, 'Take for me a sword;' and they bring the sword before the king; ²⁵and the king saith, 'Cut the living child into two, and give the half to the one, and the half to the other.'

²⁶And the woman whose is the living child saith unto the king (for her bowels yearned for her son), yea, she saith, 'O, my lord, give to her the living child, and put it not at all to death;' and this one saith, 'Let it be neither mine nor thine; cut it.' ²⁷And the king answereth and saith, 'Give ye to her the living child, and put it not at all to death; she is its mother.' ²⁸And all Israel hear of the judgment which the king hath judged, and fear because of the king, for they have seen that the wisdom of God is in his heart, to do judgment.

IV. ¹AND king Solomon is king over all Israel. ²And these are the heads whom he hath: Azariah son of Zadok is the priest; ³Elioreph and Ahiah sons of Shisha are scribes; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud is remembrancer; ⁴and Benaiah son of Jehoiada is over the host; and Zadok and Abiathar are priests; ⁵and Azariah son of Nathan is over the officers; and Zabud son of Nathan is minister, the king's friend; ⁶and Ahishar is over the household, and Adoniram son of Abda is over the tribute.

⁷And Solomon hath twelve officers over all Israel, and they have sustained the king and his household; a month in the year is on each one for sustenance; ⁸and these are their names: Ben-Hur in the hill-country of Ephraim; ⁹Ben-Dekar in Makaz, and in Shaalbim, and Beth-Shemesh, and Elon-Beth-Hanan; ¹⁰Ben-Issed in Aruboth, he hath Sochoh and all the land of Iephther; ¹¹Ben-Abinadab hath all the elevation of Dor; Taphath daughter of Solomon became his wife; ¹²Baana Ben-Ahilud hath Taaqneh and Megiddo, and all Beth-Shean, which is by Zartannh beneath Jezreel, from Beth-Shean unto Abel-Meholah, unto beyond Jokneam; ¹³Ben-Geber, in Ramoth-Gilead, hath the small towns of Jair son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead; he hath the portion of Argob which is in Bashan, sixty great cities with wall and brazen bar; ¹⁴Ahinnadab son of Iddo hath Mahanaim; ¹⁵Ahimaz is in Naphtali; he also hath taken Basmath daughter of Solomon for a wife; ¹⁶Baanah Ben-Hushai is in Asher, and in Aloth; ¹⁷Jehoshaphat Ben-Paruah is in Issachar; ¹⁸Shimei Ben-Elah is in Benjamin; ¹⁹Geber

Ben-Uri is in the land of Gilead, the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, and of Og king of Bashan; and one officer who is in the land.

²⁹ And God giveth wisdom to Solomon, and understanding, very much, with breadth of heart, as the sand which is on the edge of the sea. ³⁰ And Solomon's wisdom is greater than the wisdom of all the sons of the east, and than all the wisdom of Egypt; ³¹ and he is wiser than all men, than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman, and Chalcol, and Darda, sons of Mahol: and his name is in all the nations round about. ³² And he speaketh three thousand similes, and his songs are five, and the chief one. ³³ And he speaketh concerning trees, from the cedar that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyssop which goeth out at the wall, and he speaketh of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes. ³⁴ And there come out of all the peoples to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all kings of the earth who heard of his wisdom.

V. ¹ AND Hiram king of Tyre sendeth his servants unto Solomon, for he heard that they had anointed him for king in the stead of his father: for Hiram was a lover of David continually. ² And Solomon sendeth unto Hiram, saying, ³ 'Thou hast known David my father, that he is unable to build a house to the name of the Lord his God, because of the wars which have been round about him, till the Lord's putting them under the soles of his feet. ⁴ But now, the Lord my God hath given rest to me round about; there is no adversary nor evil occurrence. ⁵ And lo, I speak of building a house to the name of the Lord my God, as the Lord spake unto David my father, saying, Thy son, whom I appoint in thy stead on thy throne, he doth build the house for My name. ⁶ And now, command, and let them cut down for me cedars out of Lebanon, and let my servants be with thy servants, and the hire of thy servants I give to thee according to all that thou sayest; for thou hast known that there is not among us a man acquainted with cutting wood, like the Sidonians.'

VI. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, in the four hundred and eightieth year of the going out of the Children of Israel from the land of Egypt, in the fourth year (in the month of Zif, which is the second month) of the reigning of Solomon over Israel, that he buildeth the house of the Lord.

⁵ And he buildeth against the wall of the house a couch round about, even the walls of the house round about, of the temple and of the oracle; and he maketh sides round about. ⁶The lowest couch, five by the cubit is its breadth; and the middle, six by the cubit is its breadth; and the third, seven by the cubit is its breadth, for he put withdrawals to the house round about, without—not to lay hold on the walls of the house. ⁷And the house, in its being built, was built of perfect stone brought thither, and hammer, and axe—any instrument of iron—was not heard in the house in its being built.

¹¹And the word of the LORD is unto Solomon, saying, ¹²This house which thou art building—if thou walk in My statutes, and do My judgments, yea, hast done all My commands to walk in them: then have I established My word with thee, which I spake unto David thy father; ¹³and I have tabernacled in the midst of the Children of Israel, and do not forsake My people Israel.

¹⁴And Solomon buildeth the house and completeth it. ¹⁵And he buildeth the walls of the house within with beams of cedar, both the floor of the house and the walls of the ceiling; he overlaid the inside with wood, and covereth the floor of the house with ribs of fir. ¹⁶And he buildeth twenty cubits on the sides of the house with ribs of cedar, both the floor and the walls; and he buildeth for it within, for the oracle, for the holy of holies. ¹⁷And forty by the cubit was the house, it is the temple before it. ¹⁸And the cedar unto the house within is carvings of knobs and openings of flowers; the whole is cedar, there is no stone seen.

¹⁹And the oracle in the midst of the house within hath he prepared, for the putting there of the ark of the covenant of the LORD. ²⁰And before the oracle is twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits is its height; and he overlayeth it with refined gold, and overlayeth the altar of cedar. ²¹And Solomon overlayeth the house within with refined gold, and he causeth to pass over chains of gold before the oracle, and overlayeth it with gold. ²²And the whole of the house he overlaid with gold, till the completion of all the house; and all the altar which the oracle hath he overlaid with gold.

³⁷In the fourth year hath the house of the LORD been founded, in the month Zif; ³⁸and in the eleventh year, in the month Bul (which is the eighth month), was the house finished in all its matters, and in all its ordinances, and he buildeth it seven years.

VII. ¹AND his own house hath Solomon built thirteen years, and he finisheth all his house. ²And he buildeth the house of the forest of Lebanon: a hundred cubits is its length, and fifty cubits its breadth, and thirty cubits its height, on four rows of cedar pillars, and cedar-beams on the pillars. ³And it is covered with cedar above on the sides which are on the forty and five pillars, fifteen in a row. ⁴And windows are in three rows, sight against sight three times. ⁵And all the openings and the side-posts are square, windows; and sight is over-against sight three times.

⁶And the porch of pillars hath he made: fifty cubits its length, and thirty cubits its breadth, and the porch is before them, and pillars and a thick place are before them. ⁷And a porch for the throne where he judgeth—the porch of judgment—he made; and it is covered with cedar from floor to floor.

⁸And his house where he dwelleth hath another court within the porch; as this work it hath been: and he maketh a house for the daughter of Pharaoh (whom Solomon hath taken) like this porch.

⁹All these are of precious stones, according to the measures of hewn work, sawn with saws, within and without, even from the foundation unto the coping, and at the outside, unto the great court. ¹⁰And the foundation is of precious stones, great stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits. ¹¹ And above are precious stones, according to the measures of hewn work, and cedars. ¹² And the great court round about is three rows of hewn work, and a row of cedar-beams, even for the inner court of the house of the LORD, and for the porch of the house.

²⁷ And he maketh the ten bases of brass; four by the cubit is the length of the one base, and four by the cubit is its breadth, and three by the cubit is its height. ²⁸ And this is the work of the bases: they have borders, and the borders are between the joinings; ²⁹ and on the borders which are between the joinings are lions, oxen, and cherubs, and on the joinings a base above, and beneath the lions and the oxen are additions —sloping work. ³⁰ And four wheels of brass are to the one base, and axles of brass; and its four corners have shoulders; under the laver are the molten shoulders, beside each addition. ³¹ And its mouth within the chapter and above is by the cubit, and its mouth is round, the work of the base, a cubit and the half of a cubit; and also on its mouth are carvings and their borders, square not round. ³² And four of the wheels are under the borders, and the axles of the wheels are in the base, and the height of the one wheel is a cubit and the half of a cubit. ³³ And the work of the wheels is as the work of the wheel of a chariot, their spokes, and their axles, and their fellows, and their naves; the whole is molten. ³⁴ And four shoulders are to the four corners of the one base; out of the base are its shoulders. ³⁵ And in the top of the base is the half of a cubit in height all round about; and on the top of the base its hands and its borders are of the same. ³⁶ And he openeth on the tablets of its hands, and on its borders, cherubs, lions, and palm-trees, according to the void space of each, and additions round about. ³⁷ Thus he made the ten bases; one casting, one measure, one cut have they all.

for the doors of the inner-house, for the holy of holies, for the doors of the house of the temple, of gold.

VIII. ¹ THEN Solomon congregateth the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the princes of the fathers of the Children of Israel, unto king Solomon, to Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD from the city of David, which is Zion. ² And all the men of Israel are congregated unto king Solomon, in the month of Ethanim, in the feast, which is in the seventh month. ³ And all the elders of Israel come, and the priests lift up the ark, ⁴ and they bring up the ark of the LORD, and the tent of meeting, and all the holy vessels which are in the tent, yea, the priests and the Levites bring them up.

⁵ And king Solomon and all the company of Israel who are met by him are with him before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, which are not counted or numbered for multitude. ⁶ And the priests bring in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto its place, unto the oracle of the house, unto the holy of holies, unto the place of the wings of the cherubs; ⁷ for the cherubs are spreading forth two wings unto the place of the ark, and the cherubs cover over the ark, and over its staves from above. ⁸ And they lengthen the staves, and the heads of the staves are seen out of the holy place before the oracle, and they are not seen without, and they are there unto this day. ⁹ There is nothing in the ark; only the two tables of stone which Moses put there in Horeb, when the LORD covenanted with the Children of Israel in their going out of the land of Egypt.

¹⁰ And it cometh to pass, in the going out of the priests from the holy place, that the cloud hath filled the house of the LORD, ¹¹ and the priests were unable to stand to minister because of the cloud, for the honour of the LORD filled the house of the LORD.

¹⁵ And he saith, 'Blessed is the LORD, God of Israel, who spake by His mouth with David my father, and by His hand hath fulfilled it, saying, ¹⁶ From the day that I brought out My people, even Israel, from Egypt, I have not fixed on any city out of all the tribes of Israel to build a house for My name being there; and I fix on David to be over My people Israel. ¹⁷ And it is near the heart of David my father to build a house for the name of the LORD, God of Israel; ¹⁸ and the LORD saith unto David my father, Because it hath been near thy heart to build a house for My name, thou hast done well that it hath been near thy heart; ¹⁹ only, thou dost not build the house, but thy son who cometh out from thy loins, he doth build the house for My name. ²⁰ And the LORD doth establish His word which He spake, and I am risen up instead of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD spake, and I build the house for the name of the LORD, God of Israel; ²¹ and I set there a place for the ark, where is the covenant of the LORD which He made with our fathers in His bringing them out from the land of Egypt.'

²⁸ 'When thou hast turned unto the prayer of Thy servant, and unto his supplication, O LORD my God, hearkening unto the cry and unto the prayer which Thy servant prayeth before Thee to-day, ²⁹ for Thine eyes being open towards this house night and day, towards the place of which Thou hast said, My Name is there; hearkening unto the prayer which Thy servant prayeth towards this place: ³⁰ then Thou hast hearkened unto the supplication of Thy servant, and of Thy people Israel, when they pray towards this place: yea, Thou dost hearken in the place of Thy dwelling, in the heavens: when Thou hast hearkened, then Thou hast forgiven, ³¹ even that which a man sinneth against his neighbour, when he hath lifted up upon him an oath to cause him to swear, and the oath hath come before Thine altar in this house, ³² then Thou dost hear in the heavens, and hast done, and hast judged Thy servants, to declare the wicked wicked, to put his way on his head, and to declare the righteous righteous, to give to him according to his righteousness.

³³ 'In Thy people Israel being smitten before the enemy, because they have sinned against Thee, when they have turned back unto Thee, and have confessed Thy holy name, and have prayed, and made supplication unto Thee in this house, ³⁴ then Thou dost hear in the heavens, and hast forgiven the sin of Thy people Israel, and hast brought them back unto the ground which Thou gavest to their fathers.

³⁵ 'In the heavens being restrained, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against Thee, when they have prayed towards this place, and have confessed Thy name, and from their sin do turn back when Thou dost afflict them, ³⁶ then Thou dost hear in the heavens, and hast forgiven the sin of Thy servants, and of Thy people Israel, for Thou directest them in the good way in which they should go, and hast given rain on Thy land which Thou hast given to Thy people for an inheritance.

³⁷ 'Famine, when it is in the land: pestilence, when it is; blasting, mildew, locust: caterpillar when it is; when its enemy hath distressed it in the land of its gates, any plague, any sickness,—³⁸ any prayer, any supplication which any man of all Thy people Israel hath, who know each the plague of his own heart, and hath spread his hands towards this house, ³⁹ then Thou dost hear in the heavens, the settled place of Thy dwelling, and hast forgiven, and hast given each according to all his ways, whose heart Thou knowest, (for Thou hast known—Thyself alone—the heart of all the children of men), ⁴⁰ that they may fear Thee all the days that they live on the face of the ground which Thou hast given to our fathers.

⁴⁴ 'When Thy people goeth out to the battle against its enemy, in the way that Thou dost send them, and they have prayed unto the LORD the way of the city on which thou hast fixed, and of the house which I have built for Thy name; ⁴⁵ then hast Thou heard in the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and hast maintained their cause.

⁴⁶ 'When they sin against Thee (for there is no man who sinneth not), and Thou hast been angry with them, and hast given them up before an enemy, and they have taken captive their captivity unto the land of the enemy far off or near; ⁴⁷ when they have turned ⁂ back into their heart in the land whither they have been taken captive, and have turned back, and made supplication unto Thee, in the land of their captors, saying, We have sinned and done perversely: we have done wickedly; ⁴⁸ yea, they have turned back unto thee, with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies who have taken them captive, and they have prayed unto Thee the way of their land, which Thou gavest to their fathers, the city which Thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for Thy name:

⁶⁵ And Solomon maketh, at that time, the feast, and all Israel with him—a great congregation from the entering in of Hamath unto the brook of Egypt—before the LORD our God, seven days and seven days; fourteen days. ⁶On the eighth day he sent the people away, and they bless the king, and go to their tents, rejoicing and glad of heart, for all the good which the LORD hath done to David His servant, and Israel His people.

⁷IX. ¹AND it cometh to pass, at Solomon's finishing to build the house of the LORD, and the house of the king, and all the desire of Solomon which he delighted to do, ²that the LORD appereth unto Solomon a second time, as he appeared unto him in Gibeon, ³and the LORD saith unto him, 'I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication with which thou hast made supplication before Me: I have hallowed this house which thou hast built to put My name there for ever, and Mine eyes and My heart have been there continually. ⁴And thou—if thou walk before Me as David thy father walked, in simplicity of heart, and in uprightness, to do according to all that I have commanded thee—My statutes and My judgments thou dost keep, ⁵and I have established the throne of thy kingdom over Israel for ever, as I spake unto David thy father, saying, A man of thine is not cut off from being on the throne of Israel.

⁶'If ye turn back at all from after Me, you or your children, and keep not My commands—My statutes, which I have set before you, and have gone and served other gods, and have bowed yourselves to them, ⁷then have I cut off Israel from the face of the ground which I have given to them, and this house which I have hallowed for My name I send away from My presence, and Israel hath become a simile and a byword among all the peoples; ⁸as to this house, which is high, every one passing by it is astonished, and hath hissed, and have said, Wherefore hath the LORD done thus to this land and to this house? ⁹and they have said, Because they have forsaken the LORD their God, who brought out their fathers from the land of Egypt, and they lay hold on other gods, and bow themselves to them, and serve them: therefore hath the LORD brought in upon them all this evil.'

¹⁰And it cometh to pass, at the end of twenty years, that Solomon hath built the two houses, the house of the LORD, and the house of the king. ¹¹Hiram king of Tyre hath assisted Solomon with cedar-trees, and fir-trees, and with gold, according to all his desire: then King Solomon giveth to Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.

¹⁵And this is the matter of the tribute which King Solomon lifted up to build the house of the LORD, and his own house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem, and Hazer, and Megiddo, and Gezer; ¹⁶Pharaoh king of Egypt hath gone up and doth capture Gezer, and doth burn it with fire, and the Canaanites who dwell in the city hath he slain, and he giveth it with presents to his daughter, wife of Solomon. ¹⁷And Solomon buildeth Gezer, and Beth-Horon the lower, ¹⁸and Baalath, and Tadmor in the wilderness, in the land; ¹⁹and all the cities of stores which King Solomon had, and the cities of the chariots, and the cities of the horsemen, and the desire of Solomon which he desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion. ²⁰The whole of the people which is left of the Amorite, the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, who are not of the Children of Israel; ²¹their children who are left behind them in the land, whom the Children of Israel have not been able to devote, he hath even lifted up on them a servile tribute unto this day.

²²But out of the Children of Israel Solomon hath not appointed a servant, for they are men of war, and his servants, and his princes, and his captains, and the heads of his chariots, and his horsemen. ²³These are the heads of the officers who are over the work of Solomon, five hundred and fifty, who rule among the people who labour in the work.

⁶And she saith unto the King, 'True hath been the word which I heard in mine own land, concerning thy matters and thy wisdom: ⁷but I gave no credence to the words till I have come, and mine own eyes see, and lo, it was not declared to me—the half; thou hast added wisdom and goodness unto the report which I heard. ⁸O the happiness of thy men, O the happiness of thy servants; these who stand before thee continually, who hear thy wisdom! ⁹The LORD thy God be blessed who delighteth in thee, to put thee on the throne of Israel: in the LORD'S loving Israel for ever He setteth thee for king, to do judgment and justice.'

¹⁰And she giveth to the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and very much spices, and precious stones; there came not like that spice any more in abundance which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

¹⁶And king Solomon maketh two hundred targets of alloyed gold; six hundred of gold go up on the one target; ¹⁷three hundred shields also of alloyed gold; three pounds of gold go up on the one shield; and the king putteth them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

²¹And all the drinking vessels of king Solomon are of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon are of refined gold; there are none of silver; it was not reckoned in the days of Tharshish for anything, ²²for the navy of Tharshish the king hath at sea with the navy of Hiram: once in three years cometh the navy of Tharshish, bearing gold, and silver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

²³And king Solomon is greater than all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom. ²⁴And all the earth seek the presence of Solomon, to hear his wisdom which God hath put into his heart; ²⁵and they are bringing each his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armour, and apices, horses and mules, the matter of a year in a year. ²⁶And Solomon gathereth chariots, and horsemen; and he hath a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen; and he placeth them in the chariot-cities, and with the king in Jerusalem. ²⁷And the king maketh silver in Jerusalem as stones, and cedars hath he made as the sycamores which are in the low country, for abundance.

²⁸And the outgoings of the horses which king Solomon hath is from Egypt, and from Keveh; the merchants of the king take from Keveh at a price; ²⁹and a chariot cometh up and cometh out of Egypt for six hundred silverlings, and a horse for a hundred and fifty; and so for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Aram; they bring out by their hands.

XI. ¹And king Solomon loved many strange women, with the daughter of Pharaoh, females of Moab, Ammon, Edom, Zidon, and the Hittites: ²of the nations of which the LORD said unto the Children of Israel, 'Ye shall not go in to them, and they shall not go in to you: surely they will turn aside your heart after their gods'; to them Solomon hath cleaved for love. ³And he hath women, princesses, seven hundred, and concubines three hundred; and his wives turn aside his heart. ⁴And it cometh to pass at the time of the old age of Solomon his wives have turned aside his heart after other gods, and his heart hath not been perfect with the LORD his God, like the heart of David his father. ⁵And Solomon goeth after Ashtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites; ⁶and Solomon doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and hath not been fully after the LORD, like David his father. ⁷Then Solomon buildeth a high place for Chemosh the abomination of Moab, in the hill which is on the front of Jerusalem, and for Molech the abomination of the Beni-Ammon; ⁸and so hath he done for all his strange women, who are perfuming and sacrificing to their gods.

⁹And the LORD is angry with Solomon, for his heart hath been turned aside from the LORD, God of Israel, who had appeared unto him twice, ¹⁰and given a charge unto him concerning this thing, not to go after other gods; but he hath not kept that which the LORD commanded, ¹¹and the LORD saith to Solomon, 'Because this hath been with thee, and thou hast not kept My covenant and My statutes which I charged upon thee, I surely rend the kingdom from thee, and have given it to thy servant. ¹²Only, in thy days I do it not, for David thy father's sake; out of the hand of thy son I do rend it. ¹³But all the kingdom I do not rend away; one tribe I give to thy son, for David My servant's sake, and for Jerusalem's sake which I have chosen.'

¹⁴And the LORD raiseth up an adversary to Solomon, Hadad the Edomite; of the seed of the king is he in Edom; ¹⁵seeing it cometh to pass, in David's being with Edom, in the going up of Joab head of the host to bury the slain, that he smiteth every male in Edom, ¹⁶for six months did Joab abide there with all Israel, till the cutting off of every male in Edom; ¹⁷but Haddad fleeth, he and certain Edomites, of the servants of his father, with him, to go in to Egypt, and Haddad is a little youth, ¹⁸and they rise out of Midian, and come in to Paran, and take men with them out of Paran, and come into Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he giveth a house to him, and hath commanded bread for him, and hath given land to him.

¹⁹And Haddad findeth grace in the eyes of Pharaoh exceedingly, and he giveth to him a wife, the sister of his own wife, sister of Tahpenes the mistress. ²⁰And the sister of Tahpenes beareth to him Genubath his son, and Tahpenes weaneth him in the house of Pharaoh, and Genubath is in the house of Pharaoh in the midst of the sons of Pharaoh.

²¹And Haddad hath heard in Egypt that David hath lain with his fathers, and that Joab head of the host is dead, and Haddad saith unto Pharaoh, 'Send me away, and let me go to my land.' ²²And Pharaoh saith to him, 'But what dost thou lack with me, that lo, thou art seeking to go to thine own land?' and he saith, 'Nay, but do thou send me at once away.'

²⁹And it cometh to pass, at that time, that Jeroboam hath gone out from Jerusalem, and Ahijah the Shilonite, the prophet, findeth him in the way, and he hath covered himself with a new garment; and both of them are by themselves in the field: ³⁰and Ahijah layeth hold on the new garment which is on him, and rendeth it—twelve pieces: ³¹and saith to Jeroboam, 'Take to thyself ten pieces, for thus hath the Lord, God of Israel, said, lo, I rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and have given to thee the ten tribes: ³²and he hath the one tribe for My servant David's sake, and for Jerusalem's sake, the city on which I have fixed, out of all the tribes of Israel. ³³Because they have forsaken Me, and bow themselves to Ashtoreth, the goddess of the Zidonians, to Chemosh the god of Moab, and to Milcom the god of the Beni-Ammon, and have not walked in My ways, to do that which is right in Mine eyes, or in My statutes and My judgments, like David his father.

³⁴And I do not take the whole of the kingdom out of his hand, but prince I make him all the days of his life, for David My servant's sake, whom I chose, who kept My commands and my statutes: ³⁵but I have taken the kingdom out of the hand of his son, and have given it to thee—the ten tribes: ³⁶and to his son I give one tribe, for there being a lamp to David My servant continually before Me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen to Myself to put My name there.

³⁷And thee I take, and thou hast reigned over all that thy soul desireth, and thou hast been king over Israel: ³⁸and it hath been, if thou hear all that I command thee, and hast walked in My ways, and done that which is right in Mine eyes, to keep My statutes and My commands, as David My servant did, that I have been with thee, and have built for thee a stedfast house, as I built for David, and have given Israel to thee, ³⁹and I humble the seed of David for this; only, not continually.'

⁴⁰And Solomon seeketh to put Jeroboam to death; and Jeroboam riseth and fleeth to Egypt, unto Shishak king of Egypt, and he is in Egypt till the death of Solomon. ⁴¹And the rest of the matters of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, are they not written in the book of the matters of Solomon? ⁴²And the days that Solomon hath reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel are forty years: ⁴³and Solomon lieth with his fathers, and is buried in the city of David his father, and Rehoboam his son reigneth in his stead.

XII. ¹AND Rehoboam goeth to Shechem, for to Shechem hath all Israel come to make him king. ²And it cometh to pass, at Jeroboam son of Nebat's hearing (who is yet in Egypt, for he hath fled from the presence of Solomon the king, and Jeroboam dwelleth in Egypt), ³that they send and call for him; and they come—Jeroboam and all the congregation of Israel—and speak unto Rehoboam, saying, ⁴'Thy father hardened our yoke; but thou, now, make light the hard service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, and let us serve thee.' ⁵And he saith unto them, 'Go—yet three days, then come back unto me; and the people go.

⁶And king Rehoboam consulted with the elders who have been standing in the presence of Solomon his father, in his being alive, saying, 'How do ye counsel to answer this people?' ⁷And they speak unto him, saying, 'If, to-day, thou art servant to this people, and hast served them, and answered them, and spoken unto them good words, then have they been to thee servants continually.'

who are standing before him; ⁹ and he saith unto them, 'What do ye counsel that we may answer this people, who have spoken unto me, saying, Lighten some of the yoke which thy father put upon us?' ¹⁰ And they speak unto him—the lads who had grown up with him,—saying, 'Thus dost thou say to this people who have spoken unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but thou, make it light upon us; thus dost thou speak unto them, My little finger is thicker than the loins of my father; ¹¹ and now, my father laid on you a heavy yoke, but I add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I chastise you with scorpions.'

¹² And they come—Jeroboam and all the people—unto Rehoboam, on the third day, as the king had spoken, saying, 'Come hark unto me on the third day.' ¹³ And the king answereth the people sharply, and forsaketh the counsel of the elders which they counselled him; ¹⁴ and speaketh unto them, according to the counsel of the lads, saying, 'My father made your yoke heavy, but I add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I chastise you with scorpions; ¹⁵ and the king hearkened not unto the people, for the resolution was from the LORD in order to establish His word which the LORD spake by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam son of Nebat.

¹⁶ And all Israel seeth that the king hath not hearkened unto them, and the people send the king back word, saying, 'What portion have we in David? yea, there is no inheritance in the son of Jesse: to thy tents, O Israel: now see thy house, O David;' and Israel goeth to its tents. ¹⁷ As to the Children of Israel who dwell in the cities of Judah, over them reigneth Rehoboam.

²⁰ And it cometh to pass, at all Israel's hearing that Jeroboam hath returned, that they send and call him unto the company, and cause him to reign over all Israel: none hath been after the house of David save the tribe of Judah alone.

²² And the word of God is unto Shemaiah the man of God, saying, ²³ 'Speak unto Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and the rest of the people, saying, ²⁴ Thus hath the LORD said, Ye do not go up nor fight with your brethren the Children of Israel; turn back each to his tent, for from Me hath this thing been; and they hear the word of the LORD, and turn back to go according to the word of the LORD.

²⁸ And the king taketh counsel, and maketh two calves of gold, and he saith unto them, 'Enough to you of going up to Jerusalem; lo, thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.' ²⁹ And he setteth the one in Bethel, and the other hath he put in Dan; ³⁰ and this thing becometh a sin, and the people go before the one—unto Dan. ³¹ And he maketh the house of high places, and maketh priests of the extremities of the people, who were not of the sons of Levi. ³² And Jeroboam maketh a festival in the eighth month, in the fifteenth day of the month, like the festival which is in Judah, and he offereth on the altar (so did he in Bethel), sacrificing to the calves whom he made, and he hath appointed in Bethel the priests of the high places which he made. ³³ And he offereth on the altar which he made in Bethel, on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, in the month which he devised of his own heart, and he maketh a festival to the Children of Israel, and offereth on the altar, making perfume.

XIII. ¹ AND lo, a man of God hath come from Judah, by the word of the LORD, unto Bethel, and Jeroboam is standing by the altar—making perfume; ² and he calleth against the altar, by the word of the LORD, and saith, 'Altar! altar! thus hath the LORD said, Lo, a son is born to the house of David—Josiah his name—and he hath sacrificed on thee the priests of the high places who make perfume on thee, yea, the bones of man are burnt on thee.' ³ And he hath given on that day a sign, saying, 'This is the sign which the LORD spake of, Lo, the altar is rent, and the ashes that are on it are poured out.'

⁶ And the king answereth and saith unto the man of God, 'Appease. I pray thee, the face of the LORD thy God, and pray for me that my hand may come back unto me;' and the man of God appeaseth the face of the LORD, and the hand of the king cometh back unto him, and it is as at the beginning.

⁷ And the king speaketh unto the man of God, 'Come with me into the house, and refresh thyself, and let me give to thee a gift.' ⁹And the man of God saith unto the king, 'If thou give to me the half of thine house, I go not in with thee, nor do I eat bread, nor do I drink water in this place: ¹⁰for so He commanded me by the word of the LORD, saying, Thou shalt not eat bread nor drink water, nor turn back by the way that thou hast come.' ¹¹And he goeth on in another way, and hath not turned back in the way by which he came unto Bethel.

¹²And a certain aged prophet dwelleth in Bethel, and his sons cometh and recounteth to him all the work that the man of God hath done to-day in Bethel, the words which he hath spoken unto the king,—yea, they recount them to their father. ¹³And their father saith unto them, 'Where is this—the way he hath gone?' and his sons see the way that the man of God hath gone who came from Judah.

¹⁴And he saith unto his sons, 'Saddle the ass for me;' and they saddle the ass for him, and he rideth on it, ¹⁵and goeth after the man of God, and findeth him sitting under the oak, and saith unto him, 'Art thou the man of God who hast come from Judah?' and he saith, 'I am.' ¹⁶And he saith unto him, 'Come with me into the house, and eat bread.' ¹⁷And he saith, 'I am unable to turn back with thee, or to go in with thee, nor do I eat bread nor drink water with thee in this place; ¹⁸for He spake unto me by the word of the LORD, Thou shalt not eat bread nor drink water there, thou shalt not turn back to go in the way by which thou camest.'

¹⁹And he saith to him, 'I also am a prophet like thee, and a messenger spake unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee into thy house, and let him eat bread and drink water:—he hath lied unto him.' ²⁰And he goeth back with him, and eateth bread in his house, and drinketh water.

²¹And it cometh to pass—they are sitting at the table—and the word of the LORD is unto the prophet who brought him back, ²²and he calleth unto the man of God who came from Judah, saying, 'Thus hath the LORD said, Because thou hast provoked the mouth of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment with which the LORD thy God charged thee, ²³but comest back and dost eat bread and drink water in the place of which He said unto thee, Thou shalt not eat bread or drink water, thy carcass cometh not in to the burying-places of thy fathers.'

²⁴And it cometh to pass, after his eating bread, and after his drinking, that he saddlETH for him the ass, for the prophet whom he had brought back, ²⁵and he goeth, and a lion findeth him in the way, and putteth him to death, and his carcass is cast in the way, and the ass is standing near by it, and the lion is standing by the carcass. ²⁶And lo, men are passing by, and see the carcass cast in the way, and the lion standing by the carcass; and they come and speak of it in the city in which the old prophet dwell-

eth. ²⁷And the prophet who brought him back out of the way heareth and saith, 'It is the man of God who provoked the mouth of the LORD, and the LORD giveth him up to the lion, and it destroyeth him, and putteth him to death, according to the word of the LORD who spake unto him.'

²⁸And he speaketh unto his sons, saying, 'Saddle ye the ass for me;' and they saddle it. ²⁹And he goeth and findeth his carcass cast in the way, and the ass and the lion are standing by the carcass; the lion hath not eaten the carcass, nor destroyed the ass. ³⁰And the prophet taketh up the carcass of the man of God, and placeth it on the ass, and bringeth it back, and the old prophet cometh in unto the city to mourn and to bury him. ³¹And he placeth his carcass in his own grave, and mourneth for him, 'Oh my brother!'

³²And it cometh to pass, after his burying him, that he speaketh unto his sons, saying, 'At my death—then have ye buried me in the burying-place in which the man of God is buried; near his bones place my bones; ³³for the word shall certainly be which he called by the word of the LORD concerning the altar which is in Bethel, and concerning all the houses of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria.'

³⁴After this thing Jeroboam turned not back from his evil way, but turneth back, and maketh of the extremities of the people priests of the high places; he who is desirous he consecrateth his hand, and is one of the priests of the high places. ³⁵And in this thing is the sin of the house of Jeroboam, even to cut it off, and to destroy it from off the face of the ground.

XIV. ¹AT that time Abijah son of Jeroboam was sick; ²and Jeroboam saith to his wife, 'Rise, I pray thee, and change thyself, that they may not know that thou art the wife of Jeroboam, then hast thou gone to Shiloh; lo, there is Ahijah the prophet; he spake unto me of being king over this people; ³thou hast also taken in thy hand ten loaves, and crumbs, and a bottle of honey, and hast gone unto him; he may declare to thee what becometh of the youth.'

⁴And the wife of Jeroboam doth so, and riseth, and goeth to Shiloh, and entereth the house of Ahijah; and Ahijah is unable to see, for his eyes stood because of his age.

⁵And the LORD hath said unto Ahijah, 'Lo, the wife of Jeroboam is coming to seek a word from thee concerning her son, for he is sick: thus and thus dost thou speak unto her, and it cometh to pass at her coming in, that she is making herself strange.'

⁶And it cometh to pass, at Ahijah's hearing the sound of her feet as she came into the opening, that he saith, 'Come in, wife of Jeroboam, why is this—thou art making thyself strange? but I am sent unto thee with a sharp thing: ⁷Go, say to Jeroboam, Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, Because I have made thee high in the midst of the people, and appoint thee leader over My people Israel, ⁸and rend the kingdom from the house of David, and give it to thee —and thou hast not been as my servant David who kept My commands, and who walked after Me with all his heart, to do only that which is right in Mine eyes, ⁹but dost evil above all who have been before thee, and goest, and minkest to thyself other gods and molten images, provoking Me to anger, and Me hast cast behind thy back :

¹⁰Therefore, lo, I am bringing in evil unto the house of Jeroboam, and have cut off to Jeroboam those who sit on the wall, the shut up and left in Israel, and have put away the posterity of the house of Jeroboam as one putteth away dung till its consumption. ¹¹Him who dieth of Jeroboam in the city do the dogs eat, and him who dieth in the field do the fowl of the heavens eat, for the LORD hath spoken.

¹²And thou, rise, go to thy house: at the going in of thy feet to the city—then hath the lad died; ¹³and all Israel have mourned for him, and buried him, for he by himself cometh of Jeroboam unto a grave, because there hath been found in him some good thing towards the LORD, God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam.

¹⁴And the LORD hath raised up for Himself a king over Israel who cutteth off the house of Jeroboam this day—and what?—even now. ¹⁵And the LORD hath smitten Israel as the reed is moved by the waters, and He hath plucked up Israel from off this good ground which He gave to their fathers, and hath scattered them beyond the River because they made their shrines, provoking the LORD to anger; ¹⁶and he giveth Israel up because of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he caused Israel to sin.

¹⁷And the wife of Jeroboam riseth and goeth, and cometh to Tirzah; she hath come to the threshold of the house, and the youth dieth. ¹⁸And they bury him, and all Israel mourn for him, according to the word of the LORD, which He spake by the hand of His servant Abijah the prophet. ¹⁹And the rest of the matters of Jeroboam, how he fought, and how he reigned, lo, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel. ²⁰And the days which Jeroboam reigned are twenty and two years, and he lieth with his fathers: and Nadab his son reigneth in his stead.

²¹And Rehoboam son of Solomon hath reigned in Judah: forty and one years old is Rehoboam in his reigning, and seventeen years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD chose to set His name there, out of all the tribes of Israel: and the name of his mother is Naamah the Ammonitess.

²²And Judah doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and they make Him zealous above all that their fathers did by their sins which they have sinned. ²³And they build—even they—for themselves high places and standing-pillars, and shrines on every high height, and under every green tree. ²⁴And even the whoremonger hath been in the land: they have done according to all the abominations of the nations which the LORD dispossessed from the presence of the Children of Israel.

²⁹And the rest of the matters of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ³⁰And war hath been between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually. ³¹And Rehoboam lieth with his fathers, and is buried with his fathers, in the city of David, and the name of his mother is Naamah the Ammonitess; and Abijam his son reigneth in his stead.

XV. ¹AND in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam son of Nebat reigned Abijam over Judah; ²three years he hath reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Maachah daughter of Abishalom; ³and he walketh in all the sins of his father, which he did before him, and his heart hath not been perfect with the LORD his God, as the heart of David his father; ⁴but for David's sake hath the LORD his God given to him a lamp in Jerusalem, to raise up his son after him, and to establish Jerusalem, ⁵because David did that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, and turned not aside from all that He commanded him all the days of his life—only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite. ⁶And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the days of his life.

⁷And the rest of the matters of Abijam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam; ⁸and Abijam lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in the city of David; and Asa his son reigneth in his stead.

⁹And in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel reigned Asa over Judah; ¹⁰and forty and one years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Maachah daughter of Abishalom. ¹¹And Asa doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, like David his father, ¹²and he removeth the whoremongers out of the land, and turneth aside all the idols which his fathers made; ¹³and also Maachah his mother, he even turneth her aside from being mistress, because she made a horrible thing for a shrine, and Asa cutteth down her horrible thing, and burneth it by the brook Kidron; ¹⁴but the high places they have not turned aside: only, the heart of Asa was perfect with the LORD all his days, ¹⁵and he bringeth in the sanctified things of his father, and his own sanctified things, into the house of the LORD, silver and gold and vessels.

¹⁶And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days. ¹⁷And Baasha king of Israel goeth up against Judah, and buildeth Ramah, not to permit any one going out or coming in to Asa king of Judah. ¹⁸And Asa taketh all the silver and the gold which are left in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the house of the king, and giveth them unto the hand of his servants: and king Asa sendeth them unto Ben-Hadad son of Tabrimon, son of Hezion king of Aram, who dwelleth in Damascus, saying, ¹⁹'A covenant is between me and thee, between my father and thy father: lo, I have sent unto thee a reward of silver and gold; go, break thy covenant with Baasha king of Israel, that he may go up from off me.'

²²And king Asa summoneth all Judah (there is none exempt), and they lift up the stones of Ramah, and its wood, which Baasha hath built, and king Asa buildeth with them Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah.

²⁵And Nadab son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel, in the second year of Asa king of Judah; and he reigneth over Israel two years. ²⁶And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and goeth in the way of his father, and in his sin which he made Israel to sin. ²⁷And Baasha son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspireth against him, and Baasha smiteth him in Gibbethon, which is to the Philistines, when Nadab and all Israel are laying siege to Gibbethon, ²⁸yea, Baasha putteth him to death in the third year of Asa king of Judah, and reigneth in his stead.

²⁹And it cometh to pass, in his reigning, he smote the whole house of Jeroboam: he hath not left any breathing to Jeroboam, till his destroying him, according to the word of the LORD, which He spake by the hand of His servant Ahijah the Shilonite: ³⁰because of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he caused Israel to sin, by his provocation with which he provoked the LORD, God of Israel, to anger.

³¹And the rest of the matters of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ³²And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

³³In the third year of Asa king of Judah reigned Baasha son of Ahijah over all Israel in Tirzah, twenty and four years. ³⁴And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and walketh in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he caused Israel to sin.

³⁵XVI. ¹AND the word of the LORD is unto Jehu son of Hanani, concerning Baasha, saying, ²'Because I have raised thee up out of the dust, and appoint thee leader over My people Israel, and thou walkest in the way of Jeroboam, and causedst My people Israel to sin—provoking Me to anger with their sins: ³lo, I put away the posterity of Baasha, even the posterity of his house, and have given up thy house as the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat. ⁴Him that dieth of Baasha in the city do the dogs eat, and him who dieth of his in the field do the fowls of the heavens eat.'

⁵And the rest of the matters of Baasha, and that which he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ⁶And Baasha lieth with his fathers, and is buried in Tirzah; and Elah his son reigneth in his stead.

⁷And also by the hand of Jehu son of Hanani the prophet hath the word of the LORD been concerning Baasha, and concerning his house, even for all the evil that he did in the eyes of the LORD, provoking Him to anger with the work of his hand, being like the house of Jeroboam, even that for which he smote him.

¹⁰And Zimri goeth in and smiteth him, and putteth him to death, in the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and reigneth in his stead. ¹¹And it cometh to pass in his reigning, at his sitting on his throne, he hath smitten the whole house of Baasha; he hath not left to him any sitting on the wall, or of his redeemers, or of his friends. ¹²And Zimri destroyeth the whole house of Baasha, according to the word of the LORD, which He spake concerning Baasha, by the hand of Jehu the prophet: ¹³concerning all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son, which they sinned, and which they caused Israel to sin, provoking the LORD, God of Israel, with their vanities.

¹⁴And the rest of the matters of Elah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

¹⁵In the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, Zimri reigned seven days in Tirzah, and the people are encamping against Gibbethon, which is to the Philistines; ¹⁶and the people who are encamping hear, saying, 'Zimri hath conspired, and hath also smitten the king;' and all Israel cause Omri head of the host to reign over Israel on that day in the camp. ¹⁷And Omri goeth up, and all Israel with him, from Gibbethon, and they lay siege to Tirzah. ¹⁸And it cometh to pass, at Zimri's seeing that the city hath been captured, that he cometh in unto the high place of the house of the king, and burneth over him the house of the king with fire, and he dieth. ¹⁹For his sins which he sinned by doing the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, by walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he did, by causing Israel to sin. ²⁰And the rest of the matters of Zimri, and his conspiracy which he made, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

²¹Then are the Children of Israel parted into halves; half of the people hath been after Tibni son of Ginath to cause him to reign, and the half after Omri. ²²And the people are stronger that are after Omri than the people that are after Tibni son of Ginath, and Tibni dieth, and Omri reigneth.

²⁵And Omri doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and doth evil above all who are before him; ²⁶and walketh in all the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and in his sin which he caused Israel to sin, provoking the LORD, God of Israel, with their vanities. ²⁷And the rest of the matters of Omri which he did, and his might which he got, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ²⁸And Omri lieth with his fathers, and is buried in Samaria; and Ahab his son reigneth in his stead.

²⁹And Ahab son of Omri hath reigned over Israel in the thirty and eighth year of Asa king of Judah, and Ahab son of Omri reigneth over Israel in Samaria twenty and two years; ³⁰and Ahab son of Omri doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD above all who are before him. ³¹And it cometh to pass—hath it been light his walking in the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat?—then he taketh a wife, Jezebel daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Zidonians, and goeth and serveth Baal, and boweth himself to it. ³²And he raiseth up an altar for Baal, in the house of Baal, which he built in Samaria; ³³Ahab also maketh the shrine, and Ahab continueth to do so as to provoke the LORD, God of Israel, above all the kings of Israel who have been before him.

³⁴In his days Hiel the Beth-Elite built Jericho; in Abram his first-born he laid its foundation, and in Segub his youngest he set up its gates, according to the word of the LORD which He spake by the hand of Joshua son of Nun.

XVII. ¹AND Elijah the Tishbite, one of the inhabitants of Gilead, saith unto Ahab, 'The LORD, God of Israel, liveth, before whom I have stood, there is not these years dew or rain, but according to my word.'

²And the word of the LORD is unto him, saying, ³'Go from this place; then hast thou turned for thyself eastward, and been hidden by the brook of Cherith, which is on the front of the Jordan, ⁴and it hath been, from the brook thou dost drink, and the ravens I have commanded to sustain thee there.' ⁵And he goeth and doth according to the word of the LORD; yea, he goeth and dwelleth by the brook of Cherith, which is on the front of the Jordan; ⁶and the ravens bring to him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening, and of the brook he drinketh. ⁷And it cometh to pass, at the end of a week, that the brook drieth up, for there was no rain in the land; ⁸and the word of the LORD is unto him, saying, ⁹'Rise, go to Zarephath, which is Zidon's, then hast thou dwelt there; lo, I have commanded there a widow woman to sustain thee.'

¹⁰And he riseth, and goeth to Zarephath, and cometh unto the opening of the city, and lo there, a widow woman gathering sticks, and he calleth unto her, and saith, 'Bring, I pray thee, to me, a little water in the vessel, and let me drink.' ¹¹And she goeth to bring it, and he calleth unto her and saith, 'Bring, I pray thee, to me a morsel of bread in thy hand.' ¹²And she saith, 'The LORD thy God liveth, I have not a cake, but the fulness of the hand of meal in a pitcher, and a little oil in a dish; and lo, I am gathering two sticks, then have I gone in and prepared it for myself, and for my son, and we have eaten it and died.'

¹³And Elijah saith unto her, 'Fear not, go, do according to thy word, only make for me from thence a little cake, in the first place, then hast thou brought out to me; and for thyself, and for thy son make at last: ¹⁴for thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, The pitcher of meal is not consumed, and the dish of oil is not lacking, till the day of the LORD's giving rain on the face of the ground.' ¹⁵And she goeth, and doth according to the word of Elijah, and she eateth, she and he, and her household, a week; ¹⁶the pitcher of meal was not consumed, and the dish of oil did not lack, according to the word of the LORD which He spake by the hand of Elijah.

¹⁹And he saith unto her, 'Give to me thy son; and he taketh him out of her bosom, and taketh him up unto the upper chamber where he abideth, and layeth him on his own bed; ²⁰and crieth unto the LORD, and saith, 'O LORD my God, hast Thou also on the widow with whom I am sojourning done evil—putting her son to death?'

²¹And he stretcheth himself out on the lad three times, and calleth unto the LORD, and saith, 'O LORD my God, let turn back, I pray Thee, the soul of this lad into his midst.' ²²And the LORD hearkeneth to the voice of Elijah, and the soul of the lad cometh back into his midst, and he liveth.

²³And Elijah taketh the lad, and bringeth him down out of the upper chamber of the house, and giveth him to his mother, and Elijah saith, 'See, thy son liveth!' ²⁴And the woman saith to Elijah, 'Now, this have I known, that thou art a man of God, and the word of the LORD in thy mouth is truth.'

XVIII. ¹AND the days are many, and the word of the LORD hath been unto Elijah in the third year, saying, 'Go, appear unto Ahab, and I will give rain on the face of the ground.' ²And Elijah goeth to appear unto Ahab.

And the famine is severe in Samaria, ³and Ahab calleth unto Obadiah, who is over the house: (and Obadiah hath been fearing the LORD greatly; yea, it cometh to pass, in Jezebel's cutting off the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah taketh a hundred prophets, and hideth them, fifty men in a cave, and hath sustained them with bread and water); ⁴and Ahab saith unto Obadiah, 'Go through the land, unto all the fountains of waters, and unto all the brooks, if so be we may find hay, and keep alive horse and mule, and not cut off any of the cattle.' ⁵And they apportion to themselves the land, to pass over into it; Ahab hath gone in one way by himself, and Obadiah hath gone in another way by himself. ⁶And Obadiah is in the way, and lo, Elijah—to meet him; and he discerneth him, and falleth on his face, and saith, 'Art thou he—my lord Elijah?' ⁷And he saith to him, 'I am; go, say to thy lord, Lo, Elijah.'

⁸And he saith, 'What have I sinned, that thou art giving thy servant into the hand of Ahab—to put me to death?' ⁹The LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee; when they said, He is not, then he caused that kingdom and that nation to swear, that it doth not find thee: ¹⁰and now, thou art saying, Go, say to thy lord, Lo, Elijah: ¹¹but it hath been, I go from thee, and the Spirit of the LORD doth lift thee up, whither I know not, and I have come to declare to Ahab, and he doth not find thee, and he hath slain me; yet thy servant feareth the LORD from my youth. ¹²Hath it not been declared to my lord that which I have done in Jezebel's slaying the prophets of the LORD, that I hide of the prophets of the LORD a hundred men, fifty by fifty in a cave, and sustain them with bread and water? ¹³And now thou art saying, Go, say to thy lord, Lo, Elijah—and he hath slain me.'

¹⁴And Elijah saith, 'The LORD of Hosts liveth, before whom I have stood, surely to-day I appear unto him.' ¹⁵And Obadiah goeth to meet Ahab, and declareth it to him, and Ahab goeth to meet Elijah. ¹⁶And it cometh to pass at Ahab's seeing Elijah, that Ahab saith unto him, 'Art thou he—the troubler of Israel?' ¹⁷And he saith, 'I have not troubled Israel, but thou and the house of thy father, by your forsaking the commands of the LORD, seeing thou goest after the Baalim; ¹⁸and now, send, gather unto me all Israel, unto the mount of Carmel, and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the shrine, four hundred, eating at the table of Jezebel.'

¹⁹And Ahab sendeth among all the children of Israel, and gathereth the prophets unto the mount of Carmel. ²⁰And Elijah cometh nigh unto all the people, and saith, 'Till when are ye leaping on two branches?—if Jehovah is God, go after Him: and if Baal, go after him; but the people have not answered him a word.

²¹And Elijah saith unto the people, 'I, I have been left a prophet of the LORD—by myself; and the prophets of Baal are four hundred and fifty men; ²²yet let them give to us two bullocks, and let them choose for themselves the one bullock, and cut it in pieces, and place it on the wood, but place no fire; and I—I prepare the other bullock, and have put it on the wood, but fire I do not place:—²³then have ye called on the name of your god, and I call on the name of Jehovah, and it hath been, the god who answereth by fire,—He is God.' And all the people answer and say, 'Good is the word.'

²⁴And Elijah saith to the prophets of Baal, 'Choose for yourselves the one bullock, and prepare first, for ye are the multitude, and call ye on the name of your god, but place no fire.' ²⁵And they take the bullock one gave to them, and prepare, and call on the name of Baal from the morning even unto the noon, saying, 'O Baal, answer us!' but there is no voice nor answer; and they leap on the altar which one hath made.

²⁶And it cometh to pass, at noon, that Elijah playeth on them, and saith, 'Call with a loud voice, for he is a god, for he is meditating, or pursuing, or on a journey; it may be he is asleep, and will awake.'

²⁹And Elijah saith to all the people, 'Come nigh unto me;' and all the people come nigh unto him, and he repaireth the altar of the LORD, which is broken down.

³⁰And Elijah taketh twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD was, saying, 'Israel is thy name.' ³¹And he buildeth with the stones an altar, in the name of the LORD, and maketh a trench, in the space of two measures of seed, round about the altar. ³²And he arrangeth the wood, and cutteth the bullock in pieces, and placeth it on the wood, and saith, 'Fill ye four pitchers of water, and pour on the burnt-offering, and on the wood: ³³and he saith, Do it a second time;' and they do it a second time; and he saith, 'Do it a third time; and they do it a third time. ³⁵ And the water goeth round about the altar, and also, the trench hath he filled with water.

³⁶ And it cometh to pass, at the going up of the evening-offering, that Elijah the prophet cometh nigh and saith, 'LORD, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, to-day let it be known that Thou art God in Israel, and I thy servant: that by Thy word I have done the whole of these things.' ³⁷ Answer me, O LORD, answer me, and let this people know that Thou art the LORD God: then hast Thou turned their heart backward.

³⁸ And the fire of the LORD falleth, and consumeth the burnt-offering, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, the water also that is in the trench it hath licked up.

XIX. ¹ AND Ahab declareth to Jezebel all that Elijah did, and all how he slew all the prophets by the sword: ² and Jezebel sendeth a messenger unto Elijah, saying, 'So let the gods do, and so let them add, surely about this time to-morrow, I make thy life as the life of one of these.' ³ And he feareth, and riseth, and goeth for his life, and cometh into Beer-Sheba, which is Judah's, and leaveth his young man there: ⁴ and he himself hath gone into the wilderness a day's journey, and he cometh and sitteth under a juniper-tree, and desireth his soul to die, and saith, 'Enough, now, O LORD, take my soul, for I am not better than my fathers.'

⁵ And he lieth down and sleepeth under a certain juniper-tree, and lo, a messenger cometh against him, and saith to him, 'Rise, eat.' ⁶ And he looketh attentively, and lo, at his bolster a cake baken on burning stones, and a cruise of water, and he eateth, and drinketh, and turneth back, and lieth down.

⁷ And the messenger of Jehovah turneth back a second time, and cometh against him, and saith, 'Rise, eat, for the way is too great for thee.' ⁸ And he riseth, and eateth, and drinketh, and goeth in the strength of that food forty days and forty nights, unto the mount of God—Horeb.

⁹ And he cometh in there, unto the cave, and lodgeth there: and lo, the word of the LORD is unto him, and saith to him, 'What—to thee, here, Elijah?' ¹⁰ And he saith, 'I have been very zealous for the LORD, God of Hosts, for the Children of Israel have forsaken Thy covenant; Thine altars they have thrown down, and Thy prophets they have slain by the sword, and I am left, I, by myself, and they seek my life to take it.'

¹⁹ And he goeth from thence, and findeth Elisha son of Shaphat, and he is plowing, twelve yoke of oxen are before him, and he is with the twelfth; and Elijah passeth by, and casteth his robe upon him, ²⁰ and he forsaketh the oxen, and runneth after Elijah, and saith, 'Let me give a kiss, I pray thee, to my father and to my mother, and come after thee.' And he saith to him, 'Go, turn back, for what have I done to thee?' ²¹ And he turneth back from after him, and taketh the yoke of oxen, and sacrificeth it, and with the instruments of the oxen he hath boiled their flesh, and giveth to the people, and they do eat; and he riseth, and goeth after Elijah, and serveth him.

XX. ¹ AND Ben-Hadad king of Aram hath gathered all his force, and thirty and two kings are with him, and horse and chariot, and he goeth up and layeth siege against Samaria, and fighteth with it, ²and sendeth messengers unto Ahab king of Israel, into the city, and saith to him, ³'Thus hath Ben-Hadad said, Thy silver and thy gold are mine, and thy wives and thy children—the best—are mine.' ⁴'And the king of Israel answereth and saith, 'According to thy word, my lord, O king: I am thine, and all that I have.'

⁵And the messengers turn back and say, 'Thus hath Ben-Hadad spoken, saying, Surely I sent unto thee, saying, Thy silver and thy gold, and thy wives and thy sons, to me dost thou give; ⁶that if, at this time to-morrow, I send my servants unto thee, then they have searched thy house, and the houses of thy servants, and it hath been, every desirable thing of thine eyes they place in their hand, and have taken away.'

⁷And the king of Israel calleth for all the elders of the land, and saith, 'Know, I pray you, and see that this one is seeking evil, for he sent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my silver, and for my gold, and I withheld not from him.' ⁸'And all the elders and all the people say unto him, 'Hearken not, nor consent.'

⁹And he saith to the messengers of Ben-Hadad, 'Say ye to my lord the king, All that thou didst send for unto thy servant at the first I may do, but this thing I am unable to do,' and the messengers go and take him back word. ¹⁰And Ben-Hadad sendeth unto him, and saith, 'So let the gods do to me, and so let them add, if the dust of Samaria suffice for handfuls for all the people who are at my feet.' ¹¹And the king of Israel answereth and saith, 'Speak ye: let not him who girdeth on boast himself as him who looseth his armour.' ¹²And it cometh to pass at the hearing of this word, and he is drinking, he and the kings in the booths, that he saith unto his servants, 'Set yourselves;' and they set themselves against the city.

¹³And lo, a certain prophet hath come nigh unto Ahab king of Israel, and saith, 'Thus hath the Lord said, 'Hast thou seen all this great multitude? lo, I am giving it into thy hand to-day, and thou hast known that I am the Lord.' ¹⁴And Ahab saith, 'By whom?' and he saith, 'Thus hath the Lord said, By the young men of the heads of the provinces;' and he saith, 'Who doth direct the battle?' and he saith, 'Thou.'

¹⁵And he inspecteth the young men of the heads of the provinces, and they are two hundred, thirty and two, and after them he hath inspected the whole of the people, all the Children of Israel, seven thousand. ¹⁶And they go out at noon, and Ben-Hadad is drinking—drunk in the tent, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings helping him.

¹⁷And the young men of the heads of the provinces go out at the first, and Ben-Hadad sendeth, and they declare to him, saying, 'Men have come out of Samaria.' ¹⁸And he saith, 'If for peace they have come out—catch them alive; and if for battle they have come out—alive catch them.' ¹⁹And these have gone out of the city—the young men of the heads of the provinces—and the force which is after them; ²⁰and they smite each his man, and Aram fleeth, and Israel pursueth them; and Ben-Hadad king of Aram escapeth on a horse with the horsemen. ²¹And the king of Israel goeth out, and smiteth the horses, and the charioteers, and hath smitten among the Aramaeans a great smiting.

²²And the prophet cometh nigh unto the king of Israel, and saith to him, 'Go, strengthen thyself, and know and see what thou doest, for at the turn of the year thou king of Aram cometh up against thee.'

²³And the servants of the king of Aram have said unto him, 'Gods of the hills are their gods; therefore they were stronger than we, and yet, let us fight with them in the plain—shall we not be stronger than they?' ²⁴And this thing do thou: Turn the kings aside, each out of his place, and set captains in their stead; ²⁵and thou, number to thyself a force as the force that is fallen from thee, and horse for horse, and chariot for chariot, and let us fight with them in the plain; shall we not be stronger than they?' and he hearkeneth to their voice, and doth so.

²⁸And a man of God cometh nigh, and speaketh unto the king of Israel, and saith, 'Thus hath the Lord said, Because the Aramaeans have said, Jehovah is God of the hills, but He is not God of the valleys, I also have given the whole of this great multitude into thy hand, and ye have known that I am the Lord.'

³¹And his servants say unto him, 'Lo, we pray thee, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel—that they are kindly kings; let us put, we pray thee, sackcloth on our loins, and ropes on our heads, and go out unto the king of Israel; it may be he will keep thee alive.' ³²And they gird sackcloth on their loins, and ropes are on their heads, and they come in unto the king of Israel, and say, 'Thy servant Ben-Hadad hath said, Let me live, I pray thee;' and he saith, 'Is he yet alive? he is my brother.'

³³And the men observe diligently, and hasten, and catch it from him, and say, 'Thy brother Ben-Hadad;' and he saith, 'Go ye, bring him;' and Ben-Hadad cometh out unto him, and he causeth him to come up on the chariot. ³⁴ And he saith unto him, 'The cities which my father took from thy father, I give back, and streets thou mayest make for thyself in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria;—' and I, with a covenant, send thee away; and he maketh with him a covenant, and sendeth him away.

³⁵ And a certain man of the sons of the prophets said unto his neighbour by the word of the LORD, 'Smite me, I pray thee; but the man refuseth to smite him, ³⁶ and he saith to him, 'Because thou hast not hearkened to the voice of the LORD, lo, thou goest from me, and the lion hath smitten thee;' and he goeth from him, and the lion findeth him, and smiteth him. ³⁷ And he findeth another man, and saith, 'Smite me, I pray thee; and the man smiteth him; smiting and wounding. ³⁸ And the prophet goeth and standeth for the king on the way, and disguiseth himself with ashes on his eyes.

³⁹ And it cometh to pass—the king is passing by, and he hath cried unto the king, and saith, 'Thy servant went out into the midst of the battle, and lo a man hath turned aside, and bringeth unto me a man, and saith, Keep this man; if he be at all missing, then thy life hath been for his life, or a talent of silver thou shalt weigh out; ⁴⁰ and it cometh to pass, thy servant is working here and there, and he is not.' And the king of Israel saith unto him, Right is thy judgment; thou hast determined it.'

⁴¹ And he hasteth and turneth aside the ashes from off his eyes, and the king of Israel discerneth him, that he is of the prophets; ⁴² and he saith unto him, 'Thus hath the LORD said, 'Because thou hast sent away the man whom I devoted, out of thy hand, even thy life hath been for his life, and thy people for his people.' ⁴³ And the king of Israel goeth unto his house, sulky and wroth, and cometh to Samaria.

XXI. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, after these things, a vineyard hath been to Naboth the Jezreelite, which is in Jezreel, near the palace of Ahab king of Samaria; ² and Ahab speaketh unto Naboth, saying, 'Give to me thy vineyard, that it may be to me for a garden of green herbs, for it is near by my house, and let me give to thee in its stead a better vineyard than it; if good in thine eyes, let me give to thee silver, its price.'

³ And Naboth saith unto Ahab, 'Far be it from me, by the LORD, from my giving the inheritance of my fathers to thee.' ⁴ And Ahab cometh in unto his house, sulky and wroth, because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite hath spoken unto him when he saith, 'I may not give to thee the inheritance of my fathers,' and he lieth down on his bed, and turneth round his face, and hath not eaten bread. ⁵ And Jezebel his wife cometh unto him, and saith unto him, 'What is this?—thy spirit sulky, and thou art eating no bread!'

⁶ And he saith unto her, 'Because I speak unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and say to him, Give to me thy vineyard for money, or if thou desire, let me give to thee a vineyard in its stead; but he saith, I may not give to thee my vineyard.' ⁷ And Jezebel his wife saith unto him, 'Art thou now executing rule over Israel? rise, eat bread, and let thy heart be glad; I do give to thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.'

¹⁷ And the word of the LORD is unto Elijah the Tishbite, saying, ¹⁸ 'Rise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who is in Samaria, lo, in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he hath gone down to possess it; ¹⁹ and thou hast spoken unto him, saying, Thus hath the LORD said, Hast thou murdered, and also possessed? yea, thou hast spoken unto him, saying, Thus hath the LORD said, In the place where the dogs licked the blood of Naboth, do dogs lick thy blood, even thine.'

²⁰ And Ahab saith unto Elijah, 'Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?' and he saith, 'I have found, because of thy selling thyself to do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD; ²¹ lo, I am bringing evil on thee, and have taken away thy posterity, and have cut off to Ahab those who sit on the wall, and the restrained, and the left in Israel; ²² and I have given up thy house like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah, for the provocation with which thou hast provoked Me, and dost cause Israel to sin. ²³ And also of Jezebel hath the LORD spoken, saying, The dogs do eat Jezebel in the bulwark of Jezreel. ²⁴ Him who dieth of Ahab in the city do the dogs eat, and him who dieth in the field do the fowls of the heavens eat; surely there hath none been like Ahab, who hath sold himself to do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, whom Jezebel his wife hath moved, that he doth very abominably by going after the idols, according to all that the Amorites did whom the LORD dispossessed from the presence of the Children of Israel.

And it cometh to pass, at Ahab's hearing these words, that he rendeth his garments, and putteth sackcloth on his flesh, and fasteth, and lieth in sackcloth, and goeth gently. And the word of the LORD is unto Elijah the Tishbite, saying, Hast thou seen that Ahab hath been humbled before Me? because he hath been humbled before Me, I bring not in the evil in his days; in the days of his son I bring in the evil on his house.

XXII. AND they sit still three years; there is no war between Aram and Israel: and it cometh to pass in the third year, that Jehoshaphat king of Judah cometh down to the king of Israel: and the king of Israel saith unto his servants, Have ye not known that ours is Ramoth-Gilead? yet we are keeping silent from taking it out of the hand of the king of Aram. And he saith unto Jehoshaphat, Dost thou go with me to battle to Ramoth-Gilead? and Jehoshaphat saith unto the king of Israel, As thou art, so am I: as thy people, so my people; as thy horses, so my horses. Jehoshaphat also saith unto the king of Israel, Seek, I pray thee, to-day, the word of the LORD. And the king of Israel gathereth the prophets, about four hundred men, and saith unto them, Should I go against Ramoth-Gilead to battle, or forbear? and they say, Go up, and the LORD shall give it into the hand of the king.

And Jehoshaphat saith, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD besides, that we may seek by him? And the king of Israel saith unto Jehoshaphat, Yet there is one man to seek the LORD by him, but I have hated him, for he doth not prophesy concerning me good, but evil—Micaiah son of Imlah. And Jehoshaphat saith, Let not the king say so. And the king of Israel calleth unto a certain eunuch, and saith, Hasten Micaiah son of Imlah.

And the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah are sitting each on his throne clothed with garments, in a threshing-floor at the opening of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets are prophesying before them. And Zedekiah son of Cheneanah maketh for himself horns of iron, and saith, Thus hath the LORD said, With these dost thou push the Arameans till they are consumed. And all the prophets are prophesying so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-Gilead, and prosper, seeing the LORD hath given it into the hand of the king.

And the messenger who hath gone to call Micaiah, hath spoken unto him, saying, Lo, I pray thee, the word of the prophets, with one mouth are good towards the king:

let it be, I pray thee, thy word as the word of one of them,—then saith thou spoken good. And Micaiah saith, The LORD liveth; surely that which the LORD saith unto me, I speak.

And he cometh unto the king, and the king saith unto him, Micaiah, should we go unto Ramoth-Gilead, to battle, or should I forbear? and he saith unto him, Go up, and prosper; seeing the LORD hath given it into the hand of the king. And the king saith unto him, How many times do I adjure thee that thou speak nothing unto me but truth in the name of the LORD? And he saith, I have seen all Israel scattered on the hills as sheep that have no shepherd, and the LORD saith, These have no master, let them turn back each to his house in peace. And the king of Israel saith unto Jehoshaphat, Did I not say unto thee, He doth not prophesy good of me, but evil?

And he saith, Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I have seen the LORD sitting on His throne, and the whole host of the heavens is standing by Him, at His right and at His left. And the LORD saith, Who doth entice Ahab, that he doth go up and fall in Ramoth-Gilead? and this one saith thus, and that one saith thus. And the spirit goeth out, and standeth before the LORD, and saith, I do entice him; and the LORD saith unto him, By what? and he saith, I go out, and have been a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets: and he saith, Thou dost entice, and also, thou art able; go out and do so. And now, lo, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets, yea, the LORD hath spoken evil concerning thee.

And Zedekiah son of Cheneanah draweth nigh, and smiteth Micaiah, on the cheek, and saith, Where is this—he hath passed—the Spirit of the LORD—from me to speak with thee? And Micaiah saith, Lo, thou dost see on that day, when thou goest into the innermost chamber to be hidden.

And the king of Israel saith, Take Micaiah, and turn him back unto Amon head of the city, and unto Jonah son of the king. Then hast thou said, Thus hath the king said, Place ye this one in the house of restraint, and cause him to eat bread of oppression, and water of oppression, till my coming in peace. And Micaiah saith, If thou at all return in peace—the LORD hath not spoken by me: and he saith, Hear ye, O peoples, all of you.

And the king of Israel goeth up, with Jehoshaphat king of Judah, to Ramoth-Gilead. And the king of Israel speaketh unto Jehoshaphat of disguising himself, and going into the battle, But thou, put on thy garments. And the king of Israel disguiseth himself, and goeth into the battle.

And the king of Aram commanded the heads of the charioteers whom he hath—thirty and two—saying, Ye shall not fight with small or with great, but with the king of Israel by himself. And it cometh to pass, at the heads of the charioteers seeing Jehoshaphat, that they said, It is only tho king of Israel; and they turn aside to him to fight, and Jehoshaphat crieth out. ³³ And it cometh to pass, at the heads of the charioteers seeing that it is not the king of Israel, that they turn back from after him.

Azubah daughter of Shilhi. ⁴³ And he walketh in all the way of Asa his father, he hath not turned aside from it, doing that which is right in the eyes of the LORD; only the high places they have not turned aside, yet are the people sacrificing and making perfume in the high places.

⁵¹ Ahaziah son of Ahab hath reigned over Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigneth over Israel two years; ⁵² and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and walketh in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to sin: ⁵³ and he serveth Baal, and boweth himself to it, and provoketh the LORD, God of Israel, according to all that his father had done.

SECOND BOOK OF KINGS.

CHAP. I ¹ AND Moab transgresseth against Israel after the death of Ahab. ² And Ahaziah falleth through the lattice in his upper chamber which is in Samaria, and is sick, and sendeth messengers, and saith to them, 'Go ye, inquire of Baal-Zebub god of Ekron if I shall recover from this sickness.'

³ And the messenger of Jehovah hath spoken unto Elijah the Tishbite: 'Rise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and speak unto them, Is it because there is no God in Israel—ye are going to inquire of Baal-Zebub god of Ekron? ⁴ Therefore also thus hath the LORD said, The bed whither thou hast gone up, thou dost not come down from it, for thou dost certainly die;' and Elijah goeth on.

⁵ And the messengers turn back unto him, and he saith unto them, 'What is this—ye have turned back?' ⁶ And they say unto him, 'A man hath come up to meet us, and saith unto us, Go, turn back unto the king who sent you, then have ye said unto him, Thus hath the LORD said, Is it because there is no God in Israel—thou art sending to inquire of Baal-Zebub god of Ekron? therefore the bed whither thou hast gone up—thou dost not come down from it, for thou dost certainly die.' ⁷ And he saith unto them, 'What is the fashion of the man who hath come up to meet you, and speaketh unto you these things?' ⁸ And they say unto him, 'A man—hairy, and a girdle of skin is girt about his loins;' and he saith, 'It is Elijah the Tishbite.'

⁹ And he sendeth unto him a head of fifty and his fifty, and he goeth up unto him (and lo, he is sitting on the top of the hill), and he speaketh unto him, 'O man of God, the king hath spoken, Come down.' ¹⁰ And Elijah answereth and speaketh unto the head of the fifty, 'And if I am a man of God, let fire come down from the heavens, and consume thee and thy fifty;' and fire cometh down from the heavens, and consumeth him and his fifty.

¹¹ And again he sendeth unto him another head of fifty and his fifty, and he answereth and speaketh unto him, 'O man of God, thus hath the king said, Haste, come down.' ¹²And Elijah answereth and speaketh unto them, 'If I am a man of God, let fire come down from the heavens, and consume thee and thy fifty;' and the fire of God cometh down from the heavens, and consumeth him and his fifty.

¹³And again he sendeth a third head of fifty and his fifty, and the third head of fifty goeth up, and cometh, and boweth on his knees over-against Elijah, and maketh supplication unto him, and speaketh unto him, 'O man of God, let it be precious, I pray thee, my soul and the soul of thy servants—these fifty—in thine eyes.' ¹⁴Lo, fire hath come down from the heavens, and consumeth the two heads of the former fifties and their fifties; but, now, let my soul be precious in thine eyes.'

¹⁵And the messenger of Jehovah speaketh unto Elijah, 'Go down with him, be not afraid of him;' and he riseth and goeth down with him unto the king; ¹⁶and speaketh unto him, 'Thus hath the LORD said, Because thou hast sent messengers to inquire of Baal-Zebub god of Ekron, is it because there is no God in Israel to inquire of His word? therefore the bed whither thou hast gone up—thou dost not come down from it, for thou dost certainly die.' ¹⁷And he dieth, according to the word of the LORD which Elijah spake; and Jehoram reigneth in his stead (in the second year of Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah), for he had no son. ¹⁸And the rest of the matters of Ahaziah which he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

II. ¹AND it cometh to pass, at the LORD's taking up Elijah in a whirlwind into the heavens, that Elijah goeth with Elisha from Gilgal; ²and Elisha saith unto Elisha, 'Abide, I pray thee, here, for the LORD hath sent me unto Bethel;' and Elisha saith, 'The LORD liveth, and thy soul liveth, I do not leave thee;' and they go down to Bethel. ³And the sons of the prophets who are in Bethel come out unto Elisha, and say unto him, 'Hast thou known that to-day the LORD taketh thy lord from thy head?' and he saith, 'I also have known it; keep silent.'

⁴And Elisha saith to him, 'Elisha, abide, I pray thee, here, for the LORD hath sent me to Jericho;' and he saith, 'The LORD liveth, and thy soul liveth, I do not leave thee;' and they come to Jericho. ⁵And the sons of the prophets who are in Jericho come nigh unto Elisha, and say unto him, 'Hast thou known that to-day the LORD taketh thy lord from thy head?' and he saith, 'I also have known it; keep silent.'

⁶And Elisha saith to him, 'Abide, I pray thee, here, for the LORD hath sent me to the Jordan;' and he saith, 'The LORD liveth, and thy soul liveth, I do not leave thee;' and they go on both of them, ⁷fifty men also of the sons of the prophets have gone on, and they stand over-against afar off, and both of them have stood by the Jordan. ⁸And Elisha taketh his robe, and wrappeth it together, and smiteth the waters, and they are halved, hither and thither, and they both pass over on dry land.

⁹And it cometh to pass, at their passing over, that Elijah hath said unto Elisha, 'Ask; what shall I do for thee before I be taken from thee?' and Elisha saith, 'Then let there be, I pray thee, a double portion of thy spirit upon me;' ¹⁰and he saith, 'Thou hast asked a hard thing; if thou see me taken from thee, let it be to thee so; and if not, let it not be so.'

¹¹And it cometh to pass, they are going, going on and speaking, and lo, a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and they separate between them both, and Elijah goeth up in the whirlwind, into the heavens. ¹²And Elisha is seeing, and he crieth, 'My father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and its horsemen;' and he hath not seen him any more, and he taketh hold on his garments, and rendeth them into two pieces; ¹³and lifteth up the robe of Elijah, which fell from off him, and turneth back and standeth on the edge of the Jordan; ¹⁴and taketh the robe of Elijah which fell from off him, and smiteth the waters, and saith, 'Where is the LORD, God of Elijah—He also?' and he smiteth the waters, and they are halved, hither and thither, and Elisha passeth over.

¹⁵And they see him—the sons of the prophets who are in Jericho, over-against—and they say, 'The spirit of Elijah hath rested on Elisha;' and come to meet him, and bow themselves to him to the ground, ¹⁶and say unto him, 'Lo, we pray thee, there are with thy servants fifty men, sons of valour; let them go, we pray thee, and let them seek thy lord; lest the Spirit of the LORD have taken him up, and cast him on one of the hills, or into one of the valleys;' and he saith, 'Ye shall not send.' ¹⁷And they press upon him, till he is ashamed, and he saith, 'Send ye;' and they send fifty men, and they seek three days, and have not found him. ¹⁸And they turn back to him, (and he is abiding in Jericho), and he saith unto them, 'Did I not say unto you, Go not?'

¹⁹And the men of the city say unto Elisha, 'Lo, we pray thee, the situation of the city is good, as our lord seeth; but the waters are bad, and the earth sterile.' ²⁰And he saith, 'Bring to me a new dish, and place ye salt there;' and they bring it unto him, ²¹and he goeth out unto the outlet of the waters, and casteth the salt there, and saith, 'Thus hath the LORD said, I have given healing to these waters: there is no more from thence death or sterility.' ²²And the waters are healed unto this day, according to the word of Elisha, which he spake.

²³And he goeth up from thence to Bethel, and he is going up in the way, and little youths have come out from the city, and scoff at him, and say to him, 'Go up, bald-head! go up, bald-head!' ²⁴And he looketh behind him, and seeth them, and declareth them vile in the name of the LORD; and two bears come out of the forest, and rend of them forty and two children. ²⁵And he goeth from thence to the hill of Carmel, and from thence he turned back to Samaria.

III. ¹AND Jehoram son of Ahab hath reigned over Israel, in Samaria, in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and he reigneth twelve years; ²and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, but not like his father, and like his mother, seeing he turneth aside the standing-pillar of Baal which his father made; ³but to the sin of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to sin he hath cleaved, he hath not turned aside from it.

¹³And Elisha saith unto the king of Israel, 'What—to me and to thee? go unto the prophets of thy father, and unto the prophets of thy mother;' and the king of Israel saith to him, 'Nay, for the LORD hath called for these three kings to give them into the hand of Moab.' ¹⁴And Elisha saith, 'The LORD of Hosts liveth, before whom I have stood; for unless the face of Jehoshaphat king of Judah lift up, I would not look unto thee, nor see thee: ¹⁵but now, bring ye to me a minstrel;' and it hath been, at the playing of the minstrel, that the hand of the LORD is on him, ¹⁶and he saith, 'Thus hath the LORD said, Make this valley ditches—ditches: ¹⁷for thus hath the LORD said, Ye shall not see wind, nor shall ye see rain, yet that valley shall be full of water, and ye have drunk, ye, and your cattle, and your beasts. ¹⁸And this hath been light in the eyes of the LORD, he hath also given Moab into your hand: ¹⁹and ye have smitten every fenced city, and every choice city; and every good tree ye cause to fall, and all fountains of waters ye stop, and every good portion ye mar with stones.'

²⁰And it cometh to pass in the morning, at the ascending of the morning-offering, that lo, waters are coming in from the way of Edom, and the land is filled with the waters. ²¹And all the Moabites have heard that the kings have come up to fight against them, and they are called together, from every one girding on a girdle and upward, and they stand by the border. ²²And they rise early in the morning, and the sun hath shone on the waters, and the Moabites see from over-against the water red as blood, ²³and say, 'This is blood; the kings have been surely destroyed, and they smite each his neighbour; and now, to the spoil, Moab!'

²⁴And they come in unto the camp of Israel, and the Israelites rise, and smite the Moabites, and they flee from their presence; and they enter into Moab, so as to smite it; ²⁵and the cities they break down, and on every good portion they cast each his stone, and have filled it, and every fountain of water they have stopped, and every good tree they have caused to fall, till it had left its stones in Kir-Harseth, and the slingers go round and smite it.

²⁶And the king of Moab seeth that the battle has been too strong for him, and he taketh with him seven hundred men, drawing the sword, to cleave through unto the king of Edom, but they have not been able. ²⁷And he taketh his son, the first-born who reigneth in his stead, and causeth him to ascend—a burnt-offering on the wall; and great wrath is against Israel, and they turn aside from him, and turn back to the land.

IV. ¹AND a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets hath cried unto Elisha, saying, 'Thy servant, my husband, is dead; and thou hast known that thy servant was fearing the LORD: yet the lender hath come to take my two children to himself for servants.' ²And Elisha saith unto her, 'What shall I do for thee? declare to me, what hast thou in the house?' and she saith, 'Thy maid-servant hath nothing in the house save a pot of oil.' ³And he saith, 'Go, ask for thyself vessels from without, from all thy neighbours, empty vessels, let them not be few; ⁴then hast thou entered, and hast shut the door upon thee, and upon thy sons, and hast poured out into all those vessels, and the full ones thou dost remove.'

⁵And she goeth from him, and shutteth the door upon her, and upon her sons; they bring near unto her, and she poureth out; ⁶and it cometh to pass, at the filling of the vessels, that she saith unto her son, 'Bring nigh unto me a vessel more,' and he saith unto her, 'There is not a vessel more;' and the oil stayeth. ⁷And she cometh and declareth to the man of God, and he saith, 'Go, sell the oil, and repay thy loan; and thou and thy sons shall live of the rest.'

⁸And the day cometh that Elisha passeth over unto Shunem, and there is a great woman, and she layeth hold on him to eat bread; and it cometh to pass, at the time of his passing over, he turneth aside thither to eat bread; ⁹and she saith unto her husband, 'Lo, I pray thee, I have known that the man of God is holy, he is passing over by us continually; ¹⁰let us make, I pray thee, a little upper chamber of the wall, and let us set for him there a bed, and a table, and a high seat, and a candlestick; then it hath been, in his coming in unto us, he doth turn aside thither.'

¹¹And the day cometh that he cometh in thither, and he turneth aside unto the upper chamber, and lieth there: ¹²and he saith unto Gehazi his young man, 'Call for this Shunammite;' and he calleth for her, and she standeth before him. ¹³And he saith to him, 'Say, I pray thee, unto her, Lo, thou hast troubled thyself concerning us with all this trouble: what—to do for thee? is it to speak for thee unto the king, or unto the head of the host?' and she saith, 'In the midst of mine own people I am dwelling.'

¹⁴And he saith, 'And what—to do for her?' and Gehazi saith, 'Verily she hath no son, and her husband is old.' ¹⁵And he saith, 'Call for her;' and he calleth for her, and she standeth at the opening, ¹⁶and he saith, 'At this season, according to the time of life, thou art embracing a son;' and she saith, 'Nay, my lord, O man of God; do not lie unto thy maid-servant.'

¹⁷And the woman conceiveth and beareth a son, at this season, according to the time of life, which Elisha had spoken of unto her. ¹⁸And the lad groweth, and the day cometh that he goeth out unto his father, unto the reapers. ¹⁹And he saith unto his father, 'My head, my head;' and he saith unto the young man, 'Bear him unto his mother.' ²⁰And he beareth him, and bringeth him in unto his mother, and he sitteth on her knees till the noon, and dieth.

²¹And she goeth up, and layeth him on the bed of the man of God, and shutteth the door upon him, and goeth out, ²²and calleth unto her husband, and saith, 'Seud, I pray thee, to me one of the young men, and one of the asses, and let me run unto the man of God, and return.' ²³And he saith, 'Wherefore art thou going unto him to-day?—neither new moon nor sabbath!' and she saith, 'Peace.'

²⁴And she saddlith the ass, and saith unto her young man, 'Lead, and go, restrain not riding for me, except I have said so to thee.' ²⁵And she goeth, and cometh unto the man of God, unto the hill of Carmel; and it cometh to pass, at the man of God's seeing her, over-against, that he saith unto Gehazi his young man, 'Lo, this Shunammite: ²⁶now, run, I pray thee, to meet her, and say to her, 'Is there peace to thee? is there peace to thy husband? is there peace to the lad?' and she saith, 'Peace.'

²⁷And she cometh unto the man of God, unto the hill, and layeth hold on his feet, and Gehazi cometh nigh to thrust her away; and the man of God saith, 'Let her alone, for her soul is bitter to her, and the LORD hath hidden it from me, and hath not declared it to me.' ²⁸And she saith, 'Did I ask a son of my lord? did I not say, Do not deceive me?'

²⁹And he saith to Gehazi, 'Gird up thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand, and go; if thou meet a man, salute him not; and if a man salute thee, answer him not; then hast thou laid my staff on the face of the youth.' ³⁰And the mother of the youth saith, 'The LORD liveth, and thy soul liveth, I do not leave thee;' and he riseth and goeth after her. ³¹And Gehazi hath passed on before them, and layeth the staff on the face of the youth, but there is no voice nor attention, and he turneth back to meet him, and declareth to him, saying, 'The youth hath not awaked.'

³⁸And Elisha hath turned back to Gilgal, and the famine is in the land, and the sons of the prophets are sitting before him, and he saith to his young men, 'Set on the great pot, and boil pottage for the sons of the prophets.' ³⁹And one goeth out unto the field to gather herbs, and findeth a vine of the field, and gathereth of it gourds of the field, the fullness of his garment, and he cometh in and splitteth them into the pot of pottage, for they knew them not. ⁴⁰And they pour out for the men to eat; and it cometh to pass at their eating of the pottage, that they have cried out, and say, 'Death is in the pot, O man of God!' and they have not been able to eat. ⁴¹And he saith, 'Then bring ye meal;' and he casteth it into the pot, and saith, 'Pour out for the people, and let them eat;' and there was no evil thing in the pot.

V. ¹AND Naaman, head of the host of the king of Aram, was a great man before his lord, and accepted of face, for by him had the LORD given salvation to Aram, and the man was mighty in valour—a leper.

²And the Aramaeans have gone out by troops, and they take captive out of the land of Israel a little damsel, and she is before the wife of Naaman. ³ And she saith unto her mistress, 'O that my lord were before the prophet who is in Samaria; then would he recover him from his leprosy.' ⁴ And one goeth in and declareth to his lord, saying, 'Thus and thus hath she spoken, the damsel who is of the land of Israel.'

⁵ And the king of Aram saith, 'Go, enter in, and let me send a letter unto the king of Israel;' and he goeth, and he taketh in his hand ten talents of silver, and six thousand of gold, and ten changes of garments.

⁶ And he bringeth in the letter unto the king of Israel, saying, 'And now, in the coming in of this letter unto thee, lo, I have sent unto thee Naaman my servant, then thou hast recovered him from his leprosy.'

⁷ And it cometh to pass, at the king of Israel's reading the letter, that he rendeth his garments, and saith, 'Am I God, to put to death and to keep alive, that this one is sending unto me to recover a man from his leprosy? for surely know, I pray you, and see, for he is presenting himself to me.'

¹¹ And Naaman is wroth, and goeth on, and saith, 'Lo, I said, Unto me let him certainly come out, then hath he stood and called in the name of the LORD his God, and waved his hand over the place, and recovered the leper. ¹² Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? may I not wash in them?—then have I been clean;' and he turneth and goeth on in fury. ¹³ And his servants come nigh, and speak unto him, and say, 'My father, had the prophet spoken a great thing unto thee—wouldst thou not do it? surely also, when he hath said unto thee, Wash, and be clean.' ¹⁴ And he goeth down and dippeth in the Jordan seven times, according to the word of the man of God, and his flesh turneth back as the flesh of a little youth—and he is clean. ¹⁵ And he turneth back unto the man of God, he and all his camp, and cometh in, and standeth before him, and saith, 'Lo, I pray thee, I have known that there is no God in all the earth save in Israel; and now, take, I pray thee, a blessing from thy servant.' ¹⁶ And he saith, 'The LORD liveth, before whom I have stood; I will not take it;' and he presseth on him to take, but he refuseth.

¹⁷ And Naaman saith, 'If not—let there be given, I pray thee, to thy servant, a couple of mules' burden of earth, for thy servant maketh no more burnt-offering or sacrifice to other gods, but to the LORD. ¹⁸ For this thing the LORD be propitious to thy servant, in the coming of my lord into the house of Rimmon to bow himself there, and he hath been supported by my hand, and I bowed myself in the house of Rimmon; for my bowing myself in the house of Rimmon the LORD be propitious. I pray thee, to thy servant in this thing.' ¹⁹ And he saith to him, 'Go in peace;' and he goeth from him a kibrath of land.

²⁰ And Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, saith, 'Lo, my lord hath spared Naaman this Aramaean, not receiving from his hand that which he brought; the LORD liveth; surely if I have run after him, then have I taken something from him.' ²¹ And Gehazi pursueth after Naaman; and Naaman seeth one running after him, and alighteth from off the chariot to meet him, and saith, 'Is there peace?' ²² And he saith, 'Peace; my lord hath sent me, saying, Lo, now, this, two young men have come unto me from the hill-country of Ephraim, of the sons of the prophets; give, I pray thee, to them a talent of silver, and two changes of garments.' ²³ And Naaman saith, 'Be pleased, take two talents;' and he urgeth on him, and bindeth two talents of silver in two purses, and two changes of garments, and putteth them on two of his young men; and they bear before him. ²⁴ And he cometh in unto the high place, and taketh out of their hand, and layeth up in the house, and sendeth away the men, and they go.

²⁵ And he hath come in, and standeth by his lord, and Elisha saith unto him, 'Whence—Gehazi?' and he saith, 'Thy servant went not hither or thither.' ²⁶ And he saith unto him, 'My heart went not when the man turned from off his chariot to meet thee; is this a time to take silver, or to take garments, or oliveyards, or vineyards, or flock, or herd, or men-servants, or maid-servants? ²⁷ yea, the leprosy of Naaman doth cleave to thee, and to thy seed, for ever;' and he goeth out from before him leprous—like snow.

VI. ¹ AND the sons of the prophets say unto Elisha, 'Lo, we pray thee, the place where we dwell before thee is too strait for us. ² Let us go, we pray thee, unto the Jordan, and let us take from thence each a beam, and let us make for ourselves there a place to dwell there;' and he saith, 'Go.' ³ And the one saith, 'Be pleased, I pray thee, and go with thy servants;' and he saith, 'I go.'

⁴ And he goeth with them, and they come to the Jordan, and cut down the trees; ⁵ and it cometh to pass, the one is felling the beam, and the iron hath fallen into the water, and he crieth and saith, 'Alas! my lord, and it is asked.' ⁶ And the man of God saith, 'Where hath it fallen?' and he sheweth him the place, and he cutteth a stick, and casteth it thither, and causeth the iron to swim; ⁷ and saith, 'Raise to thyself;' and he putteth forth his hand and taketh it.

⁸ And the king of Aram hath been fighting against Israel, and taketh counsel with his servants, saying, 'At such and such a place is my encamping.' ⁹ And the man of God sendeth unto the king of Israel, saying, 'Take heed of passing by this place, for there the Aramaeans are come down.' ¹⁰ And the king of Israel sendeth unto the place of which the man of God had spoken to him, and warned him of, and he is preserved there not once nor twice.

¹⁵ And the servant of the man of God riseth early, and goeth out, and lo, a force is surrounding the city, with horse and chariot; and his young man saith unto him, 'Alas! my lord, how shall we do?' ¹⁶ And he saith, 'Fear not, for more are they who are with us than they who are with them.'

¹⁸ And they come down unto him, and Elisha prayeth unto the LORD, and saith, 'Smite, I pray Thee, this nation with blindness;' and He smiteth them with blindness, according to the word of Elisha. ¹⁹ And Elisha saith unto them, 'This is not the way, nor is this the city: come ye after me, and let me lead you unto the man whom ye seek;' and he leadeth them to Samaria.

²⁰ And it cometh to pass, at their coming into Samaria, that Elisha saith, 'LORD, open the eyes of these, and let them see;' and the LORD openeth their eyes, and they see, and lo, in the midst of Samaria! ²¹ And the king of Israel saith unto Elisha, at his seeing them, 'Shall I smite—shall I smite—my father?' ²² And he saith, 'Thou shalt not smite: those whom thou hast taken captive with thy sword and with thy bow dost thou smite? Set bread and water before them, and let them eat and drink, and let them go unto their lord.' ²³ And he prepareth for them great provision, and they eat and drink, and he sendeth them away, and they go unto their lord; and the troops of Aram have not added any more to come into the land of Israel.

²⁴ And it cometh to pass afterwards, that Ben-Hadad King of Aram gathereth all his camp, and goeth up, and layeth siege to Samaria. ²⁵ And there is a great famine in Samaria, and lo, they are laying siege to it, till an ass' head is at eighty silverlings, and the fourth of a cab of dove's dung at five silverlings.

VII. ¹ AND Elisha saith, 'Hear ye the word of the LORD: Thus hath the LORD said, About this time to-morrow, a measure of fine flour is at a shekel, and two measures of barley at a shekel, in the gate of Samaria.' ² And the captain whom the king hath, by whose hand he hath been supported, answereth the man of God and saith, 'Lo, the LORD maketh windows in the heavens—shall this thing be?' and he saith, 'Lo, thou dost see it with thine eyes, but of thence thou dost not eat.'

³ And four men have been leprous, at the opening of the gate, and they say one unto another, 'What—we are sitting here till we have died! ⁴ If we have said, Let us go into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we have died there; and if we have sat here, then we have died; and now, come and let us fall unto the camp of Aram: if they keep us alive, we live, and if they put us to death, then we have died.'

⁵ And they rise in the twilight, to go in unto the camp of Aram, and they come in unto the extremity of the camp of Aram, and lo, there is no man there, 'seeing the LORD hath caused the camp of Aram to hear a noise of chariots, and a noise of horses—the noise of a great force, and they say one unto another, 'Lo, the king of Israel hath hired against us the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of Egypt, to come against us.' ⁷ And they rise and flee in the twilight, and forsake their tents, and their horses, and their asses—the camp as it is—and flee for their life.

⁸And these lepers come unto the extremity of the camp, and they come unto one tent, and eat, and drink, and lift up from thence silver, and gold, and garments, and go and hide it; and they turn back and go unto another tent, and lift up from thence, and go and hide it. ⁹And they say one unto another, 'We are not doing right this day; it is a day of tidings, and we are keeping silent: when we have waited till the light of the morning, then hath punishment found us; and now, come and let us go and declare it to the house of the king.'

¹⁰And they come and call unto the porter of the city, and declare for themselves, saying, 'We have come unto the camp of Aram, and lo, there is no man there, nor sound of man, but the bound horses, and the bound asses, and tents as they are.' ¹¹And he calleth the gate-keepers, and they declare it to the house of the king within. ¹²And the king riseth by night, and saith unto his servants, 'Let me declare, I pray you, to you that which the Aramaeans have done to us: they have known that we are famished, and they are gone out of the camp to be hidden in the field, saying, When they come out of the city, then we catch them alive, and into the city we enter.'

¹³And one of his servants answereth and saith, 'Let them even take, I pray thee, five of the horses which are left, which have been left in it [lo, they are as all the multitude of Israel who have been left in it: lo, they are as all the multitude of Israel who have been consumed], and let us send and see.'

¹⁴And they take two chariot-horses, and the king sendeth after the camp of Aram, saying, 'Go, and see.' ¹⁵And they go after them unto the Jordan, and lo, all the way is full of garments and vessels which the Aramaeans have cast away in their haste; and the messengers turn back and declare it to the king.

¹⁶And the people go out and spoil the camp of Aram, and a measure of fine flour is at a shekel, and two measures of barley at a shekel, according to the word of the LORD. ¹⁷And the king hath appointed the captain, by whose hand he is supported, over the gate, and the people tread him down in the gate, and he dieth, as the man of God spake, who spake in the coming down of the king unto him; ¹⁸yea, it cometh to pass according to the speaking of the man of God unto the king, saying, 'Two measures of barley at a shekel, and a measure of fine flour at a shekel, shall be at this time to-morrow, in the gate of Samaria.' ¹⁹When the captain answereth the man of God, and saith, 'And lo, the LORD maketh windows in the heavens—shall it be according to this thing?' and he saith, 'Lo, thou dost see with thine eyes, but from thence thou dost not eat; ²⁰and it cometh to him so, seeing the people tread him down in the gate, and he dieth.

VIII. ¹AND Elisha spake unto the woman whose son he had kept alive, saying, 'Else and go, thou and thy household, and sojourn where thou mayest sojourn, for the LORD hath called for a famine, and also, it is coming on the land seven years.' ²And the woman riseth, and doth according to the word of the man of God; and she goeth, she and her household, and sojourneth in the land of the Philistines seven years.

³And it cometh to pass at the end of seven years, that the woman turneth back from the land of the Philistines, and goeth out to cry unto the king, concerning her house, and concerning her field.

⁴And the king is speaking unto Gehazi, the servant of the man of God, saying, 'Recount, I pray thee, to me, the whole of the great things that Elisha hath done.' ⁵And it cometh to pass, he is recounting to the king how he had caused the dead to live, and lo, the woman whose son he had caused to live crieth unto the king, for her house and for her field; and Gehazi saith, 'My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this her son, whom Elisha caused to live!' ⁶And the king asketh at the woman, and she recounteth it to him; and the king appointeth to her a certain officer, saying, 'Give back all that she hath, and all the increase of the field from the day of her leaving the land even till now.'

⁷And Elisha cometh to Damascus, and Ben-Hadad king of Aram is sick, and it is declared to him, saying, 'The man of God hath come hither.' ⁸And the king saith unto Hazael, 'Take in thy hand a present, and go to meet the man of God, then hast thou sought the LORD by him, saying, Shall I recover of this sickness?'

⁹And Hazael goeth to meet him, and taketh a present in his hand, even of every good thing of Damascus, forty camels' burden, and he cometh and standeth before him, and saith, 'Thy son, Ben-Hadad king of Aram, hath sent me unto thee, saying, Shall I recover of this sickness?' ¹⁰And Elisha saith unto him, 'Go, say, Thou shalt certainly not live, seeing the LORD hath shewed me that he shall surely die.' ¹¹And he setteth his face, yea, he setteth it till he is ashamed; and the man of God weepeth.

¹²And Hazael saith, 'Wherefore is my lord weeping?' and he saith, 'Because I have known the evil that thou dost to the Children of Israel; their fenced places thou dost send into the fire, and their young men with the sword thou dost slay, and their sucklings thou dost dash to pieces, and their pregnant women thou dost rip up.' ¹³And Hazael saith, 'But what, is thy servant the dog, that he doth this great thing?' And Elisha saith, 'The LORD hath shewed me thee—king over Aram.' ¹⁴And he goeth from Elisha, and cometh unto his lord; and he saith unto him, 'What hath Elisha said to thee?' and he saith, 'He said to me, Thou shalt certainly recover.' ¹⁵And it cometh to pass on the morrow, that he taketh the coarse cloth, and dippeth it in water, and spreadeth it on his face, and he dieth; and Hazael reigneth in his stead.

¹⁶And in the fifth year of Joram son of Ahab king of Israel, when Jehoshaphat is king of Judah, Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah hath reigned; ¹⁷thirty and two years old was he in his reigning, and eight years hath he reigned in Jerusalem.

¹⁸And he walketh in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab, for the daughter of Ahab was to him for a wife, and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD; ¹⁹yet the LORD was not willing to destroy Judah, for David his servant's sake, as He said to him, to give to him a light—to his sons continually.

²⁰In his days Edom hath revolted from under the hand of Judah, and they cause a king to reign over them. ²¹And Joram passeth over to Zair, and all the chariots with him, and he himself riseth by night, and smiteth Edom, which cometh round about him and the heads of the chariots, and the people fleeth to its tents; ²²yet Edom revolteth from under the hand of Judah till this day: then Libnah revolteth at that time. ²³And the rest of the matters of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ²⁴And Joram leth with his fathers, and is buried with his fathers in the city of David; and Ahaziah his son reigneth in his stead.

²⁵In the twelfth year of Joram son of Ahab king of Israel reigned Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah; ²⁶twenty and two years old is Ahaziah in his reigning; and one year hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Athaliah daughter of Omri king of Israel; ²⁷and he walketh in the way of the house of Ahab, and doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, like the house of Ahab, for he is the son-in-law of the house of Ahab, ²⁸and he goeth with Joram son of Ahab to the battle against Hazael king of Aram in Ramoth-Gilead; and the Arameans smite Joram, ²⁹and Joram the king turneth back to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds with which the Arameans smite him in Ramah, in his fighting against Hazael king of Aram; and Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah hath gone down to see Joram son of Ahab in Jezreel, for he is sick.

IX. ¹AND Elisha the prophet hath called for one of the sons of the prophets, and saith to him, 'Gird up thy loins, and take this vial of oil in thy hand, and go to Ramoth-Gilead; ²when thou hast gone in there, then see there Jehu son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi, and thou hast gone in and caused him to rise out of the midst of his brethren, and hast brought him into the innermost chamber; ³and hast taken the vial of oil, and hast poured it on his head, and hast said, Thus hath the LORD said, I have anointed thee for king over Israel: then hast thou opened the door, and fled, and waited not.'

⁴And the young man—the young man the prophet—goeth to Ramoth-Gilead; ⁵and he cometh in, and lo, the chiefs of the force are sitting, and he saith, 'I have a word unto thee, O chief!' and Jehu saith, 'Unto which of all of us?' and he saith, 'Unto thee, O chief; ⁶and he riseth and cometh into the house, and he poureth the oil on his head, and saith to him, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, I have anointed thee for king over the people of the LORD, over Israel; ⁷then hast thou smitten the house of Ahab thy lord, and I have required the blood of My servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the LORD, from the hand of Jezebel; ⁸and all the house of Ahab hath perished, and I have cut off to Ahab those who sit on the wall, and the restrained, and the left in Israel; ⁹and I have give up the house of Ahab like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and as the house of Baasha son of Ahijah; ¹⁰and Jezebel do dogs eat in the portion of Jezreel, and there is none burying her; ¹¹and he openeth the door and fleeth.'

¹²And Jehu hath gone out unto the servants of his lord, and one saith to him, 'Is there peace?' wherefore came this madman unto thee?' and he saith unto them, 'Ye have known the man and his talk.' ¹³And they say, 'False; declare, we pray thee, to us;' and he saith, 'Thus and thus spake he unto me, saying, Thus hath the LORD said, I have anointed thee for king over Israel.'

¹⁴And they haste and take each his garment, and put it under him at the top of the stairs, and blow with the trumpet, and say, 'Jehu hath reigned.' ¹⁵And Jehu son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi, conspireth against Joram; (and Joram was keeping in Ramoth-Gilead, he and all Israel, from the presence of Hazael king of Aram; ¹⁶and king Joram turneth back to be healed in Jezreel, of the wounds with which the Arameans smite him, in his fighting with Hazael king of Aram); and Jehu saith, 'If it is your mind, let not an escaped one go out of the city, to go to declare it in Jezreel.' ¹⁷And Jehu rideth, and goeth to Jezreel, for Joram is lying there; and Ahaziah king of Judah hath gone down to see Joram.

¹⁸And the watchman is standing on the tower in Jezreel, and seeth the company of Jehu in his coming, and saith, 'I see a company;' and Joram saith, 'Take a rider and send to meet them, and let him say, Is there peace?' ¹⁹And the rider on the horse goeth to meet him, and saith, 'Thus hath the king said, Is there peace?' and Jehu saith, 'What—to thee and to peace? turn round behind me.' And the watchman declareth, saying, 'The messenger came unto them, but hath not returned.' ²⁰And he sendeth a second rider on a horse, and he cometh in unto them, and saith, 'Thus hath the king said, Is there peace?' and Jehu saith, 'What—to thee and to peace? turn round behind me.'

²¹And the watchman declareth, saying, 'He came unto them, but hath not returned; and the driving is like the driving of Jehu son of Nimshi, for with madness he driveth.' ²²And Joram saith, 'Harness;' and his chariot is harnessed; and Joram king of Israel goeth out, and Ahaziah king of Judah, each in his chariot, and they go out to meet Jehu, and find him in the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite.

³⁴ And he cometh in, and eateth, and drinketh, and saith, 'Inspect, I pray you, this accursed one, and bury her, for she is a king's daughter.' ³⁵ And they go to bury her, but have not found any of her save the skull, and the feet, and the palms of the hand. ³⁶ And they turn back, and declare to him; and he saith, 'It is the word of the LORD which He spake by the hand of his servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, In the portion of Jezreel do dogs eat the flesh of Jezebel; and the carcase of Jezebel hath been as dung on the face of the field in the portion of Jezreel, that they say not, 'This is Jezebel.''

X. ¹ AND Ahab hath seventy sons in Samaria, and Jehu writeth letters, and sendeth to Samaria, unto the heads of Jezreel, the elders, and unto the supporters of Ahab, saying, ² 'And, now, at the coming in of this letter unto you, seeing with you are the sons of your lord, and with you are chariots and horses, and a fenced city, and armour: ³ then have ye seen the best and the uprightest of the sons of your lord, and have set him on the throne of his father, and fight for the house of your lord.' ⁴ And they fear very greatly, and say, 'Lo, two kings stood not before him, and how shall we stand—we?' ⁵ And he who is over the house, and he who is over the city, and the elders, and the supporters, send unto Jehu, saying, 'We are thy servants; and all that thou sayest unto us we do: we do not make any man king; that which is good in thine eyes, do.'

⁹ And it cometh to pass in the morning, that he goeth out, and standeth, and saith unto all the people, 'Ye are righteous; lo, I have conspired against my lord, and slay him, but who smote all these?' ¹⁰ Know ye, now, that nothing doth fall of the word of the LORD to the earth which the LORD spake against the house of Ahab; yea, the LORD hath done that which He spake by the hand of his servant Elijah.' ¹¹ And Jehu smiteth all who are left of the house of Ahab, in Jezreel, and all his great men, and his acquaintances, and his priests, till he hath not left to him a remnant.

¹⁵ And he goeth from thence, and findeth Jehonadab son of Rechab—to meet him, and he blesseth him, and saith unto him, 'Is thy heart right, as my heart is with thy heart?' and Jehonadab saith, 'It is:—then it is: give thy hand;' and he giveth his hand, and he causeth him to come up unto him into the chariot, ¹⁶ and saith, 'Come with me, and look on my zeal for the LORD;' and they cause him to ride in his chariot. ¹⁷ And he cometh to Samaria, and smiteth all who are left of Ahab in Samaria, till his destroying him, according to the word of the LORD which He spake unto Elisha.

¹⁸ And Jehu gathereth the whole of the people, and saith unto them, 'Ahab served Baal a little; Jehu doth serve him much: ¹⁹and now, all the prophets of Baal, all his servants, and all his priests, call ye unto me; let not a man be lacking: for I have a great sacrifice for Baal: every one who is lacking—he shall not live:’ but Jehu hath done it in subtilty, in order to destroy the servants of Baal.

²⁰And Jehu saith, 'Sanctify a restraint for Baal:’ and they proclaim it. ²¹And Jehu sendeth through all Israel, and all the servants of Baal come, and there hath not been left a man who hath not come: and they come into the house of Baal, and the house of Baal is full—mouth to mouth.

²²And he saith to him who is over the wardrobe, 'Bring out clothing for all the servants of Baal:’ and he bringeth out to them the clothing. ²³And Jehu goeth, with Jehonadab son of Rechab, into the house of Baal, and saith to the servants of Baal, 'Search and see, lest there be here with you any of the servants of the LORD, but the servants of Baal by themselves.' ²⁴And they come in to prepare sacrifices and burnt-offerings, and Jehu hath set for himself in an out-place eighty men, and saith, 'The man who letteth escape any of the men whom I bring in unto your hand—his soul for his soul.'

²⁵And it cometh to pass at his finishing preparing the burnt-offering, that Jehu saith to the runners, and to the captains, 'Go in, smite them, let none come out:’ and they smite them by the edge of the sword, and the runners and the captains cast them out, and they go unto the city, to the house of Baal, ²⁶and bring out the standing-pillars of the house of Baal, and burn them, ²⁷and break down the standing-pillar of Baal, and break down the house of Baal, and appoint it for a draught-house unto this day. ²⁸And Jehu destroyeth Baal out of Israel: ²⁹only—the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused Israel to sin, Jehu hath not turned aside from after them—the calves of gold which are at Bethel, and which are in Dan. ³⁰And the LORD saith unto Jehu, 'Because thou hast done well—doing that which is right in Mine eyes: according to all that is in My heart thou hast done to the house of Ahab—the children of thy fourth generation do sit on the throne of Israel.' ³¹But Jehu hath not taken heed to walk in the law of the LORD, God of Israel, with all his heart: he hath not turned aside from the sins of Jeroboam, which he caused Israel to sin.

³²In those days the LORD hath begun to cut off some of Israel, seeing Hazael smiteth them in all the border of Israel, ³³from the Jordan, at the sun-rising, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manassites (from Aroer, which is by the brook of Arnon), even Gilead and Bashan. ³⁴And the rest of the matters of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ³⁵And Jehu lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in Samaria; and Jehonhaz his son reigneth in his stead. ³⁶And the days that Jehu hath reigned over Israel are twenty and eight years, in Samaria.

XI. 'AND Athaliah is mother of Ahaziah, and she hath seen that her son is dead, and she riseth, and destroyeth all the royal seed:’ ²but Jehosheba daughter of king Joram, sister of Ahaziah, taketh Joash son of Ahaziah, and scaleth him out of the midst of the children of the king who are put to death, him and his nurse, in the inner chamber of the beds, and they hide him from the presence of Athaliah, and he hath not been put to death: ³and he is with her, hiding himself in the house of the LORD, six years, and Athaliah is reigning over the land.

⁴And in the seventh year Jehoiada hath sent and taketh the heads of the hundreds, of the executioners and of the runners, and bringeth them in unto him, to the house of the LORD, and maketh a covenant with them, and causeth them to swear in the house of the LORD, and sheweth them the king's son, ⁵and commandeth them, saying, 'This is the thing which ye do: The third of you are going in on the sabbath, and keepers of the charge of the house of the king:’ ⁶and the third is at the gate of Sur, and the third at the gate behind the runners: then have ye kept the charge of the house, pulled down: ⁷and two parts of all you who go out on the sabbath—they have even kept the charge of the house of the LORD about the king: ⁸and ye have compassed the king round about, each with his weapons in his hand: and he who cometh unto the ranges is put to death: and be ye with the king in his going out and in his coming in.'

¹¹And the runners stand, each with his weapons in his hand, at the right shoulder of the house unto the left shoulder of the house, by the altar and by the house, beside the king round about: ¹²and he bringeth out the king's son, and putteth on him the crown and the testimony, and they make him king, and anoint him, and smite the hand, and say, 'Let the king live.'

¹³And Athaliah heareth the sound of the runners and of the people, and she cometh in unto the people, at the house of the LORD, ¹⁴and looketh, and lo, the king is standing by the pillar, according to the ordinance, and the heads, and the trumpeters are by the king, and all the people of the land are rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets, and Athaliah rendeth her garments, and calleth, 'Conspiracy! conspiracy!'

¹⁵And Jehoiada the priest commandeth the heads of the hundreds, inspectors of the force, and saith unto them, 'Bring her out unto the outside of the ranges, and he who goeth after her, put to death by the sword: for the priest had said, 'Let her not be put to death in the house of the LORD.' ¹⁰ And they make sides for her, and she goeth the way of the entering in of the horses to the house of the king, and is put to death there.

¹⁸ And all the people of the land go into the house of Baal, and brake it down, its altars and its images they have thoroughly broken, and Mattan the priest of Baal have they slain before the altars; and the priest setteth inspectors over the house of the LORD, ¹⁹ and taketh the heads of the hundreds, and the executioners, and the runners, and all the people of the land, and they bring down the king from the house of the LORD, and come in the way of the gate of the runners, to the king's house, and he sitteth on the throne of the kings.

XII. ¹ IN the seventh year of Jehu reigned Jehoash, and forty years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Zibiah of Beer-Sheba. ² And Jehoash doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD all his days in which Jehoiaada the priest directed him; ³ only, the high places they have not turned aside: still are the people sacrificing and making perfume in the high places.

high priest, and they bind it up, and count the money which is found in the house of the LORD; ¹¹ and they have given the weighed money into the hands of those who do the work, who are inspecting the house of the LORD, and they bring it out to those who work in wood, and to the builders who are working in the house of the LORD, ¹² and to the repairers of the wall, and to the hewers of stone, and to buy wood, and hewn stones to strengthen the breach of the house of the LORD, and for all that goeth out on the house to repair it.

¹³ Only, there is not made for the house of the LORD basins of silver, snuffers, bowls, trumpets, any vessel of gold, or vessel of silver, out of the money which is brought into the house of the LORD; ¹⁴ but to the doers of the work they give it, and they have strengthened with it the house of the LORD, ¹⁵ and they have not reckoned with the men into whose hand they give the silver to give to the doers of the work, for they are dealing in faithfulness. ¹⁶ The money of the trespass-offering, and the money of the sin-offering is not brought in to the house of the LORD: it is for the priests.

XIII. ¹ IN the twenty and third year of Joash son of Ahaziah king of Judah, Jehoahaz son of Jehu reigned over Israel, in Samaria—seventeen years. ² And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, and goeth after the sin of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused Israel to sin,—he turned not aside from it; ³ and the anger of the LORD burneth against Israel, and He giveth them into the hand of Hazael king of Aram, and into the hand of Ben-Hadad son of Hazael, all the time.

house of Jeroboam, which he caused Israel to sin, therein hath it walked, and also, the shrine hath remained in Samaria; ⁷ that he left not to Jehoahaz any of the people save fifty horsemen, and ten chariots, and ten thousand footmen, for the king of Aram hath destroyed them, and maketh them as dust by thrashing. ⁸ And the rest of the matters of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ⁹ And Jehoahaz lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in Samaria; and Joash his son reigneth in his stead.

¹⁰ In the thirty and seventh year of Joash king of Judah reigned Jehoash son of Jehoahaz over Israel, in Samaria—sixteen years; ¹¹ and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD; he hath not turned aside from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused Israel to sin; therein he walked. ¹² And the rest of the matters of Joash, and all that he did, and his might with which he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ¹³ And Joash lieth with his fathers; and Jeroboam hath sat on his throne; and Joash is buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

¹⁴ And Elisha hath been sick with his sickness of which he dieth, and Joash king of Israel cometh down unto him, and weepeth over his face, and saith, 'My father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and its horsemen.' ¹⁵ And Elisha saith to him, 'Take bow and arrows;' and he taketh unto him bow and arrows. ¹⁶ And he saith to the king of Israel, 'Place thy hand on the bow;' and he placeth his hand, and Elisha putteth his hands on the hands of the king, ¹⁷ and saith, 'Open the window eastward;' and he openeth, and Elisha saith, 'Shoot,' and he shooteth; and he saith, 'The arrow of salvation by the LORD, and the arrow of salvation against Aram; yea, thou hast smitten Aram in Aphek, till consuming.'

¹⁸ And he saith, 'Take the arrows,' and he taketh them; and he saith to the king of Israel, 'Smite to the earth;' and he smiteth three times, and sayeth, ¹⁹ And the man of God is wroth against him, and saith, 'By smiting five or six times then hadst thou smitten Aram till consuming; but now, three times shalt thou smite Aram.'

²⁴ And Hazael king of Aram dieth, and Ben-Hadad his son reigneth in his stead;

²⁵ and Jehoash son of Jehoahaz turneth back, and taketh the cities out of the hand of Ben-Hadad son of Hazael, which he had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father in war; three times Joash smote him, and he bringeth back the cities of Israel.

XIV. ¹ IN the second year of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel reigned Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah; ² twenty and five years old was he in his reigning, and twenty and nine years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Jehoaddan of Jerusalem; ³ and he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, only, not like David his father, according to all that Joash his father did hath he done; ⁴ only, the high places they have not turned aside—yet are the people sacrificing and making perfume in the high places.

⁷ He hath smitten Edom, in the valley of salt, ten thousand, and seizeth Selah in the war, and one calleth its name Joktheel unto this day; ⁸ then hath Amaziah sent messengers unto Jehoash son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, 'Come, let us look one another in the face.' ⁹ And Jehoash king of Israel sendeth unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying, 'The thorn that is in Lebanon hath sent unto the cedar which is in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son for a wife; and a beast of the field which is in Lebanon passeth by, and treadeth down the thorn.' ¹⁰ Thou hast certainly smitten Edom, and thy heart hath lifted thee up; be honoured, and abide in thy house, seeing why dost thou stir thyself up in evil, that thou hast fallen, thou and Judah with thee?'

¹⁴ and he hath taken all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels which are found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the house of the king, and the hostages, and turneth back to Samaria. ¹⁵ And the rest of the matters of Jehoash which he did, and his might, and how he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ¹⁶ And Jehoash lieth with his fathers, and is buried in Samaria.

with the kings of Israel: and Jeroboam his son reigneth in his stead.

¹⁷And Amaziah son of Joash is king of Judah after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen years. ¹⁸And the rest of the matters of Amaziah are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ¹⁹And they make a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fleeth to Lachish, and they send after him to Lachish, and put him to death there, ²⁰and bring him on horses, and he is buried in Jerusalem with his fathers, in the city of David. ²¹And all the people of Judah take Azariah, who is sixteen years old, and cause him to reign instead of his father Amaziah. ²²He hath built Elath, and bringeth it back to Judah, after the king lay with his fathers.

²³In the fifteenth year of Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah, hath Jeroboam son of Joash king of Israel reigned in Samaria—forty and one years; ²⁴and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, he hath not turned aside from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to sin.

²⁵He hrought back the border of Israel, from the entering of Hamath unto the sea of the plain, according to the word of the LORD, God of Israel, which He spake by the hand of His servant Jonah son of Amittai the prophet, who is of Gath-Hepher; ²⁶for the LORD hath seen the affliction of Israel—very bitter, and there is none restrained, and there is none left, and there is no helper for Israel: ²⁷the LORD hath not spoken of blotting out the name of Israel from under the heavens, and He saveth them by the hand of Jeroboam son of Joash.

²⁸And the rest of the matters of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might with which he fought, and with which he brought back Damascus, and Hamath of Judah, into Israel, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ²⁹And Jeroboam lieth with his fathers, with the kings of Israel: and Zachariah his son reigneth in his stead.

XV. ¹In the twenty and seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel reigned Azariah son of Amaziah king of Judah; ²sixteen years old was he in his reigning, and fifty and two years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Jeholiah of Jerusalem; ³and he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that Amaziah his father did: ⁴only, the high places they have not turned aside—yet are the people sacrificing and making perfume in the high places.

⁵And the LORD smiteth the king, and he is a leper unto the day of his death, and he dwelleth in a separate house, and Jotham son of the king is over the house, judging the people of the land. ⁶And the rest of the matters of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ⁷And Azariah lieth with his fathers, and they bury him with his fathers in the city of David: and Jotham his son reigneth in his stead.

⁸In the thirty and eighth year of Azariah king of Judah reigned Zachariah son of Jeroboam over Israel, in Samaria, six months; ⁹and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, as his fathers did; he turned not aside from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to sin.

¹⁰And Shallum son of Jabesh conspireth against him, and smiteth him before the people, and putteth him to death, and reigneth in his stead. ¹¹And the rest of the matters of Zachariah, lo, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel. ¹²This is the word of the LORD which He spake unto Jehu, saying, 'The sons of thy fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel;' and it is so.

¹³Shallum son of Jabesh hath reigned in the thirty and ninth year of Uzziah king of Judah, and he reigneth a month of days in Samaria; ¹⁴and Menahem son of Gadi goeth up from Tirzah, and cometh into Samaria, and smiteth Shallum son of Jabesh in Samaria, and putteth him to death, and reigneth in his stead. ¹⁵And the rest of the matters of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he made, lo, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

¹⁶Then Menahem smiteth Tiphshah, and all who are in it, and its borders from Tirzah, for it opened not to him, and he smiteth it, and the whole of the pregnant women he hath ripped up. ¹⁷In the thirty and ninth year of Azariah king of Judah reigned Menahem son of Gadi over Israel—ten years in Samaria. ¹⁸And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD: he turned not aside from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to sin, all his days.

¹⁹Pul king of Ashur hath come against the land, and Menahem giveth to Pul a thousand talents of silver, for his hand being with him, to strengthen the kingdom in his hand. ²⁰And Menahem bringeth out the silver from Israel, from all the mighty men of wealth, to give to the king of Ashur, fifty shekels of silver of each one: and the king of Ashur turneth back and hath not stayed there in the land. ²¹And the rest of the matters of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ²²And Menahem lieth with his fathers; and Pekahiah his son reigneth in his stead.

²³In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah Pekahiah son of Menahem reigned over Israel, in Samaria—two years: ²⁴and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD; he hath not turned aside from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to sin. ²⁵And Pekah son of Remaliah, his captain, conspireth against him, and smiteth him in Samaria, in the high place of the king's house, with Argob and Arieah, and with him are fifty men of the children of Gilead, and he putteth him to death, and reigneth in his stead. ²⁶And the rest of the matters of Pekahiah, and all that he did, lo, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

²⁷In the fifty and second year of Azariah king of Judah, reigned Pekah son of Remaliah over Israel, in Samaria—twenty years; ²⁸and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD; he hath not turned aside from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to sin. ²⁹In the days of Pekah king of Israel hath Tiglath-Pileser king of Ashur come, and he taketh Ijon, and Abel-Beth-Maachah, and Janoah, and Kedesh, and Hazor, and Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali, and removeth them to Ashur.

³⁰And Hoshea son of Elah maketh a conspiracy against Pekah son of Remaliah, and smiteth him, and putteth him to death, and reigneth in his stead, in the twentieth year of Jotham son of Uzziah. ³¹And the rest of the matters of Pekah, and all that he did, lo, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

³²In the second year of Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel reigned Jotham son of Uzziah king of Judah. ³³Twenty and five years old was he in his reigning, and sixteen years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Jerusha daughter of Zadok; ³⁴and he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD; according to all that Uzziah his father did, hath he done. ³⁵Only, the high places they have not turned aside: yet are the people sacrificing and making perfume in the high places; he built the high gate of the house of the LORD. ³⁶And the rest of the matters of Jotham, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ³⁷In those days the LORD began to send against Judah Rezin king of Aram and Pekah son of Remaliah. ³⁸And Jotham lieth with his fathers, and is buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father; and Ahaz his son reigneth in his stead.

XVI. ¹IN the seventeenth year of Pekah son of Remaliah reigned Ahaz son of Jotham king of Judah. ²Twenty years old is Ahaz in his reigning, and sixteen years reigned he in Jerusalem, but he hath not done that which is right in the eyes of the LORD his God, like David his father, ³and walketh in the way of the kings of Israel, and also, his son he hath caused to pass through the fire, according to the abominations of the nations whom the LORD dispossessed from the presence of the Children of Israel; ⁴and he sacrificeth and maketh perfume in the high places, and on the heights, and under every green tree.

⁵Then Rezin king of Aram goeth up, with Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, to Jerusalem, to the battle, and they lay siege to Ahaz, but have not been able to fight.

⁶At that time Rezin king of Aram hath brought back Elath to Aram, and casteth out the Jews from Elath; and the Arameans have come to Elath, and dwell there unto this day. ⁷And Ahaz sendeth messengers to Tiglath-Pileser king of Ashur, saying, 'Thy servant and thy son am I; come up and save me out of the hand of the king of Aram, and out of the hand of the king of Israel, who are rising up against me.' ⁸And Ahaz taketh the silver and the gold which is found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the house of the king, and sendeth it to the king of Ashur—a bribe. ⁹And the king of Ashur hearkeneth unto him, and the king of Ashur goeth up unto Damascus, and seizeth it, and removeth the people of it to Kir, and hath put Rezin to death.

¹⁰And king Ahaz goeth to meet Tiglath-Pileser king of Ashur at Damascus, and seeth the altar that is in Damascus, and king Ahaz sendeth to Uriah the priest the likeness of the altar, and its pattern, according to all its work. ¹¹And Uriah the priest buildeth the altar according to all that king Ahaz hath sent from Damascus; so did Uriah the priest till the coming in of king Ahaz from Damascus. ¹²And the king cometh from Damascus, and the king seeth the altar, and the king draweth near on the altar, and offereth on it, ¹³and he perfumeth his burnt-offering, and his present, and poureth out his drink-offering, and sprinketh the blood of the peace-offerings which he hath, on the altar. ¹⁴As to the altar of brass which is before the LORD, he even bringeth it near from the front of the house, from between the altar and the house of the LORD, and putteth it on the north side of the altar. ¹⁵And king Ahaz commandeth him, even Uriah the priest, saying, 'On the great altar perfume the burnt-offering of the morning, and the present of the evening, and the burnt-offering of the king, and his present, and the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their present, and their drink-offerings; and all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the sacrifice thou dost sprinkle on it, and the altar of brass is to me to inquire by.' ¹⁶And Uriah the priest doth according to all that king Ahaz commanded.

XVII. ¹IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah reigned Hoshea son of Elah in Samaria, over Israel—nine years; ²and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD; only, not as the kings of Israel who were before him. ³Against him came up Shalmaneser king of Ashur, and Hoshea is a servant to him, and sendeth back to him a present.

⁴And the king of Ashur findeth in Hoshea a conspiracy, because he hath sent messengers unto So king of Egypt, and hath not caused a present to go up to the king of Ashur, as year by year, and the king of Ashur restraineth him, and bindeth him in a house of restraint. ³And the king of Ashur goeth up through all the land, and he goeth up to Samaria, and layeth siege against it three years. ⁴In the ninth year of Hoshea hath the king of Ashur captured Samaria, and removeth Israel to Ashur, and causeth them to dwell in Halah, and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

⁷And it cometh to pass,—because the Children of Israel have sinned against the LORD their God (who bringeth them out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt), and fear other gods, ⁸and walk in the statutes of the nations whom the LORD dispossessed from the presence of the Children of Israel, and of the kings of Israel which they made; ⁹yea, the Children of Israel do covertly things which are not right, against the LORD their God, and build for themselves high places in all their cities, from the tower of the watchers unto the fenced city, ¹⁰and set up for themselves standing-pillars and shrines on every high height and under every green tree; ¹¹and make perfume there in all the high places, like the nations whom the LORD removed from their presence, and do evil things, provoking the LORD; ¹²and serve the idols, of which the LORD said to them, 'Ye shall not do this thing.'

¹³And the LORD testifieth against Israel, and against Judah, by the hand of every prophet and every seer, saying, 'Turn ye back from your evil ways, and keep My commands, My statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent unto you by the hand of My servants the prophets.' ¹⁴And they have not hearkened, but harden their neck, like the neck of their fathers, who did not remain steadfast with the LORD their God; ¹⁵and reject His statutes and His covenant which He made with their fathers, and His testimonies which He hath testified against them, and go after the vain thing, and become vain, and go after the nations who are round about them, of whom the LORD had commanded them not to do like them.

¹⁶Yea, they forsake all the commands of the LORD their God, and make for themselves a molten image—two calves, and make a shrine, and bow themselves to all the host of the heavens, and serve Baal; ¹⁷and cause their sons and their daughters to pass over into the fire, and divine with divinations, and use enchantments, and sell themselves to do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, provoking Him.

¹⁸That the LORD sheweth himself very angry against Israel, and turneth them aside from His presence; none hath been left, only the tribe of Judah by itself. ¹⁹Even Judah hath not kept the commands of the LORD their God, and they walk in the statutes of Israel which they had made. ²⁰And the LORD rejecteth all the seed of Israel, and afflicteth them, and giveth them into the hand of spoilers, till He hath cast them out of His presence. ²¹For he hath rent

Israel from the house of David; and they make Jeroboam son of Nebat king, and Jeroboam driveth Israel from after the LORD, and causeth them to sin a great sin; ²²and the Children of Israel walk in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did, they have not turned aside therefrom, ²³till the LORD hath turned Israel aside from His presence, as He spake by the hand of all His servants the prophets; and Israel is removed from off its land to Ashur, unto this day.

³²And they fear the LORD, and make to themselves from every quarter priests of the high places, and they are acting for them in the house of the high places. ³³They are fearing the LORD, and their own gods they are serving, according to the custom of the nations from whence they removed them. ³⁴Unto this day they are doing according to the former customs: they fear not the LORD, and do not according to their statutes, or according to their ordinances, or according to the law, or according to the commandment which the LORD commanded the Children of Jacob whose name He made Israel. ³⁵Seeing the LORD maketh with them a covenant, and chargeth them, saying, 'Ye shall not fear other gods, nor bow yourselves to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them,'—³⁶but the LORD, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt with great power, and with a stretched-out arm, Him shall ye fear, and to Him bow yourselves, and to Him do sacrifice; ²⁷and the statutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the command which He wrote for you, ye shall observe to do continually, and ye shall not fear other gods; ²⁸and the covenant which I have made with you ye shall not forget, and ye shall not fear other gods; ²⁹but the LORD your God shall ye fear, and He shall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies; ³⁰yet they have not hearkened, but according to their former custom are they doing, ³¹yea, these nations are fearing the LORD, but their graven images they have served, both their children and their children's children; as their fathers did, they are doing unto this day.

XVIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the third year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, Hezekiah son of Ahaz king of Judah hath reigned; ²twenty and five years old was he in his reigning, and twenty and nine years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Abi daughter of Zachariah.

³And he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that David his father did. ⁴He hath turned aside the high places, and breaketh in pieces the standing-pillars, and hath cut down the shrine, and beat down the serpent of brass which Moses had made, for unto these days were the children of Israel making perfume to it, and he calleth it 'a piece of brass.' ⁵For the LORD, God of Israel, he hath trusted, and after him there have been none like him among all the kings of Judah, nor among any who were before him. ⁶And he cleaveth to the LORD, he hath not turned aside from after Him, but keepeth His commands which the LORD commanded Moses.

⁷And the LORD hath been with him: in every place where he goeth out he acteth wisely, and he rebelleth against the king of Asshur, and hath not served him. ⁸He hath smitten the Philistines unto Gaza and its borders, from the tower of the watchers unto the fenced city.

Hezekiah king of Judah three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold; ¹⁵and Hezekiah giveth up all the silver that is found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the house of the king; ¹⁶at that time hath Hezekiah cut off the doors of the temple of the LORD, and the pillars which Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid, and giveth them to the king of Asshur.

¹⁷And the king of Asshur sendeth Tartan, and the chief of the eunuchs, and the chief of the butlers, from Lachish, unto king Hezekiah, with a heavy force, to Jerusalem, and they go up and come to Jerusalem, and they go up, and come, and stand by the conduit of the uppermost pool which is in the high way of the fuller's field, ¹⁸and they call unto the king, and Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who is over the house, goeth out unto them, with Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph the remembrancer.

²³And, now, give a pledge for yourselves, I pray you, to my lord the king of Asshur, and let me give to thee two thousand horses, if thou art able to give for thyself riders upon them. ²⁴And how wilt thou turn back the face of one captain of the least of the servants of my lord, that thou dost trust for thyself on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen? ²⁵Now, without the LORD have I come up against this place to destroy it? the LORD hath said unto me, go up against this land, and destroy it.'

saying, The LORD doth certainly deliver us, and this city is not given into the hand of the king of Asshur. ²¹Hearken not unto Hezekiah, for thus hath the king of Asshur said: Make ye with me a blessing, and come out unto me, and eat ye each of his vine and each of his fig-tree, and drink each the waters of his own well, ²²till my coming—then have I taken you into a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olive oil and honey, and live, and die not; and hearken not unto Hezekiah, when he persuadeth you, saying, The LORD doth deliver us. ²³Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered at all his land out of the hand of the king of Asshur? ²⁴Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah, that they might have delivered Samaria out of my hand? ²⁵Who are they among all the gods of the lands that have delivered their land out of my hand, that the LORD doth deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?

²⁶And the people have kept silent, and have not answered him a word, for the command of the king is, saying, 'Answer him not.' ²⁷And Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who is over the house, cometh, with Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph the remembrancer, unto Hezekiah, with rent garments; and they declare to him the words of the chief of the butlers.

XIX. ¹AND it cometh to pass, at king Hezekiah's hearing it, that he rendeth his garments, and covereth himself with sackcloth, and entereth the house of the LORD. ²And he sendeth Eliakim, who is over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covering themselves with sackcloth, unto Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz, ³and they say unto him, 'Thus hath Hezekiah said: A day of distress, and rebuke, and despising is this day: for children have come unto the birth, and there is no power to bring forth. ⁴It may be the LORD thy God doth hear all the words of the chief of the butlers with which the king of Asshur his lord hath sent him to reproach the living God, and hath decided concerning the words which the LORD thy God heard: and thou hast lifted up prayer for the remnant which is found present.'

⁵And the servants of king Hezekiah come unto Isaiah, ⁶and Isaiah saith to them, 'Thus do ye say unto your lord: Thus hath the LORD said, Be not afraid because of the words which thou hast heard, with which the servants of the king of Asshur have reviled Me. ⁷Lo, I am putting a spirit in him, and he hath heard a report, and hath turned back to his land, and I have caused him to fall by the sword in his own land.'

⁸And the chief of the butlers turneth back and findeth the king of Asshur fighting against Libnah, for he hath heard that he had journeyed from Lachish. ⁹And he heareth concerning Tirhakah king of Cush, saying, 'Lo, he hath come out to fight with thee; and he again sendeth messengers unto Hezekiah, saying, ¹⁰Thus do ye speak unto Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God lift thee up in whom thou art trusting, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Asshur.'

¹¹Lo, thou hast heard that which the kings of Asshur have done to all the lands—devoting them: yet thou art delivered! ¹²Did the gods of the nations deliver them whom my fathers destroyed—Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden, who are in Thelassar? ¹³Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah?

¹⁴And Hezekiah taketh the letters out of the hand of the messengers, and readeth them, and goeth up to the house of the LORD, and Hezekiah spreadeth it before the LORD. ¹⁵And Hezekiah prayeth before the LORD, and saith, 'O LORD, God of Israel, inhabiting the cherubs, Thou art God Himself—Thyself alone—over all the kingdoms of the earth: Thou hast made the heavens and the earth. ¹⁶Incline, O LORD, Thine ear, and hear; open, O LORD, Thine eyes and see, and hear the words of Sennacherib with which he hath sent him to reproach the living God. ¹⁷Truly, O LORD, the kings of Asshur have laid waste the nations, and their land: ¹⁸and have put their gods into the fire, for they are no gods, but the work of the hands of man, wood and stone, and destroy them. ¹⁹And, now, O LORD our God, save us, we pray Thee, out of his hand, and let all the kingdoms of the earth know that Thou art Jehovah God—Thyself alone.'

²⁰And Isaiah son of Amoz sendeth unto Hezekiah, saying, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said: That which thou hast prayed unto Me concerning Sennacherib king of Asshur I have heard: ²¹this is the word which the LORD spake concerning him,

'Despised thee—scorned thee,

Hath the virgin of the daughter of Zion!

Behind thee shaken the head—

Hath the daughter of Jerusalem.

²²Whom hast thou reproached and reviled?

And against whom lifted up the voice?

Yea, thou dost lift up on high thine eyes—

Against the Holy One of Israel.

²³By the hand of thy messengers [sayest,

Thou hast reproached the LORD, and

With the multitude of my chariots

I have come up to the high place of the

The sides of Lebanon, [mountains—

And I cut down the height of its cedars,

The choice of its firs,

And I enter the lodgings of its extremity,

The forest of its Carmel.

²⁴I have digged

And have drunk strange waters,

And I dry up with the sole of my steps

All the floods of the bulwark.

²⁵Hast thou not heard from afar

I have made it,

From the days of old

That I have formed it?

Now have I brought it,

That it become a desolation,

Ruinous heaps are fenced cities,

²⁶And their inhabitants are feeble-handed,

They have been broken down.

And they are dried up:
They have been the herb of the field,
And the greenness of the tender grass,
The grass of the roofs,
Even blasted before it hath risen up;
²⁷ And thy sitting down,
And thy going out, and thy coming in,
I have known,
And thine anger towards Me:
²⁸ Because of thine anger towards Me,
And of thy noise which hath come up into Mine ears,
I have even put My hook in thy nose,
And My bridle in thy lips,
And have caused thee to turn back
By the way by which thou camest.
²⁹ And this is to thee the sign, [growth,
The food of the year is the spontaneous
And in the second year the self-produced,
And in the third year sow ye and reap,
And plant vineyards, and eat their fruits.
³⁰ And it hath continued—
The escaped of the house of Judah
Which hath been left—
To take root beneath
And have yielded fruit upward.
³¹ For from Jerusalem goeth out a remnant,
And an escape from the mount of Zion;
The zeal of the LORD of Hosts doeth this.
³² Therefore, thus hath the LORD said,
Concerning the king of Asshur:
He doth not come unto this city,
Nor shoot an arrow there,
Nor come before it with shield,
Nor pour out against it a mount.
³³ By the way which he cometh
By it he turneth back,
And unto this city he doth not come,
Affirmeth the LORD.
³⁴ And I have defended this city,
To save it, for Mine own sake,
And for David My servant's sake.

³⁵ And it cometh to pass, on that night, that the messenger of Jehovah goeth out, and smiteth in the camp of Asshur a hundred eighty and five thousand; and they rise early in the morning, and lo, all of them are dead carcases. ³⁶ And Sennacherib king of Asshur journeyeth, and goeth, and turneth back, and dwelleth in Nineveh. ³⁷ And it cometh to pass, he is bowing himself in the house of Nisroch his god, and Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons have smitten him with the sword, and have escaped into the land of Ararat; and Esarhaddon his son reigneth in his stead.

XX. ¹ IN those days hath Hezekiah been sick to death; and Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet cometh unto him, and saith unto him, 'Thus hath the LORD said: Give a charge to thy house, for thou art dying, and shalt not live.' ² And he turneth round his face unto the wall, and prayeth unto the LORD, saying, ³ 'I pray Thee, O LORD, remember, I pray Thee, how I have walked habitually before Thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and that which is good in Thine eyes I have done;' and Hezekiah weepeth a great weeping.

⁴ And it cometh to pass—Isaiah hath not gone out to the middle court, and the word of the LORD hath been unto him, saying, ⁵ 'Turn back; then hast thou said unto Hezekiah, leader of My people: Thus hath the LORD, God of David thy father, said: I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears, lo,

I give healing to thee: on the third day thou dost go up to the house of the LORD.
⁶ And I have added to thy days fifteen years; and out of the hand of the king of Asshur I deliver thee and this city, and have covered over this city for Mine own sake, and for David My servant's sake.'

⁷ And Isaiah saith, 'Take ye a bunch of figs;' and they take and lay it on the boil, and he reviveth. ⁸ And Hezekiah saith unto Isaiah, 'What is the sign that the LORD doth give healing to me, that I have gone up on the third day to the house of the LORD?' ⁹ And Isaiah said, 'This is the sign for thee from the LORD, that the LORD doth the thing which He hath spoken—The shadow hath gone on ten degrees, or it doth turn back ten degrees.' ¹⁰ And Hezekiah saith, 'It hath been a light thing for the shadow to incline ten degrees: nay, but let the shadow turn backward ten degrees.'

¹¹ And Isaiah the prophet calleth unto the LORD, and He bringeth back the shadow by the degrees which it had gone down in the degrees of Ahaz—backward ten degrees.

¹² At that time Berodach-Baladan son of Baladan king of Babylon hath sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah, for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick. ¹³ And Hezekiah hearkeneth unto them, and sheweth them all the house of his treasury, the silver and the gold and the spices and the good ointment, and all the house of his vessels, and all that is found in his treasures;
there hath not been a thing which Hezekiah hath not shewed them in his house and in all his dominion.

¹⁴ And Isaiah the prophet cometh in unto king Hezekiah, and saith unto him, 'What said these men? and from whence do they come unto thee?' And Hezekiah saith,
'From a land afar off have they come—from Babylon.' ¹⁵ And he saith, 'What have they seen in thy house?' and Hezekiah saith, 'All that is in my house they saw; there hath not been a thing which I have not shewed them among my treasures.'

¹⁶ And Isaiah saith unto Hezekiah, 'Hear the word of the LORD: ¹⁷ Lo, days are coming, and all that is in thy house, and that thy fathers have treasured up till this day, hath been borne to Babylon; nothing is left, said the LORD; ¹⁸ and some of thy sons which go out from thee, which thou begettest, they take away, and they have been eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.' ¹⁹ And Hezekiah saith unto Isaiah,
'Good is the word of the LORD which thou hast spoken;' and he saith, 'Is it not—if peace and truth be in my days?'

²⁰ And the rest of the matters of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made the pool, and the conduit, and bringeth water into the city, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ²¹ And Hezekiah lieth with his fathers, and Manasseh his son reigneth in his stead.

XXI. ¹TWELVE years old is Manasseh in his reigning, and fifty and five years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Hephzi-Bah. ²And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, according to the abominations of the nations whom the LORD dispossessed from the presence of the Children of Israel. ³And he buildeth up again the high places which Hezekiah his father had destroyed, and raiseth up altars for Baal, and maketh a shrine, as did Ahab king of Israel, and boweth himself to all the host of the heavens, and serveth them. ⁴And he hath built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD said, 'In Jerusalem I put My name.' ⁵And he buildeth altars for all the host of the heavens in the two courts of the house of the LORD. ⁶And he hath caused his son to pass over through the fire, and observeth the clouds, and hath used enchantments, and dealt with a familiar spirit and wizards; he hath multiplied to do the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD—provoking to anger. ⁷And he setteth the graven image of the shrine which he made in the house of which the LORD said unto David and unto Solomon his son, 'In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I put my name for ever; ⁸and I do not add to cause the feet of Israel to move from the ground which I gave to their fathers, only, if they observe to do according to all that I have commanded them, and to all the law that my servant Moses commanded them.' ⁹But they hearkened not; and Manasseh causeth them to err, doing the evil thing above the nations whom the LORD destroyed from the presence of the Children of Israel.

¹⁰And the LORD speaketh by the hand of his servants the prophets, saying, 'Because that Manasseh king of Judah hath done these abominations—he hath done evil above all that the Amorites have done who are before him, and causeth Judah also to sin by his idols; ¹¹therefore, thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, 'Lo, I am bringing in evil on Jerusalem and Judah, that whosoever heareth of it, his two ears tingle. ¹²And I have stretched out over Jerusalem the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab, and have wiped away Jerusalem as one wipeth the dish,—he hath wiped, and hath turned it on its face. ¹³And I have left the remnant of Mine inheritance, and have given them into the hand of their enemies, and they have been for a prey and for a spoil to all their enemies, ¹⁴because they have done the evil thing in Mine eyes, and are provoking Me to anger from the day their fathers came out of Egypt even unto this day.'

¹⁵And also, innocent blood hath Manasseh shed very much, till he hath filled Jerusalem—mouth to mouth; apart from his sin which he hath caused Judah to sin, doing the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD.

¹⁷And the rest of the matters of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin which he sinned, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ¹⁸And Manasseh lieth with his fathers, and is buried in the garden of his own house, in the garden of Uzza; and Amon his son reigneth in his stead.

¹⁹Amon is twenty and two years old in his reigning, and two years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Meshullemeth daughter of Haruz of Jotbah. ²⁰And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, as Manasseh his father did; ²¹and walketh in all the way that his father walked in, and serveth the idols that his fathers served, and boweth himself to them, ²²and forsaketh the LORD, God of his fathers, and hath not walked in the way of the LORD.

XXII. ¹EIGHT years old is Josiah in his reigning, and thirty and one years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Jedidah daughter of Adaiah of Boscath. ²And he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, and walketh in all the way of David his father, and hath not turned aside—right or left.

³And it cometh to pass, in the eighteenth year of king Josiah, the king hath sent Shaphan son of Azaliah, son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of the LORD, saying, ⁴'Go up unto Hilkiah the high priest, and let him complete the silver which is brought into the house of the LORD, which the keepers of the threshold have gathered from the people. ⁵And let them put it into the hand of the doers of the work, the overseers in the house of the LORD, and let them give it to the doers of the work which is in the house of the LORD, to strengthen the breach of the house, ⁶to the artificers, and to the builders, and to the repairers of the wall, and to buy wood, and hewn stones to strengthen the house; ⁷only, the silver which is given unto their hand is not reckoned with them, for in faithfulness they are dealing.

⁸And Hilkiah the high priest saith unto Shaphan the scribe, 'The book of the law have I found in the house of the LORD;' and Hilkiah giveth the book to Shaphan, and he readeth it. ⁹And Shaphan the scribe cometh unto the king, and bringeth the king back word, and saith, 'Thy servants have poured out the silver which is found in the house, and give it into the hand of the doers of the work, the inspectors of the house of the LORD.' ¹⁰And Shaphan the scribe declareth to the king, saying, 'A book hath Hilkiah the priest given to me;' and Shaphan readeth it before the king.

¹⁴And Hilkiah the priest goeth, with Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asahiah, unto Idduah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvah, son of Harhas, keeper of the garments, and she is dwelling in Jerusalem with the second priest, and they speak unto her. ¹⁵And she saith unto them, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, Say ye to the man who hath sent you unto me: ¹⁶Thus hath the LORD said, Lo, I am bringing in evil unto this place and on its inhabitants, all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read, ¹⁷because they have forsaken Me, and make perfume to other gods, so as to provoke Me to anger with all the work of their hands: My wrath also hath been kindled against this place, and it shall not be quenched.'

¹⁸'And unto the king of Judah, who sendeth you to seek the LORD, thus do ye say unto him, Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, The words which thou hast heard —¹⁹because thy heart is tender, and thou art humbled because of the LORD, in thy hearing that which I have spoken concerning this place, and concerning its inhabitants—to be for a desolation, and for a reviling, and dost rend thy garments, and weep before Me—I also have heard, affirmeth the LORD. ²⁰Therefore, lo, I am gathering thee unto thy fathers, and thou hast been gathered unto thy sepulchre in peace, and thine eyes do not look on my of the evil which I am bringing in on this place: and they bring the king back word.'

XXIII. ¹AND the king sendeth, and they gather unto him all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. ²And the king goeth up to the house of the LORD, and every man of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the people, both small and great, and he readeth in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant which is found in the house of the LORD.

³And the king standeth by the pillar, and maketh the covenant before the LORD to walk after the LORD, and to keep His commands, and His testimonies, and His statutes, with all the heart, and with all the soul, to establish the words of this covenant which are written in this book: and all the people stand to the covenant. ⁴And the king commandeth Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the threshold, to bring out of the temple of the LORD all the vessels which are made for Baal, and for the shrine, and for all the host of the heavens, and he burneth them at the outside of Jerusalem in the fields of Kidron, and hath borne their ashes to Bethel. ⁵And he hath caused to cease the idolatrous priests whom the kings of Judah have appointed, and who make perfume in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and the suburbs of Jerusalem, and those who are making perfume to Baal, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the planets, and to all the host of the heavens.

⁶And he bringeth out the shrine from the house of the LORD to the outside of Jerusalem, unto the brook of Kidron, and burneth it at the brook of Kidron, and beateh it small to dust, and casteth its dust on the grave of the children of the people. ⁷And he brekeneth down the houses of the whoremongers which are by the house of the LORD, where the women are weaving houses for the shrine. ⁸And he bringeth in all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defileth the high places where the priests have made perfume, from Gaba unto Beer-Sheba, and hath broken down the high places of the gates which are at the opening of the gate of Joshua the chief of the city, which is on a man's left hand at the gate of the city: ⁹only, the priests of the high places come not up unto the altar of the LORD in Jerusalem, but they have eaten unleavened things in the midst of their brethren. ¹⁰And he hath defiled Topheth, which is in the valley of the sons of Hinnom, so that no man might cause his son or his daughter to pass over through the fire to Molech.

¹³And the high places which are on the front of Jerusalem, which are at the right of the mount of corruption, which Solomon king of Israel had built for Ashtoreth the abomination of the Zidonians, and for Chemosh the abomination of Moab, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of Ammon, hath the king defiled. ¹⁴And he hath broken in pieces the standing-pillars, and cutteth down the shrines, and filleth their place with bones of men. ¹⁵And also the altar which is in Bethel, the high place which Jeroboam son of Nebat had made, by which he made Israel to sin, both that altar and the high place he hath broken down, and doth burn the high place: he bent it small to dust, and burnt the shrine.

¹⁶And Josiah turneth, and seeth the sepulchres which are there in the mount, and sendeth and taketh the bones out of the sepulchres, and burneth them on the altar, and defileth it, according to the word of the LORD which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed these things. ¹⁷ And he saith, 'What is this sign which I see?' and the men of the city say unto him, 'The sepulchre of the man of God who hath come from Judah, and proclaimeth these things which thou hast done concerning the altar of Bethel.' ¹⁸ And he saith, 'Let him alone, let no man touch his bones;' and they let his bones escape, with the bones of the prophet who came out of Samaria.

¹⁹ And also all the houses of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel have made—provoking to anger—Josiah hath turned aside, and doeth to them according to all the deeds which he did in Bethel. ²⁰ And he slayeth all the priests of the high places who are there by the altars, and burneth the bones of man upon them, and turneth back to Jerusalem.

²¹ And the king commandeth the whole of the people, saying, 'Prepare ye the pass-over to the LORD your God, as it is written in the book of this covenant.' ²² Surely there hath not been made like this passover from the days of the judges who judged Israel, even all the days of the kings of Israel, or of the kings of Judah; ²³ but in the eighteenth year of king Josiah, when this pass-over was made to the LORD in Jerusalem.

²⁴ And also, those who have familiar spirits, and the wizards, and the teraphim, and the idols, and all the abominations which were seen in the land of Judah, and in Jerusalem, hath Josiah put away, in order to establish the words of the law which are written in the book which Hilkiah the priest hath found in the house of the LORD. ²⁵ And like him there hath not been a king before him who turned unto the LORD with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses, and after him hath none risen like him.

²⁶ Only, the LORD hath not turned back from the fierceness of His great anger with which His anger hath burned against Judah, because of all the provocations with which Manasseh had provoked Him. ²⁷ And the LORD saith, 'Also Judah I turn aside from My presence, as I have turned Israel aside, and I have rejected this city which I have chosen—Jerusalem, and the house of which I have said, My name shall be there.' ²⁸ And the rest of the matters of Josiah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

³¹ Twenty and three years old is Jehoahaz in his reigning, and three months hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. ³² And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that his fathers did; ³³ and Pharaoh-Nechoh bindeth him in Riblah, in the land of Hamath, so as not to reign in Jerusalem, and he putteth a fine on the land—a hundred talents, and a talent of gold.

³⁴ And Pharaoh-Nechoh causeth Eliakim son of Josiah to reign in the stead of Josiah his father, and turneth his name to Jehoiakim, and Jehoahaz he hath taken away, and he cometh to Egypt, and dieth there. ³⁵ And the silver and the gold hath Jehoiakim given to Pharaoh; only, he valued the land to give the silver by the command of Pharaoh, from each, according to his valuation he exacted the silver and the gold, from the people of the land, to give to Pharaoh-Nechoh.

³⁶ Twenty and five years old is Jehoiakim in his reigning, and eleven years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Zebudah daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah. ³⁷ And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that his fathers did.

XXIV. ¹ IN his days hath Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon come up, and Jehoiakim is his servant three years; then he turneth and rebelleth against him. ² And the LORD sendeth against him the troops of the Chaldeans, and the troops of Aram, and the troops of Moab, and the troops of the children of Ammon, and He sendeth them against Judah to destroy it, according to the word of the LORD, which He spake by the hand of His servants the prophets; ³ only, by the command of the LORD hath it been against Judah to turn them aside from His presence, for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he did, ⁴ and also the innocent blood which he hath shed, seeing he filleth Jerusalem with innocent blood, and the LORD would not forgive.

⁸ Eighteen years old is Jehoiachin in his reigning, and three months hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Nehushta daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. ⁹ And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that his father did. ¹⁰ At that time have the servants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon come up to Jerusalem, and the city is besieged; ¹¹ and Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon cometh against the city, and his servants lay siege to it; ¹² and Jehoiachin king of Judah goeth out to the king of Babylon, he, and his mother, and his servants, and his chiefs, and his eunuchs, and the king of Babylon taketh him in the eighth year of his reign, ¹³and bringeth out from thence all the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the house of the king, and cutteth in pieces all the vessels of gold which Solomon king of Israel had made for the temple of the LORD, as the LORD had spoken. ¹⁴And he hath removed all Jerusalem, and all the chiefs, and all the mighty ones of valour—ten thousand is the removal—and every artificer and smith: none hath been left save the poor of the people of the land.

¹⁵And he removeth Jehoiachin to Babylon, with the mother of the king, and the wives of the king, and his eunuchs, and the mighty ones of the land—he hath caused a captivity to go from Jerusalem to Babylon. ¹⁶And all the men of valour, seven thousand, and the artificers and the smiths a thousand, the whole are mighty men, warriors; and the king of Babylon bringeth them—a captivity—to Babylon. ¹⁷And the king of Babylon causeth Mattaniah his uncle to reign in his stead, and turneth his name to Zedekiah.

XXV. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth of the month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath come, he and all his force, against Jerusalem, and encampeth against it, and buildeth against it a fortification round about. ²And the city is in a state of siege till the eleventh year of Zedekiah: ³on the ninth of the month the famine is severe in the city, and there hath been no bread for the people of the land; ⁴and the city is broken up, and all the men of war flee by night the way of the gate, between the two walls, which are by the garden of the king, and the Chaldeans are against the city round about, and the king goeth the way of the plain. ⁵And the force of the Chaldeans pursue after the king, and overtake him in the plains of Jericho, and all his forces have been scattered from him; ⁶and they seize the king, and bring him up unto the king of Babylon, to Riblah, and they speak with him—judgment. ⁷And the sons of Zedekiah they have slaughtered before his eyes, and the eyes of Zedekiah he hath blinded, and bindeth him with fetters of brass, and they bring him to Babylon.

⁸And in the fifth month, on the seventh of the month (which is the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon), hath Nebuzar-Adan chief of the executioners, servant of the king of Babylon, come to Jerusalem, ⁹and he burneth the house of the LORD, and the house of the king, and all the houses of Jerusalem, yea, every great house he hath burned with fire. ¹⁰And the walls of Jerusalem round about have all the forces of the Chaldeans, who are with the chief of the executioners, broken down. ¹¹And the rest of the people who are left in the city, and those who are fallen away to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the multitude, hath Nebuzar-Adan chief of the executioners removed. ¹²But of the poor of the land hath the chief of the executioners left for vinedressers and husbandmen.

¹³And the pillars of brass which are in the house of the LORD, and the bases, and the sea of brass, which is in the house of the LORD, have the Chaldeans broken in pieces, and they bear away their brass to Babylon. ¹⁴And the pots, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the spoons, and all the vessels of brass with which they ministered, have they taken; ¹⁵and the fire-pans, and the bowls which are wholly of gold, or which are wholly of silver, hath the chief of the executioners taken. ¹⁶The two pillars, the one sea, and the bases which Solomon had made for the house of the LORD, there was no weighing of the brass of all these vessels. ¹⁷Eighteen cubits is the height of the one pillar, and the chapter on it is of brass, and the height of the chapter is three cubits, and the net-work and pomegranates are on the chapter round about; the whole is of brass; and like to these hath the second pillar, with net-work.

¹⁸And the chief of the executioners taketh Seraiah the head priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the threshold, ¹⁹and out of the city hath he taken a certain officer who is appointed over the men of war, and five men of those who see the king's face, who have been found in the city, and the head scribe of the host, who mustereth the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who are found in the city: ²⁰and Nebuzar-Adan chief of the executioners taketh them, and causeth them to go unto the king of Babylon, to Libnah. ²¹And the king of Babylon smiteth them, and putteth them to death, in Riblah, in the land of Hamath, and he removeth Judah from off its own land. ²²And the people that is left in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath left, he even appointeth over them Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan.

²³And all the heads of the forces hear—they and their men—that the king of Babylon hath appointed Gedaliah, and they come unto Gedaliah in Mizpeh, even Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan son of Caracah, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah son of a Manachathite,—they and their men: ²⁴and Gedaliah sweareth to them, and to their men, and saith to them, 'Be not afraid of the servants of the Chaldeans, dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be good for you.'

²⁵And it cometh to pass, in the seventh month, Ishmael son of Nathaniah, son of Elishama, of the royal seed, hath come, and ten men with him, and they smite Gedaliah, and he dieth with the Jews and the Chaldeans who have been with him in Mizpah. ²⁵ And all the people rise, both small and great, with the heads of the forces, and come in to Egypt, for they have been afraid of the presence of the Chaldeans.

rodach king of Babylon hath lifted up, in the year of his reigning, the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah out of the house of restraint. ²⁸ And he speaketh good things with him, and putteth his throne above the throne of the kings who are with him in Babylon, ²⁹ and hath changed the garments of his restraint, and he hath eaten bread continually before him all the days of his life. ³⁰ And his allowance—a continual allowance—hath been given to him by the king, the matter of a day in its day, all the days of his life.

¹¹And Chelub brother of Shuah begat Melchir: he is father of Eshton. ¹²And Eshton begat Beth-Rapha, and Pasenah, and Tehinnah father of Ir-Nahash. These are the men of Rechab. ¹³And the sons of Kenaz: Othniel, and Seraiah; and the sons of Othniel: Hathath. ¹⁴And Meonothai begat Ophrah, and Seraiah begat Joab father of the valley of Charashim, for they were artificers. ¹⁵And the sons of Caleb son of Jephunneh: Iru, Elah, and Naam; and the sons of Elah, even Kenaz. ¹⁶And the sons of Jehaleleel: Ziph and Ziphah, Tiria, and Asareel. ¹⁷And the sons of Ezra are Jether, and Mered, and Ephher, and Jalon; and she bare Miriam, and Shammai, and Ishlah father of Eshtemoa. ¹⁸And his wife Jehudijah bare Jered father of Gedor, and Heber father of Socho, and Jekuthiel father of Zanoah. And these are the sons of Bithiah daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered took, ¹⁹and the sons of the wife of Hodiah sister of Nahom: the father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eshtemoa the Maachathite.

²⁰And the sons of Shimon are Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-Hanon, and Tilon; and the sons of Ishi: Zoheth, and Ben-Zoheth. ²¹The sons of Shelah son of Judah: Er father of Lecah, and Laadiah father of Mareshah, and the families of the house of the service of fine linen, of the house of Ashbea. ²²And Jokim, and the men of Chozoba, and Joash, and Saraph, who ruled in Moab and Jashubi-Lehem; but these things are old. ²³These are the potters and the inhabitants of Netaim and Gedera; with the king in his work they dwell there.

²⁴The sons of Simeon: Nemuel, and Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, Shaul; ²⁵Shallum his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son. ²⁶And the sons of Mishma: Hamuel his son, Zacchur his son, Shimei his son. ²⁷And Shimei hath sixteen sons and six daughters, and his brethren have not many children, and none of their families have multiplied so much as the children of Judah. ²⁸And they dwell in Beer-Sheba, and Moladah, and Hazar-Shual, ²⁹and in Bilhah, and in Ezem, and in Tolad, ³⁰and in Bethuel, and in Hormah, and in Ziklag, ³¹and in Beth-Marcaboth, and in Hazar-Susim, and in Beth-Birei, and in Shaarim. These are their cities till the reigning of David. ³²And their villages are Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Ashan, five cities, ³³and all their villages which are round about these cities unto Baal. These are their dwellings, and they have their genealogy. ³⁴And Meshobab, and Jamlech, and Joshah son of Amaziah, ³⁵and Joel, and Jehu son of Josiabiah, son of Seraiah, son of Asiel. ³⁶And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshohai, and Asai, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benaiah, ³⁷and Ziza son of Shippi, son of Allon, son of Jedaiah, son of Shimri, son of Shemaiah.

³⁸These who come in by name are princes in their families, and the houses of their fathers have broken forth into a multitude. ³⁹And they go to the entrance of Gedor, even unto the east of the valley, to seek pasture for their flock. ⁴⁰And they find pasture, fat and good, and the land hath broad sides, and is quiet, and safe; for they of Ham dwell there before. ⁴¹And these who are written by name come in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and smite their tents, and the habitations which have been found there, and devote them to destruction unto this day, and dwell in their steads, because pasture for their flock is there.

⁴² And some of them, of the sons of Simeon, five hundred men, have gone to mount Seir, (and Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Re-phaliah, and Uzziel, sons of Ishi, at their head), ⁴³ and smite the remnant of the escaped ones of Amalek, and dwell there unto this day.

V. ¹ AND the sons of Reuben, first-born of Israel; for he is the first-born, and on account of his profaning the couch of his father his birthright is given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel, and he is not to be reckoned by genealogy for the birthright. ² For Judah hath been mighty over his brother, and for leader above him, and the birthright is Joseph's. ³ The sons of Reuben, first-born of Israel: Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. ⁴ The sons of Joel: Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son, ⁵ Micah his son, Reaia his son, Baal his son, ⁶ Beerah his son, whom Tilgath-Pilneser king of Asshur removed. He is prince of the Reubenites. ⁷ And his brethren by their families, in the genealogy of their generations, are heads: Jeiel, and Zechariah, ⁸ and Bela son of Azaz, son of Shema, son of Joel, who dwelleth in Aroer, even to Nebo and Baal-Meon; ⁹ and eastward he dwelt even to the entering in of the wilderness, even from the river Euphrates, for their cattle were multiplied in the land of Gilead. ¹⁰ And in the days of Saul they have made war with the Hagarites, who fall by their hand, and they dwell in their tents over all the face of the east of Gilead.

¹⁸ The sons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and the half of the tribe of Manasseh, of sons of valour, men bearing shield and sword, and treading the bow, and taught of battle, are forty and four thousand and seven hundred and sixty, going out to the host. ¹⁹ And they make war with the Hagarites, and Jetur, and Nephish, and Nodab, ²⁰ and they are helped against them, and the Hagarites are given into their hand, and all who are with them, for they cried to God in the battle, and he was entreated of them, because they trusted in him.

²¹ And they take captive their cattle, of their camels fifty thousand, and of sheep two hundred and fifty thousand, and of asses two thousand, and of human beings a hundred thousand; ²² for many have fallen pierced, for the battle is of God; and they dwell in their steads till the removal.

VI. ¹ THE sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. ² And the sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel. ³ And the children of Amram: Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam. And the sons of Aaron: Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. ⁴ Eleazar begat Phinehas. Phinehas begat Abishua. ⁵ And Abishua begat Bukki, and Bukki begat Uzzi, ⁶ and Uzzi begat Zerahiah, and Zerahiah begat Meraioth, ⁷ Meraioth begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub, ⁸ and Ahitub begat Zadok, and Zadok begat Ahimaz, ⁹ and Ahimaz begat Azariah, and Azariah begat Johanan, ¹⁰ and Johanan begat Azariah, he who ministered in the house which Solomon built in Jerusalem. ¹¹ And Azariah begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub, ¹² and Ahitub begat Zadok, and Zadok begat Shallum, ¹³ and Shallum begat Hilkiah, and Hilkiah begat Azariah, ¹⁴ and Azariah begat Seraiah, and Seraiah begat Jehozadak; ¹⁵ and Jehozadak went in the Lord's removing Judah and Jerusalem by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.

¹⁶ The sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. ¹⁷ And these are the names of the sons of Gershon: Libni and Shimei.

son. ³¹ And these are they whom David stationed over the parts of the song of the house of the Lord, from the resting of the ark, ³² and they are ministering before the tabernacle of the tent of meeting, with singing, till the building by Solomon of the house of the Lord in Jerusalem; and they stand according to their ordinance over their service. ³³ And these are those who stand with their children: of the sons of the Kohathites: Iteman the singer, son of Joel, son of Shemuel, ³⁴ son of Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Eliel, son of Toah, ³⁵ son of Zuph, son of Elkanah, son of Mahath, son of Amasai, ³⁶ son of Elkanah, son of Joel, son of Azariah, son of Zephaniah, ³⁷ son of Talai, son of Assir, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah, ³⁸ son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, son of Israel.

⁴⁴ And the sons of Merari, their brethren, are on the left. Ethan son of Kishi, son of Abdi, son of Malluch, ⁴⁵ son of Hashabiah, son of Amaziah, son of Hilkiah, ⁴⁶ son of Amzi, son of Bani, son of Shamer, ⁴⁷ son of Mahl, son of Mushi, son of Merari, son of Levi. ⁴⁸ And their brethren the Levites are put to all the service of the tabernacle of the house of God.

⁴⁹ And Aaron and his sons are making perfume on the altar of the burnt-offering, and on the altar of perfume, for all the work of the holy of holies, and to make atonement for Israel according to all that Moses the servant of God commanded. ⁵⁰ And these are the sons of Aaron: Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son, ⁵¹ Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son; ⁵² Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, ⁵³ Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son.

in Bashan, thirteen cities. ⁶³ To the sons of Merari, for their families, from the tribe of Reuben, and from the tribe of Gad, and from the tribe of Zebulun, by lot, twelve cities. ⁶⁴ And the children of Israel give to the Levites the cities and their suburbs.

VII. ¹ AND the sons of Issachar: Tola, and Punh, Jashub, and Shimron, four. ² And the sons of Tola: Uzzi, and Rephainah, and Jeriel, and Jahmai, and Jibsam, and Shemuel, heads of the house of their fathers, even of Tola, mighty men of valour in their generations: their number in the days of David is twenty and two thousand and six hundred. ³ And the sons of Uzzi: Izrahiah; and the sons of Izrahiah: Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, Ishiah, Hamisha: all of them are heads.

VIII. ¹AND Benjamin begat Bela his first-born, Ashbel the second, and Aharah the third, ²Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fifth. ³And there are sons to Bela: Addar, and Gera, ⁴and Abihud, and Abishua, and Naaman, and Ahoah, ⁵and Gera, and Shephuphan, and Huram. ⁶And these are the sons of Ehud: they are the heads of the fathers of the inhabitants of Geba, and they remove them to Manahath; ⁷and Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera; he removed them, and begat Uzza and Ahihud. ⁸And Shaharaim begat in the country of Moab, after his sending them away: Hushim and Baara are his wives. ⁹And he begetteth of Hodesh his wife, Jobah, and Zibia, and Mesha, and Malcham, ¹⁰and Jeuz, and Shachia, and Mirra. These are his sons, heads of the fathers. ¹¹And of Hushim he begat Abitub and Elpaal. ¹²And the sons of Elpaal: Eber, and Misham, and Shamed, (who built Ono and Lod and its small towns,) ¹³and Beriath and Shema, (who are heads of the fathers of the inhabitants of Aijalon, caused the inhabitants of Gath to flee); ¹⁴and Ahio, Shashak, and Jeremoth, ¹⁵and Zebadiah, and Arad, and Ader, ¹⁶and Michael, and Ispah, and Joha, sons of Beriath; ¹⁷and Zebadiah, and Meshullam, and Hezeki, and Heber, ¹⁸and Ishmerai, and Jeziah, and Jobah, sons of Elpaal; ¹⁹and Jakim, and Zichri, and Zabdi, ²⁰and Elienai, and Zithai, and Eliel, ²¹and Adahai, and Beraiah, and Shlmrath, sons of Shimhi; ²²and Ishpan, and Heber, and Eliel, ²³and Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan, ²⁴and Hananiah, and Elam, and Antothijah, ²⁵and Iphedai, and Penuel, sons of Shashak; ²⁶and Shamsherni, and Shehariah, and Athaliah, ²⁷and Jaresiah, and Eliah, and Zichri, sons of Jerolam. ²⁸These are heads of the fathers, by their generations, chiefs: these dwell in Jerusalem. ²⁹And in Gibeon hath the father of Gibeon dwelt, and the name of his wife is Maachah; ³⁰and his first-born is Abdon, and Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Nadab, ³¹and Gedor, and Ahio, and Zacher; ³²and Mikloth begat Shimeah. And they also dwelt over-against their brethren in Jerusalem with their brethren.

³³ And Ner begat Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Esh-Baal. ³⁴ And the son of Jonathan is Merib-Baal, and Merib-Baal begat Micah: ³⁵ and the sons of Micah: Pithon, and Melech, and Tarea, and Ahaz. ³⁶ And Ahaz begat Jehoadah, and Jehoadah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri: and Zimri begat Moza, ³⁷ and Moza begat Binea, Rapha is his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son. ³⁸ And to Azel are six sons, and these are their names: Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ishmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan. All these are sons of Azel. ³⁹ And the sons of Eshek his brother: Ulam his first-born, Jehush the second, and Eliphelet the third. And the sons of Ulam are men, mighty of valour, treading the bow, and multiplying sons and son's sons, a hundred and fifty. All these are of the Children of Benjamin.

IX. ¹ AND all Israel have reckoned themselves by genealogy, and lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah, removed to Babylon for their trespass.

⁷ And of the sons of Benjamin: Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Hodaviah, son of Hasenuah, ⁸ and Ibneiah son of Jeroham, and Elah son of Uzzi, son of Michri, and Meshullam son of Shephathiah, son of Reuel, son of Ibujah. ⁹ And their brethren, according to their generations, are nine hundred and fifty and six. All these men are heads of the fathers, according to the house of their fathers.

¹⁰ And of the priests: Jedoiah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin, ¹¹ and Azariah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, leader in the house of God. ¹² And Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pashur, son of Malchijah, and Maasai son of Adiel, son of Jahzerah, son of Meshullam, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer. ¹³ And their brethren, heads of the house of their fathers, a thousand and seven hundred and sixty, mighty men of strength, are for the work of the service of the house of God.

¹⁴ And of the Levites: Shemaiah son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari: ¹⁵ and Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal, and Mattaniah son of Micah, son of Zichri, son of Asaph: ¹⁶ and Obadiah son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun: and Berechiah son of Asa, son of Elkanah, who dwell in the villages of the Netophathites: ¹⁷ and the gatekeepers are Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum is the head: ¹⁸ and hitherto they are at the gate of the king eastward. They are gatekeepers for the companies of the sons of Levi. ¹⁹ And Shallum son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah, and his brethren, of the house of his father, the Korahites, are over the work of the service, keepers of the thresholds of the tent, and their fathers are over the camp of the LORD, keepers of the entrance. ²⁰ And Phinehas son of Eleazar was leader over them formerly: the LORD was with him. ²¹ Zechariah son of Meshelemiah is gatekeeper at the entrance of the tent of meeting. ²² All of those who are chosen for gatekeepers over the thresholds are two hundred and twelve: they are in their villages, by their genealogy; they whom David and Samuel the seer appointed in their offices. ²³ And they and their sons are over the gates of the house of the LORD, even of the house of the tent, by watches. ²⁴ At the four sides are the gatekeepers, east, west, north, and south. ²⁵ And their brethren in their villages are to come for seven days from time to time with them. ²⁶ For the four chiefs of the gatekeepers Levites are in office, and they have been over the chambers, and over the treasuries of the house of God. ²⁷ And round about the house of God they lodge, for on them is the watch, and they are over the opening, even morning by morning. ²⁸ And some of them are over the vessels of service, that by number they bring them in, and by number they take them out. ²⁹ And some of them are appointed over the vessels, even over all the vessels of the sanctuary, and over the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices. ³⁰ And some of the sons of the priests mix the mixtures of the spices. ³¹ And Mattithiah, one of the Levites (who is first-born of Shallum the Korahite), is in office over the work of the pans. ³² And of the sons of the Kohathites, some of their brethren are over the bread of the arrangement, to prepare it sabbath by sabbath. ³³ And those who sing, heads of the fathers of the Levites, in the chambers, are free, for by day and by night they are over them in the work.

³⁹ And Ner begat Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Esh-Baal. ⁴⁰ And the son of Jonathan is Merib-Baal, and Merib-Baal begat Micah. ⁴¹ And the sons of Micah: Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea, and Ahaz. ⁴² And Ahaz begat Jarah, and Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and I

Zimri, and Zimri begat Moza, ⁴and Moza begat Binea, and Rephaiah is his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son. ⁵And to Azel are six sons, and these are their names: Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ishmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan: these are the sons of Azel.

X. ¹AND the Philistines have fought against Israel, and the men of Israel flee from the presence of the Philistines, and fall wounded in mount Gilboa. ²And the Philistines pursue after Saul, and after his sons, and the Philistines smite Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Melchishua, sons of Saul. ³And the battle is heavy on Saul, and those who shoot with the bow find him, and he is wounded by those who shoot.

⁴And Saul saith unto the bearer of his weapons, 'Draw thy sword, and pierce me through with it lest these uncircumcised come—then have they abused me.' And the bearer of his weapons was not willing, for he feareth exceedingly; and Saul taketh the sword, and falleth upon it. ⁵And the bearer of his weapons seeth that Saul is dead, and he also falleth on the sword and dieth. ⁶And Saul dieth, and his three sons, and all his house: they died together.

⁷And all the men of Israel who are in the valley see that they have fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, and they forsake their cities and flee; and the Philistines came and dwell in them.

¹¹And all Jabesh Gilead hear all that the Philistines have done to Saul, ¹²and all the men of valour rise and take away the carcase of Saul, and the carcases of his sons, and bring them to Jabesh, and bury their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and fast seven days. ¹³And Saul dieth because of his trespass which he trespassed against the LORD, against the word of the LORD which he kept not, and also for asking at a familiar spirit—inquiring,—¹⁴but he inquired not at the LORD, and He putteth him to death, and turneth the kingdom round to David son of Jesse.

XI. ¹AND all Israel are gathered unto David to Hebron, saying, 'Lo, we are thy bone and thy flesh: ²even in time past, even in Saul's being king, it is thou who art taking order and bringing in Israel, and the LORD thy God saith to thee: 'Thou shalt feed My people Israel, and shalt be leader over My people Israel.' ³And all the elders of Israel come unto the king to Hebron, and David maketh a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD, and they anoint David king over Israel, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Samuel.

⁴And David goeth with all Israel to Jerusalem, which is Jebus, and there are the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land. ⁵And the inhabitants of Jebus say to David, 'Thou shalt not come in hither;' but David captureth the fortress of Zion, which is the city of David. ⁶And David saith, 'Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites first shall become head and prince;' and Joab son of Zeruiah goeth up first, and becometh head. ⁷And David dwelleth in the fortress: therefore they have called it, 'The City of David.' ⁸And he buildeth the city round about, from Millo, even unto the circumference, and Joab restoreth the rest of the city. ⁹And David goeth, going on and becoming great, and the LORD of Hosts is with him.

¹⁰And these are the heads of the mighty ones whom David hath, who strengthen themselves with him in his kingdom, with all Israel to cause him to reign, according to the word of the LORD, over Israel. ¹¹And this is the account of the mighty ones whom David hath: Jashobeam son of a Hachmonite is head of the thirty: he lifteth up his spear against three hundred—wounded, at one time. ¹²And after him is Eleazar son of Dodo the Ahohite, he is among the three mighty. ¹³He hath been with David in Pas-Dammim, and the Philistines have been gathered there to battle, and a portion of the field is full of barley, and the people have fled from the presence of the Philistines, ¹⁴and they station themselves in the midst of the portion, and deliver it, and smite the Philistines, and the LORD saveth—a great salvation.

¹⁵And three of the thirty heads go down on the rock unto David, unto the cave of Adullam, and the host of the Philistines is encamping in the valley of Rephaim. ¹⁶And David is then in the fortress, and the station of the Philistines is then in Beth-Lehem. ¹⁷And David longeth and saith, 'Who will give me water to drink from the well of Beth-Lehem, which is at the gate?' ¹⁸And the three break through the camp of the Philistines, and draw water from the well of Beth-Lehem, which is at the gate, and take it and bring it unto David, and David hath not been willing to drink it, and poureth it out to the LORD, ¹⁹and saith, 'Far be it from me, by my God, from doing this: the blood of these men shall I drink with their lives? for with their lives they have brought it;' and he was not willing to drink it; these things did the three mighty ones.

²⁰And Abishai brother of Joab he hath been head of the three: he also lifteth up his spear against three hundred—wounded, and hath a name among three. ²¹Of the three by the two he is honoured, and becometh their head; but unto the first three he hath not come.

²²Benaiah son of Jehoiada, son of a valiant man, of great deeds, from Kabzeel: he hath smitten two lion-like Moabites, and hath gone down and smitten a lion in the midst of the pit, in a day of snow. ²³And he hath smitten a man, an Egyptian (a man of measure, five by the cubit), and in the hand of the Egyptian is a spear like the beam of weavers, and he goeth down to him with a rod, and taketh violently away the spear out of the hand of the Egyptian, and slayeth him with his own spear. ²⁴These things hath Benaiah son of Jeholada done, and hath a name among the three mighty ones. ²⁵Of the thirty, 10, he is honoured, but unto the first three he hath not come, and David placeth him over his guard.

²⁶And the mighty ones of the forces are Asahel brother of Joab; Elhanan son of Dodo of Beth-Lechem; ²⁷Shammoth the Harorite; Helez the Pelonite; ²⁸Ira son of Ikesh the Tekoite; Abi-Ezer the Antothite; ²⁹Sibbeai the Hushathite; Ithai the Ahoite; ³⁰Maharai the Netophathite; Heled son of Baanah the Netophathite; ³¹Ithai son of Ribai of Gibeah, of the Children of Benjamin; Benaiah the Perathonite; ³²Ithra of the brooks of Gaash; Abiel the Arbathite; ³³Aznaveth the Baharumite; Eliahba the Shaalbonite; ³⁴the sons of Hashem the Gizonite; Jonathan son of Shage the Hararite; ³⁵Ahiam son of Sacar the Hararite; Eliphal son of Ur; ³⁶Iepher the Mecherathite; Ahijah the Pelonite; ³⁷Hezro the Carmelite; Naarai son of Ezbai; ³⁸Joel brother of Nathan; Mibhar son of Haggeri; ³⁹Zelek the Anmonite; Naharni the Berothite, bearer of the weapons of Joab, son of Zeruiah; ⁴⁰Ira the Ithrite; Gareb the Ithrite; ⁴¹Uriah the Hittite; Zabud son of Ahiai; ⁴²Adina son of Shiza the Reubenite, head of the Reubenites, and thirty by him; ⁴³Hanan son of Maachah; and Josphaphat the Mithnite; ⁴⁴Uzzia the Ashterathite; Shama and Jehiel sons of Hothan the Arorite; ⁴⁵Jediael son of Shimri; and Joha his brother the Tizite; ⁴⁶Eliel the Mahavite; and Jeribai, and Joshaviah, sons of Elnaam; and Ithmah the Moabite; ⁴⁷Eliel, and Obed, and Jasiel the Mesobaites.

XII. ¹AND these are they who come unto David to Ziklag, while shut up on account of Saul son of Kish; and they are among the mighty ones, helping the battle, ²armed with the bow, right and left handed, with stones, and with arrows, with bows, of the brethren of Saul, of Benjamin. ³The head is Ahiezer, and Joash, sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite, and Jeziel, and Pelet, sons of Aznaveth, and Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite, ⁴and Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty one among the thirty, and over the thirty; and Jeremiah, and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Josabab the Gederathite, ⁵Eluzai, and Jerimoth, and Benaiah, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite; ⁶Elkanah, and Jesiah, and Azareel, and Jozer, and Jashobeam the Korhites, ⁷and Joelah, and Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham of the Gedorites.

⁸And some of the Gadites have been separated unto David, to the fortress, in the wilderness, mighty ones of valour, men of the host for the battle, setting in array target and buckler, and their faces the faces of lions, and as roes on the mountains for speed. ⁹Ezer the head, Obadiah the second, Eliah the third, ¹⁰Mishmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth, ¹¹Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh, ¹²Johanan the eighth, Elzabab the ninth, ¹³Jeremiah the tenth, Machbanai the eleventh. ¹⁴These are of the children of Gad, heads of the host, one of a hundred is the least, and the greatest is one of a thousand. ¹⁵These are they who have passed over the Jordan in the first month, when it is full over all its banks, and cause all they of the valley to flee to the east and to the west.

¹⁶And some of the children of Benjamin and Judah come unto the stronghold to David. ¹⁷And David goeth out before them, and answereth and saith to them, 'If for peace ye have come unto me, to help me, I have a heart to unite with you; and if to betray me to mine adversaries—without violence in my hands—the God of our fathers see and approve.' ¹⁸And the Spirit hath clothed Amasai head of the captains: 'To thee, O David, and with thee, O son of Jesse, be peace; peace be to thee, and peace to thy helper, for thy God hath helped thee.' And David receiveth them, and putteth them among the heads of the troop.

²⁰In his going unto Ziklag there have fallen unto him of Manasseh, Adnah, and Jozabab, and Jediel, and Michael, and Jozabab, and Elihu, and Zilthai, heads of the thousands which are of Manasseh. ²¹And they have helped David over the troops, for they are all of them mighty of valour, and are captains in the host: ²²for at that time, day by day they come unto David to help him, till it is a great camp, like the camp of God.

²³And these are the numbers of the heads of the armed men of the host: they have come unto David to Hebron, to turn the kingdom of Saul round unto him, according to the mouth of the Lord. ²⁴Of the children of Judah, bearing target and spear, are six thousand and eight hundred armed ones of the host. ²⁵Of the children of Simeon, mighty ones of valour for the host are seven thousand and one hundred. ²⁶Of the sons of Levi are four thousand and six hundred. ²⁷And Jehoiada is the leader of the Aaronites, and with him are three thousand and seven hundred. ²⁸And Zadok, a young man, mighty of valour, and of the house of his father, twenty and two heads. ²⁹And of the children of Benjamin, the brethren of Saul, are three thousand, and hitherto their greater part are keeping the charge of the house of Saul. ³⁰And of the children of Ephraim are twenty thousand and eight hundred, mighty of valour, men of name, according to the house of their fathers. ³¹And of the half of the tribe of Manasse are eighteen thousand, who have been defined by name, to come to cause David to reign. ³²And of the children of Issachar, having understanding for the times to know what Israel should do; their heads are two hundred, and all their brethren are at their command. ³³ Of Zebulun, going out of the host, arranging the battle with all the instruments of battle, are fifty thousand, and keeping rank without a double heart. ³⁴ And of Naphtali, a thousand heads, and with them, with target and spear, are thirty and seven thousand. ³⁵ And of the Danites, arranging battle, are twenty and eight thousand and six hundred. ³⁶ And of Asher, going out of the host, to arrange the battle, are forty thousand. ³⁷ And from beyond the Jordan, of the Reubenites, and of the Gadites, and of the half of the tribe of Manasseh, with all instruments of the host for the battle, are a hundred and twenty thousand.

³⁸ All these are men of war, keeping rank; with a perfect heart they have come to Hebron, to cause David to reign over all Israel, and all the rest of Israel also are of one heart to cause David to reign. ³⁹ And they are there, with David, three days, eating and drinking, for their brethren have prepared for them. ⁴⁰ And they also that are near to them, even unto Issachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali, are bringing bread on asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen, with food of fine flour, bunches of figs and raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep in abundance, for joy is in Israel.

XIII. ¹ AND David consulteth with the heads of thousands, and of hundreds, even every leader. ² And David saith to all the congregation of Israel, 'If it be good unto you, and from the LORD our God it hath broken forth—let us send unto our brethren who are left in all the lands of Israel, and with them, the priests and the Levites, in the cities of their suburbs, and let them be gathered unto us; ³ and let us bring the ark of our God round unto us, for we sought it not in the days of Saul.' ⁴ And all the congregation say to do so, for the thing is right in the eyes of all the people.

⁵ And David congregateth all Israel from Shihor of Egypt even unto the entering in of Hemath, to bring in the ark of God from Kirjath-Jearim. ⁶ And David goeth up, with all Israel, to Baulah, unto Kirjath-Jearim, which is Judah's, to bring up from thence the ark of God the LORD, inhabiting the cherubs where the Name is called on. ⁷ And they place the ark of God on a new cart, from the house of Abinadab, and Uzza and Ahio are leading the cart, ⁸ and David and all Israel are playing before God, with all strength, and with songs, and with harps, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets. ⁹ And they come unto the threshing-floor of Chidon, and Uzza putteth forth his hand to seize the ark when the oxen are released. ¹⁰ And the anger of the LORD is kindled against Uzza, and He smiteth him, because he hath put forth his hand on the ark, and he dieth there before God. ¹¹ And David is displeased, because the LORD hath made a breach upon Uzza, and one calleth that place 'The Breach of Uzza' unto this day. ¹² And David feareth God on that day, saying, 'How shall I bring in unto me the ark of God?' ¹³ And David hath not turned aside the ark unto himself, unto the city of David, but turneth it aside unto the house of Obed-Edom the Gittite.

¹⁴ And the ark of God dwelleth with the household of Obed-Edom, in his house, three months; and the LORD blesseth the house of Obed-Edom, and all that he hath.

XIV. ¹ AND Hiram king of Tyre sendeth messengers unto David, and cedar-wood, and artificers of walls, and artificers of wood, to build for him a house. ² And David knoweth that the LORD hath established him for king over Israel, because of the lifting up on high of his kingdom, for the sake of His people Israel.

⁹ And the Philistines have come, and rush into the valley of Rephaim. ¹⁰ And David asketh of God, saying, 'Do I go up against the Philistines? and hast Thou given them into my hand?' And the LORD saith to him, 'Go up, seeing I have given them into thy hand.'

¹¹ And they go up into Baal-Perazim, and David smiteth them there; and David saith, 'God hath broken up mine enemies by my hand, like the breaking up of waters;' therefore they have called the name of that place Baal-Perazim. ¹² And they leave their gods there, and David speaketh, and they are burnt in the fire.

two hundred and twenty. ⁷ Of the children of Gershon: Joel the chief and his brethren, a hundred and thirty. ⁸ Of the children of Elizaphan: Shemaiah the chief and his brethren, two hundred. ⁹ Of the children of Hebron: Eliel the chief and his brethren, eighty. ¹⁰ Of the children of Uzziel: Amminadab the chief and his brethren, a hundred and twelve.

singers, and Chenaniah head of the burden of the singers: on David also is an ephod of linen. ²⁸ And all Israel are bringing up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, and with the sound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals sounding with psalteries and harps: ²⁹ and the ark of the covenant of the LORD is entering in unto the city of David, and Michal daughter of Saul is looking through the window, and seeth king David dancing and playing, and despiseth him in her heart.

XVI. ¹ AND they bring in the ark of God, and place it in the midst of the tent which David hath stretched out for it, and they bring near burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before God. ² And David ceaseth from offering the burnt-offerings and the peace-offerings, and blesseth the people in the name of the LORD, ³ and giveth a portion to every man of Israel, both man and woman: to each a cake of bread, and a measure of wine, and a grape-cake.

⁴ And he putteth before the ark of the LORD, from among the Levites, ministers, even to make mention of, and to thank, and to give praise to the LORD, God of Israel. ⁵ Asaph the head, and his second Zebariah: Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-Edom, and Jeiel, with instruments of psalteries, and with harps; and Asaph is sounding with cymbals: ⁶ and Benaiah and Jahaziel the priests are with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

⁸ 'Give ye thanks to the LORD,

Call in His name: [ings.

Make known among the peoples His do-

From nation unto nation,

And from one kingdom to another people.

And reproveth kings on their account.

And against my prophets do no evil.

Proclaim from day unto day His salvation.
²⁴ Rehearse among the nations His glory,
Among all the peoples His wonders.
²⁵ For great is the LORD,
And He is praised exceedingly,
And fearful He is above all gods.
²⁶ For all gods of the peoples are nought.
But the LORD made the heavens.

Strength and joy are in His place.

O families of the peoples,
Ascribe to the LORD honour and strength.

And all the people say, ' Amen,' and have given praise to the LORD.

³⁷ And he leaveth there before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, Asaph and his brethren, to minister before the ark continually, according to the matter of a day in its day : ³⁸ Obed-Edom also, and their brethren, sixty and eight ; and Obed-Edom son of Jeduthun, and Hosah for gatekeepers ; ³⁹ and Zadok the priest, and his brethren the priests, before the tabernacle of the LORD, in the high place which is in Gibeon, ⁴⁰ to cause burnt-offerings to ascend to the LORD on the altar of burnt-offering continually, morning and evening, and for all that is written in the law of the LORD, which He charged on Israel. ⁴¹ And with them Heman, and Jeduthun, and the rest of the chosen ones, who were defined by name, to give thanks to the LORD, for His kindness is everlasting ; ⁴² and with them Heman and Jeduthun, with trumpets and cymbals for those who sound, even with instruments of the song of God ; and the sons of Jeduthun are at the gate.

⁴³ And all the people go each to his house ;
and David turneth round to bless his house.
XVII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass as David sat in his house, that David saith unto Nathan the prophet, ' Lo, I am dwelling in a house of cedars, and the ark of the covenant of the LORD is under curtains.' ² And Nathan saith unto David, ' All that is in thine heart do, for God is with thee.' ³ And it cometh to pass on that night that the word of God is unto Nathan, saying, ' Go, then hast thou said unto David my servant,

Thus hath the LORD said, Thou shalt not build for Me the house to dwell in ; ⁴ for I have not dwelt in a house from the day that I brought up Israel until this day, but am from tent unto tent ; and from the tabernacle, ⁵ whithersoever I walked up and down among all Israel, spake I a word with any of the judges of Israel, whom I commanded to feed My people, saying,
Why have ye not built for Me a house of cedars ? ⁶ and now, thus shalt thou say to My servant, to David, Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said, I have taken thee from home, from after the sheep, to be leader over My people Israel ; ⁷ and I am with thee whithersoever thou hast walked, and I cut off all thine enemies from thy presence, and have made for thee a name like the name of the great ones who are in the earth. ⁸ And I have prepared a place for My people Israel, and have planted it, and it hath dwelt in its place, and is not troubled any more, and the children of perverseness continue not to wear it out as at first, ⁹ yea, even from the days that I appointed judges over My people Israel : I have also humbled all thine enemies, and I declare to thee that the LORD doth build a house for thee ; ¹⁰ and it hath come to pass, when thy days have been fulfilled to go with thy fathers, that I have raised up thy seed after thee who is of thy sons, and I have established his kingdom. ¹¹ He doth build a house for Me, and I have established his throne for ever ; ¹² I am to him for a father, and he is to Me for a son, and My kindness I turn not aside from him as I turned it aside from him who was before thee ; ¹³ and I have established him in My house, and in My kingdom for ever, and his throne is established for ever.'

¹⁴ According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so hath Nathan spoken unto David. ¹⁵ And David the king cometh and sitteth before the LORD, and saith, ' Who am I, O LORD God, and what is my house, that Thou hast brought me hitherto ? ¹⁶ And this is small in Thine eyes, O God, and Thou speakest concerning the house of thy servant afar off, and hast seen me as a type of the man who is on high, O
LORD God ! ¹⁷ What shall David add more unto Thee because of the honour of Thy servant ; but Thou hast known Thy servant.
¹⁸ O LORD, for Thy servant's sake, and according to Thine own heart Thou hast done all this greatness, making known all these great things. ¹⁹ O LORD, there is none like Thee, and there is no god save Thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears. ²⁰ And who is as Thy people Israel, one nation in the earth whom God hath gone to redeem to Himself for a people, to make for Thyself a great and fearful name, to cast out nations from the presence of Thy people whom Thou hast redeemed out of Egypt? ²²Yea, Thou dost appoint Thy people Israel to become a people to Thyself for ever, and Thou, O LORD, hast become a God to them.

²³And now, O LORD, let the word which Thou hast spoken concerning Thy servant, and concerning his house, be steadfast for ever, and do as Thou hast spoken. ²⁴Let it also be steadfast, and let Thy name be great for ever, saying, The LORD of Hosts is the God of Israel, a God to Israel, and the house of Thy servant David is established before Thee. ²⁵For Thou, O my God, Thou hast uncovered the ear of Thy servant—to build to him a house, therefore Thy servant hath been able to pray before Thee. ²⁶And now, LORD, Thou art God Himself, and Thou speakest concerning Thy servant this good. ²⁷And now, Thou hast been pleased to bless the house of Thy servant, to be for ever before Thee; when Thou hast blessed, O LORD, then it is blessed for ever.

XVIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, after this, that David smiteth the Philistines, and humbleth them, and he taketh Gath and its villages out of the hand of the Philistines. ²And he smiteth Moab, and the Moabites become David's servants, bringing a present. ³And David smiteth Hadarezer king of Zobah, at Hamath, in his going to establish his power by the river Euphrates. ⁴And David captureth from him a thousand chariots, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen, and David destroyeth utterly all the chariots, but leaveth of them a hundred chariots.

¹²And Abishai son of Zeruiah hath smitten Edom in the valley of salt—eighteen thousand, ¹³and putteth garrisons in Edom, and all the Edomites become David's servants; and the LORD saveth David whithersoever he hath gone.

¹⁴And David reigneth over all Israel, and is executing judgment and righteousness for all his people; ¹⁵and Joab son of Zeruiah is over the host, and Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud is remembrancer; ¹⁶and Zadok son of Ahitub, and Abimelech son of Abiathar, are priests; and Shavsha is scribe; ¹⁷and Benaiah son of Jehoiada is over the Cherethites and Pelethites; and the elder sons of David are at the hand of the king.

XIX. ¹AND it cometh to pass, after this, that Nahash king of the children of Ammon dieth, and his son reigneth in his stead. ²And David saith, 'I will deal kindly with Hanun son of Nahash, for his father dealt kindly with me;' and David sendeth messengers to comfort him concerning his father: and the servants of David come unto the land of the children of Ammon unto Hanun, to comfort him. ³And the heads of the children of Ammon say to Hanun, 'Doth David honour thy father, in thine eyes, because he hath sent comforters to thee? have not his servants come to thee in order to search, and to overthrow, and to spy out the land?' ⁴And Hanun taketh the servants of David, and saveth them, and cutteth their long robes in the midst, by the buttocks, and sendeth them away.

⁵And some go, and tell David concerning the men, and he sendeth to meet them (for the men have been greatly ashamed), and the king saith, 'Dwell in Jericho till your beard be grown, then have ye returned.'

⁶And the children of Ammon see that they have made themselves to be abhorred by David, and Hanun and the children of Ammon send a thousand talents of silver, to hire for themselves, from Aram-Naharaim, and from Aram-Maachah, and from Zobah, chariots and horsemen. ⁷And they hire for themselves two and thirty thousand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people, and they come and encamp before Medeba; and the children of Ammon have been gathered out of their cities, and come to the battle. ⁸And David heareth, and sendeth Joab, and all the host of the mighty men; and the children of Ammon come out and set the battle in array at the opening of the city; and the kings who have come are by themselves in the field.

⁹And Joab seeth that the appearance of the battle hath been against him, before and behind, and he chooseth out of all the choice in Israel, and setteth in array to meet Aram. ¹⁰And the remnant of the people he hath given into the hand of Abishai his brother, and they set in array to meet the children of Ammon. ¹¹And he saith, 'If Aram be stronger than I, then thou hast been to me for salvation; and if the children of Ammon be stronger than thou, then have I saved thee; ¹²be strong, and let us strengthen ourselves, for our people, and for the cities of our God: and let the LORD do that which is good in His eyes.' ¹³And Joab draweth nigh, and the people who are with him, before Aram to the battle, and they flee from his presence.

¹⁴And the children of Ammon have seen that, Aram hath fled, and they also flee from the face of Abishai his brother, and go into the city. And Joab cometh to Jerusalem.

¹⁶ And the Aramaeans see that they have been smitten before Israel, and they send messengers, and bring out the Aramaeans who are beyond the River, and Shophach head of the host of Hadarezer is before them. ¹⁷ And it is declared to David, and he gathereth all Israel, and passeth over the Jordan, and cometh in unto them, and setteth in array against them. yea, David setteth the battle in array to meet Aram, and they fight with him. ¹⁸ And Aram fleeth from the presence of Israel, and David slayeth of Aram seven thousand charioteers, and forty thousand foot-men, and Shophach the head of the host hath he put to death. ¹⁹ And the servants of Hadarezer see that they have been smitten before Israel, and make peace with David, and serve him: and Aram was not willing to help the children of Ammon any more.

XX. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, at the time of the turn of the year, at the time of the going out of the messengers, that Joab leadeth out the force of the host, and destroyeth the land of the children of Ammon, and cometh and besiegeth Rabbah (but David abideth in Jerusalem), and Joab smiteth Rabbah, and breaketh it down. ² And David taketh the crown of their king from off his head, and findeth it in weight a talent of gold, and in it are precious stones, and it is on the head of David: he hath also brought very much spoil out of the city. ³ And the people who are in it he hath brought out, and setteth to the saw, and to the cutting instruments of iron, and to the axes; and thus doth David to all the cities of the children of Ammon: and David turneth back, and all the people, to Jerusalem.

⁶ And war is again in Gath, and there is a man of measure, and his fingers [and toes] are six and six, twenty and four, and he also hath been born to the giant. ⁷ And he reproacheth Israel, and Jonathan son of Shimea, brother of David, smiteth him. ⁸ These were born to the giant in Gath, and they fall by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

XXI. ¹ AND an adversary standeth up against Israel, and persuadeth David to number Israel. ² And David saith unto Joab, and unto the heads of the people, 'Go, number Israel from Beer-Sheba even unto Dan, and bring unto me, and let me know their number.' ³ And Joab saith, 'The LORD add to His people as they are a hundred times: are they not, my lord, O king, all of them become servants to my lord? why doth my lord seek this? why will he be a cause of guilt to Israel?' ⁴ And the word of the king is severe towards Joab, and Joab goeth out, and goeth up and down through all Israel, and cometh into Jerusalem.

⁷ And it is displeasing in the eyes of God concerning this thing, and He smiteth Israel. ⁸ And David saith unto God, 'I have sinned exceedingly, in that I have done this thing; and now, cause to pass away, I pray Thee, the iniquity of Thy servant, for I have acted very foolishly.' ⁹ And the LORD speaketh unto Gad the seer, for David, saying: ¹⁰ 'Go: then hast thou spoken unto David, saying, Thus hath the LORD said, Three—I stretch out to thee; choose for thyself one of them, and I do it to thee.'

¹¹ And Gad cometh unto David, and saith to him, 'Thus hath the LORD said, Take for thyself—¹² either three years' famine, or three months being consumed from the presence of thine adversaries, even the sword of thine enemies overtaking, or three days the sword of the LORD, even pestilence in the land, and the messenger of the LORD destroying throughout all the border of Israel; and now, see, what word shall I return Him who sendeth me?' ¹³ And David saith unto Gad, 'I am greatly distressed; let me fall, I pray thee, into the hand of the LORD, for His mercies are very many, and into the hand of man let me not fall.'

¹⁴ And the LORD putteth a pestilence on Israel, and there fall of Israel seventy thousand men. ¹⁵ And God sendeth a messenger to Jerusalem to destroy it, and as he is destroying, the LORD hath seen, and is comforted concerning the evil, and saith to the messenger who is destroying, 'Enough, now, cease thy hand.' And the messenger of the LORD is standing by the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. ¹⁶ And David lifteth up his eyes, and seeth the messenger of the LORD standing between the earth and the heavens, and his drawn sword in his hand stretched out over Jerusalem, and David falleth, with the elders, covered with sackcloth, on their faces. ¹⁷ And David saith unto God, 'Did not I say to number the people? Yea, I it is who have sinned, and done great evil, but these, the flock, what did they? O LORD, my God, let, I pray Thee, Thy hand be on me, and on the house of my father, and not on Thy people to be plagued.'

¹⁸ And the messenger of the LORD hath spoken unto Gad, for David, saying, 'Let David go up to raise up an altar to the LORD in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.' ¹⁹ And David goeth up according to the word of Gad, which he spake in the name of the LORD. ²⁰ And Ornan turneth back, and seeth the messenger, and his four sons are with him, hiding themselves, and Ornan is threshing wheat. ²¹And David cometh unto Ornan, and Ornan looketh attentively, and seeth David, and goeth out from the threshing-floor, and boweth himself to David—face to the earth. ²²And David saith unto Ornan, 'Give to me the place of the threshing-floor, and I build on it an altar to the LORD; for full silver give it to me, that the plague be restrained from the people.' ²³And Ornan saith unto David, 'Take to thyself—and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: see, I have given the oxen for burnt-offerings, and the threshing instruments for wood, and the wheat for an offering; the whole I have given.' ²⁴And David the king saith to Ornan, 'Nay, for I surely buy it for the full silver; for I do not take that which is thine for the LORD, so as to offer a burnt-offering without cost.' ²⁵And David giveth to Ornan for the place shekels of gold in weight six hundred. ²⁶And David buildeth there an altar to the LORD, and offereth burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, and calleth unto the LORD, and He answereth him with fire from the heavens on the altar of the burnt-offering. ²⁷And the LORD speaketh to the messenger, and he turneth back his sword unto its sheath. ²⁸At that time when David seeth that the LORD hath answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificeth there; ²⁹seeing the tabernacle of the LORD which Moses made in the wilderness, and the altar of the burnt-offering are at that time in the high place, in Gibeon. ³⁰And David is unable to go before it to seek God, for he hath been afraid of the sword of the messenger of the LORD.

XXII. ¹AND David saith, 'This is the house of the LORD God, and this the altar for burnt-offering for Israel.' ²And David speaketh of gathering the sojourners who are in the land of Israel, and appointeth hewers to hew hewn-stones to build the house of God. ³And iron in abundance for the nails for the leaves of the gates, and for the couplings, hath David prepared; and brass in abundance: there is no weighing. ⁴And cedar-trees even without number, for the Sidonians and they of Tyre brought in cedar-trees in abundance to David. ⁵And David saith, 'Solomon my son is a youth and tender, and the house to be built for the LORD is to be made exceedingly great, for renown and for beauty throughout all the lands: let me prepare, I pray thee, for it;' and David prepareth in abundance before his death.

⁶And he calleth for Solomon his son, and commandeth him to build a house to the LORD, God of Israel. ⁷And David saith to Solomon his son, 'As for me, it hath been with my heart to build a house for the name of the LORD my God, ⁸but the word of the LORD is against me, saying, Blood in abundance thou hast shed, and great wars thou hast made: thou shalt not build a house for My name, for much blood thou hast shed to the earth before My face. ⁹Lo, a son is born to thee; he is a man of rest, and I have given rest to him from all his enemies round about, for Solomon is his name, and peace and quietness I give to Israel in his days; ¹⁰he doth build a house for My name, and he is to Me for a son, and I am to him for a father, and I have established the throne of his kingdom over Israel for ever. ¹¹Now, my son, the LORD be with thee, then thou hast prospered, and hast built the house of the LORD thy God, as He spake concerning thee. ¹²Only, the LORD give to thee wisdom and understanding, and give thee a charge concerning Israel, even to keep the law of the LORD thy God: ¹³then dost thou prosper, if thou observe to do the statutes and the judgments which the LORD charged Moses with concerning Israel: he strong and courageous; fear not, nor be cast down.

¹⁴And lo, in mine affliction, I have prepared for the house of the LORD talents of gold a hundred thousand, and of silver a thousand thousand talents; and of brass and of iron there is no weighing, for it hath been in abundance; and wood and stone have I prepared, and to them thou dost add. ¹⁵And with thee in abundance are workmen, hewers and artificers of stone and of wood, and all kinds of skillful men for all kinds of work. ¹⁶Of the gold, of the silver, and of brass, and of iron there is no number; arise and do, and the LORD be with thee.'

¹⁷And David giveth commandment to all the heads of Israel to give help to Solomon his son, ¹⁸'Is not the LORD your God with you? yea, He hath given to you rest round about, for He hath given into my hand the inhabitants of the land, and the land hath been subdued before the LORD, and before His people. ¹⁹Now, give your heart and your soul to seek for the LORD your God, and rise ye, and build the sanctuary of the LORD God, to bring in the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy vessels of God, to the house which is to be built for the name of the LORD.'

XXIII. ¹AND David is old and satisfied with days, and he causeth Solomon his son to reign over Israel, ²and gathereth all the heads of Israel, and the priests, and the Levites. ³And the Levites are numbered from thirty years old and upward, and their number, by their polls, is of mighty men thirty and eight thousand. ⁴Of these to preside over the work of the house of the LORD are twenty and four thousand, and the officers and the judges are six thousand; ⁵and four thousand are gatekeepers, and four thousand are giving praise to the LORD, 'with the instruments which I made for praising,' saith David.

⁶And David distributeth them into courses: of the sons of Levi: of Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

⁷Of the Gershonites: Laadan and Shimei. ⁸The sons of Laadan: the head is Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three. ⁹The sons of Shimei are Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three; these are the heads of the fathers of Laadan. ¹⁰And the sons of Shimei are Jahath, Zim, and Jeush, and Beriah; these are the sons of Shimei, four. ¹¹ And Jahath is the head, and Zizah the second; and Jeshu and Beriah have not multiplied children, and they become the house of a father by one numbering.

¹² The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four. ¹³ The sons of Amram are Aaron and Moses; and Aaron is separated for his sanctifying the holy of holies, he and his sons for ever, to make perfume before the LORD, to serve Him, and to bless in His name for ever. ¹⁴ As to Moses, the man of God, his sons are called after the tribe of Levi. ¹⁵ The sons of Moses are Gershom and Eliezer. ¹⁶ The sons of Gershom: Shebuel the head. ¹⁷ And the sons of Eliezer are Rehabiah the head; and Eliezer had no other sons; but the sons of Rehabiah have multiplied exceedingly.

and they had no children, and Eleazar and Ithamar minister. ² And David distributeth them, even Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their office in their service; ³ and of the sons of Eleazar more are found for heads of the mighty men than of the sons of Ithamar; and they distribute them: Of the sons of Eleazar, heads for the house of the fathers, sixteen; and of the sons of Ithamar, for the house of their fathers, eight.

XXV. ¹AND David and the heads of the host separate for the service some of the sons of Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun, who are prophesying with harps, with psalteries, and with cymbals; and the number of the workmen is according to their service. ²Of the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, and Joseph, and Nethaniah, and Asareliah, sons of Asaph, are by the side of Asaph, who hath prophesied by the side of the king. ³Of Jeduthun: the sons of Jeduthun, Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Jeshiah, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, Shisha, are by the side of their father Jeduthun, who hath prophesied with a harp concerning the giving of thanks and of praise to the LORD. ⁴Of Heman, the sons of Heman: Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-Ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Ilothir, Mahazioth; ⁵*all these are sons of Heman the king's seer, in the things of God, lifting up the horn; and God giveth to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.* ⁶*All these are by the side of their father in the song of the house of the LORD, with cymbals, psalteries, and harps, for the service of the house of God; by the side of the king are Asaph, and Jeduthun, and Heman.* ⁷And their number, with their brethren taught in the song of the LORD, all who are intelligent, is two hundred, eighty and eight.

⁸And they cast lots—charge over-against charge, as well the small as the great, the intelligent with the learner. ⁹And the first lot goeth out for Asaph to Joseph; ¹⁰to Gedaliah the second; he, with his brethren and his sons, twelve; ¹¹the third to Zaccur, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹²the fourth to Izri, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹³the fifth to Nethaniah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁴the sixth to Bukkiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁵the seventh to Jesharelah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁶the eighth to Jeshaiiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁷the ninth to Mattaniah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁸the tenth to Shimei, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁹the eleventh to Azarel, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁰the twelfth to Hashabiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²¹at the thirteenth to Shubael, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²²at the fourteenth to Mattithiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²³at the fifteenth to Jeremioth, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁴at the sixteenth to Hananiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁵at the seventeenth to Joshbekashah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁶at the eighteenth to Hanani, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁷at the nineteenth to Mallothi, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁸at the twentieth to Eliathah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁹at the one and twentieth to Ilothir, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ³⁰at the two and twentieth to Giddalti, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ³¹at the three and twentieth to Mahazioth, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ³²at the four and twentieth to Romamti-Ezer, his sons and his brethren, twelve.

XXVI. ¹FOR the courses of the gate-keepers: of the Korhites to Meshelemiah son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph. ²And to Meshelemiah are sons, Zechariah the first-born, Jedaiel the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth, Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Elioenai the seventh.

⁴And to Obed-Edom are sons, Shemaiah the first-born, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth, Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eighth, for God hath blessed him. ⁶And to Shemaiah his son have sons been born, who are ruling throughout the house of their father, for they are mighty of valour. ⁷The sons of Shemaiah are Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad; his brethren Elihu and Semachiah are sons of valour; all these are of the sons of Obed-Edom; they, and their sons, and their brethren, men of valour with might for the service, are sixty and two of Obed-Edom.

¹²According to these are the courses of the gate-keepers: to the heads of the mighty ones are charges over-against their brethren, to minister in the house of the LORD. ¹³and they cast lots, as well the small as the great, according to the house of their fathers, for every gate. ¹⁴And the lot eastward falleth to Shelomiah; and for Zechariah his son (a counsellor with understanding; they cast lots, and his lot goeth out northward; ¹⁵to Obed-Edom southward, and to his sons, the house of the gatherings; ¹⁶to Shuppim and to Hosah to the west, with the gate Shallecheth, in the highway, the ascent, ward over-against ward; ¹⁷to the east the Levites are six; to the north daily four, to the south daily four, and to the gathering two by two. ¹⁸At Parbar, to the west, are four at the highway, two at Parbar. ¹⁹These are the courses of the gate-keepers, of the sons of Kore, and of the sons of Merari.

²⁰And of the Levites, Ahijah is over the treasures of the house of God, even of the treasures of the holy things. ²¹The sons of Laadan: the sons of the Gershonite Laadan, heads of the fathers of Laadan the Gershonite, are Jehieli. ²²The sons of Jehieli: Zetham, and Joel his brother, are over the treasures of the house of the LORD, ²³for the Amramites, for the Izharites, for the Hebronites, for the Uzzielites. ²⁴And Shebuel son of Gershon, son of Moses, is president over the treasures. ²⁵And his brethren, of Eliezer, are Rehabiah his son, and Jeshaiiah his son, and Jorani his son, and Zichri his son, and Shelomith his son.

²⁶This Shelomith and his brethren are over all the treasures of the holy things, which

David the king and the heads of the fathers, even the heads of thousands, and of hundreds, and the heads of the host have sanctified, ²⁷from the battles, even from the spoil have they sanctified to strengthen the house of the Lord, ²⁸and all that Samuel the seer, and Saul son of Kish, and Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah had sanctified, all who sanctify any thing, it is by the side of Shilemuth and his brethren.

²⁹Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his sons are for the outward work over Israel, for officers and for judges. ³⁰Of the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his brethren, sons of valour, a thousand and seven hundred, are over the inspection of Israel, beyond the Jordan westward, for all the work of the Lord, and for the service of the king.

XXVII. ¹AND the Children of Israel, after their number, heads of the fathers, and princes of the thousands and of the hundreds, and their officers who serve the king in any matter of the courses, which come in and go out month by month, throughout all the months of the year—on every course are twenty and four thousand.

²Over the first course, for the first month, is Jashobeam son of Zabdiel, and on his course are twenty and four thousand: ³of the children of Perez is the head of all the princes of the hosts for the first month. ⁴And over the course of the second month is Dodai the Ahohite, and his course, and Mikloth is the president, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ⁵The head of the third host for the third month is Benaiah son of Jehoiada, the head priest, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ⁶This Benaiah is a mighty one of the thirty, and over the thirty, and in his course is Ammizabad his son. ⁷The fourth, for the fourth month, is Asahel brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his son after him, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ⁸The fifth, for the fifth month, is the prince Shammuth the Izrahite, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ⁹The sixth, for the sixth month, is Ira son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ¹⁰The seventh, for the seventh month, is Helez the Pelonite, of the children of Ephraim, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ¹¹The eighth, for the eighth month, is Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the Zarahites, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ¹²The ninth, for the ninth month, is Abiezer the Netophathite, of the Benjaminites, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ¹³The tenth, for the tenth month, is Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zarahites, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ¹⁴The eleventh, for the eleventh month, is Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the Children of Ephraim, and on his course are twenty and four thousand. ¹⁵The twelfth, for the twelfth month, is Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel, and on his course are twenty and four thousand.

²³And David hath not taken up their number from twenty years old and under, for the Lord hath spoken of multiplying Israel as the stars of the heavens. ²⁴Joab son of Zeruiah hath begun to number (but hath not finished), and there is for this wrath against Israel, and the number hath not gone up in the account of the Chronicles of king David.

²⁵And over the treasures of the king is Azmaveth son of Adiel: and over the treasures in the field, in the cities, and in the villages, and in the towers, is Jehonathan son of Uzai: ²⁶and over the workmen of the field for the service of the ground is Ezri son of Chelub: ²⁷and over the vineyards is Shimei the Ramathite: and over what is in the vineyards of the treasures of wine is Zabdi the Shiphmite: ²⁸and over the olives, and the sycamores, which are in the low place, is Baal-Hanan the Gederite: and over the treasures of oil is Joash: ²⁹and over the herds which feed in Sharon is Shitrai the Sharouite: and over the herds which are in the villages is Shaphat son of Adlai: ³⁰and over the camels is Obil the Ishmaelite: and over the asses is Jehdeiah the Meronithite: ³¹and over the flocks is Jaziz the Hagerite: all these are the heads of the substance which king David hath.

XXVIII. ¹AND David congregateth all the heads of Israel, the heads of the tribes, and the heads of the courses who serve the king, and the heads of the thousands, and the heads of the hundreds, and the heads of all the substance and possessions of the king, and of his sons, with the officers and the mighty ones, and every mighty one of valour—unto Jerusalem.

² And David the king riseth up on his feet, and saith, 'Hear me, my brethren and my people, I—with my heart—to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and for the footstool of our God, and I had prepared to build, ³ but God said to me, 'Thou dost not build a house for My name, for thou art a man of war, and hast shed blood. ⁴ Yet the LORD, God of Israel, fixeth on me out of all the house of my father to become king over Israel for ever, for on Judah He hath fixed for a leader, and in the house of Judah, the house of my father, and among the sons of my father, me He hath been pleased to make king over all Israel: ⁵ and out of all my sons (for many sons hath the LORD given to me), He also fixeth on Solomon my son, to sit on the throne of the kingdom of the LORD over Israel, and saith to me, Solomon thy son, he both build My house and My courts, for I have fixed on him to be to Me for a son, and I am to him for a father, ⁷ and I have established his kingdom for ever, if he be strong to do My commands, and My judgments, as at this day. ⁸ And now, before the eyes of all Israel, the congregation of the LORD, and in the ears of our God, keep ye and seek all the commands of the LORD your God, so that ye possess this good land, and have caused also your children to inherit after you for ever.

⁹ And thou, Solomon, my son, know the God of thy father, and serve Him with a perfect heart, and with a willing mind, for all hearts doth the LORD seek, and every imagination of the thoughts He understandeth: if thou seek Him, He is found of thee, and if thou forsake Him, He casteth thee off for ever. ¹⁰ See, now, for the LORD hath fixed on thee to build a house for the sanctuary: be strong, and work.'

¹¹ And David giveth to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, and of its houses, and of its treasuries, and of its upper chambers, and of its innermost chambers, and of the house of the mercy-seat: ¹² and the pattern of all that have been by the Spirit with him, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasures of the house of God, and of the treasures of the sanctified things: ¹³ and for the courses of the priests and of the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service of the house of the LORD, ¹⁴ gold by weight, for things of gold, for all instruments of various services; for all instruments of silver by weight, for all instruments of various services: ¹⁵ and by weight for the candlesticks of gold, and their lights of gold: by weight, for every candlestick, and its lamps; and the candlesticks of silver are by weight for every candlestick and its lamps, according to the service of every candlestick: ¹⁶ and the gold by weight for the tables of the arrangement, for every table, and silver for the tables of silver: ¹⁷ and the forks, and the bowls, and the cups of pure gold, and for the golden basons, by weight for every bason, and for the silver basons, by weight for every bason, ¹⁸ and for the altar of perfume refined gold by weight, and for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubs gold spreading out and covering over the ark of the covenant of the LORD. ¹⁹ The whole is in writing from the hand of the LORD, 'He made me to understand all the work of the pattern.'

²⁰ And David saith to Solomon his son, 'Be strong, and courageous, and work: fear not, nor be affrighted, for the LORD God, my God, is with thee: He doth not fail thee, nor forsake thee, till the completion of all the work of the service of the house of the LORD. ²¹ And, lo, the courses of the priests and of the Levites are for all the service of the house of God; and with thee throughout all the work is every willing one with wisdom, for every service; and the heads and all the people are according to all thy words.'

XXIX. ¹ AND David the king saith to all the congregation, 'Solomon my son—the one on whom God hath fixed—is young and tender, and the work is great: for the palace is not for man, but for the LORD God. ² And with all my power I have prepared for the house of my God, the gold for things of gold, and the silver for things of silver, and the brass for things of brass, the iron for things of iron, and the wood for things of wood, shoham stones, and settings, and stones of painting and diverse colours, and all kinds of precious stones, and marble stones, in abundance.

³ And, again, because of my delighting in the house of my God, the substance I have—the peculiar treasure of gold and silver—I have given for the house of my God, even over and above all I have prepared for the holy house. ⁴ Three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and seven thousand talents of refined silver, to overlay the walls of the houses, ⁵ gold for things of gold, and silver for things of silver, and for all the work by the hands of the artificers; and who is he that offereth willingly, consecrating his hand to-day to the LORD?

¹⁰ And David blesseth the LORD before the eyes of all the congregation; and David saith, 'Blessed art Thou, LORD, God of Israel, our father, from eternity even unto eternity. ¹¹Thine, O LORD, is the greatness, and the might, and the beauty, and the victory, and the honour of all in the heavens and in the earth: Thine, O LORD, is the kingdom, and he who lifteth up himself over all for head: ¹²riches also, and honour, are from before Thee, and Thou art ruling over all, and in Thy hand is power and might, and in Thy hand, to make great, and to give strength to all. ¹³And now, our God, we give thanks to Thee, and give praise to Thy beauteous name: ¹⁴yea, because who art I, and who are my people, that we retain power to offer thus willingly: but all is of Thee, and of Thine own have we given to Thee. ¹⁵For we are sojourners before Thee, and settlers, like all our fathers; as a shadow are our days on the earth, and there is none abiding. ¹⁶O LORD our God, all this store which we have prepared for building to Thee a house, for Thy holy name, is of Thy hand, and the whole is Thine. ¹⁷And I have known, my God, that Thou triest the heart, and uprightness desirest: I, in the uprightness of my heart, have willingly offered all these: and now, Thy people who are present here I have seen with joy offering willingly to Thee.

¹⁸O LORD, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel our fathers, keep this for ever for the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of Thy people, and prepare their heart to Thee. ¹⁹And to Solomon my son give a perfect heart to keep Thy commands, Thy testimonies, and Thy statutes, and to do the whole, even to build the palace for which I have prepared.

²⁰And David saith to all the congregation, 'Bless, I pray you, the LORD your God;' and all the congregation bless the LORD, God of their fathers, and bow and do obeisance before the LORD, with the king. ²¹And they sacrifice to the LORD sacrifices, and offer burnt-offerings to the LORD on the morrow of that day, bullocks a thousand, rams a thousand, lambs a thousand, and their oblations, even sacrifices in abundance for all Israel. ²²And they eat and drink before the LORD on that day with great joy, and make Solomon son of David king a second time, and anoint him before the LORD for leader, and Zadok for priest.

²³And Solomon sitteth on the throne of the LORD for king instead of David his father, and prospereth, and all Israel hearken unto him. ²⁴And all the heads, and the mighty men, and also all the sons of king David, have given the hand to Solomon the king. ²⁵And the LORD maketh Solomon exceedingly great before the eyes of all Israel, and putteth upon him royal honour which hath not been on any king over Israel before him.

²⁶And David son of Jesse hath reigned over all Israel; ²⁷and the days that he hath reigned over Israel is forty years; in Hebron he reigned seven years, and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three; ²⁸and he dieth in a good old age, satisfied with days, riches, and honour; and Solomon his son reigneth in his stead. ²⁹And the matters of David the king, the first and the last, lo, they are written beside the matters of Samuel the seer, and beside the matters of Nathan the prophet, and beside the matters of Gad the seer, ³⁰with all his reign, and his might, and the times that went over him, and over Israel, and over all the kingdoms of the lands.

SECOND BOOK OF CHRONICLES.

CHAP. I. ¹AND Solomon son of David strengtheneth himself over his kingdom, and the LORD his God is with him, and maketh him exceedingly great. ²And Solomon speaketh to all Israel, to the heads of the thousands, and of the hundreds, and to the judges, and to every honourable one of all Israel, heads of the fathers; ³and Solomon, and all the congregation with him, go to the high place which is in Gibeon, for there hath God's tent of meeting been, which Moses, the servant of the LORD, made in the wilderness, ⁴but the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim, when David had prepared for it, for he stretched out a tent for it in Jerusalem. ⁵And the altar of brass which Bezaleel son of Uri, son of Hur, made, he had put before the tabernacle of the LORD: and Solomon and the congregation seek to it. ⁶And Solomon goeth up there, near the altar of brass, before the LORD, which is at the tent of meeting, and he causeth a thousand burnt-offerings to ascend upon it.

⁷In that night hath God appeared to Solomon, and saith to him, 'Ask, what shall I give to thee?' ⁸And Solomon saith to God, 'Thou hast done with David my father great kindness, and hast caused me to reign in his stead. ⁹Now, O LORD God, let Thy word with David my father be steadfast, for Thou hast caused me to reign over a people numerous as the dust of the earth. ¹⁰Now, wisdom and knowledge give to me, and I go out before this people and come in, for who shall judge this Thy great people?'

¹¹And God saith to Solomon, 'Because this hath been with thy heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, or the life of those who hate thee, and also hast not asked many days, but dost ask for thyself wisdom and knowledge, that thou mayest judge My people over whom I have caused thee to reign: ¹²that wisdom and that knowledge is given to thee, and riches and wealth and honour I give to thee, such as hath not been to the kings who are before thee, and after thee it shall not be so.'

II. ¹AND Solomon speaketh of building a house for the name of the LORD, and a house for his kingdom. ²And Solomon numbereth seventy thousand men for burdens, and eighty thousand men hewing in the mountain, and overseers over them—three thousand and six hundred.

³And Solomon sendeth unto Hiram king of Tyre, saying, 'When thou hast dealt with David my father, then thou dost send to him cedars to build a house for him to dwell in: ⁴lo, I am building a house for the name of the LORD my God, to sanctify it to Him, to make perfume before Him, perfume of spices, and the continual arrangement, and burnt-offerings at morning and at evening, on the sabbaths, and at the new moons, and at the appointed seasons of the LORD our God; for ever this is on Israel. ⁵And the house which I am building is great, for our God is greater than all gods. ⁶But who doth retain strength to build a house to Him, for the heavens, even the heavens of heavens do not contain Him? and who am I that I do build to Him a house, save to make perfume before Him? ⁷And now, send to me a wise man to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, and in iron, and in purple, and in crimson, and blue, and who knoweth to grave gravings with the wise men who are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom David my father prepared: ⁸and send to me cedar-trees, fir, and algums from Lebanon, for I have known that thy servants know to cut down the trees of Lebanon, and lo, my servants are with thy servants, even to prepare for me trees in abundance, for the house which I am building is great and wonderful. ⁹And lo, to the hewers, to the cutters of the trees, I have given beaten wheat to thy servants, twenty thousand cors, and barley twenty thousand cors, and wine twenty thousand baths, and oil twenty thousand baths.'

¹¹And Hiram king of Tyre speaketh in writing, and sendeth unto Solomon: 'In the love of the LORD to His people He hath placed thee king over them.' ¹²Hiram also saith, 'Blessed is the LORD, God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth, who hath given to David the king a wise son, knowing wisdom and understanding, who doth build a house for the LORD, and a house for his kingdom. ¹³And, now, I have sent a wise man, having understanding, of Hiram my father, ¹⁴(the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father is a man of Tyre), who knoweth to work in gold, and in silver, in brass, in iron, in stones, and in wood, in purple, in blue, and in fine linen, and in crimson: and to grave any graving, and to devise any device that is given to him, with thy wise men, and the wise men of my lord David thy father.

¹⁵And, now, the wheat, and the barley, the oil, and the wine, as my lord said, let him send to his servants, ¹⁶and we cut trees out of Lebanon, according to all thy need, and bring them to thee in floats by sea to Joppa, and thou dost take them up to Jerusalem.'

III. ¹AND Solomon beginneth to build the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, in mount Moriah, where He appeared to David his father in the place that David had prepared, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. ²And he beginneth to build in the second of the second month, in the fourth year of his reign.

³And thus hath Solomon been instructed to build the house of God: The length in cubits by the former measure is sixty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits. ⁴As to the porch which is at the front, the length is by the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the height is a hundred and twenty, and he overlayeth it within with pure gold. ⁵And the large house he hath covered with fir-trees, and doth cover it with good gold, and causeth to ascend on it palms and chains. ⁶And he overlayeth the house with precious stones for beauty, and the gold is gold of Parvaim. ⁷And he covereth the house, the beams, the thresholds, and its walls, and its doors with gold, and hath graven cherubs on the walls.

⁸And he maketh the most holy house; its length is by the breadth of the house twenty cubits, and its breadth twenty cubits, and he covereth it with good gold, even six hundred talents. ⁹And the weight of the nails is fifty shekels of gold, and the upper chambers he hath covered with gold. ¹⁰And he maketh in the most holy house two cherubs of image work, and overlayeth them with gold. ¹¹And the wings of the cherubs are twenty cubits long, the wing of the one is five cubits, touching the wall of the house, and the other wing is five cubits, touching the wing of the other cherub. ¹²And the wing of the other cherub is five cubits, touching the wall of the house, and the other wing is five cubits, adhering to the wing of the other cherub. ¹³The wings of these cherubs are spreading forth twenty cubits, and they are standing on their feet, and their faces are inward. ¹⁴And he maketh the vail of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and causeth cherubs to go up on it.

¹⁵And he maketh at the front of the house two pillars, thirty and five cubits long, and the ornament which is on their head is five cubits. ¹⁶And he maketh chains as in the oracle, and putteth them on the head of the pillars; and he maketh a hundred pomegranates, and putteth them on the chains. ¹⁷And he raiseth up the pillars at the front of the temple, one on the right, and one on the left, and calleth the name of the one on the right Jachin, and the name of the one on the left Boaz.

IV. ¹AND he maketh an altar of brass: twenty cubits is its length, and twenty cubits its breadth, and ten cubits its height.

²And he maketh the molten sea; ten by the cubit, from edge unto edge, round in compass, and five by the cubit is its height, and a line of thirty by the cubit doth compass it round about. ³And the likeness of oxen is under it, encompassing it all round about, ten in the cubit, compassing the sea round about; two rows of oxen are cast in its being cast. ⁴It standeth on twelve oxen, three facing the north, and three facing the west, and three facing the south, and three facing the east, and the sea is above upon them, and all their hinder parts are within. ⁵And its thickness is a handbreadth, and its lip as the work of the lip of a cup flowered with lilies; taking hold—three thousand baths it containeth.

⁸And he maketh ten tables, and placeth them in the temple, five on the right, and five on the left; and he maketh a hundred bowls of gold.

⁹And he maketh the court of the priests, and the great court, and doors for the court; and their doors he hath overlaid with brass. ¹⁰And the sea he hath placed on the right shoulder eastward, over-against the south.

¹¹And Huram maketh the pots, and the shovels, and the bowls; and Huram finisheth making the work which he made for king Solomon in the house of God: ¹²the two pillars, and the bowls, and the crowns on the head of the two pillars, and the two wreaths to cover the two bowls of the crowns which are on the heads of the pillars: ¹³and the four hundred pomegranates to the two wreaths, two rows of pomegranates to the one wreath, to cover the two bowls of the crowns which are on the front of the pillars. ¹⁴And the bases he hath made; and the lavers he hath made on the bases. ¹⁵The one sea, and the twelve oxen under it, ¹⁶and the pots, and the shovels, and the forks, and all their vessels, hath Huram his father made for king Solomon, for the house of the LORD, of purified brass. ¹⁷In the circuit of the Jordan hath the king cast them, in the thicknesses of the ground, between Succoth and Zeredathah.

¹⁸And Solomon maketh all these vessels in great abundance, that the weight of the brass hath not been searched out. ¹⁹And Solomon maketh all the vessels which are for the house of God, and the altar of gold, and the tables, on which is the bread of the presence; ²⁰and the candlesticks, and their lamps, for their burning, according to the ordinance, before the oracle, of refined gold; ²¹and the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs of gold; it is the perfection of gold; ²²and the snuffers, and the bowls, and the spoons, and the censers of refined gold; and the opening of the house, its innermost doors for the holy of holies, and the doors of the house for the temple, of gold.

V. ¹AND all the work which Solomon made for the house of the LORD is finished; and Solomon bringeth in the sanctified things of David his father; and the silver, and the gold, and all the vessels he hath put among the treasures of the house of God. ²Then doth Solomon congregate the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, princes of the fathers of the Children of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD from the city of David, which is Zion.

³And all the men of Israel are congregated unto the king in the feast, which is in the seventh month. ⁴And all the elders of Israel come in, and the Levites lift up the ark, ⁵and they bring up the ark, and the tent of meeting, and all the vessels of the sanctuary which are in the tent; the priests, the Levites, have brought them up, ⁶and king Solomon and all the company of Israel who are convened by him before the ark are sacrificing sheep and oxen, which are not counted nor numbered from the multitude. ⁷And the priests bring in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto its place, unto the oracle of the house, unto the holy of holies, unto the place of the wings of the cherubs; ⁸and the cherubs are spreading out wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubs cover over the ark, and over its staves, from above, ⁹and they lengthen the staves, and the heads of the staves are seen out of the ark at the front of the oracle, and they are not seen without; and there it is unto this day: ¹⁰there is nothing in the ark but two tables which Moses put there in Horeh, where the LORD covenanted with the Children of Israel in their going out from Egypt.

¹¹And it cometh to pass, at the going out of the priests from the sanctuary (for all the priests who are present have sanctified themselves, there is none to watch by courses, ¹²and the Levites, the singers, even all of them, even Asaph, Heman, Jeduthun, and their sons, and their brethren, clothed in white linen, with cymbals and with psalteries and harps, are standing at the east of the altar, and with them priests, even a hundred and twenty, blowing with trumpets, ¹³yea, it cometh to pass, as one are the trumpeters and the singers, to sound with one voice, to praise and to give thanks to the LORD, even at the lifting up of the sound with the trumpets, and with the cymbals, and with the instruments of song, and at giving praise to the LORD, for He is good, for His kindness is for ever, that the house is full with a cloud—the house of the LORD, ¹⁴and the priests have not been able to stand to minister from the presence of the cloud, for the honour of the LORD hath filled the house of God.

VI. ¹THEN said Solomon, 'The LORD hath spoken of dwelling in the thick darkness, ²yet I have built a house of habitation for Thee, and a fixed place for Thy dwelling for ever.' ³And the king turneth round his face, and blesseth the whole congregation of Israel: and the whole congregation of Israel is standing, ⁴and he saith, 'Blessed is the LORD, God of Israel, who hath spoken with His mouth with David my father, and with His hands fulfilled it, saying, ⁵From the day that I brought out My people from the land of Egypt, I have not fixed on a city out of any of the tribes of Israel to build a house for My name being there, nor have I fixed on a man to be leader over My people Israel: ⁶but I fix on Jerusalem for My name being there, and I fix on David to be over My people Israel. ⁷And it is with the heart of David my father to build a house for the name of the LORD, God of Israel, ⁸but the LORD saith unto David my father, Because it hath been with thy heart to build a house for My name, thou hast done well that it hath been with thy heart, ⁹but thou dost not build the house, for thy son who cometh forth out of thy loins, he doth build the house for My name. ¹⁰And the LORD doth establish His word which He spake, and I am established in the stead of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD spake, and I build the house for the name of the LORD, God of Israel, ¹¹and I place there the ark, where is the covenant of the LORD which He made with the Children of Israel.'

¹²And he standeth before the altar of the LORD, over-against all the congregation of Israel, and spreadeth out his hands, ¹³(for Solomon made a scaffold of brass, and putteth it in the midst of the court, five cubits is its length, and five cubits its breadth, and three cubits its height, and he standeth upon it, and kneeleth on his knees over-against all the congregation of Israel, and spreadeth forth his hands towards the heavens), ¹⁴and saith, 'O LORD, God of Israel, there is no god like Thee, in the heavens or in the earth, keeping the covenant and the kindness for Thy servants who walk before Thee with all their heart: ¹⁵who hast kept for Thy servant David my father that which Thou didst speak to him: yea, Thou dost speak with Thy mouth, and with Thy hand Thou hast fulfilled it, as at this day. ¹⁶And now, O LORD, God of Israel, keep for Thy servant David my father that which Thou didst speak to him, saying, A man of thine is not cut off from before Me, from sitting on the throne of Israel, only, if thy children watch their way, to walk in My law, as thou hast walked before Me. ¹⁷And now, O LORD, God of Israel, let Thy word be steadfast which Thou hast spoken to Thy servant, to David, ¹⁸(but is it true—God dwelleth with man on the earth? Lo, the heavens, and the heavens of heavens do not contain Thee, how much less this house which I have built? ¹⁹then Thou hast turned unto the prayer of Thy servant, and unto his supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and unto the prayer which Thy servant prayeth before Thee, ²⁰for Thine eyes being open towards this house by day and by night, towards the place concerning which Thou hast spoken of putting Thy name there, to hearken unto the prayer which Thy servant prayeth towards this place: ²¹and Thou hast hearkened unto the supplications of Thy servant, and of Thy people Israel, which they pray towards this place, and Thou dost hear from the place of Thy dwelling, from the heavens, and hast hearkened, and forgiven.

²²If a man sin against his neighbour, and he hath lifted up on him an oath to cause him to swear, and the oath hath come before Thine altar in this house; ²³then Thou dost hear from the heavens, and hast done, and hast judged Thy servants, to give back to the wicked, by putting his way on his head, and to justify the righteous, by giving to him according to his righteousness.

²⁴And if Thy people Israel be smitten before an enemy, because they sin against Thee, and have turned back and confessed Thy name, and prayed and made supplications before Thee in this house: ²⁵then thou dost hear from the heavens, and hast forgiven the sin of Thy people Israel, and hast caused them to turn back unto the ground which Thou hast given to them, and to their fathers.

²⁶In the heavens being restrained, and there is no rain, because they sin against Thee, and they have prayed towards this place, and confessed Thy name, from their sin they turn back when Thou dost afflict them: ²⁷then Thou dost hear in the heavens, and hast forgiven the sin of Thy servants, and of Thy people Israel, when Thou directest them unto the good way in which they should walk, and hast given rain on Thy land which Thou hast given to Thy people for an inheritance.

²⁸Famine, when it is in the land, pestilence when it is, blasting or mildew, locust or caterpillar when they are, when its enemies have distressed it in the land of its gates; any plague or any sickness: ²⁹any prayer, any supplication which is for any man, or for all Thy people Israel, when they know each his own plague, and his own pain, and hath spread out his hands unto this house: ²⁰then Thou dost hear from the heavens, the settled place of Thy dwelling, and hast forgiven, and hast given to each according to all his ways (because Thou knowest his heart, for Thou—by Thyself—hast known the heart of the children of men), ²¹that they may fear Thee, to walk in Thy ways all the days that they live on the face of the ground which Thou hast given to our fathers.

²²'And also, to the stranger who is not of Thy people Israel, and who cometh from a land afar off for the sake of Thy great name, and Thy strong hand, and Thy stretched-out arm, when they have come and prayed towards this house: ²³then Thou dost hear from the heavens, from the settled place of Thy dwelling, and hast done according to all that the stranger calleth unto Thee for: that all the peoples of the earth may know Thy name, so as to fear Thee, as Thy people Israel, and to know that Thy name is called on this house which I have built.

²⁴'When Thy people goeth out to battle against its enemies in the way that Thou dost send them, and they have prayed unto Thee the way of this city on which Thou hast fixed, and the house which I have built for Thy name: ²⁵then Thou hast heard from the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and hast maintained their cause.

²⁶'When they sin against Thee (for there is no man who sinneth not, and Thou hast been angry with them, and hast given them up before an enemy, and their captors have taken them captive unto a land far off or near; ²⁷and they have turned it back unto their heart in the land whither they have been taken captive, and have turned back and made supplication unto Thee in the land of their captivity, saying, We have sinned, we have done perversely, and have done wickedly: ²⁸yea, have turned back unto Thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have taken them captives, and have prayed the way of their land which Thou hast given to their fathers, and of the city which Thou hast chosen, and of the house which I have built for Thy name: ²⁹then Thou hast heard from the heavens, from the settled place of Thy dwelling, their prayer and their supplications, and hast maintained their cause, and forgiven Thy people who have sinned against Thee.

³⁰'Now, my God, let, I beseech Thee, Thine eyes be open, and Thine ears attentive to the prayer of this place: ³¹and now, rise, O LORD God, to Thy rest, Thou, and the ark of Thy strength: let Thy priests, O LORD God, be clothed with salvation, and Thy saints rejoice in goodness. ³²O LORD God, turn not back the face of Thine anointed, remember the kindnesses of David Thy servant.'

VII. ¹AND at Solomon's finishing praying, then the fire hath come down from the heavens, and consumeth the burnt-offering and the sacrifices, and the honour of the LORD hath filled the house, ²and the priests have not been able to go in unto the house of the LORD, because the honour of the LORD hath filled the house of the LORD. ³And all the Children of Israel are looking on the descending of the fire, and the honour of the LORD on the house, and they bow--face to the earth--on the pavement, and do obeisance, and give thanks to the LORD, for He is good, for His loving-kindness is for ever. ⁴And the king and all the people are sacrificing a sacrifice before the LORD, ⁵and king Solomon sacrificeth a sacrifice of the herd, twenty and two thousand; and of the flock, a hundred and twenty thousand, and the king and all the people dedicate the house of God. ⁶And the priests are standing over their charge, and the Levites with instruments of the song of the LORD, which David the king made, to give thanks to the LORD, for His loving-kindness is for ever, in David's praising by their hand, and the priests are blowing trumpets over-against them, and all Israel are standing, ⁷and Solomon sanctifieth the middle of the court which is before the house of the LORD; for there he hath made the burnt-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings; for the altar of brass which Solomon made hath not been able to contain the burnt-offerings, and the presents, and the fat.

⁸And Solomon maketh the feast at that time seven days, and all Israel with him—a very great congregation from the entering in of Hamath unto the brook of Egypt. ⁹And they make on the eighth day a restraint, for the dedication of the altar they have made seven days, and the feast seven days. ¹⁰And on the twenty and third day of the seventh month hath he sent the people to their tents, rejoicing and glad in heart, for the goodness which the LORD hath done to David, and to Solomon, and to Israel His people. ¹¹And Solomon finisheth the house of the LORD, and the house of the king: and all that cometh on the heart of Solomon to do in the house of the LORD, and in his own house, he caused to prosper.

¹²And the LORD appeareth unto Solomon by night, and saith to him, 'I have heard thy prayer, and have fixed on this place to Myself for a house of sacrifice. ¹³If I restrain the heavens and there be no rain, and if I lay a charge on the locust to consume the land, and if I send pestilence among My people: ¹⁴and My people on whom My name is called he humbled and pray, and seek My face, and turn back from their evil ways, then I hear from the heavens, and forgive their sin, and heal their land. ¹⁵Now, Mine eyes are open and Mine ears attentive to the prayer of this place: ¹⁶and now, have I chosen and sanctified this house for My name being there for ever: yea, Mine eyes and My heart have been there perpetually.

¹⁷'And thou, if thou walk before Me as David thy father walked, even to do according to all that I have commanded thee, and My statutes and My judgments dost keep: ¹⁸then have I established the throne of thy kingdom, as I covenanted with David thy father, saying, A man of thine—a ruler in Israel—is not cut off; ¹⁹and if ye turn back, and have forsaken My statutes, and My commands which I have placed before you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them; then have I plucked them up from off My ground which I have given to them, ²⁰and this house which I have sanctified for My name, I cast from before My face, and I make it for a proverb, and for a byword among all the nations. ²¹And this house which hath been high, to every one passing by it is an astonishment, that he hath said, Wherefore hath the LORD done thus to this land, and to this house? ²²And they have said, 'Because they have forsaken the LORD, God of their fathers, who brought them out from the land of Egypt, and lay hold on other gods, and bow themselves to them, and serve them, therefore hath He brought on them all this evil.'

VIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, at the end of twenty years, that Solomon hath built the house of the LORD, and his own house. ²As to the cities which Hiram hath given to Solomon, Solomon hath built them, and there he causeth the Children of Israel to dwell. ³And Solomon goeth to Hamath-Zobah, and layeth hold on it; ⁴and he buildeth Tadmor in the wilderness, and all the cities of store which he hath built in Hamath. ⁵And he buildeth Beth-Horon the upper, and Beth-Horon the lower, cities of defence, with walls, two-leaved doors, and bars, ⁶and Baalath, and all the cities of store that Solomon hath, and all the chariot-cities, and the cities of the horsemen, and all the desire of Solomon which he desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

⁷All the people who are left of the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, who are not of Israel, ⁸of their Children who have been left after them in the land (whom the Children of Israel consumed not), Solomon lifteth up a tribute unto this day. ⁹And none of the Children of Israel hath Solomon made servants for his work, but they are men of war, and heads of his captains, and heads of his charioteers, and of his horsemen. ¹⁰And these are the heads of the officers whom king Solomon hath, two hundred and fifty who are rulers over the people.

¹¹And the daughter of Pharaoh hath Solomon brought up from the city of David to the house which he built for her, for he said, 'My wife shall not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, for they are holy unto whom hath come the ark of the LORD.'

¹²Then Solomon caused burnt-offerings to ascend to the LORD on the altar of the LORD which he hath built before the porch, ¹³even by the matter of a day in its day, causing to ascend according to the command of Moses, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the appointed times, three times in the year,—in the feast of unleavened things, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of booths. ¹⁴And

he establisheth, according to the ordinance of David his father, the courses of the priests over their service, and of the Levites over their charges, to praise and to minister over-against the priests, according to the matter of a day in its day, and the gatekeepers in their courses at every gate, for so is the command of David the man of God. ¹⁵And they have not turned aside the command of the king concerning the priests and the Levites, in reference to any matter, or to the treasures. ¹⁶And all the work of Solomon is prepared unto the day of the foundation of the house of the LORD, and until its completion. The house of the LORD is perfect.

¹⁷Then hath Solomon gone to Ezion-Geber, and unto Elath, by the border of the sea, in the land of Edom. ¹⁸And Hiram sendeth to him, by the hand of his servants, ships and servants who know the sea, and they go with the servants of Solomon to Ophir, and take from thence four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and bring to king Solomon.

IX. ¹AND the queen of Sheba hath heard of the fame of Solomon, and cometh to try Solomon with acute sayings, in Jerusalem, with a very great company, and camels bearing spices and gold in abundance, and precious stones; and she cometh unto Solomon, and speaketh with him all that hath been with her heart. ²And Solomon declareth to her all her matters, and there hath been nothing hid from Solomon which he hath not declared to her. ³And the queen of Sheba seeth the wisdom of Solomon, and the house which he hath built, ⁴and the food of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the standing of his ministers, and their clothing, and his stewards, and their clothing, and his burnt-offering which he offered up in the house of the LORD, and there hath been no more spirit in her. ⁵And she said unto the king, 'True is the word which I heard in mine own land concerning thy matters and thy wisdom, ⁶yet I have given no credence to their words, until I have come, and mine eyes see, and lo, the half of the abundance of thy wisdom hath not been declared to me; thou hast added unto the report which I heard. ⁷O the happiness of thy men, and the happiness of these thy servants who are standing continually before thee, and hearing thy wisdom. ⁸Let the LORD thy God be blessed who hath delighted in thee, to put thee on His throne for king for the LORD thy God; in the love of thy God to Israel, to establish it for ever. He hath even put thee over them for king, to do judgment and righteousness.' ⁹And she giveth to the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance, and precious stones; and there hath not been any such spice as the queen of Sheba hath given to king Solomon.

¹⁰And also, the servants of Hiram, and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir, have brought alnum-trees and precious stones. ¹¹And the king maketh the alnum-trees highways to the house of the LORD, and to the house of the king, and harps and psalteries for the singers: and there have been none such seen before in the land of Judah. ¹²And king Solomon hath given to the queen of Sheba all her desire which she asked, besides that which she had brought unto the king; and she turneth and goeth to her own land, she and her servants.

¹³And the weight of the gold which is coming to Solomon in one year is six hundred and sixty and six talents of gold. ¹⁴Apart from what tourists and merchants are bringing; and all the kings of Arabia and the governors of the land are bringing gold and silver to Solomon.

¹⁵And king Solomon maketh two hundred targets of alloyed gold; six hundred shekels of alloyed gold he causeth to go up on one target. ¹⁶And three hundred shields of alloyed gold; three hundred shekels of gold he causeth to go up on one shield, and the king putteth them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

²⁰And all the drinking vessels of king Solomon are of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon are of refined gold; silver is not reckoned in the days of Solomon for anything; ²¹for the ships of the king are going to Tarshish, with the servants of Huram: once in three years come the ships of Tarshish bearing gold and silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.

²⁵And Solomon hath four thousand stalls, horses and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, and he placeth them in the chariot-cities, and with the king in Jerusalem.

²⁹And the rest of the matters of Solomon, the first and the last, are they not written beside the matters of Nathan the prophet, and beside the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and with the visions of Iddo the seer concerning Jeroboam son of Nebat? ³⁰And Solomon reigneth in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years; ³¹and Solomon lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in the city of David his father, and Rehoboam his son reigneth in his stead.

X. ¹AND Rehoboam goeth to Shechem, for to Shechem have all Israel come to cause him to reign. ²And it cometh to pass, at Jeroboam son of Nebat (who is in Egypt, because he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king), hearing, that Jeroboam turneth back out of Egypt; ³and they send and call for him, and Jeroboam cometh, with all Israel, and speak unto Rehoboam, saying, ⁴'Thy father made our yoke sharp, and now make light somewhat of the sharp service of thy father, and of his heavy yoke which he put upon us, and let us serve thee.' ⁵And he saith unto them, 'Yet three days—then return ye unto me;' and the people go.

⁶And king Rehoboam consulteth with the old men who had been standing before Solomon his father in his being alive, saying, 'How do ye counsel to answer this people?' ⁷And they speak unto him, saying, 'If thou become good to this people, and hast pleased them, and spoken unto them good words, then they have been servants to thee perpetually.' ⁸And he forsaketh the counsel of the old men which they counselled him, and consulteth with the lads who have grown up with him, who are standing before him. ⁹And he saith unto them, 'What do ye counsel that we may answer this people which have spoken unto me, saying, Make light somewhat of the yoke which thy father put upon us?'

¹⁰And the lads who have grown up with him, speak with him, saying, 'Thus shalt thou say to the people who have spoken unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but thou make light somewhat of our yoke; thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger is thicker than the loins of my father; ¹¹and now, my father laid on you a heavy yoke—and I add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips—and I with scorpions.'

¹²And Jeroboam cometh, with all the people, unto Rehoboam on the third day, as the king spake, saying, 'Return unto me on the third day.' ¹³And the king answereth them sharply; and king Rehoboam forsaketh the counsel of the old men. ¹⁴and speaketh unto them according to the counsel of the lads, saying, 'My father made your yoke heavy—and I add to it: my father chastised you with whips—and I with scorpions.' ¹⁵And the king hath not hearkened unto the people, for the revolution hath been from God, for the sake of the LORD'S establishing His word which He spake by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam son of Nebat. ¹⁶And all Israel have seen that the king hath not hearkened to them, and the people send back to the king, saying, 'What portion have we in David? yea, there is no inheritance in the son of Jesse; each to thy tents.

O Israel; now, David, see thy house: and all Israel go to their tents. ¹⁷As for the Children of Israel who are dwelling in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigneth over them. ¹⁸And king Rehoboam sendeth Hadoram, who is over the tribute, and the Children of Israel cast stones at him, and he dieth: and king Rehoboam hath strengthened himself to go up into the chariot to flee to Jerusalem: ¹⁹and Israel transgress against the house of David unto this day.

XI. ¹AND Rehoboam cometh to Jerusalem, and congregateth the house of Judah and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand chosen warriors, to fight with Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam. ²And the word of the LORD is unto Shemaiah, the man of God, saying, ³'Speak unto Rehoboam son of Solomon king of Judah, and unto all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, saying, 'Thus hath the LORD said. Ye do not go up nor fight with your brethren, turn back each to his house, for from Me hath this thing been.' And they hear the words of the LORD, and turn back from going against Jeroboam.

⁴And Rehoboam dwelleth in Jerusalem, and buildeth cities for a bulwark in Judah, yea, he buildeth Beth-Lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa, ⁷and Beth-Zur, and Shoco, and Adullam, ⁸and Gath, and Maresah, and Ziph, ⁹and Adoraim, and Lachish, and Azekah, ¹⁰and Zorah, and Ajalon, and Hebron, which are in Judah and in Benjamin, cities of bulwarks. ¹¹And he strengtheneth the bulwarks, and putteth leaders in them, and treasures of food, and oil, and wine, ¹²and in every several city targets and spears, and strengtheneth them exceedingly: and he hath Judah and Benjamin. ¹³And the priests, and the Levites which are in all Israel, have stationed themselves near him, out of all their border, ¹⁴(for the Levites have left their suburbs and their possession, and come to Judah and to Jerusalem, for Jeroboam and his sons had cast them off from ministering to the LORD, ¹⁵and establisheth to himself priests for the high places, and for the goats, and for the calves which he made): ¹⁶and after them, out of all the tribes of Israel, those who give their heart to seek the LORD, God of Israel, have come to Jerusalem to sacrifice to the LORD, God of their fathers. ¹⁷And they strengthen the kingdom of Judah, and strengthen Rehoboam son of Solomon, for three years: because they walked in the way of David and Solomon for three years.

¹⁸And Rehoboam taketh to himself a wife, Mahalath, child of Jerimoth son of David, and Abihah daughter of Eliab, son of Jesse. ¹⁹And she beareth sons to him, Jeush, and Shumariah, and Zebad. ²⁰And after her he hath taken Maachah daughter of Absalom, and she beareth to him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith. ²¹And Rehoboam loveth Maachah daughter of Absalom above all his wives and his concubines (for eighteen wives hath he taken, and sixty concubines), and he begetteth twenty and eight sons, and sixty daughters. ²²And Rehoboam appointeth Abijah son of Maachah for head, for leader among his brethren, for to cause him to reign. ²³And he hath understanding, and spreadeth out of all his children to all the lands of Judah and Benjamin, to all the cities of bulwarks, and he giveth to them provision in abundance: and he asketh a multitude of wives.

XII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, at the establishing of the kingdom of Rehoboam, and at his strengthening himself, he hath forsaken the law of the LORD, and all Israel with him. ²And it cometh to pass, in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, Shishak king of Egypt hath come up against Jerusalem (because they have trespassed against the LORD), ³with a thousand and two hundred chariots, and with sixty thousand horsemen, and there is no number to the people who have come with him out of Egypt: the Lubin, the Sukkinn, and the Cushim: and he captureth the cities of bulwarks which are Judah's, and cometh in unto Jerusalem.

⁴And Shemaiah the prophet hath come to Rehoboam and the heads of Judah who have been gathered unto Jerusalem from the presence of Shishak, and saith to them, 'Thus hath the LORD said, Ye have forsaken Me, and I also have left you in the hand of Shishak.' ⁵And the heads of Israel are humbled with the king, and they say, 'The LORD is righteous.' ⁷And when the LORD seeth that they have been humbled, the word of the LORD hath been unto Shemaiah, saying, 'They have been humbled: I do not destroy them, but have given to them as a little thing for an escape, and I pour not out My fury on Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak: ⁸but they shall become servants to him, and shall know My service, and the service of the kingdoms of the lands.'

XIII. ¹ IN the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam, Abijah also reigneth over Judah: ² three years hath he reigned in Jerusalem and the name of his mother is Michaiah daughter of Uriel, from Gibeah, and war hath been between Abijah and Jeroboam.

pass, at the shouting of the men of Judah, that God hath smitten Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah. ¹⁶ And the Children of Israel flee from the face of Judah, and God giveth them into their hand.

XIV. ¹ AND Abijah lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in the city of David, and Asa his son reigneth in his stead: in his days the land was quiet ten years. ² And Asa doth that which is good and right in the eyes of the LORD his God, ³ and turneth aside the strange altars, and the high places, and breaketh the standing-pillars, and cutteth down the shrines, ⁴ and saith to Judah to seek the LORD, God of their fathers, and to do the law and the command, ⁵ and turneth aside out of all the cities of Judah the high places and the images; and the kingdom is quiet before him.

⁶ And he buildeth cities of bulwarks in Judah, for the land hath rest, and there is no war with him in those years, because the LORD hath given rest to him. ⁷ And he saith to Judah, 'Let us build these cities, and compass them with wall and towers, two-leaved doors and bars, while the land is yet before us; because we have sought the LORD our God, we sought, and He giveth rest to us round about;' and they build and prosper. ⁸ And Asa hath a force bearing target and spear, out of Judah three hundred thousand, and out of Benjamin, bearing shield and treading the bow, two hundred and eighty thousand; all these are mighty ones of valour.

¹¹ And Asa calleth unto the LORD his God, and saith, 'LORD, it is nothing with Thee to help between the mighty and those who have no power; help us, O LORD, our God; for on Thee we have leant, and in Thy name we have come against this multitude: O LORD, thou art our God; let not mortal man prevail with Thee.'

shim flee. ¹³ And Asa and the people who are with him pursue them unto Gerar, and the Cushim fall, for they have no preserving, for they have been broken before the LORD, and before His camp; and they bear away very much spoil, ¹⁴ and smite all the cities round about Gerar, for the fear of the LORD hath been upon them, and spoil all the cities, for there hath been abundant spoil in them. ¹⁵ And also the tents of cattle they have smitten, and they capture sheep in abundance, and camels, and turn back to Jerusalem.

XV. ¹ AND the Spirit of God hath been upon Azariah son of Oded: ² and he goeth out before Asa, and saith to him, 'Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin; the LORD is with you in your being with Him, and if ye seek Him, He is found of you, and if ye forsake Him, He forsaketh you: ³ yet many days are to Israel without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law, ⁴ and it turneth back in its distress to the LORD, God of Israel, and they seek Him, and He is found of them: ⁵ and in these times there is no peace to him who goeth out, or to him who cometh in, for many troubles are on all the inhabitants of the lands; ⁶ and they have been beaten down nation by nation, and city by city, for God hath troubled them with every adversity: ⁷ but ye, he strong, and let not your hands be feeble, for there is a reward for your work.'

⁸ And at Asa's hearing these words, also the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he hath strengthened himself, and causeth the abominations to pass away out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he hath captured from the hill-country of Ephraim, and reneweth the altar of the LORD that is before the porch of the LORD, ⁹ and gathereth all Judah and Benjamin, and the sojourners with them out of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: for they have fallen to him out of Israel in abundance, in their seeing that the LORD his God is with him. ¹⁰ And they are gathered to Jerusalem in the third month of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa, ¹¹ and sacrifice to the LORD on that day, from the spoil they have brought, oxen seven hundred, and sheep seven thousand, ¹² and enter into a covenant to seek the LORD, God of their fathers, with all their heart, and with all their soul, ¹³ that every one who seeketh not after the LORD, God of Israel, be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman. ¹⁴ And they swear to the LORD with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets; ¹⁵ and all Judah rejoice concerning the oath, for with all their heart they have sworn, and with all their goodwill have sought Him, and He is found of them, and the LORD giveth rest to them round about.

burneth it by the brook of Kidron: ¹⁷ yet the high places have not turned aside out of Israel: nevertheless, the heart of Asa hath been perfect all his days. ¹⁸ And he bringeth the sanctified things of his father, and his own sanctified things, into the house of God, silver and gold, and vessels. ¹⁹ And there hath been no war till the thirtieth and fifth year of the reign of Asa.

XVI. ¹ IN the thirty and sixth year of the reign of Asa, Baasha king of Israel hath come up against Judah, and buildeth Ramah, so as not to permit any going out or coming in to Asa king of Judah. ² And Asa bringeth out silver and gold from the treasures of the house of the LORD, and of the house of the king, and sendeth to Ben-Hadad king of Aram, who dwelleth in Damascus, saying, ³ 'A league is between me and thee, and between my father and thy father, lo, I have sent to thee silver and gold: go, break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, and let him go up from off me.'

¹¹ And lo, the matters of Asa, the first and the last, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. ¹² And Asa is diseased in the thirty and ninth year of his reign: in his feet, till his disease is excessive, and even in his disease he hath not sought the LORD, but to the physicians.

XVII. ¹AND Jehoshaphat his son reigneth in his stead, and strengtheneth himself against Israel; ²and putteth a force in all the fenced cities of Judah, and putteth garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim which Asa his father had captured. ³And the LORD is with Jehoshaphat, for he hath walked in the first ways of David his father, and hath not sought for Baalim; ⁴but for the God of his father he hath sought; and in His commands he hath walked, and not according to the work of Israel. ⁵And the LORD establisheth the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah give an offering to Jehoshaphat, and he hath riches and honour in abundance, ⁶and his heart is high in the ways of the LORD; and again, he hath turned aside the high places and the shrines out of Judah.

⁷And in the third year of his reign he hath sent for his heads, for Ben-Hail, and for Obadiah, and for Zechariah, and for Nethaneel, and for Michaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah. ⁸And with them are the Levites, Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zehadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-Adonijah, the Levites; and with them are Elishama and Jehoram the priests. ⁹And they teach in Judah, and with them is the book of the law of the LORD; and they go round about throughout all the cities of Judah, and teach among the people.

¹⁴And these are their numbers, for the house of their fathers: Of Judah, the heads of thousands, Adnah the head, and with him mighty ones of valour, three hundred chiefs. ¹⁵And at his hand is Jehohanan the head, and with him two hundred and eighty chiefs. ¹⁶And at his hand is Amasiah son of Zichri, who willingly offereth himself to the LORD, and with him two hundred chiefs, mighty of valour. ¹⁷And of Benjamin: Eliash, mighty of valour, and with him, armed with bow and shield, two hundred chiefs. ¹⁸And at his hand is Jehozabad, and with him a hundred and eighty chiefs, armed ones of the host. ¹⁹These are they who serve the king, besides those whom the king hath put in the cities of fortress, throughout all Judah.

XVIII. ¹AND Jehoshaphat hath riches and honour in abundance, and becometh son-in-law to Ahab. ²And goeth down at the end of certain years unto Ahab to Samaria, and Ahab sacrificeth for him sheep and oxen in abundance, and for the people who are with him, and persuadeth him to go up unto Ramoth-Gilead. ³And Ahab king of Israel saith unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, 'Dost thou go with me to Ramoth-Gilead?' And he saith to him, 'As I am so thou, and as thy people are my people, even with thee in the battle.'

⁴And Jehoshaphat saith unto the king of Israel, 'Seek, I pray thee, this day, the word of the LORD.' ⁵And the king of Israel gathereth the prophets, four hundred men, and saith unto them, 'Shall we go unto Ramoth-Gilead to the battle, or shall I forbear?' And they say, 'Go up, and God doth give it into the hand of the king.' ⁶And Jehoshaphat saith, 'Is there not here yet a prophet of the LORD, that we may seek from him?' ⁷And the king of Israel saith unto Jehoshaphat, 'Yet one man to seek the LORD from him, but I have hated him, for he is not prophesying of good concerning me, but of evil all his days: he is Micaiah son of Imlah; and Jehoshaphat saith, 'Let not the king say so.'

⁸And the king of Israel calleth unto a certain officer, and saith, 'Hasten Micaiah son of Imlah.' ⁹And the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah are sitting each on his throne, clothed with garments, and they are sitting in the threshing-floor at the opening of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets are prophesying before them. ¹⁰And Zedekiah son of Chennanah maketh for himself horns of iron, and saith, 'Thus hath the LORD said, ¹¹With these thou dost push Aram till they are consumed.' And all the prophets are prophesying so, saying, 'Go up to Ramoth-Gilead and prosper, yea, the LORD hath given it into the hand of the king.'

¹²And the messenger who hath gone to call for Micaiah hath spoken unto him, saying, 'Lo, the words of the prophets with one mouth are good towards the king, and let, I pray thee, thy word be like one of theirs: then thou hast spoken good.' ¹³And Micaiah saith, 'The LORD liveth, surely that which my God saith, that I speak.' ¹⁴And he cometh unto the king, and the king saith unto him, 'Micaiah, shall we go unto Ramoth-Gilead to the battle, or shall I forbear?' And he saith, 'Go ye up, and prosper, seeing it is given into your hand.' ¹⁵And the king saith unto him, 'How many times am I adjuring thee, that thou speak unto me nothing but truth in the name of the LORD?'

¹⁶And he saith, 'I have seen all Israel scattered on the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd: and the LORD saith, 'These have no masters, let them turn back each to his house in peace.' ¹⁷And the king of Israel saith unto Jehoshaphat, 'Did I not say unto thee, He doth not prophesy of good concerning me, but rather of evil?' ¹⁸And he saith, 'Therefore, hear ye the word of the LORD: I have seen the LORD sitting on His throne, and all the host of the heavens standing on His right and His left; ¹⁹and the LORD saith, Who doth entice Ahab king of Israel, that he doth go up and fall at Ramoth-Gilead? And this speaker saith thus, and that speaker thus. ²⁰ And the spirit goeth out, and standeth before the LORD, and saith, I do entice him; and the LORD saith unto him, With what? ²¹ And he saith, I go out, and have become a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he saith, Thou dost entice, and also, thou art able; go out and do so. ²² And, now, lo, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of these thy prophets, and the LORD hath spoken evil concerning thee.

²³ And Zedekiah son of Chenaanah cometh nigh, and smiteth Micaiah on the cheek, and saith, 'Where is this—the way the Spirit of the LORD hath passed over from me to speak with thee?' ²⁴ And Micaiah saith, 'Lo, thou dost see on that day, when thou enterest into the innermost chamber to be hidden.' ²⁵ And the king of Israel saith, 'Take ye Micaiah, and turn him back unto Amon head of the city, and unto Joash son of the king.' ²⁶ Then have ye said, Thus hath the king said, Put ye this one in the house of restraint, and cause him to eat bread of oppression, and water of oppression, until my return in peace.' ²⁷ And Micaiah saith, 'If thou certainly return in peace, the LORD hath not spoken by me.' And he saith, 'Hear ye, O peoples, all of you.'

²⁸ And the king of Israel goeth up, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, unto Ramoth-Gilead. ²⁹ And the king of Israel speaketh to Jehoshaphat of disguising himself, and of going into the battle. 'But thou, put on thy garments.' And the king of Israel disguiseth himself, and they go into the battle.

³⁰ And the king of Aram hath commanded the heads of the charioteers whom he hath, saying, 'Fight not with small or with great, but with the king of Israel by himself.' ³¹ And it cometh to pass at the heads of the charioteers seeing Jehoshaphat, that they have said, 'It is the king of Israel;' and they turn round against him to fight; and Jehoshaphat crieth out, and the LORD hath helped him, and God enticeth them from him. ³² Yea, it cometh to pass, at the heads of the charioteers seeing that it hath not been the king of Israel, that they turn back from after him.

³³ And a man hath drawn with the bow in his simplicity, and smiteth the king of Israel between the joinings and the coat of mail, and he saith to the charioteer, 'Turn thy hand, then hast thou brought me out of the camp, for I have become sick.' ³⁴ And the battle increaseth on that day, and the king of Israel hath been stayed up in the chariot over-against Aram until the evening, and he dieth at the time of the going in of the sun.

XIX. ¹ AND Jehoshaphat king of Judah turneth back unto his house in peace to Jerusalem, ² and Jehu son of Hanani, the seer, goeth out unto his presence, and saith unto king Jehoshaphat, 'Dost thou love to give help to the wicked, and to those who hate the LORD? yea, for this on thee is wrath from before the LORD: ³ but good things have been found with thee, for thou hast put away the shrines out of the land, and hast prepared thy heart to seek God.'

XX. ¹ AND it cometh to pass after this, the Children of Moab have come, and the Children of Ammon, and with them some of the peoples, against Jehoshaphat to the battle. ² And some come in and declare to Jehoshaphat, saying, 'A great multitude hath come against thee from beyond the sea, from Aram, and lo, they are in Hazazon-Tamar, which is En-Gedi.' ³ And Jehoshaphat feareth, and setteth his face to seek for the LORD, and proclaimeth a fast over all Judah. ⁴ And Judah is gathered to inquire of the LORD: even from all the cities of Judah they have come to seek the LORD.

⁵ And Jehoshaphat standeth in the congregation of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the LORD, at the front of the new court, ⁶ and saith, 'O LORD, God of our fathers, art not Thou He—God in the heavens? yea, Thou art ruling over all the kingdoms of the nations, and in Thy hand is power and might, and there is none with Thee to station himself. ⁷ Art not Thou our God? Thou hast dispossessed the inhabitants of this land from before Thy people Israel, and givest it to the seed of Abraham Thy friend for ever, ⁸ and they dwell in it, and build to Thee a sanctuary in it, for Thy name, saying, ⁹ If evil come upon us, sword, judgment, or pestilence, or famine, we stand before this house, and before Thee [for Thy name is in this house], and cry unto Thee out of our distress, then Thou dost hear and dost save. ¹⁰And, now, lo, the Children of Ammon, and Moab, and mount Seir, whom Thou didst not grant to Israel to go against in their coming out of the land of Egypt, that they turned aside from them and destroyed them not. ¹¹Yet lo, they are recompensing us by coming in to drive us out of Thy possession, which Thou hast caused us to possess. ¹²O our God, wilt Thou not execute judgment upon them? for there is no power in us before this great multitude that cometh against us, and we know not what we do, but our eyes are on Thee. ¹³And all Judah are standing before the LORD, also their infants, their wives, and their children.

¹⁴And upon Jahaziel son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Jeiel, son of Mattaniah, the Levite, or the sons of Asaph, hath the Spirit of the LORD been in the midst of the congregation: ¹⁵and he saith, 'Attend, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and O king Jehoshaphat, Thus hath the LORD said unto you, Fear not, nor be afraid of the presence of this great multitude, for the battle is not yours, but God's. ¹⁶To-morrow, go ye down against them, lo, they are coming up by the ascent of Ziz, then have ye found them at the end of the valley, the front of the wilderness of Jeruel. ¹⁷Not for you to fight in this: station yourselves, stand, and see the salvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jerusalem: be not afraid nor fear ye: to-morrow go out before them, seeing the LORD is with you.'

¹⁸And Jehoshaphat boweth—face to the earth—and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem have fallen before the LORD, to bow themselves to the LORD. ¹⁹And the Levites of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korrites, rise to give praise to the LORD, God of Israel, with a loud voice on high.

²⁰And they rise early in the morning, and go out to the wilderness of Tekoa: and in their going out Jehoshaphat hath stood and saith, 'Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, believe in the LORD your God, and be established: believe in His prophets, and prosper.' ²¹And he taketh counsel with the people, and appointeth singers to the LORD, and those who give praise for the honour of holiness, in the going out before the armed men, and say, 'Give thanks to the LORD, for His kindness is for ever.'

²²And at the time they have begun with singing and praise, the LORD hath put ambushments against the Children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, who are coming into Judah, and they are smitten, ²³seeing the Children of Ammon stand up with Moab against the inhabitants of mount Seir, to devote, and to destroy: and at their consuming the inhabitants of Seir, they helped, a man against his neighbour, to destroy.

²⁴And Judah hath come unto the watch-tower, to the wilderness, and they look unto the multitude, and lo, they are carcasses fallen to the earth, and there is none escaped; ²⁵and Jehoshaphat cometh with his people to seize their spoil, and they find among them in abundance both goods and carcases, and desirable vessels, and they take the spoil to themselves without prohibition, and they are three days seizing the spoil, for it is abundant. ²⁶And on the fourth day they have been congregated at the Valley of Blessing, for there they blessed the LORD: therefore they have called the name of that place The valley of Blessing unto this day.

²⁷And they turn back, every man of Judah and Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat at their head, to go back unto Jerusalem with joy, for the LORD hath made them to rejoice over their enemies. ²⁸And they come to Jerusalem with psalteries, and with harps, and with trumpets, unto the house of the LORD. ²⁹And the fear of God is on all the kingdoms of the lands to their hearing that the LORD hath fought with the enemies of Israel. ³⁰And the kingdom of Jehoshaphat is quiet: and his God giveth to him rest round about.

³¹And Jehoshaphat reigneth over Judah; thirty and five years old in his reigning, and twenty and five years hath he reigned in Jerusalem: and the name of his mother is Azubah daughter of Shilli. ³²And he walketh in the way of his father Asa, and turned not aside from it, doing that which is right in the eyes of the LORD. ³³Only, the high places have not turned aside, and as yet the people have not prepared their heart for the God of their fathers.

³⁴And the rest of the matters of Jehoshaphat, the first and the last, lo, they are written among the matters of Jehu son of Hanani, who was mentioned in the book of the kings of Israel.

³⁵And after this Jehoshaphat king of Judah joined himself with Ahaziah king of Israel (he did wickedly in so doing), ³⁶seeing he joineth him with himself to make ships to go to Tarshish: and they make ships in Ezion-Gaber: ³⁷and Eliezer son of Dodavah, of Mareslah, prophesieth against Jehoshaphat, saying, 'For thy joining thyself with Ahaziah, the LORD hath broken thy works:' and the ships are broken, and have not been able to go unto Tarshish.

XXI. ¹AND Jehoshaphat lieth with his fathers, and is buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Jehoram his son reigneth in his stead. ²And he hath brethren, sons of Jehoshaphat, Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah: all these are sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel, ³and their father giveth to them many gifts of silver and of gold, and of precious things, with fenced cities in Judah, and the kingdom he gave to Jehoram, for he is the first-born.

⁴And Jehoram riseth up over the kingdom of his father, and strengtheneth himself, and slayeth all his brethren with the sword, and some also of the heads of Israel.

⁵Thirty and two years old is Jehoram in his reigning, and eight years hath he reigned in Jerusalem. ⁶And he walketh in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab, for a daughter of Ahab hath been to him for a wife, and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD: yet the LORD hath not been willing to destroy the house of David, for the sake of the covenant He made with David, and as He had spoken of giving to him a light, and to his sons perpetually.

⁸In his days hath Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah, and cause a king to reign over them. ⁹And Jehoram passeth over with his heads and all the chariots with him, and he riseth by night and smiteth the Edomites who come round against him and the princes of the chariots. ¹⁰yet Edom revolteth from under the hand of Judah unto this day: then Libnah revolteth at that time from under his hand, because he hath forsaken the LORD, God of his fathers: ¹¹he hath also made high places in the mountains of Judah: and causeth the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication, and forceth Judah.

¹²And a writing cometh to him from Elijah the prophet, saying, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of David thy father, said, Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father, or in the ways of Asa king of Judah, ¹³but dost walk in the way of the kings of Israel, and causest Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication, like the fornications of the house of Ahab, and also thy brethren, the house of thy father, who are better than thyself, hast slain: ¹⁴lo, the LORD smiteth—a great plague—among thy people, and among thy children, and among thy wives, and among all thy goods:—¹⁵thou also with many sicknesses, disease of thy bowels, till thy bowels come out, by the sickness, day by day.'

¹⁶And the LORD waketh up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and of the Arabians, who are beside the Cushim, ¹⁷and they come up into Judah, and rend it, and take away all the substance which is found at the house of the king, and also his sons, and his wives, and there hath not been left a son to him, save Jehohaz, the youngest of his sons.

¹⁸And after all this, the LORD hath plagued him in his bowels by a disease for which there is no healing. ¹⁹And it cometh to pass, from time to time, and at the time of the going out of the end of two years, his bowels have gone out with his sickness, and he dieth of sore diseases, and his people have not made for him a burning like the burning of his fathers. ²⁰Thirty and two years old was he in his reigning, and eight years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and he goeth without desire: and they bury him in the city of David, and not in the sepulchres of the kings.

XXII. ¹AND the inhabitants of Jerusalem cause Ahaziah his youngest son to reign in his stead (for all the elder had the troop slain which came with the Arabians to the camp), and Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah reigneth. ²Twenty and two years old is Ahaziah in his reigning, and one year hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Athaliah daughter of Omri: ³he also hath walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for his mother hath been his counsellor to do wickedly. ⁴And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, like the house of Ahab, for they have been his counsellors, after the death of his father, for destruction to him. ⁵Also, he hath walked in their counsel, and goeth with Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel to the battle against Hazael king of Aram, in Ramoth-Gilead, and they of Ramah smite Joram. ⁶And he turneth back to be healed in Jezreel, because of the wounds where-with they had smitten him in Ramah, in his fighting with Hazael king of Aram.

And Azariah son of Jehoram king of Judah hath gone down to see Jehoram son of Ahab, in Jezreel, for he is sick. ⁷And from God hath been the destruction of Ahaziah, by coming unto Joram: seeing in his coming he hath gone out with Jehoram unto Jehu son of Nimshi, whom the LORD had anointed to cut off the house of Ahab. ⁸And it cometh to pass, in Jehu's executing judgment with the house of Ahab, that he findeth the heads of Judah and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah, ministers of Ahaziah, and slayeth them. ⁹And he seeketh Ahaziah, and they capture him seeing he is hiding himself in Samaria, and they bring him unto Jehu, and put him to death, and bury him, for they said, 'He is son of Jehoshaphat, who sought the LORD with all his heart:' and there is none to the house of Ahaziah to retain the power of the kingdom.

¹⁰And Athaliah mother of Ahaziah hath seen that her son is dead, and she riseth and destroyeth all the royal seed of the house of Judah. ¹¹And Jehoshabeath daughter of the king taketh Joash son of Ahaziah, and stealth him from the midst of the sons of the king who are put to death, and putteth him and his nurse into the inner bed-chamber, and Jehoshabeath daughter of king Jehoram, wife of Jehoiada the priest, because she hath been sister of Ahaziah, hideth him from the face of Athaliah, that she put him not to death. ¹²And he is with them in the house of God hiding himself six years, and Athaliah is reigning over the land.

XXIII. ¹AND in the seventh year hath Jehoiada strengthened himself, and taketh the heads of the hundreds, even Azariah son of Jeroham, and Ishmael son of Jehonathan, and Azariah son of 'bed, and Maaseiah son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat son of Zichri, with him into a covenant.

²And they go round about through Judah, and gather the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the heads of the fathers of Israel, and they come unto Jerusalem. ³and all the congregation make a covenant in the house of God with the king, and he saith to them, 'Lo, the son of the king shall reign as the LORD spake concerning the sons of David. ⁴This is the thing that ye do: The third of you, going in on the sabbath, of the priests, and of the Levites, are for gatekeepers of the thresholds: ⁵and the third are at the house of the king; and the third at the gate of the foundation: and all the people are in the courts of the house of the LORD. ⁶ And let none enter the house of the LORD save the priests, and they who minister of the Levites (they go in for they are holy), and let all the people keep the watch of the LORD: ⁷ and the Levites have compassed the king round about, each with his weapons in his hand, and he who goeth into the house is put to death; and be ye with the king in his coming in and in his going out. ⁸ And the Levites and all Judah do according to all that Jehoiada the priest hath commanded, and take each his men, going in on the sabbath, with those going out on the sabbath, for Jehoiada the priest hath not let away the courses. ⁹ And Jehoiada the priest giveth to the heads of the hundreds the spears, and the shields, and the bucklers which are king David's, which are in the house of God. ¹⁰ And he stationeth the whole of the people, each with his dart in his hand, from the right shoulder of the house unto the left shoulder of the house, at the altar, and at the house, by the king, round about. ¹¹ And they bring out the son of the king, and put upon him the crown, and the testimony, and cause him to reign; Jehoiada and his sons anoint him, and say, 'Let the king live!'

¹⁵ And they make sides for her, and she cometh unto the entrance of the horse-gate at the house of the king, and they put her to death there.

¹⁶ And Jehoiada maketh a covenant between him, and between all the people, and between the king, to become the LORD's people. ¹⁷ And all the people enter the house of Baal, and break it down, yea, his altars and his images have they broken, and Mattan priest of Baal have they slain before the altars. ¹⁸ And Jehoiada putteth the offices of the house of the LORD into the hand of the priests the Levites whom David had apportioned over the house of the LORD, to cause the burnt-offerings of the LORD to ascend, as written in the law of Moses, with joy, and with singing, by the hands of David. ¹⁹ And he stationeth the gatekeepers over the gates of the house of the LORD, and the unclean in anything do not go in. ²⁰ And he taketh the heads of the hundreds, and the honourable ones, and the rulers among the people, and all the people of the land, and bringeth down the king from the house of the LORD, and they come through the high gate into the house of the king, and cause the king to sit on the throne of the kingdom. ²¹ And all the people of the land rejoice, and the city hath been quiet, and Athaliah they have put to death by the sword.

XXIV. ¹ SEVEN years old is Joash in his reigning, and forty years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Zibiah of Beer-Sheba. ² And Joash doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD all the days of Jehoiada the priest. ³ And Jehoiada taketh for him two wives, and he begetteth sons and daughters.

⁸ And the king speaketh, and they make a chest, and put it at the gate of the house of the LORD without, ⁹ and give an intimation in Judah and in Jerusalem to bring in to the LORD the tribute of Moses, the servant of God, laid on Israel in the wilderness. ¹⁰ And all the heads, and all the people rejoice, and they bring in, and cast into the chest, unto completion.

hoiada. ¹⁵ And Jehoiada is old and satisfied with days, and dieth.—a hundred and thirty years old in his death: ¹⁶ and they bury him in the city of David, with the kings, for he hath done good in Israel, and with God, and his house.

¹⁷ And after the death of Jehoiada have the heads of Judah come, and bow themselves to the king: then hath the king hardened unto them. ¹⁸ And they forsake the house of the LORD, God of their fathers, and serve the shrines and the idols: and wrath is upon Judah and Jerusalem for this their guilt. ¹⁹ And he sendeth prophets among them, to bring them back unto the LORD, and they testify against them, but they have not given ear. ²⁰ And the Spirit of God hath clothed Zechariah son of Jehoiada the priest, and he standeth over against the people, and saith to them, 'Thus hath God said, Why are ye transgressing the commands of the LORD, and prosper not? because ye have forsaken the LORD, He also forsaketh you.' ²¹ And they conspire against him, and stone him with stones by the command of the king, in the court of the house of the LORD: ²² and Joash the king hath not remembered the kindness which Jehoiada his father did with him, and slayeth his son, and in his death he said, 'The LORD seeth, and requireth.'

²³ And it cometh to pass, at the turn of the year, the force of Aram hath come up against him, and they come in unto Judah and Jerusalem, and destroy all the heads of the people from the people, and all their spoil they have sent to the king of Damascus: ²⁴ for with few men have the forces of Aram come, and the LORD hath given into their hand a mighty force for multitude, because they have forsaken the LORD, God of their fathers: and with Joash they have executed judgments.

XXV. ¹ TWENTY and five years old—Amaziah hath reigned, and twenty and nine years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Jehoadan of Jerusalem. ² And he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD; only, not with a perfect heart. ³ And it cometh to pass, when the kingdom hath been strong upon him, that he slayeth his servants who smote the king his father, ⁴ yet their children he hath not put to death, but did as written in the law, in the book of Moses, whom the LORD commanded, saying, 'Fathers are not put to death for children, and children are not put to death for fathers, but each for his own sin is put to death.'

⁹ And Amaziah saith to the man of God, 'And what—to do for the hundred talents which I have given to the troop of Israel?' And the man of God saith, 'The LORD hath more to give to thee than this.' ¹⁰ And Amaziah separateth them—for the troop which hath come unto him from Ephraim to go to their own place, and their anger burneth mightily against Judah, and they turn back to their place in the heat of anger.

¹⁴ And it cometh to pass, after the coming in of Amaziah from smiting the Edomites, that he bringeth the gods of the children of Seir, and establisheth them to himself for gods, and before them he boweth himself, and to them he maketh perfume.

¹⁵ And the anger of the LORD burneth against Amaziah, and He sendeth unto him a prophet, and he saith unto him, 'Why hast thou sought the gods of the people which have not delivered their people out of thy hand?' ¹⁶ And it cometh to pass, in his speaking unto him, that he saith to him, 'For a counsellor of the king have they appointed thee? cease for thyself: why should they smite thee?' And the prophet ceaseth, and saith, 'I have known that God hath counselled to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkened to my counsel.'

¹⁷ And Amaziah king of Judah taketh counsel, and sendeth unto Joash son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, ¹⁸ 'Come, let us look one another in the ice.' And Joash king of Israel sendeth unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying, 'The horn which is in Lebanon hath sent unto thee cedar which is in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son for a wife; and a beast of the field which is in Lebanon asseeth by and treadeth down the thorn. Thou hast said, Lo, I have smitten Edom; and thy heart hath lifted thee up to boast: now, remain in thy house, why dost thou stir thyself up for evil, that thou art fallen, thou and Judah with thee?'

20 And Amaziah hath not hearkened, for from God it is in order to give them into and, because they have sought the gods of Edom. 21 And Joash king of Israel goeth up, and they look one another in the face, and Amaziah king of Judah, in Bethshemesh, which is Judah's; 22 and Judah smitten before Israel, and they flee each to his tents. 23 And Amaziah king of Judah, son of Joash, son of Jehoshaphat, hath Joash king of Israel caught in Bethshemesh, and bringeth him to Jerusalem, and breaketh down of the wall of Jerusalem from the side of Ephraim unto the corner-gate, four hundred cubits, 24 and taketh all the gold, and the silver, and the vessels which are found in the house of God with Obed-Edom, and the treasures of the house of the king, and the sons of the pledges, and turneth back to Samaria.

25 And Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, liveth after the death of Joash son of Jehoshaphat, king of Israel, fifteen years. And the rest of the matters of Amaziah, the first and the last, lo, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel? 27 And from the time that Amaziah hath turned aside from after the LORD, they even make a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fleeth to Lachish, and they send after him to Lachish, and put him to death there, 28 and lift him up on the horses, and bury him with his fathers in the city of Judah.

XXVI. 1 AND all the people of Judah like Uzziah and he is sixteen years old, and cause him to reign instead of his father Amaziah. 2 He hath built Eloth, and reareth it to Judah after the king's lying with his fathers. 3 Sixteen years old is Uzziah in his reigning, and fifty and two years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and is name of his mother is Jezebel of Jerusalem. 4 And he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that Amaziah his father did. 5 And he is as seeking God in the days of Zechariah, he hath understanding in the visions of God; and in the days of his seeking the LORD God hath caused him to prosper.

6 And he goeth out, and fighteth with the Philistines, and breaketh down the wall of Ashdod, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod, and buildeth cities about Ashdod, and among the Philistines. 7 And God helpeth him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians who are dwelling in the land of Baal, and against the Meunim. 8 And the Ammonites give a present to Uzziah, and his name goeth unto the entering in of Egypt, for he strengthened himself greatly.

9 And Uzziah buildeth towers in Jerusalem, at the gate of the corner, and at the gate of the valley, and at the angle, and strengtheneth them. 10 And he buildeth towers in the wilderness, and diggeth many wells, for he had much cattle, both in the low country and in the plain, husbandmen and vinedressers in the mountains, and in Carmel; for he was a lover of the ground.

11 And Uzziah hath a force, making war, going out to the host, by troops, in the number of their reckoning by the hand of Jeiel the scribe, and Maaseiah the officer, by the hand of Hananiah, one of the heads of the king. 12 The whole number of the heads of the fathers of the mighty ones of valour is two thousand and six hundred. 13 And by their hand is the force of the host, three hundred thousand, and seven thousand, and five hundred warriors, with mighty power to help the king against the enemy. 14 And Uzziah prepareth for them, for all the host, shields, and spears, and helmets, and coats of mail, and bows, even to the stones of the slings. 15 And he maketh in Jerusalem inventions, the device of an inventor, to be on the towers, and on the corners, to shoot with arrows and with great stones; and his name goeth out unto a distance, for he hath been wonderfully helped till he hath been strong.

16 And at his being strong his heart hath been high unto destruction; and he trespasseth against the LORD his God, and goeth in unto the temple of the LORD to make perfume upon the altar of perfume. 17 And Azariah the priest goeth in after him, and with him eighty priests of the LORD, sons of valour, 18 and they stand up against Uzziah the king, and say to him, 'Not for thee, O Uzziah, to make perfume to the LORD, but for the priests, sons of Aaron, who are sanctified to make perfume: go out from the sanctuary, for thou hast trespassed, and it is not to thee for honour from the LORD God.'

19 And Uzziah is wroth, and in his hand is a censer to make perfume, and in his being wroth with the priests, even the leprosy hath risen in his forehead, before the priests, in the house of the LORD, from beside the altar of perfume. 20 And Azariah the head priest looketh unto him with all the priests, and lo, he is leprous in the forehead, and they hasten him from thence, and also, he himself hath hastened to go out, for the LORD hath plagued him. 21 And Uzziah the king is a leper till the day of his death, and inhabiteth a separate house—a leper, for he hath been cut off from the house of the LORD; and Jotham his son is over the house of the king, judging the people of the land.

22 And the rest of the matters of Uzziah, the first and the last, hath Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet written: 23 and Uzziah lieth with his fathers, and they bury him with his fathers, in the field of the sepulchre which the kings have, for they have said, 'He is a leper:' and Jotham his son reigneth in his stead.

XXVII. ¹TWENTY and five years old is Jotham in his reigning, and sixteen years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Jerushah daughter of Zadok. ²And he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that Uziah his father did: only, he hath not come in unto the temple of the LORD: and again, the people do corruptly. ³He built the uppermost gate of the house of the LORD, and on the wall of Ophel hath he built abundantly. ⁴And cities hath he built in the hill-country of Judah: and in the forests he hath built palaces and towers.

⁵And he hath fought with the king of the Children of Ammon, and prevaileth over them, and the Children of Ammon give to him during that year a hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand cors of wheat, and of barley ten thousand: this have the Children of Ammon returned to him both in the second year, and in the third. ⁶And Jotham strengtheneth himself, for he hath prepared his ways before the LORD his God.

⁷And the rest of the matters of Jotham, and all his battles, and his ways, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah. ⁸Twenty and five years old was he in his reigning, and sixteen years hath he reigned in Jerusalem. ⁹And Jotham lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in the city of David; and Ahaz his son reigneth in his stead.

XXVIII. ¹TWENTY years old is Ahaz in his reigning, and sixteen years hath he reigned in Jerusalem: and he hath not done that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, as David his father, ²but walketh in the ways of the kings of Israel, and also, molten images hath made for the Baalim: ³and he himself hath made perfume in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and burneth his children in the fire according to the abominations of the nations whom the LORD dispossessed from the presence of the Children of Israel, ⁴and sacrificeth and maketh perfume in the high places, and on the heights, and under every green tree.

⁵And the LORD his God giveth him into the hand of the king of Aram, and they smite him, and take captive from him a great captivity, and bring them to Damascus: and also, into the hand of the king of Israel hath he been given, and he smiteth him—a great smiting. ⁶And Pekah son of Remaliah slayeth in Judah a hundred and twenty thousand in one day (the whole sons of valour), because of their forsaking the LORD, God of their fathers. ⁷And Zichri, a mighty one of Ephraim, slayeth Maaseiah son of the king, and Azrikam leader of the house, and Elkanah second to the king.

⁸And the Children of Israel take captive of their brethren two hundred thousand, women, sons and daughters, and also, much spoil have they seized from them, and they bring the spoil into Samaria. ⁹And there hath been a prophet of the LORD (Oded is his name), and he goeth out before the host that hath come to Samaria, and saith to them, 'Lo, in the fury of the LORD, God of your fathers, against Judah, He hath given them into your hand, and ye slay among them in rage—unto the heavens it hath come: ¹⁰and now, the Children of Judah and Jerusalem ye are speaking of subduing for men-servants and for maid-servants to yourselves; but are there not with you causes of guilt before the LORD your God? ¹¹and now, hear me, and send back the captives whom ye have taken captive of your brethren, for the heat of the anger of the LORD is upon you.'

¹²And certain of the heads of the Children of Ephraim Azariah son of Johanan, Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai, rise up against those who come in from the host, ¹³and say to them, 'Bring not in the captives hither, for to guilt against the LORD on us, ye are speaking of adding unto our sin and unto our guilt, for abundant is the guilt we have, and the fierceness of anger on Israel.' ¹⁴And the armed men leave the captives and the prey before the heads and all the congregation. ¹⁵And the men who have been expressed by name rise and take hold on the captives, and have clothed all their naked ones, from the spoil, yea, they clothe them, and shoe them, and cause them to eat and drink, and anoint them, and lead them on asses, even every feeble one, and bring them to Jericho, the city of palms, near their brethren; and turn back to Samaria.

¹⁶At that time hath king Ahaz sent unto the king of Asshur to help him. ¹⁷And again the Edomites have come, and smite in Judah, and take captive a captivity. ¹⁸And the Philistines have rushed against the cities of the low country, and of the south of Judah, and capture Beth-SheMesh, and Ajalon, and Gederoth, and Shochoh and its villages, and Timnah and its villages, and Ginnzo and its villages, and dwell there. ¹⁹for the LORD hath humbled Judah because of Ahaz king of Israel, for he made free with Judah, even committing a trespass against the LORD. ²⁰And Tilgath-Pilneser king of Asshur cometh unto him, and hath distressed him, and hath not strengthened him: ²¹though Ahaz hath taken a portion out of the house of the LORD, and out of the house of the king, and of the princes, and giveth it to the king of Asshur, yet it is no help to him.

²²And in the time of his distress he even continueth to trespass against the LORD, this king Ahaz, ²³and he sacrificeth to the gods of Damascus who smite him, and saith, 'Because the gods of the kings of Aram are helping them, to them will I sacrifice, and they will help me,' but they have been to him to cause him to stumble, and to all Israel. ²⁴And Ahaz gathereth the vessels of the house of God, and cutteth in pieces the vessels of the house of God, and shutteth the doors of the house of the LORD, and maketh to himself altars in every corner in Jerusalem. ²⁵And in every several city of Judah hath he made high places to make perfume to other gods, and provoketh the LORD, God of his fathers. ²⁰And the rest of his matters, and all his ways, the first and the last, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. ²⁷And Ahaz lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in the city, in Jerusalem, but brought him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel: and Hezekiah his son reigneth in his stead.

XXIX. ¹HEZEKIAH hath reigned—twenty and five years old, and twenty and nine years hath he reigned in Jerusalem: and the name of his mother is Abijah daughter of Zechariah. ²And he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that David his father did. ³He, in the first year of his reign, in the first month, hath opened the doors of the house of the LORD, and strengtheneth them, ⁴and bringeth in the priests and the Levites, and gathereth them to the broad place at the east, ⁵and saith to them, 'Hear me, O Levites, now, sanctify yourselves, and sanctify the house of the LORD, God of your fathers, and bring out the impurity from the sanctuary: ⁶for our fathers have trespassed, and done that which is evil in the eyes of the LORD our God, and forsake him, and turn round their faces from the tabernacle of the LORD, and give the neck; ⁷also, they have shut the doors of the porch, and quench the lights, and perfume have not made, and a burnt-offering have not caused to ascend in the sanctuary to the God of Israel: ⁸and the wrath of the LORD is on Judah and Jerusalem, and He maketh them for a trembling, for an astonishment, and for a hissing, as ye see with your eyes. ⁹And lo, our fathers have fallen by the sword, and our sons, and our daughters, and our wives are in captivity for this. ¹⁰Now—with my heart—to make a covenant before the LORD, God of Israel, that the fierceness of His anger may turn from us. ¹¹My sons, be not now at rest, for on you the LORD fixed to stand before Him, to serve Him, and to be to Him ministering and making perfume.'

¹²And the Levites rise, Mahath son of Amasai, and Joel son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites; and of the sons of Merari: Kish son of Abdi, and Azariah son of Jehucliel; and of the Gershonites: Josh son of Zimnah, and Eden son of Joah; ¹³and of the sons of Elizaphan: Shimri, and Jeiel; and of the sons of Asaph: Zechariah and Mattaniah; ¹⁴and of the sons of Heman: Jehiel and Shimei; and of the sons of Jeduthun: Shemeiah and Uzziel. ¹⁵And they gather their brethren, and they sanctify themselves, and come in, according to the command of the king in the matters of the LORD, to cleanse the house of the LORD: ¹⁶and the priests come in to the inner part of the house of the LORD to cleanse it, and bring out all the uncleanness which they have found in the temple of the LORD to the court of the house of the LORD, and the Levites receive it, to take it out to the brook of Kidron without. ¹⁷And they begin on the first of the first month to sanctify, and on the eighth day of the month have they come to the porch of the LORD, and they sanctify the house of the LORD in eight days, and on the sixteenth day of the first month they have finished.

¹⁸And they come within unto Hezekiah the king, and say, 'We have cleansed all the house of the LORD, and the altar of burnt-offering, and all its vessels, and the table of arrangement, and all its vessels, ¹⁹and all the vessels which king Ahaz hath cast away in his reign, in his trespass, we have prepared and sanctified, and lo, they are before the altar of the LORD.'

²⁰And Hezekiah the king riseth early, and gathereth the heads of the city, and goeth up to the house of the LORD: ²¹and they bring in seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven young he-goats, for a sin-offering for the kingdom, and for the sanctuary, and for Judah: and he saith to the Children of Aaron, the priests, to offer them on the altar of the LORD. ²²And they slaughter the bullocks, and the priests receive the blood, and sprinkle it on the altar: and they slaughter the rams, and sprinkle the blood on the altar: and they slaughter the lambs, and sprinkle the blood on the altar: ²³and they bring nigh the he-goats of the sin-offering before the king and the congregation, and lay their hands upon them: ²⁴and the priests slaughter them, and they make a sin-offering with their blood on the altar, to make atonement for all Israel, for 'For all Israel,' said the king, 'is the burnt-offering and the sin-offering.' ²⁵And he appointeth the Levites in the house of the LORD with cymbals, with psalteries, and with harps, at the command of David, and of Gad the king's seer, and of Nathan the prophet, for by the hand of the LORD is the command, by the hand of His prophets. ²⁶And the Levites stand with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets.

²⁷And Hezekiah saith, to cause the burnt-offering to ascend on the altar: and at the time the burnt-offering began, began the song of the LORD, and the trumpets, even by means of the instruments of David king of Israel. ²⁸And all the congregation bow themselves, and the singers sing, and the trumpeters blow: the whole is till the completion of the burnt-offering. ²⁹And at the completion of the offering up, the king and all who are found present with him have bowed and do obeisance. ³⁰And Hezekiah the king saith, with the princes, to the Levites to give praise to the LORD in the words of David, and of Asaph the seer, and they praise—to joy, and bow, and do obeisance.

³¹And Hezekiah answereth and saith, 'Now ye have filled your hand to the LORD, come nigh, and bring sacrifices, and thank-offerings to the house of the LORD: and the congregation bring in sacrifices and thank-offerings, and every willing-hearted one—burnt-offerings. ³²And the number of the burnt-offerings which the congregation have brought in is seventy bullocks, a hundred rams, two hundred lambs; for a burnt-offering to the LORD are all these. ³³And the sanctified things are six hundred oxen, and three thousand sheep. ³⁴Only, the priests have become few, and have not been able to slay the whole of the burnt-offerings; and their brethren the Levites strengthen them till the completion of the work, and till the priests sanctify themselves; for the Levites are more upright of heart to sanctify themselves than the priests. ³⁵And also, burnt-offerings are in abundance, with the fat of the peace-offerings, and with the oblations for the burnt-offering; and the service of the house of the LORD is established, ³⁶and Hezekiah rejoiceth, and all the people, because of God's giving preparation to the people: for the thing hath been suddenly.

XXX. ¹AND Hezekiah sendeth unto all Israel and Judah, and also, hath written letters unto Ephraim and Manasseh, to come into the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, to prepare the passover to the LORD, God of Israel. ²And the king taketh counsel with his heads, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to prepare the passover in the second month, ³for they have not been able to prepare it at that time, for the priests have not sanctified themselves sufficiently, and the people have not been gathered to Jerusalem. ⁴And the thing is right in the eyes of the king, and in the eyes of all the congregation; ⁵and they establish the thing, causing an intimation to pass over into all Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan, to come in to prepare a passover to the LORD, God of Israel, in Jerusalem, for not for a long time had they prepared as it is written.

⁶And the runners go with the letters from the hand of the king and his heads, into all Israel and Judah, even according to the command of the king, saying, 'O Children of Israel, turn back unto the LORD, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and He will turn back unto the escaped party which is left of you from the hand of the kings of Assyria. ⁷And be ye not like your fathers, and like your brethren, who have trespassed against the LORD, God of their fathers, and He maketh them become a desolation, as ye see. ⁸Now, harden not your neck like your fathers, give the hand to the LORD, and come into His sanctuary, which He hath sanctified for ever, and serve the LORD your God, and the fierceness of His anger doth turn from you; ⁹for in your turning back unto the LORD, your brethren and your children have mercy before their captors, even to return to this land, for gracious and merciful is the LORD your God, and He turneth not aside the face from you, if ye turn back unto Him.'

¹⁰And the runners are passing over from city to city, through the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun: and they are laughing at them, and mocking at them; ¹¹only certain from Asher, and Manasseh, and from Zebulun, have been humbled, and come to Jerusalem. ¹²Also, in Judah the hand of God hath been to give to them one heart to do the command of the king and of the heads, in the matter of the LORD. ¹³And much people are gathered to Jerusalem, to prepare the feast of unleavened things in the second month,—a mighty congregation for multitude.

¹⁴And they arise and turn aside the altars which are in Jerusalem, and all the perfume altars they have turned aside, and cast them to the brook of Kidron. ¹⁵And they slaughter the passover on the fourteenth of the second month, and the priests and the Levites have been ashamed, and sanctify themselves, and bring in the burnt-offerings to the house of the LORD. ¹⁶And they stand on their station according to their ordinance, according to the law of Moses the man of God, the priests are sprinkling the blood out of the hand of the Levites, ¹⁷for many are in the congregation who have not sanctified themselves, and the Levites are over the slaughtering of the passovers for every one not clean, to sanctify them to the LORD: ¹⁸for a multitude of the people, many from Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun have not been cleansed, but they have eaten the passover otherwise than it is written: but Hezekiah hath prayed for them, saying, 'The LORD, who is good, receive an atonement for every one ¹⁹who hath prepared his heart to seek God, the LORD, God of his fathers, yet not according to the cleansing of the sanctuary.' ²⁰And the LORD hearkened unto Hezekiah, and healeth the people. ²¹And the Children of Israel who are found present in Jerusalem prepare the feast of unleavened things seven days with great joy, and the Levites and the priests are giving praise to the LORD day by day, with instruments of praise before the LORD. ²²And Hezekiah speaketh unto the heart of all the Levites, who give good understanding concerning the LORD, and they eat the appointed thing seven days, sacrificing sacrifices of peace-offerings, and making confession to the LORD, God of their fathers. ²³And all the congregation take counsel to keep other seven days, and they keep seven days with joy; ²⁴for Hezekiah king of Judah hath offered to the congregation a thousand bullocks, and seven thousand sheep; and the heads have offered to the congregation bullocks a thousand, and sheep ten thousand; and the priests sanctify themselves in abundance. ²⁵And all the congregation of Judah rejoice, with the priests, and the Levites, and all the congregation that come from Israel, and the sojourners who come from the land of Israel, and who are dwelling in Judah, ²⁶and great joy is in Jerusalem: for from the days of Solomon son of David king of Israel there is nothing like this in Jerusalem. ²⁷And the priests, the Levites, rise and bless the people; and their voice is heard, and their prayer cometh into His holy habitation, to the heavens.

XXXI. ¹AND at the conclusion of all this, all Israel who are found present have gone out to the cities of Judah, and break the standing-pillars, and cut down the shrines, and break down the high places, and the altars, out of all Judah and Benjamin, and in Ephraim and Manasseh, even to completion; and all the Children of Israel turn back each to his possession, to their cities.

²And Hezekiah appointeth the various courses of the priests, and of the Levites, by their courses, each according to his service, of the priests and of the Levites for burnt-offering, and for peace-offerings, to minister, and to give thanks, and to give praise in the gates of the camps of the LORD. ³And the portion of the king, from his substance, is for burnt-offerings, for burnt-offerings of the morning, and of the evening, and the burnt-offering for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the appointed seasons, as written in the law of the LORD. ⁴And he saith to the people, to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to give the portion of the priests, and of the Levites, in order that they may be strengthened in the law of the LORD. ⁵And at the spreading forth of the thing, the Children of Israel have multiplied the first-fruits of corn, new wine, and oil, and honey, and of all the increase of the field, and the tithe of the whole in abundance have they brought.

⁶And the Children of Israel and Judah, who are dwelling in the cities of Judah, they also the tithe of the herd and of the flock, and the tithe of the holy things, which are sanctified to the LORD their God, have brought in, and they give heaps—heaps. ⁷In the third month they have begun to lay the foundation of the heaps, and in the seventh month they have finished.

⁸And Hezekiah and the heads come and see the heaps, and bless the LORD and His people Israel: ⁹and Hezekiah inquireth at the priests and the Levites concerning the heaps: ¹⁰and Azariah the head priest, of the house of Zadok, speaketh unto him and saith, 'From the beginning of the bringing of the heave-offering to the house of the LORD, there is to eat, and to be satisfied, and to leave abundantly, for the LORD hath blessed His people, and what is left is this store.

¹¹And Hezekiah saith to prepare them chambers in the house of the LORD: and they prepare, ¹²and bring in the heave-offering, and the tithe, and the holy things faithfully, and over them the leader is Cononiah the Levite, and Shimei his brother the second. ¹³And Jemiel, and Azariah, and Nabath, and Asahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabab, and Eliel, and Ismaeliah, and Mahath, and Benaiah, are inspectors under the hand of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the leader of the house of God. ¹⁴And Kore son of Imnah the Levite, the gate-keeper at the east, is over the willing-offerings of God, to give the heave-offering of the LORD, and the most holy things. ¹⁵And by his side are Eden, and Miniamin, and Jeshua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, faithfully to give to their brethren in courses, as to the great so to the small, ¹⁶apart from their genealogy, to the males from three years old and upward, to every one who hath gone in to the house of the LORD, by the matter of a day in its day, for their service in their charges, according to their courses; ¹⁷with the genealogy of the priests by the house of their fathers, and of the Levites, from twenty years old and upward, in their charges, according to their courses; ¹⁸and to the genealogy among all their infants, their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, for all the congregation, for in their faithfulness they sanctify themselves in holiness. ¹⁹And to the sons of Aaron, the priests, in the fields of the suburb of their cities, in every several city, are men who have been defined by name, to give portions to every male among the priests, and to every one who reckoned himself by genealogy among the Levites.

²⁰And Hezekiah doth thus in all Judah, and doth that which is good and right and true before the LORD his God. ²¹And in every work which he hath begun for the service of the house of God, and for the law, and for the command, seeking to his God, with all his heart, he hath wrought and prospered.

XXXII. ¹AFTER these things and these truths, hath Sennacherib king of Asshur come, yea, he cometh into Judah, and encampeth against the cities of bulwarks, and speaketh of rending them to himself. ²And Hezekiah seeth that Sennacherib hath come, that his face is to the battle against Jerusalem. ³And he taketh counsel with his heads and his mighty ones, to stop the waters of the fountains which are at the outside of the city; and they help him, ⁴and much people are gathered, and they stop all the fountains and the brook that rusheth through the midst of the land, saying, 'Why, the kings of Asshur come, and have found much water.'

⁵And he strengtheneth himself, and buildeth the whole of the wall which is broken, and causeth it to ascend unto the towers, and at the outside of the wall another, and strengtheneth Millo in the city of David, and maketh darts in abundance with shields. ⁶And he putteth heads of war over the people, and gathereth them unto him, unto the broad place of the gate of the city, and speaketh unto their heart, saying, ⁷'Be strong and courageous, be not afraid, nor cast down from the presence of the king of Asshur, or from the presence of all the multitude that is with him: for with us are more than with him. ⁸With him is an arm of flesh, and with us is the LORD our God, to help us, and to fight our battles; and the people are supported by the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

⁹After this hath Sennacherib king of Asshur sent his servants to Jerusalem, (and he is at Lachish, and all his power with him), unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah, who are in Jerusalem, saying, ¹⁰'Thus hath Sennacherib king of Asshur said, On what are ye trusting that ye are abiding in the bulwark, in Jerusalem? ¹¹is not Hezekiah persuading you, giving you up to die by famine, and by thirst, saying, The LORD our God doth deliver us from the hand of the king of Asshur? ¹²Hath not Hezekiah himself turned aside His high places, and His altars, and speaketh to Judah and Jerusalem, saying, Before one altar ye bow yourselves, and on it ye make perfume? ¹³Do ye not know what I have done, I and my fathers, to all the peoples of the lands? Were the gods of the nations of the lands at all able to deliver their land out of my hand? ¹⁴Who among all the gods of those nations whom my fathers devoted to destruction is he who was able to deliver his people out of my hand, that your God is able to deliver you from my hand? ¹⁵And, now, let not Hezekiah lift you up, nor persuade you thus, nor give credence to him, for no god of any nation or kingdom is able to deliver his people from my hand, or from the hand of my fathers: also, surely your God doth not deliver you from my hand?"

¹⁶And again have his servants spoken against the LORD God, and against Hezekiah His servant; ¹⁷letters also hath he written to give reproach to the LORD, God of Israel, and to speak against Him, saying, 'As the gods of the nations of the lands have not delivered their people from my hand, so the God of Hezekiah doth not deliver His people from my hand.' ¹⁸And they call with a loud voice in Jewish, unto the people of Jerusalem who are on the wall, to frighten them, and to trouble them, that they may capture the city. ¹⁹And speak against the God of Jerusalem as against the gods of the peoples of the land, the work of the hands of man. ²⁰And Hezekiah the king prayeth, with Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet, concerning this, and they cry to the heavens; ²¹and the LORD sendeth a messenger, and cutteth off every mighty one of valour, with leader and head, in the camp of the king of Asshur, and he turneth back with shame of face to his own land; and he entereth the house of his God, and they that come out of his bowels have caused him to fall there by the sword. ²²And the LORD saveth Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib king of Asshur, and from the hand of all, and He leadeth them round about. ²³And many are bringing an offering to the LORD, to Jerusalem, and precious things to Hezekiah king of Judah, and he is lifted up before the eyes of all nations from henceforth.

²⁴In those days hath Hezekiah been sick even to death, and he prayeth unto the LORD, and He speaketh to him, and hath appointed a wonder for him: ²⁵yet Hezekiah hath not returned according to the benefit done to him, for his heart hath been lofty, and wrath is upon him, and on Judah and Jerusalem; ²⁶and Hezekiah is humbled for the loftiness of his heart, he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the wrath of the LORD hath not come upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

²⁷And Hezekiah hath riches and honour very much, and treasures he hath made to himself of silver, and of gold, and of precious stones, and of spices, and of shields, and of all kinds of desirable vessels, ²⁸and storehouses for the increase of corn, and new wine, and oil, and stalls for all kinds of cattle, and herds for the stalls; ²⁹and cities hath he made for himself, and possessions of flocks and herds in abundance, for God hath given to him very much substance.

³⁰And Hezekiah himself hath stopped the uppermost outlet of the waters of Gihon, and directed them beneath to the west of the city of David, and Hezekiah prospereth in all his work; ³¹and so with the ambassadors of the heads of Babylon, who send unto him to inquire of the wonder which hath been in the land, God hath left him to try him, to know all in his heart.

³²And the rest of the matters of Hezekiah, and his kindnesses, lo, they are written with the vision of Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet, in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. ³³And Hezekiah lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in the uppermost of the sepulchres of the children of David; and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem have done honour to him at his death; and Manasseh his son reigneth in his stead.

XXXIII. ¹TWELVE years old is Manasseh in his reigning, and fifty and five years hath he reigned in Jerusalem. ²And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, like the abominations of the nations whom the LORD dispossessed from the presence of the Children of Israel. ³and turneth and buildeth the high places which Hezekiah his father had broken down, and raiseth altars for the Baalim, and maketh shrines, and boweth himself to all the host of the heavens, and serveth them. ⁴And he hath built altars in the house of the LORD of which the LORD had said, 'In Jerusalem is My name for ever.' ⁵And he buildeth altars for all the host of the heavens in the two courts of the house of the LORD.

⁶And he hath caused his children to pass over through the fire in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and hath observed clouds, and used enchantments, and witchcraft, and dealt with a familiar spirit, and a wizard; he hath multiplied doing the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, provoking Him to anger. ⁷Yea, he placeth the graven image of the idol which he made in the house of God, of which God had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son, 'In this house, and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I put My name for ever, ⁸and I continue not to turn aside the foot of Israel from off the ground which I appointed for your fathers, only, if they take heed to do all that I have commanded them, to the whole of the law, and of the statutes, and of the ordinances by the hand of Moses.'

⁹And Manasseh maketh Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to err, to do evil above the nations whom the LORD destroyed from the presence of the Children of Israel.

¹⁰And the LORD speaketh unto Manasseh and unto his people, yet they have not attended. ¹¹And the LORD bringeth in against them the heads of the host which the king of Asshur hath, and they capture Manasseh among the thickets, and bind him with fetters of brass, and cause him to go to Babylon. ¹²And when he is in distress he hath appeared the face of the LORD his God, and he humbled exceedingly before the LORD, God of his fathers, ¹³and prayeth unto Him, and He is entreated of him, and heareth his supplication, and bringeth him back to Jerusalem to his kingdom, and Manasseh knoweth that the LORD—He is God.

¹⁴And after this he hath built an outer wall to the city of David, at the west of Gihon, in the valley, and at the entering in at the fish-gate, and it hath gone round to the tower, and he maketh it exceeding high, and putteth heads of the force in all the cities of the bulwarks in Judah. ¹⁵And he turneth aside the gods of the stranger, and the idol out of the house of the LORD, and all the altars which he had built in the mount of the house of the LORD, and in Jerusalem, and casteth them to the outside of the city. ¹⁶And he buildeth the altar of the LORD, and sacrificeth on it sacrifices of peace-offerings and thank-offering, and saith to Judah to serve the LORD, God of Israel: ¹⁷but still are the people sacrificing in the high places, only, to the LORD their God.

¹⁸And the rest of the matters of Manasseh, and his prayer unto his God, and the matters of the seers who speak unto him in the name of the LORD, God of Israel, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel. ¹⁹And his prayer, and his entreaty, and all his sin, and his trespass, and the places in which he had built high places, and established the shrines and the graven images before his being humbled, lo, they are written beside the matters of Hosai. ²⁰And Manasseh lieth with his fathers, and they bury him in his own house; and Amon his son reigneth in his stead.

²¹Twenty and two years old is Amon in his reigning, and two years hath he reigned in Jerusalem. ²²And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, as did Manasseh his father; and to all the graven images which Manasseh his father had made hath Amon sacrificed, and serveth them, ²³and hath not been humbled before the LORD, like the humbling of Manasseh his father, for Amon hath multiplied guilt.

²⁴And his servants conspire against him, and put him to death in his own house; ²⁵and the people of the land smite all the conspirators against king Amon; and the people of the land cause Josiah his son foreign in his stead.

XXXIV. ¹EIGHT years old is Josiah in his reigning, and thirty and one years hath he reigned in Jerusalem. ²And he doth that which is right in the eyes of the LORD, and walketh in the ways of David his father, and hath not turned aside—right or left. ³And in the eighth year of his reign (and he is yet a youth), he hath begun to seek for the God of David his father, and in the twelfth year he hath begun to cleanse Judah and Jerusalem from the high places, and the shrines, and the graven images, and the molten images. ⁴And they break down before him the altars of the Baalim, and the images which are on high above them hath he cut down, and the shrines, and the graven images, and the molten images hath he broken, and beaten small, and streweth on the surface of the graves of those who sacrifice to them; ⁵and the bones of the priests hath he burnt on their altars, and cleanseth Judah and Jerusalem, ⁶and in the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their tools, round about. ⁷And he breaketh down the altars and the shrines; and the graven images he beat down very small, and all the images he cut down in all the land of Israel, and turneth back to Jerusalem.

⁸And in the eighteenth year of his reign, to purify the land and the house he hath sent Shaphan son of Azaliah, and Maseiah head of the city, and Joah son of Joahaz the remembrancer, to strengthen the house of the LORD his God. ⁹And they come in unto Hilkiah the high priest, and give up the money which is brought into the house of God, which the Levites, keeping the threshold, have gathered from the hand of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and from all the remnant of Israel, and from all Judah, and Benjamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, ¹⁰yea, they give it into the hand of the doers of the work, who are appointed over the house of the LORD, and they give it to the workmen who are working in the house of the LORD, to repair and to strengthen the house. ¹¹And they give it to the artificers, and the builders, to buy hewn stones, and wood for couplings and for beams to the houses the kings of Judah had destroyed.

¹²And the men are working faithfully in the business, and those who are appointed over them are Jahath and Obadiah, the Levites, of the sons of Merari; and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to overlook; and of the Levites, every one who understandeth about instruments of song; ¹³they are also over the burden-bearers, and are overseers of every one doing work for each service; and of the Levites are scribes, and officers, and gatekeepers.

¹⁴And in their bringing out the money that is brought into the house of the LORD, Hilkiah the priest hath found the book of the law of the LORD by the hand of Moses. ¹⁵And Hilkiah answereth and saith unto Shaphan the scribe, 'The book of the law have I found in the house of the LORD;' and Hilkiah giveth the book unto Shaphan: ¹⁶and Shaphan bringeth in the book unto the king, and bringeth the king back word again, saying, 'All that hath been given into the hand of thy servants they are doing; ¹⁷and they pour out the money that is found in the house of the LORD, and give it into the hand of those who are appointed, and into the hand of those who do the work.'

¹⁸And Shaphan the scribe declareth to the king, saying, 'A book hath Hilkiah the priest given to me;' and Shaphan readeth in it before the king. ¹⁹And it cometh to pass, at the king's hearing the words of the law, that he readeth his garments: ²⁰and the king commandeth Hilkiah, and Ahikam son of Shaphan, and Abdon son of Micah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah a servant of the king, saying, ²¹'Go, seek the LORD for me, and for him who is left in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that is found: for great is the fury of the Lord that is poured on us, because our fathers kept not the word of the Lord, to do according to all that is written in this book.'

²² And Hilkiah goeth, and they of the king, unto Huldai the prophetess, wife of Shailum son of Tikvath, son of Hasrah, keeper of the garments, and she is dwelling in Jerusalem with the second priest, and they speak thus unto her. ²³ And she saith to them, 'Thus hath the Lord, God of Israel, said, Say ye to the man who hath sent you unto me, ²⁴ Thus hath the Lord said, Lo, I am bringing in evil on this place, and on its inhabitants, all the execrations which are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah: ²⁵ because they have forsaken Me, and make perfume to other gods, so as to provoke Me with all the works of their hands: and My fury is poured out on this place, and is not quenched.'

XXXV. ¹ AND Josiah maketh in Jerusalem a passover to the Lord, and they slaughter the passover on the fourteenth of the first month: ² and he stationeth the priests over their charges, and strengtheneth them for the service of the house of the Lord, ³ and saith to the Levites (the teachers of all Israel), who are sanctified to the Lord, 'Put ye the ark of the Holy One in the house which Solomon son of David king of Israel built: it is not to you a burden on the shoulder; now, serve the Lord your God, and His people Israel; ⁴ and prepare, by the house of your fathers, according to your courses, by the writing of David king of Israel, and by the writing of Solomon his son: ⁵ and stand in the sanctuary, by the divisions of the house of the fathers of your brethren, the children of the people, and the portion of the house of a father of the Levites; ⁶ and slaughter the passover, and sanctify yourselves, and prepare for your brethren, doing according to the word of the Lord by the hand of Moses.'

¹⁰ And the service is prepared, and the priests stand on their station, and the Levites on their courses, according to the command of the king. ¹¹ And they slaughter the passover sacrifice, and the priests sprinkle out of their hand, and the Levites are flaying. ¹² And they turn aside the burnt-offering, putting them by the divisions of the house of the fathers of the children of the people, to bring near to the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moses; and so with the oxen. ¹³ And they cook the passover with fire, according to the ordinance, and the sanctified things have they cooked in pots, and in kettles, and in pans, and hasten for all the children of the people. ¹⁴ And afterward have they prepared for themselves, and for the priests: for the priests the sons of Aaron are in the offering up of the burnt-offering and of the fat till night; and the Levites have prepared for themselves, and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. ¹⁵ And the singers, the sons of Asaph, are on their station, according to the command of David, and Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun the king's seer: and the gate-keepers are at every gate; there is nothing for them to turn aside from off their service: for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

¹⁶ And all the service of the Lord is prepared on that day, to keep the passover, and to cause burnt-offerings to ascend upon the altar of the Lord, according to the command of king Josiah. ¹⁷ And the Children of Israel who are found present keep the passover at that time, and the feast of unleavened things seven days. ¹⁸ And there hath not been made a passover like to it in Israel from the days of Samuel the prophet, and none of the kings of Israel kept such a passover as Josiah made with the priests, and the Levites, and all Judah and Israel, who are found present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ¹⁹ In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah hath this passover been made.

²⁰ After all this, when Josiah had prepared the house, Necho king of Egypt hath come up to fight against Carchemish by the Euphrates, and Josiah goeth out to meet him; ²¹ but he sendeth messengers unto him, saying, 'What—to me and to thee, O king of Judah? not against thee do I come to-day, but against the house where-with I have war, and God spake to haste me; cease, for thine own sake, from God who is with me, that He destroy thee not.'

²² Yet Josiah hath not turned round his face from him, but to fight with him hath disguised himself, and hath not hearkened unto the words of Necho, from the mouth of God, and cometh to fight in the valley of Megiddo. ²³ And the archers shoot at king Josiah, and the king saith to his servants,

'Remove me, for I have become very sick.'

²⁴ And his servants remove him from the chariot, and cause him to ride in the second chariot that he hath, and cause him to go to Jerusalem, and he dieth, and is buried in the sepulchres of his fathers; and all Judah and Jerusalem are mourning for Josiah, ²⁵ and Jeremiah lamenteth for Josiah, and all the singing men and singing women speak in their lamentations of Josiah unto this day, and set them for a statute on Israel; and lo, they are written among the lamentations. ²⁶ And the rest of the matters of Josiah, and his kindnesses, according as it is written in the law of the Lord; ²⁷ even his matters, the first and the last, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

XXXVI. ¹ And the people of the land take Jehonahaz son of Josiah, and cause him to reign instead of his father in Jerusalem. ² Three and twenty years old is Jehonahaz in his reigning, and three months hath he reigned in Jerusalem; ³ seeing the king of Egypt turneth him aside in Jerusalem, and fineth the land a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold; ⁴ and the king of Egypt causeth Eliakim his brother to reign over Judah and Jerusalem, and turneth his name to Jehoiakim; and Jehonahaz his brother Necho took, and carrieth him to Egypt.

⁵ Twenty and five years old is Jehoiakim in his reigning, and eleven years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the Lord his God. ⁶ Against him hath Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon come up, and bindeth him in fetters of brass to take him away to Babylon. ⁷ And some of the vessels of the house of the Lord hath Nebuchadnezzar brought to Babylon, and putteth them in his temple in Babylon. ⁸ And the rest of the matters of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he hath done, and that which is found against him, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah; and Jehoiachin his son reigneth in his stead.

⁹ Eight years old is Jehoiachin in his reigning, and three months and ten days hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the Lord; ¹⁰ and at the turn of the year hath king Nebuchadnezzar sent and bringeth him into Babylon, with the desirable vessels of the house of the Lord, and causeth Zedekiah his brother to reign over Judah and Jerusalem.

¹¹ Twenty and one years old is Zedekiah in his reigning, and eleven years hath he reigned in Jerusalem. ¹² And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the Lord his God; he hath not been humbled before Jeremiah the prophet speaking from the mouth of the Lord; ¹³ and also, against king Nebuchadnezzar hath he rebelled, who had caused him to swear by God, yet he hardeneth his neck, and strengtheneth his heart against turning back unto the Lord, God of Israel. ¹⁴ Also, all the heads of the priests, and the people, have multiplied to commit trespass according to all the abominations of the nations, and defile the house of the Lord which He had sanctified in Jerusalem.

CHAP. I. ¹AND in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to complete the word of the LORD from the mouth of Jeremiah, the LORD hath waked up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, and he causeth an intimation to pass over through all his kingdom, and also in writing, saying, ²'Thus hath Cyrus king of Persia said: All the kingdoms of the earth hath the LORD, God of heaven, given to me, and He hath laid a charge on me to build for Him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah; ³'who is among you of all His people? His God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah, and build the house of the LORD, God of Israel (He is God), which is in Jerusalem. ⁴'And every one who is left, of any of the places where he is a sojourner, let the men of his place assist him with silver, and with gold, and with goods, and with beasts, along with the free-will-offering for the house of God, which is in Jerusalem.

⁵'And the heads of the fathers of Judah and Benjamin rise, with the priests and the Levites, even every one whose spirit God hath waked, to go up to build the house of the LORD, which is in Jerusalem. ⁶'And all they who are round about them have strengthened them with their hands, with vessels of silver, with gold, with goods, and with beasts, and with precious things, besides all that hath been offered willingly.

⁷'And king Cyrus hath brought out the vessels of the house of the LORD, which Nebuchadnezzar hath brought out of Jerusalem, and putteth them in the house of his gods: ⁸'yea, Cyrus king of Persia bringeth them out by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and numbereth them to Sheshbazzar prince of Judah. ⁹'And this is their number: dishes of gold thirty, dishes of silver a thousand, knives nine and twenty; ¹⁰'basons of gold thirty, basons of silver (seconds) four hundred and ten, other vessels a thousand. ¹¹'All the vessels of gold and of silver are five thousand and four hundred: the whole hath Sheshbazzar brought up at the going up of the removal from Babylon to Jerusalem.

II. ¹AND these are the children of the province who go up, of the captives of the removal which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon removed to Babylon, and they turn back to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his city: ²'who have come with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, Baanah:

The number of the men of the people of Israel: ³'the children of Parosh, two thousand and a hundred seventy and two: ⁴'the children of Shephatiah, three hundred seventy and two: ⁵'the children of Arah, seven hundred five and seventy: ⁶'the children of Palath-Moab, of the children of Jeshua, Joab, two thousand eight hundred and twelve: ⁷'the children of Elam, a thousand two hundred fifty and four: ⁸'the children of Zattu, nine hundred and forty and five: ⁹'the children of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty: ¹⁰'the children of Bani, six hundred forty and two: ¹¹'the children of Bebai, six hundred twenty and three: ¹²'the children of Azgad, a thousand two hundred twenty and two: ¹³'the children of Adonikam, six hundred sixty and six: ¹⁴'the children of Bigvai, two thousand fifty and six: ¹⁵'the children of Adin, four hundred fifty and four: ¹⁶'the children of Ater of Hezekiah, ninety and eight: ¹⁷'the children of Bezai, three hundred twenty and three: ¹⁸'the children of Jorah, a hundred and twelve: ¹⁹'the children of Hashum, two hundred twenty and three: ²⁰'the children of Gibbar, ninety and five: ²¹'the children of Beth-Lehem, a hundred twenty and three: ²²'the men of Netophah, fifty and six: ²³'the men of Anathoth, a hundred twenty and eight: ²⁴'the children of Azmaveth, forty and two: ²⁵'the children of Kirjath-Arim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, seven hundred and forty and three: ²⁶'the children of Ramah and Gaba, six hundred twenty and one: ²⁷'the men of Michmas, a hundred twenty and two: ²⁸'the men of Bethel and Ai, two hundred twenty and three: ²⁹'the children of Nebo, fifty and two: ³⁰'the children of Magbish, a hundred fifty and six: ³¹'the children of the other Elam, a thousand two hundred fifty and four: ³²'the children of Harim, three hundred and twenty: ³³'the children of Lod, Hadad, and Ono, seven hundred twenty and five: ³⁴'the children of Jericho, three hundred forty and five: ³⁵'the children of Senaah, three thousand and six hundred and thirty:

³⁶'The priests: the children of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred seventy and three: ³⁷'the children of Immer, a thousand fifty and two: ³⁸'the children of Passhur, a thousand two hundred forty and seven: ³⁹'the children of Harim, a thousand and seventeen:

⁴⁰'The Levites: the children of Jeshua and Kadmiel, of the children of Hodaviah, seventy and four.

⁴¹'The singers: the children of Asaph, a hundred twenty and eight.

⁶¹And of the children of the priests: the children of Ithabai, the children of Koz, the children of Barzillai (who hath taken from the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite a wife, and is called by their name: ⁶²these have sought their register among those who reckon themselves by genealogy, and they have not been found, and they are freed from the priesthood; ⁶³and the Tishathah saith to them, that they eat not of the most holy things (till the standing up of a priest with Urim and with Thummin).

⁶⁴All the congregation together is four myriad two thousand three hundred sixty, ⁶⁵apart from their servants and their handmaids; these are seven thousand three hundred thirty and seven: and of them are singing men and singing women, two hundred. ⁶⁶Their horses are seven hundred thirty and six; their mules, two hundred forty and five; ⁶⁷their camels, four hundred thirty and five; asses, six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

⁶⁸And some of the heads of the fathers in their coming into the house of the LORD which is in Jerusalem, have offered willingly for the house of God, to establish it on its base; ⁶⁹according to their power they have given to the treasure of the work: of gold, six myriad and a thousand drams, and of silver, five thousand pounds, and of priests' coats, a hundred. ⁷⁰And the priests dwell, with the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers, and the gatekeepers, and the Nethinim, in their cities: also all Israel in their cities.

III. ¹AND the seventh month cometh, and the Children of Israel are in the cities, and the people are gathered, as one man, unto Jerusalem. ²And Jeshua son of Jozadak riseth, with his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and his brethren, and they build the altar of the God of Israel, to cause to ascend on it burnt-offerings, as written in the law of Moses, the man of God. ³And they establish the altar on its base, because of the fear upon them of the people of the lands; and he causeth burnt-offerings to ascend upon it to the LORD, burnt-offerings for the morning and for the evening. ⁴And they prepare the feast of booths as written, and the burnt-offering of the day daily, in number according to the ordinance, the matter of a day in its day. ⁵And after this the continual burnt-offering, even of the new moons, and of all the appointed seasons of the LORD, which are sanctified; and of every one who willingly offereth a willing-offering to the LORD. ⁶From the first day of the seventh month they have begun to cause burnt-offerings to ascend to the LORD; and the temple of the LORD hath not been founded, ⁷and they give money to the hewers, and to the artificers, and food, and drink, and oil to those of Zidon, and of Tyre, to bring cedar-trees from Lebanon to the sea of Joppa, according to the permission of Cyrus king of Persia concerning them.

⁸And in the second year of their coming unto the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month, began Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua son of Jozadak, and the remnant of their brethren the priests and the Levites, and all who come from the captivity to Jerusalem, and they appoint the Levites from twenty years old and upward, to overlook the work of the house of the LORD. ⁹And Jeshua standeth, with his sons, and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah together, to overlook those who do the work in the house of God; the sons of Henadad, with their sons and their brethren the Levites.

¹⁰And the builders have founded the temple of the LORD, and they appoint the priests, clothed, with trumpets, and the Levites, sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise the LORD, by means of the instruments of David king of Israel. ¹¹And they respond in praising and in giving thanks to the LORD, for He is good, for His kindness is for ever over Israel, ¹²and all the people have shouted—a great shout—in giving praise to the LORD, because the house of the LORD hath been founded. ¹³And many of the priests, and of the Levites, and the heads of the fathers, the old men who had seen the first house, in this house being founded before their eyes are weeping with a loud voice, and many with a shout, in joy, lifting up the voice; ¹⁴and the people do not discern the noise of the shouting of joy, from the noise of the weeping of the people, for the people are shouting—a great shouting—and the noise hath been heard unto a distance.

IV. ¹AND the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin hear that the children of the captivity are building a temple to the Lord, God of Israel, ²and they draw nigh unto Zerubbabel, and unto the heads of the fathers, and say to them, 'Let us build with you; for, like you, we seek after your God, but we are not sacrificing since the days of Esar-Haddon king of Asshur, who brought us up hither.' ³And Zerubbabel saith to them, with Joshua, and the rest of the heads of the fathers of Israel, 'Not for you and for us, to build a house to our God; but we ourselves together will build to the Lord, God of Israel, as king Cyrus, king of Persia, hath commanded us.'

⁴And it cometh to pass, the people of the land are making the hands of the people of Judah feeble, and are troubling them for building, ⁵and are hiring counsellors against them, to make void their counsel all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, even till the reign of Darius king of Persia. ⁶And in the reign of Ahasuerus, at the commencement of his reign, they have written an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem: ⁷yea, in the days of Artaxerxes have Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his companions written unto Artaxerxes king of Persia, and the writing of the letter is written in Aramaean, and interpreted in Aramaean.

⁸Rehum the counsellor, and Shimshai the scribe, have written a letter concerning Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the king, thus: ⁹Then Rehum the counsellor, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their companions, the Dinaites, and the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Susanchites, who are the Elamites, ¹⁰and the rest of the nations which the great and honourable Assnapper hath removed and set in the cities of Samaria, and the rest beyond the river, and at such a time: ¹¹This is a copy of the letter which they have sent unto him, unto Artaxerxes the king: 'Thy servants, the men beyond the river, and at such a time: ¹²Be it known to the king, that the Jews who have come up from thee unto us, have come to Jerusalem, the rebellious and base city they are building, and the walls they have finished, and they join the foundations. ¹³Now, be it known to the king, that if this city be builded, and the walls finished, toll, tribute, and custom they will not give; and at length it will cause loss to the kings. ¹⁴Now, because the salt of the palace is our salt, and the nakedness of the king we have no patience to see, therefore have we sent and made it known to the king: ¹⁵that he may seek in the book of the records of thy fathers, and thou shalt find in the book of the records, and shalt know, that this city is a rebellious city, and causing loss to kings and provinces, that the makers of sedition are in its midst from the days of old, therefore hath this city been wasted. ¹⁶We make known to the king that, if this city be builded and the walls finished, by this means a portion beyond the river thou hast none.'

¹⁷An answer hath the king sent unto Rehum the counsellor, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their companions who dwell in Samaria, and the rest beyond the river, 'Peace, and at such a time: ¹⁸The letter which ye have sent unto us, explained, hath been read before me; ¹⁹and by me a decree hath been made, and they have sought, and found that this city from the days of old against kings lifteth up itself: that rebellion and sedition is made in it; ²⁰that mighty kings have been over Jerusalem, even rulers over all beyond the river, and toll, tribute, and custom is given to them. ²¹Now, make ye a decree to cause these men to cease, that this city be not builded till by me a decree be made. ²²And ye, beware ye of negligence in doing this: why should the hurt become great to the loss of the kings?'

²³Then from the time that the copy of the letter of king Artaxerxes is read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their companions, they have gone in haste to Jerusalem, unto the Jews, and caused them to cease by force, and strength. ²⁴Then ceased the service of the house of God which is in Jerusalem, and it ceaseth till the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

V. ¹AND the prophets Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo have prophesied unto the Jews who are in Judah and in Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel,—unto them. ²Then have Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Joshua son of Jozadak, risen, and begun to build the house of God which is in Jerusalem, and with them the prophets of God supporting them.

³At that time Tatnai, governor beyond the river, hath come to them, and Shethar-Boznai, and their companions, and thus they say to them, 'Who hath made a decree for you to build this house, and to finish this wall?'

⁴Then thus have we said to them, 'What are the names of the men who are building this building?' ⁵And the eye of their God hath been upon the elders of the Jews, and they have not caused them to cease till the matter goeth to Darius, and then they send back a letter concerning this thing.

⁶The copy of the letter which Tatnai, governor beyond the river, hath sent, with Shethar-Boznai and his companions, the Apharsathchites, who are beyond the river, unto Darius the king. ⁷A letter they have sent unto him, and thus is it written in it: ⁸'To Darius the king, all peace! be it known to the king that we have gone to the province of Judah, to the great house of God, and it is built with rolling stones, and wood is placed in the walls, and this work is done speedily, and prospereth in their hand. ⁹Then have we asked of those elders, thus have we said to them, Who hath made for you a decree this house to build, and this wall to finish? ¹⁰And also their names we asked of them, to let thee know, that we might write the names of the men who are at their head. ¹¹ And thus have they returned us word, saying, 'We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and are building the house which was built many years before this, which a great king of Israel built and finished; ¹² but after that our fathers made the God of heaven angry, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon the Chaldean, and this house he destroyed, and the people he removed to Babylon; ¹³ but in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, Cyrus the king made a decree to build this house of God, ¹⁴ and also, the vessels of the house of God, of gold and of silver, which Nebuchadnezzar hath taken forth out of the temple which is in Jerusalem, and brought them to the temple of Babylon, them hath Cyrus the king brought forth out of the temple of Babylon, and they have been given to one, whose name is Sheshbazzar, whom he made governor, ¹⁵ and said to him, These vessels take, go, put them down in the temple which is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be builded on its place. ¹⁶ Then hath this Sheshbazzar come—he hath laid the foundation of the house of God which is in Jerusalem, and from then even till now it hath been building, and is not finished. ¹⁷ And now, if it be good to the king, let search be made in the treasure-house of the king, which is there in Babylon, whether it be that by Cyrus the king a decree was made to build this house of God in Jerusalem, and the will of the king concerning this thing let him send to us.'

VI. THEN Darius the king hath made a decree, and they have sought in the house of the books of the treasures placed there in Babylon, ² and there hath been found at Achmetha, in the palace that is in the province of the Medes, a roll, and within it is a record thus written: ³ In the first year of Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king hath made a decree concerning the house of God in Jerusalem: Let the house be builded in the place where they sacrifice sacrifices, and its foundation strongly laid; its height sixty cubits, its breadth sixty cubits; ⁴ three rows of rolling stones, and a row of new wood, and let the outlay be given out of the king's house. ⁵ And also, let the vessels of the house of God, of gold and of silver, which Nebuchadnezzar took forth out of the temple which is in Jerusalem, and brought to Babylon, be given back, and go to the temple which is in Jerusalem, each to its place, and put them down in the house of God.

⁶ Now, Tatnai, governor beyond the river, Shethar-Boznai, and their companions, the Apharsachites, who are beyond the river, be ye far from thence; ⁷ let alone the work of this house of God, let the governor of the Jews, and the elders of the Jews, build this house of God in its place; ⁸ and by me a decree is made concerning that which ye shall do with the elders of these Jews for the building of this house of God, that of the riches of the king, which are of the tribute beyond the river, speedily let the outlay be given to these men, that they cease not. ⁹ And what they need, both young bullocks, and rams, and lambs for burnt-offerings to the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the saying of the priests who are in Jerusalem, let be given to them day by day without fail, ¹⁰ that they may bring near sweet savours to the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king, and of his sons.

¹¹ And by me a decree is made that any one who changeth this thing, let wood be pulled down from his house, and being raised up, let him be smitten on it, and let his house be made a dunghill for this. ¹² And God, who hath caused His name to dwell there, cast down any king or people that putteth forth his hand to change, to destroy this house of God which is in Jerusalem: I Darius have made a decree; let it be done speedily.'

¹³ Then Tatnai, governor beyond the river, Shethar-Boznai, and their companions, according to that which king Darius hath sent, so have they done speedily. ¹⁴ And the elders of the Jews are building and prospering through the prophecy of Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo, and they have built and finished by the decree of the God of Israel, and by the decree of Cyrus, and Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia. ¹⁵ And this house hath gone out till the third day of the month Adar, which is in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

¹⁶ And the Children of Israel have made, with the priests, and the Levites, and the rest of the children of the captivity, the dedication of this house of God with joy, ¹⁷ and have brought near for the dedication of this house of God a hundred bullocks, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs; and young he-goats for a sin-offering for all Israel, twelve, according to the number of the tribes of Israel; ¹⁸ and they have established the priests in their divisions, and the Levites in their courses, over the service of God which is in Jerusalem, as written in the book of Moses. ¹⁹ And the children of the captivity make the passover on the fourteenth of the first month; ²⁰ for the priests and the Levites have been purified together (all of them are pure), and they slaughter the passover for all the children of the captivity, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves. ²¹ And the Children of Israel who return from the captivity, and every one who is separated from the uncleanness of the nations of the land unto them, to seek for the Lord, God of Israel, do eat, ²² and keep the feast of unleavened things seven days with joy: for the Lord hath made them to rejoice, and turned round the heart of the king of Assyria unto them, to strengthen their hands in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

VII. AND after these things, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, ² son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth, son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the head priest: ⁶this Ezra hath come up from Babylon; and he is a ready scribe in the law of Moses, which the LORD, God of Israel, gave, and the king giveth to him, according to the hand of the LORD his God upon him, all his request. ⁷And some of the Children of Israel go up with some of the priests, and of the Levites, and of the singers, and of the gate-keepers, and of the Nethinim, to Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king. ⁸And he cometh to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which is in the seventh year of the king, ⁹for on the first of the first month he hath founded the ascent from Babylon, and on the first of the fifth month hath he come to Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him: ¹⁰for Ezra hath prepared his heart to seek the law of the LORD, and to do, and to teach in Israel statute and judgment.

¹¹And this is a copy of the letter which the king Artaxerxes hath given to Ezra, the priest, the scribe, a scribe of the words of the commands of the LORD, and of His statutes on Israel: ¹²'Artaxerxes, king of kings, to Ezra the priest, a perfect scribe of the law of the God of heaven, and at such a time: ¹³By me a decree hath been made that every one who is willing, in my kingdom, of the people of Israel, and of the priests and Levites, to go to Jerusalem with thee, may go: ¹⁴because from the king and his seven counsellors thou art sent, to inquire concerning Judah and Jerusalem, with the law of God which is in thy hand, ¹⁵and to carry the silver and gold which the king and his counsellors have willingly offered to the God of Israel, whose tabernacle is in Jerusalem, ¹⁶and all the silver and gold which thou findest in all the province of Babylon, with the free-will offerings of the people, and of the priests, offering willingly, for the house of thy God which is in Jerusalem, ¹⁷therefore buy speedily with this money bullocks, rams, lambs, and their presents, and their libations, and bring them near to the altar of the house of your God which is in Jerusalem, ¹⁸and that which is good to thee and to thy brethren to do with the rest of the silver and gold, according to the will of your God ye may do.

¹⁹And the vessels which are given to thee, for the service of the house of thy God, make perfect before the God of Jerusalem; ²⁰and the rest of the needful things of the house of thy God, which it falleth to thee to give, thou mayest give from the treasure-house of the king. ²¹And by me (I Artaxerxes the king) a decree is made to all treasurers who are beyond the river, that all that Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of heaven, asketh of you, be done speedily: ²²Unto silver a hundred talents, and unto wheat a hundred eors, and unto wine a hundred baths, and unto oil a hundred baths, and salt without reckoning: ²³all that is by the decree of the God of heaven, let be done diligently for the house of the God of heaven; for why should there be wrath against the kingdom of the king and his sons? ²⁴And to you we make known, that on any of the priests and Levites, singers, gate-keepers, Nethinim, and servants of the house of God, toll, tribute, or custom, there is no authority to lift up.

²⁵'And thou, Ezra, according to the wisdom of thy God, which is in thy hand, appoint magistrates and judges who may be judges to all the people who are beyond the river, to all who know of the law of thy God, and they who have not known cause ye to know: ²⁶and any who do not do the law of thy God, and the law of the king, speedily let judgment be done upon him, whether to death, or to banishment, or to confiscation of riches, or to bonds.'

²⁷Blessed is the LORD, God of our fathers, who hath put such a thing as this in the heart of the king, to beautify the house of the LORD which is in Jerusalem, ²⁸and hath stretched out mercy unto me before the king and his counsellors, and before all the mighty heads of the king; and I have strengthened myself as the hand of the LORD my God is upon me, and I gather out of Israel heads to go up with me.

VIII. ¹AND these are the heads of their fathers, and the genealogy of those who go up with me, in the reign of Artaxerxes the king, from Babylon. ²From the sons of Phinehas: Gershom; from the sons of Ithamar: Daniel; from the sons of David: Hattush; ³from the sons of Shechaniah, from the sons of Pharosh: Zechariah, and with him reckoning themselves by genealogy, of males a hundred and fifty. ⁴From the sons of Pahath-Moab: Elihoenai son of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred who are males. ⁵From the sons of Shechaniah: the son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred who are males. ⁶And from the sons of Adin: Ebed son of Jonathan, and with him fifty who are males. ⁷And from the sons of Elam: Jeshaiah son of Athaliah, and with him seventy who are males. ⁸And from the sons of Shephatiah: Zebadiah son of Michael, and with him eighty who are males. ⁹From the sons of Joash: Obadiah son of Jehiel; and with him two hundred and eighteen who are males. ¹⁰And from the sons of Shelomith, the son of Josiphiah, and with him a hundred and sixty who are males. ¹¹And from the sons of Bebai: Zechariah son of Bebai, and with him twenty and eight who are males. ¹²And from the sons of Azgad: Johanan son of Hakkatan, and with him a hundred and ten who are males. ¹³And from the last sons of Adonikam (and these are their names), Eliphelet, Jeiel, and Shemaiah, and with them sixty who are males. ¹⁴And from the sons of Bigvai, Uthai and Zabbud, and with them seventy who are males.

¹⁵And I gather them unto the river that goeth unto Ahava, and we encamp there three days; and I consider about the people, and about the priests, and of the sons of Levi I have found none there. ¹⁶And I send for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, and for Elnathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meshullam, heads, and for Joiarib, and for Elnathan, men of understanding; ¹⁷ and I charge them for Iddo the head, at the place Casiphia, and place words in their mouth, to speak unto Iddo, and his brethren the Nethinim, at the place Casiphia, to bring to us ministers for the house of our God.

¹⁸ And they bring to us, according to the good haul of our God upon us, a man of understanding, of the sons of Mahli, son of Levi, son of Israel, even Sherebiah, and his sons, and his brethren, eighteen. ¹⁹ And Hashabiah, and with him Jeshaiiah, of the sons of Merari, his brethren, and their sons, twenty. ²⁰ And from the Nethinim, whom David and the heads had given for the service of the Levites, two hundred and twenty Nethinim, all of them defined by name.

²¹ And I proclaim there a fast, near the river Ahava, to afflict ourselves before our God, to seek from Him a right way for us, and for our infants, and for all our substance; ²² for I was ashamed to ask from the king a force and horsemen to help us because of the enemy in the way, for we spake to the king, saying, 'The hand of our God is upon all who seek Him for good, and His strength and His wrath is against all who forsake Him.' ²³ And we fast, and seek from our God for this, and He is entreated of us.

²⁴ And I separate from the heads of the priests, twelve, even Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and with them ten of their brethren, ²⁵ and I weigh to them the silver, and the gold, and the vessels, the heave-offering of the house of our God, which the king, and his counsellors, and his heads, and all Israel who are present, have lifted up; ²⁶ and I weigh by their hand, of silver, talents six hundred and fifty, and of vessels of silver a hundred talents, of gold a hundred talents, ²⁷ and basins of gold twenty, of a thousand drams, and two vessels of good shining brass, desirable as gold, ²⁸ and I say unto them, 'Ye are holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and the gold are a willing-offering to the Lord, God of your fathers; ²⁹ watch, and preserve, till ye weigh them before the heads of the priests, and of the Levites, and the heads of the fathers of Israel, in Jerusalem, at the chambers of the house of the Lord.' ³⁰ And the priests and the Levites took the weight of the silver, and of the gold, and of the vessels, to bring to Jerusalem to the house of our God.

³¹ And we journey from the river Ahava, on the twelfth of the first month, to go to Jerusalem, and the hand of our God hath been upon us, and He delivereth us from the hand of the enemy and the liar in wait by the way; ³² and we come to Jerusalem, and dwell there three days. ³³ And on the fourth day hath been weighed the silver, and the gold, and the vessels, in the house of our God, by the hand of Meremoth son of Uriah the priest, and with him Eleazar son of Phinehas, and with them Jozabad son of Jeshua, and Noadiah son of Binnui, the Levites: ³⁴ by number, by weight of every one, and all the weight is written at that time.

³⁵ Those who come of the captives, the children of the captivity, have brought near burnt-offerings to the God of Israel, bullocks twelve, for all Israel, rams ninety and six, lambs seventy and seven, young he-goats for a sin-offering twelve; the whole is a burnt-offering to the Lord. ³⁶ And they give the laws of the king to the lieutenants of the king and the governors beyond the river, and they have lifted up the people and the house of God.

IX. ¹ AND at the completion of these things, the heads have drawn nigh unto me, saying, 'The people of Israel, and the priests, and the Levites have not been separated from the peoples of the lands, as to their abominations, even the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Jebusite, the Ammonite, the Moabite, the Egyptian, and the Amorite; ² for they have taken of their daughters for themselves, and for their sons, and the holy seed have mingled themselves among the peoples of the lands, and the hands of the heads and the seconds have been first in this trespass.'

³ And at my hearing of this thing, I have rent my garment and my upper robe, and pluck out some of the hair of my head, and of my beard, and sit astonished, ⁴ and unto me are assembled every one that trembleth at the words of the God of Israel, because of the trespass of the captivity, and I sit astonished till the evening-offering.

⁵ And at the evening-offering I have risen from mine affliction, and at my rending my garment and my upper robe, I bow down on my knees, and spread out my hands unto the Lord my God, ⁶ and say, 'O my God, I have been ashamed, and have blushed to lift up, O my God, my face unto Thee, for our iniquities have increased over the head, and our guilt hath become great even to the heavens. ⁷ From the days of our fathers we are in great guilt unto this day, and in our iniquities have we been given—we, our kings, our priests—into the hand of the kings of the lands, with sword, with captivity, and with spoiling, and with shame of face, as at this day. ⁸ And now, as a small moment, grace hath been from the Lord our God, to leave to us an escape, and to give to us a nail in His holy place, by our God's enlightening our eyes, and by giving us a little quickening in our servitude; ⁹ for we are servants, but in our servitude our God hath not forsaken us, and stretcheth out kindness unto us before the kings of Persia, giving to us a quickening to lift up the house of our God, and to cause its wastes to cease, and to give to us a wall in Judah and in Jerusalem. ¹⁰ And now, what shall we say, O our God, after this? for we have forsaken Thy commands, ¹¹ which Thou hast commanded by the hand of Thy servants the prophets, saying, The land into which ye go to possess it, is a land of impurity, by the impurity of the people of the lands, by their abominations wherewith they have filled it, from mouth to mouth, by their uncleanness; ¹²and now, your daughters give not to their sons, and their daughters take not to your sons, and seek not their peace, or their good, for ever, so that ye are strong, and have eaten the good of the land, and possessed them for your children for ever. ¹³And after all that is come upon us for our evil works, and for our great guilt (for Thou, O our God, hast kept back the rod from our iniquities, and hast given to us an escape like this), ¹⁴should we turn back to break Thy commands, and to join ourselves in marriage with the people of these abominations? art Thou not angry against us—even to consumption—till there is no remnant or escaping? ¹⁵O LORD, God of Israel, righteous art Thou, for we have been left an escaping, as it is this day: lo, we are before Thee in our guilt, for there is none to stand before Thee concerning this.'

X. ¹AND at Ezra's praying, and at his making confession, weeping, and casting himself down before the house of God, there have been gathered unto him out of Israel a very great congregation, men and women and children, for the people have wept, multiplying weeping. ²And Shechaniah son of Jehiel, of the sons of Elam, answereth and saith to Ezra, 'We have trespassed against our God, seeing we settle strange women of the peoples of the land; yet, now there is hope for Israel concerning this: ³and now, let us make a covenant with our God, to cause all the women to go out, and that which is born of them, by the counsel of the Lord, and of those who tremble at the command of our God; and according to law let it be done. ⁴Rise, for the matter is on thee, and we are with thee: be strong, and do.' ⁵And Ezra riseth, and causeth the heads of the priests, the Levites, and all Israel, to swear to do according to this word; and they swear.

⁶And Ezra riseth from before the house of God, and goeth unto the chamber of Johanan son of Eliashib: yea, he goeth there, bread he hath not eaten, and water he hath not drunk, for he is mourning because of the trespass of the captivity. ⁷And they cause a proclamation to pass over throughout Judah and Jerusalem, to all the children of the captivity, to be gathered to Jerusalem, ⁸that every one who cometh not in by the third day, according to the counsel of the heads and of the elders, all his substance should be devoted, and himself separated from the congregation of the captivity.

⁹And all the men of Judah and Benjamin are gathered to Jerusalem by the third day: it is the ninth month, on the twentieth of the month, and all the people sit on the broad place of the house of God, trembling on account of the matter and of the showers. ¹⁰And Ezra the priest riseth, and saith unto them, 'Ye have trespassed, seeing ye settle strange women, adding to the guilt of Israel. ¹¹And, now, make confession to the LORD, God of your fathers, and do His good pleasure, and be separated from the peoples of the land, and the strange women.'

¹²And all the congregation answer and say with a great voice, 'Right; according to thy word—on us to do: ¹³but the people are many, and it is the time of showers, and there is no power to stand without, and the work is not for one day, nor for two, for we have multiplied to transgress in this thing. ¹⁴Let, we pray thee, our heads of all the congregation stand, and let all who are in our cities, who have settled strange wives, come at the times appointed, and with them the elders of each city, and its judges, till the turning of the fury of the wrath of our God from us, for this thing.'

¹⁵Only Jonathan son of Asahel, and Jazbadi son of Tikvah, have stood over this, and Meshullam, and Shabbethai the Levite, have helped them. ¹⁶And the children of the captivity do so: and Ezra the priest, with men, heads of the fathers, for the house of their fathers, are separated, even all of them by name, and they sit on the first day of the tenth month, to examine the matter. ¹⁷And they finish with all the men who have settled strange women, on the first day of the first month. ¹⁸And there are found among the sons of the priests that had settled strange women: of the sons of Jeshua son of Jozadak, and his brethren, Manasseh, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah: ¹⁹and they give their hand to send out their wives, and as guilty ones, a ram of the flock, for their guilt. ²⁰And of the sons of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah; ²¹and of the sons of Harim: Manasseh, and Elijah, and Shemaiah, and Jehiel, and Uziah; ²²and of the sons of Pashur: Elioenai, Manasseh, Ishmael, Nethaneel, Jozabad, and Elashah. ²³And of the Levites: Jozabad, and Shimei, and Kelalah (who is Kelita), Pethaiah, Judah, and Eliezer; ²⁴and of the singers: Eliashib; and of the gatekeepers: Shallum, and Tolem, and Uri.

²⁵And of Israel: of the sons of Parosh: Ramiah, and Jeziah, and Malchiah, and Miamin, and Eleazar, and Malchijah, and Benaiah; ²⁶and of the sons of Elam: Mattaniah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, and Abdi, and Jeremoth, and Eliah; ²⁷and of the sons of Zattu: Elioenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah, and Jeremoth, and Zabad, and Aziza; ²⁸and of the sons of Bebai: Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, Athlai; ²⁹and of the sons of Bani: Meshullam, Malluch, and Adaiah, Jashub, and Sheal, and Ramoth; ³⁰and of the sons of Pahath-Moab: Adna, and Chelai, Benaiah, Manasseh, Mattaniah, Bezaiel, and Binnui, and Manasseh; ³¹and of the sons of Harim: Eliezer, Ishijah, Malchiah, Shemaiah, Shimeon. ³²Benjamin, Malluch, Shemariah; ³³of the sons of Issachar: Mattenai, Mattathiah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manasseh, Shimei; ³⁴of the sons of Bani: Maadai, Amram, and Uel. ³⁵Benaiah, Bedeiah, Chellub, ³⁶Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliashib, ³⁷Mattaniah, Mattenai, and Jaasau, ³⁸and Bani, and Binnui, Shimei, ³⁹and Shelemiah, and Nathan, and Adaiah, ⁴⁰Maachnadebai, Shashai, Sharai, ⁴¹Azareel, and Shelemiah, Shemariah, ⁴²Shallum, Amariah, Joseph: ⁴³of the sons of Nebo: Jeiel, Mattithiah, Zabab, Zebina, Jadau, and Joel, Benaiah. ⁴⁴All these have taken strange women, and some of them have wives who adopt children.

NEHEMIAH.

CHAP. I. ¹THE WORDS OF NEHEMIAH SON OF HACHALIAH.

And it cometh to pass, in the month of Chisleu, the twentieth year, that I have been in Shushan the palace, ²and Hanani, one of my brethren, cometh in, he and certain of Judah, and I ask them concerning the Jews, the escaped party who have been left of the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem. ³And they say to me, 'They who are left, who have been left of the captivity there in the province, are in great evil, and in reproach, and the wall of Jerusalem is broken down, and its gates have been burnt with fire.'

⁴And it cometh to pass, in my hearing these words, I have sat down, and I weep and mourn for days, and fast and pray before the God of heaven, ⁵and say, 'I beseech thee, O LORD, God of heaven, God, the great and the fearful, keeping the covenant and kindness for those who love Him, and for those who keep His commands: let Thine ear, I pray Thee, be attentive, and Thine eyes open, to hearken unto the prayer of Thy servant, which I am praying before Thee to-day, by day and by night, concerning the Children of Israel Thy servants, and confessing concerning the sins of the Children of Israel, which we have sinned against Thee; yea, I and the house of my father have sinned: ⁷we have acted very corruptly against Thee, and have not kept the commands, and the statutes, and the judgments, which Thou didst command Moses Thy servant.'

⁸'Remember, I pray Thee, the word that Thou didst command Thy servant Moses, saying, Ye trespass—I scatter you among the nations: ⁹when ye have turned unto Me, and kept My commands, and done them: if your outcast is at the end of the heavens, from thence I gather them, and have brought them unto the place which I have chosen to cause My name to tabernacle there. ¹⁰And they are Thy servants, and Thy people, whom Thou hast redeemed by Thy great power, and by Thy strong hand. ¹¹I beseech Thee, O Lord, let, I pray Thee, Thine ear be attentive unto the prayer of Thy servant, and unto the prayer of Thy servants, who delight to fear Thy Name; and give prosperity, I pray Thee, to Thy servant to-day, and give him mercies before this man; seeing I have been butler to the king.'

II. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the month of Nisan, the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king, wine is before him, and I lift up the wine, and give to the king, and I had not been sad before him: ²and the king saith to me, 'Wherefore is thy countenance sad, and thou art not sick? this is nothing save sadness of heart.' and I am very much afraid, ³and say to the king, 'O king, for ever live; wherefore should not my countenance be sad, when the city, the place of the sepulchres of my fathers, is a waste, and its gates consumed with fire?'

⁴And the king saith to me, 'For what art thou seeking?' and I pray unto the God of heaven, ⁵and say to the king, 'If to the king it be good, and if thy servant be pleasing before thee, that thou send me unto Judah, unto the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, and I do build it.' ⁶And the king saith to me (the queen also sitting near him), 'How long is thy journey? and when wilt thou return?' and it is good before the king, and he sendeth me away, when I set for him a time, ⁷and say to the king, 'If to the king it be good, let letters be given to me for the governors beyond the River, that they let me pass over till I come unto Judah; ⁸and a letter unto Asaph, keeper of the paradise which the king hath, that he give to me trees for beams for the gates of the palace which the house hath, and for the wall of the city, and for the house into which I enter.' and the king giveth to me, according to the good hand of my God upon me. ⁹And I come in unto the governors beyond the River, and give to them the letters of the king: and the king sendeth with me heads of a force, and horsemen: ¹⁰and Sanballat the Horonite heareth, also Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, and it is evil to them—a great evil—that a man hath come to seek good for the Children of Israel.

¹¹And I come in unto Jerusalem, and am there three days: ¹²and I rise by night, I and a few men with me, and have not declared to any man what my God is giving unto my heart to do for Jerusalem, and there is no beast with me save the beast on which I am riding. ¹³And I go out through the gate of the valley by night, even unto the front of the fountain of the dragon, and unto the gate of the dung-hill, and am measuring about the walls of Jerusalem, which are broken down, while its gates have been consumed with fire. ¹⁴And I pass over unto the gate of the fountain, and unto the king's pool, and there is no place for the beast under me to pass over. ¹⁵And I am going up through the brook by night, and am measuring about the wall, and turn back, and come in through the gate of the valley, and turn back.

¹⁶And the prefects have not known whither I have gone, or what I am doing, yen, to the Jews, or to the priests, or to the freemen, or to the prefects, or to the rest of those who do the work, hitherto I have not declared it: ¹⁷and I say unto them, 'Ye see the evil that we are in, that Jerusalem is waste, and its gates have been burnt with fire: come and let us build the wall of Jerusalem, and let us not be any more a reproach.' ¹⁸And I declare to them the hand of my God which is good upon me, and also the words of the king that he spake to me, and they say, 'Let us rise, then have we built:' and they strengthen their hands for good.

¹⁹And Sanballat the Horonite heareth, also, Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, and Geshem the Arabian, and they mock at us, and despise us, and say, 'What is this thing that ye are doing? against the king are ye rebelling?' ²⁰And I return them word, and say unto them, 'The God of heaven—He doth give prosperity to us, and we His servants rise and have built: but to you there is no portion, or right, or memorial in Jerusalem.'

III. ¹AND Eliashib the high priest riseth, with his brethren the priests, and they build the sheep-gate: they have sanctified it, and set up its doors, even unto the tower of Meah they have sanctified it, unto the tower of Hananeel: ²and by his side have the men of Jericho built: and by their side hath Zaccur son of Imri built: ³and the fish-gate have the sons of Hassenah built, they have walled it, and set up its doors, its locks, and its bars: ⁴and by their side hath Meremoth son of Urijah, son of Koz, strengthened: and by his side hath Meshullam son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabeel, strengthened: and by his side hath Zadok son of Bana strengthened: ⁵and by his side have the Tekoites strengthened, but their honourable ones have not brought in their neck to the service of their Lord.

⁶And the old gate have Jeholada son of Paseah, and Meshullam son of Besodeiah, strengthened: they have walled it, and set up its doors, and its locks, and its bars. ⁷And by their side hath Melatiah the Gibeonite strengthened, with Jadon the Meronothite, men of Gibbon and of Mizpah, to the throne of the governor beyond the River. ⁸By his side hath Uzziel son of Harhaiah of the refiners strengthened: and by his side hath Hananiah son of one of the compounders strengthened: and they leave Jerusalem unto the broad wall. ⁹And by their side hath Rephaiah son of Hur, head of the half of a district of Jerusalem, strengthened. ¹⁰And by their side hath Jedaiiah son of Harumaph strengthened, even over-against his own house: and by his side hath Hattush son of Hashabniah strengthened.

¹¹A second measure hath Malchijah son of Harim strengthened, with Hashub son of Pahath-Moab, even the tower of the furnaces. ¹²And by his side hath Shallum son of Malohesh, head of the half of a district of Jerusalem, strengthened, he and his daughters. ¹³The gate of the valley hath Hanun strengthened, with the inhabitants of Zanoah: they have built it, and set up its doors, its locks, and its bars, and a thousand cubits in the wall unto the dung-gate.

¹⁴And the dung-gate hath Malchiah son of Rechab, head of the district of Beth-Haccerem, strengthened: he buildeth it, and setteth up its doors, its locks, and its bars.

¹⁵And the gate of the fountain hath Shallum son of Col-Hozel, head of the district of Mizpah, strengthened: he buildeth it, and covereth it, and setteth up its doors, its locks, and its bars, and the wall of the pool of Siloah, at the garden of the king, even unto the steps which go down from the city of David. ¹⁶After him hath Nehemiah son of Azbuk, head of the half of the district of Beth-Zur, strengthened, unto the front of the sepulchres of David, and unto the pool that is made, and unto the house of the mighty ones. ¹⁷After him have the Levites strengthened, with Rehun son of Bani: by his side hath Hashabiah, head of the half of the district of Keilah, strengthened, for his district. ¹⁸After him have their brethren strengthened, with Bavai son of Henadai, head of the half of the district of Keilah. ¹⁹And Ezer son of Jeshua, head of Mizpah, hath strengthened, by his side, a second measure, over-against the ascent of the armoury at the angle.

²⁰After him hath Baruch son of Zabbai hastened to strengthen a second measure, from the angle unto the opening of the house of Eliashib the high priest. ²¹After him hath Meremoth son of Urijah, son of Koz, strengthened a second measure, from the opening of the house of Eliashib even unto the completion of the house of Eliashib. ²²And after him have the priests, the men of the circuit, strengthened. ²³After them hath Benjamin strengthened, with Hashub, over-against their own house: after him hath Azariah son of Maaseiah, son of Ananiah, strengthened, near his own house. ²⁴After him hath Binui son of Henadai strengthened a second measure, from the house of Azariah unto the angle, even unto the corner.

²⁵Palal son of Uai, from over-against the angle and the tower which goeth out from the upper house of the king, which is at the court of the prison: after him Pedaiiah son of Parosh. ²⁶And the Nethinim have been dwelling in Ophel, unto the front of the water-gate at the east, and the tower that goeth out. ²⁷After him have the Tekoites strengthened a second measure, from the front of the great tower that goeth out, even unto the wall of Ophel. ²⁸From above the horse-gate have the priests strengthened, each over-against his own house. ²⁹After them hath Zadok son of Immer strengthened, over-against his own house: and after him hath Sheneiah son of Shechaniah, keeper of the east gate, strengthened. ³⁰After him hath Hananiah son of Shelemiah strengthened, with Hanun sixth son of Zalaph, a second measure: after him hath Meshullam son of Berechiah strengthened, over-against his own chamber. ³¹After him hath Malchiah son of the refiner strengthened, unto the house of the Nethinim, and of the merchants, over-against the gate of the Miphkad, and unto the ascent of the corner. ³²And between the ascent of the corner and the sheep-gate have the refiners and the merchants strengthened.

IV. ¹AND it cometh to pass, when Sanballat hath heard that we are building the wall, then it is displeasing to him, and he is very angry, and mocketh at the Jews, ²and saith before his brethren and the force of Samaria, yea, he saith, 'What are these weak Jews doing? are they left to themselves? do they sacrifice? do they complete in a day? do they revive the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish—seeing they are burnt?' ³And Tobiah the Ammonite is by him, and saith, 'Also, that which they are building—if a fox go up, then hath it broken down their stone wall.'

⁴Hear, O our God, for we have been despised; and turn back their reproach on their own head, and give them up for a spoil in the land of captivity; ⁵and cover not over their iniquity, and their sin from before Thee let not be blotted out, for they have provoked to anger over-against the builders.'

⁶And we build the wall, and all the wall is joined unto its half, and the people have a heart to work. ⁷And it cometh to pass, when Sanballat hath heard, with Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites, that a lengthening hath gone up to the walls of Jerusalem, that the breaches have begun to be stopped, then it is very displeasing to them, ⁸and they conspire, all of them together, to come to fight against Jerusalem, and to do injury to it.

⁹And we pray unto our God, and appoint a watch against them, by day and by night, because of them. ¹⁰And Judah saith, 'The power of the burden-bearers hath become feeble, and the rubbish is abundant, and we are not able to build on the wall.' ¹¹And our adversaries say, 'They shall not know, nor see, till we come into their midst, and have slain them, and caused the work to cease.' ¹²And it cometh to pass, when the Jews have come who dwell near them, that they say so to us ten times from all the places whether they return unto us.

¹³And I appoint at the lowest of the places, at the back of the wall, in the clear places, yea, I appoint the people, by their families, with their swords, their spears, and their bows. ¹⁴And I see, and rise up, and say unto the freemen, and unto the prefects, and unto the rest of the people, 'Be not afraid of them: the Lord, the great and the fearful, remember ye, and fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.'

¹⁵And it cometh to pass, when our enemies have heard that it hath been known to us, and God doth frustrate their counsel, then we turn back, all of us, unto the wall, each unto his work; ¹⁶yea, it cometh to pass, from that day, the half of my servants are working in the business, and the half of them are retaining both the spears, the shields, and the bows, and the coats of mail; and the heads are behind all the house of Judah. ¹⁷The builders on the wall, and the bearers of the burden, those who lade, each with one of his hands is working in the business, and one is laying hold of the missile. ¹⁸And the builders are each with his sword girded on his loins, and building, and he who bloweth with the trumpet is beside me.

¹⁹And I say unto the freemen, and unto the prefects, and unto the rest of the people, 'The work is abundant, and large, and we are separated on the wall, far, one from another. ²⁰In the place that ye hear the voice of the trumpet thither be ye gathered unto us; our God doth fight for us.'

²¹And we are working in the business, and the half of them are keeping hold of the spears, from the going up of the dawn till the coming out of the stars. ²²Also, at that time I have said to the people, 'Let each with his servant lodge in the midst of Jerusalem, then have they been for us by night a guard, and by day for the work.' ²³and none of us, I or my brethren, or my servants, or the men of the guard who are after me, are putting off our garments; each hath his vessel of water.

V. ¹AND there is a great cry of the people and their wives, concerning their brethren the Jews, ²yea, there are who say, 'Our sons, and our daughters, we,—are many, and we receive corn, and eat, and live.' ³And there are who say, 'Our fields, and our vineyards, and our houses, we are pledging, and we receive corn for the famine.' ⁴And there are who say, 'We have borrowed money for the tribute of the king, on our fields, and our vineyards; ⁵and now, as the flesh of our brethren is our flesh, as their sons are our sons, yet lo, we are subduing our sons and our daughters for servants, yea, there are some of our daughters subdued, and our hand hath no might, and our fields and our vineyards are to others.'

⁶And it is very displeasing to me when I have heard their cry and these words, ⁷and I consult my heart for me, and I strive with the freemen, and with the prefects, and say to them, 'Usury one with another ye are exacting;' and I set against them a great congregation, ⁸and say to them, 'We have acquired our brethren, the Jews, who were sold to the nations, according to the ability that is in us, yet ye also sell your brethren, and they have been sold to us;' and they keep silent, and have not found a word.

⁹And I say, 'Not good is the thing that ye are doing: in the fear of our God should ye not walk, because of the reproach of the nations our enemies?' ¹⁰And also, I, my brethren, and my servants, are exacting of them silver and corn: let us leave off, I pray you, this usury. ¹¹Give back, I pray you, to them, as to-day, their fields, their vineyards, their olive-yards, and their houses, and the hundredth part of the money, and of the corn, of the new wine, and of the oil, that ye are exacting of them.'

¹² And they say, 'We will give back, and of them we will seek nothing: so will we do as thou art saying.' And I call the priests, and cause them to swear to do according to this thing. ¹³ Also, my lap I have shaken, and I say, 'Thus let God shake out every man, who doth not perform this thing, from his house, and from his labour: yea, thus let him be shaken out and empty: and all the congregation say, 'Amen,' and praise the Lord; and the people do according to this thing.

¹⁴ Also, from the day that he appointed me to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year even unto the thirty and second year of Artaxerxes the king—twelve years—I, and my brethren, the bread of the governor have not eaten: ¹⁵ yet the former governors who are before me have made themselves heavy on the people, and take of them in bread and wine, besides in silver forty shekels: also, their servants have ruled over the people, but I have not done so, because of the fear of God. ¹⁶ And also, in the work of this wall I have done mightily, even a field we have not bought, and all my servants are gathered there for the work. ¹⁷ And of the Jews, and of the prefects, a hundred and fifty men, and they who come in unto us of the nations that are round about us, are at my table. ¹⁸ And that which hath been prepared for a day is one ox, six fat sheep, fowls also have been prepared for me, and once in ten days of all wines abundantly, yet with this the bread of the governor I have not sought, for heavy is the service on this people. ¹⁹ 'Remember for me, O my God, for good, all that I have done for this people.'

VI. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, when it hath been heard by Sanballat, and Tobiah, and by Geshem the Arabian, and by the rest of our enemies, that I have builded the wall, that there hath not been left a breach in it, also, till that time the doors I had not set up at the gates, ² that Sanballat sendeth, with Geshem, unto me, saying, 'Come and let us meet together in the villages, in the valley of Ono:' and they are thinking to do evil to me. ³ And I send unto them messengers, saying, 'A great work am I doing, and I am not able to come down: why should the work cease when I let it alone, and have come down unto you?' ⁴ and they send unto me, according to this word, four times, and I return them according to this word.

⁵ And Sanballat sendeth unto me, according to this word, a fifth time, his servant, and an open letter in his hand: ⁶ in it is written, 'Among the nations it hath been heard, and Gashmu saith: Thou and the Jews are thinking of rebelling, therefore thou art building the wall, and thou hast been to them for a king, according to these words. ⁷ And also, prophets thou hast appointed to cry for thee in Jerusalem, saying, A king is in Judah, and now it is heard by the king according to these words: and now come, and let us take counsel together.'

⁸ And I send unto him, saying, 'It hath not been according to these words which thou sayest, for from thine own heart thou art devising them, ⁹ for all of them are making us afraid, saying, Their hands are too feeble for the work, and it is not done; and now, strengthen my hands.'

¹⁰ And I have entered the house of She-maiah son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabeel: and he is restrained, and he saith, 'Let us meet together at the house of God, at the inside of the temple, and let us shut the doors of the temple, for they are coming to slay thee; yea, by night they are coming to slay thee.' ¹¹ And I say, 'Such a man as I, shall he flee? and who as I, that would go in unto the temple, and live?—I will not go in.'

¹² And I discern, and lo, God hath not sent him, for in the prophecy he hath spoken unto me Tobiah and Sanballat hired him: ¹³ so that he is an hireling, that I may fear and do so, then had I sinned, and it had been to them for an evil name that they might reproach me. ¹⁴ Be mindful, O my God, of Tobiah, and of Sanballat, according to these his works, and also, of Noadiah the prophetess, and of the rest of the prophets who have been making me afraid.'

¹⁵ And the wall is completed in the twenty and fifth of Elul, at the fifty and second day: ¹⁶ and it cometh to pass, when all our enemies have heard, and all the nations who are round about us see, that they fall greatly in their own eyes, and know that by our God hath this work been done.

¹⁷ Also, in those days a multitude of the freemen of Judah, their letters are going unto Tobiah, and those of Tobiah are coming unto them: ¹⁸ for many in Judah are swearing to him, for he is son-in-law to Shechaniah son of Arah, and Johanan his son hath taken the daughter of Meshullam son of Berechiah: ¹⁹ also, his good deeds they have been telling before me, and my words they have been taking out to him: letters hath Tobiah sent to make me afraid.

VII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, when the wall hath been built, that I set up the doors, and the gatekeepers are appointed, and the singers, and the Levites: ² and I charge Hanani my brother, and Hananiah head of the palace, concerning Jerusalem (for he is a man of truth, and fearing God above many), ³ and I say to them 'Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened till the heat of the sun, and while they are standing by let them shut the doors, and fasten, and appoint guards of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, each in his guard, and each over-against his own house.' ⁴ And the city is broad on both sides, and great, and the people are few in its midst, and there are no houses builded; ⁵ and my God putteth it unto my heart, and I gather the freemen, and the prefects, and the people, for the genealogy: and I find a book of the genealogy of those who come up at the beginning, and I find written in it:—

salem and to Judah, each to his city; ⁷ who come in with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah.

The number of the men of the people of Israel: ⁸ the children of Parosh: two thousand a hundred and seventy and two; ⁹ the children of Shephatiah: three hundred seventy and two; ¹⁰ the children of Arah: six hundred fifty and two; ¹¹ the children of Pahath-Moab: of the children of Jeshua and Joab: two thousand and eight hundred eighteen; ¹² the children of Elam: a thousand two hundred fifty and four; ¹³ the children of Zattu: eight hundred forty and five; ¹⁴ the children of Zaccai: seven hundred and threescore; ¹⁵ the children of Binnui: six hundred forty and eight; ¹⁶ the children of Bebai: six hundred twenty and eight; ¹⁷ the children of Azgad: two thousand three hundred twenty and two; ¹⁸ the children of Adonikam: six hundred sixty and seven; ¹⁹ the children of Bigvai: two thousand sixty and seven; ²⁰ the children of Adin: six hundred fifty and five; ²¹ the children of Ater of Hezekiah: ninety and eight; ²² the children of Hashum: three hundred twenty and eight; ²³ the children of Bezai: three hundred twenty and four; ²⁴ the children of Hariph: a hundred and twelve; ²⁵ the children of Gibeon: ninety and five; ²⁶ the men of Beth-Lehem and Netophah: a hundred eighty and eight; ²⁷ the men of Anathoth: a hundred twenty and eight; ²⁸ the men of Beth-Azmaveth: forty and two; ²⁹ the men of Kirjath-Jearim, Chephirah and Beeroth: seven hundred forty and three; ³⁰ the men of Ramah and Gaba: six hundred twenty and one; ³¹ the men of Michmas: a hundred and twenty and two; ³² the men of Bethel and Ai: a hundred twenty and three; ³³ the men of the other Nebbi: fifty and two; ³⁴ the children of the other Elam: a thousand two hundred fifty and four; ³⁵ the children of Harim: three hundred and twenty; ³⁶ the children of Jericho: three hundred forty and five; ³⁷ the children of Lod, Hadid, and Ono: seven hundred and twenty and one; ³⁸ the children of Senaah: three thousand nine hundred and thirty.

⁴⁴ The singers: the children of Asaph: a hundred forty and eight.

⁶⁶ All the congregation together is four myriad two thousand three hundred and sixty, ⁶⁷ apart from their servants and their handmaids; these are seven thousand three hundred thirty and seven; and of them are singing men and singing women, two hundred and forty and five. ⁶⁸ Their horses are seven hundred thirty and six; their nags, two hundred and forty and five; ⁶⁹ camels, four hundred thirty and five; asses, six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

seven. ⁷² And they dwell—the priests, and the Levites, and the gate-keepers, and the singers, and some of the people, and the Nethinim, even all Israel—in their cities, and the seventh month cometh, and the Children of Israel are in their cities.

VIII. ¹ AND all the people are gathered as one man unto the broad place which is before the water-gate, and they say to Ezra to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the LORD commanded Israel. ² And Ezra the priest bringeth the law before the congregation, both of men and women, and every one intelligent to hear, on the first day of the seventh month. ³ And readeth in it before the broad place which is before the water-gate, from the light till the middle of the day, over-against the men, and the women, and those who are intelligent: and the ears of all the people are unto the book of the law.

⁷ And Jeshua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maaseiah, Keltai, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pehaiiah, and the Levites, are giving the people understanding in the law, and the people are on their station. ⁸ And they read in the book, in the law of God, explaining so as to give the meaning, and they give understanding to the convocation.

⁹ And Nehemiah, who is the Tirshatha, saith (with Ezra the priest, the scribe, and the Levites who instruct the people) to all the people, 'To-day is holy to the LORD your God, mourn not, nor weep:' for all the people are weeping at their hearing the words of the law. ¹⁰ And he saith to them, 'Go, eat the fat things, and drink the sweet things, and send portions to him for whom nothing is prepared, for to-day is holy to our Lord, and be not grieved, for the joy of the LORD is your strength.'

¹¹ And the Levites are keeping all the people silent, saying, 'Be silent, for to-day is holy, and be not grieved.' ¹² And all the people go to eat, and to drink, and to send portions, and to make great joy, because they understood the words which they made known to them.

manded by the hand of Moses, that the Children of Israel dwell in booths in the feast, in the seventh month, ¹⁵ and that they proclaim and cause an intimation to pass over through all their cities, 'and through Jerusalem,' saying, 'Go out to the mount, and bring leaves of the olive, and leaves of the oil tree, and leaves of the myrtle, and leaves of the palms, and leaves of thick trees, to make booths as written.'

¹⁶ And the people go out, and bring in, and make for themselves booths, each on his roof, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the broad place of the water-gate, and in the broad place of the gate of Ephraim. ¹⁷ And they make—all the congregation of the captives of the captivity—booths, and they sit in the booths; for from the days of Jeshua son of Nun the Children of Israel had not done so unto that day, and there is very great joy. ¹⁸ And he readeth in the book of the law of God day by day, from the first day till the last day, and they make a feast seven days, and on the eighth day a restraint, according to the ordinance.

IX. ¹ AND in the twenty and fourth day of this month have the Children of Israel been gathered, with fasting, and with sack-clothes, and earth upon them. ² And the seed of Israel are separated from all the sons of the stranger, and stand and confess concerning their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers, ³ and rise up on their station, and read in the book of the law of the LORD their God a fourth of the day, and a fourth they are confessing and bowing themselves to the LORD their God. ⁴ And there stand up on the ascent, of the Levites, Jeshua, and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, Chenani, and they cry with a loud voice unto the LORD their God.

⁵ And the Levites say, cren Jeshua, and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, Pethahiah, 'Rise, bless the LORD your God, from age to age, and let them bless the name of Thine honour which is exalted above all blessing and praise. ⁶ Thou art He, O LORD, Thyself—Thou hast made the heavens, the heavens of heavens, and all their host, the earth and all that are on it, the seas and all that are in them, and Thou keepest all of them alive, and the host of the heavens are to Thee bowing themselves.

⁷ Thou art He, O LORD God, who didst fix on Abraham, and broughtest him out from Ur of the Chaldeans, and didst make his name Abraham, ⁸ and didst find his heart steadfast before Thee, so as to make with him the covenant, to give the land of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite, and the Gergashite, to give it to his seed; and dost establish Thy words, for Thou art righteous, ⁹ and dost see the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and their cry hath heard by the Red sea, ¹⁰ and dost give signs and wonders on Pharaoh, and on all his servants, and on all the people of his land, for Thou hast known that they have acted proudly against them, and Thou makest to Thyself a name as at this day.

¹³ And on mount Sinai Thou hast come down, even to speak with them from the heavens, and to give to them right judgments, and true laws, good statutes and commands. ¹⁴ And Thy holy sabbath Thou hast made known to them, and commands, and statutes, and law Thou hast commanded for them, by the hand of Moses Thy servant; ¹⁵ and bread from the heavens Thou hast given to them for their hunger, and water from the rock hast brought out to them for their thirst, and dost say to them to go in to possess the land which Thou hast lifted up Thy hand to give to them.

²² And Thou givest to them kingdoms, and peoples, and dost apportion them to the corner, and they possess the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan. ²³ And their children Thou hast multiplied as the stars of the heavens, and bringest them in unto the land which Thou hast said to their fathers to go in to possess.

digged wells, vineyards, and olive-yards and fruit-trees in abundance; and they eat, and are satisfied, and become fat, and delight themselves in Thy great goodness.

²⁸ And when they have rest, they turn back to do evil before Thee, and Thou dost leave them in the hand of their enemies, and they rule over them; and they turn back, and call Thee, and Thou from the heavens dost hear, and dost deliver them, according to Thy mercies, many times, ²⁹ and dost testify against them, to bring them back unto Thy law; and they have acted proudly, and have not hearkened to Thy commands, but against Thy judgments have sinned, (which a man doth and liveth in them,) and give the refractory shoulder, and their neck have hardened, and have not hearkened; ³⁰ and Thou drawest over them many years, and testifiest against them by Thy Spirit, by the hand of Thy prophets, but they have not given ear, and Thou dost give them into the hand of the peoples of the lands; ³¹ yet, in Thine abundant mercies Thou hast not made them a consumption, nor hast forsaken them, for a God, gracious and merciful, art Thou.

³² And now, O our God—God, the great, the mighty, and the fearful, keeping the covenant and the kindness—let not all the travail that hath found us be little before Thee, for our kings, for our heads, and for our priests, and for our prophets, and for our fathers, and for all Thy people, from the days of the kings of Asshur unto this day: ³³ and Thou art just concerning all that hath come upon us, for truth Thou hast done, but we have done wickedly; ³⁴ and our kings, our heads, our priests, and our fathers have not done thy law, nor attended unto Thy commands, and to Thy testimonies, which Thou hast testified against them; ³⁵ and they, in their kingdom, and in Thine abundant goodness, which Thou hast given to them, and in the large and the fat land which Thou hast set before them, have not served Thee, nor turned back from their evil doings.

³⁶ Lo, we—to-day—are servants; and the land which Thou hast given to our fathers, to eat its fruit and its good—lo, we are servants on it, ³⁷ and its increase it is multiplying to the kings whom Thou hast set over us in our sins; and over our bodies they are ruling, and over our cattle, according to their good pleasure, and we are in great distress. ³⁸ And for all this we are making a stedfast covenant, and writing, and over him who is sealed are our heads, our Levites, and our priests.

X. ¹AND over those who are sealed are Nehemiah the Tirshatha, son of Hachaliah, and Zulkijah, ²Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah, ³Pashur, Amariah, Malchijah, ⁴Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch, ⁵Harim, Meremoth, Obadiah, ⁶Daniel, Ginnethion, Baruch, ⁷Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin, ⁸Maaziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah: these are the priests.

⁹And the Levites: both Jesua son of Azaniah, Binnui of the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel; ¹⁰and their brethren: Shebaniah, Hodijah, Kelita, Pelajiah, Hanan, ¹¹Micha, Rehob, Hashabiah, ¹²Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, ¹³Hodijah, Bani, Beninu.

¹⁴The heads of the people: Parosh, Pahath-Moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, ¹⁵Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, ¹⁶Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, ¹⁷Ater, Hizkijah, Azzur, ¹⁸Hodijah, Hashum, Bezai, ¹⁹Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, ²⁰Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, ²¹Meshezabeel, Zadok, Jaddua, ²²Pelatiah, Hanan, Ananiah, ²³Hoshea, Hananiah, Hashub, ²⁴Hallohesh, Pileha, Shobek, ²⁵Rehum, Hashabnah, Maseiah, ²⁶and Ahijah, Hanan, Anan, ²⁷Malluch, Harim, Baanah.

²⁸And the rest of the people, the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the Nethinim, and every one who hath been separated from the peoples of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every knowing intelligent one, ²⁹are laying hold on their brethren, their honourable ones, and coming into an excommunication, and into an oath, to walk in the law of God, which hath been given by the hand of Moses the servant of God, and to observe and to do all the commands of the LORD our God, and His judgments, and His statutes: ³⁰and that we give not our daughters to the peoples of the land, and their daughters we take not for our sons: ³¹and the peoples of the land who are bringing in wares or any corn on the sabbath-day to sell, we receive not of them on the sabbath, or on a holy day, and we leave the seventh year, and usury on every hand.

³²And we have appointed for ourselves commands, putting on ourselves the third of a shekel in the year, for the service of the house of our God, ³³for the bread of the arrangement, and the continual offering, and the continual burnt-offering of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the appointed seasons, and for the holy things, and for the sin-offerings, to make an atonement for Israel, even all the work of the house of our God.

³⁴And the lots have we caused to fall for the offering of wood, among the priests, the Levites, and the people, to bring in to the house of our God, by the house of our fathers, at times appointed, year by year, to burn on the altar of the LORD our God, as written in the law, ³⁵and to bring in the first fruits of our ground, and the first fruits of all fruit of every tree, year by year, to the house of the LORD, ³⁶and the firstlings of our sons, and of our cattle, as written in the law, and the firstlings of our herds and our flocks, to bring into the house of our God, to the priests who are ministering in the house of our God.

³⁷And the beginning of our dough, and our heave-offerings, and the fruit of every tree, of new wine, and of oil, we bring to the priests, unto the chambers of the house of our God, and the tithe of our ground to the Levites; and they—the Levites—have the tithes in all the cities of our service; ³⁸and the priest, the son of Aaron, hath been with the Levites in the tithing of the Levites, and the Levites bring up the tithe of the tithe to the house of our God, unto the chambers, to the treasure-house; ³⁹for unto the chambers do they bring in—the Children of Israel and the children of Levi—the heave-offering of the corn, the new wine, and the oil, and there are the vessels of the sanctuary, and the priests who minister, and the gatekeepers, and the singers, and we do not forsake the house of our God.

XI. ¹AND the heads of the people dwell in Jerusalem, and the rest of the people have cast lots to bring in one out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine parts in the cities; ²and the people give a blessing to all the men who offer themselves willingly to dwell in Jerusalem.

³And these are the heads of the province, who have dwelt in Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, they have dwelt each in his possession in their cities: Israel, the priests, and the Levites, and the Nethinim, and the children of the servants of Solomon.

⁴And in Jerusalem have dwelt some of the Children of Judah, and of the Children of Benjamin. Of the Children of Judah: Athaiah son of Uziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahaleel, of the children of Perez; ⁵and Maseiah son of Baruch, son of Col-Hozai, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of Shiloni; ⁶all the sons of Perez who are dwelling in Jerusalem are four hundred sixty and eight, men of valour.

⁷And these are the children of Benjamin: Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joel, son of Pedaiiah, son of Kolaiiah, son of Maseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jesaiah; ⁸and after him Gabbai, Sallai, nine hundred twenty and eight. ⁹And Joel son of Zichri is inspector over them, and Judah son of Sennah is over the city—second.

¹⁰Of the priests: Jedaiah son of Joiarib, Jachin, ¹¹Seraiah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, is leader of the house of God; ¹²and their brethren doing the work of the house are eight hundred twenty and two; and Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashur, son of Malchiah, ¹³and his brethren, heads of the fathers, two hundred forty and two; and Amashai son of Azareel, son of Alasai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer, ¹⁴and their brethren mighty of valour, a hundred twenty and eighty; and the inspector over them is Zabbai, son of one of the great men.

¹⁶ And of the Levites: Shemaiah son of Hashub, son of Azrikim, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni, ¹⁷ and Shabbethai, and Zobab, are over the outward work of the house of God, of the heads of the Levites, ¹⁸ and Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, is head, at the commencement he giveth thanks in prayer, ¹⁹ and Bakkukiah is second among his brethren, and Abda son of Shammun, son of Galai, son of Jeduthun. ²⁰ All the Levites, in the holy city, are two hundred eighty and four.

²¹ And the gatekeepers, Akkub, Talmon, and their brethren, who watch at the gates, are a hundred seventy and two.

XII. ¹ AND these are the priests and the Levites who have come up with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, ² Amariah, Malluch, Hattush, ³ Shechaniah, Ichem, Meremoth, ⁴ Iddo, Ginnetho, Abijah, ⁵ Mianin, Maadiah, Bilgah, ⁶ Sheumai, and Joarib, Jedaiah, ⁷ Salai, Amok, Hilkiyah, Jedaiah; these are the heads of the priests and of their brethren in the days of Jeshua.

¹⁰ And Jeshua hath begotten Joiakim, and Joiakim hath begotten Eliashib, and Eliashib hath begotten Joiada, ¹¹ and Joiada hath begotten Jonathan, and Jonathan hath begotten Jaddua.

¹² And in the days of Joiakim have been priests, heads of the fathers: of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah; ¹³ of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan; ¹⁴ of Melicu, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph; ¹⁵ of Harim, Adna; of Merioth, Helkai; ¹⁶ of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam; ¹⁷ of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin; of Moaddiah, Piltai; ¹⁸ of Bilgah, Shammua; of Sheumai, Jehonathan; ¹⁹ and of Joarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi; ²⁰ of Salai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber; ²¹ of Hilkiyah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethaneel.

²² The Levites, in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, and Johanan, and Jaddua, are written heads of the fathers, and of the priests, in the kingdom of Darius the Persian.

²⁵ Mattaniah, and Bakkukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, Akkub, are gatekeepers, keeping charge in the gatherings of the gates.

over-against them, they have gone up by the steps of the city of David, at the going up of the wall beyond the house of David, even unto the water-gate eastward.

³⁸And the second thanksgiving company which goeth over-against, and I after it, and the half of the people on the wall from beyond the tower of the furnaces even unto the broad wall, ³⁹and from beyond the gate of Ephraim, and by the old-gate, and by the fish-gate, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, even unto the sheep-gate, have even stood still in the prison-gate.

⁴⁰And the two thanksgiving companies stand in the house of God, and I and the half of the prefects with me, ⁴¹and the priests, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, with trumpets, ⁴²and Maaseiah, and Shemaiah, and Eleazar, and Uzzi, and Jehohanan, and Malchijah, and Elani, and Ezer; and the singers sound, with Jezrahiah the inspector: ⁴³and they sacrifice on that day great sacrifices, and rejoice, for God hath made them rejoice with great joy, and also, the women and the children have rejoiced, and the joy of Jerusalem is heard unto a distance.

⁴⁴And certain are appointed on that day over the chambers for the treasures, for the heave-offerings, for the first fruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them out of the fields of the cities the portions of the law for the priests, and for the Levites, for the joy of Judah is over the priests, and over the Levites who stand up. ⁴⁵And the singers and the gatekeepers keep the charge of their God, even the charge of cleansing—according to the command of David and Solomon his son: ⁴⁶for in the days of David and Asaph of old were heads of the singers, and songs of praise and thanksgiving to God.

⁴⁷And all Israel in the days of Zerubbabel, and in the days of Nehemiah, are giving the portions of the singers, and of the gatekeepers, the matter of a day in its day, and sanctifying to the Levites, and the Levites are sanctifying to the Children of Aaron.

XIII. ¹ON that day hath he read in the book of Moses, in the ears of the people, and it hath been found written in it that an Ammonite or Moabite shall not come into the congregation of God for ever. ²because they have not come before the Children of Israel with bread and with water, and hire against them Balaam to revile them, but our God turneth the reviling into a blessing. ³And it cometh to pass, at their hearing the law, that they separate all the mixed people from Israel.

⁴But before this Eliashib the priest, appointed over the chambers of the house of our God, is a relation of Tobiah, ⁵and perpareth for him a great chamber, and there they were formerly putting the offering, the frankincense, and the vessels, and the tithe of the corn, the new wine, and the oil, (the commanded things of the Levites, and the singers, and the gatekeepers,) and the heave-offering of the priests.

⁶And during all this I have not been in Jerusalem, for in the thirty and second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon did I come unto the king, and at the end of the days I have asked of the king, ⁷and I come to Jerusalem, and understand of the evil that Eliashib hath done for Tobiah, by preparing for him a chamber in the courts of the house of God, ⁸and it is displeasing to me, and I cast all the vessels of the house of Tobiah without, out of the chamber, ⁹and I speak, and they cleanse the chambers, and I bring back there the vessels of the house of God with the offering and the frankincense.

¹⁰And I know that the portions of the Levites have not been given, and they flee each to his field—the Levites and the singers, who do the work. ¹¹And I strive with the prefects, and say, 'Wherefore hath the house of God been forsaken?' and I gather them and set them on their station. ¹²And all Judah have brought in the tithe of the corn, and of the new wine, and of the oil, to the treasures. ¹³And I appoint treasurers over the treasures, Shelemiah the priest, and Zadok the scribe: and of the Levites, Pedaliah; and by their side is Hanan son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah; for they have been reckoned stedfast, and on them to give a portion to their brethren.

¹⁴'Be mindful of me, O my God, for this, and blot not out my kindnesses which I have done, for the house of my God, and for its charges.'

¹⁵In those days I have seen in Judah some treading wine-vats on the sabbath, and bringing in the sheaves, and lading on the asses, and also, wine, grapes, and figs, and every kind of burden, yea, they are bringing in to Jerusalem on the sabbath-day, and I testify in the day of their selling provision. ¹⁶And they of Tyre have dwelt in it, bringing in fish, and every kind of wares, and selling on the sabbath to the Children of Judah and in Jerusalem.

¹⁷And I strive with the freemen of Judah, and say to them, 'What is this evil thing that ye are doing, and polluting the sabbath-day?' ¹⁸Did not your fathers do thus? and our God bringeth in all this evil on us, and on all this city, and ye are adding fierceness on Israel, by polluting the sabbath.'

¹⁹And it cometh to pass, when the gates of Jerusalem have been dark before the sabbath, that I speak, and the gates are shut, and I say, that they shall not open them till after the sabbath; and some of my servants I have stationed at the gates; no burden cometh in on the sabbath-day.

²⁰And they lodge—the merchants and the sellers of all kinds of ware—at the outside of Jerusalem, once or twice, ²¹and I testify against them, and say unto them, 'Wherefore are ye lodging over-against the wall? if ye repeat it, a hand I will put on you;' from that time they have not come on the sabbath.

²²And I say to the Levites, that they should be cleansed, and coming in, keeping the gates, to sanctify the sabbath-day. 'Also, this, remember for me, O my God, and have pity on me, according to the abundance of Thy kindness.

²³Also, in those days, I have seen the Jews who have settled women of Ashdod, of Ammon, of Moab. ²⁴And of their children the half are speaking Ashdoditish, and do not know to speak Jewish, but according to the language of each people. ²⁵And I strive with them, and declare them vile, and smite certain of them, and pluck off their hair, and cause them to swear by God, 'Ye shall not give your daughters to their sons, nor take of their daughters to your sons, or to yourselves.' ²⁶By these did not Solomon king of Israel sin? yet, among the many nations there was no king like him, who hath been beloved by his God, and God maketh him king over all Israel—even him the strange women have caused to sin. ²⁷And to you shall we hearken to do all this great evil, to trespass against our God, to settle strange women?

²⁸And one of the sons of Joiada son of Elinshib the high priest, is son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite, and I cause him to flee from me. ²⁹'Be mindful of them, O my God, for the defilings of the priesthood, and of the covenant of the priesthood, and of the Levites.'

³⁰And I have cleansed them from every stranger, and appoint charges to the priests and to the Levites, each for his work, ³¹and for the wood-offering at the appointed times, and for the first-fruits. 'Be mindful of me, O my God, for good.'

ESTHER.

CHAP. I. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the days of Ahasuerus (he is Ahasuerus who reigneth from Hodu even unto Cush—seven and twenty and a hundred provinces), ²in those days, at the sitting of king Ahasuerus on the throne of his kingdom, which is in Shushan the palace, ³in the third year of his reign, he hath made a banquet to all his heads and his servants; the might of Persia and Media, the chiefs and heads of the provinces are before him, ⁴in his shewing the wealth of the honour of his kingdom, and the glory of the beauty of his greatness, many days—eighty and a hundred days.

⁵And at the fulness of these days hath the king made for all the people who are found in Shushan the palace, both great and small, a banquet, seven days, in the court of the garden of the house of the king, ⁶(where are hangings of white linen, white cotton, and blue, fastened with cords of fine linen and purple to rings of silver, and pillars of marble, the couches of gold, and of silver, on a pavement of smaragdus, and white marble, and mother-of-pearl, and black marble; ⁷and giving drink in vessels of gold, and the vessels are divers vessels, and the royal wine is abundant, as a memorial of the king. ⁸And the drinking is according to the law, none is pressing, for so hath the king appointed for every chief one of his house, to do according to the good pleasure of every man.

⁹Also, Vashti the queen hath made a banquet for the women, in the royal house which king Ahasuerus hath.

¹⁰On the seventh day, as the heart of the king is glad with wine, he hath said to Memucan, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the seven eunuchs who minister in the presence of the king Ahasuerus, ¹¹to bring in Vashti the queen before the king, with the royal crown, to shew the people and the heads her beauty, for she is of good appearance; ¹²and the queen Vashti refuseth to come in at the word of the king, which is by the hand of the princes, and the king is very wroth, and his fury hath burned in him.

¹³And the king saith to the wise men, knowing the times for so is the word of the king before all who know law and judgment, ¹⁴and he who is near unto him is Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, Memucan, seven heads of Persia and Media seeing the face of the king, who sit first in the kingdom, ¹⁵'According to law what—to do with queen Vashti, for she hath not done the saying of king Ahasuerus by the hand of the eunuchs?'

¹⁶And Memucan saith before the king and the heads, 'Not against the king by himself hath Vashti the queen done perversely, but against all the heads, and against all the peoples that are in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus; ¹⁷for the word of the queen doth go out unto all the women, rendering their husbands contemptible, by their saying, 'The king Ahasuerus said to bring in Vashti the queen before him, and she did not come; ¹⁸yea, this day do the princesses of Persia and Media, who have heard the word of the queen, say so to all the heads of the king, even according to the sufficiency of contempt and of wrath. ¹⁹If to the king it be good, let a royal word go out from before him, and let it be written with the laws of Persia and Media, and let it not pass away, that Vashti come not in before the king Ahasuerus, and her royalty let the king give to her companion who is better than she; ²⁰and the sentence of the king which he maketh hath been heard in all his kingdom (for it is great), and all the wives give honour to their husbands, both to great and small.'

²¹And the thing is good in the eyes of the king, and of the princes, and the king doth according to the word of Memucan, ²²and sendeth letters unto all the provinces of the king, unto every province according to its writing, and unto every people according to its tongue, for every man being head in his own house; and speaking according to the language of his people.

II. ¹AFTER these things, at the ceasing of the fury of the king Ahasuerus, he hath remembered Vashti, and that which she did, and that which had been decreed concerning her: ²and the servants of the king, his ministers, say, 'Let them seek for the king young women, virgins, of good appearance, ³and let the king appoint inspectors in all the provinces of his kingdom, and let them gather every young woman (virgins, of good appearance), unto Shushan the palace, unto the house of the women, unto the hand of Heghe the king's eunuch, keeper of the women; also, to give their purifications; and let the young woman who is good in the eyes of the king reign instead of Vashti: and the thing is good in the eyes of the king, and he doth so.

⁴There hath been a man, a Jew, in Shushan the palace, and his name is Mordecai son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a Benjaminite, ⁵who had been removed from Jerusalem with the removal which was removed with Jeconiah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon removed, ⁶and he is supporting Hadassah (who is Esther), daughter of his uncle, for she hath neither father nor mother, and the young woman is of fair form, and of good appearance, and at the death of her father and her mother Mordecai hath taken her to himself for a daughter.

⁸And it cometh to pass, in the word of the king, even his law, being heard, and in many young women being gathered unto Shushan the palace, unto the hand of Hegai, that Esther is taken unto the house of the king, unto the hand of Hegai keeper of the women; ⁹and the young woman is good in his eyes, and she received kindness before him, and he hasteneth her purifications and her portions—to give to her, with the seven young women who are provided—to give to her, from the house of the king, and he changeth her and her young women to a good place in the house of the women.

¹⁰Esther hath not declared her people or her kindred, for Mordecai had laid a charge on her that she should not declare it; ¹¹and during every day Mordecai is walking up and down before the court of the house of the women to know the welfare of Esther, and what is done with her.

¹²And in the drawing nigh of the turn of every young woman to come in unto the king Ahasuerus, at the end of there being to her (according to the law of the women) twelve months, for thus they fulfil the days of their purifications; six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with spices, and with the purifications of women: ¹³and with this the young woman hath come unto the king: all that she saith is given to her, to go in with her, out of the house of the women, unto the house of the king: ¹⁴in the evening she hath gone in, and in the morning she hath turned back unto the second house of the women, unto the hand of Shashtgaz the king's eunuch, keeper of the concubines; she cometh not in any more unto the king except the king hath delighted in her, and she hath been called by name.

¹⁵And in the drawing nigh of the turn of Esther (daughter of Abihail, uncle of Mordecai, whom he had taken to himself for a daughter), to come in unto the king, she hath not sought anything save that which Hegai the king's eunuch, keeper of the women, saith, and Esther is receiving grace in the eyes of all who see her.

¹⁶And Esther is taken unto the king Ahasuerus, unto his royal house, in the tenth month, which is the month of Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign: ¹⁷and the king loveth Esther above all the women, and she receiveth grace and kindness before him above all the virgins, and he setteth the royal crown on her head, and causeth her to reign instead of Vashti: ¹⁸and the king maketh a great banquet to all his heads and his servants—the banquet of Esther—and hath made a release to the provinces, and giveth gifts as a memorial of the king.

¹⁹And in the virgins being gathered a second time, then Mordecai is sitting in the gate of the king: ²⁰Esther is not declaring her kindred or her people, as Mordecai had laid a charge on her; and the saying of Mordecai Esther is doing as when she was truly with him.

²¹In those days, when Mordecai is sitting in the gate of the king, hath Bigthan been wroth, with Teresh, (two of the king's eunuchs, of the keepers of the threshold, and they seek to put forth a hand on king Ahasuerus; ²²and the thing is known to Mordecai, and he declareth it to Esther the queen, and Esther speaketh to the king in the name of Mordecai: ²³and the thing is sought out, and found, and they are both hanged on a tree; and it is written in the book of the Chronicles before the king.

III. ¹AFTER these things hath king Ahasuerus exalted Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, and lifteth him up, and setteth his throne above all the heads who are with him; ²and all the servants of the king, who are in the gate of the king, are bowing and doing obeisance to Haman, for so hath the king commanded for him: but Mordecai doth not bow nor do obeisance.

³And the servants of the king, who are in the gate of the king, say to Mordecai, 'Wherefore art thou transgressing the command of the king?' ⁴And it cometh to pass, in their speaking unto him, day by day, that he hath not hearkened unto them, and they declare it to Haman, to see whether the words of Mordecai will stand, for he hath declared to them that he is a Jew.

⁵And Haman seeth that Mordecai is not bowing and doing obeisance to him, and Haman is full of fury: ⁶and it is contemptible in his eyes to put forth a hand on Mordecai by himself, for they have declared to him the people of Mordecai; and Haman seeketh to destroy all the Jews who are in all the kingdom of Ahasuerus—the people of Mordecai.

⁷In the first month, which is the month of Nisan, in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus, hath one cast Pur (that is the lot) before Haman, from day to day, and from month to month, to the twelfth, which is the month of Adar.

⁸And Haman saith unto the king Ahasuerus, 'There is one people scattered and separated among the peoples, in all the provinces of thy kingdom, and their laws are diverse from all people, and the laws of the king they are not doing, and for the king it is not profitable to suffer them. ⁹If to the king it be good, let it be written to destroy them, and ten thousand talents of silver I weigh into the hands of those who do the work, to bring it in unto the treasures of the king.' ¹⁰And the king turneth aside his signet from off his hand, and giveth it to Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the adversary of the Jews. ¹¹And the king saith to Haman, 'The silver is given to thee, and the people, to do with it as it is good in thine eyes.'

¹²And the scribes of the king are called, on the first month, on the thirteenth day of it, and it is written according to all that Haman hath commanded, unto the lieutenants of the king, and unto the governors, who are over every province, and unto the heads of every people of every province, according to its writing, and every people according to its tongue, in the name of the king Ahasuerus, it is written, and sealed with the signet of the king, ¹³even letters to be sent by the hand of the runners unto all the provinces of the king, to cut off, to slay, and to destroy all the Jews, both young and old, infants and women, on one day, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, and to seize their spoil; ¹⁴a copy of the writing to be made law in every province is revealed to all the peoples, to be ready for this day. ¹⁵The runners have gone out, hastened by the word of the king, and the law hath been given in Shushan the palace; and the king and Haman have sat down to drink, but the city Shushan is perplexed.

IV. ¹AND Mordecai hath known all that hath been done; and Mordecai rendeth his garments, and putteth on sackcloth and ashes, and goeth out into the midst of the city and crieth—a cry loud and bitter; ²and he cometh in unto the front of the gate of the king, but none is to enter in unto the gate of the king with sackcloth-garments.

³And in every several province, the place where the word of the king, even his law, cometh, a great mourning have the Jews, and fasting, and weeping, and lamenting; sackcloth and ashes are spread for many.

⁴And the young women of Esther come, with her eunuchs, and declare it to her, and the queen is exceedingly pained, and sendeth garments to clothe Mordecai, and to turn aside his sackcloth from off him, but he hath not received them. ⁵And Esther calleth for Hatach, one of the eunuchs of the king, whom he hath stationed before her, and giveth him a charge for Mordecai, to know what this is, and wherefore this is.

⁶And Hatach goeth out unto Mordecai, unto the broad place of the city, which is before the gate of the king; ⁷and Mordecai declareth to him all that hath met him, and the explanation of the money which Haman hath spoken of weighing to the treasures of the king for the Jews, to destroy them, ⁸and a copy of the writing of the law which had been given in Shushan to destroy them hath he given to him, to shew Esther, and to declare it to her, and to lay a charge on her to go in unto the king, to make supplication to him, and to seek from before him, for her people.

⁹And Hatach cometh in and declareth to Esther the words of Mordecai; ¹⁰and Esther speaketh to Hatach, and chargeth him for Mordecai; ¹¹'All the servants of the king, and the people of the provinces of the king, do know that any man or woman, who cometh in unto the king, unto the inner court, who is not called,—one law of his is to put them to death, apart from him to whom the king holdeth out the golden sceptre, then hath he lived; and I have not been called to come in unto the king these thirty days.'

¹²And they declare to Mordecai the words of Esther; ¹³and Mordecai speaketh to send back unto Esther, 'Think not in thy soul to be delivered in the house of the king, more than all the Jews; ¹⁴for if thou keep entirely silent at this time, respite and deliverance remain to the Jews from another place, but thou and the house of thy father are destroyed; and who knoweth, whether for a time like this, thou hast come to the kingdom?'

¹⁵And Esther speaketh to send back unto Mordecai: 'Go, gather all the Jews who are found in Shushan, and fast ye for me, and eat not nor drink three days, by night or by day; also, I and my young women do fast likewise, and so I go in unto the king, which is not according to the law, and when I have perished, I have perished.' ¹⁶And Mordecai passeth on, and doth according to all that Esther hath charged upon him.

V. ¹AND it cometh to pass on the third day, that Esther putteth on royalty, and standeth in the inner court of the house of the king over-against the house of the king, and the king is sitting on his royal throne, in the royal house, over-against the opening of the house; ²and it cometh to pass, at the king's seeing Esther the queen standing in the court, she hath received grace in his eyes, and the king holdeth out to Esther the golden sceptre that is in his hand, and Esther draweth near, and toucheth the top of the sceptre.

³And the king saith to her, 'What—to thee Esther, O queen? and what thy request? Unto the half of the kingdom—and it is given to thee.' ⁴And Esther saith, 'If unto the king it be good, let the king come in with Haman to-day, unto the banquet that I have made for him; ⁵and the king saith, 'Haste ye Haman—to do the word of Esther: 'and the king cometh with Haman unto the banquet which Esther hath made.'

⁶And the king saith to Esther, during the banquet of wine, 'What is thy petition? and it is given to thee; and what thy request? unto the half of the kingdom—and it is done.' ⁷And Esther answereth and saith, 'My petition and my request is: ⁸If I have found grace in the eyes of the king, and if unto the king it be good, to grant my petition, and to perform my request, let the king come with Haman unto the banquet that I make for them, and to-morrow I do according to the word of the king.'

⁹And Haman goeth out on that day rejoicing, and glad of heart; but at Haman's seeing Mordecai in the gate of the king, that he hath not risen nor moved for him, then is Haman full of fury against Mordecai.

¹⁰And Haman forceth himself, and cometh in unto his house, and sendeth, and bringeth in his friends, and Zereah his wife, ¹¹and Haman recounteth to them the glory of his wealth, and the abundance of his children, and all that with which the king hath made him great, and that with which he lifted him up above the hands and servants of the king.

¹²And Haman saith, 'Yea, Esther the queen brought none in with the king, unto the feast which she made, save myself, and also, for to-morrow I am called to her, with the king: ¹³yet all this is not profitable to me, during all the time that I see Mordecai the Jew sitting in the gate of the king.'

¹⁴And Zereah his wife saith to him, with all his friends, 'Let them prepare a tree, in height fifty cubits, and in the morning speak to the king that they hang Mordecai on it, then go thou in with the king unto the banquet rejoicing; and the thing is good before Haman, and he prepareth the tree.'

¹⁵ON that night hath the sleep of the king fled away, and he saith to bring in the book of memorials of the Chronicles, and they are read before the king. ²And it is found written that Mordecai had declared concerning Bigthana and Teresh, two of the eunuchs of the king, of the keepers of the threshold, who sought to put forth a hand on king Ahasuerus. ³And the king saith, 'What honour and greatness hath been done to Mordecai for this?' And the servants of the king, his ministers, say, 'Nothing hath been done with him.'

⁴And the king saith, 'Who is in the court?' (and Haman hath come to the outer court of the house of the king, to say to the king to hang Mordecai on the tree that he had prepared for him); and the servants of the king say unto him, 'Lo, Haman is standing in the court;' and the king saith, 'Let him come in.' ⁵And Haman cometh in, and the king saith to him, 'What—to do with the man in whose honour the king delighteth?'

And Haman saith in his heart, 'To whom doth the king delight to do honour more than to myself?' ⁷And Haman saith to the king, 'The man in whose honour the king delighteth, let them bring him royal clothing, which the king hath put on himself, and the horse on which the king hath ridden, and that the royal crown be put on his head, ⁹and to give the clothing and the horse into the hand of a man, one of the heads of the king, the chiefs, then have they clothed the man in whose honour the king delighteth, and caused him to ride on the horse in the broad place of the city, and called before him, 'Thus is it done to the man in whose honour the king delighteth.'

¹⁰And the king saith to Haman, 'Haste, take the clothing and the horse, as thou hast spoken, and do so to Mordecai the Jew, who is sitting in the gate of the king; let nothing fall of all that thou hast spoken.'

¹¹And Haman taketh the clothing, and the horse, and clotheh Mordecai, and causeth him to ride through the broad place of the city, and calleth before him, 'Thus is it done to the man in whose honour the king delighteth.'

¹²And Mordecai turneth back unto the gate of the king, and Haman hath hastened unto his house mourning, and with covered head; ¹³and Haman recounteth to Zereah his wife, and to all his friends, all that hath met him; and his wise men say to him, with Zereah his wife, 'If Mordecai be of the seed of the Jews, before whom thou hast begun to fall, thou art not able for him, but dost certainly fall before him.' ¹⁴They are yet speaking with him, and the eunuchs of the king have come, and haste to bring Haman in unto the banquet that Esther hath made.

VII. ¹AND the king cometh in with Haman to drink with Esther the queen: ²and the king saith to Esther also on the second day, during the banquet of wine, 'What is thy petition, Esther, O queen? and it is given to thee; and what thy request? unto the half of the kingdom—and it is done.'

³And Esther the queen answereth and saith, 'If I have found grace in thine eyes, O king, and if to the king it be good, let my life be given to me at my petition, and my people at my request: ⁴for we have been sold, I and my people, to cut off, to slay, and to destroy; yet, if for men-servants and for maid-servants we had been sold I had kept silent,—but the adversity is not equal to the loss of the king.'

⁸And the king hath turned back out of the garden of the house unto the house of the banquet of wine, and Haman is falling on the couch on which Esther is, and the king saith, 'Also, to subdue the queen with me in the house?' the word hath gone out from the mouth of the king, and the face of Haman they have covered. ⁹ And Harbonah, one of the eunuchs, saith before the king, 'Also, lo, the tree which Haman hath made for Mordecai, who spake good for the king, is standing in the house of Haman, in height fifty cubits;' and the king saith, 'Hang him on it.' ¹⁰ And they hang Haman on the tree which he had prepared for Mordecai, and the fury of the king hath lain down.

VIII. ¹ ON that day hath the king Ahasuerus given to Esther the queen the house of Haman, the adversary of the Jews; and Mordecai hath come before the king, for Esther hath declared what he is to her, ² and the king turneth aside his signet, which he hath caused to pass away from Haman, and giveth it to Mordecai; and Esther setteth Mordecai over the house of Haman.

⁷ And the king Ahasuerus saith to Esther the queen, and to Mordecai the Jew, 'Lo, the house of Haman have I given to Esther, and him do they hang on the tree, because he put forth his hand on the Jews, ⁸ and ye, write ye for the Jews, as it is good in your eyes, in the name of the king, and seal with the signet of the king: for the writing which is written in the name of the king, and sealed with the signet of the king, there is none to turn back.'

⁹ And the scribes of the king are called, at that time, in the third month, which is the month of Sivan, on the three and twentieth of it, and it is written, according to all that Mordecai hath commanded, unto the Jews, and unto the lieutenants, and the governors, and the heads of the provinces, which are from Eked even unto Cush, seven and twenty and a hundred provinces—every province according to its writing, and every people according to its tongue, and unto the Jews according to their writing, and according to their tongue.

¹² In one day, in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar,

IX. ¹ AND in the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, on the thirteenth day of it, when the word of the king, even his law, hath come to be done, in the day that the enemies of the Jews had hoped to rule over them, (but it is turned that the Jews rule over those who hate them,) ² the Jews have been congregated in their cities, in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, to put forth a hand on those who seek their evil, and no man hath stood in their presence, for their fear hath fallen on all the peoples.

⁵ And the Jews smite among all their enemies—the smiting of the sword, and slaughter, and destruction—and do with those who hate them according to their pleasure; ⁶ and in Shushan the palace have the Jews slain and destroyed five hundred men; ⁷ and Parshandatha, and Dalphon, and Aspatha, ⁸ and Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha, ⁹ and Parmashta, and Arisai, and Aridai, and Vajezatha, ¹⁰ ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the adversary of the Jews, have they slain, but on the prey they have not put forth their hand.

¹¹ On that day hath come the number of the slain in Shushan the palace before the king; ¹² and the king saith to Esther the queen, 'In Shushan the palace the Jews have slain and destroyed five hundred men, and the ten sons of Haman; in the rest of the provinces of the king what have they done? and what is thy petition? and it is given to thee; and what thy request again? and it is done.'

¹³ And Esther saith, 'If to the king it be good, let it be given also, to-morrow, to the Jews who are in Shushan, to do according to the law of to-day; and the ten sons of Haman let them hang on the tree.' ¹⁴ And the king saith—'to be done so;' and the law is given in Shushan, and the ten sons of Haman they have hanged.

¹⁵ And the Jews who are in Shushan are congregated also on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar, and they slay in Shushan three hundred men, but on the prey they have not put forth their hand. ¹⁶ And the rest of the Jews, who are in the provinces of the king, have been congregated, so as to stand up for their life, and to rest from their enemies, even slaying among those who hate them five and seventy thousand, but on the prey they have not put forth their hand; ¹⁷ on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, so as to rest on the fourteenth of it, and to make it a day of banqueting and joy.

¹⁸ And the Jews who are in Shushan have been congregated, on the thirteenth day of it, and on the fourteenth of it, so as to rest on the fifteenth of it, and to make it a day of banqueting and joy. ¹⁹ Therefore the Jews of the villages, who dwell in the cities of the villages, are making the fourteenth day of the month of Adar—joy and banqueting, and a good day, and of sending portions one to another.

²⁰ And Mordecai writeth these things, and sendeth letters unto all the Jews who are in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, who are near or who are far off, ²¹ to establish on them, to be keeping the fourteenth day of the month of Adar, and the fifteenth of it, on every several year, ²² as days on which the Jews have rested from their enemies, and the month which hath been turned for them from sorrow to joy, and from mourning to a good day, to make them days of banqueting and of joy, and of sending portions one to another, and gifts to the needy.

²³ And the Jews have received that which they had begun to do, and that which Mordecai hath written unto them: ²⁴ for Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the adversary of all the Jews, had devised concerning the Jews to destroy them, and had cast Pur (that is the lot), to crush them and to destroy them; ²⁵ but, in her coming in before the king, he hath said with the letter, 'Let his evil device which he devised against the Jews turn back upon his own head,' and they have hanged him and his sons on the tree, ²⁶ therefore they have called these days Purim (by the name of the lot), therefore, for all the words of this letter, and what they have seen concerning this, and what hath come unto them, ²⁷ the Jews have established and received upon them, and upon their seed, and upon all who are joined unto them, and it doth not pass away, to be keeping these two days according to their writing, and according to their season, in every several year; ²⁸ and these days are remembered and kept in every several generation, every family, every province, and every city; and these days of Purim do not pass away from the midst of the Jews, and their memorial is not ended from their seed.

X. ¹ AND the king Ahasuerus layeth a tribute upon the land and the isles of the sea; ² and all the work of his strength, and of his might, and the explanation of the greatness of Mordecai with which the king had made him great, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of Media and Persia? ³ For Mordecai the Jew is second to king Ahasuerus, and the great man of the Jews, and accepted of the multitude of his brethren, seeking good for his people, and speaking peace to all his seed.

CHAP. I. ¹ THERE hath been a man in the land of Uz, whose name is Job; and that man hath been perfect and upright—fearing also God, and turning aside from evil. ² And to him are born seven sons and three daughters. ³ And his substance is seven thousand of a flock, and three thousand camels, and five hundred pairs of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and a very abundant service; and that man is greater than any of the sons of the east.

⁴ And his sons have gone and made a banquet—the house of each in his day—and have sent and called for their three sisters to eat and to drink with them. ⁵ And it cometh to pass, when they have gone round the days of the banquet, that Job sendeth and sanctifieth them, and hath risen early in the morning, and caused burnt-offerings to ascend—the number of them all—for Job hath said, 'Perhaps my sons have sinned, though they have blessed God in their heart.' Thus doth Job continually.

⁶ And the day is, that the sons of God come to station themselves near the LORD, and the Adversary also cometh in their midst. ⁷ And the LORD saith unto the Adversary, 'Whence comest thou?' And the Adversary answereth the LORD and saith, 'From going to and fro in the land, and from walking up and down in it.'

⁸ And the LORD saith unto the Adversary, 'Hast thou set thy heart against My servant Job because there is none like him in the land, a man perfect and upright, fearing God, and turning aside from evil?' ⁹ And the Adversary answereth the LORD and saith, 'For nought is Job fearing God?' ¹⁰ Hast Thou not made a hedge for him, and for his house, and for all that he hath, round about? ¹¹ The work of his hands Thou hast blessed, and his substance hath spread in the land, and yet, put forth Thy hand, I pray Thee, and strike against anything that he hath—if not: to Thy face he will bless Thee.'

¹⁶ While this one is speaking another also hath come and saith, 'The fire of God hath fallen from the heavens, and burneth among the flock, and among the young men, and consumeth them, and I am escaped—only I alone—to declare it to thee.'

¹⁷ While this one is speaking another also hath come and saith, 'The Chaldeans have made three heads, and rush on the camels, and take them, and the young men they have smitten by the edge of the sword, and I am escaped—only I alone—to declare it to thee.'

²⁰ And Job riseth, and rendeth his robe, and shaveth his head, and falleth to the earth, and doth obeisance, ²¹ and saith, 'Naked came I out from my mother's womb, and naked I return thither: the LORD hath given and the LORD hath taken; let the name of the LORD be blessed.' ²² In all this Job sinned not; nor gave folly to God.

II. ¹ AND the day is, that the sons of God come to station themselves near the LORD, and the Adversary also cometh in their midst to station himself near the LORD. ² And the LORD saith unto the Adversary, 'Whence comest thou?' And the Adversary answereth the LORD and saith, 'From going to and fro in the land, and from walking up and down in it.'

³ And the LORD saith unto the Adversary, 'Hast thou set thy heart towards My servant Job because there is none like him in the land, a man perfect and upright, fearing God, and turning aside from evil? and still he is keeping hold on his integrity, and thou dost move Me against him to swallow him up for nought.' ⁴ And the Adversary answereth the LORD and saith, 'A skin for a skin, and all that a man hath doth he give for his life. ⁵ Yet, put forth, I pray Thee, Thine hand, and strike unto his bone and unto his flesh—if not: unto Thy face he will bless Thee.'

¹¹ And three of the friends of Job hear of all this evil which hath come upon him, and they come each from his place, (Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite,) yea, they are met together to come in to bemoan him, and to comfort him. ¹² And they lift up their eyes from afar and have not known him, and they lift up their voice and weep, and rend each his robe, and sprinkle dust on their heads heavenward. ¹³ And they sit with him on the earth seven days and seven nights; and none speaketh a word unto him when they have seen that the pain hath been very great.

III. ¹ AFTER this hath Job opened his mouth, and revileth his day:

² And Job answereth and saith:

⁴ THAT DAY—let it be darkness, Let not God require it from above, Nor let light shine upon it.

⁵ Let darkness and death-shade redeem it, Let a cloud tabernacle upon it, Terrify it as the most bitter of days.
